School dismisses Thursday and Friday, November 25 and 26, for Thanksgiving vacation. Holiday vacation begins December 23 and school resumes January 3. School is in session Armistice day as usual.

Region Emerges After Early Storm

east of Wayne. These were dug out Monday, but another plow stalled at the same place Tuesday for a time.

A plow worked Tuesday to clear Main and other streets in Wayne.

Many Cars Stall.
Hundreds of cars were stalled on highways Sunday and Monday. It is reported that 200 were halted between Hooper and Fremont. In this area fewer were caught than on main thoroughfares. A large number were snowed in on No. 20 east of Laurel to Sioux City. Seven miles east of Dixon a semi-trailer truck stalled directly across the highway. All along were cars that had to be abandoned. E. J. Hughes of Concord, picked up a man and his wife and son near Dixon who were so cold they couldn't talk. He took them to a farm home where they received care. The Jason Websters, returning from Lincoln, stopped in Fremont Sunday night and got to within eight miles of Wayne Monday night. They and another family walked through deep snow to a lighted farm home nearby and remained until Tuesday. Such experiences were common and the stalled travelers found the farm and town people most cordial. One rural home housed nine besides the regular family. Hotels were crowded everywhere. Among the people stranded were some of the college cadets, about 30 being in Norfolk, and 10 in Sioux City Sunday for the day.

Losses Are Low.
Temperature in this week's storm did not go low and this fact helped greatly in preventing livestock loss. The development of the blizzard Saturday night and early Sunday also gave warning so that stock raisers had time to get animals into shelter.

Some loss of turkeys and poultry resulted. Turkeys are not sensitive to cold as much as to being wet and crowded. Myron Colson and his helpers walked to the Colson turkey farm about two miles west of town Sunday and Monday to care for the birds. By working steadily all day Sunday they were able to get the fowls in sheds and barns. When they examined the flock Tuesday they found that 60 birds had been lost, some from crowding and others from getting wet from snow that drifted into buildings. It is expected that some chickens, especially those in the habit of roosting in trees, were lost.

Corn to Be Picked.
Some farmers had completed their corn harvest when the storm struck in spite of a help shortage. Most, however, have a week or two of picking yet to do. They will complete this as soon as weather permits.

Use Telephone Service.
Fortunately telephone service was not interrupted by the storm and people everywhere used this means of communication to send necessary messages. Local and long distance calls in Wayne broke all records. The same situation is reported in Omaha, Fremont and Norfolk and likely obtained all over the storm area. Much extra help was used in the local office.

Horale correspondents were unable to get their news in by mail so the telephone was used to provide this service.
Telegraph service was not interrupted by the blizzard. Though messages did not come to Wayne until Monday afternoon, it is thought that the congestion caused this delay.

The bus that went east out of Wayne Sunday afternoon stalled three miles east of Wakefield. After some hours, it managed to get back to Wakefield late that night and passengers remained there over night. No buses operated through here Monday or Tuesday but service resumed Wednesday.

Tracks Are Cleared.
Train service on the Crofton branch Monday and on the Bloomfield branch Tuesday was annulled. A freight that left Emerson Monday afternoon at 3 had to return. So many trains on the main lines between Omaha, Sioux City and Minnesota points were stalled that most of the train equipment was sent to those regions to clear tracks first. Some trains out of Omaha were annulled. A snow plow started Tuesday night to clear lines in this vicinity. Branches out of Wakefield and Wayne were cleared Wednesday so that trains operated on schedule that day.

Full Cooperation Will Keep Peace

Opinions of Air Students Are Compiled for Club in Wayne Monday.

Full cooperation among nations of the world with military forces sufficient to maintain this cooperation is the way young men of Wayne college detachment would maintain peace in the post-war world, according to Prof. C. M. Danskin who spoke to Kiwanians Monday.

Prof. Danskin recently issued questionnaires to army men here. Compiling the returns on 105, he found that he had a fairly representative cross section of youths from different parts of the country and from various walks of life. The most notable observation is that practically the entire group think alike. The ideas of men who are in the armed forces will be a major factor in determining world policy after the war.

