

Did Not Arrive in Wayne March 1 as Many Expected—Air Field Enlarged—Flood Lights and Fire Protection Provided—Part in Aviation Training Desirable—Letter to Senator Butler—Full Part in the War.

It appears from reports that Wayne college is not included in the list of institutions chosen at this time to train aviation cadets, and thus the soldier unit did not materialize here March 1 as many had hoped. It was reported that the school may be asked to accommodate 200 boys April 1.

We are reliably informed that army inspectors of the college plant some months ago were fully satisfied. It is doubtful if any institution in the state is better equipped for the purpose. Objections as to the adequacy of the air field have been overcome according to Mayor Herman Lundberg who says the council ordered it more than doubled with installation of proper flood lights and due fire protection. Thus, nothing more would seem desired to insure a satisfactory air field.

What, if anything in particular, stands in the way of early realization is yet to be decided. It is explained that the "approved" list of institutions selected "were reminded of the difference between "tooled" and "twoed" and, "and of the signer who was warned that "many are called but few are chosen." Thus, it would seem that newspapers in their enthusiasm, were in error in saying the Wayne college had been "selected," though as a matter of fact it was definitely selected with three others in the state for favorable consideration. Such inclusion among few of many gave ample ground for assurance. And still does.

We think we voice the feeling of school heads, the Chamber of Commerce and the community generally in expressing anxiety to see the college here lend conspicuous aid to aviation training. Above any selfish motives involved in an enlarged enrollment and greater activity, there is a pressing desire to be of increased service to the federal government. The plans, Wayne has a superior college plant and able instructors with no disposition to sidestep new war-time responsibilities. Though doubtless often hard and exacting, the experience should strengthen the institution's future.

In order to be certain nothing had been left undone to meet requirements, we dispatched the following letter by air mail to Senator Butler Saturday morning: "Though approved following investigation for cadet training, the Wayne college seems to be omitted from institutions selected at this time. The city has ordered the air field enlarged and other things done to dovetail with requirements. I understand the school's buildings and equipment have satisfied demands. The Chamber of Commerce joins the school authorities in eagerness to shoulder this responsibility as a contribution to the war effort.

"Could I burden you to find out if possible what is going and let me know? I am sure any reasonable requirement would be promptly met. We are certain Senator Butler will ascertain the facts and give any possible assistance to Wayne in winning favorable decision. We will report results. We believe the delay is not serious, and that aviation cadets will in time be scheduled for training here.

From Rev. W. A. Mansur. It is always stimulating to hear from Rev. W. A. Mansur, faithful friend of the Herald. He was at one time pastor of the Methodist church at Winslow, and is now living at Omaha. Mr. Mansur, born abroad, is intensely devoted to this country of his adoption. He expresses hope for a return of old-fashioned Americanism. Some times one who leaves his native land to become a citizen of America, is more keenly appreciative and more openly enthusiastic over the privileges of democracy than one who was born here and little understands disadvantages falling to the lot of people in other countries.

Mr. Mansur is highly gratified over the progress his son, William, is making in the army. He proudly calls him his "soldier boy" and urges him to his best for the cause of American freedom. William went to Fort Leavenworth, Kan., and then to Miami Beach, Fla., for basic training. He stood high in mental and mechanical tests, and was assigned to a technical squadron school at Goldsboro, N. C. Later he was returned to Miami Beach to take a course as a physical instructor. In due time he will be graduated as a staff sergeant. Another son, Edward, is a pre-medical student in the Omaha high school, and in the fall when he will be 18, he will join the army. A third son is still younger, and the war should be over when he is old enough to enlist.

The Mansur boys are reported thrilled by the attitude of their mother who says she would enlist herself. (Continued on Page Four)

To Decide Auker Case from Briefs

Action Asking Settlement Is Heard Before Judge in District Court.

The action in behalf of heirs of the estate of Stephen E. Auker, seeking an accounting from Bertha Hendrickson and asking that she be replaced as trustee, was heard Thursday and Friday before District Judge Fay H. Pollock of Stanton, who took the matter under advisement. Plaintiffs and defendants have until March 20 to submit briefs and the judge will then render a decision.

