Common Man High In American Living

Prof. H. J. Gramlich Speaks To Young Farmers Last Thursday in City.

"The United States is the only country in the world in which the common man has a car, a telephone, a radio and a decent home, enjoys a picture show once in a while and is free to express his various opinions without fear of being thrown into jail or into a concentration camp." In these words Prof. H. J. Gramlich of Chicago, formerly of Lincoln, spoke in Sioux City Thursday evening for the third annual conference for young farmers. George Owens, Albert Watson, Gwilym Jones, Charles Pierson and Agent Chet Walters were invited from Wayne county.

In discussing present methods of handling meat for the armed forces, Prof. Gramlich told that nearly all meat is boned in packing plants, leaving the bones and excess fat which are utilized for feeds and other byproducts. About 10 per cent of fat is removed, and army buyers will not use meat with fat more than a quarter inch thick. In some cases the removal of bones and fat cuts the weight 20 per cent.

Men in service are eating about three times as much meat as average civilians. About 25 per cent of the fat and 10 per cent of the pork is sent abroad under the lend-lease program.

Prof. Gramlich warned stockmen to remember that they fare best when meat prices do not go too high. In the last war, meat went so high that many began eating fish and other meat substitutes. This is bad, the speaker stated, for it takes time to get them to return again to meats.

Another lesson of the first World War, stressed by Prof. Gramlich, is that farmers should pay debts during times of good prices rather than assume financial obligations which might prove to be too much under less favorable operating conditions. The speaker urged farmers to paint and repair buildings, pay debts, install improvements that will make their homes better and their financial positions more secure.

The Big Guns Roll Along

A 155-Howitzer Ready to Roll Behind its Prime Mover.

With the gun crew sitting smartly at attention, this 155-Howitzer of the 182nd Field Artillery, is on its way to a firing position in the timbered hills at Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri. The momentum of the heavy gun, mounted on pneumatic tires and a high-speed axle, is controlled by means of air brakes by the driver of the truck, or "prime-mover", to which it is attached. The 155-Howitzer is a hard-hitting weapon and throws a shell seven miles. War Ahead WHAT this country needs to do now is to centralize on prosecuting the war and forget at least for the duration social reforms and economic soft berths such as the forty-hour week and extravagant overtime pay. Washington exports the rest of the country to arouse to the perils of the war and to essentials of due sacrifice. At the same time the country is settled by the administration's maintenance of unnecessary bureaus and costly paternalistic projects.

Doesn't Nebraska know how to sacrifice? With a series of drought and grasshopper years and short crops and low prices do Nebraskans lack the courage to surrender comforts and accept hardships—do they lack the mettle to meet the grueling test of war to defend their homes and free institutions? They oversubscribed in supporting the Red Cross and have met expectations in buying bonds, and they are giving their boys to uphold the flag in far-flung battlefields. What can Washington do that it isn't doing to make leadership more exemplary and more effective? It can put production above the short work week and the fat pay envelope, and scrap bureaus and agencies that do not belong to war activities and that no longer serve any useful purpose. The nation must feel that it is now in greater need of being saved than in being further reformed, and for that reason it would supplant dizzy experiments with sound statesmen.

Distasteful as war is to the average American, it has been thrust on us, and it must be fought to a satisfactory conclusion regardless of the cost. No sacrifice is too great to escape the talons of dictator tyrants. Speaking of Washington's brain-trusters and other excess baggage hampering best leadership, Merle Thorpe in Nation's Business, says this among other things in connection with saving the country:

"I cannot lose if public sentiment forces Washington to clear its desks for action, to sweep off for the duration the tea-tables and other devices for discussions of schemes to make over America and human nature. Such a course would surely and quickly generate a confidence in our war effort that no additional billions could match in effectiveness."

To Help Service SENATOR Harry F. Byrd, Virginia democrat, whom the Lincoln Journal rates as a liberal in some ways and a conservative in others, is quoted by that newspaper as making a speech on the floor of the senate recently, urging the resignation of Secretary of Labor Perkins for the good of the public service in this critical time. The senator is quoted as saying:

"We cannot have a total war effort in this country with continued strikes in defense industries. A first and very important step toward a firm and definite labor policy is to remove its present secretary of labor, Madam Perkins, and appoint in her place a secretary of labor who, at all times, will be fair and just to labor, but who will require that in this great emergency, there shall be no interruption of work by those engaged in the production of essential military equipment."

Donald Nelson, production chief, made a ringing radio address to the nation Monday night, directed particularly at labor and industry, and pointing out the imperative need of increasing the output of war essentials. His voice was pleasant, but firm, and he hit the nail squarely on the head in emphasizing dangers and urging more speed. He proposed awards for distinguished achievements, and seemed disposed to do everything within reason to persuade labor and industry to pull together for bigger results. He made it plain that they were working for the survival of themselves as well as for the survival of the rest of the nation.

Though violently at variance with the reasoning of loyal, orderly citizens, it is a fact that enemy terrorists, bent on spying and sabotage, are discovered in important coastal centers. Separating suspicious characters from danger localities is a necessary safeguard. Possible consequences to the American war program, through carefully hidden treachery, are too serious to run any risks. The Japs know too much about the southwest coast, and most of them have such an air of injured innocence that it is a problem to differentiate between the good and the bad. The FBI will prove equal to its greatly multiplied tasks.

