

To Be Invited to Take Over Job of Running Wayne for One Day, According to Chamber of Commerce...

A Chamber of Commerce committee announces that farmers will be invited in to run the town on July 18. The one-day managers will be expected, as we conclude, to shape policies of the municipal government and Chamber of Commerce, and direct details of commercial institutions.

The farmer-merchant for one day must wreathe his face in smiles while keeping cuss words well in hand below the surface. This will require powerful self-control. Just a few customers bent on buying everything below cost will prove a lesson in patience.

In due and happy correlation, town men will likely be invited to go into rural areas and manage the farms for one day. The time will be mid-July, and the heat will probably be terrific.

Then as the solar orb begins slowly to descend and innumerable flies sharpen appetites preliminary to turning forage over to clouds of mosquitoes and gnats, chorals will be done. Cows will be lowing impatiently in the pastures, and as duty is approached, extreme caution will be required to permit the animals to differentiate between the green of the fields and the strange intrusion of human verdure.

In taking care of the bulls of the farmstead, it should be understood that they are no angels, no playful creatures and have no sense of humor. It is not necessary to do something to displease them in order to make them mad and dangerous. They are already mad. A bull's idea of regularity is to catch a fellow, especially a stranger, on the points of his horns and throw him with great violence over his head.

Horses must be fed, watered and carried. It should be carefully borne in mind that danger points of a horse rest in its hind feet. Especially a mule has tremendous power of attack from the rear. The most cordial relations between the farmer and townsman do not necessarily extend to farm animals. Appearance of a new face may draw instant expression of resentment. A friendly feeling and gently undulating voice may receive an ugly thrust from barnyard creatures not accustomed to falling for strangers.

Besides the chores touched on, the pigs must be given proper food rations and ample water. Chickens must be shooed into coops and fed, and the day's contribution of eggs must be gathered. Cream separators (Continued on Page 10)

NUMBER FIVE

Plant Woodlands In This Vicinity

CCC Camp and Conservation Service Complete Work On Many Farms.

Winside CCC camp recently completed 33 woodland plantings on farms having cooperative agreements with the camp and Stanton soil conservation district. These woodlands are on the farms of Oliver Ciocker, William Ramm, Connecticut Life Insurance Co. (two farms), Cliff Penn, Walter A. Carpenter, Fred Hurd, Mrs. Fredericka Dangberg, Levin Sydes, Paul Splittgerber, Alfred Sydes, Mrs. Minnie and Lyle Maroltz, Mrs. Minnie Maroltz and Mrs. Lisetta Gutzman, Gail Sellon, Ralph Beckenhauer, Thomas McGuire, H. E. Siman, David Rees, H. D. Miller (two farms), Gustav Kolth, Francis Pohlman, Allan York, Herbert Sieck, Art Weichenbach, Art Barr, Jr., Henry Sydnor, Harold Bugtwhistle, Walter Nelson, Daniel J. Wolvortner, Walter Chace and Rolland Spence.

Approximately 62,650 trees and shrubs were planted by the CCC camp this year. Some of these trees and shrubs were used to replant the 1940 woodlands that were damaged by the early freeze last fall.

Some trees were planted in gullied waterways or waterways that may be subjected to severe erosion. Other trees were planted in irregular strip fields for woodlots to produce posts, fuel and lumber. Many trees were planted as windbreaks for farmsteads or feed lots and at the same time provide wood for posts, fuel and lumber.

The trees and shrubs planted this year consisted of green ash, cottonwood, American elm, hackberry, black locust, honey locust, Russian mulberry, Russian olive, Burr oak, ailanthus, red cedar, western yellow pine, choke cherry, sand yellow, honeysuckle and lilac.

The woodlands will be fenced by the camp during the summer months so that the trees and shrubs will be permanently protected from farm stock. It is essential that trees be protected from livestock. This will give the young seedlings a chance to grow and replace old trees as they mature. Thus a permanent woodland should be established.

Passes Suddenly At Winside Home

Services Are Conducted for Miss Lilly M. VonSeggern At Winside Church.

Miss Lilly VonSeggern, 54, passed away suddenly Saturday evening at her home in Winside. She had not felt well in the morning but went about her work as usual. Her father, Bernard VonSeggern, found her unconscious in the home and summoned neighbors and a doctor. Miss VonSeggern did not regain consciousness and passed away that evening at 6:30.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at 1:40 at the home and at 2 from St. Paul's Lutheran church in Winside. Rev. H. M. Hilbert and the Hiscox service of Wayne, were in charge. Burial was in Winsler cemetery. Rev. Hilbert's text was from Genesis 3:19, "For dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return." The congregation sang "Rock of Ages" and "Nearer My God to Thee." Mrs. Hilbert played "Largo."

Lilly Marie VonSeggern, daughter of Freda and Bernard VonSeggern, was born May 18, 1887, on a farm four and one-half miles northwest of Wisner. She was baptized and confirmed in the Lutheran faith. Miss VonSeggern moved with her parents into Winside in 1902, her home since except for short stays on the farm.

VonSeggern of Winside, a brother, Bernard, Jr., of Wisner, two sisters, Mrs. Lenora Benson of Minneapolis, and Mrs. Marie Kamoni of Pettibone, N. D. Her mother and a sister, Miss Anna, preceded her in death. Six cousins served as pallbearers.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Lamberson were in Fremont Memorial day.

RAINFALL FOR THE YEAR TO JUNE IS BIGGER THAN 1940

RAINS varying from light showers to more than an inch fell over northeast Nebraska Friday night. One quarter of an inch was recorded by the gauge at the State National bank here. About 5 of an inch fell Saturday night, closing the record for May. Total in Wayne for the month was 2.53 inches. That amount exceeds the rainfall of May, 1940, by nearly an inch. Moisture of 5.24 inches here during April surpassed that of the same month in any year since keeping the local record began in 1914. Nearest approach to it was in April of 1927 when 5.22 inches fell. According to the State National's gauge, 9.03 inches fell during the first five months of this year as compared with 6.52 inches during the same period last year. It was June of 1940 that produced heaviest moisture, one storm on June 3 bringing a rainfall of 3.9 inches at this place. The fall was much larger in other parts of northeast Nebraska, causing disastrous floods in some sections, notably at Homer. The total for June last year as recorded here was 6.81 inches. While the flood caused serious damage the heavy rainfall at that time was vital to the production of an unusually abundant small grain crop.

Oral Argument Ordered in Case

Supreme Court Is Favorable To Rehearing of Action Involving Lots.

Nebraska supreme court this week ordered oral argument upon the motion for rehearing of the city's case involving disposition of property sold under tax foreclosure proceedings. The matter under consideration is the action in which the Taxpayers' League and C. H. Hendrickson challenged the validity and regularity of the city's sale of lots to Don Wightman.

Both judges in district court had approved the sale. Argument of the matter is set for September 15. H. E. Siman is attorney for defendants.

The high court in March rendered a decision partially reversing the district court finding. Then the supreme court held that Wightman holds good and valid title to the lots but the title is subject to a paving tax lien, which the city had agreed to extinguish. Because of some irregularities regarding confirmation of the sheriff's sale to the city's trustee, the paving tax lien has not been extinguished.

