

Editorial by Wayne Editor at Request of Capper's Farmer—An Appraisal of Farm's Human Values—Rationing Insures Some Benefits—Off to War.

Capper's Farmer, published at Topeka, Kan., with a circulation of 1,200,000, has been running a "guest editorial" of 400 words each month beginning with last October. We were asked to contribute one for the May edition and we chose to write about farm communities in which we are most interested, and which we believe will be most vital to steady development of civilization after the tragedy of war. We will quote it here with the belief that it expresses the opinion of many others.

"Farmers ring true to their responsibilities as producers and citizens. They live and feel close to the heart of the nation and they are accustomed to short profits and frustrated expectations. Their fiber has been toughened by the vicissitudes and exactions of experience.

"We refer to the average farmer. He forgets the ills of former years as buoyant springing renews the mirage of a golden future. The cow that comes home with a wobbly calf by her side squealing little pigs that appear without thought of the world's troubles, and feathered creatures that animate the farmstead give zest not found in counting-houses or markets of trade.

"The farmer's philosophy is rooted in the soil and woven about his barnyard subjects—subjects that cannot argue over farm policies and are seemingly without disposition to do so if their appetites are satisfied. He makes mistakes, and he runs the risk of interference from unfriendly weather, but he accepts fate without losing courage—without releasing hold on life's aims or obligations.

"In contrast with dwellers in congested centers where usually one does not know his next-door neighbor, the rural inhabitant who happens to fall sick, and whose crop is threatened with neglect, is given prompt assistance by fellow-farmers without thought of reward beyond never-failing gratitude.

"Since development of hard-surfaced roads and multiplied motor conveyances, Main Street on Saturday night in every rural community has become the farmer's forum. Journeying to town from his segregated domain, he visits his friends and exchanges observations. Problems are talked over with sympathetic listeners. Main Street's Saturday night, anticipated with relief, has swept aside old-time farm monotony and provincialism. Distinctions have happily disappeared.

"Farm populations, always gambling with the elements, and often suffering disappointments, are inured to hardships and practice of self-denial. With undaunted courage, farmers are meeting grim war's tasks—increased demand for food production and diminished help through surrender of stalwart sons to far-flung battlefields.

Fire Prevention Day Is Observed

State Inspectors Are Here to Help Wayne Eliminate Possible Hazards.

Fire prevention day, observed in Wayne last Thursday through cooperation with the State Fire Prevention association, instituted a campaign to make Wayne one of the safest cities in Nebraska. The aim is to eliminate all hazards from which might originate fires that could cost life and property.

The 21 members of the state association, with 14 firemen and 13 boy scouts, examined all business houses, churches, schools and court house, left at each place a blue book in which recommended improvements were noted. In 30 days after the inspection, each property owner will be asked to notify the state committee if hazards have been removed.

In addition to the inspection made by state men, school children had turned in blanks which they had used in checking their own homes. Four awards, $2 in defense stamps each, were made to four students, two at each school, for those showing they understood the work and turning in good inspections.

J. Burr Taylor of Chicago, of the western fire prevention department of the Western Actuarial bureau, spoke twice to each school Thursday.

Mr. Taylor was also principal speaker at the evening banquet which was attended by 117. He stressed the fact that losses due to fire hamper essential wartime efforts. Fire started by Japanese bombs and fire originating from carelessness result in loss which the nation cannot afford. Let's not sabotage the war effort by being careless ourselves.

W. C. Coryell opened the banquet program and called on Senator W. A. Crossland who extended greetings. He then turned the meeting over to Russell Johnson, Omaha, president of the Nebraska Fire Prevention association.

Mr. Johnson, vice president, gave the awards to students. Thomas Caldwell, Omaha, reported on the inspection conducted here. Wm. Barr, Omaha, gave demonstrations of causes of fires such as improper fuses, igniting of gasoline fumes, etc. The high school orchestra, directed by Leonard Paulson, played during the meal.

Pictures of the inspectors, firemen, scouts, Chief M. L. Ringer, Chairman Herman Lundberg and Clerk W. S. Bressler were taken by Dr. J. A. Moore.

NEW CITY LEADERS TAKE PLACES WITH CLOSING OF APRIL

THE CITY'S year has drawn to an end, and newly elected officers have taken their places. This week marks the retirement of M. L. Ringer after serving as mayor 10 years. He headed the municipal government during the worst drought period in history, aggravated by grasshoppers and low prices. His courageous and straightforward courage earned him many obstacles and kept the city back on an even keel.

Grade teachers and others will be in charge at the city school so grades will be dismissed Monday and Tuesday. The registration both days will be in the activities room from 9 to 12 in the morning, from 1:30 to 5 in the afternoon and from 7 to 8:30 in the evening.

Chinese Scholar Tell About Work

Dr. No-Yong Park outlines ways to defeat Japan in Pacific struggle.

Dr. No-Yong Park, Chinese author and lecturer and recognized authority on far eastern affairs, spoke in Wayne college auditorium Monday night on "The Struggle in the Pacific."

