

Encouraged to Tackle Preliminary Flying — Fascism and Democracy — Boy's Love for Pet — When the War Will End.

To encourage oldsters to learn to fly before winging their way to eternal glory, Lt. N. B. Starr of the Wayne aviation unit, relates that his grandfather who is a practicing physician in an Illinois town, is the pilot of his own plane at the age of 74. The lieutenant talked his grandfather into his first air ride. He balked at first; said the thing wasn't practical; said he didn't propose to flirt with unnecessary danger. But he was persuaded to go up with the lieutenant, and later he confessed to liking the experience by buying a plane for his own use.

The grandfather still sticks to the horse and buggy to make professional trips into the country, and has a car for use when the weather is fair and reasonable. He has found that a horse has more intelligence and discretion in surmounting snow drifts and conquering deep mud than an automobile. Thus, he holds to the old-time conveyance while mastering the newest fashion.

Though age would doubtless be against him in qualifying as an army pilot, the lieutenant says his grandfather's eyesight is good and his health apparently unimpaired. The helicopter will probably be his next step. This will enable him to land in his back yard without disturbing the adjacent landscape.

Lieutenant Starr visualizes the coming of air navigation, and the helicopter with its ability to go straight up and come straight down, will have a leading place as a family servant. And the lieutenant observes Wayne may easily qualify as a permanent air port.

Merit Vs. Brute Force.
A popular radio commentator recently defined the difference between fascism and democracy as the difference between unearned power and genuine merit. Fascism depends on capturing authority while inhabitants are not looking or thinking. Mussolini bullied his way into dictatorship which he maintained by terror, by torturing or getting rid of dissenters. He is now unhinged, despised and helpless.

Democracy means that the lowliest person may, through actual merit, reach the top in influential leadership. It is not the capacity merely to earn money that counts. One may inflate himself and swagger conspicuously at thought of a fat bank account, but popular esteem holds back unless constructive, lasting service is apparent. Democracy is constantly on the alert for persons who can do things better than those who just want to get by. It is valuing for leaders who know real values and who are anxious to assert them in behalf of the common weal. Money alone is insufficient, but it helps in combination with the pulsing eagerness of democracy to find and boost merit.

Tears Stop Sale.
The attachment of a 9-year-old boy for his pony at Falls City suddenly stopped the sale of the pet at a public auction. As the little boy cried with the bids were being offered for the animal, the auctioneer suddenly stopped the sale. Members of the audience were also in sympathetic tears. The report says the father decided he could not sell the pet. What surprises one is that the father allowed his boy to suffer prospect of separation up to the point of the sale. Some parents are dumb if not calloused.

Hope Is Enticed.
"Since supere of Italy, people have been speculating on the time the nazis will likely wind up. It is generally realized that no let-up in the war effort anywhere is safe or warranted, but hopes felt that Hitler and his satellites may be driven to fold up and accept allied demands sooner than many had expected. J. S. Woodson, editorial writer for the Sioux City Journal, and a close student of international problems, considers the question with this closing observation: "The Journal makes no predictions as to how long the Germans will hold out. It does suggest that everybody be prepared for sensational developments that may come at any time. Things are moving rapidly now in Europe. Greater things may come to a head and a climax at any time."

Wakefield Youth Has Fatal Attack

Herman F. Utecht Is Found Lifeless Wednesday at Home Near Here.

Herman F. (Hans) Utecht, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Utecht who live two miles south and seven east of Wayne, died of a heart attack Tuesday night. When the young man did not respond Wednesday morning about 6 when his folks called him, they investigated and found him lifeless in bed. Dr. C. B. Coe of Wakefield, who was summoned, said the youth had suffered a fatal heart attack several hours earlier. County Attorney Burr Davis and Sheriff J. H. Pile, said no inquest would be necessary as the young man had died of natural causes.

Herman had helped make up an alumni team playing football with Wakefield high boys in the afternoon. He did his chores in the evening and then listened to the radio until about 9 when he retired. He seemed in his usual good health, but it is thought the football practice was too strenuous as he had not played for some time.

Funeral rites will be conducted Friday afternoon at St. Paul Lutheran church south of Wakefield with Rev. H. F. W. Schulz and the Hypse service in charge. Burial will follow in Wakefield cemetery.

Herman, Frederick Utecht, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Utecht, was born at Wakefield and had always resided there. He was graduated from Wakefield high school in 1941. The young man was a member of St. Paul Lutheran church. Since finishing school he had been helping his father on the farm.

Surviving the youth are his parents, two brothers, Wilbur and Fred of Wakefield, and four sisters, Mrs. Frances Wagner of Holstein, Iowa, Helen, Mary Alice and Arlene, at home.