The supreme court found that the city had agreed to transfer the lots to Wightman for $1,500 free of taxes, that Wightman paid the amount which was the reasonable value and that Wightman holds good title to the property subject to the tax lien.

Decision in the matter is of statewide importance because on the outcome depends the legality of thousands of pieces of property which have been disposed of by municipalities in similar manner.

Official Seeking Pay as Governor

Claim of Wm. E. Johnson Is Taken Under Advisement In Lincoln Tuesday.

The appeal of Licuit. Gov. Wm. E. Johnson from the refusal of State Auditor Ray Johnson and Secretary Frank Marsh to honor a warrant for $1,386 which Johnson claims he should be paid for serving as governor while former Governor R. L. Cochran was out of the state was taken under advisement Tuesday by District Judge Broadway Lincoln. The lieutenant governor formerly lived in Wayne.

In the claim filed the lieutenant governor seeks pay for some 80 days he served as governor between June 17, 1939, and November 23, 1940. He contends that he was entitled to the per diem pay which the governor receives for each day he acted as governor. He presented the claim to the state auditor who refused to issue a warrant, and the secretary refused to approve it.

The matter involves a question of constitutional law, stated Clarence Davis, attorney for the lieutenant governor. Law provides that the lieutenant governor shall take over the governor's duties when that officer is absent from the state or is disabled. Opposition was based on the claim that the governor could be contacted by telephone when he was away and on some occasions his absence did not affect the public interest. Attorney Davis contended that the constitution declares that absence of the executive calls for service by the lieutenant governor, giving him the "powers, duties and emoluments of the office."

Choir to Appear Here in Concert

Dixon Wayne county agents, Dixon and Wayne county AAA committees, Wayne county WPA officers, Wayne county FSA officers and the district supervisor for NYA in this area were present. Other employment contacts can also be made through this office.

Pender held Laurel scoreless in the Sunday encounter. Pender made 1 score in the 2nd, 1 in the 5th and 2 in the 6th inning.

Next Sunday Laurel plays at Emerson, Wayne at Pender and Winside at Hoskins. Wayne team has made a good record but deserves more encouragement from local people. Supervisors of District Picked Board Asks Eradication of Three Acres of Weeds and Fifteen Per Cent.

Wayne county weed eradication district is now in charge of a board of five supervisors elected Monday evening when land-owners met at the court house to organize. All procedure will be directed by the board on which will always be one from each of five districts in the county. Districts designated and supervisors elected Monday are the following: Oge, Wilbur, Deer Creek and Sherman, Otto Sabs; Two, Garfield, Chapin and west half of Strahan, Evar Anderson; Three, Hoskins, Hancock and west half of Brenna, Wm. Riggert; Four, Leslie, Plum Creek and east half of Brenna, E. P. Cauue; Five, Logan, Hunter and east half of Strahan, Clure Buskirk. Riggert and Buskirk serve for one year, Sabs and Anderson for two and Cauue for three, their terms being determined by lot. This board will meet soon to select its officers.

A resolution passed Monday declares the Canadian thistle, Russian knap weed, bindweed, perennial poppergrass, leafy spurge and puncture vine as weeds which the district will aim to eradicate. Special emphasis will be given to ridding the area of bindweed.

Supervisors were authorized Monday to have every farmer eradicate a minimum of three acres or all if he has less than that amount of bindweed on his place. A farmer having more than three acres of bindweed is asked to eradicate 15 per cent of this during the current season. Each farmer will use his own discretion as to control methods. In widely scattered spots he will likely use chlorate, and on large areas cultivation will probably be the favored method. Agent Chet Walters and the supervisors feel that chlorate will be available at reasonable prices.

Another decision made Monday provides for assessment of 1/2 acre for support of the district for the district for the next two years. This amounts to 40c per 160 acres each year.

The group meeting Monday commended the services of the temporary committee having (Continued on Page Five)

Two of life's greatest problems in this part of the country are keeping the house warm in winter and keeping it cool in summer. Red Top insulating wool is as close to a complete answer to this problem as there is at present. Insulate for health and comfort with Red Top wool.

Protection for your farm buildings is the first and foremost reason for painting them. There is no better way of insulating this protection than by painting them.

Jones: "Why don't you take your bank book in and have it balanced?"
 Mrs. Jones: "I should say not! Do you suppose I want that snooty looking cashier to know how much money I have?"

You'll soon be needing lime to get rid of those garden bugs. You can get it here in any amount you want.

THURSDAY, JUNE 5, 1941

Fourth of July will be the next holiday, and it will find Americans determined to hold what their forebears gained in 1776. It is now the British from whom the colonies wrested independence at that time. It is now the British whom Americans would help keep free from totalitarianism. It was the Hessians of Germany who fought with the English against the American colonists. Victors of that Revolution are now needed to ward off conquest of England by its one-time helpers. Time makes startling changes. Two countries in conflict 165 years ago are now uniting for the cause of liberty which the American colonies took up arms to secure.

Passing of years caused the spirit of independence to die down. Freedom was accepted as a matter of course, and Fourth of July orators grew less excited. The populace listened indifferently. That the time would ever come when we would have to spend billions to preserve the fruits of the Revolution was inconceivable.

But the time has come, and Fourth of July orators will be imbued with old-time fire—now to stir Americans to be on the alert against enemies within and without, to retain the free institutions which have long been enjoyed.

THE FEAR of losing the American way of life, the fear of surrendering to regimentation for all activities, in course of building adequate defense, leads Merle Thorpe, contributing to Nation's Business, to make these observations touching basic principles which have made America what it is:

"That certain men are gifted with a talent for bringing men and materials into useful productivity. They should be encouraged. "That a Congress, sovereign in its own right, is the capstone of representative government. It should be independent. "That leaders of men who labor as are jealous of the responsibilities of labor as they are of their rights. They, too, should come under the law. "That honest opinions, freely expressed, are of the very essence of liberty. "The times call for the full strength of a free America. Such strength cannot be developed as a totalitarian strength. The free men of America cannot work that way. There is no leadership which can lead them that way. "Only deeds will reassure a nation as it mobilizes in war effort that its unguarded domestic institutions will not be threatened. That kind of reassurance will cause the nation to surge forward, unitedly, to a victory which will secure for us and our posterity the blessings of liberty."

THE WORLD-HERALD is not dismayed by the calamity preached in the present national emergency. That newspaper is strong for democracy and for international trade relations, but if worst comes to worst, it points out that this country can get along better aloof and alone than any other country in the world. It says in conclusion:

"Ours is a great and fertile land; ours an enlightened and mighty people. It is not a people to be ruined because it can produce more than it needs. Should all the rest of the world be reduced to slavery we, erect on our own feet, faces front, hearts undismayed, could and would lead the lives of free men and free women—only we would it so. "We think Mr. Roosevelt, considering this aspect of its extreme possibilities, paints it entirely too black. "Americans may face war and its consequences. But whatever comes, providing they remain strong and invincible in the home land God has given them, they need never despair."