Dividing his address into three parts, the speaker dealt first with changes for defeating the Japanese which have been missed. Among these opportunities he mentioned the time of the Russo-Japanese war; the marching of the Japanese into Manchuria in 1931; the large-scale attack of Japan against China in 1937; and the seizure by a Korean spy, of a Japanese document, "The Triple Alliance and Anglo-American War," in California in March, 1941. This document, Dr. Park stated, revealed the Japanese plan of attack against the United States.

Dr. Park next named the secrets of Japanese power: Knowledge held by Japan, at the time of the Pearl Harbor attack, of the state of military preparedness of the United States; Japan's almost absolute immunity to being starved by a blockade, because Japan lives largely upon sea food instead of drawing the main sustenance from the land; Japan's advantageous geographic locations, since Japan has for 50 years had control over Formosa and also controls numerous mandated islands on which are airbases and submarine bases; and finally the ability of the Japanese people because of cheap labor to produce commercial commodities at an exceedingly low cost to the consumer.

The speaker recommended a number of steps to take in order to win the war against Japan: An understanding that Japan is a formidable foe and that the time element is important; an exercise of patience, good humor and optimism in the face of some defeats; the development of a strategy of concentrated attack which does not depend too much upon battleships; and exploiting the lessons learned at Bataan peninsula, one of which is, he said, to sell the idea of freedom to the Asiatics. The speaker suggested a few ways in which it might be wise to try to convince the Asiatic people that the United Nations are not fighting an imperialistic war; such as, some modification of the exclusion act which would remove certain propaganda from the use of the Japanese; or possibly a repudiation of Mr. Churchill's statement that the Atlantic charter is not applicable to Burma or India.

Miss Mildred Clark, president of the Nebraska section of the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics, will preside Saturday at the convention to be held at the University of Omaha. Milton Beckman of Wayne, is vice president. He was elected to the office last year when he was in Kearney. Some of the meetings in the city will be in conjunction with the Mathematics Association of America.

Alfred Rasmussen of Omaha, plans to move to Wayne soon to serve in the internal revenue department. He will succeed Duane Henderson who enlisted in the army. Mr. and Mrs. Rasmussen have one daughter.

To Issue Books In Sugar Ration

Schools in County Towns Will Register Persons Living in Area.

Sugar ration books will be issued to persons living in Wayne city next Monday and Tuesday through the city and Wayne training schools. Supt. J. W. Litherland will supervise at the city school and Supt. Ray Bryan and Prof. A. F. Gulliver at the training school.

Grade teachers and others will be in charge at the city school so grades will be dismissed Monday and Tuesday. The registration both days will be in the activities room from 9 to 12 in the morning, from 1:30 to 5 in the afternoon and from 7 to 8:30 in the evening.

Rationing books will be issued to people of Carroll, Hoskins, Sholes and Winslow through their respective high schools. The superintendent of each school is in charge of hours and arrangements for the school.

A. R. Ellis, chairman of the county rationing board, emphasizes that all persons must register no matter how much sugar they have on hand. Two pounds of sugar per person are allowed before any stamps are removed from the ration book. Sugar is rationed in all case or beet sugar, including granulated, confectioners, powdered, tablet, brown and soft sugars and liquid sugar, in- (continued on Page Eight)

Soil Referendum Loses in County

Proposal to Enlarge Area in Conservation Plan Fails to Carry.

The proposal to enlarge the soil conservation district from 80,000 acres to 288,000, including all of Wayne county excepting the towns, lost in the referendum of land owners Saturday. Votes cast in the county were 89 for and 35 against the issue. This is about 72 per cent favorable ballot, whereas 75 per cent is required.

The totals do not include ballots which were mailed to the state office in Lincoln. It is expected that these are few and will not change the result.

Another vote on the proposal cannot be taken for six months. Ed. Stipsky of the local office thinks the turnout was good considering that this is a very busy season for farmers. He had expected about 150 of the land owners to cast ballots. About 1,000 own land and would be entitled to vote on the issue.

The vote means that the soil office may offer its services only to the 80,000 acres in the original district. For those who wish to use soil conservation practices, the staff makes plans which the farmers follow.

Teacher Found Dead at Norfolk

Miss Anita M. Kilchenmann Rites Are Conducted in City Wednesday.

Miss Anita M. Kilchenmann, 21, teacher in Wakefield junior high and former Wayne college student, was found dead in the basement of her home at Norfolk Sunday noon by her mother, Mrs. Augusta Kilchenmann, when the latter and others of the family returned home from church. The young woman, whose health had not been the best lately, had taken her life by hanging. A first aid squad from the fire department was summoned and worked for an hour and a half but failed to revive her.

In a letter to her sister, Miss Kilchenmann had told that she would attend college this summer. She also discussed other future plans and seemed very happy. Funeral rites were conducted Wednesday at 1:30 from a Norfolk mortuary with Rev. Herbert Hackbart of Stanton, officiating. Burial followed in Stanton.

