Those in active military service, those who will carry the Stars and Stripes to complete victory, typify the flower of American manhood.

Boys who thus rank in the pink of condition, may, by reason of expert training, return to civilian life even healthier in mind and body than when they joined their armed forces.

Hearts will be heavier than usual on the forthcoming Memorial day.

Awards Earned By Seniors Here

Dr. I. D. Weeks of Dakota Gives Address Friday For Wayne Class.

Wayne city school graduated 65 seniors Friday evening at the city auditorium, many in the class receiving high honors. Donald Harvey was awarded the regent's scholarship to the University of Nebraska. Alternates for regent's scholarships are Bonna Preston and Ruth Damme. This scholarship is awarded on a competitive basis, seniors in the upper part of the class taking two-day examinations. Two thousand compete for the 250 regent scholarships which are awarded each year.

Myra June Thomas was awarded the Nebraska State Teachers college scholarship. One must be in the upper 10 per cent of the graduating class and have good moral character to be eligible for this scholarship.

Bonna Preston received the denominational scholarship, this being given to one with scholastic standing in the upper 10 per cent of the class, showing good citizenship and character.

Each year 15 per cent of the graduating class are chosen for membership in the National Honor society. These students must have a four-year average of "2" or better. In addition they are chosen on the basis of leadership, character and citizenship. Fifteen per cent of the 15 per cent are chosen when they are juniors. Myra June Thomas, Bonna Preston, Ruth Damme and Paul Peterson were selected for this honor when juniors. Those in the graduating class chosen this year are: Carol Nicholson, Betty Nissep, Donald Harvey, Helen Mann and Mable Luschn.

Students chosen this year from the junior class for membership in the National Honor society are: Elaine Bentback, Phillip Briggs, Leatrice Pfeueger and Irma Back. Donald Harvey, speaking for the 1942 graduating class, presented to the district a $100 bond, to be used by the school when it has matured. Dr. Walter Bentback accepted this in behalf of the community and school district 17.

Speaker from Dakota. President I. D. Weeks of the University of South Dakota gave the address, using as his theme, "Faith for Living." He stated that everyone must have something to look up to and cling to at all times. This must be a faith that is all-en-

Leaves for Cornell To Take Instruction

Ensign James W. Ahern, who had been here since finishing an officers' training course at Annapolis, Md., naval academy, left Friday for Ithaca, N. Y., where he reported Monday for a special course in Diesel engineering at Cornell university. He will be there about four months. Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Ahern took him as far as Omaha.

veloping, one that makes one go on even when discouragements come. President Weeks stated that there are three alternatives for a graduating student: First, to go on to fields of higher learning, second, to join the armed forces and third, to go out and get a job. No one can advise and know what is best for the student. That is a personal decision, a decision that should be made on the basis of what one is best fitted for.

The speaker emphasized the part the home plays in the life of all. He urged everyone to spend a little more time at home and in this way find what the home means. Perhaps in so doing it will be easier to plan one's future.

Diplomas Presented. Dr. Bentback awarded the diplomas after Supt. J. W. Litherland presented the 1942 class. Principal Milton Beckman awarded scholarships.

Rev. G. Gieschen gave the invocation and benediction. Musical numbers were presented by the Wayne city school chorus, high school girls' sextet, and the orchestra.

Trip to Northwest Interests Traveler

Mrs. H. A. Preston arrived home Saturday after spending a month in the Pacific northwest visiting her son, Harold, at Portland, and places of interest nearby. Mrs. Preston arrived at St. Edward Thursday and her daughter, Mrs. George Lightner, brought her the rest of the way and remained for a visit.

Portland is a city of beautiful homes and culture, according to Mrs. Preston. There is an abundance of beauty in the many flowers, shrubs and trees, such as the rhododendrons, azaleas and the Portland roses. Several of the trees in bloom during her visit there were the tulip trees, horse chestnuts, hawthorn and dogwoods.

The timberline lodge is located at the timbers' edge on famous Mt. Hood at an elevation of 6,000 feet, just 60 miles east of Portland. The lodge was built at a cost of one million dollars and was constructed almost entirely by hand, the forest service supervises it. Mr. Hood, which has an elevation of over 11,000 feet, is very beautiful and the snow capped peak is visible from Portland.

Mrs. Preston and her son took a three-day trip to the Oregon coast and beaches. The coastline of Oregon is a combination of rugged and peaceful shoreline. The three days were spent in a lodge right at the edge of the ocean, in fact so close that it was necessary to wash the salt spray off the windows two or three times a day in order to have a clear vision of the ocean. Several whales spouting in the ocean at a distance were seen and also seals that swam very close to the shoreline. An aquarium advertised as "Walk on the bottom of the sea" was visited to see anemones, a beautiful flower-like animal found in waters about 600 feet deep.

The Wayne lady went for a day's drive up the famous Columbia river gorge. Besides the beauty of the river and the gorge, she saw the Bonneville dam, many waterfalls, the most famous of which was the Multnomah falls and the Vista House located at Crown Point.

