Changed World Can Be Expected

Dr. M. B. Street Speaks at College on Possible Outlook in Future.

Dr. M. B. Street, who spoke at college convocation Tuesday morning, said "We cannot know when the war will end, but when it does end, we will be living in a different world. We can't sit idly by and not plan for this new world. Life always has been uncertain; we never had things fixed up permanently; we just thought we had things worked out. Because we must grow, we dare not cease trying to think ahead."

Dr. Street then directed attention to some of the expected changes. First, there will be the economic changes many of which have been mentioned in magazines and newspapers. However, with the demobilization of the armed forces and the consequent excessive supply of man power, incomes will drop while taxes will still remain high. Purchasing power will likely be much curtailed. A second change will be in transportation. "Already people are thinking in world terms, one is only 48 hours from any point on the globe. Seaports and railway centers will cease to be as important as before; air bases will doubtless be more important. He suggests that the U. S. will need army and navy units all over the world to help maintain these bases. Also, Dr. Street suggests that before long it will be possible to drive from Alaska to the very tip of South America in personal cars.

Further Dr. Street said that education will not change as to the offering of science and mathematics, but it will have an added emphasis on foreign languages and geography. He hinted at changes in styles, in foods, in entertainment, and said that the wartime "highly increased interest in religion will be bound to have effect on our future. "The kind of people we are is the most important of all post war considerations."

A trio composed of Ethel Olson, Wanda Olson and Jacqueline Helleberg sang, Shirlee Knapp accompanying. Jacqueline Plantenberg told the story of the opera, Don Pasquale, which will be given at the college soon. Prof. Russel Anderson played a record of a solo by Schiplo from this opera.

W. C. Coryell and Ed. Bahe were in Omaha Tuesday.

Cut Restrictions on Farm Implements

Rationing Will Apply Only To Most Essential Needs In Farm Operation.

War food administration has announced a new farm machinery distribution program which provides for rationing of considerably fewer items than in 1943. In general it sets up a much more flexible system for distributing the relatively greater amount of machinery to be available to farmers in 1944.

Tight production and distribution in 1943 made it necessary to put distribution and rationing controls in effect on 91 types of machinery. The 1944 program provides control over only 46 types of machinery, of which only 31 are actually on the list of rationed items.

Machinery outlook for 1944 is much improved. WFD has ordered production of an average of 80 per cent of the output of 1940, a better than normal production year. No restriction is placed on manufacture of repair parts in 1944.

State boards will set up tentative county quotas which will establish the number of purchase certificates issued in the county. Because of the wartime demand for some types of machinery and the vital importance of some machinery in producing essential war crops, it has been necessary to retain a measure of control over the distribution of certain types of equipment. Only the most essential types will continue to be rationed.

New Figure Plan Outline Is Given

Prof. C. H. Lindahl Speaks To Kiwanians Monday on Numbering System.

"If man had been endowed with 12 instead of 10 fingers, his figuring might have been simplified," Prof. C. H. Lindahl told Kiwanians Monday in speaking on "The Dozen System of Numbers."

"The only thing that is universal is the numbering system, Prof. Lindahl began. Most countries use the metric system of weights and measures which is based on 10. The United States and England are the only two major countries which have not accepted the metric plan. As a result these countries have a system of weights and measures which does not synchronize with the number system. "We multiply and divide by such numbers as 12, 144 and 5,280. In the metric system which uses 10 as the unit, figuring is simplified by shifting the decimal point. "Obviously, our system would be simplified by accepting the metric plan."

The reason 10 is the basis of figuring is that people were endowed with 10 fingers. An advantage of the unit based on 12 is that this figure can be divided by 2, 3, 4, 6 and 12 without fractions. Things bought at stores come in dozens or gross, which is a dozen dozens. The year has four seasons. The working day of 24 hours can be divided into convenient shifts. Time is based on 60 which is the smallest number into which 10 and 12 will divide exactly. The money system fits the number system but does not coincide with the practice of selling things by dozens.

