

On Farmer-Manager Day Hinderd by Busy Harvest Season — Events Generally Satisfactory — Suggestions for Community Singing — County Fair in Mid-August — Farmers Settle Strike — From the White House — Need of Exercise.

A busy season for farmers who were in the midst of the annual small grain harvest, prevented many from attending the farmer-manager day in Wayne last week. The crowd was swelled in the evening when community singing and out-door dancing were stellar attractions. Farmers who associated themselves with business firms for the day, seemed to relish the novelty, though generally expressed preference for accustomed grooves. The day's unusual relationship doubtless made closer understanding between farming and business.

Events of the day may have lacked somewhat Wayne's customary elaboration. The balloon ascension was perfect — an outstanding attraction in the old days and now to late generations who are more familiar with airplanes that dart across the sky. The pet parade drew an expected flood of attractions — always a joy to children and a source of popular interest.

The spirit was not helped by appearing in the farmer's work garb for a week or 10 days in advance. The overall typifies the farmer while he is at work, as it does the fellow who puts up a stovepipe, paints a house or takes down the screens. It does not mean a farmer is habitually dressed in overalls. Dressed as usual, befitting the work in hand, is the way to feel at ease without secret resentment. In our judgment the overall stunt was at least inadvisable as was the "kangaroo cut," which needed rehearsals to radiate clever humor. No one knew when to laugh. To be made tolerable this small-town variety of performance should be carefully worked out in advance.

The farmer-manager dinner was a happy get-together and the noon luncheon for everybody was a laudable expression of hospitality, and both seemed to be appreciated. The day was generally acclaimed worth while by farmers and townsmen who shared in the series of events.

Community singing proved so pleasingly inspirational in the evening of farmer-manager day that it has been suggested as an addition to the weekly band concerts in Bressler park. Then everybody who can sing, could take part in this weekly relaxation period.

Ted Foust reciprocated with his farmer-manager, John Goshorn, by accompanying him late in the afternoon to his farm to help him milk the cows. After the brief formality of being introduced to the bovine animals, Ted milked five of them, and he thus proved he knew how. He confesses, however, that this experience was a little severe on the muscles of his hands which had been out of the milking business for a long time. It is suggested that farmers who helped local dealers on farmer-manager day, would be justified in asking for a day's work from the town.

Next in order is the county fair which is to be held in August, this year — earlier than usual, and at a time when people are likely to be least busy. The program is of a caliber that easily ranks with state fair shows. Exhibits of superior quality are made possible by a favorable growing season. As usual, 4-H clubs and schools will be on hand to contribute liberally to the show.

Farmers to Rescue. It was at Hershey, Pa., a few years ago that the farmers settled a milk strike without any dilatory parleying. The Hershey factory furnished a good market for milk. A strike interrupted operation of the plant and stopped demand. The farmers gathered together their trusty pitchforks and cleared out the picketers and others in short order. The result was an early resumption of business.

Perhaps remembering the effectiveness of the Hershey way of disposing of labor disputes, a bunch of rugged Nebraska farmers took pitchforks in hand one day last week to rescue Lincoln bakery truck drivers who had been halted by strikers near Peru. Farmers are doubtless willing to permit disagreeing parties to discuss differences and allow the law to take its course if delay does not cause unnecessary hardship and loss and violate sense of justice.

Gratuitous Advice. Eleanor Roosevelt, the president's wife, takes time from her multitudinous duties to advise Americans on the size of families they should raise. She fixes the standard of size and then qualifies what she says by suggesting that ability for due support should not be overlooked. Into what field will the next prophet her assumption of superlative wisdom?

SIXTIETH YEAR

Apportion Funds Among Schools

Wayne County Districts Receive Share of Money For This Year

Wayne county this week received $4,441.12 as its share in the semi-annual apportionment of state school funds. The 84 districts share equally in $1,573.76 of the fund, this allowing $18.73 to each. The remainder, to which receipts from fines and licenses are added, is apportioned according to enrollment. In this division $2,867.36 is divided among the districts with an equal share for each of the 2,816 pupils.

State Supt. Charles W. Taylor, in word to Supt. F. B. Decker, reported the July apportionment about $50,000 short of last year's. The reduction, he explains, is due to lower interest rates and delinquency on investments made the last year.

Improvement of the public school lands and funds is one of the most important issues before the state now, the educator points out. Every dollar realized for school endowments takes the place of taxpayers' dollars and gives security to the program of education for the future. Losses of past have not been made good. Mr. Taylor points out, and revision of procedure is essential to efficiency in operation.

Shares as apportioned by Supt. Decker for Wayne county schools follow: District 1, $25.57; 2, $42.22; 3, $47.77; 4, $34.45; 5, $56.65; 6, $56.65; 7, $57.76; 8, $40; 9, $56.65; 10, $41.04; 10, $40; 11, $59.98; 12, $26.68; 13, $44.44; 14, $57.76; 15, $65.53; 16, $34.45; 17, Wayne, $829.11; 18, $47.77; 19, $43.33; 20, $43.33; 21, $47.77; 22, $34.45; 23, $42.22; 24, $47.77; 25, $33.34.

Gully Prevention Is Being Featured

Grass Drainageways Are Provided on Farms in Area This Year

Grass drainageways, a method of preventing gullies, are being featured by the soil conservation district. Farmers have adopted drainage seeding methods recommended by district technicians. A few of the methods being used by different farmers are outlined.

On the Erlich Albers farm, plans are now under way for fall seeding in 1942. Where drains have started cutting, they will be plowed or bladed in this fall. Since loose earth is not recognized as a good seed bed, Mr. Albers will plant rye this fall to hold the loose soil during the winter and spring and will plant perennial grass seed in the stubble early in the fall of 1942.

A combination of different practices will be used on the Bartels farm operated by Alvin Peterson. On the west half of the farm drains were seeded to oats this past spring. These oats are being left for go-down crops, and bromo and alfalfa seed will be sown this fall with the least possible disturbing of the go-down residue. On the east half of the farm some drains have cut more severely. These will be plowed and bladed in and a temporary binding crop planted to hold over winter. In the spring, oats or barley will be seeded for go-down and early 1942 fall seeding will follow. These will serve as diversion outlets.

