

Of Publishing Wayne Council Proceedings Explained

Wayne Growing Despite Attempts to Obstruct Improvements—Railroads Have Plenty of Problems—An Optimistic Book.

The information that the Herald omitted publication of proceedings of the city council in February, 1940, and July, 1941, in order to conceal fees paid H. E. Siman, attorney in the Don Wightman lot case, could easily have been avoided by consulting the record.

The Siman-fee of $258.50, allowed by the council January 30, 1940, will be found on page three—bottom of page, on line six, and unenlightened readers from the beginning of the form, measured from left to right, with paper right side up—of the Wayne News February 5, 1940.

Touching the Wightman deal with the city, it was financially beneficial to taxpayers by converting dead property into a revenue producer. Wightman paid more than the site was worth because he wanted it. No one else would have paid so much.

An attempt to obstruct necessary enlargement of the public school building a few years ago, ostensibly to help the taxpayers, actually cost the taxpayers several thousand dollars extra on account of increased building costs.

Instead of presenting taxpayers with a saving by defeat of improvements, the treasury have usually suspended tax increases. Fewer suspensions, less envy, more hard work and due appraisal of what improvements will do for the community would more easily thwart a throwback from the status of a struggling village.

Headaches for Railroads. Steps are being taken by the Burlington and Union Pacific to discontinue some of their branch rail lines in Nebraska. The movement by railroads to abandon branch service is reported nationally.

In the midst of the feverish rush to build defense bulwarks, railroad employees demand wage increases that would, according to reports, absorb net revenues. If that is true, and if demands are granted, the railroads will have to raise rates against popular feeling, or be content to work for nothing.

Book of Rhymes. We have reviewed a book of rhymes by Patience Strong, made available to us by Miss Hazel Reeve, teacher in the city school. A note of courage and hope is

Heavy Rains Hit Twice Over Area

Ground Greatly Benefited in Spite of Damage Done By Flood Waters.

Wayne county and adjoining areas shared in flash floods striking parts of this state and Iowa over the week-end. Heavy, dashing rains Saturday night and again Monday afternoon swelled creeks to overflowing, blocked highways for several hours and washed out sections of railroad tracks.

In Wayne the Saturday rain registered 2.8 inches and the Monday rain .78 of an inch, according to the gauge at the State National bank. These, together with three previous September rains totaling .98, brought the moisture for the month to 3.56 inches which contrasts sharply with last year's .37 total for the month and 1939's .49 for the period.

The federal gauge at Albert Watson's, four miles north of Wayne, showed 3.53 inches between 8:30 and 9:45 Saturday evening. The rain Monday between 3 and 5 was recorded as 1.07.

Rains at Other Points. Winside reports 2.3 inches of rain for Saturday and 1.17 for Monday. Just north of that place 3 inches fell Monday.

The moisture was heavy at Carroll also but varied somewhat. The Saturday rain registered 3.75 in Carroll and nearly that much Monday. T. P. Roberts reports 7 inches in the two rains at his place southwest of Carroll, the falls being about equal. Just west of his farm the Monday rain measured only 1.5.

Wakefield gauge showed 2.8 Saturday and 1.47 Monday. Emerson had 3.75 and 1.12. Laurel had .47.

ONE of the healthful and hopeful conditions in this country is Saturday night's Main street forum where everything is freely discussed. Saturday night is a bright spot in the lives of men and women and children who come together from the town and countryside not only to buy supplies, but to visit, exchange experiences and to express pleasure or wrath over the way affairs are handled from president down to road overseer.

Case Is Reheard By High Tribunal

Decision of Supreme Court in Lot Sale Matter Is Expected in Month.

Nebraska supreme court in Lincoln Monday reheard the case in which C. H. Hendrickson seeks to set aside the city's sale of a lot to D. S. Wightman. Decision is expected within a month.

Previously the high tribunal sustained the district court ruling that Wightman paid the amount asked by the city in good faith and that he thus has title to the property. The supreme court did stipulate, however, that the property is subject to unpaid paving tax.

The method followed by Wayne council of converting tax-foreclosed property into taxable property is of statewide interest because it applies to many sites in Wayne and also in other towns. Officials have been conscientious in trying to stimulate tax-producing activity. The high court's decision will determine whether or not this method is to be sanctioned.

Robert Bruce, Grand Island, who was denied registration at Wayne college when he asked to enroll Monday, says that he has turned the matter over to Governor Dwight Griswold and Attorney General Walter R. Johnson. He also stated that he may institute court action.

Bruce asserted that he first went to the registrar's office and was advised to see Dr. J. T. Anderson. He stated that Dr. Anderson told him he would not be permitted to register as the state normal board had taken action to this effect. The youth asked Dr. Anderson for reasons for this action, and the president referred him to Dr. Walter Bentback, member of the state board.

Bruce left here Tuesday, reporting that he planned to consult an Omaha attorney and also to see the governor and attorney general in Lincoln.

Early Impression Being Sustained

Three Give Short Talks to Kiwanians Monday Noon At Luncheon Session.

"Wayne impressed me in the early days and the city still verifies my first reactions." In this statement George Wilbur of Portland, speaking to Kiwanians Monday at noon luncheon in Hotel Stratton, stressed the advantages of this center. Mr. Wilbur explained that he lived here years ago and came to refresh his memory. His father, the late Guy Wilbur, was district attorney in 1886. Then an attorney served 10 north-east counties, and later each county chose its own official. Mr. Wilbur lived at Ponca and St. Helena. George Wilbur practiced law here before he went west.

Mr. Wilbur was a guest of P. A. Theobald.

Supt. J. W. Litherland, in a short message to the club, stressed the educational advantages of Wayne and the resulting benefits to the community.

