

Swept Areas in South and Southwest Nebraska — Chances Taken in Every-thing — Sense of Humor — Soap in Russia — Dead News — WPA in Washington County — The Big Objective.

Hail over south and southwest Nebraska last week would have been more devastating if there had been more crops sufficiently advanced to devastate. According to reports, hail stones varied in size from hen eggs to baseballs, the imagination perhaps entering in places to strengthen the story. Window panes were broken and vegetation suffered, but the damage was not what it would have been if the storm had come along later.

Hail is just one of a number of evils related to rain storms. Violent wind and destructive floods are often possible accompaniments. If we don't have sufficient moisture, we can't raise crops. If we have ample rain, we run chances of being blasted by attending calamities. Plenty of risks were planted in the plan no doubt to keep people animated and anxious through the growing season. The most anyone can do is to prepare for the best and hope for its realization. That holds good not only in farming, but in everything one undertakes.

Keeping Spirits Up. Sense of humor is real help in carrying one through tough conditions. The fellow who keeps himself shrouded in gloom, only adds to his misery. Seeing light streaks that dart through clouds relieves burdens and makes them easier to bear. If one is able to find no laughable situation in anything, he has been cheated by some one of an important value. With troubles at home aggravated by a diabolical state of society abroad, sense of humor becomes more than ever a valuable palliative.

A report complains of a soap shortage in Russia. Russian pictures and stores always led us to suspect that the soap supply in Russia was never adequate or was always carefully stepped.

When News Is News. A thing is news today, but old and valueless tomorrow. A mistaken notion prevails that a news story can be suppressed for a time without impairing its worth. Newspapers are designed principally to publish news fully and impartially while it is news, and not after it has become the common knowledge of the neighborhood. Another habit which grows with permission of publishers, is to forget to differentiate between advertising and news. Often stories to attract attention to money-making endeavors belong in paid advertising columns.

W. F. Cramb of the Fairbury Journal, says he has been suffering from crippled arms by shoveling propoganda into the wastebasket. He should have turned the job into a WPA project.

WPA Force Shrinking. Washington county reports only 120 left on its WPA payroll as contrasted with a peak of 965 a few years ago. This is believed an exceptional showing and one that will encourage the government to junk emergency-created bureaus during the time of needed concentration on the major defense emergency.

We are amazed at the amount of good advice we have to offer without anyone being impressed or influenced by it.

Where from Here. A fellow-traveler, viewing a disordered and fighting world, wonders what is behind creation, what is its purpose and what is to be the end. While the world is distraught by mad dictators who are engaged in a murderous frenzy in an attempt to enslave peoples of the earth, it is equally apparent that the universe is orderly and that the processes of nature are beneficent. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, modern clergyman and philosopher, quotes from Sir Oliver Lodge in refuting theories opposing immortality: "I will not believe that it is given to man to have thoughts nobler or loftier than the real truth of things." Says Dr. Fosdick: "If God exists at all, he must care for his creation, and if he cares at all, he must care for the crown of creation, personality."

Why the world should get into its present unhappy plight is bewildering and disturbing, due not to faults of creation, but to cultivation of false values. But the ugly behavior of benighted tyrants is no ground to minimize or disregard the most precious of all considerations—immortality. Dr. Fosdick says in concluding a discussion of the subject: "No man, therefore, need stop with the vague possibility of life to come. Immortality is a hypothesis, if you will, but so is gravitation, and around them both considerations weighty and assuring gather an support. The reasonableness of the universe is pledged to the immortality of man; the beneficence of God is unthinkable." (Continued on Page Five)

HAPPY SCHOOL TO STUDENTS TURNING YEAR TO DUE GAIN

HAPPY school days—if they are happy—are drawing to a close for the year. They are happy or unhappy according to a student's feeling. If he has done well in his studies, gotten along agreeably with his teachers, moved serenely in the social and recreational activities of the institution he quits with some regret. One may have a good time while being educated and trained. It is also conceivable to be out of accord with rules and regulations, entertain a dislike for all teachers and for every appearance of authority, and trail at the foot of the class. For that fellow school is an unhappy experience and is concluded with relief. But failure to take full advantage of early schooling exacts large interest in later life. The rule is to secure the most benefits from the year's study, enjoy a change of effort through vacation and return to school in the autumn with renewed enthusiasm.

ROOSTERS' EXODUS FROM WANTED FARM PRECINCTS IS FIXED

ROOSTER day approaches. That means that the days of the feathered male of loud voice and haughty mien are numbered and few. A brief spangle lies between the barnyard strut and the frying pan. Roosters are no longer needed or wanted. They came into the world without their consent, and they will go out the same way. They were guarded carefully in the beginning, as their descendants are now being guarded. They served their purpose, and now, as springtime freshness and hope appear, they have become intolerable nuisances, and accordingly their necks will be disconnected and their flesh will be converted into potpies and other edible creations. Next Tuesday, May 27, is the day of judgment. Roosters galore will then be rounded up and brought to market. The fact that these birds do not know what is going to happen to them is merciful.

Jens Andersen Passes Away At Home of Daughter Early Thursday.

Funeral rites were conducted at St. Paul Lutheran church in Wayne Saturday afternoon at 2 with Rev. G. Gjeschen and the Beckenhauer service in charge. Miss Beryl Nelson and Miss Lois Thompson sang "Face to Face" and "Safe in the Arms of Jesus." Miss Charlotte Ziegler was accompanist. Burial was in Wayne cemetery.

Highway Count Will Be Taken

Mechanical Devices Will Take Traffic Record As Building Guide.

Nebraska department of roads and irrigation is conducting a highway survey to be used as a future guide in the road program of the state. The department will not only make a traffic survey of rural portions of state highways and heavily traveled county roads, but will revise road maps and collect data regarding income and expenditures for roads.

According to word coming to Wayne county commissioners, a traffic count will be started at once in this as well as in other counties. Four single-man crews, equipped with mechanical counters, will check travel on highways and county roads in this vicinity.

