

SIXTY FIRST YEAR

WAYNE, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, JANUARY 21, 1943

NUMBER THIRTY SEVEN

Thrill Is Recognized by Boiling Down Appropriations for Maintenance - Local School Does More on Less - Title to Wightman Lot Still in the Air.

In his budget to the legislature, Governor Griswold pays a high compliment to Wayne college's thrift, and then scoops up a fund accumulated for a particular purpose and dumps it into maintenance for the coming biennium.

"The appropriation for the state normal college at Wayne deserves special attention. Through years of careful planning, the school has accumulated a cash fund of more than $40,000, a balance far greater than held by the other three colleges. I understand Wayne authorities accumulated this balance, hoping to build an athletic stadium.

"At this particular time such construction is out of the question, and my budget calls for a reduction of about $40,000 in the property tax appropriation for the school at Wayne, and the appropriation of the accumulated cash fund balance in exchange. To be fair to the Wayne college, however, the state should appropriate the funds necessary for the stadium when such construction work again becomes possible.

"In considering the Wayne situation, it must be remembered that so-called 'cash funds' are the property of the state, just as are 'tax funds' and that they accumulate usually because 'tax fund' appropriations are larger than necessary."

The surplus cash is not an overflow from an excess tax fund. It was accumulated over the years from cafeteria profits, one and a quarter cents on each meal—and from selling old lumber and plumbing equipment salvaged when Terrace hall was displaced by a new building. It is the product of frugal saving, planned for conversion into a stadium to take the place of one condemned and tazed.

As suggested by the governor, management of the Wayne college is Scotch. It manifestly accomplishes more on less than any school in the state, or probably in any other state. Students pay less and receive more. If teachers were over-paid, more of them would contentedly stick here rather than journey to other and more promising fields. The cafeteria realizes a small profit by handling volume and eliminating waste. Nowhere is board cheaper or better.

The Wayne college ranks at the top in service, but at the bottom in cost. It runs with fewer faculty members, turns out more graduates and pinches along on comparatively small appropriations. It is Scotch in every way, every day, and only suffers as a consequence when authorities get around to appropriate needs, drawing the conclusion that adepts at economy could practice even more economy.

Other schools will not be judged by the comparison. They will figure that Wayne, like Ben Franklin, is nutty on thrift, and will look confidently to the legislature to support the ordinary with the risk of penalizing the extraordinary.

It is unfortunate that necessary state institutions must run the gamut of legislative whims every two years in order to survive and perform intended functions. Undoubtedly legislators have in mind to do the right thing. They want to enforce service that will cost less and thus save taxes. In doing that they are sometimes unwittingly penny wise and pound foolish.

The Wightman Case. What a bald affront to equity is the Wightman lot case! It has dragged along four years without benefit to anyone. In good faith the city sold and Wightman bought a thirtieth useless lot for a home at a price higher than anyone else would have paid. On technical grounds, involving taxes accruing prior to the sale—an obligation justly falling to the city—action was started to blow up the deal. Many other pieces of property had been sold in the same way by the city and suffer similar defects. All have titles that need clearing. The city's erroneous habit in delivering deeds was to take a short cut, but manifestly it is found to have been an expensive one. It is now proposed to persuade the legislature to pass a law remedying faults due to former practice.

The Wightman case has been boosted from one court session to another, and instead of saving the city, it has been a source of much cost and much annoyance. Plainly, an innocent purchaser has been made the victim of a technical error. It is hoped the courts and legislature will soon get around to settle this question, thus taking clouds from home titles and removing the bar to home building.

Patrolman to Come. One of the highway patrolmen will be at the court house the afternoon of January 28 to pass on applications for drivers' permits.

Success in War Requires Food

Frank Reed Stresses Need For Raising Crops in Farm Mobilization.

"Food is most essential in winning the war, and it is as important ton for ton as ammunition." So stated Frank Reed, district AAA superintendent, in addressing Wayne Kiwanians Monday noon at Hotel Stratton.

"The unit of all groups is necessary in this vital undertaking. Kiwanians are urged to use their influence so that all may realize the situation," the speaker continued.

After being introduced by B. W. Wright, Mr. Reed commended the Kiwanis club for its plan to promote "better understanding" between rural and town people.

Farm mobilization day January 11 was designed to promote better cooperation. Mr. Reed mentioned industry must be mobilized the same as the army, the aim being thorough and efficient production. Representatives of every phase of agriculture helped work out the program for 1943 when the goal is to produce more food than in any year.

Obstacles are numerous and the job is big. The organization is effected to see that the right foods are produced, also to determine what foods are to be produced at different locations. Rationing is not a result of less food. It is required as a means of scattering the supplies equitably among the armed forces, allies and civilians here. Mr. Reed explained, Africa, Russia and other places where the war is being waged must have help. Concentration of foods makes the problem much easier than in World War I. Much food can be shipped now in small space, and this relieves shipping and storage.

Since meats are among the greatest needs, organized agriculture is stressing the processing of corn and other grains into meats by encouraging feeding them to hogs and cattle. A floor under the price of hogs and a ceiling on the price of corn makes it advantageous for farmers to turn grain into meat by feeding it.

Mr. Reed explained that much corn from northeast Nebraska has gone to Chicago where it was converted into alcohol and then into rubber which is so vital to the war.

S. Berry read a resolution which he prepared regarding cooperation of the Kiwanis club in every way possible in the farm program. The club adopted this unanimously. President H. E. Siman expressed appreciation to Mr. Berry for his services.

