Soldiers of Soil To Produce Food

Sgt. Ted Milder of Arkansas, were interviewed by Prof. K. N. Parke regarding food for men in service. The two reported that the men get good food. They told that carrots are being used as the health food much as beans were eaten in the first world war. Cereal, eggs and fruit juice were mentioned as a typical breakfast. Though the men are well fed and the average weight gain is 10 pounds, Prof. Parke said the boys still enjoy the box from home.

To give some idea of the quantity of food needed, it was mentioned that 1,500 loaves of bread are used each day in one air base. At a bushel of potatoes a day per 100 men, it takes the potato crop of perhaps 100 farms to feed the boys in one camp each day. One day's ration takes 20,000 hogs. Those in colder climates need more than those in warmer places.

The interview stressed the importance of food production. In speaking on the foods for civilians, Chris Lueders mentioned that cooperation is necessary to supply the men in service and the home folks. All varieties of meats and canned goods are not always available, but all are willing to make adjustments.

Hear Radio Program.
The Wayne group listened to the national radio broadcast in which James F. Byrnes read the president's message stating that "food is a weapon in total war—fully as important in its way as guns or planes or tanks."

Maxim Litvinoff, Russian ambassador, stated that "food played no small part in making it possible for soviet troops to drive nazis back."

Lord Woolton, British food minister, stated that the "axis is depending on American farmers to fail just as the allies are depending on farmers not to fail, so that we can go on fighting and producing planes and tanks and ships. Food will win or lose the war."

Claude Wickard, secretary of agriculture, praised the devotion, determination and achievement of American farmers and added that "this year the men on the battle-lines are depending even more on American farmers."

From Guadalcanal Col. Wm. Caspers said that "guns and bullets and fighting hard are no more important than proper food." Tying in for navy, Admiral Wm. B. Young told American farmers to "produce and we'll deliver. Your success will be our success." Milton Eisenhower stated that "products of American farms are an essential weapon of war."

Edwin Keller of Indiana, complimented farmers for doing more with less help. And Mrs. Jacob Schmitz of Minnesota, urged every farm woman to raise as many chickens as possible and to can every bit of fruit and vegetables.

Help to Reestablish.
Following the radio broadcast, Ray Verzal, FSA director explained the plan of his department to help farmers reestablish themselves so they may help in the food production.

Miss Hazel Reeve presented little folks from the city school in drills, baton twirling and songs that delighted all. The girls' trio from the college closed the program with selections.

In his benediction, Rev. C. G. Stevens of Carroll expressed the dependence of all on divine guidance for meeting their goals in food production.

Overplanting Corn Acreage Is Allowed

Revision in Program Made To Supply Feed Needed To Produce Meat.

Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard has announced expansion of the 1943 farm war production program with the aim of providing additional supplies of livestock feeds for 1943 and 1944.

Under the revised production program, farmers in the commercial corn area may overplant their corn acreage allotments without penalty, provided they have planted their war crop goals. All producers who meet their war crop goals will be offered 1943 corn loans. The support price for the 1943 barley crop will be at a level equal to its feeding value in relation to corn. The price support on barley, however, will be available only to farmers who meet their war goals.

The revised program is necessary because additional corn and barley will be needed as meat and poultry production appears to be increasing more sharply than was expected at the time feed goals were established.

Hay and pasture for livestock are included as war crops. Others on the war crop list are soybeans for beans, flax, tomatoes and peas for canning and dry edible beans.

The increases in corn and barley will make necessary corresponding reductions in acreage goals for less valuable feed grains, such as oats, and in less essential crops, such as wheat.

In non-commercial corn area the loan rate will be the same as that established for the commercial corn area.

Your Government has requested that you and your family eat no more than 2 1/2 pounds of meat per person weekly. The Government recommends that the sharing allowance for children be figured at 3/4 pound of meat for children under six years, and 1 1/4 pounds per week for children from six to twelve years. With the government asking for increased farm production this year, right now is the time to make your plans. If you are going to need a brooder house, a hog house, or any other building to increase production, let us go over your plans with you. If you have no plans of your own, we have some here at the yard that may be just what you are looking for.

In a very few weeks you are going to start thinking about spring cleaning. When you do, why not give the inside of the house a new coat of paint.

There still seems to be some question in the minds of many farmers concerning what they can and cannot build. Let us state again that there is no limit on repairs. The limit on new building is $1000 per farm in a 12 month period. If you have any specific problem, let us explain it to you.

Governor's Address IN HIS address to members of the Nebraska senate Governor Dwight Griswold urged least possible legislation, speed in disposing of necessary business and an early adjournment. He noted coming tasks of war and readjustment in which Nebraska will be in a position to give valiant and effective aid. "The American way of life," he says, "must be retained." We reproduce two paragraphs:

"When this war is won—and won it shall be—our nation will have a national debt of more than two hundred, perhaps three hundred billion dollars, blooming in the shadows of an over-stuffed bureaucracy. We will have with us tens of thousands of governmental problem children, the offspring of this bureaucracy, all suckled on red tape and accustomed to giving orders to the people. We will all be tempted by recent habit to look to the government for help with every difficulty that confronts us.

"Our people have already shown they know how to do much, with little. Our farms, with scars of drought fresh upon them, have in one year, through hard work and sacrifice, made an amazing production record. Volunteers have risen by the thousands to aid in necessary civilian defense work and scrap drives. Our industries, battling shortages, have plunged into twenty-four hour operations without a serious misstep. Surely, we need have no fear that our people lack spirit, intelligent enterprise, or competent self-control."

Senator Arrives QUOTED on arriving in Washington to serve in the United States senate from Nebraska, Senator Kenneth Wherry said he entered upon his senatorial duties with "complete humiliation." We think his lowly state of mind does not run true to the Wherry type, nor is it in rapport with his task of helping check new deal blundering. His humiliation was doubtless but passing stage play, and will be found to vanish as his real self asserts the convictions that swept him into office.

In the course of an interview, he made this encouraging observation: "I expect to carry out the mandate of the people wherein I'm going to work with the senior senator, Mr. Butler, and the four congressmen to win this war and to preserve our form of government."