Wayne College Enrollment Has Exceeded Expectations

All Departments Function To Give Well-Rounded Program at School.
Enrollment at Wayne college this fall exceeded expectations and by Monday this week reached a total of 569. This figure does not include about 300 men of the 349th college training detachment non-students of the eight study centers. Of the resident students, 50 per cent formerly attended here and 16 per cent of all are new. Pressure of the immediate has not obscured the need for a varied and well-rounded training. While enrollment in some classes is small, not one department had to be closed out, and the Latin department is larger than usual. Prof. Russel Anderson reports a personnel of 45 in his chorus. Prof. John R. Keith has 31 in the band with 21 of these being former members. The training school, from kindergarten to 12th grade, has held steady while the rural school, under direction of Miss Mamie McCortland, shows a slight increase in enrollment.

CHRISTMAS PLANS ENGAGE ATTENTION OF LOCAL CHAMBER

WHILE the world is much in conflict with practice, of the spirit of Christmas it is a fact that democracy is fighting to reestablish and reinforce the peace and good will for which it stands—which it has breathed through the centuries. Despite the world struggle, the greatest of all birthdays will be given attention and its meaning will be reemphasized. On account of absent faces, the holiday season will not impart the good cheer felt in peace-time, but it will not pass without appropriate remembrance. In every church the story of the noble Nazarene will be retold, and revitalized thought of Christmas will contribute to post-war justice and security. Locally, the Chamber of Commerce is moving in the direction of suitable holiday activities, and especially children of the community and neighboring areas will have fused into their minds an appreciation of generous fellowship. What the Chamber has in mind will be announced in due time.

American's Creed Embodies Ideals

To love his country, to support the nation's constitution and laws, to respect the nation's flag and to defend the nation against its enemies are the four great national duties of every patriot as embodied in "The American's Creed." Dr. R. P. Cuff explained Monday when speaking to Kiwanis. History and interpretation of the creed, which was written in a contest at the time of World War I, are especially interesting now in places in many schoolrooms, lodge halls, veterans' homes and on many ships. It also appears on the mastheads of numerous newspapers. The creed follows:

"I believe in the United States of America as a government of the people, by the people, for the people; whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed; a sovereign nation of many sovereign states; a perfect union, one and inseparable; established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice and humanity for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes.

"I therefore believe it is my duty to my country to love it, to support its constitution, to obey its laws, to respect its flag and to defend it against all enemies."

In 1917 William Tyler Page wrote two paragraphs, just 100 words, which were accepted by contest committees the next year as American's national creed and (Continued on Page Seven)

Two Men Burned In Hay Field Fire

Fred Marple, 46, of Norfolk, son-in-law of the Frank Petersens of Winside, and former resident of Wayne, and Arthur Parshall, 18, of Atkinson, are in serious condition in a Stuart hospital where they are receiving care for burns suffered in a hay field explosion north of Atkinson. Mr. Marple is severely burned from the waist down, and Parshall is burned about his entire body except for his left arm and his face.

The two men were with three others September 11 going in a wagon to a field to put up hay. The wagon hit a rut and spilled some of the tractor fuel onto the men. Shortly afterward, when the wagon was making its way through the field, an explosion occurred and clothing of the two men was afire instantly. Others in the party and men from a nearby crew rushed to their aid, but both had been badly burned. They were taken to Atkinson for first aid and then rushed to Stuart hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Petersen were called to Stuart Sunday to see their son-in-law.

Rites Conducted For Ola Nelson

Early Resident of County Passes Away in Wayne Sunday Evening.

Ola Nelson of Wakefield, resident of this vicinity 55 years, passed away Sunday evening, September 12, at 6:30 in a Wayne hospital, aged 86 years, 8 months and 3 days. Mr. Nelson was brought to Wayne July 3 and underwent a major operation here July 8.

Funeral rites were conducted Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 from Salem Lutheran church in Wakefield with Rev. Harold Henriksen, Wayne St. Paul pastor, officiating. Committal, in charge of the Hypse service, followed at Wakefield cemetery.

Ola Nelson was born in Nyssa, Skone, Sweden, January 9, 1857. When he was 16 years of age he came to America and located first at Knoxville, Ill., where he was employed in farming for 14 years. Mr. Nelson came to Wayne county in the spring of 1888. Here he married Miss Clara Carlson April 4, 1889. Mr. Nelson then bought a farm five miles east of Wayne and there the family lived until 1919 when Mr. and Mrs. Nelson moved to Wakefield where deceased had since lived.

Mr. Nelson took great interest in building up his home farm which has been occupied by his son since the senior Nelsons moved to Wakefield.

Deceased was a faithful and active member of Salem Lutheran church.

Mrs. Nelson preceded her husband in death April 1, 1939. A daughter, Hilda, died in March, 1921, at the age of 20. Mr. Nelson leaves one daughter, Mrs. E. A. Larson of Wayne, and one son, Henry C. It has been several years since he had word from them.

Prof. K. N. Parke, secretary of Wayne county Red Cross chapter, explains that this service is available for brief messages to persons in areas where normal communication is not possible because of war conditions. A limit of 25 words is placed on the message and the context is also restricted.