Frank Sullivan, high school coach, spoke briefly on football. He explained changes in rules for the game. Mr. Sullivan told that most of the boys in the city school team are new but they are working out well.

She was graduated from Creighton high school and attended Wayne college and the state university at Lincoln. She taught three years in the city schools of Winnetoon, Neb., and Winner, S. D.

SOAKING MOISTURE HELPS VEGETATION AND DISPELS FEAR

SATURDAY night's rain heaviest of the season here removed any lingering shred of suspicion as to lack of moisture to finish crop development and to give pastures renewed growth.

Wayne county's maturing corn is better than it had been for several years. Its small grain harvest was somewhat below normal. Dwight Dalbey who was here from Beatrice last week to look after farm interests in this neighborhood, reports Wayne county at the top this year in the state's corn production. He says Gage county was stricken by too prolonged drought at a critical time and that corn there is badly damaged. He adds that corn improves in promise as one proceeds north from Wahoo. He says Hessian flies ravaged the small grain in Gage county this year. Mr. Dalbey was enthusiastic over crop conditions in Wayne county.

Wayne Man Is Fatally Burned

Frederick S. Berry Passes In New York Hospital Monday Evening.

Critically burned when he fell asleep sitting in an easy chair smoking a cigaret in a New York hotel room Monday afternoon, Frederick S. Berry, Jr., 31, of Wayne, passed away at this city. Hotel attendants found the young man overcome in the smoldering chair.

Frederick, who was employed in the congressional library in Washington, D. C., had gone to New York for the week-end. He had wired his parents that he was there, was feeling fine and was enjoying his stay in the city. The Berrys received a message Monday afternoon that their son had been critically burned. A second message told that he was improving and a third stated that he had passed away at the hospital to which he was removed. Attendants said the young man retained consciousness throughout the several hours.

In the hotel room was found a letter from Frederick's father, urging him to be careful of his health because his mother had a premonition that something was going to happen to him. The Berrys were always anxious about their son's welfare because of ill health.

As soon as the first message came, Mr. Berry left for New York, R. W. Ley taking him to Sioux City. While he was enroute there Mrs. Berry received the word that Frederick had passed away. She notified Sioux City depot agent to ask Mr. Berry to call back before he boarded the train and he did so. Mr. Berry had thought of taking a plane but after receiving the death message, he continued on by train, arriving in New York Wednesday morning.

Mr. Berry is accompanying the body back to Wayne, planning to (Continued on Page Seven)

Talking motion pictures of an educational and entertaining nature will be shown. Members of the board will explain conservation work, and several in the local district will tell of their experiences.

Ed. Stipsky explains that soil conservation practices are not compulsory at any time. But the office has received so many requests for this work from outside the district that it was thought best to make an effort to include the entire county in the area. Then those who wish conservation work might have it.

W. J. Barclain and Erna Barclain farm have recently been signed up for conservation work. Division terrace has been built above the lots on the Chas. Baird place to keep the lots from flooding and to save soil and moisture. Gulleys have been bladed ready for seeding on the Ed. Brummel and Alf. Wurdinger farms.

Citizen Building Is Need of Times

Mrs. S. A. Lutgen Is Speaker For Parent-Teacher Meeting Monday.

"There will be an America 100 years from now and the kind of America will depend on the kind of citizens we are building today." With this statement quoted from Herbert Hoover, Mrs. S. A. Lutgen opened her message to Wayne city school Parent-Teacher association Monday evening in the activities room. The speaker mentioned the home, church, school and community as the four factors that are basic in citizenship development and stressed their importance in the order named.

Regarding the home, Mrs. Lutgen stated that many families have discarded the three things which she regards as vital. To illustrate, she told that pioneers starting out to make new homes took with them a kettle of live coals. These coals not only started new hearth fires but they were a living tie between old and new homes. The almanac, as a guide to study nature, the family album, as a symbol of reverence for ancestors, and the Bible, as a guiding text and friend always, are the essentials. Have we discarded those?

Regarding schooling, Mrs. Lutgen illustrated by telling that training is like a car light at night. It enables one to see signals but if the light within is turned off, nothing is visible. She urged the careful school training for democracy.

Mrs. Lutgen stressed the need to return to "old-fashioned" times when parents took their children to church and made religion a vital part of their lives. Today 40 per cent of the children have not been in church and 20 per cent go only on special occasions.

The community fulfills its obligation by filling any lacks in development of childhood. Mrs. Lutgen illustrated by telling of a beautiful Swiss lodge with a wall ruined by a blotch resulting from a drunken brawl. An artist saw the blotch and converted it into a beautiful wall painting, restoring the attractiveness of the room. So a community can convert lacks into benefits for children.

Self-examination will determine in what ways a community can help citizenship.

To State Convention.

Hoover Speaks
IN A SPEECH at Chicago Tuesday night, Herbert Hoover, former president, condemned in scathing terms the savagery of nazism, fascism and communism, and emphasized the utter conflict between old-world and new-world ideologies. Mr. Hoover told of winning World War No. 1, but of losing the world peace which President Wilson's fourteen points sought to establish.

Mr. Hoover expressed favor for building powerful defense bulwarks for the western hemisphere, and sending fighting equipment to England, but he strongly disapproved sending American boys to war on foreign shores. He pointed out that conquered millions have flaming hatred for Hitler and his ruthless methods, and that Hitler will in time be overthrown. He said less danger to this country exists now than threatened three months ago. He believes the United States is impregnable to outside attack.

Mr. Hoover's idea is to build due defenses and help fighting democracies with all possible munitions and other supplies, but avoid war unless or until congress finds it inevitable.