The college instructor found that 95 per cent of the men are determined to make a permanent peace. Their fathers won World War I but the peace was bungled. The young folks feel that their fathers' efforts were not lost because they showed the world that democracy is the form of government that will survive. They realize that to build, it is often necessary to blast. Like extending a road through mountains, it is often essential to blast out parts of the mountain. So with democracy, it is now necessary to blast out Hitler and Hirohito to extend democracy to all people.

The young men realize that it was impossible for the United States to remain neutral. "We had to help the united nations or we would have been aiding the axis," stated Prof. Danskin. Pacifists, isolationists and internationalists are all working toward the same goal, world peace, though they fa-

Schools Have Recess.
Practically all schools closed Monday and most of them resumed in towns Tuesday. Rural schools also closed and many of them were unable to open for a few days because of condition of the roads.

Towns of this area were supplied with fuel and food sufficient to provide for all needs.
A hen and seven baby chicks were found in two feet of snow under the eaves of a granary at O. G. Nelson's. The hen had hatched seven of nine eggs during the storm. Mr. Nelson took the hen and her little family to shelter.

Harry Nelson, farmer near Wausa, died November 3.

Book Week is Coming!

BOOK WEEK - 1943
NOVEMBER 14-20

BOOK WEEK, November 14-20, will be celebrated in our community under the leadership of librarians and teachers and throughout the nation, boys, girls and their parents will rally to the slogan, "Build the Future with Books."
In this war year, the aims of the observance—to bring young people and good books together—is even more vital than in peacetime. As the editor of The Horn Book states: "The children of today will tomorrow face great opportunities and tremendous responsibilities. The manner in which they face both will depend upon the imaginative spur received in these years of childhood."
The exhibits and programs planned in our community contribute to that "imaginative spur" and visitors to local libraries, schools and bookstores will find much to interest them, and activities to share during Children's Book Week.

Full Cooperation Will Keep Peace

Full cooperation among nations of the world with military forces sufficient to maintain this cooperation is the way young men of Wayne college detachment would maintain peace in the post-war world, according to Prof. C. M. Danskin who spoke to Kiwanians Monday.

Prof. Danskin recently issued questionnaires to army men here. Compiling the returns on 105, he found that he had a fairly representative cross section of youths from different parts of the country and from various walks of life. The most notable observation is that practically the entire group think alike. The ideas of men who are in the armed forces will be a major factor in determining world policy after the war.

The college instructor found that 95 per cent of the men are determined to make a permanent peace. Their fathers won World War I but the peace was bungled. The young folks feel that their fathers' efforts were not lost because they showed the world that democracy is the form of government that will survive. They realize that to build, it is often necessary to blast. Like extending a road through mountains, it is often essential to blast out parts of the mountain. So with democracy, it is now necessary to blast out Hitler and Hirohito to extend democracy to all people.

The young men realize that it was impossible for the United States to remain neutral. "We had to help the united nations or we would have been aiding the axis," stated Prof. Danskin. Pacifists, isolationists and internationalists are all working toward the same goal, world peace, though they favor different methods. Boys in the army feel kindly toward others of the united nations, Prof. Danskin reported. They are very broad-minded. They favor cooperation for the common good.

Democracy Works Fast.

This country might be referred to as the "sleeping giant," the term once used to characterize Russia, until 1939. Though men were trained as scientists, athletes, etc., their development was directed to peaceful pursuits. The nation was not protected with anti-aircraft and such installations. America had a good fleet but not sufficient for two oceans. Though Hitler is crafty, he was not smart to attack democracy, as results are proving, for the democratic way leads to great accomplishment in a short time.

Prof. Danskin reported that the younger fellows, those who just left college, are exceptionally well informed on world affairs. He found the boys from Texas and California more state conscious than those from other areas. Jokingly, he said that the Texans appreciate the help the rest of the country is giving them in beating the axis.

One young man who had lived in Norway reported on his questionnaires that the king in that country inspired respect for the central government and tended to keep people from becoming radical. The king is a symbol of a national ideal, though democratic principles are followed.

Air Power Will Help.
The army boys are of the belief that after the war great air travel and other developments will do much to cement nations together. But they feel that it will be necessary to maintain armed forces to enforce peace. They do not favor disarmament. They would show warlike nations that peace will be defended. Finally, they insist that this must be a war to end wars. With this ideal, the boys are anxious to do their part.

In conclusion, Prof. Danskin reported that boys stationed here are wonderfully delighted with the hospitality shown in small centers such as Wayne.