Will Apply Sum On Refund Bonds

Air Corps Setup In Wayne Ideal

NATURE DOUBTLESS HAD FULL BEARDS IN MIND AT START

FULL beards were popular—quite indispensable—centuries ago. They were in rapport with the thought of being full-fledged and grown up. The saints and seers of the pre-Christian era had flowing whiskers perhaps for convenience—perhaps to lend dignity. Anyway they were dust catchers and soup strainers. They often tangled with soft victuals, and were a sore trial for possessors as well as for feminine spectators. But a bank of whiskers covered a receding chin, sunken cheeks or other facial spraws, and made one, regardless of facts, look as stalwart and courageous as another. Of almost equal good taste were bristling fur caps, and within an unbroken circle of hirsute similarity, one could not tell whether a traveler on a distant frosty landscape were backing up or going forward. Shaved faces have become the violence to nature's original plan. Otherwise provision would have been made for a movable nose. This necessary appendage is in the way when one shaves. It could have been fashioned in a socket to move around better to accommodate the tonsorial operation. We are sure this would have been done if nature had expected people to turn to shaving and maintaining a fashion of bald faces. If another world is ever to be peopled this convenience should be included.

Livestock Market Is in Stalemate

Specialists Give Opinions On Feeding Operations At Two Meetings.

The livestock market is stalemated because no margin exists between the price for feeders and that for fat steers, according to C. M. Conway of Chicago, member of the National Marketing Association, who addressed Nebraska Livestock Feeders' association in West Point Monday afternoon and a five-county group at Emerson that evening. Mr. Conway told that 50 per cent less cattle are going into feed lots than a year ago and 40 per cent less feeders are coming to market.

The advisory council to the meat board of the national association met in Chicago September 15 to try to devise some ways to get more beef. This organization reported that it would try all plans before using price as an incentive. Mr. Conway, however, expressed the belief that price should be an incentive. He thinks $4 per hundred on calves is none too large a margin for nominal feeding operations, and he predicts extreme scarcity of beef between January and March.

The Chicago man cautioned feeders not to be too "long" on (Continued on Page Seven)

There is always a certain chill in the air in September that means winter is coming. It will soon be time to put on those storm windows. Have you looked them over to see if they are in good shape? Don't wait too long before ordering new ones. If you do, you may get chilly before you get them. The many cans of Glidden red barn paint that are going out these days means that farm buildings are going to be put in extra good shape this fall. Right now is the ideal time for painting. Why don't you take out a few cans of Glidden bright red barn paint for your farm?

Library News

The library circulation has increased due to the fact that school has started. It is nice to see in young people coming in again for something other than light stories. The librarian of the Richmond public library in speaking of books loaned to the boys and girls says:

"The reading value of any specific book is obviously the same whether one has it handed to him, or it is selected by him from a simple array on a limited number of shelves, or is discovered by him in its proper place among comparison volumes in an extensive and completely catalogued library. Other important values are gained only under the last described situation for both the book and the reader. Thus boys and girls who have been able to have frequent access to a complete and well organized library are observedly better equipped to continue study either in school or independently than others who may have read the same books but without the experience."

Two new adult books of fiction have been added to the library this week. One is titled "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn" and of this book the New York Times says, "A girl named Betty Smith has written a novel about Brooklyn and it's enchanting all America. This book is the Literary Guild selection for September. The other book is 'The Apostle,' by Sholem Asch. This author is probably the only man living with the knowledge, understanding and literary stature equal to the task of depicting the mighty character and deeds of St. Paul. Mr. Asch's writing is internationally known and loved, and 'The Nazarene' and 'Three Cities' are universally accepted as ranking with the finest literary masterpieces of all time. 'The Apostle' will take its place as the crowning achievement of a life devoted to the study of the greatest story in history."

Congressman Stefan Returns to Capital

Congressman Karl Stefan has returned to Washington after several weeks of travel throughout the Third congressional district. During his travels the congressman used automobiles, airplanes and even hitch-hiked several times. Before leaving the district he visited practically each one of the 24 counties which comprise the Third district. He spoke frequently at various gatherings but put in most of his time listening to what his constituents had to say.

He reports that he has accumulated considerable information and displays a large file of questions and answers which he has compiled from what business men and farmers have told him while he visited them.

One of the features of the congressman's travels in his district was to visit individual farms. Among other things he visited most of the air bases in the state and also made a survey of the needs for additional farm to market roads. He frequently drove over soil conservation districts with members of the committees and urged the continuation of shelterbelts. He expects that secondary highway legislation will be added to the new road bills.

His regular column will start again in this newspaper as soon as the congressman returns to his Washington office. Congressman Stefan has written this weekly column for weekly newspapers ever since he went to congress nine years ago.