A counter is a small metal box chained to a post, pole or tree and connected with a small rubber pneumatic tube stretched tightly across the surface of the roadway being checked. Vehicles passing over the tube cause impulses which are recorded by the mechanism in the box. A small metal sign will be placed at each side of the roadway during the checking.

The cooperation of all operators of sharp instruments is asked in protecting the tubes. Blades, steel drags, discs, tractors with road lugs, pulverizers, cultivators, etc., may cut or damage the hose. To protect the tubes and also to aid in the most accurate travel record, the state asks that operators of such vehicles remove the hose from the roadway, drive equipment through and then replace the hose. This is done by slipping the clamp over the top of spike or screw at the end of the hose farthest from the counter box, swinging the hose out of the way and after the equipment passes replacing the clamp on the spike or screw. Frank Erxleben, chairman of the local board, urges cooperation with this plan so that the best possible travel records may be obtained.

Publicity Needed

WE LEARN that the rift in relationship between the administration and members of the college student body was discussed at the meeting of the state board of education at Lincoln Monday, and that publicity which was accused of aggravating the trouble, was deeply deplored. We are also assured that if people understood all the facts, no ground for student friction would be found to exist. How are people to understand if facts are concealed? The two positions are in such conflict that the deduction does not make sense. Manifestly, rumors would not be so frequent and wild if they were countered by the unvarnished truth.

The teachers college is vital to Wayne and of inestimable benefit to northeast Nebraska. Confidence between the administration and students is important. The latter, capable of being in college, should not act like children nor be treated like children. Few persons have as luxurious home quarters as the state furnishes young people who come here to college. Students should and mostly do appreciate and protect these quarters, and no constant surveillance should be necessary to insure freedom from damage.

Hours and other rules should be made uniform in all teachers colleges of the state, so that none would suffer advantage or disadvantage. Students should have certain clearly defined rights and should not violate them.

Strikes to Blame

THE ADMINISTRATION in Washington seeks to intensify popular interest in defense plans. Secretaries Hull, Wickard and Ickes have been on the air to emphasize the gravity of the emergency and voice demands for greater assistance to democracies. Just what more can the general run of people do? Strikes in defense industries—not the masses—are evidently hindering needed production. The rank and file are behind the movement for adequate means of protection, and they are deeply and justly incensed by obstructions precipitated in union labor ranks. Let the administration direct attention to those who are holding up production—not so much to those who are wholeheartedly supporting defense requirements. Let Washington authorities peremptorily call off all strikes, and discuss details after the emergency is over.

Need of the Hour

THE OMAHA World-Herald is nettled by the meaningless quips with which the president answers serious questions put to him by the reporters who attend conferences in order to inform their readers about important questions. As that newspaper points out, people are not interested in evasive presidential wisecracks at a time of national crisis. It says: "This is no time for frolicsome badinage between the commander-in-chief and his command. In this hour there should be plain speaking—in honest, understandable words. The people should know, rather than guess, what the policies of the government are." That newspaper repeats expression of its belief that "the time has come when the present series of press conferences should be discontinued."

An ancient Egyptian idea was that nothing was bad unless or until it was found out. The Egyptians were evidently against publicity. People are more easily led if they don't know much about what is going on. Sir William Berkeley, hard-boiled colonial governor of Virginia, had a bright thought: to insure ignorance and successful suppression. He wanted no free schools in America. He would have given up in despair if he had known the future of free learning and a free press. The old notion, now trying to edge back, is to keep the right hand from knowing what the left hand is doing. Ignorance is the stuff on which dictatorship thrives.

The president has backed up on his re-arrangement of the Thanksgiving date. He put it up a week in 1939 to increase pre-Christmas sales. A survey disclosed no difference and accordingly a failure of the plan. The return to traditional custom will not take place until next year to avoid frustrating calendar makers and others who plan far ahead. Some states have followed the president's Thanksgiving date, while others have refused to do so. The conflict caused much inconvenience. Nebraska's present legislature removed all question by fixing the original date. We may get back to other sound fundamentals as we learn.

According to Gallup's poll, a large majority of the American people favor sending supplies to the fighting democracies, but are against entering the war. The problem of doing both indefinitely will be a tough one to solve.

Wednesday's weather was generally acclaimed as perfect. It followed a clear-up from soaking rainfall. The sun shone from a cloudless sky. It was neither too cold nor too hot. The elements caused no discomfort, nor did they excite expressions of fear. The most chronic weather critic could find no ground on which to fasten complaint. Everybody felt exhilarated. Perfect weather contrasted sharply with the war tragedy abroad and the anxiety felt for the world's free social order.

May 18 was "I Am An American Day," and whether one is here by chance or by adoption, he may well be thankful he is an American—glad his lot was not cast among peoples oppressed by dictatorial tyrants. Observance of the occasion was designed to arouse a spirit of gratitude and of enlivened devotion.

The legislature will draw to close this week, and a review of results will doubtless reveal things that have been left undone and things that should have been done. It is quite impossible for law-makers to please everybody, as it is unlikely for them to displease everybody.

Entomologists report that grasshoppers are now hatching and getting ready for a conquest of growing crops. Farmers are warned to be on the look-out for the pest. Rains and luxuriant vegetation will help.

The president has taken a step in the right direction by lopping $109,000,000 off relief estimates. During huge defense spending it would seem relief costs could entirely disappear.

Telling what isn't true and asking not to be quoted belong to the zigzagging of the mental processes during feverish and critical times.

We believe farm land is not only the safest investment, but that the farm is the best place in the world to live.

National Finances. Whew!

(Omaha Journal-Stockman)

And, speaking of the growing confusion in the popular minds owing to the fact that we had no more than learned to consider national finances in terms of millions than we were called upon to compute our receipts and expenditures in terms of billions, the conclusion is irresistible that very few of us will ever have the remotest idea of what it is all about.