Resolution Given. The resolution follows: "Kiwanis and its 2,200 clubs and more than 110,000 members promptly upon this country's becoming involved in the present war, pledged its full and untiring efforts and aid to the nation and administration in the struggle which confronts us. In that effort the Wayne Kiwanis club has endeavored to do its full part and will so continue until complete victory comes, regardless of how difficult and how long the road may be. In its work the club has desired and has received wonderful cooperation from all groups, classes and agencies necessary for effective war effort. In no way unmindful of the work and cooperation of others, this club and its members at this particular time and in view of the recent proclamation for full and effective farm mobilization earnestly and sincerely express their appreciation of the patriotic and untiring efforts of farmers and livestock producers of Wayne county and elsewhere and what they have accomplished under handicaps and difficulties which they alone can know and fully appreciate. Only by their continued efforts and effective work can this war be won, and in that this club and its members pledge their future full cooperation and aid in every way and manner possible."

Rufus Howard Speaks. Rufus Howard, director of agricultural inspection, spoke briefly on weed eradication, urging that this important work be continued even during the winter.

W. Klatt of the state department was also a guest at the meeting. Walter Herman was with Dave Theophilus, Rev. H. Hazard with Dean Clarence McGinnis, T. P. Roberts with E. W. Wright and Ray Ellis with R. M. Carhart.

Physical Fitness Institute Is Held

Instructors Convene Here Saturday to Discuss New Training Plan.

In spite of stormy weather, about 30 men and women from northeast Nebraska schools met at the college here Saturday for a physical fitness institute, called by Supt. J. W. Litherland, Hartington and West Point were the most distant points represented. Physical fitness is being stressed because of the war. Since many instructors have been called to service, the institute was also a means of helping instructors gain information about conducting this training.

Supt. C. A. Carkoski of Hartington, opened the program with a general discussion, giving the background for the plan. Dr. L. P. Young spoke for the dental association. Demonstrations were given by the army and navy were presented. Coach Henry Menke was in charge of a group of boys. Mrs. Esther Carlson had charge of the girls with Miss Marcia Cook and Miss Lauretta Edwards assisting. Students from both local high schools took part.

Following dinner at the cafeteria, Supt. G. B. Childs of Wakefield, told of the proposed organization and promotion of the physical fitness program. Round table discussion followed. Mrs. Carlson presented a demonstration of folk dances and other such exercises suitable for gymnasium work.

Prof. F. G. Dale spoke on health, and Dr. Ray Bryan summarized the day's discussions. Most schools are adopting the physical fitness program but most of them are also handicapped by not having specially trained teachers for this instruction.

Weed Control Work Will Be Promoted

Conclusion Is Reached at Regional Meeting Held Monday in Wayne.

That noxious weed control work should continue as fast as labor and other conditions will permit was the conclusion reached Monday when a regional meeting of northeast Nebraska weed supervisors was held in Wayne. The gathering was one of those called to plan a tentative program of activities for weed districts this year. Wayne, Dakota, Madison, Cedar, Knox, Dixon and Platte counties are included in the area meeting in Wayne, and all excepting Dixon county were represented.

The last word from the young man was a cablegram December 24, 1941. This said "We are all fine and best regards." For the past year the parents have not known whether their son was a prisoner or was one of the casualties in the battle of the Philippines.

The men discussed a farm institute to be held in Wayne in the near future. No plans for sponsoring the style show have been made as the committee plans to discuss this with local merchants.

This committee also recommended that local business houses observe as holidays Decoration day, Fourth of July, Armistice day, Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's.

END OF SEMESTER LAUNCHES CHANGES IN LOCAL SCHOOLS

COLLEGE and high school semesters end this week and some changes will appear as the second half of the year wheels into place. At the college some students have finished their work and will quit to accept teaching or other jobs. High school students and others will fill depleted college ranks. At the high school an innovation is to be introduced—the plan of Supt. J. W. Litherland and Principal Herman Baehr. The intention is to grant school credits to students who accept part-time employment in useful work. This move will not only yield valuable experience, but will help solve unemployment problems. The student would thus receive school credits, receive pay for his service and gain worth-while practice. Schools are on the alert to serve needs of the time without impairing due scholastic training.

Severe Cold Spell Grips This Region

Thermometer Drops Sixty Degrees Over Night As Winter Takes Hold.

The winter's most severe cold spell gripped this area Saturday night when the thermometer took a tumble, falling about 60 degrees in a few hours. From a comfortable 45, the temperature dropped suddenly to 15 and 20 below zero. The recording at Norfolk Monday was 27 below, this being the coldest on the official gauge since February 3, 1936.

Snow started falling Saturday morning. By night the snow, wind and cold had combined to bring a real touch of winter. Snow was too light to result in drifting of highways.

Monday morning found the thermometer registering 20 below zero and a cold wind blowing from the north. Though the temperature was lower Tuesday morning, the wind had subsided so that the extreme cold was not so noticeable. The sun came out Tuesday when the weather moderated somewhat.

Action Is Filed In Auker Estate

Petition Seeks to Remove Bertha Hendrickson as Trustee for Heirs.

An action filed in Wayne county district court Saturday in behalf of the heirs of the estate of Stephen E. Auker seeks an accounting from Bertha Hendrickson and asks that she be replaced as trustee. The petition asks that Delpha Merchant, other trustee, who has verified allegations in the action, continue as sole trustee or that some other person be appointed to serve.

W. F. Auker, Delpha and Earl Merchant are plaintiffs in the suit. The petition states that Stephen E. Auker, who died August 10, 1934, owned 240 acres of land, SE 1/4 of 9 and NW 1/4 of SW 1/4 and SE 1/4 of NW 1/4 of 10-26-4, and a residence property near the college, lot 2 Conn & Britell addition to Wayne C. H. Hendrickson was appointed attorney for the estate, Earl Merchant administrator, Bertha Hendrickson and Delpha Merchant trustees. Besides the last two, other heirs are Arthur, Clarence, Edward, W. F., Guy, Hobart and Irvin Auker.