Junking IT would be a happier prospect if junking costly and unnecessary Washington bureaus were as certain as winning the war and thwarting the evil aim of foreign dictators. Troubled by the bureau incubus, the Omaha World-Herald writes at considerable length with these concluding paragraphs:

"It is easy to say, 'Get rid of the needless bureaus,' but it won't be easy to do. "Even during the war emergency certain agencies which are no more useful than a spare tire on a donkey have clung to life with bitter determination. "In all probability the wartime agencies will be as hard to eradicate after the war as peacetime agencies were during the war. And besides, if men of the nature of our present bureaucrats remain in office, there will be a deafening demand for new 'offices' and administration. In that case crackpots of every design will flock to Washington with their weird schemes for uplifting the people at government expense—and judging by past experience, some of them will have their way. "It is important that we wage enlightened war on such proposals and tendencies. "It is important that we get back to the ways of solvent government, sanely administered. "It is important that we return to every young American of tomorrow the thing that should be the birthright of every American—the incentive to strive and to accomplish. "If we succeed, our bright dreams for the world's tomorrows may be realized. If not, all our peace planning may be wasted, for weakling nations can never be secure."

Wallace VICE President Henry A. Wallace, dream boy of the administration, is still talking, perhaps thinking he might say something that would be accepted as reasonable and convincing. In a recent speech he broke "freedom from want" into seven parts—freedom from worry about a job, freedom from worry about a dependent old age, freedom from worry about sickness and hunger, freedom from group rivalries, freedom from strife between races and creeds, freedom from fear of bankruptcy, freedom for inventors with new ideas. Little work, big pay, high living, no responsibility and happy tolerance would appear to contribute to Henry's postwar program which he would extend to all countries of the earth. No more toil or tears or stomach-ache or other pains would be permitted to interfere. The vice president proclaims the millennium in which failure would be made as impossible as outstanding achievement. Who would produce sufficiently, he does not explain, and who would foot the bill, he does not touch, though it is assumed he has the government in mind. The Wallace fancy would of course destroy ambition and weaken initiative, softening the human fiber which has enabled America thus far to repel designing aggressors.

In the course of the late Mackinac republican conference, Gov. Tom Dewey seemed to strike a popular chord by declaring in favor of postwar alliances in the interest of future peace. Looking to the 1944 national convention, republicans will be wise to avoid extremes. They cannot expect to fold up after the war and escape everything in the way of world responsibility. On the contrary, they cannot expect to inspire abundance to every nation with a chicken in every pot. A sensible middle course is the one that will work and the one that will win.

Senator Gillette, Iowa's democrat of the old order, is quoted as strongly opposed to a fourth term for President Roosevelt. He says he was against a third term, and is increasingly against a fourth term. A reporter quoted him as saying: "I would oppose a fourth term for my own father. All of this reservoir of patronage and federal agencies that have sprung up is entering every avenue of activity and its perpetuation would be a distinct threat to democracy, to the rights of the people to govern themselves."

Congress is back in the harness after spending a few weeks among constituents, and if members express the wishes of home folks, we will soon know what they think and want. Proposed drafting of fathers into the army is reported at the top for serious discussion, and it is expected to find no hot discussion. Leaders propose to find out the needs of the military service, and see if the induction of heads of families is justified or not.

The fiercest battle of the war and perhaps the crucial one is being fought between Americans and Nazis around Naples in Italy. England's Eighth Army is rushing to the rescue. Its arrival will help meet massed enemy forces. A few days—perhaps weeks—will determine results in Italy. If the allies win decisively, the war may be shortened. It is profoundly hoped so. War is worse than Sherman said it was.

David Lawrence, columnist, calls attention to President Roosevelt's acknowledgment that he made a mistake in signing the statement that nations benefiting by this country's lend-lease policy would not have to make repayments. It is likely those able and willing to pay will be permitted to do so.

The way the Japs are scooting from one island after another to escape attack rather disproves the Nipponese boast that the Japs would fight to the last man. If that were true—but it isn't—the Rising Sun of the orient would in no distant day set never to rise again.

It is strange, indeed, to hear of strikes among persons who are already receiving above the average wages and more than they ever received before. Workers fare best by cooperating and avoiding hardships on usually over-burdened sources of employment.

One farm owner south of town who was dubious about the coming corn yield, expressed surprise, on investigation, to find large, well matured ears, and more of them than expected. We hope similar surprise is the rule.

Air Supremacy, Now and Later.

(Omaha Journal-Stockman)

Air supremacy is undoubtedly proving to be the decisive factor in war and it is easy to understand how it is to be a controlling force in rehabilitating the world. Oceans and mountains no longer present barriers to national expansion and here in America our vision must extend far beyond our national boundaries. We may not all like this but modern science and inventions have so ordered it and the influence of American ideals of life will be wider than ever. We must hold all the more firmly to the ideals that have made this country great rather than absorb Old World theories that have brought chaos and suffering to ancient and unprogressive civilizations.

Imagination and Caution.

