Tax Levy Is Higher Than Year Before

State Makes Provision for School Debt and County For General Fund.

State and county tax levies total 5.8 mills this year in comparison with 5.54 in 1942. The state levy is 2.74 mills and the county levy 3.06. A year ago the state levy was 2.6 and the county 2.94. The tax is levied on an assessed valuation of $26,577,180 in Wayne county. The state tax was increased to reimburse the permanent school fund. Wayne county levy was raised to build up the general fund which was too low last year. The state levy of 2.74 consists of 2.38 mills for general fund, .10 for schools and .26 for insane.

HOLIDAY GIFTS TO OVERSEAS MEN IN THE ARMED FORCES

PERSONS planning Christmas parcels for boys in the armed forces overseas are urged to send them between September 15 and October 15 to insure delivery on time. Advertisements now appear advising parents and others of the things on the market suitable for gifts for the soldier lads in foreign war theatres, and the urgency will keep up as long as there is still time to make deliveries. Shipping space is limited, and the sooner parcels are sent, the surer they are to reach intended destination on or before the appointed date. Precious remembrances should not be delayed, and not one boy in the service in the United States or abroad should be overlooked.

Major Maynard was on Bataan and no word has come directly from him since the fall of the Philippines more than a year ago. The Mitchells did have word a few months ago that he was listed among the military prisoners on the islands.

Major Is Moved To Prison Camp

The Wayne folks can now write to Major Maynard. Mrs. Maynard, the former Leila Mitchell, who was in Manila when the islands fell, pined this spring that she was well and she urged her folks not to worry. No letters have come from her though the Mitchells have been able to write to her. It was a number of months ago that they learned through the Red Cross that Mrs. Maynard was a prisoner in Manila.

THRESHING NOW IN PROGRESS MEETING HIGHEST ESTIMATE

THRESHING will soon be finished, and results are reported satisfactory in both quantity and quality. The small grain crop out of the way, we are now looking for a corn yield that will score above normal. Many express the opinion that the corn never looked better nor more promising. Healthy ears are developing on richly green stalks. So far, the crop has escaped natural calamities of drought, hail, wind and grasshoppers, but one hesitates to feel cocksure until it arrives unscathed and triumphant in the glorious autumn—glorious if fruition is up to expectations. July furnished ample rain and heat, and August is not likely to upset the promising trend. If nothing happens to interfere, a record corn yield would appear assured, and such encouraging condition is reported in all parts of the state.

First Lieutenant Rose Is Coming from Oregon as Commanding Officer.

With arrival the last of last week of another unit, the 349th U. S. army air corps training detachment at Wayne college has again nearly reached its peak enrollment. One more unit will realize the former high. The new group of prospective pilots, who arrived last week, had a long, tiring ride from Utah so were very glad to reach their destination. They have already completed their indoctrination and have started on their regular academic schedule. A number of the boys have already won their aerial gunners' wings but have decided that they want to be pilots so have joined the air crew students. An interesting fact about this new class is that a large number have already had foreign service. These boys have been in contact with the enemy and they want to train to meet him in a faster and higher flying type of combat. The men will appreciate making the acquaintance of townspeople in a week or so when their first open post is granted. New Commander Here. Lt. Milton Rose of LaGrande, Ore., is expected this week to be commander of the 349th college training detachment. Until his arrival Lt. R. J. Fryery is acting commander. Lt. J. T. Archer, who had served as post commander since Capt. A. J. Baava was transferred to Moorhead, Minn., went to LaGrande, Ore., leaving last Thursday. Lt. Archer wishes to take this means of expressing to the people of Wayne and vicinity his sincere appreciation for their many courtesies and their fine cooperation during his stay here.

Conflict

The evident mistake in conflict between Wayne and Dixon county fair dates was quickly and gladly corrected as soon as it had reached the attention of the proper officials. Secretary Roy Johnson says Dixon county has held its fair at Concord the last week in August annually for 25 years. The Wayne county fair is now scheduled for a week earlier. That restores amicable relations and insures customarily close cooperation, advantageous to both.

Wherry in Action.

Washington bureaucrats have found in Nebraska's Senator Kenneth Wherry an irreplaceable irritant. They have found he is not to be coldly set aside in the pursuit of his duties by some one rattling around in an alphabetically designated government niche.

Only interference of others in the room is said to have prevented a physical encounter, and from reading the report, we are inclined to regret that any one interfered.

The senator scored later satisfaction by contacting other and probably higher authorities, but the full weight of the rugged Nebraska's fist or foot planted where it would be the most effective, might have had a salutary influence. In these days of hurry and hardship, we are disposed to conclude that well directed mid-western brown is sometimes the only argument that a cocky bureaucrat can understand in that can be employed successfully in speeding results.

Who is a Moron?