Production Goals Fixed for Year

Next year's production goals for Nebraska ask for 85 per cent as many spring pig litters as were farrowed out in the spring of 1943. Wayne county farmers were informed last week. In addition, farmers are asked to fatten the remaining 1943 spring pigs and fall pigs to weights of 200 to 230 pounds instead of from 240 to 250 pounds as they have been averaging in the recent months.

Ceiling prices on corn are favorable to a "fair income" to the good hog producer but other feed grains like barley and oats have increased in price to the extent that the margin of pork profits from them is narrow. The potato supply is less than a year ago and with alfalfa prices as they are, hog men will not have as favorable an outlook as they had this year.

NEW KIND TOMATO WILL MAKE DEBUT

A new tomato variety, yet unnamed, is going to make its "debut" in Nebraska in 1944. It is one of three selections from crosses between Stokedale and All-Red varieties made by Dr. H. O. Werner of the College of Agriculture.
Right now, the most promising of the three selections is simply known as No. 18. It is what is called an indeterminate type of tomato, having a fairly large vine like the Stokedale variety but possessing some of the producing ability and earliness of the more determinate type of tomatoes.
Dr. Werner says the new variety to be officially named later, will be recommended for general use throughout the state. Seed is expected to be made available to Victory gardeners and others through the normal commercial seed channels.

Postwar Planning THE CURRENT Kiwanis Magazine tells the story of postwar planning by Albert Lea, town of 12,000 in Minnesota. A careful survey has been made to ascertain replacements and other improvements that may be expected to follow the war with assured chances for employment.

If the community will be short 593 jobs for its available workers after the war, some way must be found to satisfy the demands of those workers. If jobs are not found for these men of Albert Lea, and for the men in Albert Leas all over this country, private enterprise may lose its stake in our national economy.

Field of Politics LAST WEEK'S elections testify to democracy's readiness to change when convinced that a change is advisable. The middle west showed gathering opposition to the new deal three years ago, and it poured forth an avalanche of disapproval in last year's elections.

Politics in the United States where most voters are not hobbled by party ties, often changes its course according to the dictum of independent thinking. People are not as a rule such uncompromising partisans that they will refuse to change in the face of compelling facts.

Blizzard Reminder THE DIFFERENCE between the intensity of this week's snow storm and that of the early-day blizzard is the difference between protecting trees, fences and buildings and the clear sweep of unbroken prairies. The storm's plans and intentions were about the same, but fulfillment was measurably curtailed by modern improvements on every quarter section.

A critical period is believed in prospect between the fall of Germany and the defeat of Japan. As explained by one business commentator, reconversion to civilian output will be delayed by demand for production to finish the Nipponese. In adjustments incident to the change, it is believed there will be much unemployment.

The inevitable consequence of inadequate patronage led the railroads to yield to trucks in carrying mail, and this week's storm gave substance to the suspicion of no improvement in service. One advantage from railroad hauling was in the fact that along the line could report accurately when trains would arrive. No telegraph convenience accompanies a mail truck and its whereabouts is uncertain until it reaches its destination.

The allied pact entered into at Moscow is hailed as a signal contribution to victory, and whatever one may think of Russia's communistic activities in pre-war years, it is a fact that it is a powerful force in combating this country's enemies.

This week's stretch without mail is the longest within a thirty-year recollection. But the isolation was not so complete as it was under similar storm conditions in the early days when there were no radios to give the highlights in the outside news.

Hitler's reign of terror has been stepped up among his own soldiers. In a recent harangue he threatened them with death if they failed to stay by their guns. The mad tyrant is determined to sacrifice his men in making his final stands.

Recounting grounds looking to readjustment and reconstruction, the Saturday Evening Post concludes: "It's high time in this war to prepare for peace. Some agency ought to be officially designated to make plans for the transition from full wartime production to peacetime production."

Economists predict a lower standard of living, and we are wondering if it will not find a lot of us already sufficiently down the scale to satisfy the revised order.

If pain is as friendly and corrective as some philosophers have declared, people must have realized plenty of that kind of helpful treatment in recent years. Burdens incidental to the war have caused many pains.

Speaking of one trial modifying another and perhaps greater one, we heard a fellow say a dog was relieved to have fleas because they made him forget he was a dog.