Prospect of War
MOST Americans view war with aversion and will yield to it only on conviction that it is unavoidable as a way to preserve their democratic form of government and their free institutions. In a speech Thursday night President Roosevelt declared for naval attack on totalitarian submarines or other armed craft threatening United States shipping routes. The same night at Des Moines, Col. Chas. Lindbergh took an extreme position against American involvement.

People are generally opposed to armed conflict if it can be safely and honorably avoided. But they would rather fight and sacrifice than be ruled by alien tyrants—an utterly abhorrent prospect. However great the menace to this country may have become, it is apparent that enemies of democracy only need to get within the path of American ships to precipitate action by naval forces. Then we would be full-length in the war. If dictators know as much as they think they do about the resourcefulness of this country, they will avoid all-out American participation.

The Burlington railroad has asked permission to discontinue its passenger service between South Sioux City and O'Neill on the ground that such operation is carried on at a loss of $587 per month. The road was built as the Sioux City and Ogden Short Line about fifty years ago, and it caused the founding of Waterbury, Allen and Dixon. Central Dixon county hailed coming of the railroad with delight. Now with growing use of automobiles, railway passenger transportation means increasingly less to market centers.

Heavy rains the past week would seem to have abolished effectually the Great American Desert from the map of Nebraska. If the soil has been able to swallow a considerable proportion of the moisture, it ought to be put in good shape to go into winter slumber and reappear for extra satisfactory service in germinating crops next spring. We have a suspicion, born of a profound wish, that the dry cycle, suffered for several years, is over.

In the present struggle between legislative government and one-man government, Mark Sullivan, columnist, warns congress to guard its authorized powers carefully and not surrender them unnecessarily to the executive. The columnist points out that congress fails to function fully in its intended role because of growing indifference to prerogatives.

A senate investigating committee suddenly took the joy out of Harold Ickes' petroleum dictatorship by finding no scarcity in that product. Harold ballooned to authority in a noisy rush, but, deflated by the investigation, he had to subside until something else turns up for him to rattle into. Harold should have known what the committee learned.

"The Newspaper Lights the Way of Freedom" is the slogan for Newspaper Week, October 1 to 8. The free American press is the very antithesis of the shackled press of totalitarian countries, and, supported by the constitution, it is a constant defender of American liberties.

President Roosevelt's contribution to Collier's, reviving his supreme court remodeling plan of some years ago, is entirely out of harmony with the need for unity in due defense building. It would have been a happy conclusion if he had postponed his literary effusion.

Uncovering and uprooting subversive rings in this country—to the high credit of the FBI and Dies committee—give profound satisfaction to orderly and appreciative citizenry. And revelations should remind enemies within the country that now is a good time to leave.

Private industry and business are handicapped by the high wages paid by the government in defense activities. One influence that induces persons to stick to present employment is permanence and established homes.

Some one suggests raising the highway grade just south of the Logan bridge at Wayne to prevent flooding that interferes with travel following heavy rains. Also straightening the creek for a short distance up stream would help.

Nights are lengthening, and the breath of winter is in the offing. The year's foliage will soon disappear, and then oldsters especially will yearn for the return of spring.

A reputation for veracity is needed to inspire confidence.

Norfolk Daily News: Hay fever sufferers are warned that they can't have their frost early this year. A corn crop in condition to be ruined by a freeze is nothing to be sneezed at.

Finland's Objectives.
(Lincoln Journal)
Finland apparently wants the world to understand that co-operation with the nazis has been for the sole purpose of reclaiming Finnish territories, and that as soon as her old frontiers are re-established and her natural defenses restored, Finland is done with war. Her objectives have been reached. Finnish objectives and German objectives are different things.

Stockmen Are Bullish.
(Omaha Journal-Stockman)
Stockmen are all alike in one respect. When prices are high and going up they are anxious to speculate and even to gamble on how high values will go before the break comes. In no previous livestock boom of which we have any recollection were men able to call the turn on the market but there are quite a few thrifty old stock farmers who put their affairs in order two decades ago while other farmers were simply running hog wild over land and livestock. The safe program is to get out of debt while the getting is good.

September Chill.
(Sioux City Journal)
No, winter isn't here yet. The blankets are most appropriate, of course, when it gets down to 54 degrees or so, and a fire in the furnace this early in September is not at all unusual. A heavy jacket or even a topcoat would be about right for the evening when September chill is here. But it's still a long time until winter comes. This is just the backlash of some weather antics that have been perpetrated out in Montana, Colorado and elsewhere and nothing to worry about in particular.

September's chill will pass. There will be more warm days. A good deal of growing weather is still to come. Lawns that have been reseeded will be green before they are white. That is certain. Grass seed now in the ground will germinate. It will be warm enough for that, and properly watered, grass will grow in all likelihood, into October.

Inter-Dependence Day.
(Industrial Press Service)
America already has an Independence Day to memorialize its freedom. Perhaps it should also have an Inter-dependence Day to serve as a reminder of how greatly every American depends on every other American for the preservation of that freedom.

The fact is that liberty, if it is to be preserved at all, must be preserved intact—by all of us, for all of us. Deny it to any one group, and the chances are that in time it will also be denied to others. President Roosevelt's recent statement that "the rights of free labor as we know them today could not survive without the rights of free enterprise" serves to illustrate that fact.

Today we are arming to defend free enterprise and all our other freedoms. To do that successfully every one of us—and every group—must surrender some liberties temporarily. But we must make sure that we surrender them only temporarily. We must resolve now that emergency controls over our freedom must end with the emergency, and that no one group shall be permitted to use the current crisis to obtain unfair advantages over another. Unless we do that we may learn too late that we have thrown away the very liberties we are making sacrifices to defend.

Living Bombs.
(Omaha World-Herald)
A little item in the paper relates that the Russians have used "living bombs" to sink 12 German ships in the vicinity of the Russian naval base of Kronstadt. The technique is simple. They fill an old plane with high explosives, they send it up; and they order the pilot to smash directly into the target.