The shrine of "Our Sorrowful Mother" is a monument to motherhood, the only one of its kind in America. The sanctuary consists of 58 acres and is located on two levels. On the lower level is the altar hewn out of the side of the mountain, and the upper level contains the seven shrines comprised of 34 figures which are carved from linden wood and depict the life of Christ.

Mrs. Preston also visited the defense industries and ship building areas. Portland is a busy place in the construction of ships and mine-layers. Lots of rain fell during her visit there, but there were also many sunny days. Notable was the lack of wind. Portland has a population of about 350,000 people and covers an area of about 67 square miles.

Awards Earned At College High

Supt. John G. Hansen Gives Address for Graduating Class Tuesday.

Warren Noakes was awarded the regent's scholarship to the University of Nebraska by competitive examination at Wayne college high school commencement exercises Tuesday evening in the college auditorium. He was also presented the state teachers college scholarship by the state board of education. John Banister is alternate for the regent's scholarship at Lincoln and was given the church college scholarship. Emelyn Griffith received the Norfolk junior college scholarship.

Supt. John G. Hansen of Fremont, in giving the graduation address Tuesday evening on the subject, "For Value Received," advised students to be builders and to keep in mind the human rather than the material side of life. For the privilege of enjoying the first nation, state and city in the universe, Mr. Hansen reminded the young folks of obligations. He advised them to promise "for value received" to show "undying loyalty" to my country, forgiveness to my enemies, charity to all men, tolerance to opponents, good example to my children and reverence to my father. "He also asked each to promise conduct "of which my mother can be proud and respect for myself."

Summer school classes will start June 8. Original stories form an interesting section of the last issue of the newspaper which was published Friday.

"A tornado blew my house away with my wife in it." "Say, that's terrible!" "Oh, it's all right, she's been wanting to take a trip for a long time."

The only good way of keeping flies out of the house is by using good screens and screen doors. Keep your screens in good repair. If the screen is loose or has holes in it, have it re-screened. If the wood is in bad shape, get complete new screens and get them now, before the flies get really bad.

You may not be able to build the new buildings you have been planning. You can keep those you have in good shape by giving them a coat or two of Glidden paint. Paint adds years of life to any building.

besides making them look much better than unpainted ones can possibly look.

"If you put a mama duck and five little ducks in a box and shake them—what do you get?" "A box of quackers."

Although there are restrictions on some types of building, there is no restriction on repair work. You can re-work, put on new siding, replace old floors and other things of that type as much as you need. Some of these materials are getting hard to get, however, so do your repairing now.

It isn't going to be very long until you need that hay rack. Bring those running gears in the next time you come to town and be sure you are going to have that new rack when you need it.

"I ought to know, I go to school, stupid."

"Yes, and you come home the same way."

The government is not fooling when it tells you to lay in your next winter's coal supply right away. We're going to fill our bins here at the yard to the very roof, but every one who can should do the same with his coal bin. Play safe—don't be sorry!

A scientist says, a mosquito can fly for fourteen hours without landing. The trick is to get them to do it.

Heads of the USO war fund drive in Nebraska received an enthusiastic endorsement of their work in a recent conference with Colonel Early E. W. Duncan, commander of the war base at Lincoln. Colonel Duncan, center above, told Governor Dwight Griswold, left, and K. B. Carey, right, that he can speak from experience for the good the USO is doing for service men wherever they may be. Governor Griswold is honorary chairman of the drive to raise $148,000 in Nebraska. Mr. Carey, Lincoln telephone executive, is active chairman.

Hitting MEMBERS of congress have been cussed and discussed in recent months because of a couple of what many believe to have been stumbles in judgment. Ground for complaint is probably debatable. One was approval of pensions for congressmen. The other happened lately when in the rationing of gasoline, congressmen escaped restrictions. Following complaints, congress repealed the pension provision in a hurry. Members think they need gasoline to look after duties to constituents and perhaps incidentally to do a little campaigning. But the two houses gal under charges of serving selfish interests, and a few leaders cried for the exorciation of newspapers believed guilty of spreading hurtful aspersions.

Time magazine does not so much emphasize two popular grievances mentioned as it stresses lack of independence, understanding statesmanship. It suggests that voters are largely to blame for failure to take part in primaries and elections and thus choose members who can measure up to responsibilities. "Too often," it says, "a seat in congress is only the reward for dumb loyalty to party machines." It mentions some who succeed in keeping well within party regularity, but "whose records were unblemished by the slightest stain of statesmanship."

Much responsibility falls to congress in the conduct of the war, and will fall to it in the reconstruction period to follow. More than ever is the need for congressmen who are able and inclined to think proposed policies through to sound conclusions, and whose independence, comprehending and protecting all classes and sections impartially, will stand the test of hard experience. The rubber-stamp variety should be respectfully laid aside. The critical times call for statesmen not automatons.