Miss Kilchenmann was born at Pilger October 3, 1920. She was graduated from Stanton high school in 1938 and earned the teachers college scholarship for her outstanding work. She taught in Stanton county rural schools in 1938-39 and 1939-40 and attended Wayne college in the summers of 1939 and 1940. She was also here through the year of 1940-41 and finished the two-year course last August. Miss Kilchenmann went to Wakefield last September to teach in junior high. She was a faithful worker in Salem church there.

Drive for Scrap To Be Stressed

Farmers Are Urged to Sell Or Donate Materials to Defense Efforts.

War production board drive to collect scrap iron and scrap rubber will be started in Wayne county the week of May 4. To date 167 of the 1,400 farmers to whom cards were sent have replied. The response indicates that these farms, about 12 percent of the total in the county, have 160 tons of iron available for defense.

It is thought that a much larger supply of scrap will be collected in the county through the thorough canvass. Farmers may either donate their scrap iron and rubber or they may sell it to the government. Scrap iron and steel is priced at 25c per hundredweight. Scrap rubber brings 15c per pound.

After the drive has been completed, three government investigators will be used in Nebraska to check for any unsold scrap iron or rubber. Collection of used iron and rubber in the farm scrap drive will be a vital aid toward keeping rubber-reclaiming plants operating on the scale needed. "We are confronted with a scrap iron and rubber shortage much like the crisis that developed in the wastepaper field some months ago. It is essential that the public concentrate its most intensive efforts at this time on salvaging every possible pound of old iron and rubber," according to the bureau of industrial conservation, WPB.

Mrs. A. M. Jacobs underwent a major operation Monday at a local hospital.

Taxation Issue Discussed Here

Legislative Council Group Holds Public Hearing in Wayne Saturday.

Valuable suggestions on assessment and taxation were gained from residents of this community Saturday by a sub-committee of the legislative council in a public hearing at the college. This is one of a number of such hearings held by the group to gain information that will be helpful to the legislators.

The legislative council includes 15 senators who study issues and make recommendations. Those in Wayne for the hearing were Senator Walter R. Raebcke of Central City, chairman, Senator Elmer Rankow of Nelich, and Senator L. M. Jepson of Hubbard. Senator W. A. Crossland of Wayne, sat with the group and introduced speakers. Dr. Roger W. Shumate, secretary of the legislative council, was also present.

Wayne to revamp procedure in tax foreclosures were suggested by H. E. Siman and R. W. Bartels. A thorough revision of the present tax system was a suggestion of W. C. Coryell and W. H. Sweet. Treasurer J. J. Steele recommended that car owners pay their car taxes when they get vehicle licenses to avoid losses. Problems of assessment were brought up by Claude Wright. The inequality of taxation on farms in various school districts was presented by Wakefield Supt. K. R. Mitchell of Allen.

Dr. J. T. Anderson talked on school problems and the need for revenues for education. Senator Crossland expressed views of some who favor a sales tax and state income tax. He advocated a severance tax on gasoline for school purposes only. He and Senator Raebcke had introduced a bill on this subject at the last session of the legislature, stressing that educational institutions are pressed for funds. Prof. O. R. Bowen, A. V. Teed and Supt. J. W. Litherland spoke on phases of school problems and revenue.

The senators were guests of the college at noon luncheon.

Undergoes Operation. Mrs. A. M. Jacobs underwent a major operation Monday at a local hospital.

VISITING FIREMEN PLEASSED OVER WAY ENTERTAINED HERE

AN IMPORTANT activity in connection with fire prevention day, last Thursday, when representatives of the Nebraska State Fire Prevention association were present, was an inspection of business houses and public buildings to locate possible fire hazards. Comparatively few dangers were detected, and those discovered were reported for correction. Business men were found generally eager to cooperate in the direction of still greater safety. Visiting firemen were strong in commending the assistance given the tour of inspection by local boy scouts who were uniformly alert and courteous. The town's hospitality was highly appreciated by the guests. Such cordial treatment is bound to make favorable and lasting impressions.

Christianity Is Essential Need

Fremont Minister Gives Message for Kiwanis Club in Wayne.

Christianity will be the major factor in determining the victory for the allies in the present world struggle according to Dr. Ralph Gilbert, Presbyterian minister at Fremont, who addressed Wayne Kiwanians Monday at Hotel Stratton. Dr. Gilbert was presented by Supt. John G. Hansen, Fremont, lieutenant-governor of Kiwanis Fifth district.

Any discussion today weaves into war, according to Dr. Gilbert. "To date we are on the losing side but it is the last battle that counts," the pastor began. "We need to awaken to the consciousness of this Hitler is either a smart man or he has men directing his campaigns who are smart." Dr. Gilbert praised the way the Russians have held Hitler's men but added that a study of the map will show that the Russians have only retaken about one-twentieth of the land conquered by Hitler last year. The Hitler forces have a strong line from the Arctic ocean to the Caspian sea. The Japs likewise have a strong line from their own islands to Australia and their scores have been in the majority so far.

"We will win this war but at present we are in desperate situation," Dr. Gilbert stated. "Wars are not won by equipment alone. There are necessary but the winning factor is that intangible something in the hearts of people." (Continued on Page Eight)

Set Up New Class Among Selectees

Commercial Farming Will Be Regarded Essential To War Effort.