Imagine yourself in the place of that pilot. You are young. Life is good, and exciting. The folks at home. The girl friend. The job. Then the brass hat who is above you barks an order. You stumble toward your ship. You take off. You take a last look at the sunshine, a last, deep draught of the sweet air. Your mind races faster than the motor. You try to imagine what it will be like. You look down at your arms and legs. You try to think, to reason, but it's no dice. Slowly, inevitably—because it is the order of the leader—your hand moves toward the stick.

That is the impact of war on some of its victims. Not merely the 12 Russians, but the tens and hundreds of thousands of men who, every day while the war lasts, are ordered to march into the teeth of death.

And you. Are you still depressed by the shortage of silk stockings? At the thought of the taxes you may have to pay?

DANGERS
Washington inner circles warn the country of the dangers of inflation. What can the country do about it? It would seem up to the government to head off wild inflation through curtailed non-defense spending. Officials in Washington urge the need of cutting down such spending, but on the contrary, they—not the country—keep on doing it. Washington shouts to the country that certain things must be done, whereas only those in the saddle can do them. The country is helpless—between elections. If excessive spending multiplies inflation dangers, responsible ones should avoid such pitfalls instead of telling the country so and so will happen if so and so isn't done, when really the last mentioned so and so rests entirely with authorized heads.

Policy

sounded in every paragraph. Trials of a day are softened by the sweet rest of the recurring night. Hope follows despair, pleasure succeeds pain, the joy of peace surmounts the ugliness of war, and the world's beauties are not destroyed by human hates. Thus, the volume breathes refreshing optimism and assurance.

Watch Repairman Pursues Craft in Spite of Handicap

"Personal pride should prompt every person to make his or her own living." Though handicapped physically, Harry H. Sherbahn, 49, probably the smallest watch and clock repairman in the United States, has always lived up to this determination.

Mr. Sherbahn measures only 4 feet, 8 inches tall and weighs 60 pounds. Sherbahn, a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Sherbahn, the former a pioneer brick maker in Wayne, was born here May 5, 1892. Infantile paralysis when he was 12 left his limbs crippled. In spite of this, he finished a wood work course at the college and has some fine pieces in his home.

Since 1938 Mr. Sherbahn has been in the Paul Mincs store here and does repair work.

Permits Issued.
Treasurer J. J. Steele had issued 339 new drivers' permits this week.

Are Busy in Harvest.
Geo. H. Kellogg, formerly of Wayne, writes from Nampa, Idaho, that peach and prune harvest is now on in full swing. The Kelloggs live on a fine five-acre tract in the city limits of Nampa, a place of 10,000. Crops and prices are good and help very scarce.

To Rites of Brother.
William Dudley, about 58, of Chicago, brother of Walter Dudley of Wayne, died Wednesday last week from a heart attack suffered a few days after he returned from a trip to Boston. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dudley, who are in Lafayette, Ind., visiting the latter's mother and attending to business, went to Chicago for the funeral. The Wayne folks returned to Indiana and plan to come home the last of this week.

THE DIFFERENCE.
One fellow has labored and saved through the years, and another has disregarded opportunities, idled away time and shirked, and wasted. One is anxious to preserve values and the source of values. The other aspires to nothing beyond a hand-to-mouth existence with plenty of leisure, little work and no responsibility. The one who has carefully prepared for declining years, is apprehensive lest he will lose what he has gained and thus become as helpless as the one bearing a record of improvidence. The shiftless individual—perennial recipient—favors any change in public policies that promises support without thought or energy, and threatened surrender of initiative simply means less effort and fewer personal obligations. The fellow with ambition and resolution is manifestly the one who does the most good in the world. He is the one who maintains employment and production, and he is the one on whom an independent social order depends. If his success is penalized—if his gains are destroyed—and if a majority should become subjects of government paternalism, our cherished traditions would fade into mere memories.

Historic Sights Are Interesting On Eastern Trip

Historic background in the east brings the visitor so much closer to a realization of the significance of early events in this nation's development. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Merchant, who arrived home Sunday after spending three weeks in Philadelphia with their son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Merchant, especially like the preservation of historic sights.

The Wayne folks were impressed with the vastness of New York. They and their son took a boat trip out to see the Statue of Liberty and also went part way up the interior of the statue. Weather was so sultry, however, that they did not go to the top. The sight of the statue itself gives a thrill. In Rockefeller center, New York, the Merchants saw play but were unable to visit a broadcast as reservations must be made ahead.

The Merchants drove up to the Hudson and as they looked back at New York the city appeared like a vast pile of rocks. A visit at Hyde Park, the Roosevelt estate about 70 miles up the river, was interesting. A new library on part of the family home of 1,200 acres contains the president's large collection of books and also all the gifts he has received since 1928. Pictures and carved boats seem to be his favorite pieces for there are many of them. A large Bible given him by the king and queen of England after their visit here is displayed. Another interesting piece is an ancient scroll containing the first books of the Bible in Czech writing. This was sent to Mr. Roosevelt for safe keeping when the war broke out in Czechoslovakia. The Wayne folks visited the simple little church where the Roosevelts worship, and the small churchyard cemetery in which the president's mother is buried.

An interesting sight on the Delaware river is the spot at which Washington crossed to surprise the Hessians. A monument marks the sight and around it are 13 evergreen trees brought from Mt. Vernon. These represent the 13 colonies.

Among the many interesting places in Philadelphia is the home of Betsy Ross, preserved just as it was when she made the first flag. The chair in which she sat to sew stands by the window to which George Washington came to talk with her. The original flag is also there.