W. F. Auker, Delpha and Earl Merchant are plaintiffs in the suit, and Bertha and C. H. Hendrickson are defendants, and Arthur Auker, Clarence Auker, Edward A. Auker, Guy Auker and Irvin Auker, defendants and cross-petitioners. The petition states that Stephen E. Auker, who died August 10, 1934, owned 240 acres of land northeast of Wayne and a residence property in Wayne. At administrator's sale both properties were bought by Bertha Hendrickson and Delpha Merchant, who it was alleged in petition agreed to hold the property in trust for benefit of the heirs and to render proper accounting. This, Delpha Merchant offered to do.

Witnesses in the hearing last week were Delpha and Earl Merchant, Art Auker, H. B. Ware, Bertha and C. H. Hendrickson and Henrietta Hurstad. Mr. Merchant testified that when the administrator's sale was held, Delpha Merchant and Bertha Hendrickson agreed to buy and hold the Auker property for a brief period and then divide the property among the heirs. Delpha Merchant and Art Auker testified to like effect. All three also testified that since then Bertha Hendrickson has acknowledged that she owned only one-ninth interest in the farm and town property and that she owed an obligation to straighten out the affairs of the estate when the property was sold. It was shown that the residence property had been sold, a substantial profit realized and the profits not divided.

In her testimony Bertha Hendrickson claimed to be the owner of half interest in the farm and stated that she had never recognized herself as a trustee. She claimed that her title to the property is just in that it offset loans made to other members of the family by the late S. E. Auker. These notes still remain as liens on the distributive shares of the estate, she testified. Miss Hendrickson admitted that in September, 1942, in conversation with W. F. Auker of Seattle, she had started to "straighten out" the estate, and that negotiations broke down when an agreement could not be reached. Mr. Hendrickson and Miss Hurstad corroborated her statements. Taking of testimony was concluded Friday noon. Judge Pollock took the matter under advisement pending briefs. Mr. W. F. Bartels is attorney for the plaintiffs, H. E. Siman represents the cross-petitioners, M. J. Ryan is attorney for defendants, Bertha and C. H. Hendrickson.

WAYNE, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, MARCH 4, 1943

NUMBER FORTY-THREE

VITAL STATISTICS SHOW NEBRASKA IS LEADER IN HEALTH

IF NEBRASKANS don't keep well, it won't be through the fault of the state department of health at Lincoln. It issues bulletins frequently, pointing out dangers and ways to dodge disease germs. Pneumonia is a bad actor which is started on its evil road by irritation as well as infection. We are glad to note that social diseases are not so prevalent in Nebraska as in most other states, due, as the department emphasizes, to "an alert health department, good doctors, hard-working social agencies and a sensible, well-informed public." Many causes lead to making Nebraska an exceptionally healthful state. One thing, people never have been pampered by climate. It has spurred inhabitants to use their energies and keep up valuable arterial circulation. Another thing, people are too busy grubbing out a living to furnish parking quarters for disease germs. Nebraska cannot guarantee the friendliest climate in the world, but it probably has the healthiest.

Mrs. Quillen Fox, nearly 27, Wayne college graduate, was killed in an accident Saturday in Long Beach, according to word received here Monday by Mr. Fox's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Fox. Details of the accident were not given. Mrs. Fox, who is training as pharmacist in the medical department of the navy at Washington, D. C., flew to Long Beach as soon as she heard of the accident. He was to make funeral arrangements after he reached there.

While her husband was training for service, Mrs. Fox was teaching in a day nursery for children of defense workers in Long Beach. She was to receive a promotion March 1.

Mrs. Fox was the former Lucille Verne Lineweaver. She was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Lineweaver and was born at Eagle Grove, Ia., April 20, 1916. She finished Eagle Grove high school and attended junior college in that city. She spent a year at the University of Iowa before coming to Wayne college in 1938. She earned her A. B. degree here in May, 1940. Afterward she taught at Mapleton, Ia.

Mr. Fox, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fox of Randolph, also received his A. B. degree at Wayne in 1940. After he and Miss Lineweaver were married, they lived at Winslow where Mr. Fox was coach and instructor. Mr. Fox then entered service.

On receiving word from Long Beach, Mr. Fox called his parents at Randolph and the latter notified Wayne relatives.

Mrs. Fox leaves her husband and her parents. Her father is a retired railroad man and the Lineweavers recently moved to Arkansas. Estel Fox, brother of Quillen, was to arrive in San Diego Tuesday from the naval zone where he has been with the navy. Relatives are hoping to get the brothers together in the west. Estel has been in service three years and is expected to come here later. Another brother, John, is training in the signal corps at Fort Bragg, N. C.