Farm Hopes TUESDAY was special farm day throughout the nation. Speeches were made stressing the need of increased production, and farmers evidenced eagerness to raise the biggest crops in history. Only drought, grasshoppers or some other unavoidable calamity could interfere with full realization. There is no way arbitrarily to set aside natural disasters, though the fact that we have had a series of lean years encourages the hope we will now be favored by a cycle of good years. And good years were never more urgently needed than at present with the world's multiplied food demands.

We have heard of a ne'er-do-well who blew out a gasket in emphasizing intentions to equalize riches, making those who have, give to those who have not. This reminds us that while most people in Nebraska are able to make the grade, not many, if any, could by comparison be called rich. The few ne'er-do-wells, extant and at large, should quit gurgling complaints and go to work. Then they would equalize upward and cease to be ne'er-do-wells.

We are glad to note that Senator Crossland has landed on the appropriations committee, and we think he can be depended on to employ due wisdom in avoiding unnecessary burdens of debt and at the same time yielding adequately to essential demands. We hope he will scrutinize the teachers' college comptrollership and see if it is not a useless appendage and an abysmal nightmare.

If the United States provides post-war military stimulants to self-government among foreign nations, it will be easier and cheaper than getting into another world war. Other nations could be compelled to run their own affairs and pay the freight. Doing it would seem a great relief in contrast with deprivations and oppressions suffered by them the last few years.

Idaho has invited oldsters to flock to that state, establish prescribed residence and share in the pension plan guaranteeing $5 per month to persons over 65. This arrangement was adopted in the late election, and it will cost the state $6,000,000 a year. Taxpayers will be encouraged to stand the strain in order to give comfort to grandpa and grandma.

The Omaha Journal-Stockman reports a move to unionize hatchery workers in Missouri, deploring this initial step in trying to impose organized labor on agriculture. The arbitrary conduct of unions in industrial fields lately will not help them to gain footholds in agriculture.

Rayburn attacked the bureaucracy nightmare on his return to Washington, though he carefully absolved the president from blame or responsibility. Accordingly, people will wonder where the bureaucrats came from or from whence they derive their authority.

One's credit is best if he owes nothing and wants to borrow nothing. No matter how little one earns, no matter how few frayed threads remain between one's anatomy and the great outdoors, he soars in popular confidence and esteem if he steers safely away from pressing financial obligations.

President Roosevelt passes on to congress the responsibility of trimming government bureaus and unloading a surplus of job holders handed over from peace time and unnecessary in the war. This is eminently proper, and promises well in restoring to congress its traditional functions.

The catalogue of subjects for dreams is amazingly large and varied. A dream cannot be traced to any responsible source, and often outrages rational sense. Figuring out the connection between what one dreams and what one eats could in peacetime be made a new deal project.

Prentiss M. Brown, former Michigan senator, who succeeds Leon Henderson as price administrator, smiles expansively on the eve of taking over his official responsibility. After some months of the grinding ordeal we suspect he will not have the courage to smile.

Some of us editors who have long been used to restraints on victuals and clothing, are not in the least disturbed by the government's rationing prospect. We can blame paucity of supplies on orders from above rather than on lean and flapping pocket-books.

Any good trait in a youngster is proudly acknowledged as a family tendency from way back. Any bad one is apologetically attributed to a lamentable outcropping from the other side of the family.

Where to send Christian missionaries will have to be determined following postwar readjustments. Missionaries may have to be rationed to make them go around.

Anniversary of the terrific blizzard of January 12, 1888, on Tuesday was celebrated with an overcast sky, but with snow mercifully omitted.

The fact that gangsters seldom express regret over their crimes, but over being caught, discourages possibilities for reform.

Imaginary Finger. (Norfolk Daily News)
 It was at the feast of Belshazzar and a thousand of his lords that a mysterious hand appeared and wrote still more mysterious words on the wall. And it was the prophet Daniel who confronted the great Chaldean king and his revelers by telling them what the words meant. "And in that night was Belshazzar the king of the Chaldeans slain," says the account.

There was no hand seen at the $3,000 feast thrown by Harry L. Hopkins and his new wife at Barney Baruch's expense, but we wonder if an imagination inflamed by too much rare champagne and rich wine might not have sensed an invisible hand writing on the wall of that hall, and might not that imagination have read, too, the words "Thou are weighed in the balances and are found wanting?"

Probably Biblical stories were the last things in the minds of the feasters, but anyway there is an accusing finger pointing at Harry Hopkins and the censure is very much like that read into the writing on the wall by Daniel. Nobody saw the finger at the feast, but it might have been there just the same.

Practical Postwar Planning. (Industrial Press Service)
 With the first anniversary of the bombing of Pearl Harbor, the tide of the war has taken a definite turn, thanks to the ability of our industries to produce the necessary war tools and the ability of our people to man them.

America has planned well for war. As a result her fighting men now occupy no less than 65 positions in the various war theaters of the world. With these men have gone the products of American industry, the finest ships and planes and tanks and guns that man has ever produced, together with supplies, clothing, and foods for millions of allied fighting men.

Eventually our armed forces will sweep the forces of evil before them, and while there is a long, hard road ahead peace, with its many vital and varied problems, will return.

There must be no violent upheaval in the change-over from wartime to peacetime operation. The change to the postwar order, toward which we are building, must be accomplished with as little disorder and confusion as possible.

It is only natural that industry should play a leading part in the planning for peace as it has in the planning for war, because in industry's hands are the tools and the equipment with which a sound peacetime economy may be implemented.

In its postwar planning activities the National Association of Manufacturers deals not with fantasy but with fact, not with promises but with pay rolls, not with jargon but with jobs. Essentially practical because a satisfactory postwar era involves the material things of life, industry's postwar program deals with men, materials, money, and management.

Toward a sound, enduring postwar economy the Association is taking positive steps to facilitate transition from war production to peacetime production, to provide jobs, to alleviate hardships, to prevent depression, either in business, labor, or government.