Not far away are the Gettysburg battlegrounds, about 16 acres, with rocks and barricades just as they were in the early war. Many of the men are buried where they fell, and markers designate the sites. Also preserved there is the little home in which a woman was shot while caring for a sister during the battle. The window with the bullet hole is kept intact.

The Wayne folks enjoyed a visit to West Point academy. Boys who have had training there are easily spotted by their fine posture and manners. The cathedral there especially impressed the visitors. All young men are required to attend services. A choir of 170 of the boys furnishes music. On an open Bible in the cathedral is this request, "Please offer a prayer for our boys here."

The Merchants spent a week-end in Washington with Mrs. Stanley Merchant's brother. At Mt. Vernon they happened to meet Mr. and Mrs. Jake Johnson of this vicinity, who were visiting their daughter in Baltimore.

Stanley Merchant likes his work as engineer with a company making chemical elements and things for defense. Each year must show a picture of himself and his number before he is admitted each day. So strict are regulations regarding entrance to plants that the Wayne folks did not try to visit the firm. This precaution is taken in all such plants.

Enroute home the Merchants stopped to see the H. J. Miners at Springfield, Ill., and with them enjoyed a trip to Lincoln's home and other historic spots.

Livestock from this vicinity was marketed in Sioux City this week by: John Dunklau, steers and heifers; Herman Dinklage, Wisconsin steers; Lou Dinklage, Wisconsin steers; John Baker, Wakefield, hogs; A. W. Borg, Wakefield, hogs; E. A. Larson, Wakefield, steers; Herbert Frevert, steers; F. W. Schutt, hogs.

Deeds Are Recorded.

Diedrich Meyer and wife to Carl F. Meyer, September 13 for $15,000, SE 1/4 of NE 1/4 of 32-26-4. Carl F. Meyer and wife to Diedrich Meyer, September 13 for $15,000, the same.

CONGRESS

AS SEEN BY
KARL STEFAN
Norfolk, Nebraska, September 12, 1941

Telegrams called the Third district member back to Washington in order to be present to vote on the tax bill and other important legislation.

The Third district member has been home about two weeks. In that time he traveled over 1,700 miles over the Third district visiting various communities and transacting official business. He visited many schoolbuses, farm-to-market roads and pump irrigation projects.

Prominent among the problems incident to the national defense situation is that of the "dislocation of industries." Along with it is that of migration of workers to the areas in which the defense industries are located. Much is heard of the difficulties which confront many industrial centers rapidly expanding their war industries. The housing problem for the new comers is too great for quick solution even with the nearly one billion dollars which the government has authorized for defense housing purposes, and the matter of new schools, expansion of utilities, and extension of street and transportation facilities upon an enormous scale, bring additional demands for federal aid. Smaller cities undergoing sudden booms due to new and temporary industries have the same troubles. But other cities, particularly in the middle west, are finding the "dislocations" are bringing on new trials and tribulations through the closing down of their established industries and the moving of people, who have long been established residents, to other cities—particularly to defense industry centers.

It is estimated that by January 1 at least 40 per cent of the national industrial output will be for the defense program. Also, it is estimated that not less than 6,000 industries will have to close down for lack of materials upon which to keep the factories going. One of those already vitally affected is that of aluminum goods for normal purposes, and thousands of workers are unemployed. The quick answer to such a situation is that the employees can find new jobs in defense industries, but that solution is not practical. Many such workers have homes in which they have lived for years and have family and community ties which are not easily broken. Neither can jobs for which they are fitted in the defense industries be found for all. What the answer will be is not yet known, but there are thousands of smaller places looking to the government for the answer.

The silk industry is one of the larger affected by the march of events. Following the embargo upon Japanese silk, the government has barred the use of the silk socks on hand for ordinary purposes, and will reserve them for defense. The embargo should have been applied long ago before Japan became quite so obstreperous, but the effect upon the silk industries is to close factories employing 175,000 people, most of whom are situated in a few eastern states. The matter of substitute materials is being taken up, but months will elapse before the factories can operate at previous capacity.

The dispute between Leon Henderson, the federal price-fixer, and the OPM as to reduction in the production of automobiles has been temporarily settled. Henderson demanded an immediate cut of 50 per cent, while Mr. Knudsen wanted the reduction to start at 20 per cent and come more gradually. Knudsen won out for the time being, and only 98,000 motor factory employees instead of 241,000 will be looking for jobs, some of which will be found in the defense industries in or near Detroit.

The total defense appropriations now authorized by congress amount to 56 billion dollars, of which 21 billions are for the army, 17 billions for the navy and 7 billions for lend-lease to other countries. The total spent on national defense is about 9 billions, and the total of contracts about 23 billions. For 1942, when the defense industries will be more fully expanded, it is anticipated that the expenditures for defense will run to 23 billions. Tom Reed, the Maine statesman who was speaker of the house in 1889 when the federal appropriations first reached the billion-dollar mark, made the statement that our nation had become "a billion-dollar country," but that was 50 years ago.

The OPM wants the egg drying capacity of such plants increased from 12 million to over 100 billion pounds annually. It is planning on 25 or 40 privately financed plants to bring about that increase. The dried eggs are wanted for British as well as for home consumption. The industry is on a small scale, at present. The low tariff caused China to be the principal source of the supply of dried eggs until the Japs opened war in that country. The smaller plants mainly have been located in large cities, until of late, when small industries of that kind have been located in farming areas. The new plan will call for such expansion that it is anticipated that large corporations may provide for it. The new plants are to cost from $50,000 to $100,000 each, and obtaining the materials for their construction and equipment will come under the priorities department of the OPM.