States fast ascending in production, we should have a short war—a happy sequence quite in conflict with many opinions.

In conflict with the theory of Washington and of many others since his day, it is plain that in this modernized world an isolationist policy will not work, and that while we might wish to live aloof, other nations, bent on conquest, will not let us do it. Therefore, it would seem unavoidable to perpetuate armed barriers to thwart those who would slyly plan to break down what we have paid dearly to preserve.

Wayne should be angling for government production plants that will not only serve the war, but be useful after the war. It is understood several alcohol producing industries are to be established in the state, the plan being to convert grain into liquid spirits, needed in munition making. Even if a community fails to capture everything it goes after and waits, it is benefited by trying.

Governor Dwight Gieswold's announcement that he will file again for the governorship, thus silencing reports that he might seek the republican senatorial nomination, gives reasonable assurance of his victory in both the primary and election. He has served well as chief executive, and it is inconceivable at this juncture to figure sufficient opposition to turn him down.

The new deal's partisan efforts are to be accepted as essential to prosecution of the war. Republican party plans for an election, though appreciating the seriousness of the war and eager to contribute everything to it, are regarded with a suspicion that ill conceals its hollowness.

Weeding out overlapping and super-numerary propagandists and agency reporters would serve both wage reductions and conservation of paper supplies. And those retained should qualify in the essential of conciseness.

Inhabitants of and near the erstwhile dust bowl inferno got used to tightening their belts more and more, and so they are hardened by trials and privations to slant the heavy burdens of war.

One way to help the nation become more conscious of the national emergency would be to stop all expenditures for federal agencies and projects not related to war activities.

Working more than forty hours a week is not making a severe sacrifice to safeguard democracy.

Checking up on Farm Labor. (Omaha Journal-Stockman)

The urgency of the farm labor problem is getting its proper recognition. That is evidenced in a number of ways, one of the most significant, perhaps being an extended discussion in the Wall Street Journal, about the last place one would expect concern about what happens on farms, though of course the financial bigwigs, like everybody else, can realize the necessity of maintaining food production. "Assigned by the government the job of supplying American civilians, feeding United States armed forces that may reach 1.3 million men this year, and growing food supplies for Britain, Russia and China, agriculture wants to know where its manpower is coming from," points out this financial publication.

The newspapers have been full of discussion of the farm labor problem, and this no doubt has had its influence on Gen. Hershey, head of the draft, who, in his testimony before a congressional committee this week, said he was striving to educate local boards to the necessity of refraining from exhausting their farm labor rolls. At the same time he said many workers in shipyards and aircraft factories expecting exemptions "are in for a rude awakening" because many of them can be replaced more easily than farm workers.

No one is going to tell local draft boards what they should do, in general or in specific cases. But they are bound to reflect in their decisions a better understanding of the service than can be rendered by skilled farm workers. Much has been accomplished, merely by presenting the problem fairly and forcefully.

Wants His Share. (Nation's Business)

A farmer writes that he is more puzzled than comforted by frequent assurance that the national debt is nothing to worry about since the brain-trusters assure us that "we owe it to ourselves." He describes his situation thus:

"I bought a farm and have paid off all but a few thousand dollars. Interest and a substantial part of the principal are due. Farm labor has gone to war, and I cannot earn enough by my efforts alone to meet my obligations. I have asked the banker who holds the mortgage on my farm to credit the note with my part of the $60,000,000,000 debt the Government owes me, which I will gladly transfer, but he refuses. I figure as one of 130,000,000 persons in this country, my share of the $60,000,000,000 the Government owes is about $462. I should like to get it now, as it would prevent foreclosure on my farm. The banker, a conservative, tells me the Government does not owe me anything, but on the contrary I owe the Government $462. He explains that, if the Government owed me, it would be paying me interest, and the fact that my taxes have been raised to pay interest is the best evidence that it is I who owe the debt. If you think the banker's attitude is subversive I shall be glad to give you his name."

The answer can be simplified by illustration. Let us suppose four men are on an island, and each has a bushel of corn. Each borrows a bushel of corn from the other and feeds it to the birds. In the end they are no worse off because each is owed a bushel of corn. This vindicates the "owe it to yourself" theory. However, something is to be said for the banker's old-fashioned theory. Although each is owed a bushel, the fact remains that there isn't any corn.

IRRITATED AGAIN.

When Representative Taber of New York included Stornby Secretary Ickes in the group of Washington parasites mentioned recently by the president, the secretary flew into his usual rage and accused his accuser of belonging to the "obnoxious" variety on account of having lived on the same political organism 20 years. Ickes explained that during 11 of the 20 years he was making a living on his own hook. Taber approved of Ickes' inclination to write letters "because" when he was doing that he was not making speeches around the country and thus doing no apparent good. Taber suggested that if his district did not want him in congress, it could easily have voted him out at any time. He might have added that there is no chance to pass on the popularity or lack of popularity of Secretary Ickes. It is suspected, however, if he and a few others of the new deal cabinet could have been subjected to the voting test they would have been hunting other jobs long ago.