AUDITOR'S REPORT PRAISES WORK OF COUNTY OFFICIALS

GEORGE KOLZOW of the state auditor's department, surrounded himself with county officers at the court house here last Thursday and made a report following a careful audit of the records of every office from cellar to garret. He commended conditions disclosed very highly, and offered some recommendations in the interest of uniformity. Keeping comparatively few records in the early days was a simple matter. As public business grew, new and improved methods were introduced. From time to time changes have facilitated handling an increased volume. It is a fair acknowledgment of merit to say that Wayne county has been fortunate in the quality of its public officers, and present incumbents fully uphold the high standards of the years.

Quartet to Appear In College Concert

The world famous Belgian piano-string quartet, which was organized in 1927 and has toured Europe and America, will appear in concert in the Wayne Teachers college auditorium at 8 this Thursday.

G. Mombaerts is the pianist, Albert Röhner the violinist, Charles Foudart the violist, and Joseph Wetzels is the cellist as well as director of the organization. Each member of this quartet has great achievements to his credit. Mombaerts was selected by Queen Elizabeth of Belgium to head the piano department of her own "Queen's Chapel," which is comparable to our "post graduate school" for artists who have won the highest honors in Belgium's conservatories or art schools. Röhner was once the first violinist of the celebrated "Opera de la Monnaie" in Brussels, and later was head of the violin department at the Ghent conservatory. Foudart, a former student of Wetzels, was at one time active in the Monte Carlo Opera orchestra, and later returned to Brussels to play in the national orchestra; and after cooperating with Wetzels in founding the Belgian piano-string quartet was decorated with the "Order of Leopold the Second" for being a co-founder. Wetzels was for seven years prior to 1927 head of the cello department of the conservatory at Bilbao, Spain; and he, like Foudart, was decorated with the "Order of Leopold the Second."

Is Improving Here. Mrs. Henry Feltz of Carroll, is improving in a local hospital where she is a medical patient.

Girls Are Chosen For College Play

Bombs bursting, sirens whistling and excitement aptly characterize the play, "Heart of a City," to be presented by dramatic students of the college. The play depicts the heroic reactions of London show girls during the Nazi blitz.

Girls who will participate in the play are Jean Groeling of Verdigris, as Judy; Mildred Janssen, Coleridge, as Toni; Barbara Strahhan, Wayne, as Rosalind; Amber Richards, Bancroft, as Valeri; Frances Blezek, Plainville, as Bubbles; Shirley Wilkerson, Coleridge, as Joan; Carolyn Malin, Madison, as Franche; Bernice Griggs, Sioux City, as Lila Saddle, theater manager; Kathleen Hanth, Wood Lake, as Geri, the call girl; Virginia Hummel, Sioux City, as Mrs. Good; Lauretta Edwards, Sioux City, as Anna, an Italian woman.

The boys to perform had been chosen but Uncle Sam called them for a much larger role so at present the three male characters are as yet not chosen.

Physical Science club Monday made arrangements for a semester party to be given probably the latter part of March. Harold Focke led a discussion on "How Artificial Sapphires Are Made," revealing that these surpass the natural ones in serviceability as bearings in war instruments.

Focke also gave a report on "The Development of Airplane Propellers." Lois Wilson reported concerning "Glass Substitutes for Rubber and the Use of Glass for Insulation."

Social Science club had a book review by Mrs. F. A. Milder. Kathryn Schelly, vice-president of the club and program chairman, introduced Mrs. Milder. The speaker reviewed Sir Norman Angell's recent book, "Let the People Know," dealing with some mistakes allegedly made in the Versailles treaty and the need for some type of international control after this present war. The club also conducted brief routine business.

Fourth Term DESPITE the war and its heavy responsibilities, national party politics commands increasing attention. Influential new dealers, eager to stick to their posts, are already out with entreaties to the president to yield to a fourth term and the latter looks on with indecision, but with an air of evident confidence. He takes note of the wave of opposition sweeping the country, but is quoted as expressing belief in his ability to recapture popular favor.

Conflict over a fourth term is apparent within democratic ranks. Jas. A. Farley, former democratic national chairman and postmaster general in an early Roosevelt cabinet, is hostile to the idea. He is reported to have felt out sentiment among party stalwarts and found a growing current of opposition. Farley was instrumental in nominating Roosevelt for his first term. He opposed a third term, and now he is bent on preventing a fourth term.