We envy the fellow who can smile with nothing to smile at.

All's Right With the World. (The Friendly Adventurer) The sun rises at its appointed time and sheds its golden glow over the world.

The rich soil invites the seeds. Trees and rocks and minerals are ready for the hands of builders and creators. New chemical elements await discovery.

There isn't anything wrong with the world. It offers us the tools and materials of prosperity. It gives us the beauty of heaven. It gives us the peace of nature.

All's right with the world, but man has gone haywire again. Selfish men have set out to conquer and enslave and destroy. Hate, tolerance and fear have created the hell of another war.

How long, O God, how long must men live on this planet before they learn that war causes all to lose and none to gain, and that peace and happiness are won only through understanding, brotherhood and good will?

Let us highly resolve not again to lose the peace that follows victory.

We Need a Strong Word. (Norfolk Daily News) "There is no right to strike against the public safety by anyone, anywhere, any time."

When Gov. Calvin Coolidge wrote those words in a letter to President Samuel Compers of the American Federation of Labor in 1919, while the Boston police strike was threatening to turn the city over to the hoodlums, Governor Coolidge's friends told him they would no doubt end his public life.

"Very likely," he said, but he wrote the words and sent the letter. Instead of ending his public life, those words made him president of the United States.

The people were waiting for just such a manifestation of courage and the applause was universal. The next year Coolidge's popularity upset the slate in the republican national convention and by the force of his popularity with the people Coolidge beat out the GOP leaders' selection and was nominated for vice president. Three years later he was president.

THE MIDWEST.

A midwestern—at least one with first-hand information about the midwest—must be on the staff of the New York Times. He has often written of the unflagging spirit, undaunted courage of this vast area that divides the far east from the far west. He says a trip through this land makes one proud of his country and confident of its future.

TURNING TIDE

Jim Farley, former democratic national committee chairman, summed up the popular feeling that turned against the new deal in last week's elections by saying: "The American people are tired of being kicked around." The Lincoln Journal comments that "the new deal has sickened many of the democrats and alarmed the republicans by the dogged determination of its spokesmen to drive ahead along their old lines of remaking America to their heart's desires, and by their refusal to heed public protests."

Washington, D. C. October 28, 1943. Latest information coming from the provost marshal general's office regarding the civilians who were on Wake Island and captured by the Japanese is that 400 of the original 1,146 have not yet been heard from. Among those who have been heard from are Leo S. Fraley of Wahoo and Edwin D. Chambers of York, prisoners at Osaka, Japan, and Floyd A. Snyder, who is a prisoner at Shanghai, China. No direct word has yet been received from Vernon John Hansen of Wahoo, and Haffor H. Olson of Columbus. The latter two are believed to be prisoners in Shanghai. Efforts are being made to get more information about them.

Most of the civilian workmen on Wake Island, of whom there were 31 Nebraskans, and all of whom were captured by the Japanese, are supposed to be in Kiang-Wan, which is 10 miles out of Shanghai, China. A Swiss representative visited that camp on March 15, 1943. He reports that this is one of the best of the Japanese camps. It is much better than the others, he reported to the state department, because an American marine captain was made commissary officer. The American civilian prisoners, considered prisoners of war by the Japanese, live in heated wooden barracks. There are a number of American doctors among them who are allowed to minister to their wants. There are several other camps in Japan in which American civilians are interned. They were last visited during June of this year by a Swiss representative, who reports that these camps are not as good as the camp near Shanghai.

The house committee on agriculture has been holding hearings on a bill which would eliminate all taxes on and most of the restrictions against oleomargarine. The oleo, soap, cotton seed oil, and other interests have been testifying in favor of the bill. The opponents of the bill—the dairy people and members interested in butter and the farmers who milk the cows—will testify against the bill on November 15. Efforts will be made to kill the bill in committee. Oleo consumption is increasing enormously.

Merlin Hull of Wisconsin, a member of congress who has been fighting for the milk and butter farmers, is telling his colleagues that while at home during the recent recess, he experimented with butter and oleo. He states that a fox on one farm refused to eat oleo, but ate butter. The same experiment, Mr. Hull says, was made with a litter of pigs. The pigs ate the butter but refused to eat the oleo.