Acting on the advice of C. H. Hendrickson, states the petition, the administrator September 4, 1937, obtained license to sell real estate and all property was bought by Bertha Hendrickson and Delpha Merchant, who agreed to hold the property in trust for benefit of the heirs and to render proper accounting.

Plaintiffs in this action September 22, 1942, asked that the trustees execute a written declaration of the trust. This was done by Delpha Merchant, Bertha and C. H. Hendrickson and declined accounting to the record. The action alleges that such refusal is a violation of the express promises made at the time defendants acquired title to the real estate.

The petition further explains that prior to the administrator's sale, the administrator negotiated a settlement of the rights of Margaret Ellen Auker and obtained from her a conveyance back to the estate of Stephen E. Auker of lot 2 Conn & Britell addition to Wayne. This property was included in the sale and was bought by Bertha Hendrickson and Delpha Merchant who sold it to an innocent purchaser at a profit of $2,400, each receiving $1,200. Delpha Merchant has made account of the profits. But, states the petition, Bertha Hendrickson failed to do so, claiming this as a private personal profit for herself and denying that she is trustee for said funds.

By declining to acknowledge the beneficial interest of Auker heirs in this lot sale, the action declares that Bertha Hendrickson should not continue as trustee. The petition further asserts that since she does not acknowledge the existence of the trust, another should be appointed in her place.

The court action further alleges that the estate included promissory notes and that such notes are liens upon the distributive shares of the estate. The petition asks that an accounting be made to determine the exact indebtedness to the estate and in whose favor such debt is to run.

A written verification of the foregoing facts and allegations, signed by Delpha Merchant, is attached to the petition.

R. W. Bartels is attorney for plaintiffs.

In the court action Attorney H. E. Siman represents Arthur, Clarence, Edward, Guy, Hobart and Irvin Auker.

Montgomery's men, looking over captured loot in Libya, were surprised to find their own corned willy, supposedly lost forever. Well, better luck next time, boys.

You don't need to yearn for that lost soft water when Carhart's water softener can furnish you with barrels of it for only a few cents. It's easy to use, too.

The week end proved to us that water is far from over, which means that it's a good idea to keep that coal bin filled until spring. Call 147.

Then there was the riveter's helper in the Kaiser yards who held on three minutes too long and found himself 140 miles at sea.

It makes no difference whether you have decided to raise more chickens, more pigs, or feed more cattle or sheep to help the war effort, you'll still need equipment to do the increased job. Get your order in early for what you will need.

Bonus meats in the menu

There's no need of too much worry about making your meat allowance stretch when there are all those delicious bonus meats that can be had (at least at this writing). I speak of sundry meats such as liver, heart, kidney, pigs' feet and all those extras that don't come in on the meat quota.

As far as nutritional value goes, they have everything that other meats have, and in most cases, more too. Liver, heart, and kidney are right on top of the list when it comes to contributing iron to the diet. They're vitamin foods, too, for they contain vitamins A, B, C, and some D.

If you've built up a psychological resistance toward them, it is most likely because you've probably never tried them. But if you like chicken giblets, then you're bound to like these bonus meats.

MOCK GIBLET NOODLES—Saute small pieces of liver or kidney or pre-cooked heart in hot shortening. Make a sauce out of the pan drippings or use mushroom sauce and add meat and sauce to hot noodles. Don't pass judgment on sundries until you've tried this dish.

SPANISH KIDNEY—Remove white centers and tubes of kidneys, slice into thin slices, brown quickly in hot shortening along with chopped onion. Cover with tomato sauce or canned tomatoes and steam for about 15 minutes. Serve with rice or spaghetti.

LIVER BURGERS—Grind uncooked liver, using the coarse kind of the grinder, add about 1/2 as much bread crumbs, chopped onions and seasonings to taste. Add enough beaten egg or evaporated milk to bind mixture. Shape into patties and fry quickly. Grand with whole kernel corn.

In Victory Corps.
Interest in membership in the Victory Corps is greater in the 9th grade than in the other grades. At the present seven girls and three boys in this grade have returned their applications for membership. One sophomore boy, one junior girl and three junior boys, and one senior boy have also returned their applications. This makes the total number of eight. As the program gets under way it is hoped that more memberships will be turned in.

Reach Goal Soon.
For the second year, Wayne high school has subscribed 100 per cent to the Junior Red Cross, the total amount turned in being almost double the amount necessary for 100 per cent membership. The attendance at present is 226, and $4.20 has been turned in up to the present time.

"Dark Wind." by Evelyn Nounen- burg, is the play to be presented in the dramatics contest this spring. Casting was done Wednesday. The play is about a woman in a freighter which is sailing through mines. Only a miracle can save the ships and the nurses have been on duty all night. Nurse Fleming breaks under the strain. Individuals are selecting readings for the declamatory contest.

A new unit is being introduced in 7th English. This includes lessons in punctuation, capitalization, parts of speech and parts of simple sentences. As each division of

New York Visit Interests Wayne Youth in Service

"East side, west side, all around the town—it was windy and cold." Thus Lt. Wayne McMaster describes a trip about New York recently. The young man is now in north Africa with American forces.

"Let me tell you what I saw," Lt. McMaster writes to his parents, Dr. and Mrs. C. A. McMaster. "I was just getting off the bus and had walked about a block getting accustomed to craning my neck when I was accosted by a school teacher who asked me, 'What are you looking for?'"