(Industrial Press Service)

Out of the maze of postwar plans that have been given wide publicity during the past year have come many impractical as well as many practical suggestions. Viewed from the standpoint of a business man who knows what it takes to develop and produce new products, many of these are stimulating and some have a reverse effect. Commenting on the postwar situation, Mr. Wilfred Sykes, President of the Inland Steel Co., says:

"Men of imagination have turned to postwar planning in groups that now number about 200. They stimulate me. And they sometimes make me mad. "They stimulate me because they also see what can be done eventually with the new postwar products. And they make me mad because they don't seem to realize that it can't all be done right away—immediately—as soon as the Japs are licked—if not sooner. "I can't go along with them because the men I represent are not planning for someone else. What distinguishes their planning from all others is that they are the men who must make some plan work. "If the men who launch the goods are wrong, they go broke. And then everybody is out of a job. They have a responsibility for the successful application of men, materials, and money. "Mr. Sykes goes on to say that while experimentation and research never cease, and that while industry will place new products on the market the minute they are practicable, it is nevertheless true that when the war ends and people will need to replace their worn-out radios, refrigerators, and washing machines, they will be able to get the 1942 models with improvements."

Upkeep Is Essential.

(Omaha Journal-Stockman)

During the last war under the stress of need for food, our farms were stripped of much of their fertility and exposed to all sorts of erosion. Forward looking agricultural advisers have wisely sought to avoid these serious errors in the present war. Soil must be conserved and industry is in much the same situation. With the railroads, the problem is maintenance. Equipment is wearing out under the strain of greater use and the roads have been prevented from renewing equipment and making repairs. The result has been more accidents and it is probable that these accidents may become more numerous.

One railroad official has described the earnings position of the railroads today as akin to an over-worked farm. A lot of money is coming in but the plant is wearing out faster than the replacement rate. Any farmer knows what would happen to his farm if every acre was intensively cultivated for several years with no crop rotation or rebuilding of the soil to the greatest extent. If, in addition to exhaustive planting, no money was taken from the income to provide fertilizer and needed equipment, the time would come when the farm could no longer produce.

The railroads today are working every mile of rail and every locomotive they possess at a ruinous pace. Through no fault of their own, they have been forced into the position of having to produce transportation for the nation far beyond their normal capacity. Due to government restrictions on new equipment, they have been unable to ease the load. They have repeatedly warned that a day of exhaustion is approaching, unless they are permitted to take necessary maintenance measures. In the meantime, it is utterly folly to look upon the money the railroads are receiving as true profit. That money will eventually have to be spent to restore the fertility and productive capacity of the rail transportation industry.

POSTWAR WORK.

The problem of preventing a serious slump following the war is an engaging serious attention. The transfer from a war to a peace basis will require careful handling to prevent much idleness. As mentioned by the Lincoln Journal, some think increased demand for supplies will maintain employment during the transition period. Some manufacturing plants—notably those turning out automobiles—will not have a difficult task in reconverting to peacetime production. The Journal says: "Reconversion will cost a lot of money and provide considerable employment. A government board has been drafting a uniform termination clause for war contracts which will call for prompt payment of all sums due. A dismissal wage to workers is also being considered. Those who are arguing for a gradual slowing down of war production contend that this is the safer plan to prevent wholesale unemployment and will give time for full reconversion."

Marry at Service At Merville Church

Miss Arlene McDermott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. McDermott of Merville, Ia., and Lt. Arthur Gulliver, son of Prof. and Mrs. A. F. Gulliver of Wayne, were married last Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the Federated church in Merville. A single ring ceremony was performed by Rev. C. R. Yeager. The bride was given in marriage by her father and was gowned in floor-length white satin fashioned with a train, fitted bodice and sweetheart neckline outlined in seed pearls. She wore a strand of pearls, gift of the bridegroom. Her veil was finger-tip length. Her bouquet was of bride's roses and gardenias.

Mrs. G. S. Adams of Vermillion, S. D., matron of honor, wore yellow crepe gown fashioned after princess lines. She carried yellow and white gladioli. Miss Bonnie Lee Conway of Rock Island, Ill., was bridesmaid. She wore yellow crepe and her bouquet was of autumn flowers in yellow and white. Little Marilyn Schreiner, flower girl, was dressed in aqua crepe and scattered rose petals in the path of the bride.

Miss Ruth Miriam Cox of Morrisville, Sioux City, sang "Because" and "I Love Thee Dear," preceding the ceremony. Mrs. R. E. Richards was pianist. The wedding party entered the church to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march. The church was decorated with autumn flowers and candelabra carrying out the bride's chosen colors of yellow and white. Mendelssohn's was played as the party left the church.

Cadet Wilmer Ellis of Wayne and now stationed at Manhattan, Kan., served as Lt. Gulliver's attendant. Lloyd Smith, Ph. Mat. 1/C, of Sioux City, was groomsmen. Howard McLaman and Paul Kleinmish of Merville, were ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held on the lawn of the McDermott home. The bridal couple and parents were seated at a long table centered with a three-tier wedding cake and with yellow chrysanthemums and white candles.