Diversion outlets are also being seeded on the Mutual Benefit farm operated by Ed. Brummel in Hancock precinct. On this farm special outlets 20 feet wide will be bladed and prepared this fall, seeded to small spring heavy grass seedlings in the spring with a light binder crop in the residue of the fall binder crop.

Timothy and red clover in mixture were seeded the past spring on the Albert Watson farm to hold the drains. Mr. Watson is a strong advocate of red clover hay and has chosen his grass mixture to fit more definitely with his other farm practices.

NUMBER TWELVE

MUNICIPAL WATER SYSTEM FURNISHES HIGHEST QUALITY

IT SEEMS that Mayor M. L. Ringer, looking out for the welfare of the community, recently submitted to the state department of health for analysis a sample of the water supply in Wayne, and the result, reported herewith, is most gratifying. The practice of ascertaining by scientific methods the quality of water used for human consumption is a source of needed protection. Dr. A. L. Miller, head of the state health department, writes the mayor as follows under date of July 19: "It is a pleasure for the state health department to report to you and the citizens of your community that the samples of municipal water submitted to the state laboratory for analysis on July 8, 1941, were found to be satisfactory for human consumption. The laboratory will examine the specimens of water supply at your request. The engineers and the facilities of the department are at your disposal. It is our desire to be of service to the municipalities and exert every effort to improve the general health conditions in the state."

Wayne Is Winner In League Game

Wayne Junior League baseball players scored one of their best victories of the season when they defeated Macy 15-6 last Friday at Macy. Bob Meyers was catcher and Hans Utecht pitched. Utecht and Francis Nelson, 3rd baseman, batted home runs. Wayne plays the last game of the season with Emerson at a date to be set soon.

Emerson defeated Wayne in the conference game and will represent this district in the Junior League tournament at Neligh August 28. Winner of this round will go to the state meet. Wayne placed second in this district.

Start Campaign To Save Rubber

Proclamation Urges All to Cooperate in Plan of Conservation

In harmony with a campaign to conserve rubber, E. W. Huse on request Tuesday issued a proclamation urging publishers to cooperate in the movement. The proclamation follows: "As president of the Nebraska Press association, I wish to urge all newspapers of the state to cooperate in the movement to conserve rubber in behalf of national defense.

"Pressing rubber demands to meet a growing emergency call for immediate steps to avoid waste and to insure adequate supply for the country's armed forces, and Nebraska publishers may give valuable assistance by arousing motorists and others to consciousness of the imperative need.

"Like the drive for aluminum, thoughtful attention to proper tire inflation and alignment will, among other concerted efforts, contribute materially to the vitality of national defense.

Governor Dwight Griswold and others are giving their support to the rubber saving drive. It is estimated that Nebraskans waste $1,750,000 yearly because of improper care of tires.

Diet Improvement Is Drive Objective

Farm Security Families Are Asked to Help in Better Health

More than half of the young men called for military defense service cannot be accepted because of causes which can largely be traced to improper diet. This startling fact has aroused nationwide interest in improving conditions. As its part in the drive the FSA is promoting this slogan: "Add a good cow, and some hens and a sow, and build up the nation's health level right now."

Cal Ward, regional director for farm security in the states of Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota and North Dakota, has announced that all county rehabilitation supervisors of FSA are instructed to encourage every borrower and every tenant applicant to improve his production of dairy and poultry products and look well to his winter supply of meat, if such production and supplies are inadequate. This is being done through better breeding, better feeding and management.

"The call came to farmers in the first World war to produce more grain, more wheat," Ward said recently. "They said wheat would win that war. Maybe it did, but going too much to wheat at the expense of farms better suited to diversification got a lot of farmers into a lot of trouble, after it all carried over into the reconstruction period. Now the call is different. The big need is for dairy foods, poultry, eggs and meat. There's plenty of wheat and other grain already, and more in sight."

It is more than a question of supplying the army and general public with foods, Ward continued. Six years of farm security experience have proved the average hard-pressed farm family can repay debts and establish self-sufficiency better with diversified farming than with emphasis on cash crop production. The same experience has proved that diversified farming is best for the land, too, Ward said.

Bringing the problem and the program closer home, Ray L. Verzal, FSA supervisor for Wayne county, said borrowers here have increased the number of subsistence live stock about 50 per cent on their farms. He added that, in line with the department of agriculture's program, local borrowers are seeking to increase production of meat, poultry and dairy foods.

Undergoes Operation. Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Einung and sons went to Omaha Tuesday. Paul Einung underwent an operation on one of his arms Wednesday.

Breaks Arm. John Suber, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Suber, broke both bones in his right arm Sunday morning when he fell from a horse.

Determine Order in Draft Lottery

Second Registrants Will Be Called in Ratio of One to Eighteen

In the second draft lottery, held at Washington July 17 to determine the order in which the 21-year-old registrants will be called for training, Wayne A. McMaster of Wayne, was first Wayne county youth whose name was drawn. Raymond P. Wiedenfeld, Wayne, was second, and Milton B. Johnson, Winside, third. All the new registrants will be searched into the list of men who registered last fall at the ratio of one to 18, beginning with the lowest number of uncalled men which in this county is 156. Thus Wayne McMaster's call number becomes 174, Wiedenfeld's 192 and so on.

Rulings Entered in District Court

Judge A. E. Wenke Is Here To Decide on Cases on County Docket

District Court Judge A. E. Wenke here Friday overruled a motion in the car damage action filed by Marie C. Larsen against Alfred J. Bowers and Midwest Poultry Co. The request was that the petition be made more specific. In the suit filed by Emil E. Theurer against E. Otto Stratton, the court, sustained a motion of the defendant that the plaintiff be required to furnish security for costs. Plaintiff was allowed 30 days to do so. In the action Theurer seeks a settlement which he claims due him for a hotel deal.

Motion for a new trial was overruled in the suit filed by Henry Langenberg, et al., against Ernest A. Lungenberg, et al. In June the court had found that Ernest's father had given him a note and mortgage, thereby intending to release land from a lien. The court at that time released the land from the lien and plaintiff asked for a new trial.