"I turned around to see my sergeant and corporal standing on a street corner hooting at me. They had just gone on 12-hour leave too. They are both good fellows. We all went to a doughnut and coffee shop and ate just that. Then the first thing we did was to walk down the street to Times square and 42nd Broadway. I didn't catch on till I saw the New York Times newspaper building there why it was so named. It isn't exactly a square block. It is shaped more like a blunt-nosed flat iron with two streets forming an elongated V to complete the much-photographed area.

"We decided to go to Radio City, Rockefeller Center, and promptly started off the wrong direction toward a tall, stately building in South Manhattan. A friendly cop stopped our eight-block out of the way trip, asked us where we were going and said, 'Oh, I thought you had purchased a part of the Brooklyn bridge and were going to climb it. He sent us back, where we came and he knew none of us had ever been to New York before.

"People in New York were very friendly, courteous and helpful wherever we went. This is the exact opposite of what I expected. Numerous times elderly ladies, cops, businessmen and others asked if they could assist in locating our objectives for us. People seemed much more friendly than in most large cities. It must be the war.

"To continue, we walked up Broadway a distance, past theatres galore, the automat, etc. and stopped before a sign, 'Subway entrance.' We went down and got a good look. It was late in the morning and consequently very few people were at this stop. Up into the brisk wind again, we walked down to 6th avenue and Rockefeller center. This center is composed of about 14 buildings, all skyscrapers. Walking into N.B.C. building, we decided that if we were sold the idea by an information desk girl to take an hour tour of the center, followed by a visit to the top of E. C. A. the tall. Needless to say, the tour was very interesting. There are some of the facts I learned: There are more than 200 elevators in the center and if all of them were to go, completely loaded, at once they would carry more than 10000 people more than the city of Wayne. Some 150,000 people work in or visit Rockefeller center daily. It's tallest building is 800 feet high. Four or five of the buildings are known as other country structures, British French, Italian (not for the duration), etc. These buildings are built or furnished with their home countries' materials. An international goodwill gesture! Sonia Heine has an ice revue in one of the theatres there now. The only privately owned street in New York is this center, and Rockefeller center pays $78,000 tax on it yearly just to keep it privately owned. The entire grounds are leased from Columbia university and the lease runs out in 2015. The university gets a huge sum (I think in billions) yearly as rental.

"At 1 o'clock the fellows and I went over to Leon and Eddie's for dinner, only to find it doesn't open till 4 p. m. It's just as well. We would have paid plenty for a meal. We finally, after searching up and down Fifth avenue, ate at a Child's restaurant. We had roast turkey for 55c which was good enough.

"After returning to Broadway and the Astor hotel, I hopped a street car and went down to the water front. The Normandie is well guarded and a high board fence keeps out sightseers. I got a glimpse though. It's still a long way from sailing. On my return I went by Madison Square garden and Dempsey's restaurant. I stopped in at the automat and got a cup of coffee and piece of pie. When I sat down to eat, a couple of Brooklyn bums who looked, acted and dressed like a dollar was the all-time high in their yearly income, sat down beside me and went into a long-winded discourse on all subjects, hypnotism and how the champ really know how to use it, etc. The east side lingo gave me a terrific kick. I then caught a bus back to duty."

Emergency Loans May Be Secured

James B. Landreth, field supervisor for the emergency crop and feed loan office announced recently that food for freedom loans are now available. These loans furnish credit to farmers to pay expenses and purchase supplies needed to plant, produce and harvest special war crop crops, victory home gardens, regular cash crops, feed and soil conservation crops and purchase or produce feed to increase the production of vitally needed dairy products, beef and pork.

Landreth states that a first lien on the crop produced or livestock fed is required as security. Farmers who are unable to arrange for credit from local banks, production credit associations or other local sources on reasonable terms are eligible to apply. Interest rate is four percent per year and special arrangements have been made to have the loan funds in the farmer's hands within a week or ten days after the application reaches the regional office.

Additional information may be obtained from County Agent W. R. Harder, AAA county committee or by writing to James B. Landreth, box 3, Norfolk, Neb. Patronize the Advertisers

Heroic MORTALLY wounded in a battle of the Solomon Islands, Ensign Neal Anderson Scott of Goldsboro, N. C., dictated this farewell message to his father, Rev. Leigh R. Scott: "To have had you and mother for these twenty-four years have been all that I could ask in this world. Mizpah." This heroic tribute, reflecting love and faith, must be an inspiration in a struggle to rescue the world from bold threats of enslavement and tyranny.

The Morrilton, Arkansas, Democrat, comments:

"The press dispatch carried Ensign Scott's statement except the last word: 'Mizpah,' which was at the time probably not recognized to be associated with the record of Jacob in the book of Genesis and means: 'The Lord watch between me and thee, when we are absent one from the other.' To a letter received last week from Dr. Walter L. Lingle, past president of Davidson College at Davidson, N. C., where Ensign Scott attended college and was graduated, Dr. Lingle said: 'The reporter evidently did not know the meaning of that word and let it drop out.'

"Those last words, paid a wonderful tribute to Ensign Scott's parents. It is the most beautiful tribute I have ever seen," Dr. Lingle said. "These last words of Neal Anderson Scott are more than a tribute. They are a shining searchlight, searching out the souls of all of us who are parents. They raise the question as to whether we have so lived in the home that our children could send us a message like that."

Sharp Contrast between the way labor unions obstruct industrial activities and the way farmers cooperate with government policies to increase production. Apparently too often unioners seem to put self-interest above production needs. Farmers are alert to plans to extend acreage and intensify efforts to realize the most from their year's tillage. Farmers understand American fundamentals and are usually united to preserve them. Speaking of the way farmers take to production tasks, the Omaha Journal-Stockman makes this observation:

"The farmers of the nation did not wait until national farm mobilization day was called for last week. They were already mobilized for the greatest job of food production in the history of the world. They did not have to be told by a host of federal farm agents and agencies that the situation was critical and their country needed their services. If any class of our people has risen unitedly and enthusiastically to the war emergency it is the farmers and stock growers of America."