Changing to a system based on 12 would bring into use a number vocabulary but would use the principle of place value. This system, stated Prof. Lindahl, has been used for more than 10 years by a Chicago manufacturing firm whose managers claim that it saves them thousands of dollars yearly by making their measurements more exact. This is due to the fact that 12 is divisible by more numbers than 10.

Since man is ruled more by habit than by reason, the dozen system would encounter much opposition if its adoption were seriously proposed. Nevertheless, all arithmetic from figuring the grocery bill to working out formulas in relativity, would be easier.

Prof. Lindahl was introduced by Prof. O. R. Bowen.

Julia says - Coffee can be entertaining

It's ONE thing to brew a pot of coffee and it's another to use coffee as the principal theme in feeding and entertaining a group of people.

I'm thinking of such problems as: taking care of a group of Red Cross workers, or the war-working woman who wants to entertain some friends of a Sunday morning, or an informal midday meeting of P. T. A. members.

Recently I took another trip down into the heart of that hospitable state, Texas. And I had the warm pleasure of being a guest at just such a "party." The hours were from eleven in the morning till half-past twelve.

When I investigated the details later (my curiosity is never satisfied) I discovered that the whole thing had been contrived simply and in a short time. The menu was as follows:

Baked Chicken Hash with Ripe Olive Sauce
Broiled Tomato Halves
Hot Corn Muffins Currant Jelly
Coffee Cake and Coffee

The coffee cake tasted so good with the coffee, I asked my hostess for the recipe. Here it is:

1 1/2 cups enriched flour
1/2 tsp. soda
1 1/2 tsps. baking powder
1/2 tsp. cinnamon
1/2 cup sugar

1 egg
3/4 cup milk
4 tbsps. melted shortening
1/2 cup seedless raisins

Sift flour, measure; sift again with soda, baking powder, cinnamon and sugar. Beat eggs well; add milk, shortening and raisins; then flour mixture and mix until thoroughly combined. Pour into well-greased square baking pan (8x8x2) and let stand in warm place 10 minutes. Sprinkle with topping made by combining 2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 tablespoon butter. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 25 minutes or until done. Serve hot. Serves 6 to 8.

Free NATIONAL Newspaper Week Press news discussion of the freedom of the press with extraordinary fervor on account of attempts to throttle it.

Pegler has exposed abuses within labor ranks, and he should be commended for having done so. The Monitor says those who seek to suppress Pegler are seeking to nullify the first article in the Bill of Rights.

"A free press is essential to democracy. It is essential to free labor and the success of the union movement. American workmen should be the first to recognize this and to defend rather than seek to abrogate this guaranteed liberty."

Whether the indictment of a country editor in Maryland on a charge of libeling a state officer suggests attempt to abridge freedom of the press or is a move to avenge an injustice may be revealed in the course of a court trial.

In coming years of readjustment and reconstruction, the task to maintain the free press with which is linked free speech and free worship, may require the courage and determination of its founders.

Freedom to SPEAKING of values found in freedom to criticize as exercised among democratic peoples and the obstructive restraints imposed under dictatorships, the Saturday Evening Post makes this closing observation:

"The real obstruction to better understanding between Russia and the democratic nations is the fact that we have no means of knowing what the Russian people think, about things and they have no way of knowing what we think. As between us and the British people, no such barriers exist, despite the efforts of the bureaucrats to create them.

"So we say again, 'freedom of speech' is not just a pious expression tossed off by a group of elderly gentlemen in wigs and knee pants. It is a concept of government which takes full account of the fact that its exercise will often make our governors restive, but which has paid off over a century and a half in the development of a people which has learned to respect leadership, but also knows that a leader who cannot endure criticism should retire from the scene."

Drew Pearson reports that President Roosevelt and Senator George of Georgia had a friendly conference recently. George is one of the out-of-step democrats the president tried to defeat in 1938.