FATEFUL 1943.
 The shadow of totalitarian enemies still darkens the earth, but under democracy's growing force it is becoming noticeably less. War etches a black image in every mind, but in time it will disappear with freedom secure and reconstruction gladly undertaken. Irreparable losses will linger as sad memories, but they will be endured as inevitable and heroic contributions to a better social order. Some who had predicted a long war—running several years—have modified their opinions. The president does not say the war will be over this year, but he does not say it will last longer than 1943. With the beginning of the year, Admiral Halsey, southwest Pacific commander, forecast victory for the allies before 1944, including complete overthrow of the Japs, and while his opinion is disputed, he should and doubtless does have reasons for his conclusions. The way allied might is gaining headway from day to day—the way united nations are taking the offensive with telling results on all battle fronts—gives ground for hope that decisive blows will be struck during 1943.

being discontented in each day's work, we'll live a life of discontent. Get a thrill out of serving wherever you are. And after you have enjoyed your schooling and your profession, be determined to get the greatest thrill of all in your own home. As one goes from public life to take charge of her own family, the home duties may seem less important and might lead to discouragement and dissatisfaction. But happier homes will result when each girl realizes that she is the queen in her home and the influence that is unassailable. She can be a real helpmate. Nothing has ever before, she can train herself to help provide for the schooling of some of our boys in service have sacrificed.

"Perhaps these ideas may seem to have no bearing on journalism, but a good philosophy of life is, in my opinion, essential for one who enjoys and succeeds in newspaper work. We need above everything else a sympathetic interest in people. After all, a newspaper is a word picture of humanity.

"Women are very successful in journalism. They understand people as a rule and have an important part in news service all over the world. Now especially, when men are called to many posts, women are filling an important niche in this branch.

"Journalism has so many avenues for service that it is most desirable as a profession. Women occupy all lines of literary positions—writing straight news, features, special columns, society, headlines and even some sports (though we've often been informed that women's sport stories have a taint of society). Advertising, too, is a line that offers opportunity to women. Many are art designers and copy writers for ads. This line is especially advantageous to those interested in it, because opportunities for such work are numerous in stores as well as in large newspaper offices. Journalism teaching is another avenue of possible service. Women are also filling positions as salesmen in newspaper offices, and many others are learning the exacting work of operating linotypes. Women's keen understanding of human nature makes them good salesmen if their interests lie in this line, and their light, fast touch of the fingers insures their success as operators.

"So, we find that newspapering offers real opportunity for women interested in this line, and the profession can provide an opening to more specialized pursuits in writing, art and mechanics.

"Newspaper work is exacting. It requires long hours and hard work. But, as far as I have seen, these journalists are so happy in their work that they never think of how

SECURITY.

The Saturday Evening Post reasons that any kind of social security depends on private enterprise to produce it. "How to satisfy social needs without crippling the system on which we must depend to supply them," is the crux of the problem, says the Post. Even a low standard of living "cannot be guaranteed unless the economy is permitted to earn its way, plus enough extra to provide the desired benefits," comments the Post with this conclusion: "It would be reassuring to find among the more strict proponents of social security an equal zeal for the preservation of the free-enterprise system, without which we should no longer be free men and enjoy only the precarious security of the serf. A free-enterprise system does not run itself, nor is it operated by 'master plans' or groups. Such an economy depends upon men, and men who are not much concerned with security—at any rate for themselves—but very much concerned with accomplishment. Our advance to new horizons will not bog down if these men are left free to plan or organize and take risks. If they are not, the social security will be a mere name."

exacting their tasks are. Accomplishment is their inspiration. In fact, accomplishment seems to me to be the most satisfying experience of every endeavor.

"May I suggest that you resolve to enjoy the field you have chosen and do the best you can in it? Keep busy, do your work well and get a good share of enjoyment each day.

"In closing, perhaps you'd like to hear a bit of philosophy which has always inspired me since university days. For me, it seems to sum up the goals of experience.

"Self-realization is the way this is expressed, and it seems to apply to everyone at all times:

"Full self-realization, or complete organization of human conduct, requires the realization of: First, the individual self; second, the social self; and third, the universal self.

"Self-realization within the individual here means that the total interest of the individual shall be realized by all his acts.

"Then, regarding the social self-realization requires that his interest as an individual be adjusted to the interests of others in society.

"And self-realization in its third and culminating phase, requires the adjustment of human interests to the all-comprehensive reality, the spiritual self within which all our human interests may be included and harmonized."

LEGISLATIVE LETTER

Greetings to all my friends and constituents in Wayne, Stanton and Colfax counties. I sincerely appreciate the honor of serving you. Whenever you come to Lincoln, please call on me.

I am for a shorter legislative session where fewer laws are enacted and carefully considered, and at less expense to the tax payers. If legislators will introduce fewer bills this result can be realized.

On the very first day of the session I made a fight to dispense with the office of Assistant Sergeant at Arms and doorkeeper which would have saved about a $500.00 in tax funds but my colleagues did not concur. I urged that the postmaster and chaplain who have light duties take this over. I succeeded in getting on the second day a motion amended which would allow any legislator to waive his right to a set of state statutes. Each legislator has a right to a full set of statutes every session, whether he has been there one term or two, three or four terms. The sets cost approximately $20.00 each. I publicly waived my right to a new set and am using the set I received last session. Had all legislators done this who already had sets it would have saved about another $500.00 in tax funds. I believe in saving wherever possible.

I am a member of the committee on appointments which makes all standing committee assignments of legislators and considers certain appointments by the Governor. Am also a member of the important appropriations committee which considers and reports to the legislature for final action all appropriations made to state institutions, departments, state universities, state teachers colleges and other educational units, in fact all bodies who receive state funds. I will do my utmost to save money where it can be saved and assist in adequately and wisely providing for the maintenance of all of them.

Next week I will tell you about some of the bills that have been introduced and will shortly be introduced. Copies of every bill introduced will be sent to your community and the places where same will be available will be announced. If any of you are interested in any certain bill, a post card to me here will bring you a printed copy of such bill. I look forward with pleasure to hearing from many of you.

William A. Crossland,
 State Senator.

Washington, D. C., January 6, 1943

All Nebraska members of the house and senate are on the job in Washington. The house members will hold weekly meetings to discuss legislation of special interest to Nebraska. They plan to sit pretty close together in the house in order to be ready for conferences. The Kansas delegation has been doing that for years. The Nebraska house group plans regular meetings with the Nebraska senators.

There are persistent reports in Washington that clothing may soon be rationed. The report is that OPA may inaugurate the point system when and if clothing rationing comes.

The house military affairs committee has completed investigation of printing done at taxpayers' expense in war plants in Nebraska. There were complaints that finely embossed and high priced stationery had been costing the government many unnecessary thousands of dollars when less expensive printing and stationery could be used. The report of the investigation will be released soon.