Lt. and Mrs. Gulliver left immediately following the reception for Biloxi, Miss., where Lt. Gulliver reported Tuesday at Keesler field. Mrs. Gulliver chose a black tailored suit with white accessories for traveling.

Lt. Gulliver attended Wayne college high school and was graduated from Wayne State Teachers college. He was commissioned September 6 upon completion of the aviation meteorology cadet course at the army air force technical training command weather school at Grand Rapids, Mich. Mrs. Gulliver attended Wayne Teachers college and was graduated last April from the University of Iowa at Iowa City.

IN LABOR RANKS.

According to the Saturday Evening Post which quotes the Railroad Workers Journal, labor union members are finding their leaders dictatorial. The "closed shop" gives union bosses more authority over employment than plant owners. Speaking of the arbitrary bosses, the report says: "Their slightest whim must be satisfied or their wrath felt through dictatorial discipline such as depriving a worker of his right to earn a living if he does not wholly accede to their demands." The Post points out that "records disclose instances where workers, under a closed shop, were deprived of employment for having the courage to voice opinions contrary to their leaders." Says the Post: "Some workers are finding out what a few criers in the wilderness have been predicting they would find out someday—that is, that when the government hands over the custody of millions of workers to labor leaders, from whom no evidence of responsibility is required, the victory for the workingman is a hollow affair."

Wedding Service Performed Sunday

Miss Edna Siefken Is Bride Of Robert Adamson Here At Church Rites.

Miss Edna Siefken, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Siefken of southeast of Wayne, and Robert Adamson of Kearney, Neb., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Adamson of Chehalis, Wash., were married Sunday evening, September 12, at a candlelight service at 6:30 o'clock at Trinity Evangelical Lutheran church of Altona. Rev. Theo. Wieling officiating at the double ring service in the presence of relatives and a few friends.

Prof. C. E. Germeroth, church organist, played Lohengrin's march as the bridal party entered the church and proceeded to the altar. He played "Let Us Ever Walk with Jesus" for the recessional. Miss Lois Roggenbach, a friend of the family, sang "The Twenty-third Psalm" and "O Perfect Love," accompanied by the church organist.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was gowned in white georgette fashioned along princess lines with a shirred front and trimmed with georgette-covered buttons. The full, gathered skirt was floor length. Her finger-tip veil, edged with lace, was caught up a tarras of seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of Johanna Hill roses.

Tall white tapers burned at either side. Pretty bouquets of garden flowers were used to decorate the rooms. Miss Rosetta Holman of Columbus, and Miss Helen Stutman of Wayne, served as waitresses.

American's Creed Embodies Ideals

The contest was first conceived in 1916 by Henry Sterling Chapin of New York. "In time of war, or near approach to war, the idea of national duty, rather than of privilege, is probably in the focus of more people's thoughts than in time of peace." In 1918 America was on the brink of war. America was already in the way when Mr. Page, in 1917, wrote his creed. He received the prize at official proceedings in Washington April 3, 1918. With his prize money Page bought liberty bonds in the first World war, at ceremonies held on the capital steps.

Mr. Page is important not only for having written this creed but also for having served in the house of representatives in several capacities, beginning in 1881. He has been clerk and assistant keeper of the archives. Congressman Karl Stefan of this district, paid tribute to him twice in 1941.

Students Invited To Wayne Churches

Ministers Visit College at First Convocation on Tuesday Morning.

Dr. J. R. Johnson was chairman of the first convocation of the college year Tuesday morning. The band, under direction of Prof. John R. Keith, introduced the program with a medley of patriotic music which was followed by the singing of the national anthem. Dr. Victor West led devotions, using as his text, "Study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightfully dividing the word of truth."

Dr. J. T. Anderson gave a short address of welcome, further emphasizing the theme introduced by Dr. West.

Five members of the ministerial association, Rev. Harold Henriksen, Rev. S. K. de Fresser, Dr. West, Rev. H. H. Hazzard and Rev. O. B. Proett, welcomed the students and invited them to attend meetings of the church of their preference. Rev. Proett, president of the association, spoke for the three absent ministers, expressing their greetings and invitations.

Schools May Form Their Lunch Clubs

Aim Is to Improve Eating Habits and Health of Young Students.

Four-H leaders and state educational leaders urge all rural schools to organize 4-H school lunch clubs and in this way help build healthier boys and girls. Walter R. Harder, Wayne county extension agent, and Miss Marie Wright, Wayne county superintendent, join state leaders in urging adoption of the plans.

Four plans have been arranged and schools may choose one. Plan one relates to the preparing and serving of hot dishes or drinks at school. Under plan two the pupils bring the food in pint jars, which are heated in water just before noon. In plan three the members take part in the milk lunch program. Plan four provides for eating fruit at school.

Each plan is adapted in one particular or another to different school situations. Each teacher and school is permitted to choose between them. Each of the plans may be continued indefinitely.

Problems and recipes are furnished. The teacher obtains Leader's Circulars by organizing a club and filling in application blank.