Gasoline PROTESTS are being made in Washington against a proposed plan for nationwide rationing of gasoline. It is pointed out that gasoline is sufficiently abundant to meet all demands and that its distribution is often done through pipe lines. Reducing operation of private cars to save rubber for the war prompts the Omaha World-Herald to suggest that the government could requisition new cars and second-hand cars now in possession of dealers. Saving private cars would manifestly put the brakes on activities needed to raise revenues with which to support different branches of the war effort.

It should be made certain that restraints on private businesses will help rather than hurt the war movement before they are launched. An early-morning broadcast from Washington Tuesday suggested a transport plan to modify gasoline rationing on the Atlantic seaboard. The survival of small businesses contributes to all-out war, and therefore restraints. Extraordinary burdens should be worked out carefully in advance and made consistent with requirements.

Government Regulation of proposed regulation of the live stock industry by the government in Washington, the Omaha Journal-Stockman comments: "It is the firm belief of this publication that no such drastic action is necessary now or will be. It is the firm belief of this publication that the government can obtain almost 100 per cent cooperation from the ranchers, farmers and livestock feeders of this country by explaining fully to those people what is desired and asking them to cooperate. Such a method will be easier and will do less to disturb a marketing system that would have been superseded long ago had there been a better way."

Reichsmarshal Goering told nazi war workers that during the terrible winter campaign in Russia "the fuhrer suffered deeply for his troops, but knew he must not yield." Suffering soldiers will perhaps wonder why the fuhrer did not avoid so much personal grief by not starting. In fact, by the time the war draws to an end, Hitler will have a lot of things to regret and a great demand for excuses to offer his people. He may then be convinced he should have stuck to his painting and paperhanging.

In recent speeches President W. M. Jefferson of the Union Pacific advised the government to do what is necessary to be done without issuing a lot of advanced notes of alarm. He gave assurance that people can practice any necessary self-denial but should not be scared by preliminary speculations that seem worse in the offing than in realization.

The D. A. R. and the American Legion have long advocated complete military preparedness. They did not figure society was safe without being duly armed. If their advice had been taken we would not be in the present sorry pickle. It was easier and cheaper at the time to follow the position of those who would hold aloof on the assumption that quarrelling nations would not bother us. The present experience will teach a lesson in preparedness that will not soon be forgotten.

It is plain that a ceiling over union labor wages which are not permitted to trail too low, is quite as necessary as a ceiling over commodities. Wage increases enter, production costs, and add to the burden of the retailer if not to the consumer. Ceilings to modify inflation tendencies would seem important, but to be consistent and most helpful they should restrict labor as well as business and industry.

A few were delayed in receiving their copies of the Herald last Wednesday evening as a result of our newly installed carrier system, but the force has been enlarged and delivery should now be prompt and free from omissions. Any subscriber failing to receive his newspaper should telephonically call this office. Any dissatisfied with the service may change back to post office delivery by notifying us.

A Chinese philosopher, the son of the famous Generalissimo Chang Kai-Shek, counsels the development of fine, firm character, free from mere self-seeking and fault-finding, but devoted wholeheartedly to the task of building an independent, democratic China. His profound sense of duty may well be followed by peoples of other nationalities.

Conservation of tires will persuade party candidates to travel less and use the newspapers and radios more. They can print their pictures, properly attitudinized, and permit voters to hear their dulcet voices by radio. Incidentally, expenses could be reduced in that way.

The annual flower show has become an established institution. The one last week brought enhanced interest and increased attendance. Everybody likes flowers, but some, more than others, are adepts at cultivating them. Like music, flowers reflect artistic taste.

Girls and women who do not like to wear long stockings anyway, will feel justified by the price and the wave of conservation to trim them down to the lowest possible minimum during the war.

A writer for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch says the policy of non-resistance as practiced in India would work if the world were perfect. But it is far from perfect.

The weather has been ideal for comfort, and it will no doubt develop enough heat in due time to stimulate the growth of crops.

It is no joy ride for boys in the country's armed forces. They have a clearly defined objective, and they will reach it without any fooling.

Brass Tacks.

(St. Louis City Journal)

Let us get down to brass tacks and do something about the cost of ordinary government while this holocaust flames. Let us get down to brass tacks on war profits in the industries that are manufacturing weapons and munitions. Let us get down to brass tacks on wages anywhere and everywhere. Let us get down to brass tacks on prices of commodities, food and fuel and all other things we require while engaged in war.

If we really got down to brass tacks this is what we'd do: Through our lawmaking body in Washington, we, the masses of the people, would establish the unshakable principle that in this war nobody is to make big money and that this must apply equally to capital and labor in the war industries and to the other elements that are furnishing the raw materials to keep the nation going in all its activities.

After the War, What?

(Industrial Press Service)

Everybody is going all-out to win the war and nothing will interfere with that effort—the man on the street, the factory worker, the housewife, the farmer, and the business man are showing grim determination to bring this war to a successful termination. But we shouldn't be human if we didn't sometimes speculate on what will follow.

