

Gardens Now Yielding Precious Food - Reminiscent - High School Graduates to Teach - Asks Change in Time - American Boys May Influence Other Countries.

In the early days when food was rationed by circumstances which could not always be controlled, people cleverly exposed themselves to invitations to dine with neighbors who had providently stored supplies.

Victory gardens, now pouring forth their products, will figure prominently in solving food problems. Without intending to excite envy, L. W. McNatt, neophyte in horticulture, has shown us the varieties he has gathered from his garden and properly canned for leisurely consumption when production will be suspended by the icy winds that whistle down from the north.

Often an oldest highlights the old swimming hole and the parlor charades as means of diversion, but knowing what he knows now he would have a sick feeling in his solar plexus if he were compelled to restore them to places now occupied by modern advantages.

The memorable swimming hole, with its slimy water, the habitat of a low order of creatures, including crawfish, leeches, snails, turtles and snakes - which of ten showed traits of unpleasant familiarity - smelled to heaven. Contrast it with modern bathing advantages, and then apologize for wishing it restored. Contrast the inane parlor charade with motion pictures, radio, parks and playground equipment and motorized conveyances with television and air excursions in the office, and then shudder over what one regarded as sources of recreation in the old days.

In our judgment, the oldest is buoyed in his retrospective view by recollection of fellow-associates rather than by the contrivances usually improvised to kill monotony. Early-day faces become indelibly etched into memory, and their absence or change, rather than dull customs or gradually fashioned vehicles for pastime, rise through the years to nag with regrets.

Tours for Observation. More than 100 young students from the training school of the college have been inspecting some of the town's industries to gain first-hand information about the practical side of life, and they have contracts to teach beginning in the fall. Most of them are this year's high school graduates, and they are putting off further schooling to meet the unusual teacher demand.

These young people are bright and in earnest, and while serving others, they will serve themselves. They will learn while leading youthful charges in study, and they will gain immeasurable benefits from self-discipline and orderly habits. The experience will strengthen them in later quests for higher scholarship.

The San Antonio, Texas, Chamber of Commerce has sent an appeal to Washington to restore the former standard of time which more nearly conforms to the sun's habits of handling daylight and darkness. The "group" contends that the present arrangement gives no advantage. The suggestion comes at an appropriate time of shorter days and longer nights. Setting clocks ahead was intended to save electricity. On the contrary, in the middle west particularly, it was found more instead of less electricity has been

AUGUST DROUTH IS BROKEN BY HEAVY RAIN HEREABOUTS

THE AUGUST drouth was broken Saturday night when 1.41 inches of rain fell here. Much corn, not too badly damaged, will revive and be helped in the filling-out process. Fields beyond aid will usually find their way into silos. Prospects have seldom been better than they were the last of July. But Aquarius seemed to quit his job August 1. The result was mounting 21 a. m. Thithered promising fields reflected lack of moisture. How much the crop would be reduced depended on how long the drouth was destined to last. Saturday night's downpour, insuring a turn for the better, brought relief and stimulated hope. Plenty of moisture from now on will help. Persons returning from Minnesota report too much rain and too cool weather in that state to mature growing corn, and therefore a soft crop is in prospect.

New Home Agent Will Be Assigned

New Home Demonstration Leader To Be Located At Wayne Office.

Wayne, Dixon, Cedar and Knox counties will have a home demonstration agent to carry on extension work in cooperation with the county agent. The new women's leader, who starts September 9, will be located in Wayne and will have her office with Agent W. R. Harder.

Miss Tillie Saxton of the state office in Lincoln, has been chosen for the home demonstration agent in this new district.

The state has five such districts with several counties combined under one agent. A few of the largest counties have their own home demonstration agents.

In the past one of the women has come from the extension division at Lincoln once a month to conduct leader training work for women's project clubs. Other women's club work and 4-H projects were conducted through the county agent. Now the home demonstration agent will conduct the women's work in these four counties, will assist with 4-H projects and will help in other community activities.

The new agent will spend five days in each four weeks in each county. She will also be in Wayne each Monday. The leader will first be here September 9 to 11.

Air Corps Flight Leaves for West

Class E of Wayne college training detachment left Saturday evening for further air crew training at Santa Ana, Cal. Another flight is expected to replace this one. This completes a five-month period of schooling in Wayne and prepares the men for rigorous training ahead. These boys have basic classification, pre-flight, primary, basic, advanced and transitional schools before they actually get into combat. It is anticipated that the group will be in actual conflict as the war is drawing to a close.