By adopting this program it is found that children enjoy benefits of a balanced day's meal every day. Members finishing the project are awarded certificates of achievement. Pins and charters are sent to show individual and club membership. Pupils learn good food habits, learn the value of records to show progress and learn parliamentary procedure.

Prof. W. W. Derrick of the extension service, Lincoln, in speaking to the group, pleaded for the utilization of all rough feeds with the minimum amount of grain.

The speaker told that he had had no luck in trying to get the OPA to change its ruling regarding 4-H calves. The OPA requires that a firm or individual buying a 4-H calf must feed this beef 60 days before slaughter. Prof. Derrick explained that these calves are already plenty fat when sold and that this ruling should be relaxed because the extra feed given them is unnecessary and it is needed for other feedings operations.

No shortage of most really exists, according to the speaker, who explained that the armed services have about 10 to 12 months' supply on hand. The trouble is that stocks are not moving and feeders are not operating, at their usual capacity.

The Lincoln specialist urged farmers in this area to buy feeder pigs from southwest Nebraska where nice pigs are available and where farmers have little grain for stock.

Officers of the Nebraska association, elected a few weeks ago at Norfolk to serve temporarily, were chosen as permanent officers at the West Point meeting. A. F. Magdanz of Pierce, is president; Parr Young, Nehawka, vice president; Geo. Higgins, Hartington, secretary; and Ernest Strate, Jr., Hoskins, treasurer.

An outlook meeting at Emerson Monday evening was for feeders from Cedar, Dixon, Knox, Thurston and Wayne counties. Mr. Conway and Prof. Derrick were also speakers there.

Improves in City. Miss Lettie Scott, who underwent an eye operation in an Omaha hospital last week, is improving satisfactorily. Miss Clara Smothers and Miss Mildred Piper, who were in Omaha Saturday and Sunday with Lt. and Mrs. H. D. Griffin, visited Miss Scott while in the city.

THE GUEST CUSHION.

FROM PLANTER TO FEED LOT

From the time those robust, full-bodied kernels drop from your planter, until harvest time when the big, weighty ears make music on the 'bang-board', you can watch the definite, point-for-point, rugged superiority of FUNK'S 'G' HYBRIDS. They're bred to be better.

And when the results are proved in the feed lot—when you notice how your cattle and hogs develop on a balanced ration including plenty of that FUNK'S 'G' weight-building corn—then you'll have the full story of why progressive farmers rely on FUNK'S 'G'.

Quotas Suspended For Two Months

Permit on Slaughtering Is Required Except When For Own Family.

Suspension of quotas for licensed livestock slaughter September 1 by the war food administration directly affects federally-inspected slaughterers, local slaughterers, butchers and farm slaughterers with delivery quotas shown on their permits. George H. Pettit, state supervisor for the food distribution administration, announced. The suspension, however, does not apply to non-base farm slaughterers who have permits allowing them to sell portions of a carcass not exceeding 400 pounds, and farmers who slaughter for their own family use. The suspension order continues through September and October.

A license or permit for any livestock slaughter is still required under the meat management regulations, Pettit declared. This also includes custom slaughterers. Required licenses or permits; observance of the soft-side order for beef to the armed forces; prohibition of the payment of less than support price for hogs, or paying more than any ceilings established on hogs; collection of ration stamps for meat in accordance with the rationing program; stamping with license or permit number on wholesale meat cuts; and grading of beef, veal and lambs. It also will be necessary for slaughterers to keep definite records of slaughter during the two-month suspension period, and to make monthly reports as required in the original order. Effective September 3, inventory controls for all types of slaughterers and meat handlers were temporarily suspended.

Increases Is Allowed On Farm Machinery

The 1941 farm machinery distribution program, still under discussion, will again seek to place new farm machinery where it will do the most good in war production of food.

Prospects for supply are for 80 per cent of the 1940 level, or about twice as much as was authorized for 1943. Despite improved prospects, it's still necessary to get the most use possible out of existing equipment.

Restrictions have been removed on the manufacture of repair parts with the exception of those for crawler tractors.

New Slogan Used By Young America

"There's a new slogan that you'll be hearing more and more among the young men of America," states Lt. R. J. Friery of Wayne college training detachment. "It is 'The wings you want are yours to wear at 17.'"

"That slogan is an answer to thousands of Americans who have dreamed of flying with the U. S. army air forces," Lt. Friery explained. "Instead of waiting until they are to start their training as aviation cadets, they can now enlist in the air corps enlisted reserve at 17, with their parents' consent, and wear the silver wings which identifies them as members of the U. S. army air forces."

At high schools all over the country, silver wings are being worn on the coat lapels of thousands of students. When they are called up as aviation cadets, they continue their education, first with pre-flight training at selected colleges, then at one of the more advanced air bases like Randolph field, known as "The West Point of the Air."

"The opportunity to become aviation cadets," Lt. Friery emphasized, "is still open to men who have reached their 17th birthday but have not passed their 26th. They can volunteer for induction, or if they are already in the army, they can apply through the local aviation cadet examining board."

