Synod Centennial Proves Successful

Proves Successful
The preparation for the centennial of the Augustana Luttheran synod has met with very enthusiastic and spiritual concern in the Concordia Luttheran church at Concord. Gifts of approximately $$3,000 have been received and others are expected. Throughout the synod encouraging reports are coming in. The church body is thankful for its past 100 years of service but it is not satisfied to stand still. The main portion of the funds gathered will be used in the training and sending of home and foreign missionaries throughout the United States and the world. Thu sday October 14, 1943.

Crashing DEATH again rode the air near Wayne early Sunday. It was a year and one week ago that another bombing plane dropped from the sky southeast of here with fatal results. That accident left survivors to tell the story. All six in last Sunday's tragedy perished, and the tangled and scattered plane and the mangled bodies testified to terrific force of the impact.

The town and countryside were appalled by the sound of irregular motors high in the air. From the moment the plane was sighted until it crashed, only seconds passed. A dash across the sky, a sudden tallspin and a resounding roar! Flames and smoke billowed from the fatal spot. Realizing, what had happened, people were horrified. They were helpless. The blackened waste was priof that no one in the aerial monster could have escaped alive.

Sunday was therefore a day of drooping spirits in the Wayne area. Close kindred ties somewhere were thinking and hoping. Worst fears were justified. Deep sympathy could soften the blow but little.

Modifying FROM Elmer Davis' office Restraints the least consequential civilian officer there has been a tendency to conceal information, even though it has no bearing on the war and could not conceivably help-the enemy—information expected and deserved in a democracy.

A good deal of complaint has been expressed in upper news, circles over the arbitrary withholding of news to which the public is entitled. Denying the press known facts simply starts innumerable baseless rumors. These could be avoided by a frank recital of the truth.

Newspapers are under obligations to the public to publish printable news, and it is believed freer and closer cooperation on the part of officials in supplying facts would help public relations with them and with war activities.

It has been proved that news distribute agencies can be depended on to obing agencies can be depended on to observe confidences and prevent inadvisable leaks. What they want are fewer barriers in the way of news gathering. They want the task made easier instead of unnecessarily harder.

Private THE possibility of overburdening and crippling Enterprise private/enterprise led the Omaha World-Herald to make this among other editorial observations:

"For hemocracy is dedicated to the free way of life, which calls for free interprise, free labor, free men. Free enterprise requires private intestment, not only the ability to accumulate but the daring to invest. Wipe that out, and the totalitarian state must take over. Under totalitarianism no one is free—as has been, demonstrated in Russia, Germany and Italy. The state provides the managers, assigns the workers, fixes wages and salaries according to its own will, permits no interference, no reits own will, permits no interference, no resistance, no free speech, no free press."

In a recent speech Governor Griswold set forth a line of sound economics with just one disturbing note, according to our judgment. In a hoped-for republican succession, the governor suggested retention of Secretary Knox and Secretary Stimson at their respective posts. These erstwhile republicans could go into retirement with Secretary Ickes, Sister Perkins and others without hindering the public service. But the governor struck a higher note of wisdom when he proposed Herbert Hoover for a prominent place in a re-formed cabinet. The public service needs the guiding hand of Hoover's superior abilities. recent speech Governor Griswold

Speaking of post-war economic policies, Alfred P. Sloan, jr., chairman of General Motors, said present discussions consider "too much Utopia—too little realism." He encouraged private enterprise to rise to meet its full responsibilities and urged the federal government to help by removing innecessary restraints and burdens. No rational thinker anticipates a joy ride back to normal. The task will require understanding and united efforts on the part derstanding and united efforts on the part of government, industry, business and Freight transportation by air is not going to wait until after the war. That kind of service, is to start functioning between the east and west coasts next Saturday, each plane carrying a cargo of three tons and making the trip of nearly four thousand inlies in approximately, twenty hours. Quite a contrast with the covered-wagon trek of early day travelers who opened the west to settlement! According to Drew Pearson, Admiral H. E. Kimmel, dismissed Pearl Harbor commander, is moving in the direction of an early trial by court-martial. It had been previously agreed to postpone the case until after the end of the war. Kimmel points out that airing facts involved in the Pearl Harbor attack will not disturb the war which is now being won.

People who are not satisfied with what they are able to get to eat, should read the story of China's hunger and misery. They may well study deplorable want in Europe's subjugated countries. And such conditions should not be, and but for gangster dictatorships running amuck in the world, they would not be.

Omaha's spirit of generous enterprise came to the fore again recently in lifting the burden from the governor in buying pigs to pay off his bond campaign pledges. Omaha shows it is not just bulk. It reflects an abundance of soul.

Looking at the economic structure, people would like fewer promises and more performance from their political leaders. In the matter of reducing bureaus and preventing waste, people would like less hot air and more practice.

Despite sectional drouths, the 1943 corn yield has been exceeded only by the crops of 1920 and 1942, as reported from Washington. Unusual care in producing this year's corn doubtless overcame some serious handicaps.

An Enormous Waste.

(Omaha World-Herald)
The department of governmental affairs of the United States Chamber of Commerce has been looking over the government's pay rolls.

According to the weekly "Washington Review" it has come to the conclusion that there is "a high degree of overstaffing," with "an enormous waste of efforts," and that "there is a serious lack of effort looking toward holding the staff to an efficient minimum."

looking toward holding the staff to an efficient minimum."

The department of governmental affairs makes three suggestions: That the civil service commission get busy and use its authority; that the Byrd economy committee continue its investigations; that congress tighten its control over authorizations, appropriations and expenditures. All good ideas, no doubt.

But this newspaper recently offered what it thinks is a still better plan, namely that congress immediately order the dismissal of one million civilian employes of the government.

missal of one million civilian employes of the government.