The matter of Doris Fay Carlson, et al. vs. R. W. Bartels, administrator, was taken under advisement. The petition seeks to gain a share of the estate of the late Nels Carlson.

Temporary alimony of $6 a week was ordered by the court in the petition filed by Chas. Fridenbach against Rose Fridenbach to provide for defendant and minor child. Plaintiff was also ordered to pay $25 attorney fee and $15 expense.

In the estate settlement filed by Donald D. and Dona Gildersleeve vs. Harry Dale Gildersleeve, et al., the court appointed H. E. Siman referee to make the partition of property owned jointly. Hearing in the estate of Margaret Merrill will be held before the judge at Stanton August 23, nieces and nephews being named heirs of deceased.

Youth Is Burned In Gas Explosion

BUSINESS SECTION IS CROWDED BY HAPPY FARMERS SATURDAY

WE RECALL no time in recent years when the business district presented bigger or happier crowds than it did Saturday night. Car parkings extended well into residence sections, and the Main street scene was like old times in the spirit of comfortable assurance — freedom from worry over drought and grasshoppers and crop shortage. Saturday night's Main street forum was free from gloomy discussions imposed in years of the recent past by prolonged periods of dry weather. And a largely widening trade circle of persons coming here to take advantage of highly satisfactory shopping opportunities was evident in Saturday night's groups.

Marvin Peters in Serious Condition After Mishap In Winside Tuesday

Marvin Peters, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Peters of near Wayne, was severely burned about the chest, face and hands late Tuesday afternoon when gasoline exploded at Winside and the burning liquid was thrown over him. He is in serious condition in a local hospital. In the same accident Ulysses Schluter of Fremont, had his hands badly burned.

Marvin is employed with the Carl Lage and Will Pfeil construction company. He and his uncle, Henry Peters, had been with Mr. Lage southeast of Winside doing bridge repair work Tuesday. They brought a load of old lumber to the county yards two blocks west of the depot in Winside, and were unloading this about 5:45 before returning home.

Nearby was a truck in which Mr. Schluter had placed a new fuel pump. Schluter was having trouble starting his truck. He took about a pint of gasoline from the Lage-Pfeil truck in a coffee can. This he poured into the carburetor to prime the engine. The truck backfired and ignited the gasoline used for priming.

Burning gasoline was thrown onto Peters, who was close by, and instantly Mr. Peters' clothing was ablaze. The men took the young man's clothing from him as fast as possible and rushed him to a doctor for first aid. They then brought him to a Wayne hospital. Marvin's chest, face and hands are so badly burned that his condition is reported serious.

Schluter, who was holding the can of gasoline when it exploded, has severely burned hands. He received care at Winside and at the hospital here but was able to return home afterward.

several others are proceeding with plans for drainageway seedings. Methods to be used vary with the individual farm problems.

Two grasses are outstanding in their ability to endure drainage-way conditions. Bromegrass, favored by most Wayne county farmers, is hardy, stands severe silt and moisture conditions, and is very palatable to live stock. Western wheat is also hardy but less palatable. In pastures it seems advisable to mix the two grasses in the drains to lower the palatability so the cattle will not overgraze the drains. H. R. Richardson, one of the district technicians, has a bromegrass drain through a blue grass pasture and finds the bromegrass much more palatable than the cattle keep the blue grass close to seed and dries up. He has adopted the practice of spreading iodol manure on the overgrazed spots in the pasture. This prevents close grazing and at the same time benefits the grass stand.

Some drainageways, where cutting has removed all the surface soil, will require fertilizing with manure and straw mulch and the growing of sweet clover before grass can be established. Mulching with straw or manure also is excellent for stabilizing loose or freshly plowed soil.

Navy Is Interesting For Wayne Youths

John and Charles Thompson, sons of the Chelsea Thompsons, in the U. S. navy, arrived from San Diego July 15 to visit. Charles had to leave Friday after spending only two days at home, his division being smaller and requiring the men to return sooner. The two brothers have never been separated, even in the navy. They are stationed on the same ship, the U. S. S. Tennessee.

The boys entered the Great Lakes naval training station in November, 1939, and have completed nearly two years of service. Recently they were promoted to three-stripe men with a raise in salary to $45.

John and Charles enjoy the west coast much more than they did preliminary training on the lakes. They find cruising with the fleet out of Pearl harbor, Hawaii, very exciting since the beginning of the war. Once the Tennessee encountered a foreign-looking ship in those waters. The American crew was prepared for a demonstration of animosity when the unidentified boat raised a friendly Danish flag.

The boys have spent some time at the navy yard in Bremerton, Wash. John will leave the latter part of this week for San Diego to report for duty.

Ickes WHEN Secretary Ickes blew out another gasket recently in trying to discredit Col. Chas. Lindbergh, he drew a demand from the latter for an investigation by the administration. The Christian Science Monitor says that to many the Ickes campaign has looked more like calculated discrediting than spontaneous indignation, and the Lindbergh letter, addressed to the White House but given first to the press, appears to them better designed to draw sympathy from the public than an apology or investigation from the administration.

However sound or unsound may be Lindbergh's judgment, no one should presume to question his loyalty to America, or his right to express his opinions. Ickes is a fire alarm when there is no fire. When he opens his mouth he is careful to abuse some one or some institution. He would hinder the administration's plan for co-ordination if the masses did not put national security and welfare above the vindictive vapors of one naturally carping individual.

It is recalled that after America had entered the first World war, persons with an over-abundance of hatred to express came to the surface with charges that were false. These were used to satisfy personal dislikes. The FBI should be on the trail of trouble-makers in the role of self-appointed super-patriots as it is in detecting and capturing real enemies of the country.

Adopts Corn Loan Plan

WE HAVE a copy of a letter written by Senator Hugh Butler to Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard, commending the latter's action in locking stored corn to farmers short of feed in New York state, calling attention to the similarity of the plan with the one urged by the senator but denied by the administration last fall to relieve the drought-stricken areas of Nebraska. It is the Butler plan which the agricultural department now proposes to use in aiding farmers in unfortunate sections. Failure to adopt it here a year ago forced, as the senator points out, many farmers to abandon their farms and join the unemployed in towns and cities. It is now believed Nebraska agriculture is coming back with old-time abundance, and it will please citizens of this state to know that crop shortages elsewhere will be met by sufficient loans.

