Wayne Pioneer Dies Thursday

(Continued from Page One) the trip by covered wagon. Mr. Mears attended school in a log cabin where his grandfather, a Baptist minister who had come from England, preached and taught. The building, still standing, has been enclosed in another structure for its preservation. Mr. Mears recalled seeing his grandmother weave homespun. During the Civil war Mr. Mears practiced as drummer boy with an Iowa volunteer regiment but he could not go into service as his father was seriously ill and he had to take care of the land. He worked for years in the freight office in Grinnell. Mr. Mears married Alice J. Mills in Grinnell, Ia., in 1874. Four children were born to this union. Mrs. Mears and three children preceded him in death. The only surviving child is a son, Robert, in Omaha. The Peter Mears family came to Wayne when the railroad line was extended through this area to Norfolk in 1881. Deceased followed. Mr. Mears' first job in Wayne county was putting up snowfences for the Northwestern railroad. For 15 years he was employed with a land speculator and later was foreman for Nels Orcutt farms near Wayne. Mr. Mears continued his employment until he was 85. In 1916 he had to have most of his right arm amputated because of an infection which developed by rubbing a wart when shoveling grain. In spite of this handicap, he was able to do as much as most men who have both arms. The arm proved a very accurate weather forecaster. Mr. Mears often explained, aching at the approach of a storm. Mr. Mears had exceptionally keen eyesight and hearing. He enjoyed reading and had favorite radio programs. After the death of his wife, he lived alone and kept up his home. Mr. Mears leaves his son, Robert Mears of Omaha, grandson, Leo Mears of Long Beach, and two great granddaughters, Betty Lou and Sandra Jean Mears of Long Beach. He is also survived by three sisters, Mrs. Jennie Stall-smith of Madison, Mrs. J. M. Cherry of Wayne, and Mrs. Lydia Benson of Everett, Wash., also other relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Merle Lyon and Betty June of Madison, were here from out of town for the rites. Pallbearers were Shirley Sprague, Frank Korff, J. J. Steele and Charles Ruse. Prof. O. B. Bowen paid tribute to deceased at the college Friday. To Grand Island Meeting. Dr. L. J. Kilian, Third district Legion commander, goes to Grand Island next Monday for an executive meeting and mid-winter conference of the American Legion and Auxiliary next Tuesday. Other Legion and Auxiliary members from Wayne and Wakefield will also attend.

World Freedom Sure to Triumph

(Continued from Page One) Religious freedom for all the world! The monument still stands but has been hidden from the world by weeds and other growth. Just like the monument is hidden from view today, evils are now overshadowing landmarks of freedom. The yearning for freedom will ever keep people striving to overcome these forces and will ultimately triumph. Considering the small start, the movement for freedom has made great gains. In the first World War people said that autocratic government must go, but since that time some of the strongest autocracies of all time have grown up and flourish. The western hemisphere has been fertile ground for freedom. Here this movement will flourish and will eventually spread back to Europe and throughout the world. The evils temporarily hiding freedom will give way. "The very forces that smash freedom are the greatest assurance that it will rebound," concluded the rabbi. Rabbi Ogle was introduced by Prof. G. W. Costerisan, guest at the club, who was presented by Supt. J. W. Latherland. Dr. Victor West, chairman of the committee on support of churches and their spiritual aims, asked that March 2 be designated as Go-To-Church Sunday. He urged all to attend especially that day.

Rabbi Is Speaker For Faculty Club

Talmud Is Seen As Hopeful Outlook by Hebrews Who Studied Writings. "What is the Talmud?" This question was answered by Rabbi J. J. Ogle of South Street Temple, Lincoln, Monday evening in addressing Wayne college Faculty club following dinner at the student-union. The Talmud, to Hebrew scholars, has been a means of escape, of discipline and of hope. In the humanistic period or about 1500, the rabbi said, a great interest in Hebrew literature was aroused in the western world. As a background for explaining what the Talmud is, he mentioned that these rabbinical writings are in very difficult scholastic Hebrew and that an English translation was about half finished when the present world war began. He stated also that the writings of the Talmud began to appear after the literature of the Bible had been finished, after the canon was complete. The speaker touched upon the question of who wrote the Talmud, revealing that this work is the collected writings of the Pharisees. The Pharisees, he explained, were a rather fanatical multiple class who sprang up during the theocracy which the Hebrews had set up some time after the return from Babylonian exile. This new powerful group, he declared, wanted to take the hereditary aristocrats, the priests, out of positions of power and wanted the scholars to be the leaders of the community. Answering the question, "What is the Talmud?" Rabbi Ogle mentioned that these collected writings deal with such subjects as capital punishment, the eye-for-an-eye law and the Sabbath law of forgiving debts every seven years. The speaker stated that the Talmud contains notes on lectures which were given in academies, odds and ends of folk-lore, history of the people, ethical traditions and the science of the day. The Talmud is, he declared, a huge encyclopedia scrambled up, with a very sketchy organization. Not very great, he concluded, has been the impact of the Talmud upon the western civilization but to the Hebrew scholars who have taken an interest in this work it has been a means of escape, of discipline and of hope. Miss M. Lois Crouch, president of the Faculty club, introduced the speaker. Preceding the address, a girls' quintet sang two numbers, with Patricia Sloan as accompanist. A saxophone quintet played "La Golovinka." A cornet trio, with Genevieve Lundak as pianist, played "Echo Waltz."