Don Meyer Prize Hereford Is Offered to Promote War Bond Sales.

Don Meyer's senior Hereford, Skunny's Cousin, grand champion at the Nebraska 4-H fair in Lincoln last week, brought an all-time high Wednesday, September 8, at the baby beef auction in the capital city, the calf being bought by John Nixon of Nixon & Co., feed firm, Omaha, for $2.65 a pound. The steer, weighing 1,015 pounds, gave its owner $2,080.75. A year ago Don's calf, also grand champion at the state fair, brought him $700. Price per pound then was 47 cents.

The Wayne youth plans to invest the returns from his calf in war bonds, just as he did last year. Nixon also bought the reserve champion, the Angus shown by Glen Sunomson of Seward county, paying $1 a pound for this. Nixon's plan is to give both calves to the Masonic Boys' home in Omaha.

The Meyer Hereford has been offered by Mr. Nixon to counties of the state to boost the September war bond drive. The plan in such a campaign would be for war savings officials to take the calf on a bond-selling tour of the state and finally return it to the Omaha boys' home.

Don Meyer is the only Wayne county 4-H member who had calves at the state fair. His senior Hereford, champion of the show, took first in its weight class and also first in the Hereford breed class. His other Hereford, in the same division with the champion, placed second in weight class and third in breed class.

Rationed Pickers Are Being Placed

Wayne county farm machinery committee is processing corn picker applications. With 16 machines to be rationed, it is possible to grant only one to every five applicants. Considerable effort has been put forth by the committee to secure additional machines from sections of the state where they are not so badly needed. In rationing these machines, the need for machinery, the ability of the applicant to do custom work and number of boys applicant has had inducted into the armed service were considered in making the final determination. Approval is being granted of all pickers in the quota, so the closing date for picker applications was September 15.

Winside Department --- Wayne Herald

BY MISS GLADYS REICHERT

Officers Elected By School Classes

Work Gets Under Way Well For New Term Opening In Local School.

Classes of Winside high school elected officers the past week. The 21 members of the senior class re-named their officers for the year previous. They are: President, LeRoy Wittler; vice president, Walter Gaebler; secretary, Norma Jean Gillespie; and treasurer, Lila Mae Neary. Supt. Gilmore Sals is sponsor.

Dottie Reed and Jay Reed are new members of the senior class this year. They were in Carroll school last term.

Senior students study advanced mathematics, American literature, business arithmetic, typing and industrial arts. Juniors have English, physics, American history, economics and Latin. Sophomore subjects are English, geometry, business arithmetic, world history and Latin. Freshmen study English, algebra, agriculture and orientation.

Of the 25 freshmen, 17 come from other districts.

Demand for Mathematics.

Advanced mathematics was offered this year to seniors instead of advanced civics to meet the need of more mathematics for those graduating and entering college. The enrollment in second-year algebra, physics and business arithmetic was rather large due to the fact that students realize the value of science and mathematics today.

Science which was in the small northwest room adjoining the study hall has been moved to the southeast basement room. This was necessary due to the large enrollment and lack of running water which is necessary for many experiments. Some needed supplies have been ordered for this department.

The school building shows the results of much work of Fred Bright, custodian. Seats have been re-varnished, basement floors repainted, roof refinished with tar. There are only a few items that have been done.

Winside Young Man Aids State Program

Donald Misfeldt, 19-year-old Winside youth, and his seeing-eye dog, The Duchess, are going to have an important part in the Nebraska blind program. It was announced Friday by the state board of control. Donald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Misfeldt of Winside, who lost his eyesight in a hunting accident in 1941, has been employed by the board of control and will be a member of the staff in charge of the blind programs.

The 1943 legislature appropriated $15,000 to be used in preparation and maintaining a register of the blind in the state, provide suitable and practical home teaching and to assist blind persons in finding employment suited to their needs and capacities. Although the board has not yet completed its contemplated program it expects first to make a survey of the estimated 600 blind in an effort to determine their capabilities which will then be used as a guide in giving them special training or in finding them employment.

"The board felt that as long as the program is for the blind it would be advisable to have a blind person on the staff," explained Ralph Cox, chairman. "The purpose of this work is to enable blind persons to find employment and is in no way connected with assistance," he explained.

The chairman said that the federal government, under terms of a bill passed recently by congress, will match state funds on a 50-50 basis. Cox said, however, definite program had been worked out with federal officials.

H. G. Salter, educational director for the board, will have direct charge of the blind program and Donald will serve as his secretary. Donald is an expert typist, having learned while in high school. He was graduated from Winside high school in 1941. After his hunting accident he attended the Seeing-Eye institute at Morrilton, N. J., for four weeks. The Duchess and Donald have been constant companions for the past year.

"She hasn't had a chance to do much work for several months because we have been on a farm where it is quiet," Donald explained. "But she really likes it here where there is a lot of traffic and noise," he explained.