Delicate Operation THE government order to bakers to cut out slicing bread in order to curtail cost of production in view of increased wheat prices has called forth from Washington sources instructions on how to convert the staff of life into eatable form.

It must be understood that a loaf of bread is delicate and sensitive. Therefore, it should be tenderly turned over on its side, and a sharp knife drawn through it slowly and carefully. "Don't bear down on the knife," cautions the authority, as one would in trying to cut a piece of concrete.

If respectful finesse cannot be employed in managing a loaf of bread, there is no law against tearing it apart and devouring it in ill-formed slabs or chunks. Main thing is to reduce it to proportions for convenience in satisfying hunger.

Housewives who have been slicing bread ever since the miracle feast 2,000 years ago, will be amused over the details.

Teaching Hatred THE educational policies of the National Education association has gone on record against teaching hatred of enemies in American schools. It says among other things:

"We especially deplore the cultivation of such traits among the younger children and others who are not likely to see military service. The spiritual casualties of war will be great enough and lasting enough without any help from the teaching profession.

"Malign indictments of entire races and nations are the characteristic weapons of dictators. They are not suitable weapons for nations conducting a great crusade for the extension of liberty and justice to all peoples everywhere in the world."

Editor F. D. Stone, wintering at Phoenix, Arizona, announces in his Hartington Herald that the military ban has been lifted from Phoenix, and soldiers are again permitted to go there. The ban was based on reported vice conditions becoming so bad that army officers imposed restraints.

The mercury took a nose-dive Sunday and the human anatomy sought increased wardrobe and eyed uncertain fuel prospects. Oldest inhabitants shifted tobacco quids and, lapsing into a reflective mood, stirred memories to recall colder weather. Their optics brightened as their powers of retrospect fastened on old-time dates which were worse in many respects. Freedom from snow was pointed to as the one thing lacking to reenact an old-fashioned blizzard.

The unicameral has tackled the primary law in the hope of refashioning it into a more practical system. Each successive legislature has tried to remedy defects in the law, but without satisfactory results. This war-time body, with resolution bred by war, may get the job done.

Allied might is growing, and axis strength is waning, and the tide is definitely turning in favor of the democracies. Leaders in enemy countries must know they are destined to defeat, but they will not acknowledge the fact until forced to do so.

An extension of the work week, liberation from union domination and elimination of bureaus and job holders, not essential to war time, are encouraging steps reported taken by congress.

A bill renewing the war between medicines and osteopaths indicates the legislature is starting off in the dark form.

Nebraska Weather.

(Lincoln Journal)

Last Friday's springlike weather could not last in the middle of January. "Storm breeder," said amateur weather prophets, and they were right. Blizzard winds minus the snow to complete that kind of a storm. Low temperatures and fuel consuming conditions came with the end of the week and reached the 10 below temperature mark by Monday morning. That's the coldest of the winter for this part of the state.

Make Hog Production Attractive.

(Omaha Journal-Stockman)

And, just think of it, less than a decade ago the department of agriculture was ordering the indiscriminate slaughter of pregnant sows and little pigs in order to reduce the excessive supplies of pork. What brought about the excessive production of hogs at that time? Nothing but the current and prospective high prices.

Therein lies the secret of promoting the growing of hogs. Give farmers the incentive of good profits in hogs, and there will be practically no limit to the number of hogs that will be produced in a comparatively short time. Climatic and feed conditions in this country are particularly favorable for hog production and this is especially true this year in the great Corn Belt of the nation.

This world war, and the job that has been thrust upon the nation of feeding the whole world, have created an unprecedented demand for meat, particularly pork, and the problem is to get enough hogs to meet this demand. The solution of the problem lies in making the growing of hogs financially attractive. Stock farmers will do the rest.

"Don't Waste Our Money."

(Industrial Press Service)

An open letter that appeared recently in a metropolitan newspaper addressed to "Dear Senator" and signed by John and Jane Smith, Middleville, U. S. A., points out two very important aspects of the people's war effort.

"We know you have to think in big sums and spend a lot of money for the war," the letter reads, "but, try and remember how hard Mother and I worked to buy $200 worth of bonds."

"Don't let them throw our money away or waste even a little. A wasted million dollars won't save many soldiers' lives. And it will hurt five thousand families like ours who sweated it out in bonds and taxes.

"And listen, Senator, don't worry about whether we're going to cooperate or not. We've given Uncle Sam our boys, our businesses, our money, and all our confidence, and if you think anybody that will give this much is going to quibble about a gallon of gasoline or a can of beans, when you took the train to Washington you left all your common sense on the platform back here."

Proposed Remedy.

(Norfolk Daily News)

For several years this column has been advocating a revision of the direct primary law to permit county, congressional and state conventions to propose for each office two candidates, who would represent the majority and the minority factions in the convention.

The bill introduced into the unicameral by Senators Anderson, Gantz and Lee provides for such nominations. The two high men on the convention ballot would go on the ticket as convention choices. Others could file, but their names, unlike those of the convention candidates, would be rotated.

To make any convention plan acceptable, it will be necessary to make sure that the minority of the party shall have a candidate who is not completely subordinated to the majority candidate. It is as certain as anything can be that on a formal ballot, the top minority candidate will stand second on the list and therefore will be given a place as one of the convention choices.