For instance, we once "viewed with alarm" a public debt of 25 million dollars. That debt is larger now, being more than $50,000,000,000. Conservative persons expect it to go to $75,000,000,000 or perhaps to $100,000,000,000 before there is an opportunity for the world to return to sanity and order. Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones, a Texas banker and publisher, has said the nation could stand a debt as large as a year's national income. Early in his first administration Mr. Roosevelt said bankers had told him credit would not be strained if the debt went to $75,000,000,000 or so.

How large can the federal public debt be with safety? It is a question on which fiscal experts, themselves, do not agree. Perhaps no one really knows how much money Uncle Sam may owe and remain solvent. Everybody probably would agree, however, that there is an upper limit beyond which debt could not be carried in safety.

If the debt goes to $75,000,000,000 or $100,000,000,000 before we are through the national emergency now existing, carrying it probably would be inadvisable. It would be too powerful a brake on individual effort, the thing that made the United States the leading nation of the world. Something would have to be done to lighten or get rid of such a mountain of public debt.

In short, we have so many other things to worry about that we haven't time to figure up our debts and resources. Some day we may have to look at the books and try to make them balance. That will be time enough for the headache.

Petition to National Leaders.

(Lincoln Journal)

One hundred eighty-six members of the faculty of the University of Nebraska have mailed to national administration leaders petitions urging that every means at the disposal of the nation not necessarily short of war be used to insure that American cargoes reach Britain, and that the military and industrial defense program take precedence over all other activities. There are some notable names not to be found among the signers. Questionnaires sent to faculty members by the Daily Nebraskan, seeking to bring out the minority opinion, found 57 per cent of more than 200 instructors returning them to be sympathetic with the stand taken in the petition. Thirty per cent desired to keep U. S. aid to Britain "short of war," and 13 per cent wished the United States to retreat from her present position. Backing of the petition was strongest in the social sciences, natural sciences, physical education and English departments, and weakest in the college of agriculture, dental college, and college of business administration.

Signing of the petitions, on a subject which is so patently controversial, suggests an interesting question concerning the participation of faculty members in non-university affairs. Although there is understood to be no official rule on the subject, participation of faculty members in political activities is known to be frowned upon by Chancellor Boucher. It is believed that this policy would extend to non-political offices, such as the city council and legislature, as well as to partisan ones, on the ground that the former are as laden with possibilities for controversy as the latter. Public controversy, then, and not just partisanship, would seem to be what the university administration has desired to avoid. Circulation of petitions urging war if necessary is certainly engaging in public controversy, and there is no indication that the petition had the approval of any university officials other than the actual signers. Dr. Boucher did not sign.

POOR PAINT JOB.

Speaking of painting finger-nails, a lady observer says she cannot understand why anyone persists in doing it. She explains that if girls or women do it to please men, they are on the wrong track, because men do not like it. Girls may be deluded into thinking a fingernail paint job excites masculine admiration. On the contrary, the average man feels, as we believe, that daubing the finger-nails spoils natural beauty and rather militates against usual feminine charms. Fingernail paint is successful in attracting attention, but usually unfavorably rather than favorably. We expect few fingernail artists to agree with our criticism, and have no expectation that anyone will yield to it.

able without it; the verdict of the spiritual seers confirms it; and when it is put to the verifying test of life it builds the loftiest character.

"Death is a great adventure, but none need go unconvicted that there is an issue to it. The man of faith may face it as Columbus faced his first voyage from the shores of Spain. What lies across the sea he cannot tell; his special expectations all may be mistaken; but his insight into the clear meanings of present facts may persuade him beyond doubt that the sea has another shore. Such confident faith, so founded upon reasonable grounds, shall be turned to sight, when, for all the dismay of the unknown, the hope of the seer is rewarded by the vision of a new continent."

YOUTH.

College students often engage in radical thinking and are convinced that the need of the hour is to change the regular order and remake it according to latest blueprints: Socialism lures many young persons to its fanciful ideas. They are led to believe whatever exists is old-fashioned and ought to be flung into the scrap heap. But we have found that these young thinkers almost invariably abandon socialistic trends as soon as they gain practical experience and learn that the ruthless force required to put socialism into practice completely upsets a fascinating theory. They find it is not what class-room speculations convinced them it would be. Application of their promise. Russia's socialists grew so raw and unbridled in practice, crucifying proletarians and capitalists alike, that it became known as communism—a call another misnomer. Suppression and tyranny and often murder were used to equalize all at the bottom. Bestial practices assailed the primal purpose. Subjects were killed if they couldn't be made submissive in any other way. Young students turn to the right when they find classroom theories will not work.

CONGRESS AS SEEN BY KARL STEFAN

Washington, D. C. May 13, 1941.

When Mrs. Fred Berry of Wayne was visiting historic places in Virginia recently, she spent considerable time in the old capitol in Richmond. While in that historic building, she looked for a guide and found a man who was usually anxious to show her many of the features including the spot where Patrick Henry spoke the famous words: "Give me liberty or give me death." When she was leaving the building, she asked her guide about the fees. To her surprise and some embarrassment, she discovered that her guide was the governor of Virginia.

Paul Steinbaugh who was born at Bancroft, Neb., and raised at Hartington, is one of the number one employees in the law division of the library of congress. Another employee in that great library is Fred Berry, jr., of Wayne. Activities in connection with national defense have greatly increased the volume of work that these employees must handle. The library of congress has more volumes than any other library in the world and contains information of vital importance to all our national defense agencies. For that reason, the employees are working overtime, voluntarily.

Eddie Gilmore used to write feature stories for the Associated Press here in Washington. One of his close friends was Art Hudson of Nebraska. When the A. P. asked for volunteers to go to London to cover war news, Gilmore was one of the first to volunteer. Hudson followed him over with the Red Cross. The other day they both met after a German raid. Both were doing voluntary fire-fighters work extinguishing fires.

The rare books in the congressional library will not be damaged by bombs should the capital ever be attacked. Plans to safeguard these rare books have already been made.