To keep replacements coming along as needed by the air corps, every young man eligible and interested in this service should contact a recruiting officer immediately. Officers at Wayne detachment are prepared to assist.

Captain Is Here

Capt. Edward A. Kitzmiller, who came here this week from Morning side training detachment, Sioux City, will be here about 20 days to coordinate the air force training program. He then expects to return to Sioux City.

Message Comes From Jap Camp

Pfc. Wilford Lindsay Sends More Cheerful Message To John Lindsays.

A letter in hand printing typical of the style used by Pfc. Wilford Lindsay, now in a Jap prison camp in Shanghai, reached his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Lindsay, Monday. No dates are on the letter or envelope, and the message was passed by censorship.

The letter tells that Christmas has passed and that he received gifts from the American and Canadian Red Cross at the holidays. He did not mention that packages sent by any others had reached him. He added that he is allowed to receive packages through the Japanese Red Cross and these may contain sweets and cheese. The Lindsays forwarded one to him at once.

Wilford stated that he was "well and in good spirits, and hopes to see home folks soon." He stated that he would like to write to others but is permitted only to send a message to his parents once in quite a long period. He stated that he received from home folks letters which they had written in May and June, 1942.

The Lindsays found that the letter was much more cheerful than one they received some months ago.

Wilford was with the marines on Wake island when that outpost was taken by the Japs in late December, 1941. He was in the first defense battalion with the searchlight and anti-aircraft division. The small garrison on the tiny island held out about two weeks after the Pearl Harbor attack.

Arrange Daylight Air Raid For Seventh Defense Area

First Test Scheduled Here For Saturday Noon When Signals Will Sound.

The first daylight air raid warning test of the war for Wayne and the entire Seventh defense region, including the states of Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Colorado, Minnesota, North and South Dakota, takes place Saturday, August 28, at 12 o'clock noon. M. L. Ringer is in charge here.

The alarm will start at 12 with a steady blast of the siren for two minutes, which means that an air raid is probable. After a three-minute interval, or at 12:05, the intermittent blast of the siren will be heard, which signifies that air raiders are overhead and people should take shelter from possible falling bombs. After another three-minute interval another two-minute steady blast of the siren will mean that the air raiders have gone, but may return. No siren is sounded for an "all clear." If the alarm comes at night, the street lights come on to signify an "all clear," but in a daytime raid and in Saturday's exercise, no "all clear" is to be given.

The exercise will not actually mobilize any of the civilian defense organization but is simply to acquaint the general public with the two different types of signals. A steady blast is for warning of probable raids; intermittent blasts are a warning the raiders have arrived and bombs may fall any minute. This set of signals will be used over the entire Seventh service command area, as authorized by Major General Uhl, commanding officer.

Prospects In Area Boosted by Rains

CAMPAIGN TO SELL WAR BONDS IS TO START NEXT MONTH

A NOTHER big bond drive - bigger than any hitherto undertaken - will be on next month, and people will be expected to invest liberally. Ten northeast Nebraska counties were represented at a meeting in Wayne Friday evening to discuss the forthcoming campaign. State Chairman Dale Clark and Executive Manager Leon J. Markham of Omaha, were present to explain the need of a carefully planned and intensive campaign.

The importance of backing the armed forces with ample funds was emphasized. The duty of every one to put extra dollars into bonds was stressed. The nation's quota is 15 billions of dollars. Of that amount, Nebraska is asked to subscribe $103,000,000. Wayne county is expected to invest $622,600. The April quota for this county was $210,000. Soon the canvass will be under way, and no one in the county will be overlooked.

Property and Livestock Are Lost During Electrical Storm on Saturday.

Rains varying from 5 of an inch to 6 inches soaked northeast Nebraska Saturday night in a severe electrical storm that followed a period of dry, hot weather. South of Wakefield the amount increased to as much as 2.5 with 3 inches at Pender. Winside got .75 of an inch and the amount increased toward Wayne and tapered off to .25 at Norfolk. In the west central part of the county a downpour was as much as 5 and 6 inches. Carroll gauge showed 2.25 with more west of town and less north. The amount Saturday night was about .75 at Randolph but that vicinity got a soaking again Monday night. Belton and Laurel had only light rains Saturday night. Altama's report showed .6 but 1.25 a short distance north.

The heaviest property loss from lightning was the barn that burned to the ground on the Burt Lewis farm a quarter mile north of Winside. In the loss were 1,000 bales of hay. The Methodist church belfry at Winside caught one of the flashes and some boards were split.