We face a huge task in winning this war and just as huge a task in winning the peace. To win the peace, we must prepare now—even while we are concentrating on winning the war. No one wants to go back to days of depression, of idle plants, idle men and idle money.

American industry, built and maintained by foresight, isn't ignoring this problem. It is tackling it right now, along with the dozens of other problems created by war production itself. It's laying plans for a speedy change-over to increased civilian manufacturing when this emergency is ended.

Industrialists assure us that wonderful new products are in store for the post-war markets. A glass company is preparing to offer prefabricated homes costing about $3,000 that can be assembled quickly to make cheap housing available; the airplane industry promises new luxury liners, thousands of new air fields for smaller planes, and employment to millions.

Such inventions and changes, forced by war far sooner than they would have developed naturally, are the mainstay of the widely accepted opinion that a post-war depression of monumental proportions can be averted.

As Walter B. Weisenburger, executive vice-president of the National Association of Manufacturers has said, "the development during the war production period of superior manufacturing methods applicable to peacetime production embodies the promise that we may attain in the post-war period a scale of living higher than ever before."

IN WAR WORK.

Increasingly over the years women have proved fitness to take the places of men in most fields of endeavor, and now, according to a Washington report, they are to be enlisted and specially trained for different branches of war service. There was when women's activities were restricted to caring for homes and looking after children. In the last quarter of a century they have entered places of responsibility in all professions and businesses, and as a rule they have made good. The Lincoln Journal quotes Miss Thelma McKinley, chief of the women's supply section of the war production board, as saying that by the end of 1943 six million women will be employed in war production work. It is hoped speeded production will end the war before then. However, the Journal comments: "Economic history has shown that when there is a job to be done, the women are more ready and willing than the men, taken as a whole."

Plan Two Projects At Wayne Library

A reading club and scrapbook work are two new projects to be promoted for children at Wayne city library this summer. All children invited to the reading club meet at the children's room at library Tuesday, June 2, at 2:30 when the organization will be effected. Young folks will be divided into age groups and prizes will be given for reading done during the summer. The reading will be done under direction and quality as well as quantity will count. Meetings will be held each Tuesday afternoon for 12 weeks. Stories and reports will be given on reading done and books will be discussed at that time.

The scrapbook project is of special interest to girls between 8 and 13. Young folks in this group meet each Friday afternoon at the children's room beginning June 5.

Among new books accessioned for children is "Tom Waters" by Hildreth Watson, for boys, and girls 8 to 12, a story of a child whose father was a customs officer at the border of Vermont and Canada. "Water Wings" by Elizabeth O'Malley, is a new picture book for girls, the heroine being a lackey on an airplane. "Carisy Letter," by Franklin Rock, is a story of college sports and is for boys of teen age. "Goethals and the Panama Canal," for both boys and girls, is a fine book which combines biography, a thrilling tale and history of the jungle region where Goethals was to work. "Sprightly, Alaskan Dog Driver," by Elizabeth Rieker, is new for youngsters who like dog stories. "Wee Medics," by Lillian Watson, contains poems and pictures which teach good manners to tiny tots. Of interest to the whole family is "Flying the States with the Flying Hutchinsons," by Lt. Col. Geo. R. Hutchinson, tells of a man, his wife and two daughters who traveled the 48 states in the interest of aviation. "How Does This Work?" by Creighton Post, explains principles of physics so all can understand them.

"The Family," by Nina Fedorova, for adults, is a sequel to "The Children." "First Imperfect" by Ika Chase, is interesting biography. A timely book is "If Bones Fall," by Geo. Baehr, M. D., dealing with health and safety in wartime. For Bible students are "Smith's Bible Dictionary" and "Cruden's Concordance."

GREENWOOD.

Visiting Greenwood cemetery on Memorial day reveals a wonderful arrangement of flowers and foliage. Though the day is especially intended to remember the graves of departed war veterans with sweet-scented blossoms, it is accepted as an appropriate time to express in floral tributes the profound and abiding love felt for all kindred ties that have been broken. Thus people bend their way to the cemetery and place beautiful flowers and wreaths on mounds hallowed by precious memories. The silent city on the hillside is resplendent in its marble shafts and rich verdure. Its grandeur accentuated by the occasion by the great wealth of flowers gathered by loving hands and tenderly grouped to proclaim devoted memories. Solemnity is broken only by the songs of birds and the rustle of the wind among the evergreens. Vegetable life is luxuriant. Flowers seem to try to cheer drooping spirits. The scene is sublimely sad. It inspires deep reverence.

CONGRESS AS SEEN BY KARL STEFAN

Watch for many more changes in the CAA and CPT set-ups. Aviation has become so important in this war that every phase of the civilian aeronautics administration, civilian pilot training and regular commercial aviation are now practically integrated with the army air corps. So important has been the work of the CAA and CPT that some people in Washington will not be surprised any day to find all of the technicians and officials of all CAA in uniform. The commercial air lines are now about taken over by the army and the near future will bring a program of "war purposes only" so far as commercial air travel is concerned.