Congressman Joshua Johns of Wisconsin, author of the bill which sets aside the third Sunday in May of each year as "Citizens Day," or "I am an American Day," learned from this office that the Third district is planning quite an observance of this day on May 18. He joins the staff of the Third district office in sending greetings and congratulations to those young men and women who have come of voting age and especially to those who have become naturalized American citizens. About two million American-born citizens become of age each year and about 180,000 become naturalized each year. With the arrival of thousands of refugees, the naturalization figures are going to mount annually. A majority of the approximately 6,000,000 aliens in the United States want to become American citizens. Uncle Sam with the aid of patriotic organizations such as the "I am an American" organization is going to help them.

Pickets in front of the White House get more attention in newspapers than they do by the public here. For a week a dozen pickets paraded with signs asking for permanent jobs for cripples. Following them came about six or seven young men and women with signs asking for peace. These were broken up by a bunch of enlisted men. One over-enthusiastic soldier went to jail for attacking one of the pickets. But the pickets were back again the next morning and nobody seemed to pay any further attention to them; Washington is used to pickets of all kinds.

A new corporation has been formed by nine large industrial concerns to promote trade with Argentina by the importation of more of its products into this country. Peru is also one of the countries which will furnish allotments of sugar under the new plan advocated by the department of agriculture. Other South American countries will share in the increased allotments. The best sugar growers of the middle west sought to obtain the increased allotment of the sugar supply occasioned by the loss of the shipments from the Philippines and the East Indies, but instead they will be recompensed by the subsidies payable from the special sugar tax of one-half cent per pound, which now raises $60,000,000 per year. Much of our nation's supply of sugar will continue to come from Cuba.

Publicity Needed

WE LEARN that the rift in relationship between the administration and members of the college student body was discussed at the meeting of the state board of education at Lincoln Monday, and that publicity which was accused of aggravating the trouble, was deeply deplored. We are also assured that if people understood all the facts, no ground for student friction would be found to exist. How are people to understand if facts are concealed? The two positions are in such conflict that the deduction does not make sense. Manifestly, rumors would not be so frequent and wild if they were countered by the unvarnished truth.

The teachers college is vital to Wayne and of inestimable benefit to northeast Nebraska. Confidence between the administration and students is important. The latter, capable of being in college, should not act like children nor be treated like children. Few persons have as luxurious home quarters as the state furnishes young people who come here to college. Students should and mostly do appreciate and protect these quarters, and no constant surveillance should be necessary to insure freedom from damage.

Hours and other rules should be made uniform in all teachers colleges of the state, so that none would suffer advantage or disadvantage. Students should have certain clearly defined rights and should not violate them.

Strikes to-Blame

THE ADMINISTRATION in Washington seeks to intensify, popular interest in defense plans. Secretaries Hull, Wickard and Ickes have been on the air to emphasize the gravity of the emergency and voice demands for greater assistance to democracies. Just what more can the general run of people do? Strikes in defense industries—not the masses—are evidently hindering needed production. The rank and file are behind the movement for adequate means of protection, and they are deeply and justly incensed by obstructions precipitated in union labor ranks. Let the administration direct attention to those who are holding up production—not so much to those who are wholeheartedly supporting defense requirements. Let Washington authorities peremptorily call off all strikes, and discuss details after the emergency is over.

Need of the Hour

THE OMAHA World-Herald is nettled by the meaningless quips with which the president answers serious questions put to him by the reporters who attend conferences in order to inform their readers about important questions. As that newspaper points out, people are not interested in evasive presidential wisecracks at a time of national crisis. It says: "This is no time for frolicsome badinage between the commander-in-chief and his command. In this hour there should be plain speaking—in honest, understandable words. The people should know, rather than guess, what the policies of the government are." That newspaper repeats expression of its belief that "the time has come when the present series of press conferences should be discontinued."

An ancient Egyptian idea was that nothing was bad unless or until it was found out. The Egyptians were evidently against publicity. People are more easily led if they don't know much about what is going on. Sir William Berkeley, hard-boiled colonial governor of Virginia, had a bright thought to insure ignorance and successful suppression. He wanted no free schools in America. He would have given up in despair if he had known the future of free learning and a free press. The old notion, now trying to edge back, is to keep the right hand from knowing what the left hand is doing. Ignorance is the stuff on which dictatorship thrives.

The president has backed up on his rearrangement of the Thanksgiving date. He put it up a week in 1939 to increase pre-Christmas sales. A survey disclosed no difference and accordingly a failure of the plan. The return to traditional custom will not take place until next year to avoid frustrating calendar makers and others who plan far ahead. Some states have followed the president's Thanksgiving date, while others have refused to do so. The conflict caused much inconvenience. Nebraska's present legislature removed all question by fixing the original date. We may get back to other sound fundamentals as we learn.

According to Gallup's poll, a large majority of the American people favor sending supplies to the fighting democracies, but are against entering the war. The problem of doing both indefinitely will be a tough one to solve.

Wednesday's weather was generally acclaimed as perfect. It followed a clear-up from soaking rainfall. The sun shone from a cloudless sky. It was neither too cold nor too hot. The elements caused no discomfort, nor did they excite expressions of fear. The most chronic weather critic could find no ground on which to fasten complaint. Everybody felt exhilarated. Perfect weather contrasted sharply with the war tragedy abroad and the anxiety felt for the world's free social order.

May 18 was "I Am An American Day," and whether one is here by chance or by adoption, he may well be thankful he is an American—glad his lot was not cast among peoples oppressed by dictatorial tyrants. Observance of the occasion was designed to arouse a spirit of gratitude and of enlivened devotion.

The legislature will draw to close this week, and a review of results will doubtless reveal things that have been left undone and things that should have been done. It is quite impossible for law-makers to please everybody, as it is unlikely for them to displease everybody.

Entomologists report that grasshoppers are now hatching and getting ready for a conquest of growing crops. Farmers are warned to be on the look-out for the pest. Rains and luxuriant vegetation will help.