Look for new action in the fight for a better unified command of our fighting forces. The men back of this move are those who believe that aviation will win the war. They want a civilian secretary put in charge of the whole war effort—a broad-gauged patriot who has neither army nor navy leanings; a man who plays no favorites, and under him an assistant secretary for air who really knows air strength and who has the power to properly coordinate its full smashing force with that of other services. Jealousies between army and navy brass hats is charged with hurting the war effort.

Private business colleges and commercial schools over the country charge that the government is putting them out of business by the present NYA training program. They say NYA takes students from private schools and pays them salaries while training to be typists and stenographers. The private schools say they can do the teaching cheaper and without cost to the taxpayers. They are fighting a bill which may be re-introduced in the new congress aimed to enlarge the government school activities.

Thousands of people without countries are here now. Czechs, Poles, Greeks, Austrians, Belgians, Dutch, Filipinos, and many other nationalities. Czechs with Austrian, German or Italian wives are given the cold shoulder in Washington society. Some of them used to be high in diplomatic circles. American women used to fight for invitations to their homes, but not now. The Russians used to be shunned. Now they are tops in society. The Finns still have a lot of friends here, largely because their government is paying its debt to Uncle Sam.

The war time-table shows that the Chinese-Japanese war has been going on for 286 weeks; the Second European war, 172 weeks; the Russian-Axis war, 79 weeks; the United States-Axis war, 55 weeks. The best guesses in Washington is that the United States-Axis war will last at least two more years.

There may be nothing in the new civil aviation budget estimate for airport expansion. That work will all be confined to army needs. The CAA budget, however, will provide substantially for civilian pilot training.

There is much discussion here regarding Russia's reasons for not allowing the military observer of the United States and Britain to visit her war fronts. Many Americans think Russia should let our representatives see how the American lend-lease material is working out. The American experts could see if improvements could be made on the material we are sending to Russia. But Russia just won't let us see. She's afraid some war secrets may reach her enemies.

Many two-story temporary barracks are across the street from the White house. Hundreds of soldiers are there—all to guard the president and the executive family. The barracks are modern; fully equipped with kitchens, showers, billiard tables and recreation rooms. When the war is over they will be torn down.

The house sergeant-at-arms has notified each member that beginning January, there will be a 5 per cent deduction in the amount of each monthly pay check. At the end of the year each member will have paid $500 Victory tax besides his income tax which is figured at around $3,000.

FROM RATION BOARD

Wayne, Nebraska

Beginning January 20, the pool of tires accumulated under the rationing plan will begin to move into dealers' stocks. This will build up stocks to handle sales to holders of certificates. Those who have not already applied for their fuel oil and kerosene needs for January, February and March are requested to do so now. All past coupons issued expired for the R-1103 form December 31. "Hot tractor fuel" or "hot shot tractor fuel" is now considered gasoline and is rationed according to order 5C. War price and rationing board reminds the public that January 15 is the last date to register for rationing book 1. Without book 1, commonly known as the "sugar book," it will be impossible for a person to obtain book 2, which will inaugurate the point rationing system. Parents are urged to guard against obtaining coffee on stamps from the book of a person who was only 14 years old at the time of the registration last May. Regarding less of age at present, if the applicant was not at least 15 on the date of registration, he is not eligible for coffee rationing. Should coffee stamps be missing from the book of an ineligible, the owner will be denied ration book 2. Point rationing is scheduled to go into effect some time in early February. In the meantime people are urged to buy only immediate needs of the family. Point rationing will cover all canned and packaged processed foods immediately and other commodities as they become scarce. The new book 2 with eight pages will contain 192 stamps with a total point value of 768. Everyone applying for war ration book 2 will be required to fill out a "consumer declaration" form stating exactly the stocks of processed food on hand. Heavy federal penalties can be applied to those making false declaration. Home-canned foods will not be deducted in the point system. Coffee and sugar will continue to be rationed under the present program. Each will retain the ration book 1 to secure these two commodities in the future as in the past. Announcement will be made in this paper when registration dates for book 2 will take place. Each motorist is asked to place the serial number of all gasoline "mileage ration" books in his possession on the back of his new car registration certificate.

Permit Importation.

WPA will permit importation from Mexico of as much cottonseed, sesame and similar types of cake as is possible to meet large demands for winter livestock, dairy and poultry feeds.

Christian Science Services

"Life" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, on Sunday, January 17. The Golden Text is: "The gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord" (Romans 6:23). Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Now when he came nigh to the gate of the city, behold, there was a dead man carried out, the only son of his mother, and she was a widow; and much people of the city was with her. . . . And he came and touched the bier; and they that bare him stood still. And he said, Young man, I say unto thee, Arise, and he that was dead sat up, and began to speak. And he delivered him to his mother" (Luke 7:12,14,15). The lesson-sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Life is real, and death is the illusion. O demonstration of the fives of 'Soul in Jesus' way reveals the dark visions of material sense into harmony and immortality. Man's privilege at this extreme moment is to prove the words of our Master: 'If a man keep my saying, he shall never see death.' . . . 'This is life eternal,' says Jesus, 'is, not shall be; and then he finishes everlasting life as a present knowledge of his Father and of himself,—the knowledge of Love, Truth, and Life" (pp. 428, 430). Service in woman's club room Sunday at 11 a. m.

CHRISTMAS PASSES AS ORDINARY DAY

"Yesterday was Christmas. It didn't mean much here. It was just like any other day," writes Pfc. Eugene Johnson, son of the Tom Johnsons of Wayne and former member of the Herald staff. "I received my Wayne Herald, though, and it was pleasant to read of the folks at home and their Christmas preparations. I usually get my papers in groups of three or four as the mail service is rather slow, so it takes me several evenings to go through all of them. I especially favor the service columns. I'm sure that all the local boys are glad to hear what the others are doing. "I'm not permitted by the censor to tell of my work except that it's pretty hard. I would tell you something of the weather here but I can't describe it without using profanity, even if the censor would allow me to. "It's common for fellows from home to reminisce of the things they left behind. I often remember my days at the Herald with pleasure. I learned lots of lessons there that have never been forgotten. "I noticed a statement in your column to the effect that Nebraskans are proud of their home state. Being the only man in my regiment from Nebraska, at times I have considerable trouble in defending it against New York as we have a great many in our outfit from the 'empire state, but you can be sure I do my best. "In closing the Wayne young man expresses appreciation for the Herald and says he is looking forward to the time when he can again go back to newspaper work. Pfc. Johnson has a new Seattle, Wash., address.