Use Photography More in Service

Third Dimension Pictures Valuable in Training Air Corps Men.

"Our boys are considered poor shots, but the enemy is even worse, and through aerial photography we show and hope to correct errors in marksmanship," said R. K. Kirkman in addressing Kiwanians at their weekly meeting Monday noon. Kirkman was a civil service employee at the supply depot of the army air base at Dayton, Ohio.

"The administration is doing a good job," Kirkman declared. "It is a big task to handle the war effort. Mistakes are made and waste occurs but I feel that a fine job is being done." Dayton is the air service command that is at the supply head of all the bases of the United States army. It is located near famous Wright field, a material center. At this field are experimental departments for testing all material before it is sent to assembling posts. Patterson field is at Fairfield, near Dayton, where the landing field and all the offices of the workers moved out of Washington, D. C., because of congestion are located.

Dayton is a critical city in wartime America because so much war material is manufactured there. In normal times, Mr. Kirkman believes, Dayton would be a fine place in which to live. Now it is crowded and abnormal.

Kirkman went on to describe his work at the war center. He was in the photographic branch and found his work very interesting. His was "desk" work for the orders in this branch, the "D" desk of the photography branch which is divided into A, B, C and D departments. The D department handles motion picture equipment, much of which is used in the army air corps. This branch schedules and apportions equipment for the army air force depots Motion picture film is especially important because it is now placed on planes and guns regularly. The American army are considered poor shots, as mentioned above, for out of 30 or 40 shots only three targets are usually brought down. To be excellent, 15 to 20 targets should be hit. The army tries to make better gunners by showing the shortcomings in shooting on film. Now six advanced schools over the nation give master's degrees in marksmanship.

Kirkman stated that it takes but five weeks from the time orders are received until contracts are given to companies to make the material. As a whole, he says, it is well managed. An army captain or lieutenant is in charge of each unit with 15 or 20 men, usually civilians, under him. Everything must pass these officials. Foreign orders are shipped out immediately with no red tape details attached. The area control depots all over the United States are supplied through the basic center at Dayton. There are 11 of these depots and a 12th is being planned to be used as a clearing center.

"I've seen photography experiments, pictures taken with third dimension to show distances, height and depth. Two pictures are taken from different angles and are superimposed to give this impression. With the advances we have made, it is clear to see why the submarine menace has been licked."

B. W. Wright introduced the speaker. Capt. E. A. Kitzmiller was a guest of Dr. J. T. Anderson.

Food Helps Victory Is Theme of Winner

The 4-H club exhibits were well displayed at Wayne county fair with the Victory Garden and Poultry club placing first, the Willing Workers second, and Happy-Go-Lucky Canning club third.

"Food Is Fuel for Victory" was the theme of the winner, showing how 4-H workers help produce food for the armed forces. Mrs. Basil Osburn is the leader of the club.

The Willing Workers, under the leadership of Mrs. William Evans, showed how to "save food for victory" by having the right feeders.

The theme of the third-place winner was "From Garden to Jars in Four Hours." Mrs. Frank Hicks is the leader of the club.

The Bird Study club, with Ruth Howarth in charge, won fourth place. It described the protection of birds for crop conservation.

Wayne county No. 1 production line showing different ways to help 1944 hog production was the idea as presented by the Strahan Strivers club under the direction of Clarence Mann. It was the fifth place winner.

Future Homemakers club placed sixth with the idea "War Time Is Economy Time." With Mrs. Ralph Beckenhauer as leader, the club showed how 4-H girls make practical articles out of feed sacks.

"More Meat and Clothing for Our Armed Forces" was the theme portrayed by the Woolly Wilbur club under the leadership of Mrs. William Hansen. This exhibit rated seventh place.

Eighth place went to Hearty Helpers club, directed by Mrs. Leslie Coley of Sholes. "To Make the Best Better" was the idea of the exhibit.

"Learning to Sew" was the theme of the Peppy Pals club which placed ninth. Mrs. Martin Lage is the leader of the club.

Mary Hicks placed first in "Pair for Victory" 4-H exhibit. Because Miss Hicks is a college girl she cannot compete with the other 4-H members; thus her exhibit was entered as a separate project. Different phases of 4-H work were completed such as "Girls' Room," "Farm Accounts," "Ways Activities," "First Year Canning," "Meal Planning" and "Second Year Gardening." These were attractively displayed by Miss Hicks.

In the vegetable display Louise Osburn placed first, Louise Simonin placed second and Marilyn Clausen third.