Granting authority to the president to requisition private industries needed to speed government work would not seem seriously objectionable as a war measure, though requisitioning labor organizations and making them stop striking and interfering with defense production would apparently more nearly answer the demand of the time. No evidence appears that industry is holding up production. On the other hand, plenty of proof exists that organized labor, on whose efforts production depends, often quits on a masse to enforce demands which are frequently unreasonable. Labor union workers are the ones who are out of step and failing to cooperate and who are obstructing government plans. They are the ones who should be told what to do in no uncertain words. In building due defense bulwarks, it is a blow to common sense to put the screws on those who are lending every aid and to allow essential workers to shut down plants to discuss demands that almost invariably violate rules of reason.

Enlarging Secretary Harold Ickes' powers by appointing him "petroleum coordinator for national defense" will not be popular with the newspapers. He has been pouring vitriol on editors' heads for years. His comment that civilians might have to give up use of gasoline on Sundays and thus devote leisure either to walking or sitting reflects his disposition to destroy the recreation which the administration had often urged as essential to defense. Selection of Ickes seems consistent with a policy to appoint or to retain in key positions persons who do not rate high in popular appraisal. Instead of dislodging and retiring Secretary "Ma" Perkins according to public demand, the president may be expected to advance her to additional fields of responsibility.

It is an advantage to have ample, highly trained brains, but it is no advantage if they are to be considered a substitute for hard, persevering work. Living wholly by one's wits usually proves disappointing. One must not hesitate at a manual task on the assumption that he is too smart or has a too bright future to do it. Shunning work that will soil one's hands or tax one's muscles leads perilously in the direction of failure. One who does with zest and resolution any honorable job undertaken, is almost certain to realize greater goals later and score success beyond expectations.

Retirement of Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes of the United States supreme court, removed from public service one of America's ablest statesmen. In his time he was governor of New York, secretary of state, member of the world arbitration tribunal, supreme court justice and chief justice, and he was defeated by a narrow margin for the presidency in 1916. He was defeated by the slogan that President Wilson had kept us out of war.

On account of defense production and increased demand for farm labor, the number gainfully employed in the United States now is said to be larger than at any time in the history of the country. That will mean steadily growing demand for farm products and for manufactured goods.

The demand for labor incident to defense building would seem to warrant the government in suspending its peace-time spending and employing bureaus. If we cannot get along without creating ways to spend federal money to furnish jobs at this time, when can we?

The British say Schmelgel, the prize fighter, was killed on the island of Crete. The Nazis say he is still alive. The Nazis say a certain important general belonging to the allies is dead. The British deny the report. We will have to have more proof to be sure.

Some one says life consists largely of doing what one doesn't want to do. If one did only what he wanted to do, he likely wouldn't do much. It is rowing up stream that generates vim and courage.

The comparatively small business enterprise is hardest hit by government restrictions because its margin of profit is small, and a little extra burden is likely to overwhelm its powers of endurance.

Soaking rains over the state the past week have stimulated growing crops of all kinds. A wet June is now needed as a preventive of later dry spells.

Different branches of the government service have drawn so many from the teachers' profession that a real scarcity of teachers is threatened.

Weakness of Service. (Omaha Journal-Stockman)

Failure of the TVA to furnish light and power to important defense industries at this time on account of low water due to the prevailing drought in the Southeast demonstrates the unsoundness of the ambitious government project. Private enterprise has always had to provide steam power to supplement water power for public utilities in emergencies and it looks as if the government would be compelled to do the same thing. It is pertinent to observe, says a noted engineer, that the government could have constructed ample reserve steam plants for a fraction of the sums squandered on TVA. The steam plants would have turned out kilowatts when they were needed whether it rained or not.

"Ism" and Horseless Carriages. (Industrial Press Service)

If all the statements made by the advocates of "ism" systems were as true as they are arrogant, representative democracy would be a very feeble and ineffective way of life by comparison. And, gravely enough, there are some people who, appalled by the roughshod victories totalitarianism has lately won, are half willing to accept such a belief.

For such folk an analogy in a recent book by H. A. Overstreet should be required reading.

Mr. Overstreet points out that the growth of our representative system of government might be likened to the development of the automobile. In the early days of the "motor car" there were people who doubted its effectiveness, and shouted "Get a horse!" Then, as later improvements proved its worth, there were others who were quite sure that it had reached a stage of near-perfection. But constant trial, constant effort, have made the automobile better each year.

Similarly, the author observes, there are those who look at governments that depend on such gradual progress and who shout "Get a leader!" They feel that if one man is allowed to make all the decisions a better product will result than if many people are allowed to contribute their ideas.

Not merely the analogy of the automobile, but the whole gradual but tremendous development of our American habit of life, denies the "isms" approach. Constant testing, constant open-mindedness, a willingness to listen to the ideas of others—these are the ways a better product is made. It is the way, too, that the most desirable—and in the long run the most effective—kind of government can be built!

GREENWOOD.

Greenwood cemetery with its shining marble and wealth of flowers and foliage, was the chief attraction—shrine of deep love and sad memories—on Memorial day. People came from far and near to place floral tributes on the graves of departed dear ones. More newly made graves appear, and the cemetery limits are gradually extending. Next year and each succeeding year the number will increase, and in comparatively brief time all of today's elders will find places under evergreens on the beautiful hillside. The plot for Greenwood was wisely selected, and pride in its upkeep has been exercised from the beginning.

Farmers

lors must be used and later washed. If any time is left, the garden should be hoed.

We feel the day will be a success if our suggestions are carefully followed. As a safeguard and to reduce the number of fatalities, some supervised rehearsals might be advisable. Farmers should familiarize themselves with dates involved in the day's engagement. Townspeople should journey into the country and find out what they are expected to do. As an extra means of security and safety, coats of sticking plaster could be spread over mower and binder seats.

Birds of Chisel-Like Bills

Woodpeckers have stiff tails with which to climb trees and anchor in desired parking spots, and better and more generally known they have chisel-like bills to drill into wood for insects. Now we would like to ask the woodpecker in our neighborhood this question: Why do you persist in pecking on tin roofs and other metallic surfaces which obviously can yield nothing of an edible nature? The practice seems stupidly unavailing.

From One Who Returned.

An Iowa man who used to live here, but who has been gone for several years, said he still regards Wayne his home town. He emphasized the friendliness of Wayne people, the kindly interest they manifest, the lively sympathy they feel. It is a disturbing experience of life that compels one through unavoidable circumstance to leave the place he likes.

Concert Planned At Park Tonight

Wayne municipal band, directed by K. D. Hanson, presents its first summer concert at Bressler park this Thursday evening, June 5, 8 o'clock. Hereafter the weekly concerts will be Friday evenings.