LT. WAYNE McMASTER FINDS AFRICA CHILLY

"Having intermittent showers and quite cold weather. It is raw but not freezing or snowy. In the afternoons it sometimes warms up," writes Lt. Wayne A. McMaster December 30 from north Africa. "I have become a tea drinker over night. It isn't because I am enthused with British tea. British hardtack resembles American graham crackers only it is much harder, whiter and has far less flavor but it beats nothing. We are on British rations. It is surprisingly good for a time and is excellent when you're very hungry. We get a small chocolate bar a day, that is valued highly. "I've switched to candle light so between cold hands and quivering light don't expect legibility. "Cigarettes are part of our rations—seven cigarettes per man per day. It cuts down on a terrific appetite that cannot be satisfied on available foodstuffs. We get enough to eat but not enough to stuff on. "The boat ride was uneventful. It got rough the second day out of port and dishes broke and the turned men's mess practically overturned upside down. I happened to be on duty down there that night and I've never seen such confusion in my life. All of the tables lifted up and men, tables, food and garbage were deposited on the port side of the ship in one pile. I was talking to the captain at the foot of the stairs at the time. He went the wrong way and got right to the bottom of the pile before the men and tables. Won, am I glad I went up the stairs? "I didn't get seasick but I got woozy after a day of rolling around. I slept a lot, read some, ate two meals a day and watched the rest of the convoy. "I've probably seen the last movie for a long time. We have plenty of clothes, equipment, ammunition, a will and a way. Morale is surprisingly good and the men are rapidly becoming tough. They will have to be."

Youth Earns Wings At Field in Texas

Work of a play airplane has progressed rapidly. John Dawson has finished making the propeller and painted it red, white and blue. Both parts of the wings are completed and Steve Pawelski and Boyd Grier helped with this project. The students are learning about steering wheels and airplane sticks. The group has made a list of airplane questions which they hope an airplane pilot will soon help answer. Steve Pawelski brought a large play airplane to school last week. Dickie Steele is making a cardboard hangar for some toy airplanes and Robert Bryan is helping him. Linda Bessler and Robert Bryan made an instrument board for the airplane. Most of the children have signed that they are able to recognize their own names and even names of other children when they are written on the blackboard. Dr. Bryan's reading class observed in the kindergarten just Wednesday.

Only had one year in 1933, so I am lost that way. Lots of pretty French girls but I couldn't talk to one if I had a date. "Here's wishing you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year," concludes Lt. Lakes, who thanks his brother for a picture of his family.

Americans in Far Away Peru Enjoy Observance at Holidays

Though snow and Christmas trees are unheard of in Peru, South America, and holly is mighty scarce, the 1,600 North Americans in that country arranged for holiday celebrations, according to Jim and Wenonah Carey, who wrote the Herald from Callao November 11. "Christmas is not a big fiesta in Peru but for the Americans, thoughts and memories will be bright and happy." To all their friends the Careys send greetings and a wish that by next Christmas all families and friends may be home together after victory in the warring world.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Carey, the latter formerly Wenonah Moline, were Wayne students. Mrs. Carey was also employed with the Wayne Herald for a time. Her sister, Miss Waneta Moline, arrived in Callao October 26 and the young women were enjoying a visit after a separation of four years. Because of the scarcity of help in the south, Miss Moline began work immediately at the American embassy.

The Careys write that in their school are 870 students in two sections, one for boys and one for girls. They are in three buildings all of which have poor lighting, poor ventilation and poor everything. "It is still against the law to have co-education here, but we are working to change that. A remodelled hospital is ready for the girls to use for the next school year. It is not so extremely elegant, but it will have good lighting, good ventilation, plenty of space, and enough blackboards. So naturally it will be much nicer than what the girls have ever had in our school. The past year seems to have given birth to some advance in the slowly-moving caravan of progress. There have been some encouraging instances of truthfulness, honesty and loyalty to worthy causes with various students who did not appear to have it."

"We like it here," write the Careys. "As a matter of fact we are becoming more and more attached to our adopted country. We are learning so much and wonder just what we are giving in return. Spanish is an interesting language and we are slowly progressing in culture and see some of their work. Cuzco is the center of this civilization. Coming home from Bolivia we will stop in Cuzco and Arequipa. Our hopes are to 'ruff it' from Huancayo over to Lake Titicaca.

"On week-ends we have visited some of the surrounding towns, but have made that our goal for the following year also. Last year we spent our vacation in Huancayo. It certainly is different from our city of Kings' Lima. The place is run by foreigners (as is everything here) but the population is Indian. Every Sunday is market day and everyone comes to town. During the early hours of the morning they bring their wares to town and set up shop for one day. The whole family comes, each carrying something on his back. About 4 in the afternoon packing starts again only to go home for another week. You can buy lovely woven materials, that are made into blankets, rugs, ponchos (used to keep warm-with and to carry things on the back). At the news stand they have a reader. Very few people can read, so one man reads while the others stand and look on to what is being said. The Indian tongue is really Quichawa and not Spanish. Washing in the sewer water along the side of the street was a new experience for me. After they are washed the clothes are spread along on the grass to dry. Strange but the clothes did look fairly clean but then maybe the strong sun had something to do with that. As I mentioned before in my letters, any place is a bath room whether it be in front of my gate or the palace entrance. Sanitation is something lacking here, but then that is another subject for a long discussion.

"Now a word or so about Jim," writes Mrs. Carey. "Peru, as I think getting the best of him now and then. One day a class was doing something wrong so he told them all to stay after school during the early noon time. I've had two hours as a Peruvian need their sestas. The students were so quiet when he was ready to go that he left and forgot to send them home. Low and behold when we returned two hours later they were still there. Nuff said, but poor kids had to go home and take the afternoon off to get something to eat. Then I want you to know that the same day he rode the

Pearl Harbor Is Now Well Fortified Against Future Attack by Nipponese

Pearl Harbor in the Hawaiian islands, where the Japs made their treacherous and devastating attack over a year ago, is now so well fortified that the enemy can't get near. These are the welcome words brought by Pete Petersen who arrived home January 2 after spending a year at Pearl Harbor helping in government construction work. Mr. Petersen is still under contract with the government for this type of work and is subject to call to other such projects.

