

Takes Its Place with Assurance of Frost and Blighted Foliage—Faith in Human Values Stimulated—Reducing Railroad Service.

With October duly installed, we will experience frequent frosts and increasing need of artificial heat. Trees will soon surrender their leaves to the inexorable elements, and the flowers and rich green that have heightened the beauty of the landscape will disappear before the icy touch of a new season.

With the advancing season the fly pest will decrease, but for a brief time it will be supplanted by another nuisance, the box elder bug. Figuring relative intelligence, the fly knows enough to anticipate danger and try to escape.

Among pests with which the world has been abundantly supplied, we recall with satisfaction that grasshoppers have been too few the past year to do any damage. It is a reasonable conclusion that these insect imps do not appear in large and devastating numbers during periods of normal moisture, and if we are to have a cycle of wet years, as confidently predicted, we are assured of freedom from one crop peril.

An organized onslaught on rats is reported in some quarters. These invaders of cribs and granaries to which the year's products have been consigned, become more numerous and bold as destroyers, as they gather to help the farmer consume what he has toiled to save and turn to profit.

Remembering Obligations. When one is found going far out of his or her way to square an old indebtedness, our faith in the good intentions of people is greatly stimulated. A woman settled a four-year subscription claim some years after her newspaper had been stopped.

Hard going tends to make one dodge obligations. One is inclined to let the fellow he owes do the worrying, let the one who has favored him, figure out how he can manage without due repayments. When a man's word is as good as his bond an old-time comparison—when he does what he says he will do, or explains why he cannot do it, he contributes vitally to the fiber of business integrity.

A Lincoln report states that Lieutenant-Governor W. E. Johnson Wayne product is learning to fly an airplane and will soon be a fulfilled flier—a travel facility that will aid him in his political aspirations.

Pheasant Season Looms. The open season for pheasants is in the offing, and it will last longer than usual. Accordingly, the pheasant diet will be prolonged to the joy of some and to the distaste of others.

Passenger Service. Towns along the Burlington from Sioux City to O'Neill are up in arms over the prospect of the company abandoning its passenger accommodations. If people were taking advantage of the service, the company would not apply for permission to discontinue it.

Lunches Provided To County Schools. About 40 Wayne county schools are providing lunches for pupils through the welfare office. Commodities may change each month, depending on supplies.

CORN HUSKING IS NEXT IN ORDER ON FARMS OF COUNTY

MATURING corn hereabouts is in good shape to stand frost, as we are assured. In fact, it is said a freeze would, help the crop and put it in condition for picking which will soon be in order. We have heard no predictions as to per-acre yields, but appearances to an inexperienced observer suggest production in excess of that of several past years. An advantage which we appreciate, is the uniformly good prospects. All sections of this area will share about equally in satisfactory results—none blasted by drought, hail or insects. As a consequence, people should be able to buy more of the things they want and need. Improved conditions will be a welcome change from the lean years that imposed uncomfortable restraints and self-denial.

Defense Message Given for Group

Delegates Are Elected by Wayne Woman's Club at Meeting Friday.

Wayne Woman's club opened the season Friday when M. W. Ricker addressed the group at the club rooms on "Telephone Development and National Defense." Mr. Ricker explained how the company meets emergencies to provide service in spite of the many handicaps at such times. Mr. Ricker's visit was arranged by C. L. Pickett, local telephone manager. Mrs. Clarence McGinn, accompanied by Mrs. H. A. Welch, sang "Keep Free America Free," written by Mrs. Grace Welsh Lugen and Leon F. Beery, and "I Love Life," by Montezuma.

Mr. Ricker used specially designed equipment to transmit speech from a telephone to a loud-speaker over a "human circuit" consisting of six ladies from the audience, thus demonstrating how scientific developments have extended the range of telephone communication and improved the quality of transmission. He said that at first conversation could be carried on over very short distances only, but that now there are no earthly limits to distance over which the human voice may be carried.

Mr. Ricker exhibited giant and midget vacuum tubes which are used in telephone apparatus. He explained how a cluster of 30 giant tubes generating 800 horsepower are used to send messages across the ocean where they are picked up again by land apparatus. He then showed another tube similar to a radio tube which he called a repeater tube and which he said amplifies the voice 10,000 times and carries it about 100 miles to the next repeater tube for another amplification. The one and a half inch midget tube is used in special telephones for very deaf people. He also demonstrated the properties of an alloy which is so sensitive to magnetism that it is magnetized and demagnetized by changing its position in the earth's magnetic field. Mr. Ricker then showed how electricity can be generated by compressing a crystal and explained that this phenomenon was utilized in developing the "electric ear" which warns of the approach of airplanes and submarines and indicates their location.

The speaker discussed briefly the effect of the defense program on the extension of the telephone system. "Sixty-five years ago," said Mr. Ricker, "there were no telephones; today there are about 22 million in the United States, and about twice as many in all the world. During the last year there has been a growth of over half a million more telephones than in any previous year. Expenditures of the Bell companies for new plant construction this year will be more than 500 million dollars. These plants are necessary preparation for the extended service which will be called for by our defense plan."