The president has taken a step in the right direction by lopping $109,000,000 off relief estimates. During huge defense spending it would seem relief costs could entirely disappear.

Telling what isn't true and asking not to be quoted belong to the zigzagging of the mental processes during feverish and critical times.

We believe farm land is not only the safest investment, but that the farm is the best place in the world to live.

National Finances. Whew!

And, speaking of the growing confusion in the popular minds owing to the fact that we had no more than learned to consider national finances in terms of millions than we were called upon to compute our receipts and expenditures in terms of billions, the conclusion is irresistible that very few of us will ever have the remotest idea of what it is all about.

For instance, we once "viewed with alarm" a public debt of 25 million dollars. That debt is larger now, being more than $50,000,000,000. Conservative persons expect it to go to $75,000,000,000 or perhaps to $100,000,000,000 before there is an opportunity for the world to return to sanity and order. Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones, a Texas banker and publisher, has said the nation could stand a debt as large as a year's national income. Early in his first administration Mr. Roosevelt said bankers had to him credit would not be strained if the debt went to $75,000,000,000 or so.

How large can the federal public debt be with safety? It is a question on which fiscal experts, themselves, do not agree. Perhaps no one really knows how much money Uncle Sam may owe and remain solvent. Everybody probably would agree, however, that there is an upper limit beyond which debt could not be carried in safety.

If the debt goes to $75,000,000,000 or $100,000,000,000 before we are through the national emergency now existing, carrying it probably would be inadvisable. It would be too powerful a brake on individual effort, the thing that made the United States the leading nation of the world. Something would have to be done to lighten or get rid of such a mountain of public debt.

In short, we have so many other things to worry about that we haven't time to figure up our debts and resources. Some day we may have to look at the books and try to make them balance. That will be time enough for the headache.

Petition to National Leaders.

One hundred eighty-six members of the faculty of the University of Nebraska have mailed to national administration leaders petitions urging that every means at the disposal of the nation not necessarily short of war be used to insure that American cargoes reach Britain, and that the military and industrial defense program take precedence over all other activities. There are some notable names not to be found among the signers. Questionnaires sent to faculty members by the Daily Nebraskan, seeking to bring out the minority opinion, found 57 per cent of more than 200 instructors returning them to be sympathetic with the stand taken in the petition. Thirty per cent desired to keep U. S. aid to Britain "short of war," and 13 per cent wished the United States to retreat from her present position. Backing of the petition was strongest in the social sciences, natural sciences, physical education and English departments, and weakest in the college of agriculture, dental college, and college of business administration.

Signing of the petitions, on a subject which is so patently controversial, suggests an interesting question concerning the participation of faculty members in non-university affairs. Although there is understood to be no official rule on the subject, participation of faculty members in political activities is known to be frowned upon by Chancellor Boucher. It is believed that this policy would extend to non-political offices, such as the city council and legislature, as well as to partisan ones, on the ground that the former are laden with possibilities for controversy as the latter. Public controversy, then, and not just partisanship, would seem to be what the university administration has desired to avoid. Circulation of petitions urging war if necessary is certainly engaging in public controversy, and there is no indication that the petition had the approval of any university officials other than the actual signers. Dr. Boucher did not sign.

POOR PAINT JOB. Speaking of painting fingernails, a lady observer says she cannot understand why anyone persists in doing it. She explains that if girls or women do it to please men, they are on the wrong track, because men do not like it. Girls may be deluded into thinking a fingernail paint job excites masculine admiration. On the contrary, the average man feels, as we believe, that daubing the fingernails spoils natural beauty and rather militates against feminine charm. Fingernail paint is successful in attracting attention, but usually unfavorable rather than favorable attention. We expect few fingernail artists to agree with our criticism, and have no expectation that anyone will yield to it.

 "Death is a great adventure, but none need go unconvicted that there is an issue to it. The man of faith may face it as Columbus, faced his first voyage from the shores of Spain. What lies across the sea he cannot tell; his special expectations all may be mistaken, but his insight into the clear meanings of present facts may persuade him beyond doubt that the sea has another shore. Such confident faith, so founded upon reasonable grounds, shall be tested to sight, when, for all the dismay of the unbelieving, the hope of the seers is rewarded by the vision of a new continent."

YOUTH. College students often engage in radical thinking and are convinced that the need of the hour is to change the regular order and remake it according to latest blueprints. Socialism lures many young persons to its fanciful ideas. They are led to believe whatever exists is old-fashioned and ought to be flung into the scrap heap. But we have found that these young thinkers almost invariably abandon a socialist trends as soon as they gain practical experience and learn that the ruthless force required to put socialism into practice completely upsets a fascinating theory. They find it is not what class-room speculations convinced them it would be. Application defeats its promise. Russia's socialism grew so raw and merciless in practice, cruciating proletarians and capitalists alike, that it became known as "red communism"—a title another misnomer. Suppression and tyranny and often murder were used to equalize all at the bottom. Bestial practices assaulted the primal purpose. Subjects were killed if they couldn't be made submissive in any other way. Young students turn to the right when they find class-room theories will not work.

CONGRESS AS SEEN BY KARL STEFAN

Washington, D. C. May 13, 1941. When Mrs. Fred Berry of Wayne was visiting historic places in Virginia recently, she spent considerable time in the old capitol in Richmond. While in that historic building, she looked for a guide and found a man who was unusually anxious to show her many of the features including the spot where Patrick Henry spoke the famous words: "Give me liberty or give me death." When she was leaving the building, she asked her guide about the fees. To her surprise and some embarrassment, she discovered that her guide was the governor of Virginia.

Paul Steinbaugh who was born at Bancroft, Neb., and raised at Hartington, is one of the number one employees in the law division of the library of congress. Another employee in that great library is Fred Berry, jr., of Wayne. Activities in connection with national defense have greatly increased the volume of work that these employees must handle. The library of congress has more volumes than any other library in the world and contains information of vital importance to all our national defense agencies. For that reason, the employees are working overtime, voluntarily.