In the course of the flight and eclipse of Mussolini, erstwhile Italian big shot, an unauthorized spillover from OWI drew regret and resentment from high Washington circles. In a broadcast during the week, it seems some one referred to Italy's titular head as the "moronic little king." The king might prove he is not guilty by brushing aside the incident as unimportant, and allowing his mental coils to work exclusively on the real task of salvaging a blasted and bleeding nation. If a moron is moderately people-minded, as we have been led to believe, it would be hard for any moron to show that he isn't. It would be better to permit one's self to forget, which should be easy if he is really a moron.

Sticks to Nebraska.

The Settlyer Sun reports the opinion of a former townsman who had gone to the Pacific coast to reap a share of the high wages there abounding, but, who commends the lot of the Nebraskan as more profitable and more satisfactory. So many demands pounce on one's pay envelope where wages are high that making ends meet is more difficult than in mid-western localities where all costs are comparatively low. Besides, here we are free from labor union exactions, and from the cold indifference to human rights often evident in congested centers in the far west and far east.

Comparing Land Values.

Broken Bow's newspaper, the Chief, last week reported the sale of six improved Custer county farms at prices ranging from $6.50 to $16.25 per acre. One containing 650 acres brought $9 per acre. In contrast, Wayne county farms have lately sold as high as $425 per acre. This price is an increase over that of previous years, but not so high as it was 20 years ago. Unhealthily inflated land values of World-war No. 1 are not in prospect and will probably never be reached again. That experience was a costly one and is not likely to be repeated. It is remembered that Custer county where land is comparatively cheap, is necessarily devoted largely to grazing.

Coffee Rationing Ends.

The end of coffee rationing is especially welcome news to persons with a strong coffee habit. According to reports, rationing was due not to shortage of coffee, but to lack of shipping facilities. Similar reports have been issued in regard to sugar—plenty of that product, but inadequate means of transporting it to consumers. It is

Tells Kiwanians Of Law Making

Senator W. A. Crossland Is In Favor of Reducing Bills and Debate.

Workings of Nebraska's unicameral legislature were described for Wayne Kiwanians Monday by Senator W. A. Crossland...

The single house legislature works well though the body perhaps should be somewhat larger so that it might represent the people better, stated the senator.

Cost of legislation could be cut materially, the senator explained, if many worthless bills were not introduced and if argument on the floor could be limited.

The official does not look for a special session this year. Some decisions have been required at army contingents and defense plants but otherwise the war has had little effect on legislation.

Senator Crossland told of the active part he took in helping Wayne college retain its stadium fund of $40,000 for the purpose for which it has been accumulated.

The senator was introduced by E. W. Wright. The Kiwanis board voted to continue meetings through August as Kiwanis International favors this practice.

The club voted to buy a suitcase for the music.

Canning of Foods Is Urgent Now

"Sweet corn now ready for canning, roosters that should be canned now, to save feed vital for laying hens, and meat that will soon be ready to can are three urgent reasons for farm women and townswomen to jump on 'the home canners wagon' and apply immediately to the FSA or AAA offices to notify the administrations of interest in the proposed canning center," Mrs. Julie Heffernan, home management supervisor of the farm security administration, announced Wednesday.

If the response is not immediate, Mrs. Heffernan stated, the county will be in danger of losing state-provided equipment for the proposed center, which includes pressure cookers, essential for the canning of non-acid vegetables and meat.

Christian Science Services

"Spirit" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, on Sunday, August 8. The Golden Text is: "Teach me to do thy will; for thou art my God; thy spirit is good; lead me into the land of uprightness" (Psalms 143:10).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "God is a Spirit; and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth" (John 4:24).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The belief that Spirit is finite as well as infinite has darkened all history. In Christian Science, Spirit, as a proper noun, is the name of the Supreme Being. It means quantity and quality, and applies exclusively to God... Spirit, Divine substance; Mind; divine Principle; all that is good; God; that only which is perfect, everlasting, omnipresent, omnipotent, infinite" (pp. 93, 594).

Government In Business. (Omaha Journal-Stockman) On account of the exigencies of war we are seeing government agencies assume more and more of the ordinary activities of business. We recognize this as necessary at this time but the transition from private enterprise is both difficult and disturbing. Some theorists applaud this extension of governmental activity and there are economists in the administration who are working constantly to bring about more of it. The ultimate effect of this boring from within is really alarming in its threat to individual enterprise. In any post-war planning, says General Counsel Boynton of the Illinois Telephone Association, we face a duty of "making this country prosperous, of keeping it a country of individual initiative, free enterprise and private business." Mr. Boynton then points out that the National Resources Planning board "recommends large expenditures of government money for domestic projects and greater participation of government in business. In addition to the extension of government ownership, it proposes a new kind of government-business partnership through 'mixed corporations' formed by private and public funds with a part of the directors elected by private investors and the other part of the directors appointed by the government... a European importation." Why should millions of our soldiers who have given up years of their lives fighting to keep this nation free from the countries that perfected the "mixed corporation" ideas in order to dominate every act of their citizens and their industries, come home to a planned economy of the type they have been taught to hate? The last twelve months have seen American enterprise over-produce the world, including the government-owned "mixed corporation" systems which are now proposed for this country. Mr. Boynton will say: "We can continue to do our job in the American way."