Manuel Quezon, president of the Philippine commonwealth government in exile, is in town with a large group of Filipino leaders. He tells of many narrow escapes from the Japanese before reaching Australia. Quezon fought side by side with Aginaldo against American soldiers. He says Japanese proved that Filipinos and Americans are brothers today. He's going to do some lecturing around our neighborhood to the south. Filinos here are overjoyed that much of their gold and securities were snatched from under the noses of the Japanese. The gold and securities have already reached the U. S. A.

Answering questions about Japan: That country was mapped a long time ago by Americans. Uncle Sam knows nearly everything important about locations of towns and industry. Back in 1905 Americans mapping Japan were searched. The Japanese took note of prices of meat, lodging and merchandise. The Japanese didn't know it, but it may be that in 1942 American bombs will hit targets to which some of these figures referred.

Quite a few young men and women who are being transferred to midwestern cities along with the government agencies for which they work, are calling to say goodbye. Many are glad to get close to home. Uncle Sam is good to them. A Nebraska stenographer says: "I didn't want to move but the government pays my transportation, first class, and gives me a ticket for a lower berth. The government pays for the moving of all my furniture. It gives me $6 per day while I am on my way and I get an extra $2,000 for miscellaneous expenses. I get a week to make the move and I am allowed a stop-over enroute. I call that pretty liberal."

Watch the name of General Don Connolly. He used to be the civil aeronautics administrator. He is now in the army air corps as coordinator between the air corps and CAA. Soon all CAA activities are expected to be taken over by the army. Gen. Connolly may become the head of the new CAA unit. When the war is over, the CAA unit may be returned to the department of commerce so that there will be no disruption of the development of commercial aviation. Robert Hickey, assistant secretary of commerce for air, will continue to play his important role in aviation.

Nebraska jewelers have been in town asking about priorities on brass. They say much of the jewelry base depends on brass and that is hard to get. These visitors say that silver of which we have an abundance, may have to be used as a base for jewelry instead of brass. Believe it or not, tin is more important now than silver or gold.

William Jeffers, president of the Union Pacific railroad, was host at a dinner given for the Nebraska delegation the other night. This Nebraska started his railroad career as a call boy. He told his friends that he can still telegraph and likes to listen in on operators at work.

Reports that many proposed defense plants that cannot be completed this year may not be constructed because of need of structural materials for immediate arm production are worrying Nebraskans who expect several new plants in the state. No information as to the particular proposed plants that may be affected can be secured from the army which feels that information about locations of any defense plants should be kept from the enemy. Nebraskans, however, are hopeful that the new program will not affect proposed plants in our state.

Most of the contractors on defense plants have signed closed shop agreements. Result is that men trying to get jobs have to join unions. Some complaints are coming in because of the high charges made. Bills to allow any man to work on defense plant construction whether he belongs to the union or not, have been introduced. But no action is being taken on these bills by the committee to which they have been referred.

Philippine commonwealth government, they were told that the Japanese prohibited photography in military areas. The late Bert Lord had a camera and, after snapping one scene, he was taken to the police station where the film was developed. The developing film showed an unusually large radish. Lord was interested in farming. The Japanese returned his camera with polite apologies.

The government civil payroll in Washington continues to mount as thousands of additional employees come on every week. The total number reached 238,801 last month, or over 120,000 more than the peak of employment during the first World War. That number includes those actually on the government rolls, and does not include 20,000 or more who are employed by contractors on government projects. The new War department building now under construction employs some 8,000 hands, and there are numerous other big government office buildings under way. The new war bureaus continue to expand rapidly. The office for emergency management took on 3,000 employees in March. The war and navy departments added 3,500 to their forces which now number in excess of 40,000. Nearly all such employees enter the service through examinations by the civil service commission.

People in Washington are buying tanks for gas tanks on their cars. They're equipped with hose and syphons and busy during the night time. Most cars in Washington are parked on streets or on lots. There are not enough garages to hold all the cars here.

Ronald Tree, a member of the British parliament, has been here visiting with friends and relatives. Governor Griswold of Nebraska was introduced to Mr. Tree in the house lobby. The Nebraska governor was immediately recognized by the Britisher who was host to American Legion men in London some years ago. Governor Griswold was among these American Legionnaires.

A number of men representing the industry that makes tin caps for bottles have been in town trying to get priorities. They say they have to make some other kind of caps for the bottles. Uncle Sam needs the tin for war purposes.

Publishers and distributors of magazines are here for priorities too. They are up against the same distribution problem that makes it tough for newspapers. Fewer magazines, less distribution and smaller returns for the distributors are in the future picture. Publishers used to "stuff" their distributors who would have piles of surplus magazines. That is to be a thing of the past.