The concert numbers are as follows: "America," "Field of Flowers," W. D. McCaughey; "Southern Cross" overture, Paul Yoder; Mr. Yoder is one of the outstanding school composers and has given us this interesting selection; "In a Persian Market," intermezzo, by Albert Ketelbey; the camel drivers gradually approach; the cries of beggars for "Buck-sheens" are heard; the beautiful princess enters carried by her servants; she stays water by the juggler and snake-charmer; the Caliph passes through the market and interrupts the entertainment; the beggars are heard again; the princess prepares to depart and the caravan resumes its journey; the themes of the princess and the camel drivers are heard faintly in the distance and the market-place becomes deserted. "Velvet of the Rose" waltzes, Geo. Barnard, commencing with several bars of syncope time followed by three delightful strains in waltz time: "La Marcha del Soldadito Espanol," march of the Spanish soldier, J. de Smetisty, characteristically Spanish; "Victory" Herbert Favorites; "Victor Herber" Favorites; "Carolina Moon" concert waltz, "Doris Bourke, an old popular waltz that should recall fond memories; "march" selected; "Saskatchewan" overture, G. E. Holmes, a light overture with interesting dynamic and harmonic changes by one of our modern band composers; "National Anthem."

Board in Session.

DEMOCRACY.

Fear is often expressed these days that if we have to defend our democracy, we will lose it. That does not make sense. It does not tally with a just appraisal of qualities inherent in 130 millions of free people. We may suffer curtailment of some privileges in the event of war, but it is not conceivable that any form of dictatorship could be fastened on a United States representative, intelligent and independent as the United States. No other nation could conquer the United States, and after exhausted lands have quit fighting, no man or group of men could set up an autocracy and destroy the free enterprise that has developed during 150 years. The only real 100-per cent democracy in the world will not be allowed to perish.

CONGRESS AS SEEN BY KARL STEFAN

Washington, D. C., May 28, 1941.

Members of the house and senate who are opposed to the entry of the United States in the new world war, held a meeting the day before the president delivered his peace talk. They drafted a letter to him urging him to keep out of war.

The first draft of the letter was destroyed because it contained a statement that a national poll on war was going to be taken. These members felt they couldn't conduct such a poll. It was too big a job. They believe 90 per cent of the American people are still against war. In their statements they expressed fear that the Gallup poll is prejudiced and will soon show that the people favor war. It was to offset the Gallup poll that they hoped to get a national referendum of some kind. Because they couldn't, they drafted a letter minus that proposal and sent it to the president. The same group held another meeting the day after the president's speech and outlined methods of procedure. Their determined fight to keep the United States out of the European conflict.

Thousands of people are visiting Arlington National Cemetery these days. The tomb of the Unknown Soldier was covered with wreaths of flowers during the following a gigantic gathering of Catholic organizations who held mass in the great amphitheater. These organizations came from many states of the union. Following that the memorial services at the soldier's tomb were equally impressive. Believe it or not, many Nebraskans lie sleeping in this beautiful cemetery. Names of service men over the name of our state can be found on many of the little white tomb stones which dot this sacred ground.

Uncle Sam is spending now at the rate of 20 billion dollars a year. If Uncle Sam took—in taxes—every penny of the incomes of all people receiving $1,000,000 per year or over, the total amount thus taken would run the federal government just three days. If Uncle Sam took every penny of all incomes of $100,000 and over, the amount thus taken would run the federal government just 20 days. If Uncle Sam took every penny of every person who received $10,000 or over per year, that amount would run the federal government just 137 days. Eighty per cent of our national income is received by people who get $5,000 per year or less; therefore, the people in the lower brackets must bear the brunt of the tax burden. Contrary to general belief, the tax goose is not found in the upper brackets. To raise enough money by taxation, we must tax the money where it is found—in the middle and lower bracket groups. That is why hidden taxes play such a large part in our federal tax scheme. It prevents the lower-bracket fellow from realizing that he pays the heavy end of the tax bill. We must no longer delude ourselves. A large part of the tax burden can never be placed upon the so-called rich. Most of it will always be paid by the middle and lower bracket groups, by the sweat and toil of the working man.

Workers are receiving wage increases and farmers are receiving price increases. This means greatly increased purchasing power. The defense program is forcing production curtailment of things that the workers and farmers buy, and priority orders are preventing industries not engaged in the defense program from getting raw materials needed for the operation of their factories. Greatly increased purchasing power, coupled with a greatly reduced supply of consumer goods, adds up to runaway prices that will upset our economy. John Maynard Keynes, a British economist, an adviser of President Roosevelt, and the father of the New Deal spending program, is here to urge that we adopt the "British forced savings plan" as the answer to our price inflation problem. The forced savings plan provides that employers hold back a percentage of all wages each pay day and turn it over to the federal government where it will be credited to the individual worker—to be paid back to him by the government some time after the war. Keynes claims the plan would finance the total cost of the defense program, control prices, and head off a post war slump. The federal savings plan is really another tax program to raise money needed now.

The Grange, Farmers Union and Farm Bureau Federation are presenting a solid front on the new tax bill now before the ways and means committee. The proposal of increasing taxes on gasoline instead of on excess profits has been under bombardment by representatives of these as well as other organizations the past month. The result cannot be known, of course, until the bill is completed and enacted into law, but if expressions of sentiment among congressmen are any indication, there is likely to be no increased tax on gasoline and motor vehicle oils. The present federal tax of 1 1/2 cents per gallon may be continued. It is doubtful if another cent or 1 1/2 cents will be added to it.

Cuba is another foreign country which has fared well from our government policies and our treasury. Always boasting of its resources and wealth it has been especially favored by a trade treaty which curtails sugar production in the middle and far west to permit the sale of Cuban sugar here. The larger part of Cuba's sugar plantations and mills are owned by New York City and other eastern banking crowds. When Cuba needs money it comes to the treasury rather than to the bankers. Recently it received a loan of $25,000,000. Then came another loan of 11 millions and very lately another of the same amount. And when our treasury or RFC loans money abroad it usually stays "loaned" for a long time. Like Argentina, Cuba demands a "good neighbor" policy with plenty of loans and profits. Some say that it is worth while to keep them good-natured during the emergency.

In the country generally, Uncle Sam is ready for all emergencies so far as police work and guards are concerned. The FBI spiderweb of investigation is one of the most efficient forces in the world. It connects up with all of the police forces of states, counties, cities and towns. The immigration service now has a large force of investigators working on the cards of 6,000,000 registered aliens. Another force is being organized and can be augmented from the various armed branches of our service as well as from civilian sources to guard national industry. Certain investigating committees are also active, and as this gigantic force co-ordinates activities, Uncle Sam should know pretty well what's going on in the United States so far as subversive activities are concerned. The recently organized civilian defense under Mayor La Guardia is just beginning to function. So far as guarding America internally is concerned, Uncle Sam seems pretty well prepared.

Need Unity at the Top.
(Notfolk Daily News)

Radio listeners and newspaper readers have wondered at the contradictory reports they have heard and read of the progress of the defense program.

One minute they are told that wonders are being performed in getting ready to meet the Hitler menace, the next they hear some seemingly well informed speaker tell about shortcomings in the program which are actually perilous to our defense.

The Merry-Go-Round column explains the discrepancy.