The proposed tax bill is having much difficulty in the house committee on ways and means. Nearly every day members come out of committee meeting saying that they just can't agree. Their search for new sources of revenue has led them to meditate a federal sales tax but that idea, too, has hit rough weather. It is likely to be late November when the new revenue bill is reported to the house of representatives.

A new outbreak of departmental differences is being averted before the house committee on military affairs. The war department insists that all army accounts shall be audited by army officers and without the general accounting office butting in. Lindsay Warren, the honest and able comptroller general, has attacked the war department chieftains for seeking to evade control of the GAO over its accounts. The GAO audits all other departmental accounts and is doing a good job.

Mr. Warren demands that the war department shall be prevented from making contract settlements. He charges that its ways are "amazing and astounding," that its regulations will permit a "grand cover" and absolutely preclude any chance to detect frauds. He condemns numerous settlements with contractors proposed by the department. By way of illustration, he mentioned a few of many instances in which the department officials had allowed contractors' charges that the GAO afterwards discovered and disapproved, and in some cases recovered the funds from the greedy contractors.

Some of these items are small compared with the present enormous expenditures being made for war purposes, but they indicate how the results are drained by loose practices. Not all contractors are dishonest, but some few are. Mr. Warren told of an allowance by department officials of $366,000 for faulty materials, of bills presented for flowers, and $10,000 spent for liquors for officers' clubs abroad. Trucks hired by officers were allowed $211,621 when full payment had already been made. Another grabber included charges of $1,500 for a Liberty truck which had been in use 25 years, and $2,000 for a steam-roller made in 1912. A bill for "transportation" of a contractor's dog, and another for 41 hours' work in one day for one employee, were caught and disallowed by the GAO after receiving the approval of departmental auditors. A claim of $225 for a spare set of false teeth was presented by one contractor. There were many larger claims branded as fraudulent, including one for $1,100,000 for materials furnished by the government, that the contractor wanted paid a second time.

Many of the letters that members of the war department receive from the front discuss the ceiling prices on cattle and hogs. CPA is being bombarded by the delegation to do something to relieve the livestock price situation.

The United States government can only receive information about prisoners of war or civilian internees held in enemy countries, through the international Red Cross, via Swiss or Portuguese channels. The international Red Cross in Switzerland usually cables information to the United States from Geneva. The information first goes to the provost marshal general in the war department and is then relayed to the state department. Names come in almost daily from all parts of the world. The congressional offices keep in daily touch with the war department and state department for latest information about friends or relatives of constituents.

Miss Agnes Roberts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Roberts of Eldon, and Pfc. Robert Tuttle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Tuttle of Hartington, were married October 26. They left for Yuma, Ariz.

Christian Science Services

"Mortals and Immortals" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, on Sunday, November 14.

The Golden Text is: "If ye live after the flesh, ye shall die; but if ye through the Spirit do mortify the deeds of the body, ye shall live" (Romans 8:13).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Wash you, make you clean; put away the evil of your doings from before mine eyes; cease to do evil; Learn to do well; . . . Come now, and let us reason together, saith the Lord; though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool" (Isaiah 1:16, 17, 18).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Through toil, struggle and sorrow, what do mortals attain? They give up their belief in perishable life and happiness; the mortal and material return to dust, and the immortal is reached . . . It is only by acknowledging the supremacy of Spirit, which annuls the claims of matter, that mortals can lay off mortality and find the indissoluble spiritual link which establishes man forever in the divine likeness, inseparable from his creator" (pp. 536, 491).

Public Speaking Awards Planned
Wayne county 4-H boys and girls can now win handsome scholarships and other awards and at the same time improve their speaking as a result of a program announced at this week by radio station KFAB, Lincoln.

State Club Leader L. J. Frisbie sent the details to County Agent Walter R. Harder today. Harder Feltis, general manager of the Central States Broadcasting System and Earl Williams of KFAB said their company is making the awards possible to encourage 4-H clubs and particularly to promote the art of public speaking.

To the high ranking boy and girl in the State "timely topic speaking contest" will go a $150 scholarship each. The scholarship to be used at the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture. All-expense trips to the state public speaking contest will be awarded to winners in each of the seven district contests. County winners will get awards of a practical value.