Gas rationing has started here. Otto Bogner of Clifton, has left town ahead of the gas famine and will drive via Atlanta. Several letters have come from home asking what to do about making motor trips into the east. The present rationing area covers 17 states along the Atlantic seaboard and the District of Columbia. The states west of Pennsylvania and West Virginia are not yet rationed and motoring can continue there if tires permit. Vacation motorists who come into the rationed area will likely find their gasoline purchases restricted to three gallons a week.

The Virgin Islands have not sent us any sugar or molasses during the first three months of this year. But they sent us 266,000 gallons of rum. Our government subsidizes the rum factory in the Virgin Islands.

There is a lot of sugar in Puerto Rico where the legislature plans an export tax on molasses for human consumption in the U. S. A., but most of the sugar there is going into rum.

Letters bring the complaints of Nebraska housewives who can't get enough sugar for the normal canning of fruits and preserves. The Third district office has contacted the responsible agencies. There may be some change that will come so that housewives can get a reasonable amount of sugar for canning purposes.

The senate amended the legislative appropriation bill to provide for replacement of the present ceiling of the house chamber with resultant abandonment of the state seals. The first state seals went into the ceiling in 1857 when the chamber was first occupied by the house of representatives. There will be a fight against the radical change suggested, which, if made, will cost $1,000,000.

Rationing railway and long-distance bus tickets may be just around the corner. The eastern railways are putting into service old and out-moded passenger cars to take care of the traffic, but daily the load grows heavier. The travel of soldiers and sailors to new posts requires hundreds of cars. The increased travel due to

Christian Science Services
"Ancient and Modern Mesmerism, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, denounced" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientists, throughout the world, on Sunday, May 31.
The Golden Text is: "The idols have spoken vanity, and the diviners have seen a lie, and have told false dreams; they comfort in vain" (Zechariah 10:2).
Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Submit yourselves therefore to God. Resist the devil, and he will flee from you. Draw nigh to God, and he will draw nigh to you. Cleanse your hearts, ye sinners; and purify your hearts, ye double minded... Humble yourselves in the sight of the Lord, and he shall lift you up." (James 4:7, 8, 10).
The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mesmerism is mortal, material illusion. Animal magnetism is the voluntary or involuntary action of error in all its forms; it is the human antipode of divine Science. Science must triumph over material sense, and Truth over error, thus putting an end to the hypotheses involved in all false theories and practices" (p. 484).

Has Tonsils Removed. Dudley Grey has tonsils removed Saturday at a local hospital.

New York City and mid-west members debate on the floor about trade barriers between states. The city members say the states should eliminate all trade barriers. Mid-west members tell New York City members that farmers have to pay $8 to $9 to take their trucks of farm products into that city. That, too, is a trade barrier, the farmers claim.

Latest information is that all CCC activities will be discontinued and the camps and equipment will be offered to the army. The NYA activities, too, will be curtailed but that agency will not be entirely eliminated. The president has not yet sent to congress any recommendation for appropriation for WPA.

The ways and means committee, still at work on the new revenue bill, is now being bombarded by lobbyists for a general federal sales tax. The new tax bill will not be ready for another month.

Frank Robinson of Kearney is in constant attendance at hearings of a committee investigating new uses for farm crops. Officials in charge of rubber have now told the committee they will recommend making rubber from grain alcohol as an auxiliary to rubber from petroleum.

The Order of the Caraboa will hold its annual meeting in Washington. There will be no numerous Filipino songs at this gathering. The program will feature eulogies of the bravery of American and Filipino soldiers. This organization is made up of Americans who were in the islands between 1898 and 1906. General Pershing is a member.

There was no opposition to the army and navy pay increase. The estimate of increased cost is between 300 million and 400 million dollars a year, depending upon the extent of expansion of the army.

The revelations as to international big business being made before the senate committee on patents are far more interesting than the meager publicity given them by the metropolitan press. That international monopolies based upon patents and patent law have been dividing world trade among themselves with great profits has been known, but the extent of the game only becomes known as war opens their books and files. It is more than incidental that the same international combinations and their control of patents have interfered with and continue to interfere with our production for war purposes. An instance of closely knit operations is the revelation that the New Jersey Oil company, which recently confessed its guilt and was fined $80,000 in federal court, had acquired over 2,000 patents from a German monopoly in exchange for trade privileges of equal value. Documentary evidence indicates that the two big organizations were in agreement as to cooperating to avoid legislation, judicial decrees and executive orders of either or all countries in which they do business. Our people are most interested in winning the wars which beset us, subordinating interest in even such important revelations, but it is evident that a house-cleaning of a thorough nature is needed in the businesses which have made our patent laws the vehicles of impairment of our war resources.