Facts in Science Are Demonstrated

Dr. W. G. Ingram of the physical science department presented in Wayne college auditorium at convocation Tuesday a program consisting of "Spectacular Demonstrations in the Field of Science."

Dr. Ingram was assisted by Don Strahan, senior from Wayne, and by Gordon Bliss, senior from Carroll, Ia.

Don Strahan demonstrated the use of an ultraviolet light, which as he said, paradoxically spoken of as black light. He explained that there are three kinds of black-light lamp. In his demonstration, he used the kind which has a tungsten filament. The demonstration showed the effect of the ultraviolet light upon paints, finger prints, finger nails, human teeth and numerous other objects.

With the assistance of Gordon Bliss, Dr. Ingram gave six "spectacular demonstrations": first, the marriage of atoms, that is, the chemical union of hydrogen and oxygen; second, of high voltage electricity jumping a gap between two conductors on an instrument known as "Jacob's ladder"; third, of a stroboscope, a device for slowing down the apparent speed of moving objects; fourth, of a gyroscope; fifth, of a Tesla coil, a device for increasing the voltage and frequency of electric current; and finally, of the sending of music over a beam of light by modulating the light from a flashlight bulb with an idea original with Dr. Ingram.

DISAGREEMENT.

An unusual and disquieting rift between the thinking of President Roosevelt and that of Editor Edgar Howard of the Columbus Telegram is reported by the Norfolk Daily News. The president approves the bill to dump on the market "stuffed" farm products to keep down the price level, and Howard, regardless of agriculture's struggles, sharply disagrees. The News comments in conclusion: "While Edgar and the president fight it out, the rest of us will probably be found alongside the intelligent and far-seeing farmers who do not want inflation, but who would like to be favored with a market that would enable them to take back control of their farms from the hands of the Washington 'experts' who have been running them since the fashion of benefit checks and AAA regulations came into vogue. These farmers also would be more content if they did not see industrial wages, which they in the long run have to pay, constantly soaring with the consent and sometimes the assistance of government agencies. If the rise in other prices could be stopped, it wouldn't take long to reach a satisfactory agreement with the great majority of farmers."

CONGRESS AS SEEN BY KARL STEFAN

Washington, D. C., February 24, 1942. The United States capitol building, excepting the senate and house wings and including the dome, is painted once every four years. The cost of the painting job is $30,000. Much painting on government property is now being suspended in the interest of the war effort.

The government buys about $393,000 worth of coal a year to heat the capitol and buildings on capitol hill. Last year Uncle Sam paid $482 a ton for coal delivered. This year it costs $5.17. The reason is higher wages and increased cost of transportation.

Uncle Sam's travel bill runs to around a hundred million dollars a year. Efforts are being made to cut that down in appropriation bills. Long distance telephone calls cost many millions. Employees are being told by committees to use air mail instead of telephone and telegraph wherever possible.

The frame for the painting of "The Signing of the Constitution" cost $1,500. The bill for it has just come to congress.

Don Wightman of Wayne, and Val Peterson and S. M. Huffman of Elgin, were being conducted around the capitol building the other day. They were shown the statues of Bryan and Morton. Mr. Huffman discovered that Morton's first name was "Julius." The former secretary of agriculture was known to most people as "J. Sterling Morton." Very few knew his name as Julius. The Elgin man noticed it on the statue and called it to the attention of his party.

Directions have been delivered to each congressional office regarding the manner in which to evacuate the buildings in case of air raid warning.

The government printing office is the biggest plant of its kind in the country. The public printer may farm out about 10 million dollars worth of printing to private industry because the government printing office can't handle it all.

The Third district member read Washington's farewell address in the house of representatives on February 23. A search into the history of that famous address indicates that Washington never read or delivered it in public. The manuscript was sold at public auction for $2,300, and is now the property of the New York public library. (In January 21, 1850) Senator Henry Clay offered a joint resolution to buy the document, but no bill was ever made for it by our national government.

There is much talk now about our annual sugar consumption. Little is known about how much sugar disappears each year. This is, but another way of saying that sugar comes into the market and does not necessarily disappear by way of the sugar bowl, the candy counter, the canning industry or some other use. The average disappearance of sugar for many years has been about 6,800,000 tons more or less. But in 1941, it had jumped to 8,000,000 tons. Somebody had been storing sugar and that somebody was certainly not the average American consumer.

For the present year 1942, there will be available in round figures from all sources about 8,000,000 tons of sugar, of which about 2,300,000 tons will be produced by our own beet and cane sugar producers. From the total of 8,000,000 tons must be deducted about 1,200,000 tons of sugar in the form of molasses. That leaves 3,000,000 tons. From this must be deducted the amount of sugar that will be used by Russia and Great Britain. This amount has not been disclosed for certain reasons. But the difference between 3,000,000 tons and the amount shipped abroad will be the amount available to the consumers of the United States in all forms. Those who are directing the sugar policy give assurance that when canning times comes, there will be ample sugar for that purpose.