The movement of big business into the processing of farm products, dairy products in particular, is causing no little concern, particularly to the cooperative creameries and cheese factories of the middle west. The big dairy corporations have moved rapidly into the farming sections by the department of agriculture demanding the increased production of cheese, condensed and powdered milk to supply Britain. The OPM is planning on adding to that movement by calling for the extensive expansion by private financing of dairy and other processing plants for concentrated food production. Evidently other big industries than the milk companies are going out into the country districts to engage in food processing, which evidently is profitable to big processing plants at this time. Among them are the big powder and munition makers who have established dairy plants in various places in the northwest. There are 192 million pounds of butter in cold storage, and the surplus of cheese in storage is 25 million pounds more than a year ago, notwithstanding the purchases for shipment to England. Apparently the present facilities for processing milk and cream are sufficient to a large degree, and why the OPM should turn from its defense activities to promoting large food industries, each calling for materials of which there is said to be a shortage for national defense, is not so plain.

Neither is it plain why the department of agriculture and the federal security administration should be so interested in promoting the consumption of oleomargarine while the surplus of butter is double the usual amount, and the price is far below that obtained for whole milk in the milk sheds, and at the condensaries. No butter is being shipped to Britain, neither is it furnished under the stamp plan of the department of agriculture. The radio broadcast favoring oleomargarine by the department of agriculture was the best advertising the oleomargarine interests ever had, and now the big oleo makers are planning on spending millions of their own in advertising their imitation product, using the new regulations of Paul McNutt as grounds for inducing people to eat the fat of steers rather than the butter-fat of cows as a bread spread. The oleo question may come before congress soon in spite of the fact that the committees decline to permit the consideration of bills against the sale of oleo under the disguise of "imitation butter."

Nine May Purchase Farms Under Loans

Approximately nine low-interest, long-term loans may be made in Wayne county for purchase of farms this year under provisions of the Bankhead-Jones act. Whether or not these loans are made, reports Ray L. Verzal, farm security supervisor, will depend not only on availability of suitable farms at satisfactory prices but on interest and promptness displayed by prospective buyers.

"These loans are made only to tenants or farm laborers who are ready to step into the banks of farm home owners, but who cannot finance a farm purchase in any other way," Ray L. Verzal said. "The opportunity to buy under this plan is something that cannot be held open indefinitely. If applications lag too much in a county, the available funds may be transferred to some other designated county. It requires some time to make the appraisals and negotiations and to complete the loans. For that reason the eligible borrower should be getting his application on file as soon as possible."

Ray L. Verzal said he realized that this has been a busy season for farmers in this county, taking care of the best crops some have had for a long time, and that this might cause delays in applications. He pointed out, however, that the opportunity to become a landowner may be lost for years to come if a prospective borrower waits too long for a more convenient time. Applications may be filed with the FSA supervisor, Ray L. Verzal, Wayne, Louis, or not only the land purchase price but additional funds may be loaned to cover necessary buildings, repairs, permanent land improvements, fencing and other items.

The county tenant purchase committee, which considers all loans, can pass only upon those applications of farmers who have filed them through the FSA office. Members of that committee in Wayne county are John H. Brumgard and Geo. Burns, Wayne, and Ludwig C. Bahr, Randolph.

MOVIE STAR JOINS U.S. NAVY

Ensign Wayne Morris Seeks Wings

Wayne Morris, recent star of "I Wanted Wings," became a member of Uncle Sam's Navy in May, 1941, when he was appointed to the rank of Ensign.

When asked what he thought of the United States Navy, Morris said, "I think every man who is considering joining a military service should look into the 'chance of a lifetime' which the Navy and Naval Reserve offer to get into the big-pay field of the future—aviation. In the Navy you can attend the finest flight training schools in the world, and receive instruction from Navy pilots who introduced dive bombing, aircraft carriers and catapult take-offs to the rest of the world. Also, there are opportunities in Naval Aviation for men who don't want to fly. They can be trained as aviation machinists, metallurgists, photographers, observers, or they can receive instruction in many other trades. It's a great life in the Navy."

Telephone Company Saves for Defense

Through a materials substitution program, the Bell telephone system will this year effect a saving of five million pounds of metals vital to defense needs, including aluminum to build more than 275 fighter planes. Besides aluminum, the company will use substitutes for zinc, nickel and magnesium. Additional reductions are foreseen for 1942.

Aluminum will be replaced with steel in the finger wheel of dial telephones. This is only one of the replacements. The use of zinc is being reduced by coating much of the hardware on pole lines with lead. In many places used equipment is being reconditioned so that it will serve where new installations had been planned.

The telephone company has been doing reclamation work since 1931 and plans to extend this.

The A. L. Jacobsens moved to Omaha last week.

Welfare Group Proposed Here

Representatives of Civic Organizations Unite in New Program

Improvement of child health in Wayne is the objective of a civic group whose organization is being promoted by Parent-Teacher association of the city school. The aim is to form a committee with one representative from each civic body, to plan and carry on this welfare work. Rev. G. Gieschen is chairman of the P. T. A. executive committee sponsoring the movement.

For some years Kiwanis have carried on health work. It is felt that the needs are greater than one organization alone can provide. For this reason the movement has been started to expand the services. It is hoped that all children in Wayne with health deficiencies, such as bad tonsils, eyes, teeth, adhdoids, etc., may be given attention. Children not provided such care through other agencies will be reached through this organization.

Rev. Gieschen mailed letters to about 25 civic and fraternal groups last week asking them to select a representative for the proposed council. Chamber of Commerce was first to respond, selecting W. H. Sweet. As soon as word comes from others, the representatives will be called together. They will then elect their own officers and make plans for procedure.

INVITED TO SPEAK FOR CHURCH PANEL

Sand-blast Idea Comes from Early Desert Observation

(W. A. Levine)

"The principle of the sand-blast is about 150 years old, and goes back to the days of Napoleon's Egyptian campaign when his officers noticed how the blowing sands of the desert eroded the sides of the pyramids," said Levine Johnson, 52, stone cutter at the Wayne Monument works.