Any 4-H club boy or girl is eligible to compete for the KFAB awards, County Agent Walter R. Harder says. Although the county, district and state contests will not be held until next spring, now is the time to plan on competing for the awards. Any 4-H boy or girl may select any timely topic for the contests and will be allowed to speak not longer than eight minutes.

Care of Asparagus Told by Specialist

Regarding care of asparagus, Extension horticulturist E. H. Hoppert says it is important to single dig the asparagus bed yet this fall, leaving the ground rough to catch the snow. The freezing and thawing during the winter will help to mellow the surface soil and erode then a single harrowing will smooth the surface at the earliest possible date to permit the early sprouts to develop.

But it is not advisable to apply a heavy coat of "straw" manure now or during the winter to the asparagus beds. Such treatment, Hoppert warns, retards the early warming up of the soil and thereby sprout emergence is delayed.

Asparagus responds favorably to manuring but it should be applied when the cutting season is about over. But manure applied now cannot possibly help the yield in 1944.

Marry at Service In Western City

Miss Glea Dee Gifford Is Bride of Harley Homan Sunday, October 17.

Miss Glea Dee Gifford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur H. Gifford of Puyallup, Wash., formerly of Wayne, became the bride of Harley M. Homan of Montana, now in the coast guard in Seattle, Sunday, October 17, at Peace Lutheran church in Puyallup. Rev. Mr. Jahr performed the ceremony in the presence of relatives and friends. A friend of the Giffords sang "At Dawning" before the rites.

Bronze, yellow and white dahlias in tall baskets and white candelabra were on the altar where white altar cloths and Bible mats were of white velvet. In the aisle were six candelabra with five white tapers in each. A bouquet of white pompons and ferns, tied with colored tulle, were on each candelabra. A white aisle carpet was spread by the ushers just before the bridal party entered the church.

Mrs. Allen Bradford and Miss Jane Willey lighted the tapers before the service. The former wore light ice blue satin basque and white taffeta flowered skirt, real full. Miss Willey wore dark rose taffeta. Sandra and Leah Jacques were flower girls. Sandra wore rose satin under white net, short and full. Leah's dress was the same in blue with white net. Each carried a little white basket of bronze, yellow and white pompons. Freddie Smith was ring bearer. He carried the rings on a white satin pillow.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore heavy slipper satin gown of white made with long train and sweetheart neckline trimmed with pearls. Her strand of pearls was a gift of the bridegroom. Her veil which fell from a head band trimmed with seed pearls was fingertip length in front and longer in the back. Miss Gifford's bouquet was of white rosebuds and gardenias tied with white satin show-er ribbons.

Mr. Homan and his attendants, who met the bridal party at the altar, wore their coast guard dress uniforms.

A reception for 65 guests was held at the Gifford home. A three-tier square cake with ornaments atop and a bridegroom's cake centered the table. Miss Ruth Peters cut the bride's cake and Miss Irene Homan, sister of the bridegroom, cut the other. Mrs. Ivan Fitch and Mrs. Delmar Fitch helped with serving. Mrs. Lucille Bradford Carey also assisted.

The young folks left the evening of the wedding for Seattle and later spent a couple of days in Vancouver, Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Homan will make their home in Seattle where the

Manpower Shortage Is Explained Here

The manpower shortage in Nebraska was stressed last Thursday evening at a meeting sponsored by Wayne Chamber of Commerce at Hotel Stratton, about 35 attending. Mr. Ignifritz of Mead, Mr. Steffen and Mr. Peterson of Norfolk, were present to speak.

The plan is not to take away workers needed in local communities. At present the aim is to interest farmers who can spare a few months during the winter. Persons leaving farms to help in plants must agree to return to farming March 1. Under such provision, war plants will train men and women during the winter period. No previous knowledge of the work is needed.

Motion pictures of operation of Nebraska war plants were shown to the group.

Mrs. Ed. Stipsky came from Franklin Thursday to spend a few days with Mrs. R. E. Marek.

former is stationed. Mrs. Homan, who was graduated from nurse's training two years ago, has been employed in a Seattle hospital.

Winter in California.

Rains are falling in Long Beach so winter is approaching, writes Laura E. Lyons.

Dim-out regulations were modified on the coast November 1. Miss Lyons states that 25 tons of tomatoes spoiled at a Burbank factory because no help could be secured to can them. Eggs are from 72c to 75c a dozen in the west.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Brown, formerly of Wayne, are now great grandparents.