Once shortly after the faithful December 7 attack the Jap planes attempted a repeat performance but they missed their objectives and hit the hills.

Of the ships in the American navy sunk while in Pearl Harbor December 7, the Arizona has been raised from the Harbor depths but is as yet not completely ready to steam once more on its way with messages of fear for the enemy.

The Arizona is likewise being rapidly repaired. But the Utah is still resting near the Harbor floor.

"Pete" explained that really suicide planes are not in the air force of the Rising Sun. It seems the Japanese have a type of dive bomber which carries but one torpedo and swoops low along the side of a ship and "lets go" with this torpedo when the plane is in such a position that it will hit the ship broadside. Because of the danger involved in executing this task these men and the planes sometimes have the word "suicide" attached to them. It is these planes navy men have learned to look at with dread. The torpedo planes do more damage than the bombs, the Wayne man explained.

Life Changes Greatly.
 Life in Hawaii has changed much from the pre-war days. According to Marvin C. Lupton, writing for the Red Hill weekly at Honolulu, the population of the island has had good-by to light hearted ways. "Previously Honolulu, located 3,000 miles from any scene of disruption whatsoever, was quite content to dine, dance and dissipate to its heart's content. A general air of complacency dominated the town by day and hilarity reigned far into the night at a hundred bars and dance pavilions. The island's new crop of military both service and otherwise, jammed the hot spots and liquor holes from Kapahulu to Kilihi and filled out to all points of the island.

"But then on the morning of December 7 from the general direction of Hickam field and Schofield barracks came nervewracking explosions and huge columns of smoke swirled skyward. The raid came to a close as suddenly as it had begun. To the workers fell the duty of taking care of the dead. Truck drivers to haul the bodies and carpenters to build the rough boxes were drafted into service. For days they worked and far into the evenings. It was an experience that was not forgotten."

Have Daily Blackouts.
 This is the history of the peaceful islands' military law. Today when the clock strikes 4 in the afternoon, business men and merchants turn the keys in their doors and go to their homes to prepare for the regular blackout. If one must be about after dark he has to have a special permit. Food is plentiful. And at the risk of causing mass emigration, so is sugar. Pineapples are raised but much of the other food must come by ship from the mainland.

When questioned as to the length of World War II, Mr. Petersen responded with, "It is the idea of the people on the island that it will last 10 years, with blame for the length going to the Japs."

The American Japanese of the island work with American citizens and all get along well. These people tend to their own business, and are good workers. "Pete" liked the climate at Hawaii but he is glad to look down corn rows in Wayne county once more.

Serves in Washington.
 Miss Helen Jacobsen is employed in Washington sanitarium and hospital in Washington, D. C.

Purchases Farm.

Library News
 Modern writers are the moons or literature; they shine with reflected light. Samuel Johnson. A large order for new books has gone in to the publishers and in a week or two more fine books will be available for all those who are going to want them these long winter evenings.

The Lincoln State Journal for January 7 ran an article telling about Elmer Davis, director of the office of war information, presenting the first book in the national drive to collect books for the armed forces. The book he gave was "War and Peace," by Tolstoy. In making a plea for citizens to give books that men and women in the service will enjoy reading, Davis explained that "water-soaked cook books and dog-eared algebra books published during the War of 1812 are not wanted." Remember, the time to give your book is anytime from now until March 5.

Story hour for the children will be held next Saturday afternoon at 2:30, as usual, Margaret Conley, Lula Slothower, Olga Towolmy and Janet Judd tell stories.

"The Gaunt Woman," by Gilligan, is the new book accessioned this week. This is the story of a ship and is fine reading for men and boys who like rousing tales of the sea.

Are people finding time to cultivate their hobbies these days? If so, the magazine Hobbies covers the field and has fine ideas for everyone.

The January issue of Asia and the Americas is a particularly interesting number. Be sure to read "Repeal Chinese Exclusion Now" in that magazine. David Lawrence has a fine editorial in the U. S. News for January 1, called "Somebody's Son." Joseph C. Grew has given another fine speech which has been published in Vital Speeches December 15. The subject is "The Menace of Japan." The library will soon have his book, "Report from Tokyo."

The Christian Science Monitor, magazine section December 19, published an article called, "What Tokyo Tells the World," which is enlightening. In Colliers January 9, is an article on Hollywood which presents a new slant on the motion pictures and stars. It is headed "Hollywood Gets Its Teeth Kicked In."

Through the efforts of J. G. W. Lewis, the library has been presented with a copy of the book, "Nebraska Party Platforms." Watch this column for announcements of new books.

Rev. W. F. Most and Donald Gieschen, both formerly of Wayne, will play important roles in Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night" which will be presented by Midland students at Fremont, January 15 to raise funds for a service men's center near Fremont. ## Good Health Need Of Americans Now

Americans must learn to eat proper foods to gain all the needed vitamins for health, according to Miss Ann Smrha, chief nutritionist with the State health department, who spoke to Wayne Woman's club Friday in the club rooms.

"The whole nation is concerned with how you feed yourselves," began Miss Smrha, who explained that in May, 1941, President Roosevelt called a national meeting to study the problem. Tests have shown that in spite of abundance of foods, Americans have not been providing themselves with all necessary vitamins. Men reporting for military training are often found to be 50 per cent deficient. Food isn't the only need for good health. Sleep is another and a person needs eight hours each night.

Miss Smrha told that all the needed vitamins for good health can be gained by eating the following daily: Two cups of milk; three servings of vegetables, potatoes, one yellow or green vegetable and one other vegetable; two servings of fruit, one citrus and one other; one serving of any one of these items, lagoons, peas, nuts, eggs, meat, beans, cheese, liver, organs; one serving of whole grain cereal; and butter, though this can be omitted if one has all the other foods.

For hard-working men or others under heavy physical strain, a quart of milk should be used each day. Miss Smrha advised using liver or organ meats once a week, pork twice a week and fish once a week. She told that often cereals are so refined that they lose as much as half of their value. Cereals and breads should be enriched with vitamins.