For many years American silver fox farmers have been trying to make some profit. Foreign silver fox skins came in under low duty which helped the foreign farmer. That was somewhat corrected. But now the foreign fox farmer has crossed animals and has a new kind of fox skin to which he gives a trade name. It comes in to the American market with such a preference that the silver fox farmer of America will have a hard time to compete. Some corrective legislation has been suggested to help the American farmer.

Washington is perpetually in trouble about its milk supply. It has so limited its milk-shed district by regulations that only relatively few farmers are permitted to furnish milk for the national capital, in which the taxpayers of the nation are about to $50,000,000 for new defense housing. Some 9,000 families are said to go without milk, except what their children get at a penny a half pint when attending school. Milk now retails at 15 cents per quart. The farmers get $3.56 per hundred pounds. Now feed costs and wages of the farm hands have gone up so that the farmers can't play even at that price. So they demand $4.09 per hundred pounds. The consumers are fairly up-in-arms about it as the monopolies which handle the milk propose to increase the price to 16 cents per quart. As usual the city consumers blame the farmers, and not the spread of 8 cents per quart after the milk gets to town for real costs and corporation salaries and profits.

ed with the appropriations carried for the fiscal year, 1942. This cut was mostly on what the committee members felt were non-defense items.

Included in the new appropriation for the department of commerce is an item of $36,000,000 for civilian pilot training. The amount is about 16 million over the budget estimate and was increased by the committee after receiving information that the country needs more and more pilots badly. Both the army and navy draw heavily on the C. P. T. for pilots, instructors and instrument men.

The C. P. T. has trained 70,000 licensed pilots in three years. Out of 70,000 students training in C. P. T., the fatalities have been but 17.

The present capacity of the C. P. T. is 45,000 elementary students; 30,000 secondary students; 10,000 instructors; 3,000 ferry pilots and 2,000 instrument flyers.

The C. P. T. has made the following contributions to our service to date: 15,000 in the air forces; 9,000 in other arms of the service; and 2,500 flight instructors.

There is considerable debate on proposals to federalize the unemployment compensation program in our social security system. One plan is to equalize the payments so that colored participants in southern states receive benefits equal to those paid to whites in northern states. Opponents say that states like Nebraska would prob-

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Cease ye from man, whose breath is in his nostrils; for wherein is he to be accounted of?" (Isaiah 2:22).
The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Human birth, growth, maturity, and decay are as the grass springing from the earth with beautiful green blades, afterwards to wither and return to its native nothingness. This mortal seeming is temporal; it never merges into immortal being, but finally disappears and immortal man, spiritual and eternal, is found to be the real man" (p. 190).
Services in Woman's club room Sunday at 11.