First payments were made Saturday, November 6, and the incentive rates established apply to produce sold in October, November and December this year. Will Use Mails For Health Seals

Christmas seals will be sold through the mail in Wayne county this year and school children will not sell seals, the Nebraska Tuberculosis association reported. Miss Marie Wright of Wayne, will be in charge here.

For several years Christmas seals have been sold in this county by school children and many parents have helped them, especially in the rural districts, by using their autos in going to the neighbors, the association pointed out.

"Due to the national emergency," said Dr. J. Harry Murphy, president of the Nebraska Tuberculosis association, "we are not going to call upon the teachers and children to carry on this worthwhile project but will use the mail to get the good health message to you. There will not be anyone at your door this year selling Christmas seals."

Half of the money raised stays in this county to promote better health among the county's residents, especially children.

Students Present Concert Tonight

Vocal and instrumental concert will be presented by college students this Thursday evening at 7:45 in the school auditorium. Prof. John R. Keith and Prof. Russell Anderson are in charge.

Lesson on Morale Is Scheduled Soon

Members of the Wayne county home demonstration project clubs this month are discussing morale in the home at the meeting November 19 in Winside Methodist church. Better letter writing to the men in the service is also coming in for attention.

Using a circular prepared by Dr. Leland H. Stott, associate professor of research in family relations at the University of Nebraska college of agriculture, the project clubs are discussing how parents must assume more responsibility toward family morale. The urgent need for parents to accept this responsibility is seen in the reports of increases in juvenile delinquency coming from all parts of the country.

Of chief interest to the homemakers in project clubs are the wartime objectives as listed by Dr. Stott. In time of war, the training and guidance of youth are especially difficult and it is important that parents work to provide home conditions most favorable to the best development of their children.

The "brushing" up on letter writing is also interesting home-makers, many of whom have sons or relatives in the armed forces.

To Conference in Lincoln.

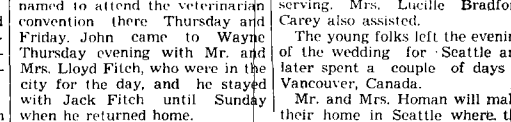

Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. conference was held at Nebraska Wesleyan in Lincoln Saturday and Sunday. Miss Ruth Paden, Miss Barbara Hook, Grant VanBoening and Prof. G. W. Costerisan attended from Wayne. Miss Bette Blair took the Wayne folks to Lincoln in her car. The group was stranded by the storm in Wahoo Sunday and Monday.

Cpl. and Mrs. Charles Rose left Monday for Fort Sill, Okla., where the former is in the infantry, after they had visited since Sunday last week here with the former's brother, Capt. M. F. Rose, and family.

Dr. and Mrs. W. M. Hawkins and John of Heron Lake, Minn., came to Sioux City last week, the first named to attend the veterinarian convention there Thursday and Friday. John came to Wayne Thursday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Fitch, who were in the city for the day, and he stayed with Jack Fitch until Sunday when he returned home.

Simplify Rulings In Meat Slaughter

OPA changed its meat rationing regulation to simplify the requirements covering point-free home consumption of meat by livestock producers.

WFA authorized an individual to slaughter for home consumption without a license or permit if he is entitled under OPA regulations to consume the meat point-free.

"We are attempting to make the requirements covering home slaughter and point-free meat consumption as clear and simple as possible, both to aid the farmer and to conserve meat supplies for civilian and military use," the two agencies explained.

"It is of the utmost importance that livestock producers understand who may and who may not slaughter without a license and consume meat point-free.

"Meat obtained from slaughtering on the farm provides a large segment of the population with its meat needs. Under wartime rationing, it is necessary to set limitations on the point-free consumption of this meat, in order that as much as possible may become a part of the total supply available for rationing.

"Farmers and others who produce livestock may, of course, continue to serve at their own table the meat they raise without giving up ration points. The simplified limitations make it clear, however, that those who are not bona fide producers of livestock are not entitled to eat more meat than their ration stamps will buy."

Under the OPA revision a person may consume meat without giving up ration points only if he raised the livestock from birth or (2) for a period of 60 days immediately before slaughter, or (3) the weight has increased at least 35 per cent between the time he acquired the livestock and the time of slaughter.