Youth Is Attending Submarine School

James W. Hogan, fireman first class in the U. S. submarine service, writes the Herald from his new station at New London, Conn.,

But It's True

IF THE AMBASSADOR OF A FOREIGN COUNTRY IS ACCUSED OF STEALING A CHICKEN OR ACCUSED OF ANY OTHER PETTY OFFENSE HE IS TRIED IN THE UNITED STATES BY THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES. HIGHEST COURT IN THE LAND. (Thanks to Al Harum, Patchogue, L. I.)

about his work and appreciation of the paper.

"I graduated from submarine school April 24 and was entered in the Diesel motor school April 25. Here I am being taught the operation of a submarine Diesel engine, and I expect to know a submarine from stem to stern. Besides being in the navy, I buy a war bond every pay-day. If my example could and would be followed this war wouldn't last very long. I'm not doing much, but every little bit counts. You keep up our morale and we'll win the war."

"I expect to have 14 days' leave after I'm graduated from here and I'll be home September 9 or 10. I expect to be transferred to the south Pacific for another chance at the Japs. This time I'll be much safer and quicker than they. I think submarine is the best part of the service, because I've had both. I'm not afraid of water, and that's what counts most with us."

F. L. Hogan adds that he has met many of the home town boys from the addresses given in the paper. The young man was graduated from submarine school with a very high scholastic standing.

Lawyers Can Be Wrong.
"We've got to have an intelligent understanding of food values and you don't get it in law school," said Mayor LaGuardia in criticizing OPA regulations. The mayor evidently thinks 2,700 lawyers can be wrong.

Pro and Con.
(Look Around)
Son—Say, dad, what does an argument pro and con mean?
Dad—Well, my boy, "Pro" is your convincing and unanswerable statement, while "con" is the contemptible dribble of the other fellow.

A Nebraska Reaction.
(Lincoln Journal)
President Roosevelt has revised his budget, a document that proposes an expenditure during the year to come of $105,869,000,000. The request is for a stiff increase in taxes.

"Some of the unnecessary appropriations must be curtailed if we are going to keep America financially sound," said Senator Wherry from Nebraska.

Senator Taft said it seemed impossible to provide more than 3 billions from new taxes. Other senators have doubted the ability of the people to produce the amount demanded by the president.

While the president asks for this huge sum he maintains on the federal civilian payroll more than 3 million employees. Maybe part of the sum demanded can be saved by reducing the unnecessary government machinery maintained to enforce new deal ideals of government.

No Oil Shortage—Yet.
(Omaha Journal-Stockman)

Secretary of the Interior Ickes is not alarmed over any impending shortage of crude oil. His reports indicate that the only shortage has been in transportation and storage and these difficulties are being remedied.

Secretary of the Navy Knox has predicted a crude oil shortage within a year, and exhaustion in 14 to 20 years of present known supplies.

Almost these same words were used during the last World war, and then the oil industry evolved new drilling methods, found new fields, greatly increased the products taken from crude oil, and gave our nation the greatest supply of oil products on record.

There was incentive to do the job. If our lawmakers and regulators will but give the oil industry half a chance and allow a fair return for the risk involved, it is a safe bet that this country won't be out of oil in one year, or 20 years.

Cut the red tape before an artificial shortage is created, and give American enterprise a chance to meet any emergency. Any other policy will be fatal to a nation that uses gasoline and oil products almost as freely as water.

Deceased leaves his parents, one sister, Emily of Chicago, and three brothers, Charles in the army, Clifford who teaches in Denver, and Howard who is Presbyterian minister in Sidney.

Frank Sorenson of Lincoln, Miss Oma Thompson of Boone county, and Herman Bachr will assist with the tests.

Go to 4-H Conservation Camp.

Dale Anderson of the Rose Hill 4-H Forestry club, won a prize trip to the Nebraska 4-H conservation camp being held this week at Seward.
Dale received the prize trip from the Federal Cartridge Co., for his achievements in 4-H work in Dixon county in 1942.
John Hanson of Martinsburg, is also in camp with Dale. County Agent Howard S. Gillaspie took the boys and will stay with them.

Shameful Illiteracy.

The official report that almost a million men in the United States have been rejected for military service on account of illiteracy should cause every American to bang his head in shame.
Twenty-eight out of every 1,000 men called up for induction into our armed forces had to be rejected because they were unable to read or write, did not possess even the most elementary education.
The rate of rejection per 1,000 men ran from none in Wyoming to 136.62 in Georgia. The rate for whites ran as high as 107.11 in Tennessee, and for negroes as high as 256.29 in Georgia.
Deploring the cost of educating some of these men who have been inducted into the army and placed in induction centers where they are taught to read and write, the report stated:
"The cost of this training is from $800 to $600 per man, more than enough to pay for eight years of high standard elementary education for a child in many good schools throughout the nation."
Such a report is really a serious challenge to the nation. Right now we have many other important matters in hand but the need for better school facilities in some sections of the nation is too apparent to need stressing.