Admittedly that would be an arbitrary precedure, but apparently arbitrariness is needed to reduce the size of the bureaucracy. New "surveys" or "studies" of a situation which is already scandalous would, we fear, result only in the employment of more bureaucrats to do the surveying and the studying.

Job For The Voters. (Norfolk Daily News)

Before a congressional committee the other day Secretary of the Interior Ickes said there were twenty-two government agencies which had to do with the fishing industry.

said there were twenty-two government agencies which had to do with the fishing industry.

But instead of proposing a reduction in the number of agencies and a simplification of their work, Mr. Ickes characteristically advocated adding a twenty-third agency to coordinate the work of the other twenty-two.

That's the way things are done in Washington today, and it is the the easy way out. But who, except the bureaucrats, thinks it is the best way out?

The job of simplification will be left to a succeeding administration. But what will happen to that administration if it attempts to cut the twenty-two agencies down to the other twenty has important political backing and is staffed with persons from far and wide. It will be necessary to step on the toes of the politically big in order duplication involved in these multiple agencies.

Will the new administration dare to of-

Will the new administration dare to offend these powerful ones?

If it does will the people support it, or will they let the wasters have their way?
The attitude of the people is going to be tremendously important in deciding whether the ponderous and expensive federaleaucracy that has been built up these last ten years is pared down.

PRIVATE BUSINESS.

PRIVATE BUSINESS.
With government forms to fill out, rationing points to assemble and keep track of, price ceilings to observe, and increased statistics to have in order for inspection, besides the mounting tax burden, private business has a hard row to hoe. One result is found in fewer tores, fewer newspapers and fewer everything. Private business is a difficult task undergovernment restraints and regulations, but it is clearly essential to public service. Sympathetic understanding of numerous and unavoidable obstacles should lead to friendly competition and away from old-time bitter rivalries.

Some of the chiefs in the department of agriculture do not believe that there will be a beef shortage in the United States. They believe in short-time feeding of dattle rather than long-time feeding. They figure sixty to minety days should be the average feeding time. They base their arguments on the 20 million increase in cattle over the country. Some of them predict lower prices on stockers which they feel may be jof some encouragement to the feeders.

The bomber 'from Lowry field which crashed in the south part of Denver, September 24, about 9:20 a.'m., fell about one bick from the home of the Victor Trooks. The crash was heard and an explosion followed which shook the houses of the neighborhood. The Trooks went to the scene at once but no help could be given. It was a roaring furnace. The seven men aboard perished. Three houses were damaged by fire but the plane fell in a small clearing. When the Trooks returned from church thousands had gathered and they were obliged to convince the police that their home was there. Denver is becoming plane conscious as other crashes have occurred lately.

dolph Raabe, Wisner, gave an instructive address on the importance of membership.

Gives Main Address.

The main address of the afternoon session was given by President Chris J. Milius of the Farmers Union of Nebraska. He stressed the present problems facing the farmers, many of which he thinks could be solved by the farmers themselves through their own organization. He related the accomplishments of the organization, especially activities of the state exchange and the marketing organizations at livestock centers. He outlined some of the cooperative tasks to be undertaken.

Merle Ring and Ronald Sauer, students at Wayne State Teachers college, provided a piano duet after which Treasurer-Manager R. D. Campbell reviewed the progress of the insurance activities of the Farmers Union of Nebraska.

Wakefield Invites Clubs for Program

Clubs for Program
Many of Dixon county 4-H clubs are closing their records and are sending in their final reports. Several reports have been received at the county office. The Emerson 4H clubs under the leadership of Mrs. Wilbur Rogers, Mrs. Virgil Schram and Mrs. Mark Collorn were the first of the clubs to report their finish.

At the time of completion many clubs reorganize for the next year's work. During the fall months is the time to organize the 4-H club. This gives the 4-H member pienty of time to "Make the Best Better." "Make the Best Better." is the 4-H mofto and by seeing the 4-H exhibits, you can realize how much effort a 4-H member must put forth to live up to the motto.
This past week Agent Howard member must put forth to live up to the mott.

This past week Agent Howard Gillaspie received natices of two achievement meetings and a few were held in the two preceding weeks. A county achievement program is being planned. The date has not been announced but will be very soon. The Wakefield Lions club invited 4-H clubs to Wakefield for the county achievement.

Overweight Oil Undermines Your Car

Why Lightest grades of oil are made safe for you by changing to Winter OIL-PLATING

Any oil that has been doing its best in your car for a while back, will be hadly overweight this Winter. Everything ever said about not being caught with overweight oil goes double today on account of rationing. Your battery has been undercharged, because your car now runs fewer miles per start. Your gasoline has been wasted by the drag of overweight oil. Your engine has been abused because it hasn't been warm steadily enough for ideal lubrication. Your car could approach the end of its rope with any overweight oil apt to become jelly-like. Before Winter causes that, go light. Whatever you do, change oil for lightness. At the same

Whatever you do, change oil for lightness. At the same time though, you can make the whole big change to an OIL-PLATED engine, by getting popular-priced Conoco Nth motor oil—just as light as needed. OIL-PLATING is applied to motor oil—just as light as needed. Oil-Plating is applied to inner engine surfaces as closely as ckrome plating an your bumpers. The "magnet-like" properties of a Coffeco Nith synthetic are the basis of oil-Plating. No plating would all drain down to the crankcase fast. It can long remain at its topmost point to safeguard the very first starting stroke. And right after that, even the lightest Conoco Nith oil assures an extremely strong normal type of fluid oil film. Oil film and oil-Lating are both present to rebuff wear, and that's how your engine can go through a long Winter—and a long War—always using its lightest possible Nith oil economically. Change at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station to-down the strong of th