Changes in selective service regulations, setting up a new 3-B class for men with dependents, will affect some but not all farmers now properly classified in 3-A, according to Brigadier General Guy N. Henninger, state director. In the new class will be placed registrants of military service age, 20 to 45, who not only have dependents but who also are engaged in activity "either essential to the war production program or essential to the support of the war effort."

Registrants classified as 3-B will not be called for induction unless the need for men becomes so great that the ranks of those classified in 3-A are exhausted, the general said. "In Nebraska the supplies of 1-A men in a few counties are virtually gone. Calls for men from other classes may become necessary. In June a small number of 1-B men will be called. These are men whose minor defects render them unfit for general military service but who are fit for limited service."

Two prime reasons for establishing the new 3-B class are these: First, to clear the way for possible induction of some 3-A men at a future date; and second, to encourage 3-A men not engaged in activities essential to the war effort voluntarily to seek work essential to the war effort. "The decision as to whether a registrant's farming operations are essential to support the war effort is still a matter for the local selective board to decide," the general stated. Subsistence farms, producing mainly enough for those operating them, are not regarded as contributing greatly to the war effort. Commercial farms, supplying essential foodstuffs in quantities to place on the market, are regarded essential. Farmers now classified in 3-A, who fall in the commercial group, will be eligible for the new 3-B classification. Those now in 3-A who are in the subsistence group retain their 3-A rating. General Henninger concludes.

Nationwide Vote To Be Taken Soon
 Wheat farmers will go to the polls Saturday in a nationwide vote on the question of wheat marketing quotas. Wayne county has about 12 growers and landlords eligible to participate. Those unable to go to the polls Saturday may secure ballots from the AAA office and have these reach the polls at least by the closing hour of voting.

Joan Pawelski and Thomas Shadley mailed this letter at the college post office.

NO war is this of government alone. It is your war and our war. Each of us is affected and each is called upon to contribute whatever aid he can to the common cause we now share. If, for example, you wait to order your coal — if everyone waits — coal can't be kept flowing from the mines in the steady stream that must be maintained if both homes and war industry are to have enough.

We have ordered all we can but YOUR help is essential in clearing the road for war needs — in getting fuel for homes delivered while there is still a surplus to be had.

Looking Ahead WRITING for Sunday's Lincoln Journal and Star, J. E. Lawrence predicts marked changes in the American order as a consequence of war's burdens and costs. Necessary sacrifices will be involved in winning the war. Reconstruction will be a gigantic task. Others predict an extension of government paternalism. Some have suggested a form of socialism—nationalization of everything—would be firmly fastened on the world.

One is amazed in contrasting monetary rewards and standards of living with what they were fifty years ago, and people should be satisfied with advantages gained and progress made. The idea of supplanting free individualism by which America has been made strong and great, with pampering government paternalism which is certain to weaken the human fiber, does not appeal to the sense that relishes self-determination and independent achievement. Many would prefer to work harder and practice more self-denial and have less than be subject to a planned economy that would rob them of initiative and one of life's most cherished incentives. How much more of an inspiration to supply dependent children from one's own earnings than turn for support to a benevolent government!

It is hoped the surpassing qualities of individualism employed successfully to win the war will not be impaired following restoration of peace by the false assumption that the social order would thereby be made richer and happier. People usually like to take chances, rise according to merit and would not have the spur of disappointment or the zest of victory taken out of their lives.

Hitler Threatens In his speech Sunday Hitler, though reflecting a considerable carry-over of bombast, was not so cocksure as he had been formerly of what he proposed to do. However, through the fearful surrender of a cringing reichstag, he succeeded in tightening his iron grip on home people. His treatment of inhabitants of Germany who are suspected of being out of step or not in full agreement, is quite as ruthless as that dealt out to helpless peoples of conquered countries. Every heartache, every wail, of anguish appears to bring fiendish glee to the cracked Hitler mind.

The Nazi dictator blames growing weakness of his war juggernaut on his own people from whom he has tried to take religion and tolerance, planting the spirit of hatred and revenge. A note of discord is likely to mean the firing squad or concentration camp. His speech breathed threats of vengeance. Thus, the sudden disappearance of Hitler's subjects who seem to be in the way or who do not please him, may be expected. Hitler's finesse calls for a state of mourning after dispatching supposed followers.

The world must and will rid itself of a system of terrorism and unprovoked slaughter practiced by Hitler and Hirohito. Glad will be the day when the rising forces of democracy are able to break the chain of enslaved peoples and restore free and peaceful living to all quarters of the globe.

Limits on Costs A CEILING over commodity costs and services proposed by the president is favored generally as sound. The suggestion that no one's salary should exceed $25,000 above government taxes staples rural communities only by the fact that such individual net returns are possible anywhere at this time. Any one able to capture an annual income of that amount in agricultural areas would be considered a phenomenon. The government is wise in putting the lid on extravagant salaries, especially in government production. While some big corporations have been reported working without profit on war contracts, others have been charged with excessive net earnings. But labor organizations should also be restricted in wages and other demands. Businesses in farm communities would soon perish if they had to pay the wages and obey the hours and other regulations imposed on big industries.