The Roosevelt administration has been outstanding in the overthrow of precedents. The plea for a fourth term adds to the aggravation of precedent-breaking. In line with the administration's easy disregard of precedents, the one not to change horses in the middle of a stream—now, to change presidents the midst of a national emergency—may be expected to be turned aside. If that is a precedent, the country may follow the administration's habit by breaking it.

The public is led by those in the saddle to take cognizance of a fourth term, and whether voters can be persuaded to overlook costly domestic follies in the stress of winning the war remains to be found out. We suspect if the war were over, there would still be an emergency.

Glossary of NATION'S Business adds to the clarity of thinking Definitions and the logic of conclusions by offering these definitions compiled by an unknown author:

- A conference is a group of men who individually can do nothing but who as a group can meet and decide that nothing can be done.
- A bureaucrat is a man with a passion for regimentation and no talent for doing same.
- A statistician is a man who draws a mathematically straight line from an unwarranted assumption to a foregone conclusion.

- A consultant is a man who knows less about your business than you do and gets paid more for telling you how to run it than you could possibly make out of it even if you ran it right instead of the way he told you.
- A specialist is a man who concentrates more and more on less and less.
- An economist is a man who can make a simple subject complex, a complex subject simple; in other words, an economist is simply simple.

The governor has vetoed a bill to pay a bonus of $10,000 for the first firm to produce 2,000 tons of rubber in Nebraska in one year. The demand is so great for rubber and adequate profit from its manufacture so certain, that an extra monetary reward would seem unnecessary. Producers of raw material as well as the capital required to start a plant, should and doubtless would be interested without a bonus. An extra reward suggests an investment of doubtful value.

The report published of late in outside newspapers that Wayne county has had fifty cases of undulant fever since the first of the year is so baldly false that we are led to wonder, with no greater attempt at

FROM THE SOUTH.

Caustic references to Washington bureaucrats are made by the editor of the Miami Herald, in a recent issue of that newspaper. "If you still want to believe our domestic policies make sense and are being administered ably and efficiently by a strange conglomeration of new dealers and the temporarily converted dollar-a-year old dealers now assembled in the national capital, stay away from Washington," says the editor. He adds: "Congress is resentful but confused. Bureaucracy rides high, but obviously doesn't know where it is going. On the surface, incompetency and disorder are covered up by gold braids, high-sounding titles and talk." After touching weak spots in the administration, the editor says: "We suppose a certain amount of dissension and disagreement is inevitable when as many men of divergent backgrounds, temperaments and beliefs are suddenly thrown together in the building of a great war production machine. But in what other administration would there have been as much confusion, as many internal rows and such sublime, unfruffed confidence on the part of the man who is responsible for it all?" This criticism comes from the deep south.

LEGISLATIVE LETTER
Lincoln, Nebraska
March 1, 1943

A total of 30 bills have been (killed) indefinitely postponed, 27 have been passed and approved by the governor. Practically all bills introduced have been set for hearing before the various committees. Some 52 bills are now on general file, ready for consideration by the legislature.

LB 82, extending jury service to women, apparently has a fair chance of passage. It was this week advanced from general file to enrollment and review. In the near future, the women of Nebraska may be summoned to serve on the jury if LB 82 is enacted. The amendments to the bill provide certain conditions under which the trial judge may excuse from service, those summoned. Such conditions are: "(1) Where a physical or mental condition exists, which might result in impairment of health if she was compelled to serve; (2) the conditions in her home are such as would work undue hardship upon her, or her family, to compel her to serve; or (3) such other cause is shown as would be sufficient to warrant an excuse for men under similar circumstances."

LB 253, seeking to divert surplus waters from the Platte river to another water shed, was heard last week. Your senator appeared in opposition to this bill because he believed it would endanger the interests of water users and farmers living farther east on the Platte river. So far, the public works committee has taken no action on this bill.

LB 411, recently introduced, would allow the board of control to buy for state institutions oleomargarine containing at least 50 per cent of animal fat. Sponsors aver that it may be necessary for the duration to use a substitute if butter be not available in sufficient quantities. LB 340, suspending the oleomargarine and butterine statutes for the duration was killed by the agriculture committee.

WILLIAM A. CROSSLAND,
State Senator.

IN 1870.