Nebraska's bond purchases mounted rapidly in the closing days of the campaign, and the state exceeded its quota by a considerable margin. Governor Griswold's pig wager with other governors will necessitate his purchase of a number of Nebraska animals which may be expected to advertise this state for a long time to come.

The sales tax which would be the most productive and least felt source of income, is pushed aside by the administration in Washington on the ground that it would burden small wage earners.

Post-war problems are being liberally discussed by radio and press, and analyses, though often in conflict, should prove helpful in reaching workable results.

The Herald will be glad to publish comments by readers over their signatures. This avenue of discussion is open to any who wish to express themselves and serve worthy public aims.

Government agencies are making elaborate plans to increase next year's agricultural production. These plans will work as expected if just one thing—sufficient rainfall—is not missing.

Nature put too many nerves into some people and not enough into others. We would advise a reshuffling and redistribution of the nerve supply.

OPTIMISM NEEDED. One popular columnist announces a position we have long held—that war predictions should be expressed with emphasis on speeding the end rather than on prolonging the conflict.

Junior High Notes.

Junior high rooms now display a service flag of their own design. Its purpose is to depict the individual citizenship records of pupils. A large white V framed in red and blue is placed on a plain white background. On the V are drawn outlines of stars, one for each pupil. At the end of the week, each one with less than 10 demerits against him places a small gold star on a point of his star outline. This permits a record of five weeks. At the close of the sixth week a large gold star is placed in the center, completely filling in the outlined star. A new V will be placed on the service flag each new six-week period.

Arrives from Yale.

Pvt. Paul Harrington who has completed his first 12-week course of his basic engineering at Yale university, arrived Sunday to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Harrington. He leaves Saturday and soon starts the second phase of his work at Yale.

Brothers Are Here.

Archibald McPherran, physical instructor in the navy program in Porto Rico, and Seaman Donald McPherran of Farragut, Idaho, arrived Sunday to spend leaves in the Adams McPherran home. Cpl. Harold McPherran is in a hospital in San Diego.

Arrives in India.

S. Sgt. Arvid Hamer arrived in India, according to letters received here Tuesday by Mr. and Mrs. David Hamer and son, David. The youth left in July. He told that men had relief from the long sea trip once when they went ashore and enjoyed a swim in the ocean. He gathered some seashells for souvenirs. The Wayne young man reports India a most interesting place. He tells that the men have good food though it was quite unusual to have beans for breakfast several days.

Brothers Are Here.

Lt. and Mrs. Vernie R. Brockman of Columbus, Miss., arrived Sunday to visit the latter's mother, Mrs. John Ream. Lt. Brockman is being transferred and reports at his new station in Utah October 14. Mrs. Brockman will remain with her mother for the present. Pvt. Emil Brockman of Ft. Benning, Ga., accompanied his brother and wife to Wayne and will leave Saturday to return to his station in Georgia. Both young men are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Brockman.

Leaves for Arizona.

Pvt. Arthur Jewell left Omaha Sunday last week enroute to Camp Laguna, Ariz., after spending a 15-day furlough here with his wife and others. He and Mrs. Jewell were guests in the Mrs. Ella Harder, Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Jewell, Mr. and Mrs. Lavern Harder, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jewell and Mrs. Ida Jewell homes. Pvt. and Mrs. Jewell and Mrs. Ella Harder were stationed at Hollywood, Fla., 18 miles from Miami, at the naval air gunners' school.

Earns High Average.

Paul A. Lingren, AHM 3/C, completed radio man's course at the naval air technical training center at Memphis September 18 with an average of 92.6 and he was fortunate enough to be among the 50 percent who received third class petty officer rating. This is equivalent to sergeant in the army. Paul's grade in radio code was 99.7. Along with the commission came a $24 a month increase in pay.

The Wayne youth is now stationed at Hollywood, Fla., 18 miles from Miami, at the naval air gunners' school.