There are many who do not favor investigations by congressional committees. The complaint generally is that such inquiries never put anybody in jail. There are exceptions, of course, and possibly more law violators ought to land in prison. But congressional investigations certainly are producing results in this war emergency. The committee on naval affairs in the house has spent $20,000 investigating army and naval contracts and the "unconscionable" profits of some contractors. As soon as the light of publicity was turned on, some of the biggest profiteers commenced to squirm. And now, with the work still far from complete, the war and navy departments have renegotiated original contracts at a saving of 337 million dollars. Other savings by lowered bids on newer contracts come to 170 million dollars and the end is not yet. Saving $500,000,000 by mere inquiry and investigation makes big dividends, far beyond the committee costs for all investigations made in a century.

NEWS ABOUT THE WAR. From the Office of Emergency Management.

If Mrs. America has been wondering what supplies will be available for canning this year, she may put her mind at ease. All really necessary materials and equipment are assured. The immediate canning allowance calls for five pounds of sugar for every person in the family. And there will be a fairly adequate supply of jars, jar rings and jar tops, tin cans and pressure cookers.

Mrs. America is advised to do as much as she can in glass jars. While WEP has put no restrictions on using tin cans already made for home canning, the supply is limited.

Rings for jars will be adequate for the season since most of these were made before "Pearl Harbor."

Restrictions in the use of unnecessary yardage in women's and children's lingerie is expected to save 15 per cent of the yardage used in this industry. The restrictions apply to nightgowns, slips, petticoats and pajamas.

Woolen clothes and blankets should be carefully protected from damage by moths.

First, examine articles to be stored. Take out all bits of rubber such as shields and elastic bands and remove all pins. Remove spots, grease and soil. Mend little rips, tears, holes and holes. Brush the garment to remove moth eggs and larvae which do infinite damage. If possible, have garments dry-cleaned. If washing woollens, use mild soap and lukewarm water and be sure to rinse well.

In the future Mrs. America will have thinner and less fancy glass containers but will have 30 per cent more of them to meet the shortage of tin cans and other metal containers.

Decorations are going from Mrs. America's shoes. Steel nail-heads and brads will not be used to decorate upper parts of shoes.

The ruling that deliveries may be made to one home but once a day will not become effective until June 1.

To save dyes, colored sheets and colored edges on sheets are on the way out.

New specifications have been made for nipples. Very satisfactory nipples can be made to supply the demand at a saving of 45 tons of rubber annually.

The rubber and gasoline shortage have increased travel on public carriers 50 per cent.

The importance of getting greatest transportation service with the least mileage was stressed at a meeting for midwest states in Kansas City.

Women or girls interested in being typists or stenographers at government war agencies, arsenals or war industries are asked to apply with the civil service at the post office.

OPA advises that fluid milk and cream, on which maximums are placed, include all standard grades of milk, all special milk, all flavored and skim milk drinks and culture milk.

The nation is giving up copper and brass so that these metals may be used in war production.

WEP has reduced the use of the cocoa bean 38.8 per cent and this must be shipped in. The United States is the largest consumer of cocoa beans in the world.

Extracted honey is covered by price regulations but comb honey is excluded from the regulation as a raw agricultural product.

Though glasses may be thinner and less fancy, the nation will have a third more than usual. This is to provide for the cut-down in tin cans.

Recapped passenger car tires that will travel 10,000 miles and give motorists two years' service under wartime driving restrictions are the aim of the Government's most recent tire conservation program. Comeback is the motorist's only hope for prolonging the life of the tire he now has. Tires recapped with some of the better grades of reclaimed rubber now being produced may last through as much as 10,000 miles of city driving. By reducing automobile travel 50 percent through wartime measures, this means tires will last two years or more. Local tire rationing boards may permit drivers to have their tires recapped if they can show definite need bearing on the war effort.

Everyone is calling the junk dealer so Mrs. America is urged to be patient until he gets to her home to collect metal, rubber, rags and paper needed for defense. The salvage job is a big but most important one.

The reason that silk thread is becoming scarce is that it is stronger and is needed to stitch uniforms, parachutes and smokeless powder bags.

OPA labels will soon appear on sheets and pillow cases so the buyer can determine the goods as firsts, seconds, sub-standards or backfilled.

Landlords in defense rental areas have been allowed 60 days after April 28 to bring rents to the levels recommended by OPA.

As stocks of silk and nylon diminish, Mrs. America will turn more to rayon hose. OPA advises that high-twist rayon hose with cotton feet last best.

Shorter shirt-tail, eliminating French cuffs, taking pockets off regular shirts and leaving only one on sports shirts, restricting collar points and reducing number of buttons may be new regulations for men's shirts.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Our army spells and pronounces it "pontoon", not "ponton". as you do. Pontoon bridges cost all the way from $15,000 to $700,000. The smaller bridge using individual metal pontoons is pictured here. The largest pontoon bridge is 1,080 feet long and is made of rubber instead of aluminum.

One small bridge has a weight capacity of 25 tons, using about 2,000 individual metal pontoons. The smallest is used only to take troops over smaller streams. But whether our army uses the smaller or largest pontoon, our engineers need plenty of them. If you and every American invest at least 10 percent of income in War Bonds every pay day we can supply our fighting forces with these essentials to a victorious war.