Early in its settlement, Dixon county established a reputation for swift justice by setting aside the law and lynching a confessed murderer. It was in 1870 when a dissolute character by the name of Miller killed a stranger by the name of Dunn who was on his way to Dixon county to buy a farm. No railroad entered the county at that time, and Miller who overheard Dunn's inquiries for transportation, offered to escort him to his intended destination. A few miles from Ponca, the county seat, the two weary travelers entered a thicket through which a stream of water ran and that was the last of Dunn. The body was discovered, and suspicion pointed to Miller. The latter was found in Council Bluffs where he was rolling high with the ill-gotten money he had taken from his victim. The prisoner, returned to Ponca by the sheriff, was forcibly taken in hand by a mob. The crowd, led by a preacher who opened the proceedings with prayer, listened to a plea of guilty and unanimously decided to hang the murderer. The decision was carried out forthwith. The fact that a prospective settler had been killed added fuel to the fires of retribution. Thus, Dixon county became widely known as an undesirable place for criminals.

But It's True

Congress

AS SEEN BY KARL STEFAN

Washington, D. C. February 24, 1943
Mrs. Harold Buckholz of Bancroft has been her existing husband who is one of the soldiers doing guard duty at the White House. Mrs. Buckholz has done all the work on their farm near Bancroft since last August.

Bert Carpenter of Omaha was in Washington enroute home from New York where he was elected vice president of the National Park association. He informs members of the Nebraska delegation that while newprint is going to be scarce, the weekly newspapers will have sufficient to continue their normal business.

We are receiving quite a few letters from parents of men in the service, also from service men themselves, asking about furloughs and discharges for men believed to be needed at home on the farms. All that any member of congress can do in any particular case of this kind is to advise the interested parties about the proper procedure. It is always essential for the service man himself to take the initial action by filing with his commanding officer a written application for furlough or discharge. Parents cannot file such an application and no member of congress can file it. There is considerable agitation here in Washington for some adoption of a specific policy by congress which will restore rather large groups of essential farm workers to civilian life, not for the accommodation of the individuals affected, but because of the belief that the national interest requires a building up of farm manpower which has already been too deeply cut. However, no such policy has yet been promulgated, and even if a policy of that character is promulgated, it will still likely be true from the standpoint of procedure that every individual serviceman who may wish to avail himself of this privilege will be required to file an individual application. It should be borne in mind, however, that as matters now stand, no one can do anything about getting a man out of the army or the navy which will relieve the man himself of the necessity to file his own application with his commanding officer. These applications are not handled in the war department in Washington.

Thurman Arnold, the recent chief of the anti-trust division in the department of justice, tells members that loan sharks are very active around war plants and are charging borrowers up to 120 per cent interest on loans. Arnold has been kicked upstairs. He has been appointed to a judgeship in the District of Columbia. His successor in the department of justice has not yet been appointed. Many of the activities of the anti-trust division have been suspended for the duration.

Madame Chiang Kai-Shek, wife of the Chinese generalissimo, made a deep impression upon members when she appeared before the house of representatives here recently. Among the people on the floor of the house when the Chinese first lady spoke was Carl Neppard of Wisconsin, also well known in Nebraska. He sat with the Third district member and told us how he has worked for the Chinese government for 30 years. He is connected with the finance department of the Chinese government and has been the financial adviser to the Chinese for many years. He is very close to the family of Chiang Kai-Shek and he told us that Madame Chiang Kai-Shek writes her own speeches and only occasionally seeks help in English composition from her secretary who is also Chinese. She was graduated from Wellesley college here in the United States after she had attended Georgia Wesleyan. She has written many books, dealing in particular, with conditions under which Chinese women live. She is admired by both Chinese men and Chinese women in spite of the fact that in China, women are ordinarily lightly considered by Chinese men.

Jim Seely who used to travel in Nebraska, is now a dollar-a-year man with the war production board. He is an expert with machine tools. He tells us that the machine tool situation has improved greatly in spite of a bottleneck that existed a year ago. He says that the present monthly output of machine tools is the equivalent of what was until recently produced in a year.

A welding rod is a piece of metal made of pure iron and borax. Most of the borax comes from Death Valley and it is generally reported here that borax is largely controlled by foreign interests.

Many of our farmers are blacksmiths and they and small machine shop operators have been worried over the bottleneck in the welding rod supply. Just what did the Nebraska delegation do to break this bottleneck? Here is a brief explanation: Following conferences we had with officials of the war production board and the department of agriculture, we are assured that welding rods are available for repair of farm machinery. Under a recent ruling, regional offices of the war production board can give ratings up to AA1 to enable a repair shop to obtain $25 worth of welding rods or 45 days' inventory, whichever is the lesser without the necessity of filing a PD-1A application in Washington. District offices of the war production board are allowed similar ratings up to AA 2X.