CONGRESS AS SEEN BY KARL STEFAN (Continued from Page Four) Little money. Many of them do not. The usual pay here for these young people is around $1,440 a year. One thousand new employees come to town every week. Another warning for girls coming to Washington is to be careful about giving strangers your names and addresses. Racketeers get these names and sometimes these young people are exploited. There are many such cases. In reply to several questions why we originally took the Philippine islands. We were at war with Spain. We took the islands from Spain but behind much of that was the idea of protecting our trade with China. Along with the new regular Philippine army trained by Douglas MacArthur, the Philippines had a fine constabulary organization and a volunteer Philippine army known as the national volunteers numbering around 100,000. Many of these organizations had been merged before December 7 but their use was made of the national volunteers in the regular Philippine army. What part they are playing for the protection of the islands is not yet known. Very little news is coming directly from President Manuel Quezon whose definite location is not being divulged. He may be on Corregidor island or on Batjan peninsula with MacArthur. Wendell Berge, formerly of Nebraska, is chief of the criminal division in the department of justice. His is one of the most important posts in the justice department in these days when the various branches of the department are founding up subversive agents and organizations. Berge now claims New York as his home. Harvard trained lawyers have the inside track on law jobs in the government. Lawyers from New York and other eastern cities have been getting the breaks in Washington so far as appointments to important jobs are concerned. The subcommittee making appropriations for the department of justice has demanded that lawyers from other states get better recognition and that has now been promised by the department. The home owners' loan corporation which was about to fold up before the war is now busy. The reason is that houses are scarce and that agency is selling or renting a lot of properties. A big fight is on in the rules committee to get out a bill which will promote the production of industrial alcohol from surplus grain. The committee shows a leaning toward the bill although some of the big distillers who favor black strap molasses are opposing it. Soldiers in our army camps will soon be hearing lectures on just what the war is all about and what we are fighting for. No stone will be left unturned to tell the men in uniform what it would mean to the United States if we lost this war. The house committee on roads has been holding hearings on the proposal to build a highway through Canada and far into Alaska. The committee has had before it many road experts and many army officials. Anthony Diamond, the delegate from Alaska has also appeared. The governor of Alaska, Ernest Gruening, is in town conferring with the president on conditions in Alaska. Samuel King, the delegate from Hawaii, continues to talk to his folks in Honolulu almost daily. Conditions there, he says, are tranquil now. The Japanese situation there and on the western coast is a real problem. Most of the Japanese have dual citizenship. Many Japanese are being rounded up and may be moved from strategic locations. Mito Elizaki, the resident commissioner of the Philippines, no longer talks on the telephone to his chief, President Quezon, but he tells his colleagues that he hears by radio from the islands frequently. There has been no direct word from Americans in Manila except that they are interned. Some exchange of intelences or prisoners is expected in the near future. Also some word from American internees may be given out in the near future if plans undertaken through diplomatic channels materialize. Among recent visitors in the Third district office were Mrs. E. S. Seefeld of Neligh, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Dean, formerly of Fullerton, John J. Hartnett of South Sioux City, Miss Mary Beth Theuner, Norfolk, and J. I. Orkin of Omaha. Oil and Gas Test Well Is Started An oil and gas test well is to be drilled in Antelope county on the Taylor ranch two and a half miles southwest of Neligh. F. R. Bastor, drilling contractor for Smeal Hill field in California, has finished constructing a 98-foot steel derrick. Rotary drilling tools will be moved in at once to drill a test of all formations above the granite, if necessary. Estimated depth of the granite is 3,200 feet. Forrest Gave, O. J. Wamhoff and H. G. Hotchkiss, Kansas oil operators living in Norfolk, acquired leases on 30,000 acres in northeast Nebraska in 1940 and spent the past 14 months getting additional geological information and making arrangements to have the well drilled. Need Garden Crop Rotation. Rotation of garden crops should be considered when making plans for gardens in 1942, states Extension Agent Howard Gillaspie. Rotation will help control diseases and will improve the quality of the vegetables. If the garden is planted in the same spot as last year's, the location of the vegetables within the garden can be changed. Tomatoes should be planted in soil that has not grown tomatoes for three years or more. That procedure will lessen the danger of Fusarium wilt, which is found in Nebraska. Rhizoctonia and scab of potatoes are diseases which become more serious each year if the crop is planted in the same piece of ground each year. Weeds Take Heavy Toll. Ordinary farm weeds take an annual toll estimated at $2 per acre from farm income, according to P. H. Stewart of the federal land bank. A heavy growth of bindweed will, he adds, reduce production to a total loss or at least a very unprofitable crop on infested areas. An investment in control measures on bindweed will pay good dividends in future crops. More Trees Ordered. An 11 per cent increase is noted in the number of Clarke-McNary seedlings ordered in Nebraska. A total of 231,150 seedlings are ordered for spring delivery compared with 207,500 for the same period in 1940-41. Application blanks describing the 18 species that are available can be obtained at the extension office. Study Center Classes. In the study center classes at Norfolk sponsored by Wayne college every other week for four-hour session, 21 students are enrolled. The two subjects taught are education and history. Next Year's Placement. Florence Kindler, who will get her degree this spring has been elected to teach commerce at Creighton next year. Enters Air Corps. John Brugger, Jr., left Saturday for Chauteau Field, Rantoul, Ill., to enter the air corps. Mrs. Brugger moved to Ponca Monday for a while. Get Word from West. The L. W. Sundt received word yesterday that their son, Pvt. LeRoy Sundt, is at Camp Elliott, 20 miles from the marine base at San Diego. Remains Very Ill. Miss Cynthia Frazier, sister of Mrs. K. N. Parke of Wayne, remains very low in a local hospital. Shows Improvement. Mrs. A. T. Cavanaugh, who was in a hospital here from Thursday until Tuesday, is improving nicely. SOUTHEAST WAYNE Mr. and Mrs. Emil Bargholz and Emma visited Sunday evening in the Ralph Pierce home at Wisner. Mr. and Mrs. Pierce and son returned with them and visited over Monday. Vernon Meyer was at Bargholz' also Monday. Mr. and Mrs. Max Henschke had Sunday dinner in the Emil Bargholz home. Start Garden Plants. Tomato and cabbage plants for early planting can be started in boxes hung in the top of the brooder house, according to Jack Reddit, extension poultryman, and E. H. Hoppert, extension horticulturist at the Nebraska College of Agriculture. Reddit says that the humidity resulting from the watering of the growing plants will improve the brooding conditions in the house. A fairly damp or humid atmosphere makes a better place to brood chicks than the extremely dry conditions that prevail in many brooder houses. Mrs. Anna Paul of Superior, came Saturday to visit her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Beckenhauer. Mrs. C. A. Berry went to Des Moines to visit this week with her daughter, Mrs. Martin Aegerter. Exchanges Mrs. A. F. Zuhke, 87, died at Bancroft. A damage case pending since construction of the scenic highway in eastern part of Thurston county and involving about $80,000 resulted in a decision by Judge A. E. Wenke favoring Reuben Bordy and a group of other land owners. The judge found the waivers for highway right-of-way to be null and void as these agreements were not approved by the secretary of the interior. Test cases were tried and as a result land owners may be paid damages. In one test case an Indian woman was granted $1,800 damages and in another a white farmer got $1,600. Cedar county weed control district was organized last week at Coleridge. C. W. Wiley, Eugene Peck, V. A. Ward, Harry E. Johnson and Verner Wickert were named supervisors. The group set up a policy of ridding their land of 10 acres of weeds or 10 per cent of their infestation, whichever is the larger, this year. Wayne Markets, March 4. (Prices subject to change.) Mrs. J. L. Vandenburg Talks