Florida is a very pretty place with the beautiful palms and the especially nice weather of this season. Another nice feature is the regular time to swim in the ocean which is only four miles away. Since he has been in the navy, Paul has been in both oceans but is looking forward to being on one.

The first two weeks in Hollywood were spent in learning about guns and turrets insideout and backward. He also learns aircraft recognition. The athletic program is very good, dealing with everything from obstacle course to ball bar lifting. This is one of the best steps in physical conditioning so it naturally is rather tough. He has acquired quite a tan which is unusual for me but it feels good to be in shape.

The gunnery school occupies the former military academy buildings which are very nice, four men to a room with bath, giving a lot more privacy than most stations. Officers and instructors are very fine and teach lots of real practical gunnery. A former Judo champion teaches hand to hand combat. "He's rough but very effective."

The young man will be stationed at Hollywood a month and will then be qualified as aerial gunner and aviation radio man. Then he will be shipped to an advanced operational squadron where he will learn actual life in the fleet with the best air arm in the world. He will probably be put in a torpedo squadron as he is small in size and light weight.

Lingren was pleasantly surprised a couple weeks before he left Memphis to have a visit from his very best pal, Pfc. Wilbur Ahlvers, and the two enjoyed discussing recollections of Wayne high school days. They had been apart for two years.

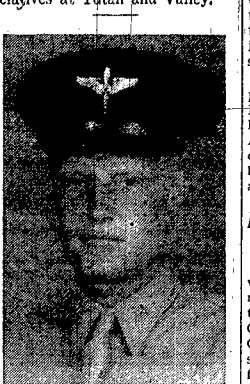

Former Student Was With British

No one knows when the war will be over and most military men think it will require one or two years longer, according to Lt. Col. Geo. Gutru, jr., of Newman Grove, former Wayne college student, who is home on leave from the African region. The young man has been in service six years and has not been home in four years. He expects to remain in the army after the war. His new assignment will take him to Tampa, Fla. On his return home he left Algiers Wednesday and was in Omaha Saturday.

Lt. Col. Gutru had been with the English 8th army in the pursuit of General Rommel in Africa. He told that dust storms can be so bad in the desert that one can't see his hand in front of his face. Then the men crawl into anything available for shelter.

The officer told that the British treat the American boys very well, sharing everything they have. The young man used the Mitchell bomber B25 and flew with fighter escort. He stated that German airmen are plenty good and can shoot straight. He said the effectiveness of the troops was their mobility as they had to move suddenly and quickly.

tioned at Hollywood a month and will then be qualified as aerial gunner and aviation radio man. Then he will be shipped to an advanced operational squadron where he will learn actual life in the fleet with the best air arm in the world. He will probably be put in a torpedo squadron as he is small in size and light weight.

Gets His Commission.

Vernie Russell Brockman, 26, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Brockman of Wayne, was graduated from advanced (two-motor) army flying school at Columbus, Miss., air field October 1. He received his silver wings and commission of second lieutenant in the army air forces. Lt. Brockman entered pilot training in June, 1942, and attended flying school at Decatur, Ala., and Greenwood, Miss., before his graduation at Columbus.

Circle Over Winside.

Sgt. Robert W. Rhudy, Winside, ball turret gunner with a Flying Fortress, brought his bomber and crew to Winside Friday and circled the town several times as a farewell before the group leaves for overseas duty. Friends at Winside could easily see Robert looking from the turret and waving his handkerchief.

Arrives from Africa.

Cpl. Emil Koll, who had been in north Africa, arrived Sunday, having been given an honorable discharge on account of his age. Cpl. Koll returned to this country with some German prisoners and was interested in their remarks when they saw New York. It was different than had been pictured to them in their homeland. Cpl. Koll plans to take up farming. Cpl. Koll of near Winside, is his brother.

C. E. M. Kai and Cpl. Koll left Wayne for the armed forces at the same time and were able to be together until the latter left to return to this country.

Cpl. Koll expressed his appreciation for receiving the Herald while overseas.

Sees Mrs. Roosevelt.