Helen Wylie was the first-place winner in the sewing exhibits. Nadine Lage was second, and Beulah Vahlkamp placed third.

Country Workers, directed by Mrs. Fred Baird, displayed the themes, "Serve for Victory" and "Wasting Won't Win," for the project booth.

Farm Security administration, the soil conservation, and the extension service had displays.

Treat Bindweed In Dixon County

Supervisors of Dixon county weed district report that many farmers are treating bindweed and they find a very cooperative spirit evident. More than 300 farmers have bought sodium chlorate for this purpose.

The county has hired Martin Nelson of Hartington, to apply sodium chlorate along roads where farmers have cleaned inside fences. In this work and on the county farm 3,377 pounds of chemical have already been used.

A report of Wilford Klatt of the state inspection division, shows that 1,404 farms in Dixon county have 6,869 acres of infestation.

PLANS TRAINING TO BE DEACONESS

Miss Sophie Damme leaves the last of September for Baltimore, Md., where she will enter deaconess training in the Lutheran church. The course requires from three to six years, depending on the line of work taken. Miss Damme will select her branch of study after arriving in the east.

Poultry Diseases Study Is Conducted

Chris Tietgen and Gerald Calvert returned Saturday from Charles City, Ia., where they attended a Dr. Salsbury's school on poultry diseases. Mr. Calvert has come to Wayne from Norfolk to join the Tietgen hatchery staff.

Since the production of poultry in this community is adding so greatly to food supplies, this type of agricultural endeavor is considered one of the essential parts of the war effort. In order to maintain top production and keep down the mortality of chickens and turkeys to a minimum, leading poultry authorities consider it essential that servicemen, specifically trained to handle poultry management and health problems, are available in all communities.

The Wayne men report that they had a very pleasant and purposeful week in Charles City. They were impressed with the seriousness of losses of poultry at all ages as revealed by instructors at the poultry disease school. Ohio State university figures quoted showed that 15 per cent to 25 per cent of first-year pullets losses were due directly to untimely deaths, and that to this loss must be added another 25 per cent to 35 per cent due to culls. If only a 5 per cent reduction in this loss can be made, it will result in an increase of 200 million dozen eggs and 100 million pounds of poultry meat to add to our war food supplies. Much of this loss can be avoided right here in this area.

Mr. Tietgen characterized the course as giving him and Mr. Calvert just the kind of training they needed in dissecting chickens and diagnosing diseases, and outlining treatment and control measures for the disease problems involved. He feels that they had a very profitable week in Charles City, and that they are now in an excellent position to render a more valuable service to poultry raisers in this community.

Vol. 6 Wayne, Nebr., Thurs., August 26, 1943. No. 56

The family had just returned from church. Dad criticized the sermon. Mother thought the organist made a lot of mistakes. Sister didn't like the choir's singing. But they all shut up when little Billy chipped in: "I thought it was a mighty good show for a nickel."

A few nickels spent right now for insulation, storm windows and combination doors will save a lot of nickels you will otherwise have to spend for fuel this winter. Don't wait until the cold drafts start sweeping across the living room carpet but get these things at once.

Pat did - and was fired when the blacksmith recovered.

If you are going to need boards this fall, and practically every farmer will need some, it might be a good idea to get them while there is still a good supply on hand. Right now we have both rough and smooth boards. Don't ask for more than you will need, but do take out what you know you must have.

Gallup's Latest ACCORDING to Gallup's latest survey, Great Britain and the United States are at sharp variance in regard to post-war domestic reforms. The English voted for more of them, while this country strongly opposed renewal of the reform wave. Gallup mentions that the Beveridge plan was received with enthusiasm in Great Britain, whereas a similar proposition was coolly pushed aside here.

A large socialistic current apparently runs in England, but on the contrary socialistic experiments in this country have aroused aversion to threats of additional ones. The more people here have studied wild theories and felt bureaucracy trends, the more they have become wedded to the sanity and soundness of private enterprise.

The report states that the rank and file of labor organizations join other groups in wishing to head off the reform business. People are sensing advantages gained through individual initiative, and are becoming more and more sickened by propositions to pile more dizzy reforms on those that have mired down and failed to work. If Gallup has sized up conditions with measurable accuracy, his findings will prove disquieting to the vice president and others who have been busy figuring out good neighbor policies that would further nationalize industry and production.

Radio commentators on the war prospect often speak with more assurance than commanders in the field, and frequently they assume to know more about how long the conflict will last than leaders of the armed forces. One speaker recently said 100 years would be required to overthrow Japan, whereas Commander Halsey, engaged in the southwest Pacific, was quoted some time ago as saying the Nipponese would be finished this year. Probably Halsey was over-optimistic, though conceivably not so far off as the radio speller. Headway against Japan will increase rapidly when island headquarters are reached and destroyed.