Due to the increased uses of electrical welding, especially on tanks and ships, the shielded arch rod has become extremely critical, and every effort is being made to encourage repair shops and others to use bare, dipped, and dust-coated electrodes. The latter type of welding rods were universally used until a few years ago, and while they are not as satisfactory as the shielded arch rod, especially for the very critical welding necessary on war goods, many users can revert to the type formerly used with satisfactory results.

The senate committee on agriculture is going to investigate agricultural marketing practices. Its chairman, the venerable Senator Smith of South Carolina, is one of the oldest members of the senate in both years and length of service. He believes that policies advocated by the administration leadership may not be helpful to the farmers or to the consumers of food products. He believes that "the lid should be blown off" and full revelation made as to price fixing practices. He and his committee also will inquire into the proposal for "incentive payments" to increase production of certain farm crops, for which the president asks congress to appropriate an extra 100 million dollars.

Coming from a cotton growing and peanut producing state, a practical farmer who lives on his own farm, and well-versed in governmental functions, the South Carolina senator may make quite a stir in governmental circles. But he will not have the subject nor its investigation all to himself. Congressman Fulmer, chairman of the house committee on agriculture, also is from South Carolina. He, too, is a farmer who lives on his own place. He has been protesting for years over departmental price fixing on farm stuffs. He is launching an inquiry in his own committee. He wants to know how and why farmers can get only 40 cents of the consumers' dollar on the average, while the other 60 per cent goes to sale costs, profits and distribution. "Why," he asks, "does a shirt cost $3 which is made of only 30 cents worth of cotton?" But he believes his inquiry will be highly educational to congress and to the country as well.

Just as these two southern representatives get busy on marketing costs and practices, a peanut "incentive" bill comes from the house committee. Peanut oil has become one of the many war essentials, along with other vegetable oils. To increase acreage and production, the incentive premium will not be a small item. Possibly 80 million dollars may be required. And real government control of marketing the crop is involved. The acreage may be boosted by an incentive of $30 per acre for more production, and an increase of 50 per cent in price floor may be another. Then the government may take over the crop and apportion it to processors. Oil-cake, peanut butter, and the regular supply of peanuts for circuses and fairs will be taken care of. There is a lot of the peanut bill, particularly in the way of precedent. It may be followed by similar plans for soy beans, navy beans and a lot else. "War essentials" cover a wide range of products.

There are so many investigations underway now that a few more may not hurt. Both houses and senate seem inclined to "find out" what is going on and what the cost, who is spending so much money, and why. The appropriation committees are scrutinizing war expenditures as never before. There are results, too. Eoring in on the maritime commission as to the contract for concrete boats revealed that the big contractor had received millions for turning out boats needed in a hurry, but he had produced only one boat and many promises. The outstanding fact was that he had many relatives on his pay-roll at high salaries which would be figured in on costs. There have been so many similar instances that the revelations are no longer surprising. One has been the policy of this divi-

The department of agriculture has been studying relief measures for months, duly admitting that pending a program of a practical nature, the situation becomes more serious. It has been preparing an "incentive" plan, upon which it hesitates. Secretary Wickard went before the committee on appropriations to obtain the $40 million dollars which the president recommended as an incentive fund to increase production of beans, peas, potatoes and numerous other farm products. The committee turned down the proposition by a vote of 6 to 1. The farm organizations oppose the plan for a "consumers' subsidy." They want and demand increased prices which will cover costs of production. The OPA is strongly opposed to raising prices on farm commodities, alleging that such an increase would start a dangerous and inflationary spiral, apparently overlooking the fact that the amounts involved in the wage and hour orders are several times that which would be required to put farming on a cost-of-production rather than a "subsidy" basis. The purpose of the subsidy would be to hold down prices to the consumers during the emergency rather than to put farming on a sound basis.

The government now owns more hotels than any of the peacetime hotel chains in this or any other country. It has taken over many hotels and apartments in Washington. Its biggest purchase was the Stevens Hotel in Chicago, for army purposes. The Stevens has 3,000 rooms and cost $27,000,000 back in the boom days of 1927. The army bought it for $8,000,000 and will continue to use it for the duration. After the war there probably will have to be a bargain sale of the scores of hotels which have been bought for federal use in this time of stress, when this chase was regarded as cheaper and more rapid than new construction.