Master Sergeant C. B. Misfeldt of Winside, had the unusual experience of meeting Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt in a dentist's dispensary tent in Australia. The Winside youth was called in by the dentist who wanted to see his mouth after an extraction. He was in the chair when Mrs. Roosevelt walked in. "When I saw her," writes the youth to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Misfeldt, "I nearly swallowed the stick with cotton on it which the dentist was using. She watched a few minutes and asked a few questions. She then left and went on to inspect camp."

Sgt. Misfeldt writes that the men stood at attention while the president's wife passed in an official car.

The boys have cots to sleep on and these feel like feather beds in comparison to the ground. Tree stumps and orange crates are handy for tables and chairs. Boys do their washing by hand.

THE WAYNE HERALD

Section Two Pages 1 to 6

SIXTY SECOND YEAR

WAYNE, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1943.

NUMBER TWENTY

Tire Quota Is Cut For Present Month

Tires available for October are one-fifth less than in September, according to OPA.

Eligibility for new passenger tires (Grade D) has been restricted by OPA to "C" book holders with a mileage of 601 or more miles per month, according to an announcement by M. E. Rawlings, district director, Sioux City district.

This removes from eligibility all "B" drivers. Previously, those car owners with a mileage total of 241 or more miles per month could obtain ration certificates for grade 1 tires, pre-war or synthetic.

Mr. Rawlings stated that the new restriction is necessary to assure that the gap between the dwindling supply of pre-war tires and adequate supply of new synthetic tires is bridged successfully.

The necessity for further limiting the number of motorists who can get new tires stresses the importance of recapping, regular tire inspections and of making every other effort to conserve tires now in use.

Mr. Rawlings again stressed the fact that this conservation program is due to increasing military demands.

Speaks to Masonic Meeting in Norfolk

"Masonry is a Democracy" was the subject of the talk given by Dr. J. T. Anderson Thursday evening for 100 Masons at Norfolk. Masonry does not take the place of religion but goes along with it, Dr. Anderson stated. "It is not Masonry or religion but Masonry and religion that make good citizens."

No Sugar Increase Is Seen Very Soon

Despite increased allotments of sugar to industrial users, home consumers are warned that likely no increase will be allowed to them in the near future. Transportation difficulties and decrease in the beet sugar crop are responsible. The situation is, however, better on the west coast where sugar is arriving from the Hawaiian islands.

Dave Rees Named As Soil Supervisor

Dave Rees of Carroll, has been appointed by the state soil conservation committee on the board of supervisors of the Wayne county soil conservation district, according to information received by Albert Watson, chairman of the board. Mr. Rees will fill the vacancy on the board caused by the expired term of Dan Louck.

"This position on the board is filled by appointment by the state committee and the other four supervisors are elected by the landowners in the county," Mr. Watson explained. Mr. Rees lives in a part of the county that was voted into the district during the past year. He was one of the first farmers in the county to practice the recommendations of the soil conservation service which include contour farming, seeding steep irregular slopes to broom grass and seeding broom grass in waterways and gulches. Mr. Rees plans to construct terraces on his farm this fall further to reduce the loss of soil and water.

Reorganize Clubs In Dixon County

Dixon and Wayne county 4-H clubs are now closing another successful year of work. Wartime activities of 4-H clubs have been very important, and are continuing to be more so. And now is the time to reorganize the clubs for 1944.

In order to continue the wartime effort, 4-H clubs should reorganize as soon as possible for 1944. The groups can carry on successful meetings during the fall and winter months and as a result have more time to complete their club projects.

The idea of reorganizing 4-H clubs is already taking hold. Every farm boy and girl is quite busy, especially through the summer months. Thus, it may be very difficult to complete some projects over the summer, as some have been accustomed to doing. Carrying the projects over the entire year, it will be much easier to do better and more complete work.

Editor McCoy sold the Pilger paper to Ervin and Nathan Pant Stanton publishers, and McCoy will go into defense work. The Potts will send their Stanton Register to the Pilger subscribers.