Can Reduce Sugar In Comparative Ease Restrictions on sugar will require some saving. Miss Helen Rocke of the extension service makes suggestions that may help in the conservation. Avoid sugar wastes such as undissolved sugar in bottom of tea and coffee cups, over-sweetened foods or failures of any products containing sugar. Cut down on sugar in least noticeable ways such as using less on cereals. Eat fewer rich desserts. Fresh fruits are nutritious and desirable desserts and they carry their own sugar. Canned fruits come in the class of not-too-rich desserts. Dried fruits are a good source of natural sugar. Miss Rocke advises that putting sugar in at the end of the cooking time for sauces, such as applesauce, requires less. A cut of sugar in the diet can be overcome by increasing the quantities of other energy-giving foods such as whole-grain cereals, starchy vegetables and dried fruits. Saving of sugar will be demonstrated by Miss Rocke at the March meetings of project clubs in Wayne and Winside.

To Women's Club Here
On Defense Forum.

Twenty-three years ago we celebrated the end of a war to make the world safe for democracy. Again we are fighting for this same ideal. The issue is clear—it is freedom versus tyranny. At this critical time, each thoughtful, patriotic citizen stands willing and anxious to render every possible service to his country. In these words, Mrs. J. L. Vandenburg, Scribner, state president of Nebraska Women's club, opened her address to Wayne Women's club Friday when she gave a detailed report of the National Defense Forum held at Washington, D. C., in January.

The speaker explained that the Washington meeting was called for the purpose of discussing and formulating plans which organized womanhood could and must carry out its part in meeting the present national emergency. The conference was attended by about 1,000 officials and representatives from the 48 state federations of women's clubs and representatives from Canada, South America, Panama Canal zone and Alaska. Mrs. Vandenburg reported that the program of the conference followed six lines of "Defense": in the form of forums, headed under the several titles of military defense, civilian defense, economic defense, western hemisphere defense, health defense and Americanism defense. Discussions were led by army, navy and Red Cross officers and governmental officials and commentators.

The speaker quoted one of the discussion leaders, Florento La Guardia as saying: "The situation of the first World war is not comparable with the second. We have never been in such danger before. This whole war has been one of surprise and guessing. Hitler never anticipated the lease-lend bill nor the altruistic stand of the United States. Germany guessed wrong about Great Britain; England guessed wrong about France; Germany guessed wrong about Russia and the United States guessed wrong about Japan. Don't underestimate the strength, cruelty and ability of our enemies. All (Continued on Page Two)

Some Yarn Arrives For County Knitters

Some yarn for knitting for service men has been received by the Red Cross and will be available at the city hall rooms Tuesday and Thursday afternoons.

"The war production board," says R. B. Guthrie of the textiles branch, "does want women to knit sweaters where absolutely needed by the armed forces and where the commanding officers ask for the supplies."

"It is our opinion that the average soldier and sailor is inadequately clothed by the government and doesn't need additional clothing," Guthrie continues. "However, there are exceptions. Our boys in Iceland are such an exception. They can make good use of additional clothing. The same may be true of soldiers sent into the field on long campaigns."

"On the whole, we don't want a broad wave of knitting that will consume millions of pounds of wool that is needed for more essential purposes. The system set up with the Red Cross is that when a commanding officer desires such clothing as sweaters, he will apply to the Red Cross and the Red Cross will then arrange for the sweaters to be knitted."

"In this way," concludes Guthrie, "every sweater knitted will serve a good purpose and there will be no waste of material. We welcome the cooperation of women in knitting for the armed forces the things they need after the commanding officers have informed the Red Cross of these needs."

Catholic Teacher Saves Her Pupils

Marches Twentythree Calmly From Burning Structure In Pierce School.

Lives of 23 pupils in St. Joseph Catholic school at Pierce were saved Friday by Sister M. Auxilia, teacher, when flames of undetermined origin enveloped the building. The pupils were in 6th, 7th and 8th grades.

Students in the upper grades, on the third floor of the building, noticed the reflection of flames on the snow and trees and called Sister Auxilia's attention to the sight. When the teacher opened the door to the hallway she found the ceiling on fire and the hall filling with smoke.

After leading the 23 calmly through the hallway, the ceiling of which collapsed just after they escaped, Sister Auxilia turned in the alarm and pupils on the lower floors were able to march to safety in orderly fashion.

Students on the third floor were unable to save their coats and other apparel as the flames were too threatening. Others did save some of their heavy clothes.

The fire evidently started in the attic as it was first noticed by a farm woman who saw the roof blazing.

The school's loss is estimated at $12,000 to $15,000. Pupils will finish the term in a hall owned by the church.

Fires Are Cause Of Property Loss

Mrs. C. W. Pfeil and Julius Elhardt Homes Damaged By Roof Blazes.

The farm home of Julius Elhardt, owned by Bernard Dalton, and the Wayne residence of Mrs. C. W. Pfeil were damaged by fire the last of the week, each with considerable loss from a roof blaze. The loss is estimated at about $200 at the Elhardt home where the blaze broke out Thursday evening about 10. The damage is probably twice as much at Mrs. Pfeil's home where the fire was discovered Friday afternoon about 2:30.