She was taken to a West Point hospital where she was reported improving.

Several women had completed making soap over an open fire. Miss Glaubius went into the wash house and started to replenish the fire with kerosene and fuel. The kerosene can exploded, enveloping her in flames. She was burned from head to foot. Price Regulation
Seen as Necessary

Control on Home Front Is Advisable As Viewed
By Price Office.

Control of the air is needed to insure victory on the military front. Control of prices is necessary to insure victory on the home front. "With price control, rationing and a sound tax policy we will win the home front war and keep the nation sound and alert for the big military fight we have on our hands." This word from the consumer division of the office of price administration in Washington to R. M. Carhart brings the importance of 100 per cent cooperation in the war effort.

Here is how the inflationary spiral works. The rise in cost of living results in demands for higher pay. Higher pay, by increasing consumer purchasing power on the one hand and by increasing the costs of production on the other, generates additional pressure for higher retail prices. Higher prices give rise to further demands for higher pay on the part of those who contribute to production. Costs increase still further and go on, with rising prices drawing costs upward and rising costs forcing prices downward.

A general price control is the cornerstone of a larger program to prevent inflation. OPA justifies the recent general price ceiling as necessary because: Prices were still rising; price increases were general and accelerating; war spending was increasing; incomes were swelling; supplies of goods were shrinking; with 86 billion dollars in spending power and 69 billion in goods and services, demand would exceed supply.

New Police Force Established Here

Town Lots at Winside Are Auctioned Off at Sale in Early Days.

Early Days from the Wayne Herald for May 27, 1926:

Wayne city council has voted to establish a police force to help prevent recklessness in driving.

"As summer dawns at this time when one perspires without exercise and when the late, late frost is a refreshing recollection rather than a dreaded peril, June bugs appear and give such annoyance as lies within their power. The bugs come out of the ground as the elements warm up and while they are here they act as though the world and everything on and in it had been made for them. On an evening when the cicada has been rendered soft and velvety by sultry air, a June bug delights in sailing through circumbent ether and lighting on a bald head or a spacious neck or other open space. Sometimes a June bug playfully falls on its back and then slyly waits to be turned over. The days of the June bugs are not many but while they last, people know from frequent and persistent anatomical explorations that they are here.

Money Is Carried To Field by Wind

Nebraska Barber Retiring After Serving Family Fifth Generation.

A man found a $40 bill blown into a field near Oberlin, Kan., after a tornado struck that town. He turned the bill over to the Red Cross of Oberlin to help the town recover from its damage. He figured that the wind storm had carried the money from that town and it should be returned there.

Wm. Nelson, 83, of Grand Island, is retiring from the barbering business after cutting hair for a lad, David Hann, who is the fifth generation of a family he has served.

Willy Schroeder, Chicago, donated to the scrap drive an iron cross he earned for bravery in the first world war. He now proudly wears in its place a Red Cross blood donor button.

Nick Perisick saved his diamond ring but lost a finger in doing so. Robbers noticed his ring and tried to take it. Perisick bent his finger and the robbers slashed it so badly that the member had to be amputated.

The general manager of a sugar plant at Grand Island, that owns a stock of more than 7,000,000 pounds of sugar, stood in line to get a ration card which would entitle him to buy a half pound of sugar a week.

A woman stood in a long line until her turn came. After she had given a pint of blood, she asked: "What am I doing this for, all I wanted was a sugar rationing book."

The value of a tire was demonstrated at Benton Harbor, Mich., when a judge accepted a spare tire in place of a bond for a man facing court charges.

As soon as Lloyd Johnson is born, the Idaho department of statistics will send the birth certificate he requests. "To the best of my knowledge I was born at Boise August 11, 1942," writes Johnson.

When Claude Beckman, Laurel, registered for a sugar ration card for his infant son, he was stumped when trying to tell the color of the baby's hair. The infant has no hair yet.

A New York baby can't drink milk, dislikes lollypops and thrives on soy beans. The infant has a strange malady which keeps her body from assimilating the sugar in milk. Doctors say she must have lollypops to supply sugar but the child prefers to chew the stick rather than eat the candy.

After his master's car turned over and the man was taken to a hospital in Wyoming, the man's pet dog refused to eat or move from the site of the accident. After five days' vigil, the man read about the dog in a newspaper and asked that the pet be brought to the hospital. The dog was taken to his master and resumed normal life.

Nicholas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Goeres of Osmond, got a good start in life. Ten minutes after he was born he had a life insurance policy and two and a half hours afterward he had a sugar ration book.

A Topeka, Kan., farmer asked for a second sugar rationing card as his goat rooted the card out of the pocket of his coat hanging on a fence post and had a good start on the coat itself before he discovered it.

J. R. Lee, Norfolk, received word that two brothers, George in Colorado and Earl in California, both died the same day, May 15.

When a control switch turned out all display lights in New York, only one failed to go off. On this one were the words, "Army and Navy Relief."