War food administration announced that its program to limit consumption of fluid milk and related milk products went into effect in 13 eastern and midwestern states October 4. The ruling applies to milk, buttermilk, cottage cheese and cream. Homes in which there are children or sick persons will have preference. Feeding of Lambs Requires Attention

Comparatively new lamb feeders will have to give more attention to their feeding operations this year than they did last year in the opinion of Prof. M. A. Alexander of the college of agriculture.

But feeds on the farm that are going to be hard or expensive to market will be the ones that will give the greatest returns in fattening of lambs. Too coarse a roughage, however, for lambs will not be satisfactory. If silage of any kind is used in the ration, it means that a protein supplement should be added. Also, alfalfa hay of good quality should be included in the ration at the rate of at least one-half pound per lamb per day.

Alexander says if lamb feeding is to be a financial success this year, a well balanced ration will be one of the greatest contributing factors to its success.

Library News

Added to the files of the library are two new magazines. They are Fortune and Aviation News. Fortune is a monthly magazine dealing with current news. It is an expensive magazine and for that reason the current issues cannot be circulated. Anyone desiring to see this magazine will always find the last two issues in the library. After two months; they may go out for one week. Aviation News is a weekly publication. This should be interesting, not only at the present time, but after the war is over as aviation is a rapidly advancing industry.

Reader's Digest featured in its August and September issues Men in Motion, by Henry J. Taylor, a new book which has been widely acclaimed by both critics and readers, and which is now available to patrons of the Wayne library. The author is the traditionally successful small city American businessman, who for his own understanding has made himself an outstanding war correspondent and interpreter of world news.

Men in Motion tells the hitherto untold story of how the Chetniks plunged Rommel's reinforcements into a Yugoslav gorge; it relates the dramatic story of the role of the Spitfire and radar in saving England; it explains why General Glistenower accepted General Giraud and what part Admiral Darlan played at Casablanca.

The book combines excellent reporting of the author's dramatic experiences in Africa, Egypt, Syria, Palestine and Turkey, with a keen interpretation of the political forces which move behind these scenes. It will be found on the 1-cent rental shelf.

Other new books on the rental shelf are: Claudia and David, by Rose Franken, The Dark Garden, by Eberhart, Under a Lucky Star, by Roy Chapman Andrews, The Damon Runyan Omnibus, The Spanish Cuckoo Mystery, by Ellery Queen, and O River Remember, by Martha Ostenso.

Another new book is the biography of Madam Curie by her daughter, Eve Curie.

HOW TO RAISE MORE POULTRY AND EGGS

This is the first in a series of ads presenting in checklist form proved successful practices for increasing production. We make these suggestions in a sincere effort to HELP YOU produce more food for victory.

Watch succeeding ads for more helpful pointers.

CHECK LIST NO. 1

Getting Laying House Ready For The Pullets

Check the following suggestions against your poultry raising methods

Clean Out Laying House

A dirty laying house breeds disease; is a threat to egg production. So before the pullets are housed, scrape, sweep, and scrub out the dirt and filth. Then, to kill germs, bugs and parasites that would otherwise wreck egg production disinfect the house from top to bottom with Dr. Salsbury's PAR-O-SAN. It's a powerful disinfectant, safe and pleasant to use. Just one quart makes 25 gallons disinfecting solution. Also clean and disinfect feeders, waterers, and other equipment with PAR-O-SAN.

Repair the Laying House

A leaky, drafty laying house is a poor place for pullets to do their best in producing eggs. In fact, such a house is ideal for an outbreak of colds. So get the house ready for top notch egg production by repairing the roof, patching up cracks, fixing ill-fitting doors and windows and replacing broken panes. Light is necessary too, so clean the windows or replace glass substitute with new material.