Taken as a whole, the column says, the picture is breath-taking. But when the details are examined closely the picture is not so rosy.

The National Planning association stated similar conclusions earlier in the month:

"It is still commonly believed that this country is making a magnificent defense effort in accordance with a carefully conceived defense program. Close inspection reveals, however, that the effort is not nearly so strenuous enough and that the program is not at all clear and well developed. Behind the talk of billions for defense lies the plain and simple fact that funds appropriated far behind our needs for military materials, and that production has behind appropriate means."

The gaps in the program lead directly back to unity organization. A defense commission is set up, but it lacks power and responsibility to formulate new programs.

There are overlapping agencies charged with this responsibility, each jealous of its authority. Production of long range heavy bombers, a vital need of the British, was held up for six months until finally President Roosevelt got around to ordering action. Other examples are cited.

For months there has been a demand for the centralizing of authority in the hands of an independent agency made up of men experienced in industry and the needs of the defense program.

Instead the president has held tight to his powers and has delegated vast authority to Harry Hopkins who has had no experience in business or production and whose health keeps him confined to the White House. He has put his confidence in men whose chief experience has been as salaried welfare workers or as lawyers. He has kept as labor representative a man who draws his only salary from a CIO labor union. His secretary of labor has been slow, even reluctant, to certify strikes in eleven industries for settlement by the mediation board.

The people are becoming united behind the defense program. The unity, to be effective, must take in these fit the top, too.

Secret of Human Energy.
(Sioux City Journal)

Dr. George Crile, a noted Cleveland, O., surgeon, presented a few days ago in the Sarah Todd McBride museum at the clinic in his city what he called the secret of human energy. He insists that he found the secret after 50 years of medical research, and it is his conclusion that man's driving force is provided by electricity. Positive and negative charges in the cell nucleus and in the cytoplasm, the fluid surrounding the nucleus, give the driving power to any creature of the animate world. This was Dr. Crile's explanation:

"The positive charge of the nucleus results from the electrical process of oxidation whereby energy is transferred, and this charge is carried to all parts of the body by nerve fibers.

"The source of the powerful negative electricity in all living things is the universal static present in the air, on land and in the sea. It is the negative electricity that is seen in thunder and lightning and in tornadoes. It is the universally present electricity that accumulates on particles moving in the air or water."

There are scientists who, without duplicating the Crile theory of

Red Cross Expands New Blood Project

Washington, D. C.—To provide 200,000 half-pint units of dried blood plasma required by the army and navy for national defense, the American Red Cross will expand its "pilot" blood collection project to 12 cities in the coming months, it was announced here by Chairman Norman H. Davis.

The aim of the blood plasma project, it was explained, is to build up a reserve not only to meet military emergencies, but to provide a reservoir for use in time of disasters. Already three cities—New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore—are providing whole blood to the central processing plant located in Philadelphia. There it is being reduced to dried plasma and stored until needed.

In dry form, plasma can be kept up to five years and used effectively. Red Cross officials said. Plans call for allotments to be assigned to military companies as needs arise. The navy, it was explained, will equip ships at sea with dry plasma to meet emergencies. The dry plasma is mixed with distilled water before using.

Chairman Davis said leading surgeons and physicians in 12 metropolitan cities in the east were being enlisted to assist the Red Cross through the division of medical sciences of the National Research Council. Their part, it was pointed out, will be to supervise proper technique of drawing blood from voluntary donors.

Some 200,000 donors will be needed to provide the needs of the army and navy, the Red Cross estimated. The army and navy have placed their needs at 100,000 units of dried plasma each.

Will Replant Corn In Parts of State

Lincoln, June 4—Considerable Nebraska corn will have to be replanted because of floods and cut-outs, the state federal weekly weather and crop report said today. However, except for local areas the rain relieved a drought condition which was deteriorating small grains.

Replantation ranged from light to flood proportions and showers fell somewhere in the state every day, but they were local and extremely variable in amount.

"Spring small grain crops will recover where rainfall was ample, but the outcome of winter wheat in some localities is uncertain," the report asserted. "Some wheat in southeastern Nebraska was plowed up recently."

"Hessian fly is reported as doing severe damage in some southeastern counties. In western Nebraska rainfall has not been ample for the heavy stands of wheat. Some hail damage is reported. Grasshoppers are reported heavy in some places." Cutworm damage to corn was unusually severe in some localities.

More than half of the counties reported surface moisture short but part of them have been relieved by the recent rains which were heavy in southern, some central and northeastern counties. Most of the western counties and some eastern counties need rain badly.

Miscellaneous Hints

FLOWERS: Most flowers should have little or no artificial watering until they are at least half grown.

When watering is begun, lay the hose on the ground and soak the soil between the rows. Sprinkling requires the use of more water and is less thorough.

To get better and larger blossoms, cease watering when buds appear.

For a continuation of bloom, pick flowers regularly. This is most important with sweet peas and pansies, less so with petunias.

VEGETABLES: Avoid the common mistake of letting vegetables grow too large before picking. Younger vegetables are more tender, more nourishing, and more palatable.

With a large percentage of the vegetables, get them while they are yet in the full flush of growth. Root crops—radish, carrot, turnip, and the best when hardly half grown.

Pick peas just before pods fill out completely. Pick corn just at the "milk" stage, that is, when the kernel, gouged with the finger nail, yields a milky juice. Use summer squash when small, just after the flower has dropped off.

Other vegetables, of course, should be allowed to mature more completely before using. Tomatoes should be ripened well on the vine, as should winter squash. Cantaloupe are at their best when they have not been pulled from the stem, but roll off the vine at a touch.

There are exceptions to many of these rules of course. Some may wish to use green tomatoes for special dishes or for canning, or they may wish to allow beans to grow to the dry bean stage.

Threatens to Veto Parity on Produce

Washington, June 3—President Roosevelt, authoritative sources reported today, will veto the bill carrying funds for the 85 cent parity loan agriculture program, if congress insists on attaching an amendment fixing minimum prices for government purchases of farm products.

Mr. Roosevelt, these sources said, was so opposed to the minimum price legislation that he would reject it regardless of the vital importance of the measure in which it happened to be incorporated. As matters now stand, they declared, the situation is this:

No funds were provided in the recently enacted law making 85 cent parity loans mandatory on this year's wheat, cotton, corn, tobacco and rice crops.

Funds would be provided, however, by a measure now pending before the house banking committee. As it stands this legislation would authorize an increase of $1,000,000,000 in the lending power of the commodity credit corporation so that the parity loans could be financed. (Carl B. Robbins, the corporation's president, said yesterday that this amount would have to be upped at least $242,000,000 more to provide the necessary loan funds.)

But congressional farm leaders are working to tack on to this bill an amendment which would forbid the use of agriculture department funds for purchases of farm products at prices less than 85 cent of parity.

(Parity is the price that theoretically would give the farmer the same return on his crops, in terms of purchasing power, as he received in the base years 1909-14.)

Agriculture department officials said that a price fixing amendment would seriously interfere with programs under which surplus products are being bought for Great Britain and for distribution among needy families in this country.