In answer to several questions about the status of Sweden, the answer to that comes from William Filip, Boston, the Swedish minister here in Washington. He states that Sweden is strictly neutral and is doing business as usual with everybody in the world who wants to do business with Sweden. He says anyone suspected of fifth-column activities is put in jail. Belonging to the Swedish army, flying over Sweden are chased away and the six million people of Sweden are trying to get along with everybody and want to be let alone. The Swedish army has been increased to war strength. All gasoline is reserved for military use and gasoline substitutes run commercial cars. The minister tells friends he hopes Sweden can continue being let alone.

The rare books in the congressional library will not be damaged by bombs should the capital ever be attacked. Plans to safeguard these rare books have already been made. Congressman Joshua Johns of Wisconsin, author of the bill which sets aside the third Sunday in May of each year as "Citizenship Day" or "I am an American Day," learned from this office that the Third district is planning quite an observance of this day on May 18. He joins the staff of the Third district office in sending greetings and congratulations to those young men and women who have courage of voting age and especially to those who have become naturalized American citizens. About two million American-born citizens become of age each year and about 180,000 become naturalized each year. With the arrival of thousands of refugees, the naturalization figures are going to mount annually. A majority of the approximately 6,000,000 aliens in the United States want to become American citizens. Uncle Sam with the aid of patriotic organizations such as the "I am an American" organization is going to help them.

Pickets in front of the White House get more attention in newspapers than they do by the public here. For a week a dozen cripples paraded with signs asking for permanent jobs for cripples. Following them came about six or seven young men and women with signs asking for peace. These were broken up by a bunch of enlisted men. One over-enthusiastic soldier went to jail for attacking one of the pickets. But the pickets were back again the next morning and nobody seemed to pay any further attention to them. Washington is used to pickets of all kinds.

In answer to questions: The so-called western hemisphere is four times greater in land area than the whole of Europe. Uncle Sam has

For 15 years the American farmer has been hearing much about surplus and overproduction. He has been told to reduce acreage in order to do away with surpluses and overproduction, the supposed twin obstacles to farm prosperity. Overnight the picture has changed. Now we are told we face the danger of a food shortage. In order to become "the pantry of democracy" as well as the "arsenal of democracy" we must produce more meats, fats, eggs, poultry, dairy products, vegetables and fruits. The same government that advised farmers to reduce production last year, now urges the farmers to increase production.

Among the hundreds of communications coming to the desks of representatives this week is a telegram from New York City signed by many prominent American citizens including Mrs. Calvin Coolidge. In part, it asks that the United States "break off diplomatic relations" "with our implacable foes." It demands that our navy go to war on the high seas at once. Coming from such prominent people telegrams like these send chills through many members who hope that yet we can remain at peace.

State department officials have been rather disturbed by occurrences in Argentina which are interfering to a minor degree with the "good neighbor" policy which that department has been advocating and promoting. The showing of an American movie film in a Buenos Aires theatre precipitated a riot in which many in the audience were injured. Argentina has been a reluctant participant in the Pan-American program. Recently it was loaned an additional $61,000,000 to help relieve the agricultural situation there, and it has been one of the countries which has had loans of many more millions in times past. Upon the latest loan, it shipped great quantities of food supplies to Spain. Then, too, Chile rather upset the diplomacy crowd by sending birthday congratulations to Hitler, and the little "republic" of Panama has been acting up a bit in the same direction. A new corporation has been formed by nine large industrial concerns to promote trade with Argentina by the importation of more of its products into this country. Peru is also one of the countries which will furnish allotments of sugar under the new plan advocated by the department of agriculture. Other South American countries will share in the increased allotments. The beet sugar growers of the middle west sought to obtain the increased allotment of the sugar supply occasioned by the loss of the shipments from the Philippines and the East Indies, but instead they will be recompensed by the subsidies payable from the special sugar tax of one-half cent per pound, which now raises $69,000,000 per year. Much of our nation's supply of sugar will continue to come from Cuba.

Session of Synod Held in Columbus

Rev. Herman Goede of Columbus, brother-in-law of Mrs. Henry Goede, the former Gretchen Teckhaus of Wayne, was elected president of the Midwest synod of the United Lutheran Church of America at the annual meeting in Columbus. The question of merging the Nebraska, Kansas, and Midwest synods was the big issue considered. The first two favored the proposed constitution and the last named acted favorably except for minor changes. It is expected that the merger will be realized in another year.

Rev. Henry Rowaldt, former Wayne student, and Rev. Wallace Wolff, both graduates in Maywood seminary in Chicago, were ordained. Rev. Rowaldt will serve the Ridgely church and Rev. Wolff at Hooper.

Plan Poppy Sale Here on Saturday

Memorial Flower Will Be Distributed in Wayne Through Auxiliary.

To pay tribute to those who served America in the World war, Mayor M. L. Ringer has designated Saturday, May 24, as Poppy day. His proclamation follows:

"Whereas the wearing of the Memorial poppy is a fitting and effective way of keeping bright the memory of those young men who gave their lives in America's service in the World war; whereas men of Wayne served gallantly in that war, some being called upon to sacrifice their lives; whereas the present national emergency requires the same type of unselfish patriotism displayed by the men and symbolized by their memorial flower; and whereas the women of the American Legion Auxiliary will distribute veteran-made memorial poppies throughout the city on Saturday, May 24; therefore, I, Martin L. Ringer, mayor of the city of Wayne, do proclaim Saturday, May 24, to be Poppy day in the city of Wayne, and urge all citizens to observe the day by wearing the memorial poppy of the American Legion and American Legion Auxiliary in honor of the men who died for America in the war of 1917 and 1918."

A. R. Ellis, commander of Irwin Sears post of the American Legion, appeals to all citizens to observe Poppy day and "show a united front for America."