If coloring stories of conditions is to be done, light hues rather than somber shades should be used. People are not too buoyant in meeting the trials of war, and any reasonably based suggestions that will ease their feelings and soften their anxieties would seem eminently in order.

Washington broadcasts that men with dependents may in time be called into the army. Wouldn't discretion suggest crossing that bridge when we come to it?

The Wayne county boys who left for the government service this week, did not want a public send-off, as we understand. They were starting on no pleasure trip, and generally wished to leave without a shower of attentions. They have gone to help win the worst war in history, and when they return, their profound relief and the relief of their relatives and friends will make a demonstration of welcome eminently appropriate.

According to reports, tree plantings in the state have largely increased this year. Many trees had been killed by drought or by severe weather, and general efforts were put forth to restore losses.

One news commentator says organized labor is drunk with power, and that for the benefit of itself and free institutions generally it had better sober up.

The terrible tornado in Oklahoma this week warns people to look into the sky occasionally to see if one of the funnel-shaped devils is forming.

May is just ahead, and it is depended on to make up what April lacked in moisture.

Clean Up The Place. (Omaha Journal-Stockman)

Collection of waste material is one of the things that is being neglected or attended to very indifferently. Elimination of waste and salvaging of scrap are recognized as more essential now than ever but the program is halted by two important lacks, the shortage of labor and the shortage of transportation and storage facilities. There is enough iron scrap lying around the country to build a fleet of tanks. All that is needed is the will to gather it up and place it where it can be utilized.

Most of us are inclined to say, this is the job of the government or the junk dealers or the iron and steel mills. It is, but all these agencies are pretty busy right now and they will probably be busier still as the war wears on. The point is that this waste material should be salvaged and under existing circumstances it is up to you and you and you to see that it is done as quickly as possible.

There never will be a better time than now to clean up the premises and put the waste material where it will do the most good. The job is up to you.

Nuts, Mr. Winchell! (Omaha World-Herald)

From Walter Winchell's column: "Vincent Sheehan reports in Look that people in the isolationist belt are least interested in civilian defense. The ostrich poison has been so deadly they're not even interested in protecting themselves."

With all respect to the Messrs. Winchell and Sheehan, we say nuts.

It is true, we believe, that the people of the midwest (that's what they mean by "isolationist belt") aren't walking around flapping their hands behind them and wondering when the bombers will come.

We don't think they ought to be worrying overmuch about such matters.

While there is danger everywhere, obviously there is less danger in the corn belt than in the coastal areas. If midwesterners were to start worrying about their own skins and screaming for gas masks, shelters, fire fighting equipment and all the other things needed in case of raids, they might interfere with the flow of needed supplies to New York, Boston, the California cities and Detroit. They might even interfere with the main war program.

First things should come first. The first protective measures should be taken where the greatest danger is.

Even if worst comes to worst, the people out here won't be mainly (to use the Winchell-Sheehan phrase) "interested in protecting themselves." Their first interest will continue to be the sons and nephews and brothers and boy friends who are carrying the battle overseas. If someone will see that they get proper equipment, we yokels will gladly take our chances with whatever is left over.

This Way Out. (Industrial Press Service)

Add the war profiteer to your list of vanishing Americans. Like the little doggie in the song a few years ago, he's heading for his last round-up.

In spite of a few sensational stories about excessive profits from war contracts, the fact remains that the great majority of companies here in America are working overtime for victory without getting exorbitant returns. Some of them have been able to cut the cost of their contracts below the original figure and have turned back part of their profits voluntarily to the government.

For the great majority of companies, however, the profit margin is much narrower than most people realize. In the decade from 1931 to 1940 the average annual profit on gross income in the manufacturing industries was 1.5 per cent, as against 4.4 per cent in the decade from 1921 to 1930. While war production greatly stimulated industrial activity and increased earnings of manufacturing companies, almost all the gains were drained off in taxes. Although earnings before taxes may rise this year and next, corporation taxes will also rise. Data available on 1940 and 1941 incomes indicate that the peak of profits for the war production period was reached in 1941, and profits are now declining.

Facts like these indicate that industry is not holding up production to get big money. It's determined to do its war job fairly and honestly. It wants legislation that will eliminate unfair profits. As the National Association of Manufacturers, which represents 80 per cent of the nation's war industries, said recently, "we have not and will not lend our stamp of approval to any tax legislation which does not effectively eradicate the war profiteer. However, we firmly believe that it would be a grave error to attempt to correct this situation by an arbitrary, rigid profits ceiling of 6 per cent (or any other percentage formula), when the more effective method of controlling profits is through normal excess-profits legislation."

THIN EXCUSE.