It is probable the training of youths in military camps is good for them if developments enable them to escape the brutalities and perils of actual war. Regular habits of rest, diet and recreation get away from careless disregard of health rules and should strengthen the individual for his later life work. Getting into conflict with chance of being maimed or overwhelmed by hardship is something entirely different—an experience that may be avoided if nations that feel like attacking us can be persuaded by dangers involved to desist.

The state's public safety department is doing its utmost to reduce fatal automobile accidents, and it has succeeded to a commendable degree. The first six months of the year decreased highway tragedies, and motorists are asked to cooperate in the worthy movement for greater safety. The public must help to secure desired results.

Small grain harvest is at its height this week and results generally meet previous estimates. The yield is reported larger as one goes north. However, returns are satisfactory hereabouts, and now if the corn crop continues to move on to expected success the year's work will be properly rewarded.

Steps for greater control over business, including broadcasting and newspapers, seem so far to have been headed off by alert members of congress. Senators and congressmen awake to preserving the individual's liberties will earn due approval.

Contributing discarded aluminum utensils will not only help defense plans, but will get rid of a lot of junk that is in the way. Also the movement to avoid rubber waste will be an important aid in a vital defense spot.

Life is a series of hazards from start to finish. More inventions to facilitate production and ease existence, the more chance to be hurt or killed.

The president wants power to declare daylight saving time. That would bring this editor and the world nearer together in the matter of hours.

The vacation period is on in full blast, and people hurry to the mountains or lakesides for relief and then hurry back for the same thing.

A writer suggests that what this country needs more than a gasless Sunday is a gasless secretary of the interior.

Success is largely determined by the degree of rowing one can stand and the lure of drifting he can resist.

The 1940 Census.

(Omaha Journal-Stockman)
Evidently the 1940 census did not settle the question of how many unemployed people we have in the United States. "Authoritative" statements now give the number at anywhere from four to nine million. As a matter of fact, there is no definite number of unemployed people at any time for the simple reason that the term "unemployed" is not definite. We have a million men and women on the federal payroll at present and there's a big difference between being unemployed and being on the payroll just as there's a lot of difference between working and simply having a job. The puzzle is referred to Secretary of Labor Perkins and she prefers not to attempt an answer.

Attitude That Hinders.

(Lincoln Journal)
Wendell Willkie has expressed the hope that the administration will discontinue its constant, bitter attacks on individuals, companies and others who may disagree with it. He was commenting on the Lindbergh letter to the president, in which reference was made to charges recently voiced by Secy. Ickes. Mr. Willkie takes a position that will find general accord. He says that nothing contributes more to disunity than such attacks. He charges that many sincere people believe that the defense program is being used for accomplishing political advantage and for the promotion of novel and untried social experiments. He believes that democracy should function under orderly and thoughtful discussion and not by name calling. The worst offender has been Secy. Ickes.

Food Stamp Program.

(Lincoln Journal)
The state food stamp mail order program which is expected to be in full operation by August 1 will handle $750,000 worth of orders for stamps each month from about 40,000 individuals, officials predict. After the plan is in operation in nearly all counties the distribution depots of the surplus marketing administration will be closed and surplus commodities will be available to relief clients only through the use of orange and blue stamps. The federal government has granted franking privileges to the state which it is estimated will result in a saving of $40,000 annually. Individuals, however, will not have this privilege and will have to buy postage stamps besides purchasing money orders, banks drafts or certified checks. The assistance department has made no decision but is considering making a rule whereby mail orders for stamps containing cash will not be accepted. It is believed that the errors and loss that would result entail too many controversies.

Slight Case of Confusion.

(Industrial Press Service)
It is no novelty, to be sure, to find various departments of government working at cross purposes. But political thinking on the subject of the automobile industry's place in defense offers a particularly interesting current example in this line.

It was only about a year ago that the federal tax on gasoline was raised 50 per cent to meet defense needs. Now a further jump of 65 per cent is being debated.

Meanwhile, an administration spokesman is talking in terms of "gasless Sundays" and other measures to cut down the use of automobiles. Proposals are also advanced to cut down the production of cars even more drastically than originally planned, and to place a tax on the sale of each new and second-hand car—the latter a "deterrent" tax, aimed more at cutting down purchases than at raising revenues. It may be naive in this period of "Alice in Wonderland" economics to invoke simple rules of mathematics and logic. But it is hard to see how the government proposes to raise higher revenues by raising tax rates and then greatly curtailing the operations that are being taxed. In other words, you can't take the cake and then expect to have it given to you, top!

Just Over the Horizon.

(Omaha World-Herald)
Everybody agrees on the truism that after this war things will never be the same. It's going to be a new world, etc., etc.

Well, thank heaven, life never has stood still. And if you find pleasure in being mesmerized by the thought of change, reflect upon the kind of world that will emerge within a very short time from the laboratories of science. It is in these laboratories that the real revolution is being prepared.

There's the electron microscope, now in production by RCA. This new gadget has battered down the limitations of light by using electrons instead of light rays to extend man's vision. Where an optical microscope magnifies to two thousand diameters, the electron microscope does it to 100 thousand, with the result that man now sees a whole sub-microscopic world of infinitesimal things he never hoped to see. The first picture of a molecule has been taken, hitherto invisible bacteria and viruses and antibodies have been observed, and there is no guessing what tremendous consequences may stem from this giant's stride in extending human vision.

And the electron microscope is only one of many truly earth-shaking developments about to affect all our lives. There's atom-busting, hailed as the greatest single advance since the discovery of fire, which some scientists envision as a source of energy ultimately displacing coal, oil and water power. There's radiolocation, now a war weapon whose peace-time potentialities stretch beyond the horizon. There are all the new plastics bound to spring from exclusive devotion of traditional materials to war purposes. Countless scientific techniques now being worked out for tasks of destruction some day will be turned to better use.