Parity in Proposed For Drying Foods

Washington, May 27—A proposal that the United States begin a large-scale food drying program to concentrate much of the nation's foodstuffs in convenient and unportable form was presented today at the national nutrition conference.

More than 1,000 delegates and observers attending the conference heard speakers declare that such mass food processing would save millions of bushels of grain now being eaten by rodents or allowed to rot in granaries, and likewise huge quantities of fruit and vegetables which in the past have been allowed to spoil on the ground.

To put such foodstuffs into proper form for semi-permanent storage, the speakers said, crews could be sent around with portable drying machines which would work through farm communities in the same manner as threshing crews which move from farm to farm.

Portable food dryers which could convert a bushel of grain to a few pounds of powder retaining its essential nutrient elements, a gallon of milk to a pound of dried powder and reduce other foods in similar fashion by merely squeezing the water out of them are already practical.

Northeast Nebraska Women Are Recognized for Bravery

Homer Telephone Operator
First to Receive Medal
For Second Time.

The anniversary of the disastrous northeast Nebraska flood of June 3, 1940, brought deserved recognition by the Northwestern Bell Telephone company to two women operators for their exceptional service at that time. The national committee of award for the Theodore N. Vaill medals this week presented a medal and $1,000 each to Mrs. Mildred Lothrop, chief operator for the Northwestern Bell company at Homer, and to Mrs. Nell Lazure, formerly chief operator at Winnebago. The recognition is the second presented to Mrs. Lothrop for similar service in the same community. In 1920 she performed noteworthy service during a flood at Homer for which she received the first Vaill medal of gold ever awarded. She now becomes the only individual to have received two of these national Vaill medals.

Establish Memorial Fund

The Theodore N. Vaill memorial fund was established in 1920, at the time of Mr. Vaill's death, to commemorate the high ideals of public service held by Mr. Vaill who was chairman of the board of the American Telephone and Telegraph company and to give recognition to outstanding acts of service by telephone employees beyond ordinary requirements of the job. This is the 21st year in which awards have been made under the memorial fund, and three gold and seven silver medals were presented. The two women earned the highest awards. A third Nebraskaan, F. Alan Wolcott of McCook, also a Northwestern Bell employee, was awarded a bronze medal and $100 for rescuing a child from the Republican river near Franklin July 14, 1940.

Heavy Loss to Flood

Twelve persons lost their lives and vast property damage resulted last June 3 when flood waters caused overflow of Omaha creek at Homer and Winnebago. Two of the persons perished in the roofless structure shown in the lower right-hand side of the accompanying photograph of Homer.

The arrow indicates the office of Mrs. Lothrop who twice has been heroine of the little community.

remaining at her post and warning residents to flee to safety. Twenty years ago to the week Mrs. Lothrop performed the same services under similar circumstances and earned the first gold medal given under the memorial fund.

were the same as pictured at Homer. There Mrs. Nell Lazure proved herself a heroine by braving flood waters and making every effort to warn residents.

Citation With Award

"For courage, initiative and effective use of telephone facilities in warning inhabitants of a flood and in directing rescue work in face of great personal danger." This citation accompanied Mrs. Lothrop's award. Though fully aware of risks involved, Mrs. Lothrop remained at her switchboard and warned inhabitants of the flood and directed rescue work. Recalling experiences of 20 years ago, she communicated with other places in the path of the flood and kept them posted on its progress. Despite rushing waters that threatened the building and almost reached the second floor where the switchboard was located, Mrs. Lothrop stayed at her post of duty until waters subsided.

"For exceptional courage, initiative and effective use of telephone facilities in warning inhabitants of oncoming flood waters despite great personal danger." Mrs. Lazure's award bore this citation. During last year's flood Mrs. Lazure remained at her post of duty and kept residents informed on progress of the flood. Though urged to leave the switchboard, she stayed and sounded the village siren and called every line until all telephone service was rendered useless at 1 a. m. by waters rising in the office. Mrs. Lazure and two neighbors who had come into the building were unable to escape through the waters and debris which reached within two and a half feet of the ceiling and finally moved the building off its foundation. The three climbed on top of the switchboard and remained until 7:30 a. m. when a rescue party saved them. Her loyalty to the tradition of service resulted in the award of lives."

Mr. Wolcott's citation is "for courage and effective action which resulted in the saving of a child's life." While picnicking with his family near Franklin, Mr. Wolcott heard a woman scream that two children were drowning. Rushing to the scene Wolcott saw a child in the deep channel of the river 200 feet off shore. Though not a strong swimmer, Wolcott disregarded personal risk and waded through mud and water to the deep channel, swam to the 12-year-old child and managed to get her to shore. He then applied first aid until she was revived. Some hours later expert swimmers recovered the body of the second child who could not be revived.

Attain Success With Hard Work

Governor Dwight Griswold
College Friday.

The necessity of hard work for success in life was stressed by Governor Dwight Griswold who gave the commencement address at Wayne State teachers' college Thursday morning when 98 bachelors of arts degrees besides diplomas for completion of other courses were granted. Dr. J. T. Anderson introduced the speaker.

"A diploma is not a ticket to fame. The impression has been created that there is magic in a diploma; that no effort in later life is needed in order to become a success. Success will not come from things learned in college, but from work done from now on. The advantage of a college diploma lies in the fact that you can learn a little more rapidly than those who do not have the training," advised the governor.

The way of attaining happiness along with success in later life, as seen by Governor Griswold, includes a number of things besides having a good time. "As you become citizens you must be willing to make sacrifices for others. Pioneers attained the highest type of contentment from sacrifices they made because they knew their sons and daughters were going to have a higher type of life." He told of the satisfaction the soldiers of World War number one gained by making sacrifices for their country.

The second step in attaining happiness, said the governor, is "for young people to resolve to take more interest in public affairs of the state and nation. The whole basis of education is to make better citizens of young people. Today the real fault in government and public officials lies in the citizens themselves, for they pay such little attention to public and political offices. The dangers which face us today are greed on the part of a few and anarchy on the part of the many."

The third step in attaining happiness, as pointed out by the speaker, is "the duty of young people to be dissatisfied with conditions as they are. Progress has never been made when people are satisfied."

Disciplined minds are necessary today, said the speaker. Youth must have patience in order to discipline their minds.

The governor believes it is an asset for youth to receive education in an agricultural community. They have a closer relationship with nature, a benefit to their education.

The college band, under direction of Prof. John R. Keith, played. Rev. C. L. Eads gave the invocation and benediction. Marjorie Hook, Dorothy Nyquist, Virginia McNulty and Mildred Ringer, junior students, led the graduating students to a reserved section of the willow bowl.

Governor Griswold was accompanied here by his secretary, F. Valdemar Peterson, and a pilot, and the party left by plane after the exercises for McCook. A number of Wayne people went to the airport to greet the executive.

This was the first time Mrs. Goll and daughter had been here. They went to Carroll to see Mrs. Beine's great aunt, Mrs. Barbara Trautwein at Ed. Trautwein's.