Recall of Maxim Litvinoff, ambassador to Washington from Russia, and friend of democracies, is causing conflicting speculations, but however the soviet union may regard the ideologies of the United States and Great Britain, its bitter and deadly conflict with the nazis up to this time and its future position among nations of the world, reason against a separate peace or any let-up until unconditional surrender has been won. The allies have given liberal support to the Russians, and resulting successes have been mutually advantageous. Whatever Russia may think of its allies, it needs them quite as much as they need it.

Mid-westerners will be glad to accept further gas restrictions if they are necessary to prosecution of the war, though they will not relish doing so merely to placate the feelings of eastern people who have been fretting under curtailed pleasure motoring. Longer distances have to be traveled in this area to attend to essential business than are required in the east where many trains operate every hour of the day. Joy riding is little evident here. The east should rivet its eyes on the east in the hope of maximum war performance, and pay less attention to the middle west whose war efforts, and sacrifices will bear the closest scrutiny.

The Saturday Evening Post calls attention to the facts of American history to show that isolationism does not belong to the belief or practice of the republican party. It was John Hay who proclaimed the policy of the open door in China. Herbert Hoover strengthened that policy by refusing to recognize Japan's government in Manchuria. William McKinley was president when the Philippines were taken. The Post suggests that isolationism as a republican doctrine had "little more relation to the party's history than kissing babies has to a candidate's views on free enterprise."

Samuel B. Pettengill who was a democratic member of congress for six years beginning in 1933, warns against the advice of political professors who propose to continue deficit financing after the war. "However necessary it may be to go into debt in times of acute domestic depression or foreign war, the process obviously creates no real wealth," wrote Pettengill in the course of an article in the Farm Journal. Courage to compel the government to live within its means when peace is restored is vitally essential, he suggests.

Many town schools are advertising what they have to offer prospective students. Non-residents looking for courses that will meet their needs are naturally influenced by the prospectus, by the facilities and by the qualifications of leaders. The Wayne city school makes an attractive announcement in today's Herald, inviting young people to investigate advantages here before making decisions.

The fellow in the habit of traveling in a circle and accomplishing little, the while things to be done pile up, should break out of the circle and wade into his task with new-made determination.

Extra vigilance proposed by authorities in the enforcement of gasoline restrictions in connection with state fair attendance would seem consistent with the government's policy, but on account of such threatened interference, the prospect may be expected to decrease the size of the crowd.

Marriages in the state have increased lately in anticipation of the new blood test law which goes into effect August 29. Objection is not to the law, but to the inconvenience and cost involved. The safeguard is deemed important.

To Control Inflation.
(Industrial Press Service)

In a broad appeal to the American people to curb inflation, the Life Insurance companies of America are broadcasting a 7-point program through 285 newspapers in the principal centers of population.

This program, backed by 100 life insurance companies, in assuming an active role in the battle to hold down prices, appeals not only to the 67,000,000 life policyholders but to all citizens to put the 40 billion dollars (the gap between America's estimated income of $125,000,000,000 and the $80,000,000,000 worth of civilian goods and services that will be available) into safe and constructive channels.

The seven practical ways to curb inflation according to this appeal are: (1) Buy and hold war bonds—to lend our country the money it needs to fight the war to victory, (2) Pay willingly your share of taxes that your country needs, (3) Provide for your own and your family's future by adequate life insurance and savings, (4) Reduce your debts as much as possible and avoid making new ones, (5) Buy only what you need and make what you have last longer, (6) Live faithfully by the rationing rules to conserve goods of which there are shortages, (7) Cooperate with our government's price and wage stabilization program.

These are simple rules that everyone can understand and act upon. They should be carried out by everyone who has money to spend if we are to control inflation and provide for the future security and prosperity of this country.

ORGANIZED.

It is encouraging to note the recent organizing of livestock men in Nebraska and promote their interests. Feeders want to be reasonably certain of fair returns from their investment and work, and they look with distrust on the plans of Washington bureaucrats. Livestock growers want to increase rather than reduce feeding operations, especially at this time of an enlarged demand for meat, but they want ceilings made uniformly consistent and a more intelligent understanding of conditions on the part of Washington officials who issue orders. Undoubtedly farmers and livestock growers whose interests are often in conflict with labor union demands, should be organized for protection. Labor unions have gained strength through organization, and agriculture and livestock production should do the same thing. And that is what livestock men are doing.

consumed. A change back to the former order would also serve greater convenience.