Emergency Tires Made Available

That "extra" automobile tire which car owners turned in to the government at the beginning of mileage rationing and for which they received a small payment through express offices, is now being placed on the market for the general public to purchase where an additional tire is needed, and allowed by rationing boards. A ceiling price of $1 has been placed on these low-quality used tires where no repair work has been done. In the case of an emergency repair before the tire is resold, maximum additions to the $1 ceiling are allowed.
"Emergency tires," as they are known, are those which will deliver some mileage, but which do not come up to OPA standards for sound or repairable tires. Such tires are being put on the market under a program sponsored by the office of the rubber director to have distributed to car owners low-quality used tires, that were returned to defense supplies corporation under the idle tire return plan. Defense supplies corporation will sell them to dealers at 50 cents each; the dealer's mark-up permitted by the OPA is considered a fair allowance to the dealer for the costs of handling the tires as an additional line in his business.

Young Folks Wed At Church Service

Miss Dellamae Whipple Is Bride Here Friday of Lt. Henri W. Wasson.
Lt. Henri W. Wasson, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Rhoades of Wayne, and Miss Dellamae Whipple, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Whipple of Crawford, were married Friday, July 27, at 8:30 in the Church of Christ by Rev. Alvin Giese, who performed the single-ner ceremony. The couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Rhoades of Wakefield. Mr. Rhoades is a step-brother of Lt. Wasson.
The ceremony opened with Mrs. Alvin Giese singing "Because," accompanied by Miss Ruth Damme. Miss Damme also played the Mendelssohn for the bridal march and Mendelssohn for the recessional.
The bride was attired in white tulle, trimmed with ruffles of two-layered net and white velvet bows. Her veil, which was a family heirloom, was three-tiered, full length and made of white tulle net. She also wore a crown of seed pearls, caught on each side by orange blossoms. She carried an arm bouquet of sweetheart roses.
The bridegroom was in officer's full dress uniform.
Mrs. Rhoades, as attendant, wore a blue taffeta, and had a corsage of pink roses.
Mr. Rhoades wore a brown business suit.
The bride is a graduate of Chadron college, earning her degree in 1941. She taught at the college until last year when she accepted a position at the United States detention alien camp at Seagoville, Texas. She has been there for the past seven months and will return to her work until her resignation goes into effect. She will then join Lt. Wasson wherever he is stationed in the United States.
Lt. Wasson is a graduate of Wayne high and previous to the time he came to Wayne, he was employed in the junior barracks in both the Chatoock military academy at Fairbault, Minn., and Hill's academy at Portland, Ore. He joined the army in 1935 and since that time has taken officer's training in the signal service of the air corps and has seen 45 months of overseas duty in the Pacific. He expects an assignment in the United States, but doesn't know where.
Only the immediate family of the bridegroom were present at the wedding. The couple left immediately for Crawford to see the bride's parents.