Mr. and Mrs. Milford Wright and son, James, of Milwaukee, Wis., visited from Friday to Sunday in the Claude Wright home and with other relatives. Resolve to Live For Democracy

Prof. K. N. Parke Challenges
Americans to Support of Advantages Here.

"Let us resolve to live for democracy," in speaking to a large group gathered at Greenwood cemetery for Memorial services Friday morning Prof. K. N. Parke challenged Americans to deeper appreciation of the advantages of democracy.

In opening his message, Prof. Parke told that it is fitting on Memorial day to honor memory of defenders of the nation and also all others who have contributed their services in helping this nation attain its position of leadership. So it is proper that the memory of all departed ones be given deserved tribute.

The world is alarmed today at trends which threaten democracy. To awaken American people to an appreciation of the freedom that is too often taken for granted, it is the duty of each to assume a share in preserving these advantages under a government guaranteeing life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. "We hang the liberty bell in our constitution and again in the bill of rights and amendments. The mad scramble for individual power in Europe today demonstrates that the stronger the physical unity of a nation, the weaker becomes the individual. Autocracy encourages meanness such as spying, deceit, etc.

If America is to continue to enjoy freedom—government of, by and for the people—each citizen must take an active part to support this form. "The basic idea of democracy is simple. We must learn not the power of man over man but cooperation, and this must develop in the home, the school, the church and the nation. The world will be safe for democratic government when the free will of the minority attempts to become the majority in a peaceful way. We need to live the motto, 'In God We Trust.'"

"Memorial day grew out of war. Let us today heighten our determination to live for our country, adhering to the principles set forth in the American creed," Prof. Parke urged citizens to assume an individual obligation to "promote Americanism in the home, school, church and politics."

Wayne municipal band, directed by K. D. Hanson, played selections. Raymond Ellis, commander of the Legion post, presided. The chaplain offered prayer. The roll of veterans of the Civil, Spanish-American and World War was read. Salute, taps and echo concluded the service.

The Legion color guard and firing squad, flower girls and band marched from the gates to the memorial plot for services. Flags and flowers decorated the plot. Poppy wreaths were placed on the graves of about 100 veterans in cemeteries of the vicinity.

"The Voluptuous Cleopatra."
Really it was the idea of the scandalmongers, a couple of old maid neighbors who had never been troubled, or rather, blessed, with children.
The widowed mother had come along to juvenile court with her little daughter, but she had nothing to say.
The gossamer gossips had plenty to say. They raised their horrified eyes heavenward, relating that the baby-faced bandit had stolen articles from a dime store: lipstick, rouge and face powder, to the total value of 30 cents. The alarmed sisters regarded these wares of the beauty counter as a one-way ticket to perdition and directed us to commit this "present-day beguiling and voluptuous Cleopatra to reform school."

After hearing the story, however, we decided that probation should be tried first. Physically sound and mentally alert, Cleo was left to her own devices from the time school adjourned in the afternoon until 9 o'clock in the evening, while her mother worked in a cafe for a wage of $7 weekly. This small income made it impossible for her to provide a few little "extras" that Cleo desired, and which her companions possessed.

The need for a little material aid during a critical period of re-adjustment was apparent. We asked the pastor of the church to which this family had belonged in better times to look into the matter. He referred it to a committee of his parishioners. Their report was prompt, surprising and disappointing. It ended with these words: "We recommend that this case be referred to a local charitable organization and some arrangement be made to place this child in an institution." Truly an amazing document from a group of church people, the irony of which lay in their annual report which arrived a few days later. This statement fairly shouted from its pages: "We are happy to report remittance of $500 to assist in our foreign missionary work, as well as shipment of several boxes containing clothing, canned goods, and other supplies."

Instead of following the course of action set forth by the church members we one day discussed the case with a merchant whose financial difficulties, brought on by the depression, resulted in law suits against him in our court. We shall never forget his reaction to the story. "Well," he said, "that little girl ought to be a pretty good investment." They had dug down into his already nearly empty pockets for the money to help her.

Two summers ago he sat in the front row of the school auditorium and proudly witnessed his little protégé graduate with honors from grammar school. Last summer he observed her as the nimble and beautiful drum major, twirling the baton at the head of one of the finest high school marching bands in Nebraska.

His small investment paid a quick dividend that no depression can wipe out and no credit can attach and take away.

"It was the glorious spirit of Whiggism to prefer poverty with liberty . . . and to die in defense of their rights as free men! What shall resist this spirit?" This statement of the motive inspiring democratic government is quoted from Lord Chatham and is printed prominently across the top of an English newspaper, The Independent Whig, dated August 28, 1808. This and many other old newspapers are the treasured possession of William Lerner who is collecting them as a hobby.

The eight-page issue of The Independent Whig is a sheet about 10 by 15 inches and is printed on bluish-white paper of quality resembling parchment. The price of the issue is ninepence.

Commenting on affairs in America, the paper states that the "republicans, at the head of whom are the several members of the government, are decidedly in favor of a perseverance in the present system of maintaining the embargo and rigidly enforcing the non-importation act without proceeding to any hostile measure of declaration against any of the belligerent powers. In this determination the republicans are seconded by a vast proportion of the federalists; many of the latter, however, go to the length of recommending the adoption of a non-intercourse act with both France and England."

The Grand Duke of Berg, who was proclaimed King of Naples, declares that he will abide by the constitution promulgated by His Majesty, King Joseph Napoleon, and guaranteed by the emperor. Emperor Napoleon was touring France as if his brother, Joseph, were seated on the throne of Spain.

The prince in Vienna appeared a disturbance which took place on account of the plot made against American ships which attempted to unbind their cargoes. In the same dispatch the paper tells that the emperor "very graciously received the present sent from the king of Holland, consisting of 24 very beautiful coach-horses." A dispatch from Turkey states that that nation and Russia may soon be at peace. An English flag of truce arrived in Constantinople but the answer was that no direct communication would be admitted with England except with the concurrence of France.

Independence at Will.
"About 15 months ago a deputation of Poles presented themselves before His Imperial Majesty in Warsaw to solicit their independence. The monarch answered them, 'What you solicit is in your own hands. That a nation should be free and recover her independence, it is sufficient that she wills it.' The paper comments further that the expectation of war between Austria and France has caused a most serious oppression of funds. Russia had sent an ambassador to the United States regarding trade agreements.

The paper tells that the Prince of Wales was to review the militia at Dorchester. The trained men gathered at 5 in the morning and at noon His Majesty was still in bed. He did arrive at 3 p. m. with great exertion and then the soldiers were exhausted. The paper comments that the prince's father, the king, would have been on time at such an occasion.

A jumping match with 10 guineas as the stake is described. In this a naval officer won over a military officer and a lawyer.

Post Was Paper.
Another valuable possession of Mr. Lerner is a copy of The Saturday Evening Post for October 20, 1827, when that present-day magazine was a four-page newspaper "circulating through Pennsylvania and all the other states of the Union, rising 7,000 papers every publication." Atkinson & Alexander were publishers of the paper which sold for $2 in advance.