One cannot even guess at the kind of world we shall live in tomorrow. Pray God that man proves intelligent enough to make it a decent one!

TOLERANCE.

The overthrow and subjugation of the churches in dictator-dominated countries should prompt greater religious tolerance in the United States whose constitution guarantees freedom of worship. Why should one care what people believe or what denominations they adopt? There is one ultimate goal of transcending importance, and differing forms and ceremonies can conceivably have no bearing beyond cultivating spiritual values. As an accepted belief makes one a better person, stressing impossible life above the dross of materiality, so it performs a highly useful service. The church is a power for right thinking and right living, but least essential, as we believe, are man-made tenets that separate individuals into disagreeing groups. Any feeling of confidence in the future, regardless of denominational affiliation, is better than none. Religious intolerance has no place in free America.

DEEP HOPE.

An editorial in Sunday's Sioux City Journal encourages the hope for an early end of the war. The newspaper's editor quotes Field Marshal Baron of the British war council as saying: "The war will finish as a good deal more quickly than any of us imagine." The Journal expresses a suspicion entertained for some time that the invasion of Russia would suddenly end the Nazi attempt to dominate Europe. An early conclusion of the conflict would be a source of profound relief to all Americans. Then this country would be in better shape to help war-scarred peoples in the huge task of rehabilitation. Speaking of restored peace the Journal editor comments: "If such could be realized reasonably soon, say by the end of the year, all humanity would celebrate the happy development. For then there would be released energies for peace pursuits and there would be a resurgence of the human spirit for the better things of life. The world could go forward again and with more confidence."

There is a serious movement among members to do something about decentralizing non-defense government agencies. But the house the other day defeated a resolution which would set up a committee to do something about it. Defeat of this measure was largely due to the feeling of a standing committee that it could do the work without the intervention of any special investigating committee. Members of the public buildings and grounds committee say they are studying the matter. To date, about 1,100 HOLC employees are being transferred to New York. About 200 employees in the grazing section of the interior department are being shifted to Utah. Washington board of trade officials are in an uproar.

CONGRESS AS SEEN BY KARL STEFAN

Washington, D. C., July 16, 1941.
Latest information is that the new tax bill may come to the house for action around July 28. Members are told it may come in under an iron-clad rule and amendments may not be possible. When that is out of the way, members are told they may go home for a few weeks unless something unforeseen happens.

A constituent writes that he is opposed to any provision in the new tax bill making mandatory joint income tax return by husband and wife. He says that would put a penalty on marriage and promote divorce. He feels exemptions, personal and for dependents, should be the same for single and married persons. This will be an item of much debate when the tax bill reaches the house.

Two bills to amend the marketing quota on wheat have come to the house. One is to allow farmers to feed their surplus wheat. The other is to help farmers who through no fault of their own lost much of their wheat crop. The committee did not introduce a bill to fix the quota on the basis of harvested acres instead of planted acres. The department no longer requires the farmer to put up a bond for his stored wheat on the farm.

Many letters are received about prospects for jobs in Central and South America. There is and will be much activity in those countries. The best advice now is for those interested in those countries to learn Spanish. Several state department employees who want to go to Central and South America, have been told they could go if they knew Spanish.

Inquiries about the health of the president continue. When he came back from Hyde Park the other day, he looked in good health but those who are close to him say there is a more wearied look on his face than there was a year ago.

George Norris, senior senator from Nebraska, was in good health on his 80th birthday. At a dinner given by Senator Butler the other night, Senator Norris told the Nebraska delegation that he was feeling well but would like to be back home in Nebraska. All other members of the Nebraska delegation are enjoying good health.

With war closer to the United States, rich people here in the east, are looking for some place to invest their money so they will have something when it is all over. One report is that a few of these rich folk are buying metals, preferably platinum bars. Something tangible, they say. That is one reason for the sudden movement here and elsewhere to buy farm land.

Governor Griswold of Nebraska had two full days in Washington. He was the honor guest at a dinner given by Senator Butler. The governor told the Nebraska delegation that he expected to appoint a judge to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Dickson of O'Neill, upon his return to the state. The governor discussed many problems with the Nebraska members especially the campaign to bring some defense activities to our state.

Several of the largest and finest mansions in the city have likewise been leased for federal offices. Some of the mansions cost a million dollars or more. The government bill for rentals already runs into millions monthly. Another big taker of space is the British embassy, which also has taken over several of the most expensively built apartment houses, and which also has leased whole floors in some of the largest hotels. The embassy now employs several thousand people, including those participating in the lend-lease program, and its requirements.

Miss Marjory Grier Is Bride Of Arnold Reeg Here Sunday Afternoon.

Miss Marjory Grier, daughter of James B. Grier, became the bride of Arnold Reeg, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Reeg, at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon at a typical formal wedding which was solemnized at St. Paul Lutheran church in Wayne. Rev. A. Hofferer, pastor of the Theophilus church, officiated in the presence of relatives and friends. Immediately after a reception in the church parlors Mr. and Mrs. Reeg left for a short trip after which they will make their home in the Seymour apartments. Mr. Reeg is employed in the Wayne Creamery.

A white trellis banked on either side with palms and ferns, baskets of garden flowers and white tapers made an impressive garden scene for the bridal service. Before the ceremony Mrs. Wm. H. Wagner, sister of the bride, played soft organ music and accompanied Miss Erna Meyer and Miss Delores Test, cousins of the bridegroom, who sang "The Bells of St. Mary's" and "I Love You Truly".

At 3 P.M. Grier, attired in white organza formal gown and with a rosebud in her hair, lighted the tapers. Before the bridal party proceeded down the aisle a white runner was unrolled by the ushers, Donald Grier and Alvin Meyer, cousins of the couple. Lohgrin's wedding march was used for the professional.