"The poppy is the memorial flower worn by comrades who fell in France. It is worn to honor their memory and also to aid those who are disabled, their families and the families of the dead. Wearing the poppy is an individual way of showing that we remember and are grateful for sacrifices made in the cause of patriotism," stated Mr. Ellis.

Symbolic of life sacrifice for America and made by men who have sacrificed health and strength for their country, the memorial poppy is a true badge of patriotism. "Let us wear the poppy with sincere devotion," adds the commander.

Poppies made at the veterans' hospital will be distributed Saturday by volunteer workers from the Auxiliary. Mrs. Floyd Conger is chairman and Mrs. J. H. Brugger assistant. All money contributed for the flowers will go into the Legion and Auxiliary welfare funds.

Mrs. Frank Heine, Mrs. Frank Gries and Mrs. J. C. Johnson will sell poppies in the business district. Other district officers are: Vice president, Hilda Hall, Bloomfield; warden, Clara Link, Carroll; marshal, Pearl Fish, Belden; inside guardian, Johanna Jensen, Winside; outside guardian, Johanna Maxon, Laurel; chaplain, Myrtle Barlow, Bloomfield; musician, Hildur Berglund, Hartington; past president, Freda Swanson, Belden.

The afternoon session opens at 1:30. Belden lodge seats the district officers. Dora Shively, Laurel, gives the welcome, and Nellie Jacobson, Randolph, responds. Reports of lodges and contest in separate work will be included. Josephine Vallery, assembly president, gives the address. Officers will be elected, and Laurel closes the meeting.

Opening for the evening session at 8 will be by the Laurel lodge. Belden seats district officers; Cole-ridge has the memorial service; and Bloomfield presents initiatory work. Invitation for the next year and seating of officers precede closing by Laurel.

Renamed to Office.
Peter Henkel was reelected vice president of northeast Nebraska custodians at their meeting in Laurel last week. The group meets in Hartington in July.

Former Resident Likes Texas Valley
Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Jacques, formerly of Wayne, who recently drove from the Rio Grande valley in Texas to Ames, Ia., to visit the Henry Gullivers, came here Friday to spend a few days. They like the south and feel very well there. Their son and family are in San Antonio.

Abundant crops of citrus fruits and vegetables are raised in the southern valley, Mr. Jacques states. Producers do not have the advantage, however, unless they live on highways where they can sell fruits to travelers. Otherwise they must sell to brokers who pay about $4 to $5 a ton for fruits and the broker resells the same fruit for $2 or $3 a bushel.

The one unacquainted is likely to pay too much for land in the valley also. Good citrus fruit land can be had for $700 to $1,000 an acre, but Mr. Jacques knows of one Iowa man who went south and paid $6,500 an acre for a fruit ranch.

Fruits picked from the trees are sweet and juicy. Early in the season fruits are artificially ripened with oil burners in storage rooms. These are harder and not so juicy.

The government is spending 50 millions to divert waters of the Rio Grande so as to irrigate thousands of acres in the valley. This will improve conditions for ranchers.

Leaving for Idaho.
Ted Terry, who gained fame by riding a bull from his home in Ketchum, Idaho, to New York for the world's fair and who spent the past winter at Henry Langenberg's near Hoskins, plans to leave May 27 on horseback for his home. He will lead a mule with a loaded pack and will carry a loud speaker system. Terry has been ill and has dropped from 147 to 100 pounds. Later his pal, Harold Wood, now employed in Norfolk, will take the bull from Norfolk to Idaho.

Religion Needed With Education

Rev. Most Delivers Sermon For Class of Sixty to Finish Wayne High

The Place of Religion in Education was the subject of the baccalaureate sermon delivered at Wayne municipal auditorium Sunday evening by Rev. W. F. Most for the class of 60 being graduated from Wayne city school. The text was taken from Proverbs 3:1-7. "All should learn not the futility but the humility of knowledge," began Rev. Most. "In order that education may do us the most good in the world, we must give religion the supreme place in education. There is no compromise between religion and education. We must learn to become useful participants in the present needy world and to employ our God-given assets. The world is troubled today because of frozen assets—frozen because we refuse to share what we possess and what we are. God has given us the world and the laws of nature. We can either follow the will of God as revealed in Jesus Christ for the good of humanity and self or we can abuse the laws of God to our own detriment and the suicide of the society to which we belong. God has shown His will and given us the power and the holy spirit to act."

The high school orchestra played the professional and recreational assembles matched by and from the services. Rev. G. Gieschen offered the invocation, read the Scriptures and pronounced the benediction.

Wilbur Ahlvers sang "Here Comes Another May Day," and the boys quartet sang "My Faith" and "Abide With Me."

Commencement tonight. Commencement exercises for the class will be conducted this Thursday evening at 8 in the auditorium. Dr. B. F. Schwartz, chancellor of Nebraska Wesleyan, gives the address on "Youth in a World at War." The class is the largest in the history of the school.

The order of service follows: Professional orchestra; invocation, Rev. C. L. Ellis, solo, "In the Garden of Tomorrow," Mildred Mau, address, Dr. Schwartz, introduced by Dr. R. P. Cuff, formerly of Wesleyan; "Aloha Oe," solo; presentation of class gifts; F. Thorpe; presentation of diplomas, Dr. Walter Bentback; awarding of scholarships, Principal G. B. Childs; benediction, Rev. Ellis.

Senior Class Day. Annual senior class day program was held in the activities room Tuesday afternoon at 3. The class history was read by Annabel Jensen, the will by Barbara Heine and the prophecy by Paul Harrington. Wilbur Ahlvers, Lenora Potras and Mildred Ann Mau sang solos. Banquet for Seniors. Junior-senior banquet of the Wayne city school was held Thursday evening, May 15, at 6:30 in the Presbyterian church. The theme was piracy. Legislative News Letter

William A. Crossland State Senator

L. B. 470, the bill exempting from tax gas used for agricultural purposes passed without the emergency clause and can not become effective for at least 30 days, probably in August. As originally planned the measure would have been inaugurated on June 1 in order immediately to benefit the farmers. Your senator consistently voted for this measure and regrets that it did not pass with the emergency clause. As now passed, the measure cannot benefit the farmers until the fall of this year.