This should satisfy those who have feared that the minority would be squelched by a boss-dominated convention. The party machine is not likely to have strength enough to place its men in both first and second places on the ballot. Minority representation would give the voter his choice. He would have a chance to pick intelligently instead of being forced to resort to blind name-voting as he is now.

The bill removes one of the scandals of the old convention system by providing for the naming of county convention delegates by law-protected caucuses. There would be no more packed delegations. The people would be permitted to control the make-up of conventions from the very bottom.

Other plans may be proposed, but this one, which seems to have the endorsement of leaders of both parties, points the way toward intelligent popular selection of party candidates.

COAL STRIKE.

The strike of thousands of anthracite coal miners in Pennsylvania is estimated by Fuel Coordinating Board to cost the country 450 thousand tons per week. This happens at a time of war emergency and consequent fuel shortage. The disagreement is over the order of leaders to exact increased dues. The result is so serious that the need of taking over the mines by the government is considered. Thus, helpless mine owners and the consuming public are made to suffer by reason of the arbitrary action of radical leaders. These bold and calloused heads of labor organizations need the interfering hands of congress to make them feel subordinate to the government and obedient to a national crisis in which Americans at home and on battle fronts are engaged in a titanic struggle to save the country and preserve free institutions. If unioners cannot assume responsibilities in essential industries, they should be called into the armed forces.

Finger Is Injured In Gravel Truck

Ivar Jensen suffered injury to the index finger on his left hand last Wednesday when working with one of the J. N. Einung gravel trucks. He was opening the back part of the truck, which dumps gravel, when the end fell and struck him.

Lenotina Potras Is Married In East

According to a telegram received Monday by Miss Cola Potras, her niece, Miss Lenotina Potras, was married Saturday evening to Wallace Stiles, an army man from Georgia. Miss Potras lived in Wayne several years. She was graduated from high school here and went east some months ago to accept a stenographic position.

Report Is Compiled On Gas and Fuel Oil

Wayne county ration board issued gasoline A ration books for 2,604 cars. They issued B books for 1,197, this including 183 for three-month periods and 1,014 for longer than three months. The total number of cars having C books is 105. Bulk coupons for "non-highway" use were given to 143.

A report for December from the Wayne office shows the following: A basic ration books, 2,604; B supplemental ration, 1,197 issued and 865 coupons detached and voided; C supplemental ration, 76 books and 3,591 coupons detached; D motorcycle ration, 8 books issued; E non-highway ration, 411 books issued and 16,288 coupons detached; R non-highway ration, 874 issued and 14,484 coupons detached; T-1 transport ration, 280 books issued, 13,223 coupons detached, T-2 transport ration, 98 books issued, and 10,680 coupons detached; 100-gallon bulk coupons issued, 143; distributors registered for month, 26.

In the fuel oil rationing, for October, November and December the board report shows: For 100 units, 479 sheets issued, 24,645 coupons used; for 1,000 units, 11 sheets issued; 671 coupons detached; for 100 gallons, 1,691 sheets issued, 104,827 coupons used; for 500 gallons, 137 sheets issued, 9,042 coupons used; for 10,000 gallons, 4 sheets issued, 320 coupons used.

A total of 2,270 applicants received fuel oil rations. Private dwellings using fuel oil number 490; premises other than private dwellings, 68; and industrial and commercial, 8. Agricultural and institutional applicants for rations total 1,691.

Application for renewal of a gasoline ration may be made at any time within 30 days before its expiration date or at any time thereafter, the ration board states.

UNHEEDED.

The Omaha World-Herald comments on the "American white book" which was recently made public and which reveals the attitude of Japan in reports by Ambassador Grew to Washington as early as 1932 and 1933. The public is blamed for having been asleep to dangers, whereas it was uninformed. While the government listened to the Tugwells, Hopkinses and Hendersons and spent billions on reforms, it did not prepare for the war which was seen coming by foreign representatives. Work to strengthen the armed forces rather than useless tasks to absorb unemployment would have put the country in better shape to meet foreign foes. The World-Herald believes' review of the past decade is important to safeguard the future. It says among other things: "Henry Wallace, who was building cooperative homesteads when the country needed tanks and bombers, has been promoted to the vice presidency and is now dreaming of a post-war world. Harry Hopkins, the former boom-dogger-in-chief, is head of lease-lend and may be a formidable figure after the war. Scores of other Utopians also remain in places of authority and are looking with the keenest anticipation toward the post-war world—and the opportunities for carefree experimentation that it will present."

AS SEEN BY KARL STEFAN

Washington, D. C., January 13, 1943.

Max Heilemann, formerly of Norfolk and later connected with the Jetter Brewing company of Omaha, is in Washington in connection with ship-building contracts. He is now head of a corporation which is building barges on the Great Lakes for Uncle Sam's navy.

Lt. Dick Joyce of Lincoln held senators and representatives spell-bound with his story of the bombing of Tokyo. He was with Gen. Doolittle on that famous excursion. He was a luncheon guest of Senator Butler one day last week and also present were Robert Reynolds of North Carolina, chairman of the senate committee on military affairs and members of the Nebraska delegation.

According to Washington rumors, one reason why the president looked a little thinner when he appeared before the joint session of the house and senate to deliver his address on the state of the union, is that he has been overweight and is on a diet. These rumors indicate that the president hasn't been eating meat for some time.