The speaker gave a day's menu which is not sufficient. This includes cereal, milk, toast and coffee for breakfast; peanut butter sandwiches and apple for lunch; meat, gravy, bread and butter and pie for dinner. This lacks milk, green vegetables, citrus fruits, whole grain cereal. Too many of the foods are cold also. Adding the needed foods to furnish vitamins, Miss Smrha gave the menu as follows: Orange or grapefruit, hot chocolate, warm cereal and whole wheat toast for breakfast; peanut butter sandwiches with whole wheat bread, milk, apple and hot soup for lunch; meat and gravy, potatoes, milk, raw carrots or other vegetable, creamed green beans, whole wheat bread and pie for dinner.

Miss Ann Smrha Speaks to Wayne Woman's Club on Selection of Foods.

The enlarged food production program of Farm Security will make it possible for quite a number of Wayne county people to contribute to the needed stock pile of food for American and lend-lease uses. Much of the increase will have to come from low-income and part-time farm operators.

Special attention is being placed on the importance of the small loan, known last year as the "food for freedom" loan. Results from that program were so satisfactory that it is being enlarged this year, with extremely liberal eligibility requirements.

Farm Security people will give every assistance possible to potential producers who may want to get their credit from a bank or elsewhere. When other credit is not available FSA is in a position to furnish it, if it will lead to increased food production.

The farm labor problem created by farm workers going into military duty as well as in defense plants and other war industries is the basis for another phase of FSA work. FSA and the United States Employment service are teamed up to bring surplus labor to idle or partially idle land, thus to increase food production.

Another FSA program in line with reaching food production goals is the milk conservation and distribution program. Primary purpose is to prevent producing cows from going to the slaughter houses, and to help in placing them in hands of people able to feed, care for and milk them.

Verzal said the county FSA office enlists the support of civic groups and citizens in general to help get this job done. It is a mutual community job and only if the whole community gets behind it will it result in the increased food production that must come from farm families.

Production Helped By Farm Security

Any potential food producer, or present producer who could produce more, who can't get necessary credit elsewhere, is in line for help from the Farm Security Administration, reported Ray L. Verzal, county FSA supervisor.

Blizzard Sweeps Over Area Early

First Cemetery at LaPorte is to Be Maintained By League Post.

Early Days from the Wayne Herald for January 13, 1927.

It was 39 years ago yesterday that the ugliest blizzard in the memory of oldest inhabitants descended and swept the then unprotected Nebraska prairies. Until noon of that memorable day the weather was about the same as that which was dealt out last week—mild and sunny. After the noon meal had been comfortably stowed away and children were back in school, clouds gathered and Old Boreas whipped down from his Arctic abode and churned falling snow until one could not see five feet ahead of him. Many teachers and children had to stay in school houses over night, and among them were some deaths and numerous narrow escapes. Nothing like it has happened since, and with windbreaks and other improvements of the present, nothing so severe is likely ever to occur again. Yesterday's weather fittingly observed the anniversary by turning on the cold draft and opening the snow chute.

Andrew and Peter Stamm arrived from Sweden and will live near Hoskins. Their sister, Mrs. Eric Chapman, came there earlier. . . Henry Holman bought the Barn-our farm of 200 acres from the Beckenhauer estate for $16,000 and will move here from Fender. . . Mrs. J. L. Simonton died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. H. Lindsay, near Winside, March 4, 1907. . . Dr. Schemel of Hoskins, received word that his sister, Mrs. Sues Artz, of the Hague, is among those missing after the steamer, Berlin, was wrecked. . . J. M. Cherry bought the first 2-cent-a-mile railroad ticket sold by T. W. Moran.

Peterson, Michael Graef, Nels Peter Nelson, Otto Olson, Alexander Holtz, Gust Hank, Christ Henry Eckman, Magnus Eckman, Hans Gottsch, Otto H. Kruger, Henry Langbehn, Conrad Kniss, Karl Wetslich, Peter Henkel, Leonard Leindecker, Gustave Rehnus, Laurits Christensen, John Ahrens, Thomas Schutt, Hans Gath, Harry Tucker, Charles Maas, Hans P. Anderson, Carl Sund, John Nydahl, Fred Wrobel, Henry Traut-wald, Frederick Niemann, Herman Heuthen, Ludwig Ehlers, Hans P. Nelson, Daniel Rehnus, August Schultz, Julius Rehnus, Martin Holst.

In Dixon County.
From Ponca Journal for January 20, 1927: Hogs are selling for $4.25, corn 25c, butter 15c, steers $2 to $4. . . What about the proposed new bridge? The answer is that surveyors are all around us but steer clear of this town. We still have the river and the rock bottom, both of which are good for a bridge. But if a railroad company will not agree with nature as to this being the best place within 100 miles for a bridge, then the bridge will not be built. . . The county board adjourned to meet on the second Tuesday in March, providing it did not fall on Sunday. "Tuesday falling on Sunday" is puzzling to say the least. Someone must have figured that Tuesday was going to get unruly and jump out of the halter and into the box stall reserved for Sunday.

Cedar county has 14 men leaving this month for selective service.

Writes V-Mail Letter.
Lt. Robert P. Hanson writes a V-mail letter December 9 from the Pacific region as follows: "Wish to advise you of my change of address, and to thank you so many times for being so kind as to send your paper not only to me but also to all the fellows of Wayne county who are in the service. Am sure that it means as much to them as it does to me. Your paper must be, and no doubt is, being read now in Great Britain, Africa, Australia, at least half of the states at home and on divers islands of both the Pacific and Atlantic oceans. I am sure that all of the fellows appreciate it as much as I do.

"I don't know if you know Douglas Canning, 1st Lt., AC, personally or not. I missed seeing him by one week some time ago. Knowing where he was stationed for some time, I inquired about him from at least a dozen fellows there and all said they knew him well, 'an OK fellow too', but that he had just been transferred to another place. If Douglas still receives your paper, please tell him that I know where he is and I know that he is doing a good job and power to him. Douglas was one of our pioneers over here.

"In closing I want to extend greetings to the friends of the Cochard and Carroll communities where I used to live. Thank you for the paper and I hope to see you all again when the war is over."

Wayne County Youth is Hospital Patient
A letter written January 3 by Pvt. Edwin D. Maas tells that the Wayne county young man is in Barnes general hospital in Vancouver, Wash. The letter follows: "Well I thought I had better write and tell you I am in the good old United States again. But it all seems like a dream to see these and so many things. I am sorry I can't write and say where I was or what's going on. But we saw pictures of ourselves in the papers and there is news over the radio every once in a while. I could write a book. But there are also lots of things I never want to talk about again. A person couldn't expect much and I would say conditions were good.