Poetry and stories occupy the front page of the early publication, the stories including a sketch from life in Vienna, a story of old Wyoming and others. News, advertisements and other stories fill the additional pages.

Travels Without Pomp.
The arrival and departure of the president of the United States was a circumstance worthy of special notice, not from the éclat that attended the fact but from the fact that the chief magistrate of a great nation passes from city to city, from state to state, and no cannon's sound, no ear piercing life, no spirit stirring drum, no procession, no pomp proclaims his whereabouts.

The early paper tells of news of the Rothschild brothers whose names have been connected with world finance for years. In 1827 one of the brothers settled in Vienna and a second in Frankfurt. Another item tells that a canal to connect the Danube and Rhine rivers was a possibility.
Fashions were given due attention in the early journal. Very stylish in London was a canary yellow walking dress with bias folds on the border of the skirt and an enameled bracelet of white and gold next to the hand. The pelerine (cape) is finished all around with Spanish points edged with braid. The pelerine is fastened at the throat with a bow. The hat is of white crepe and is ornamented with bows. Blue silk stockings and blue-kid slippers complete the costume.

Would Parcel Europe.
The National Gazette printed at Philadelphia Friday afternoon, January 17, 1823, states "The opposition journals of London remark, that to England the occupation of the Spanish peninsula by the French would be worse than the Family Compact of Louis 14th, and equal to the Continental System of Napoleon, with this nominal difference only, that Europe will be in three hands instead of one. The Holy Alliance would take the place of Bonaparte, and the entire continent would, in that case, be snugly parcelled out between Russia, Austria and France."

Mr. Lerner has about 40 early papers in his collection. Some of these have been given to him and others he has bought. "Stars and Stripes," published in Europe at the time of the World War in 1918, was brought to him by his brother who served overseas. The Federal Gazette of 1792, Niles' National Register of 1848, Gleason's Pictorial of 1864, Boston News Letters of 1704, The True American of 1820, The Penny Magazine of 1832 and New York Mirror of 1834 are among others in this interesting collection.

It happened one night—

Late at night, a fire in a private garage burned a section of telephone cable putting many telephone lines out of service. In a short time, a telephone repairman was busily at work splicing cable by lamplight so that service would be restored as soon as possible.

Nowadays, telephone service is more nearly trouble-free than ever before—and when trouble does happen, we often are able to make repairs before telephone users are aware of it.

6 CARS DIED IN OVERHEATED DEATH VALLEY TO PROVE THAT YOURS CAN LIVE LONG

New Oil a Life-Giver. 5-quart fill—None Added—Lasted all of 13,398 Miles....

more than Twice the mileage averaged by 5 other big-name oils in fiendish Destruction Test... Impartial... CERTIFIED THIRST killed gold-feverish Forty-Niners in Death Valley. You can stand there today on our Hemisphere's bottom, 279 feet below sea level. And some of the worst heat on U.S. Weather Bureau records will be trying you up.

... America's hot spot!... where 6 identical everyday cars scorched along, testing 6 different motor oils, till 6 new engines were junk. Every condition was the same for all. Qualified authorities eyed every move. Speed: 57 miles an hour for all. The Referee had bought 5 of the oils right off the market; millions know their names well. The other oil was decidedly new. And this new oil that authentically delivered more than twice the mileage averaged by the others is named

CONOCO Nth MOTOR OIL - Now on Sale here for Your Car

How could one fill of this popular-priced Conoco Nth oil keep lasting—without one added drop—for an official total of 13,398.8 miles? How could Conoco Nth oil outlast them all by 5,633 miles or more, even outlasting one "rival" by 8,268 miles?... Certified.

New Synthetic in Conoco Nth

You know of vitamin synthetics... man-made... replacing Nature's life-givers sacrificed in some modern food processing. Similarly, the latest refining methods steal life-giving elements from motor oils. But more than making up for that today—in popular priced Conoco Nth oil—is Thialkene inhibitor... man-made. (Conoco Patent 2,218,132.) It inhibits or checks the effect of foul leftovers created by the normal engine explosions. Thus Conoco Nth stays more like its own good self... helps the engine keep fit—good way to save quarts.

A triplet matching famed CONOCO OIL-PLATING.

Another wondrous synthetic—long in use under the famed Germ Processed oil patent—still makes Nth oil give your engine OIL-PLATING... lubricant that can't all quickly drain down from inner parts. Instead, it's able to stay plated up... on guard against wear in advance, while you are using Conoco Nth oil. In addition you get the life-giving aid that foiled Death Valley... that elapsed other oils tested... that made one 5-quart fill of new Conoco Nth last 13,398 miles. Certified.

That's like a mad extreme—beyond the utmost allowed by authorities on the IMPARTIAL The 6 new cars were engines had been taken apart for the Referee, to check uniformity. All cars tuned alike. Same desert route for all. Handling evened up by alternating drivers. One 5-quart fill per car and no more... engines under lock.

CERTIFIED: I hereby certify that the Death Valley Test and related work were thoroughly and fairly conducted. Engine Destruction occurred in each case at the mileage stated.

The seven Kaisers are now kings in Los Angeles. Superior court granted Richard Kaiser, a mining man, permission to change the family name because the lives of his five children "have been made miserable" by companions' jibes about their surname.

Said Teacher Ruth Clark to Cousin Carol Clark, "School is dismissed." And that ended the year for Cedar county's one-pupil, one-student and one-family school.

It wasn't in the menu but Walter Myers got a girl with his soup at Philadelphia. He was just about to taste the soup when 16-year-old Mildred Jaynes fell through a skylight she was washing and landed in his lap. Both went to the hospital with glass cuts.

A judge fined an Indiana man for illegal possession of 10 slot machines. When the machines were opened nickels poured out to an amount of five cents over the fine and costs. The judge took the jackpot.

An automobile accident was double poison to a Missouri man. His back was wrenched in the turn-over and rescuers, unfamiliar with Missouri vegetation, laid him gently on a patch of poison ivy.

Tony, a Chicago shoe shine man, is convinced that he has made some friends during his 53 years' residence in this country. When he celebrated his golden wedding, 400 visited the church where the couple were married and 800 were guests at a dinner in their honor. Tony landed in this country from Italy with less than a dollar and a piece ofologna. He reared a family of 10 on weekly earnings of about $20.

Nebraska had 10 persons who died the past year at ages of 100 or over. The eldest was Elizabeth Miller, 110, of Omaha.

A New York court judge swears that it's true. Anyway, court procedure was interrupted when the judge was distracted by a gnawing sound. It was a small gray mouse chewing on the sole of a newspaper reporter's shoe and the reporter was so busy he hadn't noticed. A recess was called while the mouse was captured.

The only electric traffic signal in an Illinois town was designed to direct travel only. But when it went out of order and tied up traffic, workers opened the box and found six postal cards and a letter deposited in the box. These were removed and put in a mail box and the traffic signal resumed operations.

Sometimes people are just too friendly. A filling station attendant, robbed of $54 and his trousers, waved at passersby to get help but each just waved back. After an hour of this a customer drove up and the station man had him summoned police.