Start With Ample Equipment

Eggs are made from feed and water so be sure your pullets have plenty of feeding and watering space. For each 100 birds, 2 six-foot feeders open on both sides and 2 1/2-gallon waterers is about right. Provide one nest for every 5 layers and 8 to 10 inches of roosting space per bird also. If you need more equipment to care properly for your new laying flock see us; we have a complete line.

AND NOW---

We want to mention our poultry health service offered to help you keep your flock producing. We'll offer helpful suggestions without charge. The emblem at right signifies our cooperation in the National Poultry Conservation Program; we display it proudly.

address is Aviation Cadet J. M. Pile, Barton Hall, CAA-WTS, Iowa State College, Ames.

Promoted to Captain.
Wayne Walters, first Wayne college student to enlist after Pearl Harbor, has been promoted from lieutenant to captain. He is at Camp Van Dorn, Miss.

Relaxation is really essential to army men who have been out on missions, for life at an air base is far from easy. An article in The Yank describes a day at the base. The day does not open with the bugle calling reveille or the sergeant's voice cracking one out of sleep. Instead two sounds are dominant. One is the rattle of mess kits and the widening roar of engines in the distance. The ground crews are going to breakfast at the same time as bombers tune up for mission or practice. Then a new drone is heard. One realizes that a nazi plane is high overhead taking photographs.

Gets Officer's Praise.
Eldon Durant, 23, son of Mrs. Ella Durant of Pierce, has returned to the submarine base at New London, Conn., after completing several war patrols in the Pacific. He is electrician's mate, first class. He will soon be assigned to a new submarine and will be key man for the crew because of his battle experience. The young man first served on an aircraft carrier and in April, 1941, volunteered for submarine duty. The submarine on which he served destroyed an important amount of enemy shipping. Eldon has received a captain's commendation for performance of duty in the submarine service.

Writes from Overseas.
In a V-mail letter dated September 10, Geo. Voss, F 1/C, whose address is out of New York, writes that he received the Herald and was "never so glad in my life to read a paper. When I got it again this week I felt I must write and tell you how much I enjoy it. I read it from cover to cover and don't miss a thing. What I like most is the service news as it tells about some of the other fellows I know. The paper is usually six weeks after date but over here that's fast time. I've been overseas for quite a while and what most boys want is to get this war over with and get back to the good old U.S.A. Thanks again for the paper and keep up the good work."

Studies at Harvard.
"I have finally achieved my goal—opportunity to study at Harvard—so I am contented and happy but am working hard," writes Lt. Kenneth F. Petersen. "I think I'm the luckiest second lieutenant in the country. Am here at Harvard studying advanced electronics, live in a private home in the residential district of Cambridge with three of my air corps buddies, have plenty of school work to keep me busy, have access to all Boston has to offer and in general am in about as good shape as any one could ask."

Inasmuch as I only had a year and a half of college, I find the going mighty tough at times, but do manage to come out okeh in the end which is the important thing. This study of electronics and radar is highly technical, and I contend that it is one of the most important pieces of technical equipment in use in the field today. It is being constantly improved and perfected. Yes, it is indeed interesting."
Lt. Petersen would like to see or talk to any of the Wayne folks who happen to be in the east. His address is 7 Bryant street, Cambridge, Mass.

The Wayne young man writes "thanks a million" for the weekly visits of the Herald.

Entire Red Cross Service Is Ready To Assist Youths

"Okay soldier, spill it." This is the favorite expression of Red Cross field directors who are doing a wonderful job of relieving soldiers of the many problems that bother them. Usually only one Red Cross field director is in an area, so his services are much in demand. "Even if we had roller skates we couldn't get around to all the men who need our services," writes a field man. "So why not look us up the next time you have a personal problem to solve and see if two heads—plus Red Cross facilities—are not better than one."
This describes one phase of the work J. H. Morrison of Wayne, is doing in a Red Cross camp in England. An article in the London Arc Light for September explains that if a fellow is worrying about his wife and children and hasn't heard from them for a long time, the field director contacts them through Red Cross chapters and relieves his worry. In one such instance the wife had been writing but had the wrong APO number. In another case a youth whose father died was worried as to how his mother was caring for the family problems. Through the Red Cross the field director contacted a lawyer at her home town and reported back to the boy that all was cared for as he wished it.
The reason that such service can be given is that Red Cross has a world-wide organization with contacts everywhere. These facilities are available to boys all over the world at any time.