The Third district office is receiving a few complaints from some of the towns in our district, especially those located close to defense areas, revealing difficulty in securing sufficient meat and other basic foods for increased populations. This office is in close touch with the office of price administration urging that every possible be done to keep our communities supplied with sufficient food. Leon Henderson informs us that he always has complete current information on the meat situation throughout the country. In addition to that, he informs this office that the food requirements committee of the war production board has collected and totaled the estimates of military, naval and lend-lease needs for the year beginning October 1, 1942, and has surveyed civilian requirements. Also, this committee has undertaken to assemble estimates of meat production. Accordingly, it has been estimated that the American farmers' 1943 production of 24 billion pounds, notwithstanding that it will be the largest in history, will not be sufficient to meet the needs of our armed forces, our fighting allies and our civilian population. Two months ago, the army, navy and lend-lease meat needs for 1943 were estimated at 6 1/2 billion pounds. Now, the estimate is approximately 8 billion pounds. Mr. Henderson said that he feels that all Americans will agree with him that the food needs, especially the meat needs, of those who are fighting this war, must come first, and added that this necessarily means that civilian consumption must be reduced. He also says that systematic rationing is the only way to assure all meat consumers a fair share of the available supply. That rationing program is now being prepared but there is yet much work to be done on it.

Congressman Miller's secretary is Orland Huyek of Grand Island, and Margaret Kapp of Harrison, is the stenographer in that office.

Jack Miller of Omaha is Congressman Buffett's secretary and Dorothy Kennedy is the stenographer.

Miss Ella Bland, formerly with Congressman Copeland, is now in Congressman Curtis' office.

The 78th congress was organized with dispatch. There were 427 members present. There is one vacancy on account of the recent death of Congressman Phil Bennett, of Missouri. Seven members were absent on account of illness. The session starts off with five members in hospitals, one of whom, Congressman Jack Cochran, of Missouri, underwent an amputation of one leg on the previous Monday. Another member, Crosser, of Ohio, who has been in the hospital several weeks, was brought to the chamber in a wheel chair. As usual, the galleries were filled with spectators.

While the vote on speaker was close, the result was never doubtful. The democrats have 222 members, the republicans 208, the progressive 2, and labor parties 2. Neither Speaker Rayburn nor his republican opponent, Joe Martin, voted on the speakership. The result was 217 votes for Rayburn, 206 for Martin and two scattering. The measure of democratic control exceeds the necessary majority by only four votes, the smallest margin that party has had in the House since 1931. In the 1930 election, the republicans won the house by 6, but between election day of 1930, and when one met in December of 1931, the republicans lost so many by death that Jack Garner was elected speaker by a very narrow margin. The house has since been under democratic control. There are 106 members of the new congress who are serving their first term.

President Roosevelt read his message to the two houses on Thursday, January 7th, devoting most of it to the war situation, the accomplishments of our production facilities in 1942, the rapid development of our armed forces, and the proposal of a just peace following victory of the United Nations. He dwelt but little upon domestic issues and problems not connected with the war. Other than to advocate consideration of moves to be made to meet the situation which would require prompt attention when peace comes. He was received with the vigorous and prolonged applause which has always marked his personal visits to congress. Included in his audience in the house chamber were the members of his cabinet, members of the diplomatic corps, and many other high officials of the government. The executive gallery was filled with personal friends and administrative associates for whom accommodations had not been provided on the floor.

The newspapers are filled with predictions as to what this congress will do. This is usually true when a new congress convenes. The radio commentators are saying about as much as the newsmen are writing. That there will be an extensive program relating to the winning of the war is certain. It is equally certain that many problems relating to production for war and civilian purposes will be coming up constantly. Then there will be the multitude of domestic issues that will press for solution. There will be huge appropriations, acted upon, and taxation measures, especially tax increases, are likely to be under debate throughout the two years the congress will be in existence.

One of the biggest problems which agitates our eastern friends just now is that of oil and gas rationing. The OPA keeps amending its orders from day to day, particularly as to gasoline and fuel oil. The unusually cold winter is serving to drain fuel oil supplies more rapidly than was anticipated. Almost all the railway tank cars in the country have been diverted to transporting oil to eastern cities. Now pleasure driving of automobiles in all the 17 eastern states has been forbidden, and the ration of fuel oil reduced. The OPA is putting on a force of its own inspectors to stop all pleasure driving. They are to watch cars which bring folks to movie shows, night clubs, etc., upon the presumption that they are being used for pleasure driving, and upon complaints filed the guilty car owners will lose their ration cards. Leon Henderson says that he wasn't "tough enough." It appears that OPA is going to get "tough enough" on oil and gas rationing in the east, at least. There is plenty of coal, but conversions from oil installations are not always possible.

The civil aeronautics administration is collaborating with the WPA to determine the exact status of each WPA airport project upon which work is being discontinued due to the termination of WPA activities. When the CAA has complete information regarding these projects, its officials will confer with officials of the army air forces to ascertain the latter's interest in having some of our airports completed. The war production board recently ordered cancellation or deferment of all construction work not absolutely essential to the war effort at this time and the result is that the CAA airport construction and improvement program has been rigidly curtailed.

The Third district member will continue his service on the house committee on appropriations. Within a short time, the new members of the Nebraska delegation will have received committee assignments.

The Golden Text is: "Teach me thy way, O Lord; I will walk in thy truth; unite my heart to fear thy name" (Psalms 86:11).
Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Then said Jesus to those Jews which believed on him, If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed; and ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free" (John 8:31,32).
The lesson-sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mortals—try to believe without understanding Truth; yet God is Truth... The spiritual sense of truth must be gained before Truth can be understood. This sense is assimilated only as we are honest, unselfish, loving, and meek... Spirit, Life, Truth, Love, combine as one,—and are the Scriptural names for God... The true understanding of God is spiritual. It robs the grave of victory. It destroys the false evidence that misleads thought and points to other gods, or other so-called powers, such as matter, darkness, sin, and death, superior or contrary to the one Spirit, Truth, spiritually discerned, is scientifically understood. It casts out error and heals the sick" (pp. 312, 272, 275).