Insurance is carried by Mr. Dalton on his property. Mrs. Pfeil's loss is partially insured.

Wayne Firemen Respond

Wayne firemen responded to the Thursday night call at the Elhardt home six miles north and seven west of Wayne. The blaze, which is thought to have started from a defective chimney, had gained considerable headway. The fire was confined to the roof where a good-sized hole was burned. Damage inside the house was not large. Neighbors helped move furniture out but this was soon replaced when the fire was under control.

The residence will soon be repaired.

Postman Sees Blaze

Mrs. Pfeil was at home Friday afternoon when Mail Carrier W. S. Bressler saw the roof of her home burning and notified her and firemen. The blaze, which is thought to have started from a defective chimney or faulty wiring, had gained considerable headway. A large hole was burned in the southeast part of the roof, and the one upstairs room there was considerably damaged.

Furnishings in the upstairs bedroom were burned quite badly, and some loss resulted from smoke and water.

Mrs. Pfeil will soon have her property repaired.

Mrs. Pfeil is staying temporarily with her son, Wm. Pfeil.

our efforts and resources will be required to win this war."

In discussing military defense, Mrs. Vandenburg told her audience that the air corps has now under study the air training of women as well as men. At present about 600 colleges are providing aviation instruction; 2,700 women have "wings"; 42 are acting as instructors; six are advanced instructors. Quoting General Lowe of the United States army, she stated that the present status of the army is 1,700,000 men, of whom one-fourth is in the air corps. The army goal for 1942 is 3,600,000. Shelter, food, clothing and equipment are ready for the trainees, but soldiers will not be sent into battle until properly trained.

Mrs. Vandenburg, in reporting on the forum for civilian defense, stressed the importance of mental, moral and physical training of youth and the efficiency with which local communities work out the O. C. D. program. Quoting the Honorable John Sullivan, assistant secretary of treasury, she said, "The war will be won by better planes, stronger tanks and better everything. The cost of the war will be paid by borrowing from the people through bonds and stamps, by taxes and higher income taxes, and, if necessary, as a last resort, by a federal sales tax."

In discussing economic defense the speaker pointed out that in 1941 this nation furnished 1,000,000 tons of food to Britain, and in 1942 will be called upon for 10,000,000 tons. Food as well as materials and supplies will have to be rationed. The United States will face no food shortage but she will have to eat more of this and less of that. She quoted Secretary Perkins as stating that both men and women will be mobilized for factory labor during 1942.

Relative to western hemisphere defense, Mrs. Vandenburg pointed out the need of promoting understanding, friendship and solidarity among the Americas through exchange of goods and cultures.

The speaker told the club women that the health defense program as discussed at the health forum included emphasis on safeguarding children, plans for their evacuation, if necessary, adequate provision and protection for industrial workers, government research in health and nutrition, provision for treatment of diseases, protection against prostitution and social diseases, special training for adults in medicine and nursing, and provision for mental health of both soldiers and civilians.

The speaker reported William L. Shirer, commentator for CBS, as stressing the necessity of individual and collective American determination to win this war regardless of the sacrifice hitherto unknown here. Said Shirer, "We must offer the 'Four Freedoms,' decency, dignity and security to the people of the whole world. Ours is the greatest humanitarian task of saving the world for the paramount principles to which we are dedicated, that man was created equal in the sight of the God, whom we still believe is divine and omnipotent."

Mrs. Vandenburg stressed a number of specific ways in which civilians can participate in support of defense. She listed the following: The setting up in every community of a C. D. program adjusted to the needs of that special locality and prompt volunteering of individuals according to present training or that which the volunteer is willing to receive; in rural areas the study of nutrition, 4-H club work, victory gardens, school lunches, increased canning of foods and conservation of materials; emphasis upon the cultural phases of life; pioneering by doing each job more efficiently than ever before; salvage of materials needed for defense; emphasis on health and morale in the home; participation of youth groups in coordinated defense work; defense committees in schools and colleges; high school subjects taught in such a way as to contribute directly to training for aviation, shipbuilding or other defense industries; emphasis on character development in both home and school; training in regular nursing courses and for home nursing; and above all, the purchase of defense stamps and bonds.

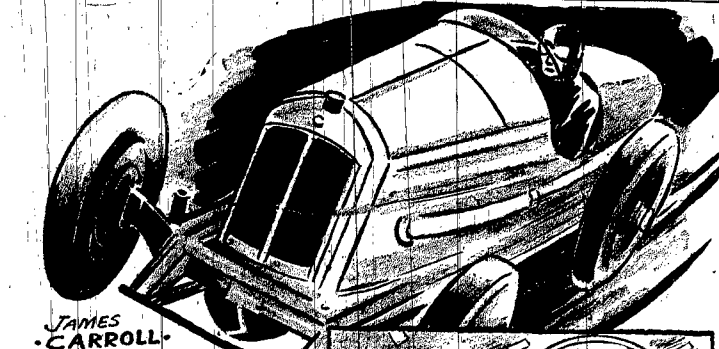

Mrs. Clarence Wright was in charge of the program and at the conclusion of Mrs. Vandenburg's address she presented Nan Nicholas in a reading, "Submerged," and Tom Johnson in "Brother Takes a Bow." Mrs. Clarence McGinn, accompanied by Mrs. Carrie Welch, sang three songs, "He Stole My Heart Away," "Love in My Heart" and "Tis Spring." The words of the last were written by Mrs. S. A. Lutgen, and its accompaniment was composed by Mrs. Carrie Welch.