Finishes Electrical Course of Training

Soon to be assigned to active duty as a navy specialist, Darrel Eugene Johnson, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Albert Johnson, Wayne, was graduated Monday at the naval training school for electrician's mates at the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis.

The youth maintained an excellent record throughout the intensive 16-week course in the operation and repair of all types of electrical equipment carried by the modern ship. The school has facilities for training 500 men who have demonstrated special skills in aptitude tests taken while in recruit training. Instruction is almost entirely by members of the university faculty.

Johnson enlisted in the navy September 19, 1942, and went through "boot" training at the U. S. naval training station, San Diego, Calif. He was promoted to petty officer rating of electrician's mate third class upon graduating.

Darrel left Tuesday for New London, Conn., to attend submarine school.

At Sebring, Fla., a student flying officer pinning on the required name plate, wondered what was wrong when the next man looked at him and began laughing. She is charged with spraying a neighbor, Mrs. Sibyl Sackett, with a garden hose during an argument.

Wayne High Wins Over Wisner Team

Wayne high defeated Wisner high at Wisner in basketball last Friday night 33-17. Coach Henry Menke felt pleased with the showing of his team in the final game before the class A tournament at Norfolk this week. The half ended 14-13 in Wayne's favor. However, at the beginning of the second half the Wayne team spurted with a flurry of baskets and coasted to an easy victory. Chan Mayer starting his first game at center, seems to have solved Coach Menke's problem at that position for the tournament, as he played well defensively and dropped in four baskets to be the high scorer. Lessman and Strahan each scored eight points for the locals.

Library News

Tomorrow is the last day of the Victory book campaign. We are pleased to be able to report that Wayne will have a respectable number of books to contribute. Twenty dollars in cash was turned into the library for the purchase of books. This was contributed by organizations and also individuals who had no books to give. Anyone reading this column who has forgotten to bring in his contribution should do so today as the shipment should leave Wayne March 5.

New books accessioned this week at the library are: The Ball, by Robert Turnbull, Reprisal, by Ethel Vance (author of Escape), and Our Hearts Were Young and Gay, by Cornelia Otis Skinner and Emily Kimbrough. The first book is a thrilling, true war experience; the second is a war novel, based on fact and the third book is pure humor.

The Flying Tigers, by Russell Whelan, is a book that all Wayne people would be interested in reading. The author was radio director of United China relief, and he knows the history of every flier in the American volunteer group, called the Flying Tigers. He can tell you how many dog fights each one took part in and how many Japs went down under his guns. He makes you understand why they flew for China, how they felt about the enemy they got into, and, occasionally, they died. Bob Smith is mentioned over and over in the book which makes it especially interesting here. There are pictures of the fliers and a special one of Bob Smith's plane. In the book he is spoken of as Bob Smith of Los Angeles, but all know that his parents were at one time Wayne residents when his father was superintendent of the public schools. There are some who say that there is no more romance in war. The Flying Tigers are here to tell you it's not so!

Mrs. J. L. Vandenberg, State President, Is Speaker In Wayne Friday

Hitler forced Japan to strike at the United States, figuring that his country was unprepared, that internal controversy would result and that this nation would thus be put out of the world conflict in a short time. This opinion of world affairs was expressed by one of the speakers for the National Federation of Women's clubs at a recent war conference in Chicago, according to Mrs. J. L. Vandenberg of Scribner, state club president, who addressed Wayne club members Friday. The speaker brought thoughts from meetings which she attended in Chicago and Fort Worth.

Mrs. Vandenberg told of the importance of the Woman's club as a well-organized agency for keeping America free. The club unity should be maintained for this purpose, and also to promote war service and education. She advises more active participation in public office. "We must be active in public affairs to preserve our representative form of government and our American way of life."

Members of the conference urged that women be given representation on policy-forming committees. Their experiences should be valuable help in formulating rules regarding nurseries at defense plants, laxos, delinquencies in homes, recreation, vocational training, etc. And they need to have representation in the peace plans.

A minister addressing the war meeting stressed that it is not the German people the world is fighting but Hitler and nazism. But he did think that Hitler was the choice of the Nazi movement. "Democracy will never fail unless we fail it and religion is the same way." The speaker added that the right attitude would punish only the guilty. "We must arise to every emergency for freedom is priceless."