By the time this letter is published, the legislature will have adjourned, Thursday, May 22, being the tentative date for adjournment. While some last minute changes will or may be made in the small loan bills, L. B. 282 and 339, we predict that the bills in substantially their present form will pass, providing for interest rates of 9 per cent per annum and a 9 per cent service charge on all loans up to $1,000, and 9 per cent interest and no service charge on loans above $1,000. This will be quite a reduction from present rates as the law now in force allows interest and brokerage charges that can aggregate 44 per cent. However, rates are still too high. Your senator voted for an amendment providing for a lower schedule of rates, but same was defeated last week. The bills provide for more effective supervision by the department of banking and banks, trust companies, cooperative and credit associations, and building and loan associations may take but loan licenses if they desire to do so.

L. B. 482, originally a bill to tax diesel fuel at the rate of 5c per gallon, was amended to change the tax to a ton mile tax, but later the bill was indefinitely postponed. Many are of the opinion that a ton mile tax is not desirable and that diesel fuel should be taxed on a gallonage basis. Furthermore, it was thought best to await a supreme court decision on the constitutionality of the present law before enacting new legislation and your senator concurs in this view.

Northeast Nebraska senators were unable to change the redistricting plan adopted last week. The Third district for the next decade will include several counties south of the Platte river, namely York, Seward, Butler and Saunders counties. The Third district will have constituents within 20 miles of Lincoln and within Lincoln's trade territory.

Of the 514 bills introduced, just about 200 bills will pass, and a few over 300 have been killed or indefinitely postponed. The most important bills passed were the small loan bill, gas tax exemption bill, county home rule bill, various bills pertaining to national defense measures, birth certificate bill, a uniform law for corporations, a bill to authorize political subdivisions to refinance their debts at lower rates, interest moratorium on certain delinquent taxes, restriction on the use of injunctions in matters of irrigation and water appropriation, and of course the appropriations bill which is too lengthy to detail here. Airport development was encouraged by keeping in force the present tax on aviation gasoline. No new taxes were authorized and all luxury taxes killed. No real attempt was made to place more property on the tax rolls or to overhaul the tax structure of the state which is greatly needed. No important labor legislation was passed and almost every form of labor regulation was voted down except a few amendments to the unemployment compensation law. Practically no relief legislation was offered or even discussed. New taxes were not considered and the trucking and auto-motive industry were not burdened with new taxes. Pension systems, as the teachers' retirement bill, and attempts to establish a merit system for state employees failed to receive favorable consideration. Some improvement in the state school fund was made possible by a larger appropriation for administration but it is regretted that no real attempt was made to replenish the certain losses in the fund. The planning board was abolished and the activities of other boards curtailed and no new boards were established.

As soon as the legislature adjourns, your senator plans to visit every town and community in the district and meet all of you. We look forward to home coming. Our deep and sincere thanks is extended to the publisher of this newspaper for the generous aid and service in carrying these weekly news letters to you. Hearty greetings and best wishes to you all!

The commanding general of the army states that remarkable progress has been made in its reorganization and expansion, and the principal drawback is insufficient equipment for the 1,250,000 men in training. The war staff now is contemplating asking congress for authorization to more than double the present number, to about 2,800,000. The question of more cantonments for such an increased force immediately comes up along with that of necessary equipment. Twentyeight new encampments would be necessary for such a vast army, and their cost would run to another billion dollars. In the World War, four million men were under arms; but many of them were overseas before the total number was arrived at. Cantonments, and the training areas need a much larger space now, and the cost is accordingly. After a survey of six months the department has accepted only seven sites of the 28 needed.

This town wanted congress to appropriate 40 thousand dollars for rest rooms for people who sit along the Potomac summer nights to listen to symphony orchestras. The appropriations committee didn't figure that was national defense and turned the item down. Other demands for money of similar nature which used to pass readily are being disallowed now. But some really big items calling for many millions which are not actually national defense, are not eliminated. They are too deeply rooted in the affections of a majority of members and have administration blessing.

Writes a constituent: "Some of you people there say we are already in the war. If we are in the war, you have perpetrated a fraud upon us. If we are not at war then you still have it in your power to determine whether or not thousands of our young men shall be slaughtered." The general feeling is that we are not at war; that we are not going to convoy; and that Europe to fight. What will happen tomorrow or the next day, however, is not known here. Washington sends up trial balloons daily. Favorable public reaction encourages action.

It will be a few more weeks before the ways and means committee has the new tax bill ready for the house. Witnesses are yet being heard. Some businessmen who are here say their taxes exceed their profits. Since 1933, they say, American business has earned $1.05 for taxes against every dollar of net profits. The "little men" are here, too. They have their arguments and suggestions. Committee members just say no tax bill can please everybody or, for that matter, anybody. They figure we have spent and spent and will have to continue to spend and spend and borrow and borrow and that the time has come to pay the fiddler.

Debates on our international affairs become more heated in the house and senate each day. A few months ago, no speaker would have dared to speak openly for convoying. Each day now some speaker demands that we stop being hypocritical and begin convoying immediately. Audible "booming" of speakers has started on the house floor. The situation is becoming critical. Many members who say they would even vote for convoys, are waiting for the White House to clarify the earlier statements of the president to the effect that he would not send men to Europe again; that convoys mean shooting and shooting means war. Some spokesmen close to the White House maintain that the president meant what he said; that we are not going to convoy and that men are not going to be sent to Europe. Others, however, say just the opposite. These say we must convoy and that "we are going to convoy." Some even say we should declare war. It is so confusing that some members who are anxious to go along with whatever is best for the country, are demanding that they be told just exactly what the administration intends to do. They believe that the country should also be told the truth.

Women here say that black stockings will come back into style because most of the tilted ladies who are flocking to Washington from Europe wear black stockings.