Emery, sister of Miss Scott and Mr. Scott. Shortly before the service they realized that the Emery home was in Dixon county and their licenses were granted in Wayne county so they went to the Crane home for the ceremony. The Sherbaha's observed their golden anniversary here in 1936. Mr. Sherbaha had established a brick manufacturing business in Wayne in the early 80's. He discontinued this in 1917 and the family moved to McCook where they remained 10 years. They returned to Wayne afterward. Mrs. Sherbaha leaves her husband, one daughter, Ruth, now Mrs. J. C. Deving of Norfolk, and three sons, Dr. J. L. Sherbaha of O'Neill, Gettis Sherbaha of McCook, and Harry Sherbaha at home. There are three grandchildren, Barbara (Sherbaha) of McCook, Francis and Mary Irene Devine of Norfolk. Mrs. Sherbaha also leaves one sister, Mrs. Emeline Emery of Glendale, Cal. Dr. and Mrs. Devine and family of Norfolk, have been here much of the time the past few weeks and they are here for the rites. Dr. and Mrs. Letoy Sherbaha came from O'Neill Tuesday, and Mr. and Mrs. Gettis Sherbaha came from McCook Wednesday.

Equality Is Basis Of American Way

Rabbi J. J. Ogle Emphasizes Worth of Man As Main Hope for Culture. "The sense of the equality and of the worth of man is the main stream of America's culture," said Rabbi J. J. Ogle of Lincoln, in speaking at college convocation Tuesday. The equal treatment of people and the hope engendered is, he stated, America's "common heritage." "If this endures," he emphasized, "America will endure." Speaking under the auspices of the Jewish Chautauqua society, Rabbi Ogle's subject was "The Common Heritage of Americans." Prof. George W. Costerisan, convocation chairman, presented the speaker. Some European wandering lecturers, asserted the rabbi, declared again and again in the 1920's that America lacked culture and tradition. The rabbi then proceeded to examine this declaration and to draw a contrast between Europe's somewhat feudal culture and America's more democratic culture. "Now," the rabbi continued, "we are getting a better perspective on Europe's culture. The tradition of feudalism sets Europe's culture apart from ours." This tradition, he asserted, has grouped people into highborn and lowborn, has meant that non-conformist communions were subject to being persecuted, and has resulted in class wars through the centuries. The speaker stated further that the effect of the feudal tradition can be heard in Europe's folk songs and can be seen in the tired, hopeless expressions on the faces of the masses. Such a culture, he finally declared, runs against the instincts of men and the teachings of high religion. America, the rabbi pointed out, is lacking the feudal culture but does not suffer from the lack. Instead of having a surviving tradition from a feudal system, America, he continued, rewards or ignores people according to inborn ability, and the training, and the social attitudes which they achieve. And, he declared, because America has missed what Europe

Although there is considerable jealousy among the investigating agencies, the consensus of opinion is that Dies and his committee have been doing valuable work. Income tax collectors are on capital hill to collect the annual income taxes from members of the senate and house. Over 900 men attended the mid-winter meeting of the Washington board of trade. Although the entertainment committee said they saved $3,000 on this year's banquet, which they put into the naval enlisted men's fund, the menu called for three kinds of wine and included champagne. More liquor is consumed in Washington than in any other city of its size in the U. S. A. according to a statement by members of the District of Columbia committee. THE FLAG OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA—HOW TO RESPECT AND DISPLAY IT

- When flags of states or cities or pennants of societies are flown on the same halyard with the flag of the United States of America, the latter should always be at the peak. When flown from adjacent staffs the flag of the United States should be hoisted first and lowered last.
- When displayed with another flag against a wall from crossed staffs, the flag of the United States should be on the right (the flag's own right), and its staff should be in front of the staff of the other flag.
- When used on speaker's platform, whether indoors or out, the flag should never be reduced to the role of a mere decoration by being tied into knots or draped over the stand. For this purpose bunting should be used. The flag, if displayed, should be either on a staff or secured to the wall or back curtain behind the speaker with the union to the flag's right.
- When flags of two or more nations are displayed together they should be flown from separate staffs of the same height and the flags should be of approximately equal size.
- When the flag is displayed in a manner other than by being flown from a staff, it should be displayed flat, whether indoors or out. When displayed either horizontally or vertically against a wall, the union should be uppermost and to the flag's own right, that is, to the observer's left.
- Whenever a number of flags of states or cities or pennants of societies are to be arranged in a group and displayed from staffs with the flag of the United States the latter should be placed at the center of that group and on a staff slightly higher than any of the others.
- When the flag is displayed in the body of the church, it should be from a staff placed in the position of honor at the congregation's right as they face the clergyman. The service flag, the state flag or other flag should be at the left of the congregation. If in the chancel or on the platform, the flag of the United States should be placed on the clergyman's right as he faces the congregation and the other flags at his left.
- When the flag is displayed from a staff projecting horizontally or at an angle from the window sill, balcony or front of a building, the union of the flag should go to the peak of the staff (unless the flag is to be displayed at half-staff).
- Whenever the flag of the United States is carried in a procession in company with other flags, it should occupy a position in front of the center of the line of flags or on the right of the marching line.

My Swan Day

By Gracie ("Well, I Swam") Allen

Dream I had to bathe 139 babies when along came a pure white Swan and it was as mild as imported castles and it turned into a BIG cake of soap and guess what the soap was? SWAN!

Woke up late—but was all showered and dressed in half the time, because Swan lathers twice as fast as old-style floaties. Goodie!

SWAN FLOATING SOAP

8 ways better than old-style floating soaps

Two convenient sizes—Large and Regular

What fun I have now, doing dishes, what with SWAN laugh—laugh—laughing at hard water! Nothing stops SWAN from kicking up wonderful suds.