Australia Gears To Meet Needs Of Modern Warfare

A picture of Melbourne, Australia, gearing itself to modern war conditions is presented in the April 26 letter Emelyn Griffith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Griffith of Wayne, received from her Australian pen friend, Doris Ruppel, of Melbourne. Miss Ruppel is engaged in a "war job" and writes as follows: "At the beginning of January, 1942, I started work at Bankers & Traders Insurance company. While I was working there the war situation was getting more and more serious so I thought I would like to do a war job. So I left the insurance company and I am at present working at the Royal Australian air force stores accounts headquarters. We also do stores for the American army air corps. This is a real war job and we work very long hours, do a lot of overtime and work on nearly all the public holidays.
"In all our church colleges are school cadets who look very fine in their uniforms. A few Saturday mornings ago all the school cadets marched through the city street to aid the third Liberty war loan. I think there were about five colleges marching. Wesley which is the Methodist school, Gulung and Melbourne which are Church of England, Scotch college, Presbyterian, and Xavier, the Catholic college. We also have the air training corps which trains the boys from the ages of 16 to 18 who wish to become airmen when they are old enough. The sea cadets are also trained to become sailors. All the boys in the three lots of cadets wear the uniform of the service to which they will eventually belong.
"Most of the things are rationed in Australia today and the things which aren't rationed are almost unobtainable. We are issued ration books each year. The pages are lettered from A to H and the front page has "Tea" written on all the coupons. There are 26 coupons on a page except on the pages lettered G and H. These two pages are used for clothing. A and C page coupons were used for sugar and B was used for tea as well as the front page. The pages D, E and F have not been used in this year's issue but will probably be used for meat, butter and perhaps eggs. We cannot buy tinned fruits, mustard, sago, rice or any articles which come from any other state. This is rather awkward as most of the well-known brands such as Kellogg's breakfast foods, Lux and Palmolive soaps and Wrigley's chewing gum all come from New South Wales and none of them are allowed to be brought into Victoria.
"Owing to all the men being called up for the services the women have had to take over their positions and now we have conductresses on our trams and portresses on our railway. Women are collecting insurance, milk and bread money and are doing many other jobs which men did before the war.
"We still receive a few motion pictures here now but not as many as before. The suburban theatres receive many of the old films. I think it is a very good idea.
"I am sending you some postcards of the Shrine of Remembrance which was built in Melbourne in memory of the soldiers and airmen who were fighting in the last World War. This is a very sacred place and no one is allowed to smoke in it or women are not allowed to enter if they have slacks on. The entrance of the shrine faces north. At 11 o'clock, November 11, day of the Armistice, a ray of light falls onto the rock in the middle of the shrine. It is the only time that the ray ever does this. On Good Friday my mother, father and myself went to look over the shrine. Inside they have several books with all the Victorian men and women who were at the last war. My father's name was showing when we were there.
"My brother and father are in the volunteer defense corps. This is a service which men can join if they are too old for overseas fighting or are in an essential service such as munitions. My father is a lieutenant and my brother is still a private but is expecting a promotion any day.
"You said it was snowing. You are lucky to live where it does snow because I have never seen real snow. I hope to in August when I get my annual leave from work but I suppose I might get tired of it if it snowed every weekend."
As to Optimism.
(Omaha Journal-Stockman)
We are continually being warned against the danger of over-optimism in regard to the war's progress but President Roosevelt's radio address Wednesday evening was more optimistic than any of the current news reports. Not only is the war practically won but plans have been worked out to take care of the boys when they come back as well as of the rest of the country. The postwar world will be a rather strange place if any considerable part of the planning becomes effective.
Miss Pauline Lakemacher, 64, of Wisner, died last week in Omaha.

Plans Forwarded For Concord Fair

Former Student Tells Engagement
The engagement of Miss Hope Adece, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Adece of Arapahoe and former Wayne college student, to Rev. Donald Robinson of Columbus, has been announced. No date has been set for the wedding. The bride was graduated from Kearney teachers college. Rev. Robinson, who was graduated from Cambridge, Mass., Episcopal theological school with cum laude honors, serves Grace church in Columbus, also churches in Schuyler and Fullerton.
Eight Dixon County Boys Go To Harvest
Eight Dixon county boys have expressed their desire to answer the call of the northern harvest. North Dakota needs 30,000 experienced farm laborers to save their grain. Their need for help is urgent.
Any boy who can find a week or more time to help the northern harvest is indeed doing a great patriotic deed. It certainly is important that all foods possible be saved.
Those who go northward to help the harvest should contact County Agent Howard S. Gillaspie at Alliance, who can direct them to territories of great work and save time and gasoline.
All who go will be awarded a certificate by the county agent.
War Effort Needs Dead Animal Fats
Every farmer has dead animals which should be furnishing war fats now to help win battles on every front. Animal fats produce glycerine which is essential in the manufacture of smokeless powder, nitroglycerine and dynamite. Other special products from dead animals are soaps, leather and tankage, which are essential items this country needs in greater quantities.
Households are being called upon to save cooking fats for war needs, and greater amounts of these animal fats can be obtained by getting dead farm animals to licensed rendering plants. It is a patriotic duty.
State laws require the immediate disposal of dead animals. The best method is to move them to licensed rendering plants by authorized haulers and vehicles, except animals having died with anthrax which should be destroyed by burning on the spot. Every such animal is a potential danger to healthy live stock and to humans not only on the farm where it exists but to the whole community.
Disease is often widely spread through the neglect in the disposition of animals dying on the farm. From these sources dogs, wild animals and flies carry infection long distances. Since the presence of diseases in these carcasses is often not known, carelessness in disposing of them causes losses of hundreds and thousands of dollars to live stock owners and many fatalities to humans.
Will Stay in West.
Mrs. Genevieve Pomeroy and Miss Dolores Holdorf, of Concord, left Monday afternoon this week for Beverly Hills, Calif., where Mrs. Pomeroy will make her home with her sister, Mrs. Janet Maloney, former Wayne resident. Mrs. Pomeroy plans on securing employment there.

Critical Month.

(Omaha Journal-Stockman)
July has always been a critical month in the growth and development of corn, this nation's principal crop, and as the seventh month of the year draws to a close the condition of the crop is indeed promising. Most of it, here in the great corn belt, has made sufficient progress to fortify it against the trying August weather with its droughts and hot winds but the crop is really never assured until it is ready for harvest. A good corn crop will do more to put this country back on its feet than anything else, except possibly the ending of the war.

To Omaha Position.

Walter G. Savidge, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Savidge of Wayne, has accepted a position with the Western Security Co., at Omaha and moved his family from Lincoln to Omaha the last of the week. Mr. and Mrs. Savidge have two children, Walter Clark and Anne Elizabeth.