Miss Grier was given in marriage by her father, James B. Grier. Mrs. Emil Hogelen attended her sister as matron of honor. Miss Lucille Reeg, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor, and Miss Hazel Lessman and Miss Leona Granquist were bridesmaids. Barbara Grier and Billy Jim Wagner, niece and nephew of the bride, served as flower girl and ring bearer respectively. Alvin Reeg attended his cousin as best man.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of white silk marquisette fashioned with puffed sleeves, sweetheart neckline and draped bodice with a Scarlet O'Hara waistline. Her only ornaments were arbracelet and string of pearls, gifts of the bridegroom. She wore a trailing veil banded with Chantilly lace, held by a seed pearl tiara. She carried an arm bouquet of pink roses and blue delphinium.

Mrs. Hogelen was attired in pink marquisette and Miss Reeg in blue. Each wore white picture hat and carried a colonial bouquet of pink and blue. Miss Lessman and Miss Granquist wore identical dresses of white swiss dotted with blue and trimmed with velvet. They wore corsages of sweetpeas and had velvet bows in their hair.

Barbara Grier, flower girl, wore a dotted swiss dress similar to the bridesmaids and a pink bonnet. Billy Jim Wagner, ring bearer, wore white trousers and a dark coat. He carried the ring on a white satin pillow.

Mr. Reeg and his attendant, Alvin Reeg, wore dark suits and white rose boutonnières, as did the ushers, Donald Grier and Alvin Meyer.

Mrs. Wagner wore pink silk organza and white picture hat. Miss Meyer and Miss Test were attired in blue dresses with pink roses in their hair.

After the recessional of Mendelssohn's wedding march, a reception was held in the church parlors for the wedding party and immediate relatives. Miss Bonnell Grier, Miss Bonnie and Miss Betty Wagner presided at the table which was centered with a three-tier wedding cake and white tapers.

For going away Mrs. Reeg chose a brown panamora ensemble. Her accessories were of white.

Mr. and Mrs. Iyle Gamble and family, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Johnson and family and Mrs. Emma Gamble went to Blair Sunday and met Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Scott and Carroll of Kirkman, Ia., for a picnic. Mrs. Emma Gamble accompanied the Scotts to Kirkman for a couple of weeks.

Jackson received his famous name, "Stonewall," from the above epithet given by Bee, himself a worthy American military leader, during the battle of Bull Run in 1861. Bee's brigade was breaking under pressure of Federal troops and he pointed to Jackson, "standing like a stone wall" with his regiment.

Christian Science Services

"Truth" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world on Sunday, July 27.

The Golden Text is: "O praise the Lord, all ye nations: "For his merciful kindness is great toward us; and the truth of the Lord endureth for ever" (Psalms 117:1,2).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "For the word of the Lord is right; and all his works are done in truth. He loveth righteousness and judgment; the earth is full of the goodness of the Lord" (Psalms 33:4,5).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Truth cannot be contaminated by error. The statement that 'Truth is real necessarily includes the correlated statement that error, Truth is immortal; error is mortal. Truth is limitless; error is limited. Truth is intelligent; error is non-intelligent. Moreover, Truth is real, and error is unreal. This last statement contains the point you will most reluctantly admit, although first and last it is the most important to understand" (pp. 287, 466).

SIXTIETH YEAR

Radio Training Most Appealing To Wayne Youth

Army radio instruction is most intensive and also extremely interesting, according to Arvid Hamer, son of the Dave Hamers, who is now at Scott Field, Belleville, Ill., after spending a short time at Jefferson barracks in Missouri. Scott Field has 2,300 acres and was expanded extensively the past couple of years.

Scott Field, mainly for radio operators and scientists, is training 8,500, and 400 of this number are in the new class entering two weeks ago when Arvid was sent there.

In I. Q. and mathematics tests taken preliminary to being sent to Scott Field, Arvid placed second and third in various phases. Only those rating highest are offered an opportunity to transfer to the weather bureau service. This privilege was extended to Arvid but he declined because he likes the radio work.

Students have classes from 6:30 a. m. to 6:30 p. m. Arvid studies direct current each morning, code and mathematics in the afternoon. He had three promotions in one week in code. Tests are given each day and examinations each week. A unit is completed every two weeks, and the entire course is finished in 22 weeks. The last two weeks' training is given in planes. School continues five days a week, and young men have from Saturday noon until Monday morning at 5 for themselves. One who misses five days of work is automatically out, and must leave or start over.

Arvid has been interested in radio work for several years. He secured his amateur license last September.

Tenant Farmer Topic Discussed

Rural Rehabilitation Issue Is Considered by District Group in Wayne.

FSA district 7, northeast Nebraska advisory council members from 13 counties, gathered in Wayne Thursday to discuss problems facing rural communities and to learn the nature of difficulties from their state rural rehabilitation director, L. R. Leonard of Lincoln, and district home management supervisor, Mrs. Elizabeth Giant of Wayne. H. D. Addison, acting for Mayor L. Ringer, extended a welcome to the group. Phillip Sutton, FSA district supervisor, presided and introduced Mr. Leonard who spoke on "The Disadvantage Families in American Agriculture."

The disadvantage families are the increasing number of tenant farmers in America "who have no stake in our democracy," who pay no property taxes, have little voice in legislation, whose incomes range from $400 to $600 and whose plight at coping with the modern cash agriculture system, the depletion of natural soil and water resources, debts brought on by excessive farm mechanization, etc., is a matter of grave concern to the nation. For, as Mr. Leonard pointed out, "unless these people are given a chance to rehabilitate themselves, both economically and socially, they are going to be in a frame of mind susceptible to vague promises, especially if the present war inflation period is again followed by a deflation similar to the one of 1921-1922."

In reviewing past farm conditions Mr. Leonard recalled the golden age of American agriculture, when pioneers brought the "self-sufficiency" agricultural system west with them and made it work, when crops flourished, in spite of erratic rainfall and a saturation point in absorption of free lands and agricultural products was a wild assumption. All this, coupled with inflation conditions of 1914-1919, threw agriculture into high gear and caused farmers to develop a complete cash basis for agriculture. Then came over-capitalization and cultivation of marginal lands, followed unfortunately by droughts. Before long farmers were finding that the new farming, aggravated more by destruction of natural resources, required more cash from them than they could ever produce.