GARDEN OF THE GODS

Nature placed two large rock pinnacles to form a natural entrance to the Garden of the Gods near Colorado Springs, Colo. —Story by Trailer Vagabond.

"TRAILER VAGABOND"

By WARREN BAYLEY

COLORADO SPRINGS, COLO. GARDEN OF THE GODS.

A number of years ago, two men stood on the eastern slope of the Rockies here in Colorado and viewed a section of the earth which the hand of nature had fashioned with more than a passing touch. To the west of them, Pike's Peak rose in all its majesty. To the east, the broad rolling plains extended to the mighty Mississippi and beyond. About them rose tall spires of red sandstone, thrown up from the earth's interior back in the ages when the mountains of the earth were formed.

As these two men watched the sunshine play on these tall spires and shine down on a natural amphitheater that now seats thousands of people each Easter morning, one of them remarked, "My what a place for a beer garden." "Beer garden?" said the other, "Why this is a place for the Gods to assemble—A Garden of the Gods."

With that chance remark one of nature's scenic gifts to mankind received its name, and what a name it was—"Garden of the Gods." In all the world there is perhaps no place that can boast as good.

But names are sometimes misleading. I once knew a fellow by the name of Ethelbert. Had he lived up to his name he would have been a pint-sized, under-nourished, drug store cowboy. But not my friend Ethelbert. He was 6 feet 3 inches and could whip his weight in wildcats. Probably it was just as well he could, because as a kid he got considerable practice with his name named Joe and Bill and John.

And so it is with the Garden of the Gods. Whether or not it lives up to its name depends entirely upon each individual's point of view. In doing research for this column I read several articles written by leading authors of the world of writings. They ran from red-hot in their praise to sub zero in condemnation. One writer went so far as to call it "a pale pink joke."

"The Garden" was formed back in the ages when the Rockies were pushed up from the sea. It constitutes the southern end of a red limestone formation that extends from the heights of Wyoming down through central Colorado, a distance of some 300 miles. Outcroppings are found in various places but in only one other place are the formations worthy of mention—"The Park of the Red Rocks" just west of Denver at Manitou Springs. The attraction there is a large area of tremendous red boulders and cliffs that make something different in the ever-changing mountains.

Here at the "Garden" the red slabs of limestone were pushed from the earth in a vertical position. Years of erosion have worn the slabs away until now only pinpoints remain silhouetted against the sky like giant monuments. The effect is much the same as Bryce Canyon in Utah only it doesn't compare in beauty with "The most colorful 20 miles in the world" that is found at Bryce. There the pinnacles are close together, and colored with every hue of the rainbow. Here the pinnacles are of one color and widely spaced like cactus in the Arizona desert.

For many years the entire park was owned by a private individual. It was his wish that it be preserved in its natural state for the pleasure of future generations, so in 1909 he deeded it intact to the City of Colorado Springs. Since that time it has received publicity from all over the world. Whether you like it or not, it's a "must see" in Colorado.

Basketball Players Defeat Ponca Team

Declamatory Contest Is Held to Pick Students Entering Event.

Wakefield basketball team defeated the Ponca team there last Friday to chalk up the fourth straight win of the season. The boys were able to pierce the Ponca defense almost at will, but were consistently unable to convert their opportunities into points. Ponca sank several long shots during the game to keep the outcome in doubt during the first half and well into the third quarter. At the close of the first quarter Wakefield led by a score of 8 to 5, but the margin was reduced to 11 to 9 at the half. Wakefield increased this lead to 19 to 14 at the end of the third quarter and led 27 to 20 at the final whistle. Ponca sank four out of eight free throws while Wakefield was able to connect but one out of an equal number of attempts.

Wednesday, January 13, Wakefield Trojans decisively defeated Allen 36 to 20. Early in the game they took the lead and were never seriously threatened although the Allen boys showed occasional spurts of good form and were uniformly game and earnest.

Don Erickson was high point man for Wakefield with 16 points, followed by Alfred Benson with 8 and Jack Donaldson with 7. The outstanding thing about the Wakefield team this year is team work and fair play.

Second team won their game by a score of 15 to 11. Bridie Nicholson made 8 points and Warren Borg 8.

Wakefield will play Emerson at Wakefield, January 22.

Texas Is Ready To Save Accent

Sugar and Coffee Rescued For Easterner by Man Collecting Scrap.

"Man the guns, men, the Texas accent is in danger!" This was the substance of a warning issued by a Texas expression teacher who charges that northerners filtering into that southern state are responsible for changing southern accents. "There's already too much 'bean' in 'been,'" Dallas has already fallen by the wayside, the teacher adds, and the rest of the state is in peril.

Collecting for a salvage drive, it was found that one easterner put out the wrong box. So, instead of dumping it into the truck, the collector returned it to the lady who was most grateful to get back her sugar and coffee.

Municipal Court Judge Earle W. Frost of Kansas City says it's the most amazing case he ever heard. Both Le E. Gage, 21, and James H. Willis, 27, whose cars collided, admitted they had been inattentive at the wheel. When the judge said "$10 each," Gage ruefully observed, "I'm a little short, judge." Willis spoke up, "Here's $10. You can pay me back sometime."

So many of the regular bowlers in one of the leagues at Elm Street, Ill., have gone to war that half of the teams drafted Mrs. Mildred Bierlein, a slim blond, the other night. Mildred, a veteran bowler in women's competition, stepped up and bowled a three game total of 485, which the boys thought wasn't bad, especially when her husband, bowling on another team, failed to equal it.

Enrollment in DeSoto, Kan., school increased from 70 of last year to 234. The board finally told the children they'd have to wait until a new building was erected. The superintendent isn't worrying, though, because he was induced.