This skilled tradesman served a three-year apprenticeship in his native Sweden, receiving the sum of 3c per day while learning. Mr. Johnson has followed the trade for 36 years. He has been employed by the local establishment about 20 years. At present, he is swamped with work and wishes it were possible to locate a stone polisher. There are few apprentice stone cutters in this country today. A stone cutter receives good pay, but since the work is very injurious to the health, one cannot stay at it for a long period of years. Levine already has served a longer period of years than the average cutter.

A visit to this local plant is well worth any person's time, and Levine, as well as the entire force, always extends a hearty welcome. Few people realize the skill required of a stone cutter to transform a rough granite block into a finished monument.

In the workshop are to be seen such necessary equipment as grinders, sandblasts, polishers, pneumatic chisels, blowers and hoists. It is indeed worth one's time to see this skilled Swedish craftsman in action, for he is of the old school and his workmanship is of an exceptionally high caliber. Geology students would find a visit doubly fascinating.

"The X-ray shows my lungs are black, but that is far better than having a black heart," said Levine as he finished surfacing a beautiful piece of Barre granite.

Leaving the workshop, Levine directs one to the display room, where he proudly shows some very beautiful monuments made of Vermont, Dakota, Swedish and German granite. "Here is indeed an artisan who has just cause to be proud of his workmanship," one concludes.

Maneuvers with Fort Troops at Hearst's Ranch

Maneuvers on the huge Hearst ranch in California this summer gave army men an opportunity to study the country and ranch set up. Private Sam Steele of Fort Lewis, Wash., formerly of Wayne, was among the thousands of soldiers there. He belongs to the 41st division which was rated most effective in warfare maneuvers throughout the country.

Fort Lewis had 60,000 men in the maneuvers. Monterey, San Luis Obispo and the Presidio in San Francisco were also represented by large groups. Six weeks from May to July, were spent on the trip.

The men were stationed near King City, on part of the Hearst ranch 80 miles south of Monterey. On this part of Hearst's vast land interests the men saw one of his six castles. The one there is a 100-room stone and concrete structure with walls four feet thick. This is a replica of a castle in Spain. The men were informed that Hearst's other castles, located on various divisions of his ranches, are also patterned after others abroad. The castles were shipped here from Spain and came in pieces, ready to be put together. It was reported that two other castles are still stored in warehouses in the west, having never been taken out for construction.

The castles, at least parts of them, are used by caretakers for the ranches. The men were informed that Hearst lives in one of the castles about 50 miles south of their maneuvering grounds. Mr. Hearst desired to provide good hunting on his ranches some years ago and imported wild boars from Europe and Africa. The animals proved to be too wild. They trampled the ground so badly that the soldiers could still see the results of their stampeding. It is said the boars disappeared and have been able to find them.

Men Reclassified.

In accordance with orders, the local board has reclassified and placed in 1-H all men over 28 who were not previously in classes 3, 4 and 4-C. Those in class 3 have dependent those in 4 are now in service. Men over this age limit and previously in 1 and 2, also those in 4-F, which includes conscientious objectors, are reclassified. The rating of 1-H is reported a lower classification than 3-A, for instance. The object of the change is to defer these but to give officials a picture of possible available manpower.

Those men over 28 are deferred. Brigadier General Guy N. Henninger, state director of selective service, states that they must fill out questionnaires and conform to orders of the local board. They will continue on the classified list. Registrants are also advised by General Henninger, to notify the local board of any change of address.

Unite in Plans To Sell Stamps

Chamber of Commerce is Cooperating in Retail Defense Program.

A million stores from coast to coast began Monday to retail U. S. defense savings stamps with the inauguration of Retailers-for-Defense week, and Wayne is cooperating in the plan. Stamps, formerly printed only in sheets, have been prepared in books 2 1/2 by 5 inches for convenience in keeping them in cash registers and making them quickly available to the customer.

Cooperating in this great retail sales effort are the 11 great national retail associations: retail druggists, food chains, retail furniture, retail federation, limited price variety stores, institute of distribution, mail order association, retail hardware, dry goods, retail grocers, restaurant association, chain drug stores, U. S. Chamber of Commerce.

Nearly all Wayne stores are taking part in the sale. Retailers receive no fee or percentage for the sale of defense savings stamps. They offer their facilities as a patriotic service.

An album in which to keep defense stamps in any of the 10, 25 or 50 cent denominations of $1 and $5, is given free with the first savings stamp. Stamps worth $18.75 may be exchanged for one saving bond that will appreciate in 10 years to $25.

Plan for Program Of Rural Division

Supt. F. B. Decker was in Norfolk Wednesday this week to meet with county superintendents of Third district for informal discussion of common problems. The group also discussed plans for the rural division of the State Teachers association session to be held in Norfolk October 22 and 23.

Helps for Teachers Are Displayed Here

A compact set of books, called the "150-book classroom," is one of the interesting school-room "helps" on display in Supt. F. B. Decker's office. Also to be found are two sets of three-inch art stencils, one for inside and the other for outside lettering. A chart printer set, with one-inch letters and numbers on rubber stamps, is also on the table. Pattern books on postage dolls and two on school room decoration are available. In the magazine rack are also a number of magazines that are of special help to teachers.

District 21

(Larvne Langenberg, teacher) Grounds were mowed, the room cleaned, floors oiled and curtains laundered for the term. Duane Neary, Hazel Ulrich, Darlene Meierhenry, Marian and Marva Schroeder are in the 8th grade, Dwight Ulrich and LeRoy McMillan in 7th grade and Melvin Meierhenry in the 6th.