Mr. Leonard said the tenant system is not fundamentally bad but that its consistent growth has indicated a migratory nature, a social unrest in the people. The number of permanent farm families or units has dropped sadly as the percentage of tenancy rose 5 per cent in the years of 1934-40. Low incomes, debt burdens, poor living conditions have sent farmers to urban areas and in many cases increased relief rolls. Small town business has suffered as a result. In Mr. Leonard's opinion tenant farm families will prove less of a burden to the state and federal government if they are given a chance to think and act for themselves through loan assistance which would enable them to buy their farms. He repeated many times the advisability of a modern self-sufficiency program. He told FSA councilmen they had been selected to help the low-income farm families with their problems; that it was their duty to see that the group got a "stake in our democracy" and that their efforts might prove a vital contribution to defense measures at home.

Urges Self-Outline.
Mrs. Grant outlined the problems of this particular district for the councilmen. Home management workers' observations had convinced her also that interest in a self-sufficiency program would help solve farm financial problems. "Many farmers seem almost to have forgotten," she said, "that they are on the production end of the cycle." If they could be encouraged to produce more of their foodstuffs, clothing, etc., the difficult cash basis they have been trying to operate on could be relieved somewhat. "However," she explained, "satisfactory home production has been impossible with many of the low income families because they lacked the necessary facilities for baking and sewing. Even home butchering has been discouraged because of poor livestock raised in dilapidated farm buildings. Farmers have been going in debt trying to run on a cash basis, and in so doing have neglected living conditions."

Figures from a report of the 13 counties, read by Mrs. Grant, show there are 1,890 more tenant farmers than there were in 1930. Thurston has the greatest percentage of tenant farmers, and Colfax the least. Wayne, with 59 per cent, is third high in the percentage of tenancy. Mrs. Grant explained that when 47 per cent of those tenants have only a one-year lease, one cannot expect these people to be very much interested in conservation policies and various other schemes for farm improvements. She closed her talk

Survey Reveals Amount of Weeds

Cooperation Will Get Rid Of Pests and Produce Clean County.

Weed infestation in Wayne county is not as heavy as in many other locations, according to a survey just completed by young men from the agricultural college and reported to the weed district board here Thursday evening. Bindweed is the most prevalent pest, and the survey shows not more than 20 farms affected on as much as 80 acres. Leafy spurge, perennial pepper grass, Russian knap weed and Canada thistle are other weeds found to some extent. The young men reported exceptionally fine cooperation.

The survey was made by Warren Sals, Stanley Fisher, James Buss, Ed. Sevecek and Geo. McVickers.

Weed board supervisors feel that a united drive against weeds will make Wayne county one of the cleanest in the state. The weed district organization has asked that a minimum of three acres of bindweed be eradicated this season. A farmer having less than this amount would get rid of all his bindweed. One having more than the amount would destroy three acres of the pests and also 15 per cent of the balance.

An effort is being made to get a carload of chlorate for Cuming and Wayne counties for the eradication work. This material is scarce as foreign imports have been cut off and local manufacturing plants are overtaxed with production orders. Efforts are being made to organize for weed eradication in Dixon and Dakota counties, also in the southern part of Cedar county. Pierce and Madison counties have shown some interest in eradication.

Land Brings Good Prices in Sales

To settle an estate four quarter sections of land in Cuming county were sold July 15 by J. O. Wentworth at prices that would have seemed extremely high a few months ago. One quarter five miles north of West Point, the NW 1/4 2-22-6, sold to an outside bidder for $115 an acre. The NW 1/4 of 4-22-7, nine miles northeast of West Point, brought $102.50 an acre, and 320 acres near this, with one set of improvements, brought $93.50. The last two tracts went to Casper Rief, one of the heirs.

In addition to these sales, Mr. Wentworth reports a quarter five miles east of West Point, on the Oakland and West Point highway, recently sold for $100 an acre; another quarter three and a half miles northeast of Oakland, in Burt county, was bought for $115 an acre. An unimproved quarter in Burt county, eight miles southeast of Craig, sold for $80 an acre, all cash.

Pick Your Emergency. (Lincoln Journal.) Uncle Sam is no slouch when it comes to an emergency. There are states of emergency to fit every pocket-book and suit every taste. When they get in a pickle, Americans, it seems, have a range of emergencies of every shape and size and hue from which to choose.

There is, for instance, the "general emergency." This is a handy article with a variety of uses around the office and home. Any child can have one. Any one in the administration can call one. This is the emergency we have been in, off and on, for eight years.

There is the "presidential limited national emergency." It isn't half bad. In fact it's hardly noticeable. It causes a minimum of discomfort—but it doesn't wear well. Only the president can call it. This is the emergency we have been in since the outbreak of the war in Europe.

There is, then, the "presidential unlimited national emergency." This is a coarser, tougher appearing article, but don't let appearances deceive you. Wear it a while and you don't even know you have it on. It leaves its user an amazing freedom. This, too, comes from the White House. It is the emergency we have been in since the president's last fireside chat.

Finally there is the "congressional national emergency." This is a high quality emergency. It is a little difficult to get these days. It is a different make from the other emergencies, and more expensive. It comes only from congress. For selectees, it means more than a year in the army. The same results can be obtained by an amendment to the conscription law, providing for more than a year's training. We haven't tried out this emergency yet, so we can't vouch for it as being safe.

Of course, there are all the little emergencies that usually come in small packages, tacked on the end of some law or other, making it effective sooner than it otherwise would be. But any state legislature can make these, and they hardly measure up to the nationally advertised brands.

YOUR coal bin is important to our national defense!

RECIPES FOR A COAL APPETITE

HARCO S-P SUPERIOR PROGRESSIVE

Experienced home owners have shown a keen appetite for this heat-husky coal. It's refined, washed, dustproofed and sized for easy, clean firing. Buy Harco S-P for a value you'll want again!

THE Department of the Interior's Consumer Council Division advises: "Household purchasers, buying fuel now, relieve pressure on mines and railroads and materially assist in the national defense effort."

In fact, experts are agreed that unless home coal bins are filled promptly, it will not be possible to supply the full demand of homes and industry this fall and winter.

Your immediate buying is therefore plain common sense—not only to get the saving that today's prices mean but to make sure you'll have the better grade and quality you want.