Story of Democracy.

Daring youths, now engaged in a titanic struggle to save democracy, will not only perform that task, but will spread the story of a free nation around the world. Cradled in a land of independence and initiative, American boys, in many countries, will encourage foreign peoples to understand and finally to adopt the free way of life.

ANXIOUS TO KNOW.

As expressed by Congressman Karl Stefan in Wayne last week, members of the two houses expect to profit from the experience of circulating among constituents for a few weeks and learning their reactions to passed and pending legislation. According to Congressman Stefan members faithfully try to represent their districts and carry out the wishes of home people. From personal knowledge of a district's best interests and from opinions expressed by mail if not by personal contacts a congressman has to make up his mind and act accordingly. Often he has to run the gantlet of selfish interests, or be on guard against cleverly fashioned schemes that would be in conflict with the area which he is pledged to represent. Being a congressman is no snap at any time, and especially is it an ordeal with a world war on and with plans for post-war reconstruction appearing for consideration. Therefore the wise congressman is, as indicated by the big Third's representative, eager to know the wishes of constituents. He is anxious for home counsel.

Christian Science Services

"Christ, Jesus" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, on Sunday, August 29.
The golden text is: "Thou, Bethlehem Ephrathah, though thou be little among the thousands of Judah, yet out of thee shall he come forth unto me that is to be ruler in Israel; whose goings forth have been from of old, from everlasting" (Micah 5:2).
Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Moreover the Lord saith again unto Ahaz, saying... Therefore the Lord himself shall give you a sign; behold, a virgin shall conceive, and bear a son, and shall call his name Immanuel" (Isaiah 7:10,14).
The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Jesus was the son of a virgin. He was appointed to speak God's word and to appear to mortals in such a form of humanity as they could understand as well as perceive. Mary's conception of him was spiritual, for only purity could reflect Truth and Love, which were plainly incarnate in the good and pure Christ Jesus" (p. 352).

Service in Woman's club room Sunday at 11 a. m.