"I came to the states so they could give me better treatment. I may have to have my right kidney removed. I wanted to stay and fight with the boys but they wouldn't let me. I also think I have been very lucky.

"But you don't know how glad I was whenever they had mail call and one day I got a paper. It was the Wayne Herald. They would be two months old by the time I got them. But we were always glad to get mail no matter how old it was. We would pass the papers around as we read them. I just wish you could see for yourself how happy the boys are when they get a paper or letter from home. Thanks very much for sending the paper.

"I wanted to send a letter before, but I knew I was coming home so I thought I would wait until I was in the states. I have been here five days now.

"I have seen lots and lots of places. But I would like to go to a different place next time when I leave. All say England is such a nice place. Thanks again for being so kind."

New Ruling Comes About Information
A new government ruling just received asks newspapers not to publish unit numbers of men in service. Of course it also asks that names of ships on which men are stationed be omitted. The Herald has written for further information regarding the former ruling. Until a reply is received, this paper will refrain from publishing new addresses.

The Herald will continue to carry information about the boys and will give notice that they have moved. Relatives or friends wishing their new addresses may secure these by coming to the Herald office.

This paper is anxious to bring interesting items from letters of the men to their home folks and welcomes such material. The Herald will, of course, take every precaution not to reveal any military secrets.

Expects Trouble Regarding Name

Washing Machine and Man Taken in Ambulance to Solve Drain Problem.

A Richmond, Va., selectee is expecting trouble unless he meets up with a sergeant who has a sense of humor. When the officer asks his name, the youth will say, "Hyman Hyman Hyman." Then the sergeant will exclaim "Hyman Hyman Hyman!" And the trouble will start. But Hyman won't be kidding for that's really his full name.

A simple trick to fix the washing machine, thought Hilmer Melburg, Oakland, Cal., as he stuck his finger down the clogged drain. But he couldn't get the finger out. Washing machine, Melburg, finger and all were taken to a fire station in an ambulance and after an hour and a half's work with a hacksaw Melburg was freed. The washing machine is a wreck.

At Sidell, Ill., gas rationing doesn't prevent Mrs. Fannie Parker, 77, from taking her usual trips around the town. She rides in a cart pulled by her nephew's team of goats.

The robber who took $231 from Julius Plumt, Chicago, at the point of a gun tried to ease the blow a little, at least. "Merry Christmas," the gunman shouted as he fled.

Friends of Miss Ethel Smith of Shelton, Conn., claim for her the national Sunday school attendance record. Sunday's session at the Methodist church Sunday school completed 40 years of perfect attendance—2,080 Sundays—for her.

At Hidalgo, Texas, border patrolmen guarding the Rio Grande have another worry—coffee bootleggers and smugglers. Three aliens were arrested and charged with smuggling 33 pounds of ground coffee across the river.

Some goats are masters of the frontal assault and aren't confined to attacks from the rear. Patrolman Lawrence O'Connell says so at San Francisco. He was sent to aid 11 defense workers who tried to get on a street car Mrs. George Dermanes' goat would bow his neck and charge. By the time they got up the street car would be gone. O'Connell took charge—strode firmly toward the animal. It knocked him down twice before Mrs. Dermanes came along and got her goat.

Mrs. Winifred Hunt told Los Angeles Municipal Judge H. J. Leonard Kaufman she was only a school teacher with an A card, and therefore saved gas by parking in the first available space. "What do you do when your pupils break rules?" asked Judge Kaufman. "I make them write the rule 100 times on the blackboard." Mrs. Hunt replied, "There's the court's blackboard," said the judge, "better get started."

At Waitsburg, Wash., a gasoline transport overturned, dumping 15,000 gallons on a city street. But ration-riders residents didn't cry over the spilled gasoline. They carried off 200 gallons.

At San Francisco, the fellow's mistake wasn't just in bootlegging coffee. The judge fined him a dollar for each of the 50 pounds found in his possession. A city chemist said 58 pieces of glass were in one bag. The offender's source was the floor of a lease-lease firm. He swept up the leavings from broken jars and packages and peddled them door to door. He also got three months in jail.

A fire, starting in the basement of the Anthony Martin home, Elizabeth, N. J., reached the wiring and produced a short circuit which caused the door bell to ring. Mrs. Anthony went to the door, but nobody was there. The bell rang again. Still nobody there. Then she followed the bell wire to the basement and found the blaze in time to call the fire department before much damage was done.

When the manager of a Missoula, Mont., department store took a picture of the holiday shopping crowd, he got a good picture. In fact, it was good enough to display in a courtroom. It showed a woman stuffing merchandise into a market bag.

At Albuquerque, N. M., the gals need garters. Rubber is scarce. So—they are asking men, especially those entering military service, to donate suspenders. Suspenders with plenty of snap are preferred, said Miss Nella Beth Brashear, who started the idea. "Stockings now are being made with a slick finish," she explained, "and only a really firm garter will hold them up."

"Oh, I beg your pardon," said a burglar as Mrs. Edward Loftus, Albany, N. Y., walked into her bedroom and found him stuffing watches and rings into his pocket. Then he walked, not ran, to the nearest exit—the door to the back porch—and disappeared with his loot.

Babies in 1943 may be carried "pickaback like so many papooses"—all because of a growing shortage of baby carriages. Roscoe R. Rau, executive vice president, and secretary of the National Retail Furniture association, said "baby carriages, cribs, high chairs, bassinets and play pens are wholly sold out in some retail establishments. If the present increased demand and reduced production continues, all supplies will be exhausted by early spring."

At Emporia, Kan., Mrs. J. C. McKinney, republican vice chairman, is a politician who doesn't limit herself to speech-making. Arriving breathless for a rally, she said that before leaving home she had done a two-week washing, finished part of an ironing, fixed a batch of home-made bread and baked two cakes. In her spare time she had made a freezer of ice cream.

Frank Gossett, Jr., 21, Fremont, has started off to training camp carrying a pocket Bible which went through World War I with his father. The senior Mr. Gossett was presented the Bible by a teacher and he carried it through Belgium, France and Germany. After the war the teacher became Mrs. Gossett. Now young Gossett is starting out with the keepsake.