As so many have already done, YOU order without delay!

Girl Home Safe After Adventure

Emerson Miss Starts Out Sunday for Texas to "Make Her Stake"

Western adventure stories led 12-year-old Marian Schincke of Emerson, to start out Sunday morning for Texas where she had visions of working to earn money with which to buy a ranch. The little lass had bright hopes of making her dreams come true. But by daylight she was tired and a little fearful so she was happy to return to her own home.

Marian rode her horse to the pasture at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schincke, eight miles southeast of Emerson, Sunday morning, around 10:30 on an errand. While there she decided to make some of the storybook expeditions real in her life. So she headed west, thinking she would arrive in Texas and "make her stake."

Marian traveled through Wakefield and Wayne and headed west on highway 98 between 8 and 9, when night was falling, she was three miles south and two west of Carroll on the highway. She turned off the main road and drove a half mile south, stopping in at the DeWey-Jones home to ask about work. The Joneses thought something was wrong and started to question the child. Marian must have suspected her enterprise was about to end, for she drove away.

The Jones family notified Marshall A. Miller and Telephone Manager Lon Brink at Carroll. They drove to highway 98 and found the young miss, she and the horse very tired. Marian was brought to the Brink home and the horse was left at the L. E. Jenkins farm.

As soon as the local men learned of the incident, they notified Sheriff J. H. Pile. This was about 9 o'clock when the sheriff was at that time hearing the story of the girl's disappearance from the child's father.

Early in the afternoon, when Marian had not returned home, her parents started search. Mr. Schincke traced her to Wakefield and there spread a general alarm. He then continued his search and found she had been in Wayne. After the Carroll and Wayne authorities had conferred, Mr. Pile and Mr. and Mrs. Schincke drove to Carroll and got Marian who had been cared for at the Brink home. The horse was trucked back home Monday morning.

Marian evidently had not thought of the need for food, clothing or money for she did not possess herself with these. She was really happy to be back at home after her day's adventure. Marian went to the 6th grade in school, the tall she and a brother are the only children in the family.

Ruling Announced On Wheat Quotas

"If farmers are to continue to receive benefit of loans at 85 percent of parity, they must restrict marketings of wheat. Otherwise the government's investment in commodity loans would be unprotected. Without penalties that restrict excessive marketings, the loan program would have to be abandoned. Without loan support, the markets would undoubtedly collapse and the great majority of farmers who are cooperators would be penalized."

The above telegram sent by Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard to Congressman Frederick C. Smith of Ohio, answers the latter's question regarding wheat quotas.

Wheat producers who are receiving parity or near-parity prices and non-cooperators who are benefiting through the price support will be interested in the information, according to AAA Chairman T. P. Roberts.

Defense Program Has Rapid Growth

Vast expansion of the national defense program and a practice blackout have intensified the war feeling in the northwest, according to Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Tietgen who arrived home Saturday after a two-week trip to Wyoming, Idaho, Washington and Oregon.

Seattle, great defense manufacturing center, has increased in population 40,000 since the first of the year, and the city expects an additional 70,000 before close of the year. Vast new areas of ground on the city limits are cleared and rows of houses spring up fast.

Planes and radios were put into service in a recent blackout in Seattle and the city was in entire blackness except for a couple dim lights. This experience has made residents more conscious of the possibility of war.

M. E. Grant, formerly of Wayne, likes his work in the Boeing plane factory in Seattle.

The Tietgens saw huge numbers of soldiers training at Fort Lewis, near Tacoma. Because of traffic difficulties, special roads have been built over highways to facilitate movement of troops.

The Wayne folks saw ships raised and lowered between Lake Washington and Puget sound. The lake is about 20 feet higher than the sound. Locks holding water enable ships to be raised or lowered like the process used at the Panama canal.

The Tietgens saw the Floyd Kingstons at Salem and the Al. Books of Black Rock, Mrs. Books was to leave a hospital last week Wednesday after an operation and will stay in Portland a month to recuperate.

Mr. Book is timberkeeper in a lumber camp at the top of a mountain. The Tietgens rode the rail car 22 miles up the mountain trestles to the camp. About 150 men, many of them college graduates, were cutting timber there and sending logs down the rails to Dallas, Ore., mills.

Enroute home the Tietgens saw the E. O. Strattons at Missoula, Mont., and report their new hotel a marvelous structure. The Tietgens saw Mrs. Tietgen's sister, Mrs. Dick Seims, at Clark's Fork, Idaho.

Weather was warmer than usual in the northwest. The states are much greener than customary, especially Wyoming. The Wayne folks drove 840 miles Friday and spent the night in the Al. Kirsch home at Battle Creek.

Nimble Thimble Fingers. Nimble Thimble Fingers 4-H club met July 10 in the Walter Rethwisch home with Dorothy Ann Rethwisch and Eleanor Ann Hanson hostesses. Mrs. Hansen, Evelyn Hansen and Mrs. Lynn Isom were guests. Eleanor Smith demonstrated the clothing budget, and Eleanor Hansen and Dorothy Ann Rethwisch demonstrated correct use of the flag. The meeting July 25 will be with Kathleen Loberg and Dottie Reed.

"BRING 'EM BACK DEAD!" The Referee Commanded

man-made extra substance—Thialkene inhibitor. (Conoco Patent 2,218,132.) To understand, merely think a moment of Vaccination—the right protective substance put on guard to keep a trouble from starting. Now the trouble, aiming to start on motor oils lurks in the normal firing of every engine. Filth is formed that can spoil one drop—then two drops "catch it"—then four—then sixteen—faster, faster, FASTER, till the whole fill weakens and the oil level sinks too fast... but when the start of this oil-fouling trouble is inhibited—held back—by life-giving Thialkene inhibitor in new Conoco Nth motor oil, on sale today for your car.

You'll never Death-Test your Conoco Nth oil nor repeat other proving-ground tortures. You'll still drain and refill at recommended intervals. But how you'll expect to stretch the distance before you ever add a quart, judging by this big fact: 5 heavily advertised oils in the Certified Death Valley Test were outlived 74% to 161% by Conoco Nth oil.