see why after you have read it. Besides being an ardent French patriot, she can properly be termed a world citizen. Because of her family background, Miss Curie found, on her daring 40,000 mile trip to the battlefields of our war, that she was well known wherever she went. Thus, in Russia she was allowed to see more of the front than any other foreign correspondent in Moscow at the time. She presents the record of her experiences so graphically that the cold of the Russian winter, the heat of the Libyan desert, the slow-paced life of Iran, the Free French in Syria, British and Americans in Africa, the life and dreams of the Chinese, of the people of India, come to us with an immediacy unequalled by any other reporter. This is not a book for the complacent, or for the armchair strategist, but for those of us who want to increase our sense of participation in this great conflict. Most of all it is for those who fight our battles—the Russian peasant, the Polish exile, the Free Frenchman, the Chinese coolie, and the ordinary citizens who are behind the man behind the gun. AMENDMENTS TO PRIMARY LAW (By Senator Wm. Crossland) Amendments to our primary law enacted by the state legislature seek to accomplish the following objectives: 1. To increase party responsibility by requiring political parties to endorse candidates for office before primary elections are held. 2. To require political parties to adopt a platform on public issue before elections are held. 3. To force increased responsibility and freedom of action in individual party delegates by abolishing the unit rule of voting and proxies. 4. To provide for the election of party delegates by party voters. These amendments require each political party to adopt a platform and endorse party candidates for elective offices for the consideration of voters. They do not affect candidates elected on a non-political ballot, nor necessarily elective state, congressional and district officers. The amendments provide the following procedure through primary and post-primary conventions composed of delegates elected by the party voters. They are elected by the party voters. They file in the primaries like any other candidate under the provisions of Sec. 32-1124 CS Supp. 1941, though they are not required to deposit a filing fee. They serve as delegates to the pre-primary and post-primary party state conventions and also as delegates to the pre-primary and post-primary congressional district party conventions. The number of delegates to the state conventions is 400, apportioned on the vote cast for governor at the preceding election. Each county has at least one delegate. Alternates are provided for; the county central committee fills a vacancy where neither the delegate nor alternate serves. Proxy voting or unit voting is forbidden and a delegate's right to vote is deemed personal. County Convention. Beginning with 1944, each political party shall hold a post-primary convention on the third Thursday after the Tuesday on which a state-wide primary is held when a county central committee is selected. The county central committee apportions representation on the basis of the party's vote for president of the United States at the last preceding presidential election. Each precinct shall have at least two delegates and vacancies may be filled by the county convention from voters of such precinct. The county convention may transact any other proper business presented. No provision has been made for adoption of party platform or endorsement of county candidates, or pre-primary convention. State Convention. Beginning with 1944, each political party shall hold a post-primary convention biennially on a date fixed by the state central committee but not later than October 1, to nominate candidates for such elective state officers as are expected from the operation of the direct primary law, to adopt a state platform, to select a state central committee, to select electors for president and vice president and any other proper business. Beginning with 1946, each political party shall hold a pre-primary convention on the eighth Tuesday preceding the state-wide primary election, at the call of the state central committee, to endorse candidates for all party state and national offices who are to be nominated or elected at said state-wide primary election, to adopt a party platform. Any endorsed candidate must receive at least 25 percent of the votes cast. Two candidates may be endorsed for the same office, the one receiving the highest vote being listed first on the ballot and second choice being listed second and ahead of any other candidates for that office who have filed in the primaries. The party platform must be adopted before any candidates are endorsed. The convention order of business is specifically set out and can only be changed by a 60 percent vote of the delegates. Congressional District Convention. Beginning with 1944, each political party shall hold a post-primary convention biennially by congressional districts at the same place as the post-primary state convention and immediately after adjournment thereof. The delegates to said post-primary congressional convention are those who were delegates to the post-primary state convention and shall transact any proper business that may be presented. Beginning with 1946, each political party shall hold a pre-primary congressional district convention at the same place as the pre-primary state convention is held and immediately after adjournment thereof, to endorse congressional or district candidates as may be entered in the forthcoming primary election, as the delegates may decide, to adopt a party platform and transact any other proper business. There are other detailed provisions as to manner of printing names of endorsed candidates on ballot, notification of proper election or canvassing officer of choices. Only two candidates may be endorsed, the one receiving the highest vote appearing first on the ballot for any given office, followed by the words, "Endorsed by Convention." The one receiving the next highest vote appears next on the ballot, followed by the same words. An endorsed candidate must receive at least 25 percent of the votes cast. As before stated, delegates vote individually and no proxies or unit voting are allowed, thus enabling a delegate freely to vote without usual restrictions of unit voting. Other Candidates. The amendments do not provide unendorsed candidates for a given office from running in the primaries, or if nominated in the primaries, from seeking election. Any elector still has the right to seek any elective office without the endorsement of any political party. The amendments enacted were long considered by the leading political parties of Nebraska and were endorsed by them as an improvement in our primary laws and give political parties the opportunity of recommending to their followers what is their considered judgment on both public issues and men. Miracles should not be expected of the amendments because there is no real substitute for individual interest in public affairs and political life. We are reminded of that pithy couplet of Alexander Pope which contained more than half a truth: "For forms of government, let fools contest, whether 'tis best administered, is best." If the people will consistently exercise their right to vote at all elections, these amendments and our entire election code will enable them to express their will. Exchanges Dale Miller, former Pender and Thurston teacher, recently in New Mexico, is new coach at Pender. Mary and Monica McGuire of Wisner, twins, will complete nurse's training together in Omaha. Teachers Prepared Special Study

Accelerated Program Helps Provide For Schools in Teacher Shortage

Wayne State Teachers college has this year offered an accelerated program to qualify teachers who are needed in mid-west schools immediately. Part of this program has been the three-week term which started August 9 and ended the first of this week. By continuing in school through this extra three-week period, 38 college students are now prepared to teach who otherwise would not have qualified for this certificate.

Thirty-one of these students by earning 12 hours of college credit in summer school and by passing 37 state teachers' examinations became eligible to teach in rural schools this fall. These 31 students are: Evelyn Blair, Sholes; Dorothy Barlett, Atkinson; Melya Brummer, Randolph; Margaret Coleman, Akron, Ia.; Mary Jeanne Dennison, Westfield, Ia.; Mar-Cel-la Dillon, Winside; Winona Gibbs, Ponca; Beulah Grieser, Bemer; Pearl Grieser, Bemer; Marcella Hensch, Verdigris; Rosalie Hoeman, Winside; Dorothy Hokamp, Belden; Lavonne Jensen, Oakdale; Ardyth Johnson, Wayne; Arlene Johnson, Wayne; Eva Jones, Carroll; Helen Kleinsang, Hoskins; Doris Koke, Gretna; Vera Kopetka, Hartington; Lois Magdefrau, Niobrara; Marjorie Malmberg, Alton; Margaret Miller, Tripp; Priscilla Milliken, Wayne; Edith Newman, Wynot; Pauline Pohlman, Stanton; Florence Pulse, Center; Jean Schortman, Bemer; Mary Swille, Sioux City; Evelyn Sorenson, Waterbury; Johanna Wesselst, St. Helena; Ida Williams, Sholes. Other students completed 12 hours of college credit this summer and would become eligible to teach by passing the 17 state teachers' examinations.