The World-Herald points out feeble excuses offered by short-sighted persons for not giving wholehearted and complete support to the government's war requirements. It is admitted that mistakes have been made, but, as that newspaper emphasizes, there is no question that the gravest mistake would be made by relaxing any possible effort that would make victory harder for the allied cause against threats of totalitarianism. The World-Herald concludes with these admonishing words: "To those who are saddened by the occasional revelations of government incompetence and waste we can only say: Keep on complaining, keep on demanding improvement; keep on voting at every opportunity against the men you deem responsible for the mistakes made; but don't do anything to handicap America or hamper the men who are fighting your battle at the front. For if we cease the war mistakes we complain of under the American system will seem trivial indeed compared with the indignities we shall suffer under Hitler and Hirohito. Keep right on buying bonds!"

SMALL BUSINESS.

Greatest losses from restrictions on things essential to prosecution of the war inevitably fall to the lot of comparatively small businesses. They cannot have the bolstering effect of war contracts. Though higher wages are warranted by the increased cost of living, they usually cannot be raised on account of curtailed returns. In meeting government's demands incident to the war, small business heads have to figure carefully to keep out of the red. They are doing their share in buying bonds and in supporting agencies within the circle of war plans. Agriculture will be adequately rewarded, and big war industries will have ample margins of profit, but innumerable small businesses, serving countless communities, and giving aid to the government in every possible way, should be relieved if possible from the proposed payroll tax or any other extra burden not absolutely necessary. In meeting exigencies of the war, congress should bear in mind the unfortunate situation of small businesses and do its best to keep them afloat as liberal government and community contributors.

CONGRESS AS SEEN BY KARL STEFAN

Washington, D. C., April 22, 1942

The house has approved the conference report on the 19,150,000,000 dollar supplemental national defense appropriation bill which provides authorization and appropriations for the army special-ist corps. This corps will be headed by Dwight Davis. Members will wear a distinct uniform. They must be approved by the army personnel director. Those who draw more than $4,500 a year must be confirmed by the senate. Those waiting jobs in this corps should procure personnel placement questionnaires from the adjutant general, war department, Washington, D. C., and should return their completed questionnaires to the adjutant general. One of the primary purposes of the corps is to furnish a civilian body of specialists to do the non-combatant work of the war department so that field service may be released from desks and offices to go with troops. Hereafter, there will be very few commissions in the absence of previous military training.

Believe it or not, a Massachusetts alcohol plant is forced to dump into the sewer thousands of dollars worth of good cattle and hog feed because there is no local market for the by-product. Members are asking why alcohol plants which must waste much potential cattle and hog feed, are located on the eastern seaboard. They demand that these plants be constructed in the middle-west where we could produce large quantities of war alcohol and also produce plenty of beef and pork by feeding the residue of the alcohol making process.

The 6 per cent profit limit amendment in the recent 19 billion dollar defense appropriation bill has been eliminated. Conferees allowed some leeway for negotiations between the government and contractors. Members are demanding new legislation to stop big war profits. Many feel that the excess profits tax is the way to get the profiteer.

Latest production reports given in confidence to members show great accomplishment. By the end of this year, the mass production of war material will far exceed what even the most optimistic had hoped.

The senate committee on patents has opened hearings on patent legislation which promise interesting and perhaps startling developments. There are several measures calling upon the government to take over and confiscate all patents which may be useful in winning the war. Incidentally, it might mean the confiscation of some patents which now are being used by our enemies in the production of war materials and which have not been available to our own country, such as those under which synthetic rubber might have supplied sufficient rubber to have avoided the tire shortage.

The committee will not have an easy time. There will be the usual smoke screens thrown about the monopolies which have been and still are holding the most valuable of the processing patents. Some monopolies which have grown to huge proportions in the past couple of decades have maintained their control over raw materials and at the same time prevented new processes being used for production of other raw materials over which they have no monopoly. For instance, there are patented processes held by such corporations which would produce aluminum from many clays found in al-

Nebraska people were hopeful that due to surplus stores of wheat and corn, we would get some alcohol plants in our state. Fraser Moffat, chief of the industrial alcohol unit of the war production board, told a committee in the senate the other day that there is an adequate number of existing plants to produce all of the industrial alcohol the country will need for both war and domestic purposes. He does not believe that critical copper and steel should be used to build new alcohol plants. He assured the senate committee that the government is favoring the conversion of existing breweries and distilleries from the production of beer and whiskey to the production of industrial alcohol for war uses. He insists that there is no need to build new plants. But the delegations from most every state, instead of from hautei oves, the principal deposits of which are in Dutch Guiana. The axis submarine campaign in the Caribbean is in part for the purpose of stopping the shipment of such ores for our own plane production.

There are numerous other instances which are hangovers from the pre-war period. The most important of these process patents have been owned jointly by our own big corporations and foreign monopolies commonly called "cartels." The recent conviction of a big New Jersey oil corporation which was associated with the German Farbenindustrie in the control of synthetic rubber processes is in point. But it is only one instance. Thurman Arnold stated before the Truman committee that there were over 30 such foreign monopolies in association with the monopolies of our own country in that form of joint ownership for world control of different materials of strategic value and importance. Further revelations are due.