District 28, South

(Helen Osburn, teacher) The school was clean and the lawn mowed for the term. ## District 31

(Sophie Danne, teacher) Walls and woodwork were painted, the school cleaned, grounds mowed and raked. The wash stand and sand table were painted and new oil cloth put on the stand and the wall behind it. The old oilcloth was used to line the sand table to prevent leakage and to make small mats to cover desks when pupils are using paste or water colors. Lola Mae Baier celebrated her birthday Tuesday and brought treats of cake and candy bars. It was decided to have a club of miscellaneous character this year instead of the Knighthood of Youth group. For the first month Lola Mae Baier is president, Neva Wieland vice president, Joyce Baier secretary, Lois Ann Wieland nurse.

Beginners this year are Eugene Baier and Ewan Bennett. They and the 2nd grader, Evert Baier, are having a making a farm in the sand table.

The 4th graders, Junior Baier, Diane Erickson and Lorraine Nichols, have been studying a sunflower in language. The 5th graders, Wunelita Mae Nichols and Lois Ann Wieland, have been studying the globe to learn the location of continents and oceans in preparation for geography and history.

Vicinity Shares In Heavy Moisture

Hard Rains Over Week-end Are of Great Benefit To All Growth.

Carroll vicinity shared in the heavy rain falling in this area Saturday night, the amount here varying from 3 1/2 to 4 inches. The major part of the moisture came in a downpour between about 8 and 9 Saturday evening. Light showers fell Sunday morning and heavier ones Monday. The rain is of wonderful benefit to all growth.

Wind accompanied the storm and was especially strong north-west of here in the vicinity of Sholes. Tops were torn from the sealed corn cribs at the Owen Jones place, and a tree was uprooted at the Lloyd Morris farm. Other farms suffered similar damage. Bridges, fences and culverts were washed out, especially soft, new grades. Some corn was laid down by the high wind.

A short part of the railroad track on the branch was washed out just west of Wayne by flood waters which rose in Logan creek Sunday morning. The damage was repaired promptly and trains ran on schedule Monday. Heavy rains Monday afternoon took the tracks out again.

Wind and rain damaged some telephone lines. Only a few telephones in town were out of order temporarily.

The heavy rush of water Saturday night flooded several basements. Water was so deep that it came in the rear door of the E. G. Stephens cafe building.

Silo filling, which has been progressing, was delayed the first of the week by rain.

Life and Scenery
Fascinate Visitor
Going to Mexico

An interesting cross-section of Mexico was obtained by Dr. Mary T. Honey, Latin and English professor at the college, in her recent three-weeks' visit to that country.

Driving from Chicago to Laredo, Texas, Mrs. Honey visited Texas university at Austin and Alamo and other historical places at San Antonio. She then went on from Laredo by bus to Mexico City, making numerous side-trips from there.

Besides the pyramids and the old market town, Toluca, Dr. Honey visited Taxco, which is near the silver mines. This town is an artist's dream—modern buildings are prohibited by law, and narrow, crooked streets run between quaint old houses of sun-dried brick and plaster with red-tile roofs.

At Cuernavaca, Dwight Morrow's home proved interesting and beautiful. Historical pictures painted by Diego Rivera and given to Mexico by Ambassador Morrow were on view there.

An unusually clear day in Puebla made visible snow-capped volcanoes seldom seen. The cathedral in Puebla was outstanding in its beauty, and pottery and tile were on sale everywhere. As Mrs. Honey was finishing lunch there, Ex-King Carol of Rumania passed within a few feet of her.

The floating gardens visited at Xochimilco were started some four or 500 years ago by the Aztec Indians and now are good-sized islands. A sort of gondola with a small roof and its name written with fresh flowers on the front may be hired to glide around the islands. Indian women in dugout canoes sell odd foods and flowers (six or seven gardenias with a border of pansies for ten cents), and young men sing for a coin or two.

Chapultepec park on the city's edge is the location of Maximilian's palace. Dr. Honey's visit was in the midst of the flower season, and the grounds were brilliant with various blooms.

Ascension day services at the cathedral in Mexico City were unusually beautiful, according to Mrs. Honey. Other places of interest there were the old palace, now the president's offices, and the museum, where the old Aztec calendar and other Indian material from the pyramids are located.

Hand-made chairs fancifully painted and with woven reed seats, pottery baskets, foods make up colorful market-places. Another colorful spectacle viewed by Dr. Honey takes place every year on August 21. Indians come in great numbers and dance around the statue of the last Aztec emperor. No one is ever sure of the hour they will come, and Dr. Honey waited from 9 a. m. until 7 p. m. before they arrived.

The Wayne lady heard "The Bartered Bride" and "Carmen" given by the Mexican Opera company and saw the lovely glass curtain made by Tiffany, which pictures a local volcano scene.

"One sees dancing everywhere," says Dr. Honey, "and finds such interesting places to eat." A tasty Mexican dish is the enchillada—one kind a salad wrapped in tortillas and another turkey with a rich brown sauce. Also good is a Mexican black bean mashed with cheese on top. Lovely fresh fruits—pineapple, limes, papayas—are plentiful.

"Although American tourists jam the country, natives are very courteous and kind," declared Dr. Honey.

Returning to Laredo on the Sunshine Special, the Wayne lady visited Vicksburg, place of the famous siege, and its 16,000-acre memorial park, and Paducah, Ky., home of Irvin Cobb. Cotton prospects through Mississippi look wonderful, according to Dr. Honey. Three times in that part of the country she met several thousand soldiers on the march. One group of 6,000 were coming from Michigan.

Highways, especially those in Texas, are beautiful. Crepe myrtle and balsam line the way, and roadside parks are placed every few hundred feet.