Mr. Ricker told his audience that the heavy demands already made by the defense program have used, or are rapidly using up, spare local and long distance telephone facilities that are normally provided in advance. "Much of the equipment and materials," said the speaker, "that would be available for thousands of communities, has been or is being used for training camps, army posts and other national defense projects. Already there is a shortage of copper to meet both defense and civilian demands and, before long, it may be impossible to get any copper for that part of the telephone business which is not considered as necessary to defense by the administration at Washington."

The program was in charge of Mrs. E. J. Huntermer. At the business session Mrs. L. A. Fanske, Mrs. Clarence Wright,

Mrs. E. J. Huntermer and Mrs. E. G. Gailey were chosen delegates to the state convention in McCook the second week of October. Mrs. Raymond Cherry, Mrs. V. A. Senter, Mrs. Willis Noakes and Mrs. W. C. Coryell are alternates. The committee representing the community welfare council was referred to Mrs. J. T. Anderson, chairman of this work. Red Cross sewing was discussed. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Mac Young, Mrs. H. A. Welch, Mrs. Victor West, Mrs. Claude Wright, Mrs. J. H. Spahr, Mrs. Carl Wright.

The club meets again October 9 at 8 p. m. when Mrs. Elizabeth James Feick of Sioux City School of Dramatics, is speaker. Teachers of the college and city schools, members of the Business and Professional division and husbands of club members will be guests. Mrs. W. R. Wittse is serving chairman.

Group singing of hymns was led by Vernon Jacobs. Miss Ringer explained the organization and purpose of the Lutheran association. Vocal selections were sung by Robert Hanson of Emerson, and Miss Beryl Nelson of Wayne. Rev. W. F. Most of Our Redeemer's church, welcomed students to local churches. Miss Ruth Pearson is faculty sponsor of the club. A social time and refreshments in the church parlors followed the service.

HOW BIG is a head of lettuce?

Good lettuce heads vary: Some grow in tighter, heavier heads than others. Some heads are larger, some smaller.

But most stores price it all at so much a head! So you squeeze the heads, and try to choose the heavier, more solid one.

To get your money's worth you may have to take a larger head than you want — or else pay the same price for a smaller head.

Now if lettuce were priced by the pound, you could pick out just the head you like and pay only for the exact amount of lettuce you get.

If lettuce were advertised at so much a pound, you could compare prices. You can't now, because "large heads" are one size in one store, another size somewhere else.

Your Safeway now prices lettuce by the pound. You can select the exact lettuce head you want. And the weight of your purchase determines the price.

Not just lettuce. On every vegetable and fruit Safeway carries you now get all the advantages of free selection and pricing by weight. Come and try this new way.

Many prominent women tell us they would like every store in town to price all fruits and vegetables by weight. Then you could get just the amount you want, just the sizes you like, and full value for your money every time. Wherever you trade, why don't you ask your store man about it?

Safeway is co-operating in the Sale of National Defense Stamps in its Store.

To Preserve Capitalism

SATISFACTION over numerous government benefactions bestowed on communities during past years should be modified by contemplation of increased taxes. The burden of bureaucratic government had grown amazingly before defense costs were added. In view of this latest emergency which calls for unprecedented appropriations, non-defense spending outside of operating expenses could be greatly reduced if not entirely eliminated.

To preserve the capitalist system, by which the country grew and prospered, and to avoid the restraints of collectivism, which means a surrender of a large measure of individual independence, we must get away from leaning on the government and preserve the ways of free enterprise.

Union workers' demands are so great that one wonders how big industrial operators have the courage to go on. The demand now is for a closed shop which means that an employer must agree to hire only members of a particular union.

We note by the record published in the Herald that some rural schools of the county have as few as three pupils. If one is absent on account of the measles, the attendance is reduced one-third.

Assurance comes from Washington that, contrary to rumors, no attempt will be made to annul next year's congressional elections on account of the defense emergency.

The pluck of an Italian whose wife died and left him with two little girls makes an encouraging story. He was new in America. He had no money, but he made the steep grade by becoming the best gardener in the neighborhood.

Will Defend Small Business.

An encouraging piece of news comes out of Washington to the effect that a bloc is forming in congress to give some consideration to little business in the matter of defense program contracts.

Human Nature Still a Factor.

The controversy going on over the wages of redcaps in the large railroad terminals furnishes a practical lesson in economics. Under the traditional compensation-from-tips plan, many of the redcaps made good earnings.

So Very, Very Sorry.

Adolf Hitler once told John Cudahy that he had no intention of invading the United States. Perish the thought. It was absurd. Why it was even a "military impossibility."

But now he is disgruntled to note that no one paid any particular attention. Congress and the people kept working on the defense program as if they hadn't heard a word he said.

We don't know as we blame, John Cudahy for getting mad. People ought to pay attention. When an ex-ambassador comes running back from Europe all out of breath and tells us he has private assurances from Hitler that he isn't going to invade us, we should act interested and appreciative.