Wind and Hail, Accompanying the storm Monday night last week, did some damage in the vicinities of Hartington and Oberlin. Electric and telephone service, as well as crops and trees, suffered.

Library News

This week at the library the emphasis has been on children's books. Many new books have been purchased and they are arriving almost every day. They are very lovely books, beautifully illustrated, and appealing in every way to the children. Some of them are animal stories, some of them about children of other countries, such as North Africa and places our children have not known much about until they hear us talking about them today. Some of them are career books with titles like "The Youngest WAAC" and "Carol Wins Her Wings."
A teacher once told us that one of the children in her first grade class was causing a great deal of trouble. He continually created havoc in the classroom and on the playground by shouting at the top of his lungs that he was going to kill anyone within reach. Taking the boy aside she asked him very quietly, "Jimmy, why do you want to kill people?" "Teacher," he replied, with a note of irritated contempt in his voice, "don't you know there's a war on?"
We can't keep the war away from the children any more than we can escape it ourselves, but the wise adult knows that, rightly used, books can steady the Jimmies of America 1943. They can be an antidote to too much radio and too many newspapers by turning young minds in other directions and they can also provide reassurance in a topsy-turvy world through explanation and information. We are trying to select the books for the children of Wayne with this purpose in mind and the story hour for them held Tuesday afternoons is planned with this very thought in mind.
Friday, August 6, the last story hour for the older group will be held at which time we will complete the imaginary world tour. We will also plan for the party and awarding of the prizes for the summer. One more movie is planned for Tuesday, August 10, at which time the story of Robinson Crusoe will be shown to both groups. This will be the final meeting for the summer and after the movie, prizes will be awarded and refreshments served. We know this will bring a record crowd!

From Dixon County.

Early Days from the Northern Nebraska Journal, Ponca, for July 20, 1882: Dixon county tax levy was fixed at 15 mills by Commissioners Drager, Atkinson and Pomerey with 7 mills for the general fund, 1 for the poor fund, 4 for bridges and 3 for roads. School levies vary from 3 to 11 mills. A drove of Texas ponies were brought to town and sold in Knapp's creamery turned out 8,000 pounds of butter in three weeks. . . Barley and rye are making big yields. . . A daughter of B. Cavanaugh broke one of her hands in a fall from a horse and later another daughter of Cavanaugh broke an arm in a fall from the same horse. . . Presbyterian Sunday school will hold its picnic at the foot of the big hill north of town and conveyances will be provided for children. . . Mrs. Schur died in Wayne in July, 1882. . . Lowder & Houts dissolved partnership at Wakefield and W. A. Houts will continue in the business.

The senate is considering an internal revenue bill to discount duties on imports by 10 per cent, and also to cut customs on sugar, steel rails and hand or scroll iron. . . The government may establish an Indian industrial school in Nebraska. . . The department of agriculture reports 2,500,000 acres in corn with an average of 80 acres against 90 the year earlier. . . Railroads leading west from Buffalo raised freight rates 10 cents a hundred. . . President Arthur issued an order discontinuing the military department at West Point and placing the academy in charge of the general of the army. . . Arabs evacuated Alexandria, massacring 2,000 foreigners before leaving. They went to the interior of Egypt to make a stand. The Egyptian crisis began in February, 1881, when troops of Cairo forced the Khedive to release some officers on trial for offenses. In conceding, the Khedive surrendered his power to the army and it has remained so since. The long wait to see what steps would follow ended when the fleet fired on the city.

Awards Are Made To Former Student

The silver star, purple heart and air medal have been awarded posthumously to 1st Lt. Walter B. Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy L. Thompson of West Point, who lost his life in service May 12 in the Pacific war zone. Previously the young man had been awarded the distinguished flying cross and oak leaf cluster. "The silver star and the air medal were awarded by the commanding general, Fifth air force, and the purple heart for making the supreme sacrifice in defense of his country," according to word the parents received from Major General J. A. Uilo.

Thompson attended Wayne college before he entered service.

Memorial services for the young man were held Sunday at Grace Lutheran church at West Point. At the same time a service flag with names of 60 boys was dedicated.

Sweets Appealing To Boys in Alaska

Candy bars and fig newtons have a special appeal to young fellows in the Aleutians, writes Lt. LeRoy Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Casper Walker of Hoskins. The young man, who served as copilot on the first raid on the Japanese base at Paramushiro, wrote to his parents that he had been standing in line to buy six candy bars and three fig newtons as these delicacies had just arrived in the far north.

The Wayne county youth tells that he just finished doing his washing which included about 30 pairs of shorts, about the same number of woolen socks and some woolen underwear. They didn't shrink much. "We can't wash our wool shirts so just wear one a couple of months and then get another."

Men in the far-north are able to pick up a few radio programs about 6 in the evening and these help vary the monotony. Calendar dates become unimportant when men just eat and sleep between the times they are on flying missions. "Even the sea gulls can't get their bearings some days. I've read every magazine back as far as 1941 and may have to start all over again."