Arldith Boeshart, Dixon, LeElla Docken, Osmond, Marjorie Eola, Thurston, Evelyn Nissen, Page, by taking the accelerated program during spring semester and the 12 weeks of summer school, are eligible to teach in rural schools. These women are high school seniors who entered college at the beginning of the second semester in January, 1943. Four other students would be eligible for a one-year diploma through this same series of courses but have not requested a certificate.

Ruth Le Beck of Sioux City, and M. Dorothea Hansen of Gordon, by attending the 12-week session, earned the two-year diploma and Chris Boyle of Norfolk, completed the requirements for the four-year diploma.

Special examinations will be given at Norfolk this Thursday under the state department of education for those applying for temporary teaching certificates. F. B. Decker may assist. Such tests will also be given in Ord, Clay Center, Lexington, Bridgeport and Lincoln this week. Mr. Decker goes to Valentine September 4 to conduct tests for the state department.

Attendance at Fair Programs Is Good
Army Air Corps Review Is Presented for Visitors Friday Afternoon.

Crowds that were estimated at 1,000 Friday afternoon and evening and a smaller number Thursday evening gathered at the fair grounds to see programs arranged by Willard Wiltse for the annual 4-H fair.

Issue Fourth Book In Rationing Soon
Nationwide registration for war ration book No. 4 will take place between October 20 and November 1. This book will be used briefly in conjunction with book No. 3 and afterward No. 4 will replace book No. 3.

The method of handling registration cannot be disclosed yet, according to Regional Executive E. F. Stegen of Chicago.

Book No. 3 becomes effective September 12. But because it has only four pages of point value stamps and no stamps equivalent to the blue stamps in No. 2, its use will have to begin as soon possible.

War book No. 3 carries point value stamps equivalent to the red stamps of book No. 2, and unit stamps like the stamps in No. 1. Its brown stamps will be used in purchasing meats, fats, oils and dairy products.

War book No. 1, now in print, contains stamps of both point and unit values.

John Gettmans Get Card From Pvt. C. J. Cone in Philippine Camp.

A card, bearing no date but passed by a U. S. censor, was received last week by Mr. and Mrs. John Gettmans of near Carroll, from Pvt. Clarence J. Cone, who made his home with them for some years and who is now in a Jap prison camp. The youth was in the Philippines and has been a prisoner since May 6, 1942.

The card is in printed form on which prisoners underline words that tell about their health, etc.

Pvt. Cone had underlined the following: My health is fair; I am injured; I am not under treatment; I am well; please give regards to all the folks.

The card came from Philippine military prison camp No. 1. The only hand writing was the youth's signature which the Gettmans say is genuine.

Gets Flying Cross. Capt. Melvin Pfund of Norfolk, former Wayne student, now base operations officer at Alexandria, La., has received the distinguished flying cross for which he was cited for extraordinary achievement as co-pilot in more than 50 operational flights against Japs. Capt. Pfund also has the purple heart, silver star, oak cluster and other decorations.

Writes from Camp Polk. Sgt. Gerald Beckner writes from Camp Polk, La., that weather has been very hot there but he adds "we can all stand it when we are fighting for our country." The youth is first cook and says "this is really a job sometimes."

The officer looks forward to returning to "good old Nebraska." Sgt. Beckner appreciates getting the Herald each Friday.

at the Santa Maria, Cal., army air base, an installation of the air service command.

Promoted to Sergeant. Harold J. McIntosh, son of Mr. and Mrs. James McIntosh of Wayne, has been promoted from private to staff sergeant. He is a member of the U. S. corps of engineers and is stationed at Camp Claiborne, La. His early promotion was partly due to his having been for 10 years a demonstrator and instructor of operators in the use and care of caterpillar tractors and other industrial equipment. Sgt. McIntosh is now taking his initial training and he expects to complete this in a month.

Is in South Pacific. Pvt. Albert Soules, who has been in service more than a year, is working on a railroad in operation on an island in the south Pacific, near the Southern Cross. He likes his work very much and enjoys keeping in touch with home happenings through the Herald.