Millions of tons of iron ore are available in different parts of the country which require a different form of processing than the rich ores of northern Minnesota. They can easily be made available for the much needed steel production were the patented processes made available. The reluctance of patent holders is alleged to be the only reason for shortage of plastic glass. The committee may be able to find who are the owners of such patents, and to what extent the patents may be owned and controlled by international associations of corporations.

The matter of profiteering by war industries has assumed such proportions that it continues to make the front-page headlines of the metropolitan dailies. The army and navy, aroused by the protests in and out of congress, now are taking the lead in investigating contracts in force, as the Truman committee laboriously pursues its inquiries into the affairs of companies which are financially fattening upon war orders. Donald Nelson is prodding the departments to act promptly. Some corporations have taken to returning some of their excess earnings to the treasury, but there is rather slight evidence that such corporate conscience is becoming contagious. The different investigations have revealed that $500,000,000 may be saved on war orders if the crack-down on the contracting firms is hard enough.

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "He that covereth his sins shall not prosper; but whose confessions and forsaketh them shall have mercy" (Proverbs 28:13).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Reform comes by understanding that there is no abiding pleasure in evil, and also by gaining an affection for good according to Science, which reveals the immortal fact that neither pleasure nor pain, appetite nor passion, can exist in or of matter, while divine Mind can and does destroy the false beliefs of pleasure, pain, or fear and all the sinful appetites of the human mind. . . . Fear of punishment never made man truly honest. Moral courage is requisite to meet the wrong and to proclaim the right. . . . Reason is the most active human faculty. Let that inform the sentiments and awaken the man's dormant sense of moral obligation, and by degrees he will learn the nothingness of the pleasures of human sense and the grandeur and bliss of a spiritual sense, which silences the material or corporeal. Then he not only will be saved, but is saved" (p. 327).

Heating, Plumbing Fixtures May Still Be Purchased

Heating and plumbing fixtures still can be purchased by the public. Proof must be shown, however, that the fixtures are essential. The federal government has frozen heating and plumbing fixtures only for purposes which are nonessential to living conditions.

Heating equipment that is needed and plumbing fixtures to repair or replace wornout ones may be bought. The sale must come as a request from the purchaser. An affidavit testifies to the need of the items.

Fair at School Attracts Crowd

Two Students Are to Enter National Music Contest Soon in Omaha.

Annual science and mathematics fair Friday evening attracted a good number to Wayne high school. After visitors had seen the exhibits and demonstrations, a program in the activities room opened with pictures of insects and birds in this vicinity, these taken by Dr. J. A. Moore. Then Dr. W. G. Ingram showed the action of the gyroscope and told of its uses in aircraft instruments and in large ocean-going vessels. Dr. Ingram sent sound waves over a light beam of an ordinary flashlight. Through an amplifier he varied the light beam and focused it on an electric eye in the back of the room, thus changing the sound to that location. He demonstrated the law of gravity by hitting a tin can and a light bulb in mid air with a steel ball blown from a shooter. Two films were shown. One pictured geometry in nature, architecture and building. The other, "Precisely So," followed the title and pictured how delicate instruments are used in measuring things to a thousandth or even to a millionth of an inch. It also showed how devices are used even to weigh the single dot of an ordinary lead pencil.

Pep club this week issued invitations to its annual banquet honoring students who have distinguished themselves in inter-scholastic competition and those who have been recommended by sponsors for their work in journalism. The banquet will be Friday evening at the Presbyterian parlors. Members of faculty and their wives will be among the 90 guests present.

Rural Rationing To Be Explained

Teachers of Districts Are Called to Court House Saturday Afternoon.

All teachers and others who are to handle registration for sugar rationing in rural areas are called by the county rationing board to a meeting to be held at the district court room in the court house Saturday, May 2, at 2 o'clock. At that time the board, with A. R. Ellis chairman, will distribute supplies, and give instructions. Notices regarding the meeting have been sent to all rural teachers.

The board feels that written instructions sent could not cover the rules satisfactorily. It is also thought that questions may come up which will need answering so that a meeting for the purpose is best.

As no sugar will be sold without rationing books, it is necessary that the teacher or an authorized representative attend the meeting. School boards are asked to see that teachers have a way to come. Each person who plans to help a teacher with the registration is also asked to be present.

Wayne county rural schools will not be in session Monday, May 4, so as to allow for the registration in rural areas that day between 8 a. m. and 6 p. m. wartime.

FILE APPLICATION WITH STATE SERVICE

A representative of the state employment service will be at the city hall in Wayne alternate Mondays, May 11 and 25, June 8 and 22, from 8:45 a. m. to 3 p. m. to receive applications for unemployment compensation claims and for work.

Academic Meet Held at College

Violent Weather Is Looked For in Summer Says Early Prophet.

Early Days from the Wayne Herald for April 29, 1926:

Three hundred northeast Nebraska high school students attended the fourth annual academic contest at the college here. The number was considerably larger than a year ago. "The students who voluntarily gathered here negate the gloomy theory that our civilization is skidding in the direction of universal savagery."

According to a Washington weather prophet, the coming summer will be one of violent hurricanes, hailstorms and rainstorms with possibility of frosts in July. Heat and cold will not consult the calendar. A year ago a weather seer predicted a cold, wet summer and the result was a hot, dry season. So people are not putting too much confidence in this summer's prediction.