Lt. Walker finds some difficulty in the far north in keeping fit. The men lack the right kind of exercise. "I've been doing a little running along the beach although it is rather awkward to run with boots on and woolen sweater and leather jacket."

The youth told that he and a friend took a hike up the beach June 29 and picked some flowers, six or seven kinds. They also found a bald eagle's nest and the bird wasn't too happy about the visit. The eagle sat on a rock off shore and watched the men. Seals also came up to the shore and eyed the two with curiosity. Lt. Walker says he does some trout fishing and a little duck shooting.

Whole Grain Feeds Are Often Preferred

Extension poultrymen at the college of agriculture advises that it is not necessary to grind as much feed for poultry as some people seem to think. Grinding, they pointed out, takes time, costs money and in some instances makes the feed less palatable or acceptable to the chickens.

Ground corn may often mold or become rancid and thus be a much poorer feed than whole corn. Chickens and turkeys of almost all ages have shown such a decided preference for whole oats over ground oats that more and more poultry raisers are putting whole oats in the mash instead of ground oats for all but chickens under one month of age. This practice is recommended by the college of agriculture. Finely ground feeds blow away more readily and generally permits or encourages more waste.

In order to use more whole grain feed, poultrymen say a high protein mash should be fed. This suggests that mash mixtures containing 25 to 35 per cent protein may be used. Under this system, growing chickens and turkeys will use about two to two and one-half times as much grain as mash, which means that over two-thirds of the ration consists of whole grain.

This, say the poultrymen, should make it clear to the poultry raiser the economic advantage of demanding and feeding a high protein mash with a liberal quantity of home-grown whole grain. A ration consisting of whole grain, tender green feed and skim milk is preferable to a low protein mash and grain. And, with high protein mash and grain feeding, two feeders for grain for each one of mash are suggested.

Detassellers.

(Omaha World-Herald) Go out and stand in the sun for five or 10 minutes, expand that into nine hours of brisk activity, and you will have some notion of the requirements of the job we guess our city boys and girls have what it takes. Especially the girls. Not that they are any more rugged than the boys, but that they have to start from the centuries old popular notion that they are the weaker vessels.

The 50 of them working at Waterloo, ranging in age from 14 to 16 years, appear to be doing all right. Detasselling corn isn't the hardest farm job there is. At least it doesn't take as much muscle as some others. But don't let anybody tell you that plodding up and down corn rows all day under a broiling Nebraska sun is any snap.

On a portal to portal basis these youngsters are away from home 12 hours and in the field 9. The crewed ordinance was designed for boys and girls just like them because their minds are presumed to be preoccupied with too much frivolity and their feet lead them into too much mischief. Here's a substitute for curfew that sends them gladly scampering off to bed long before the cops begin combing the by-ways for teen-age stragglers. The beauty of it is they aren't missing a thing by passing up the juvenile night life. And they are gaining some rich experience in how to measure the value of a dollar.

Longevity.

(Norfolk Daily News) When a man completes a century of living, his anniversary is more than a personal matter, it is a community, or even a state, event.

L. B. Musselman of Norfolk, who reached the century mark Wednesday was born in the administration of John Tyler. He lived through the Mexican, the Civil, the Spanish-American and the First World war, and this far in the second. But of even greater interest is the parade of peace-time events he has witnessed. All but a few miles of the American railroads have been built during his life-time. The present steam engine, the electric motor, the electric light, the electric street car, the automobile, the airplane, radio and all the hundreds of inventions that have come along with these have been developed while he lived. Mechanical progress greater than that of the 2,000 years before has been made within his memory.

But one question, always raised when a centenarian celebrates, has never been satisfactorily answered. What is it that gives one man in thousands, the vitality to live 100 years?

The centenarians themselves give different and conflicting answers. Some say it's because they never used liquor or tobacco, others because they never married, others because they were young, others exercised to keep vigorous, others preserved their vitality by avoiding exertion. Very few, however, in the Columbus Telegram, notes, this conflict of opinion and adds:

"But probably the best way to live a long time is to select parents, grandparents, and infirmity, who had good records of longevity. If all your grandparents lived to be 80, you, barring accidents, will probably live to a good old age yourself."

We wonder, however, if that statement is verified by actual experience. Mr. Musselman, and others who live extraordinarily long, might contribute something to science by compiling a list of their ancestors as far back as they can, with the ages at which they died. Such lists, if enough were compiled, might give scientists a basis for answering one of the questions that everyone asks of an aged person without getting a very satisfactory answer.

Grain Feeding Saves Time.

(Omaha Journal-Stockman) Agricultural planners in the national capital appear to be doing a good deal of their planning without much practical experience. For instance, their program of marketing cattle off grass, instead of through the feed lot, sounds economical while, as a matter of fact, such a plan not only produces less desirable beef but also requires more time to produce it.