In addition, the Red Cross provides recreation camps near bases and in these camps the boys find the relaxation they must have to carry on. Reading, writing facilities, games, library, entertainment, "snack" room and such are provided. Pictures which Mr. Morison sends show how thoroughly the young men enjoy these rest camps.

Relaxation is really essential to army men who have been out on missions, for life at an air base is far from easy. An article in The Yank describes a day at the base. The day does not open with the bugle calling reveille or the sergeant's voice cracking one out of sleep. Instead two sounds are dominant. One is the rattle of mess kits and the widening roar of engines in the distance. The ground crews are going to breakfast at the same time as bombers tune up for mission or practice. Then a new drone is heard. One realizes that a nazi plane is high overhead taking photographs.

Later it is an afternoon of vivid calm. Crash cars, jeeps, ambulances, Red Cross mobile canteens, trucks; all line up in two rows between the hangars. People stand around in the dust and glare talking, smoking, feeling the heat radiating from their heads and shoulders. They are almost sure that there will be one or two ships missing on the return flight.
A pursuit plane comes in fast, drives right up the sky in a sheer vertical climb, waves and flashes in the sun and then vanishes. Before they are seen, the thunder of the bombers closes in hard on the ears. Then they appear in orderly clouds, moving in perfect unison and certainty. As they land the bombers lose all their size. They lumber out to the dispersal area and the trucks start off from the hangar. The flying crews climb out. They show relief at being on home ground again. They slap each other on the back.

Then there are the armorers, the boys who load the ships with bombs shortly before a mission. Their work is filthy, critical and boring and they keep the most unsteady hours of any of the ground crews. A complete night's sleep for them is rare. Just before a take off they load that bombs must be loaded. They move the bombs in movable racks. A rope and pulley sling them into the bombs. Bombs are handled rather informally until the fuse caps are inserted. A gadget in the bomb's tail steers it through air and releases the de-tonator. The bomb therefore will not explode until it has dropped through air a certain distance.

Finally comes the relaxation period at the Aero club, a long, flat, single-story building brightly furnished with geraniums in pots by the entrance and red and blue curtains. A library, game room and snack bar, where one may buy a single hamburger. Plenty of papers and magazines are in the library. Night classes in French, German and Italian are taught. The Red Cross hostess does her best to help tired men, and the field director is on hand to give all kinds of assistance.

Such a day has its tragedies too, as is shown in a poem sent by Mr. Morrison. A youth named Jim, told Mr. Morrison when he started on one of his missions that his day had arrived. And to be sure, that afternoon Jim's ship, No. 808, was not in the formation when the planes returned to home base that day. "The Jerries got him with their flack. But the boys all say they saw the ship dive. Some bailed out, about three and five. Jim was one we hope and pray. Sure he'd be with us again, someday."

It took legal-minded policemen to get Michael Doris, 11, down from a street sign at a busy Chicago intersection. The boy perched atop the sign, turning deaf ears to such pleas as a dollar, candy, movies and stuff, for his mother had promised punishment for unauthorized swimming. Then policemen told him, "Your legs obscure the street signs; there's a fine and imprisonment for obstructing city property." Michael reconsidered, descended—police intervention blocked parental punishment.

Next day, Rutledge again registered at the hotel and was brought to police headquarters to be given his $990 change. "It's not mine," he insisted. "Sure, I had a one thousand-dollar bill but it's in my trunk." It wasn't. "All right," Rutledge acknowledged. "I guess it's mine."

"Fellow wouldn't pay any attention when I asked him what he wanted," said the guard. He shouted at the man, he explained, and finally chased him up seven flights of stairs.