Dr. Frank Gracey, instructor at Wayne State Teachers college, recently received a letter from Argyll, Warwick, Bermuda, written by a man who retired seven years ago from the third highest office in the Bermudian government.

Doctor in China Finds It Possible To Meet Situation

Dr. Frank Gracey, instructor in the art, speech, education and history departments of Wayne State Teachers college, has as his hobby "collecting" friends. He receives letters from China, England and Bermuda.

Yenping, Fukien, China: "Before the loss of Foochow conditions here were very acute because of the lack of food, and needless to say they have not improved in this respect. We have not suffered as much as the native population, because the exchange is good and things can be had for a price."

"After the fall of Foochow many people were much disturbed and frantically moved hither and yon. We decided to stay, come what might, and were all prepared for a turnover which has not come. During this period we had many air raids and one bombing across the river, a mile or so away."

"I have been keenly interested in the effect of this type of emergency on me personally. I think that I care less for the things we have, and am much more unselfish and charitable than ever before. After the first shock of local difficulties had passed I found that I was resigned to take what might come. This probably explains why we have been able to go about our work in a normal way, even when our friends were leaving."

"Our hospital work has increased steadily since our return from Illinois, and with the fall of Foochow work is even heavier. Among the refugees coming up the river are some graduate nurses. They are a few weeks ahead of us."

"A few more than a small child was brought in having been bitten by a snake, and tourniquet had been applied which was not removed for 10 days, making the leg dry and black. We tried to explain to the mother that the little girl's leg would have to be amputated, but the mother refused."

"One morning I passed the bus station and found four discarded conscripts lying in the road. Two had smallpox and we arranged for them to enter the isolation hospital. We took the other two into our hospital and found that both of them had relapsing fever, a disease caused by a spirochete similar to that of syphilis, but spread by lice. One we saved, the other died. We learned that they had been bought to take the place of regular conscripts; one received $8.35, United States money, the other $2.22."

"Bubonic plague and smallpox are still with us, though the campaign of prevention is gaining some momentum. It makes us sad to see how soon well-intended programs fall to pieces when there is an opportunity to profit at the common man's expense when control is off, as his expense when he approaches a locality. Everyone is out to 'knife' everyone else, which explains why we must stay and carry on."

"We have enlarged and improved our bomb cellar. Doesn't it seem too bad to spend money so badly needed for other work to make bomb cellars, but we are living in that kind of a day?"

"If this reaches you before Christmas, please accept our sincere holiday greetings for 1941."

Burton Holmes Here To Give Travelogue

Burton Holmes, America's foremost world traveler, comes to State Teachers' college Tuesday evening, October 7, at 8 o'clock, to present one of his famous travelogues, "The Republics of South America," a peculiarly timely subject. His talk will be illustrated in color and with motion pictures.

Burton Holmes, with his cameras, has visited South America many times, but at no time has it seemed more important than now for the North American to become better acquainted with the peoples of our vast sister-continent. This travelogue, "Republics of South America," provides that opportunity. There is nothing like a good "look-see," as the Chinese might say, to satisfy intelligent curiosity. In this travelogue Mr. Holmes intends to inform as well as provide an eye-fest of beauty and novelty, with an earful of interesting comment.

There will be room in the college auditorium for citizens who wish to hear and see this travelogue.

Christian Science Services

"Unreality" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, on Sunday, October 5.

The Golden Text is: "All that is in the world, the lust of the flesh, and the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life, is not of the Father, but is of the world. And the world passeth away, and the lust thereof; but he that doeth the will of God abideth for ever." (1 John 2:16, 17).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "And when the servant of the man of God was risen early and gone forth, behold, an host compassed the city both with horses and chariots. And his servant said unto him, Alas, my master! how shall we do? And he answered, Fear not: for they that be with us are more than they that be with them. And Elisha prayed, and said, Lord, I pray thee, open his eyes, that he may see. And the Lord opened the eyes of the young man; and he saw: and, behold, the mountain was full of horses and chariots of fire round about Elisha." (1 Kings 6:15-17).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The Christianly scientific real is the sensuous unreal. Sin, disease, whatever seems real to material sense, is unreal in divine Science. The physical senses and Science have ever been antagonistic, and they will so continue, till the testimony of the physical senses yields entirely to Christian Science" (p. 333).

Time Is Opportune For Improvements

Many already have found and still others should realize, that now is a most opportune time to have improvements made. Property is one of the most desirable investments—costs are very likely to advance—and improvements made now will preserve the value of property and furnish an enormous amount of satisfaction.

Wayne dealers have hundreds of suggestions that are available for the asking. These designs for new structures or for remodeling have been worked-out by experts. They combine the modern with the beautiful and useful.

Among other reasons for making improvements at once is the fact that the calendar is creeping on toward winter. So much time is spent inside during cold months that the home should be as attractive and comfortable as possible. Heating, plumbing, electrical work, painting and papering done now furnish the maximum satisfaction at real savings.