For instance, Walter Meers, a prominent Illinois feeder, points out that using mainly grass and rough winter feed, with a dash of corn at the end, would mean that it would take about twice as long to make a 1,000-pound steer as straight grain feeding from the calf stage on. And

They awoke one who looked like he might be the chief. He pointed sleepily to several cars, evidently stalled, in front of the Gray home. "Gasoline rationing," he said.

California temperatures one day last week ranged from 93 degrees at Los Angeles to 124 in the Imperial valley. The next day the OPA came forth with ceilings on firewood.

Uncle Alex Bryant, negro janitor at the University of Kansas since 1918, has been doing only odd jobs since 1932. He decided he'd take one of the new civil service examinations to get fulltime work. "Your age please" was the question that blocked his career. He had to acknowledge 112.

Geo. D. Hauptman, gray-haired lumber executive of Los Angeles, became angry and clamped his jaws together so hard he broke a tooth off. He thinks it was worth $16,250 and seeks it in court. The jaw clamping followed as Hauptman tried to control his temper, but the tooth wouldn't take the strain.

They Don't Need Charity. (Norfolk Daily News) Two appeals for publicity from the civil service commission came to The News yesterday. One sought applications for positions as library assistant at $1,970 and $1,752 a year, the announcement explaining that "no specific experience or education is required . . . to be eligible for appointment to the $1,752 positions."

The second was an appeal for laborers at the U. S. naval ammunition depot at Hastings, at a weekly salary of $51.80. "No special skill or experience is required for these positions," it was explained.

These positions are at the bottom of the wage list, for persons with no special skill and no experience. Pay runs from there on up almost to infinity. It is up to the taxpayers to finance the return to civil employment of workers who are getting these lush wages?

The question is timely because of a dispatch from Washington pointing to a report by an agency of the national resources planning board. The agency was named to consider the "post-war adjustment of civilian and military personnel."

Inclusion of the word "civilian," says the dispatch, "may mean that war workers and civilians generally will not be overlooked in the conferring of benefits."

There will be little objection to the plan announced by the president Wednesday night for the return to civilian jobs of men in the military service, especially as it applies to those in the lower pay brackets, but if there is any intention of going deeper into the taxpayers' pockets for cash with which to confer special benefits on over-paid war workers, we should expect to hear a mighty squawk from those who have to foot the bill.

An unskilled laborer at $51 a week, or a skilled laborer at twice or three times that, might be expected to finance his own return to the civilian occupation from which high wages lured him.

Recommend Seeding of Gullies In Soil Conservation Program

Many farmers in Wayne county will during August be leveling gullies and waterways in their fields and seeding them to brome grass to conserve soil and moisture.

Jason Webster, farm planner for the Wayne county soil conservation district, urges that every farmer in Wayne county adopt this sound soil conservation practice this fall. He points out that in general, gullies in Wayne county are not as bad as they are in many parts of Nebraska, but prompt action should be taken to prevent present drainageways and small ditches from becoming uncrossable gullies.

Some farmers in Wayne county who have good demonstrations of grassed waterways are: Bernard Spittiger, W. F. Biermann, Willie Hansen, Herman Frese, Albert Watson, John Peterson, Franklin Rees and Lawrence Thomsen.

Supervisors of Wayne county soil conservation district have a rotary scraper and a small blade that are available to those who are cooperating with the district in developing soil and moisture conservation plans on their farms. The district office recommends that all ditches, even though they are in corn fields, be leveled with a plow or blade, well packed with a tractor and seeded to brome grass this month. Many drainageways need only to be seeded. Oats or barley seeded with the brome will provide winter protection to the grass.

Early fall seeding of grass usually escapes the damages of washing rains and weed competition that are problems with spring seedings. The soil district office further recommends that the waterway seedings be wide enough to carry the maximum flow of water and to prevent them from sitting in the center of the ditch and forming ditches on each side of the grass. The brome grass in these waterways can be used for hay or seed or it can be pastured with the stubble or cornstalks in the field.

Rain and Sane Thinking. (Lincoln Journal)

Someone has said that conservatism among the masses increases along with an increase in moisture precipitation. In drought seasons human weaknesses are permitted to reach excesses never dreamed when we are prosperous. Rain brings prosperity. If there isn't too much of it and lack of rain sends us to the political drug stores for nostrums highly advertised and richly priced, but nevertheless recovered from our long lists of experiments that have failed and will continue to fail.

In prosperous times we are willing to let that which is good remain, but when depression hits we throw out the true and the tried and go for experiment. One of the world's troubles is that it keeps no records of its unworkable plans. Plans proved unworkable by test. Likewise, in times of stress, it questions and often abandons ideas that have proved their worth in actual use.

We are affected too much by our immediate desires and too infrequently do we accept sacrifices that would help to cure our ills. Our lack of thought, or our thinking that is induced by desire or prompted by prejudice, too often gets us into serious trouble.