Hostesses were Mrs. C. C. Herndon, Mrs. V. M. Huffman, Mrs. Albert Johnson, Mrs. J. W. Jones, Mrs. G. Gleschen, Mrs. E. S. Blair, Mrs. William Beckenhauer, Mrs. Albert Berry, Mrs. J. T. Anderson, Mrs. Russel Anderson, Mrs. John Harrington, Mrs. Geo. Crossland and Mrs. Lillian Miller.

The club will meet again March 13. Library extension will be the theme. Mrs. E. S. Blair will discuss the Wayne public library and Mrs. F. A. Mildner will give a book review. There will be the annual election of officers.

Miss Fay Wrieks and Eldon Herbolzheimer were married at Pierce Sunday last week.

The Telephone Business Is Affected, Top
The telephone industry, like most other businesses, has been affected in many ways by shortage of materials and other war conditions. Some of them are:

1. In many communities and over many long distance routes, telephone facilities have to handle a greater volume of calls than formerly.
2. It is frequently necessary to keep telephone facilities in use beyond the time they normally would be replaced.
3. In an increasing number of places everyone cannot always be provided just the type of telephone service that is wanted.
4. Telephone operating expenses have increased to such an extent that earnings are lower in spite of a greater volume of business.

All war requirements for telephone service are being met promptly and fully, and we pledge ourselves to provide the general public with the best service that is possible under existing conditions.

About Nebraska And Nebraskans

(By Will M. Maupin)

It was during Governor McKelvie's administration that the first gasoline tax was imposed. The proposition met with much opposition, but the governor was able to put it across. Then began the improvement of Nebraska highways and opposition to the gas tax finally gave way to almost universal endorsement. During the McKelvie administration the code system was adopted, later to be much modified to meet Nebraska conditions. McKelvie was succeeded by Charles W. Bryan, brother of William Jennings Bryan, who served one term. He was renominated in 1924 but withdrew to become the democratic vice presidential candidate on the ticket with John W. Davis of New York. Succeeded by John N. Norton of Polk county for the democratic candidate for governor, and he was defeated by

Adam McMullen of Beatrice, who served two terms. He was succeeded by Arthur J. Weaver of Falls City, son of A. J. Weaver who represented the old First congressional district for three terms. Governor Weaver was president of the constitutional convention of 1920, which framed the present constitution of Nebraska. Governor Weaver was succeeded by Charles W. Bryan in 1930. Governor Bryan was reelected in 1932, the first man to be three times elected governor of the state. Governor Bryan was a candidate for United States senator in 1934, but was defeated by Edward Burke of Omaha. Governor Bryan was succeeded by LeRoy L. Cochran who had long served as state engineer under both republican and democratic governors. He served three terms and in 1940, was the democratic candidate for United States senator, defeating Senator Burke, who was a candidate for reelection. Cochran was defeated for senator by Hugh Butler of Omaha. Cochran was succeeded by Dwight Griswold of Gordon, who is now serving his first term. Griswold defeated Terry Carpenter, the democratic candidate.

Under the Nebraska law a lieutenant governor may not be a candidate for governor during his term in that office. The lieutenant governor can succeed only upon the death, resignation or removal of the governor. One term must elapse before a lieutenant governor can file for governor.

If memory is not at fault, a lieutenant governor succeeded to the governorship but once since Nebraska became a state. After serving several months as governor Charles H. Deitrich resigned to become a member of the United States senate, and was succeeded by Ezra P. Savage. Savage pardoned Joseph S. Bartley who had been state treasurer and convicted of defaulting in the amount of about $200,000. Behind that is a story that may be told at a later date. That pardon ruined Savage politically. His name was not even presented in the next republican state convention, and Savage deserted Nebraska, going to the Pacific coast. He practically disappeared from sight.

The first democratic state officer elected in Nebraska was Peter Sturdevant of Fillmore county, who was elected state treasurer in 1884 or '86, because of a split in the republican ranks. He served only one term. Under the law a state treasurer may serve only two successive terms, but after a lapse of two years is eligible for reelection. George Hall is the only state treasurer who served three terms.

George W. Norris is the only man to be elected to the United States senate more than twice. He is now serving his fourth term after serving several terms in the house of representatives. A father and son have represented Nebraska in the senate. Phineas T. Hitchcock served a term as senator, and his son, Gilbert M. Hitchcock, served two terms. G. M. Hitchcock was the first native son to be elected senator.

Since 1890 Nebraska has pretty well alternated between the two major political parties. W. J. Bryan was the first democrat to carry the state in a presidential campaign. He carried the state in 1896, lost it in 1900 and carried it again in 1908. Wilson and Franklin D. Roosevelt are the other democratic presidential candidates who carried Nebraska. Willkie, republican, carried the state in 1940.