One war correspondent, speaking at Chicago, told of how poorly defended Alaska had been. He also mentioned that lack of cooperation between branches of service had been largely responsible for loss in a Pacific battle. He stressed the importance of unity and especially mentioned the need of air power. He told that Canada is preparing 125,000 pilots, 7,000 of them women.

Explains Feeding Problem. In speaking about the job of equipping an army in addition to furnishing for allies, Mrs. Vandenberg pointed out that one train load of men requires four train-loads of equipment. Boys in service will have plenty of vitamins, thanks to science. "This was not true in the first world war. The speaker told how concentrated foods are wrapped in waterproof nylon bags which are fastened to parachutes. The bags are dropped from planes near the foreign seacoast; the tide sweeps the bags to shore and the food is then gathered. One small bag will contain orange, grapefruit, coffee and tea, enough for one strong cup or two weak ones when combined with water. Tiny bars contain highly concentrated sugar, chocolate and other foods. One combines a whole meal. Plenty of food is in the tin."

Cooperation Is Urged

The speaker urged housekeepers to cooperate in rationing. The boys are doing their part. Small business is having a hard struggle to serve and still keep going. Civilians can do much by cooperating. In England everything is rationed, she mentioned, and the plan results in greater cooperation throughout the effort. "It brings a unity of purpose which will insure England's democracy at the close of the war."

The Woman's club promotes Victory gardens. The group is also promoting salvage of war materials. Brass, copper, tin cans, grease and such should be saved.

The Woman's club favors nursing instruction. The need for nurses is so great that the organization has undertaken to provide funds to help train young folks. Mrs. Whitehurst, national president, pledged $20,000 for this. Nebraska clubs have raised $750. Each club is asked to give.

The speaker urged all women to write letters to boys in service.

Would Use Camps. One suggestion made at the conference is that CCC camps be used for groups in need of medical attention because of diseases.

A national curfew for young folks was mentioned.

A state health program is being supported by the Federation. One bill before the senate provides pre-natal tests and another pre-natal tests to allow women to serve on juries and the Federation favors this.

The Third district meeting will be held at Norfolk April 10. Omaha has extended an invitation for the 1944 national meeting, in case one is held.

Mrs. Vandenberg, who had served as state treasurer and Third district president, and is now state president, was introduced by Mrs. E. S. Berry.

Basketeers to Meet Craig Friday to Determine Play at Lincoln.

Wayne prep defeated Coleridge in finals of the class B high school basketball tournament here Saturday by score of 35-29. Wayne prep won its way to the finals by defeating Randolph, Carroll and Stanton in that order. Stanton high furnished probably the toughest game of the tournament for the prepsters, inasmuch as the game ended in a tie, and the teams were forced to play one overtime to decide the winner. In the overtime Dale clinched the game with a set-up after Jim Morrison had made good on a gift shot.

The Coleridge-Wayne prep game was just as tough as the fans predicted it would be, and never until the closing moments was it sure that the Wayne team would be the champions. Wayne prep started the game truly like champions and amassed a large lead. At no time could Coleridge come within six points. The half ended 21-11, the third quarter 28-19 and the game 35-29. Hedglin of Coleridge, was high point man of this final game, and was also high point man of the tournament, getting 52 points in four games. Jack Dale, Wayne prep center, was second in points, scoring 45 points in the four games.

Wayne prep goes to West Point Friday night to play Craig high to determine the winner of the regional class B. The winner to represent this district at Lincoln in March.

Do You Know Your Tractor?

MOBIL Greases and Oils Will Help You

To get the maximum service from your tractor and to insure its long life, it is important that your machine have the proper oils and greases at essential points of wear.

Lubrication is essential at these points: Engine, belt pulley, gears and shaft, clutch release and clutch pilot bearing, steering gear, transmission, universal joint and steering shaft, differential final drive, power take-off gears and shaft, clutch brake and control shaft, rear axle shaft bearing, king pin, tie rod, drag link, front wheel bearings, fan and water pump, engine and crank support, steering or axle pivot.

Starters, generators, distributors, magnetos, impulse, couplings, governors and fuel injection pumps also need attention.

It requires special study to locate all these essential parts and to know what type of lubrication suits each best.

We have made a special study of tractor lubrication and we have a chart which will help you "know" your tractor. Come in before spring work starts and we'll assist you.