Free postal delivery will be instituted in Wayne May 1.

Natalie Johnson won the northeast Nebraska high school declamatory contest.

Sisters were married in a double ceremony here April 19, 1926. Miss Dora Woehler became the bride of Fred Smith and Miss Anna Woehler the bride of Garnet Harris.

Dan Thomas bought the brick building south of the Smith-Hovelson lumber yard in Carroll and plans to put up a filling station.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Pinkham and Phyllis of Carroll, who spent 16 months in Wales, arrived home. It was 13 years since Mr. Pinkham had come from Wales and on his return trip he found conditions changed, the war making much poverty.

About Nebraska And Nebraskans
(By Will M. Maupin)

For many years Nebraska had what was known as a "senatorial preference" vote. Voters could express their preference for United States senator and the legislature was supposed to elect accordingly.

For many years the legislature paid no attention to the preference vote. But in 1906 candidates for the legislature were pledged to vote for the senatorial candidate receiving the most votes. Gilbert M. Hitchcock defeated Senator Burkett in the preference vote, and the legislature followed suit, practically every legislator keeping the pledge. Hitchcock was re-elected but defeated for a third term by H. B. Howell.

Howell was elected by popular vote in 1918 in the republican landslide, protest against Wilson.

While Nebraskans are figuring out their income taxes a bit of history about the federal income tax may be interesting. It was first proposed by W. L. Bryan while in congress, and after a long and bitter fight it was enacted into law by congress. The law was taken to the supreme court, and that body by a five to four vote declared it unconstitutional. The original decision was five to four in favor of the law's constitutionality, but overnight one justice appended his opinion and voted to declare the law out. Two years later the law was again enacted, with a few minor changes and this time stood the test.

Nebraska has been twice honored with appointments to the cabinet of a president. J. Sterling Morton was the first secretary of agriculture, and W. J. Bryan served for a time as secretary of state in the Wilson cabinet. Morton was appointed by President Cleveland.

One of the most important senate committee chairmanships is that of the committee on foreign relations. That honor was conferred on one Nebraskan, Senator Hitchcock. It was doubly important at that time because of the first world war. It was this position that caused Hitchcock to take the lead in the senatorial fight for the League of Nations. He bore the brunt of that fight, President Wilson being stricken with the illness that later caused his death.

At that time Senator Norris was one of the "willful twelve" senators who voted against entry into the war, and it naturally followed that he opposed the League. Today Senator Norris is one of the enthusiastic supporters of the president's foreign policies, and when present to vote casts his vote for every war appropriation.

Politics is often peculiar. In 1898, while the Spanish-American war was on, the republican board of strategy beseeched voters not to change horses in the middle of the stream and elect a republican congress to support the administration of McKinley. The demagogue raised an awful howl about it. But in 1916 the democratic board of strategy beseeched the voters not to do any horse swapping in the middle of the river, but to give the democratic administration a congress. And the subsequent howl of the republicans aroused the echos.

The May issue of Readers' Digest contains an interesting article about a Nebraskan, Dr. Aaron Manasses McMillan, a Negro, who resided in Omaha until about 14 years ago, and once represented an Omaha district in the legislature. He was graduated from a medical college in Nashville, Tenn., and began practice in Omaha, where he enjoyed a lucrative practice. Then he accepted a position as medical supervisor in Angola, Africa. The story of Dr. McMillan should be an inspiration, not only to members of his own race, but to all young men.

Quarter Century Plan Is Executed

Age-Old Question Is Revived When Seed Germinates After 500 Years.

For 25 years Carson Surles told the exact date he would die. He hired an undertaker, bought a cemetery lot, secured a preacher and told his friends goodbye. At the appointed time he went home, suddenly became ill without apparent cause and died. Surles had explained that 25 years ago, when he was seriously ill with typhoid, he asked to be spared. He told that God said he would let him live until just before he became 60 years old, and Surles died a few days ahead of his 60th birthday.

How long can a seed retain its vitality? Some light was thrown on this age-old question when a Chinese lotus seed 500 years old germinated. The seed was found in the Bogi desert under several feet of loam.

While working with a Denver jail gang, Elmer got hungry. He slipped to a nearby cafe and ate three pork chops, two eggs, three pieces of pie and two cups of coffee. He is back digging dandelions.

Leaves, Trash Vanish Fast On Wayne Clean-up Day

The first annual Clean-up day sponsored by the student council of Wayne State Teachers college, Wednesday afternoon, April 15, was a busy day for men and women students alike. The campus was divided into cleanup units, each in charge of a faculty member. Starting at 1 p. m., the groups worked until 5 p. m. Women donned slacks, overalls, trousers, jodhpurs and pitched in with a will, often out-working the men students.

At 5 p. m. dinner was served in the college cafeteria. More than 500 workers ate heartily.

After dinner a game period preceded announcement of the winning group. The student group led by Dr. J. R. Johnson, won the trophy for the best cleanup job. The trophy was a small wooden gardenener on a tin can.