In all three instances, the raising of the livestock must take place on a farm or other place which the livestock producer operates.

In addition, to be considered eligible to slaughter and consume meat point-free, a person must have resided more than six months of each year on a farm which he operates, or must have visited the farm for the purpose of giving personal attention and supervision to the raising of the livestock on his premises for at least a third of the time during the period (one of those listed above) on which he bases his claim to the right to consume the meat point-free.

Civilian Flight Instructors Get Deserved Praise

Civilian instructors in primary flying schools of the army air force training command are doing wonderfully effective work and they are being pushed ever harder and harder in the huge war program.

These instructors must do more and more work, more and more efficiently and in less and less time, according to Capt. Milton F. Rose, who wants the public to appreciate the valuable services of these "unsung heroes."

The glamor of civilian instructors grows pale at the fires they are helping build on combat fronts grow brighter and brighter.

Most civilian instructors would rather be in combat than where they are. But the government realizes the importance of this first instruction, for it has placed them in the enlisted reserve corps where they are members of an army component but not on active army duty.

Army air forces insist that the civilian instructor stay where he is. He can create 40 to 100 pilots whereas he himself constitutes only one. His job is hard. It is up to him to solo "green" students within 12 hours and to teach them how to fly with precision at 60. He has an added responsibility in determining who of the students will be able to continue in this branch of service. He is a specialist of the first order.

These civilians, who are responsible for shaping the pilot's entire career by starting him down the right track, deserve the appreciation of all. Concludes Capt. Rose.

Stanley Fuller and his staff are civilian instructors for Wayne army unit.

Library News

Preparations are underway for the observance of Children's Book Week. This is the 25th annual celebration of this week in the United States. The motto chosen for this year is "Build the Future with Books."

This is a nation-wide cooperative program shared by educators, librarians, scout leaders, parents, booksellers and publishers. The purpose of book week is to encourage in boys and girls the love of books, to increase public appreciation of children's books, to increase support for public book facilities and to encourage home companionship through books.

The boys and girls whose future we are fighting to safeguard are now growing up and playing their part in wartime conditions. They are asking for books as never before, books on development of human freedom, books on history and the lives of the men who founded our institutions.

They are also asking for books about the nations of the world, the nations with whom we are working more closely and with whom we will build a better world. They are asking for books about science and industry and trade; about the rapid changes that are coming to our ways of doing things. They are asking for "story" books, books of poetry and imagination which have helped to build our heritage of courage, faith and fair play.

It would be a fine thing if all parents would take the time to come to the library with their children next week and see the display of beautiful books for the children. Also watch for a display in a downtown window.

The Mothers' club is meeting at the library November 18 for a discussion of children's reading.

By request the poem used in this column during Children's Book week last year is repeated as follows:

"He who gives a child a book Gives that child a sweeping look Through its pages Down the ages;

"Gives that child a ship to sail Where the far adventures hail Down the sea Of destiny;

"Gives the child a vision—wide As the skies where stars abide Anchored in The love of him;

"Gives that child great dreams to dream, Sunlit ways that glint and gleam Where the sages' tramp the ages."

Pierce school safe was entered Monday night last week and $166 belonging to organizations was taken.

Lawrence Retzlaff of Pierce, former Wayne student, has been promoted to corporal. He is in Greenland.

Virgil Lingenfelter of Plainview, former Wayne student, was commissioned second lieutenant in the marine corps reserve upon graduation from the training center at Corpus Christi, Texas, October 30.

Is Graduate Pilot.
Marvin E. Thomas of Wayne, is one of 43 Nebraskans who were graduated as pilots from Randolph field, Texas, command November 3. He earned commission of second lieutenant.

Writes Appreciation.
Harold Barnett, seaman first class, writes from Ottumwa, Ia., to express appreciation for weekly visits of the Herald. He gives assurance that all the boys from Wayne county really appreciate home news.

FORMER INSTRUCTOR EARNS PROMOTION

Dr. H. D. Griffin who is stationed in Omaha, has been promoted to captain. He is in the adjutant general department. Capt. Griffin is a former member of Wayne college staff.

Collects Gas Masks.

First Sgt. Wm. A. Lerner, with a chemical division overseas, writes that he is making a collection of gas masks. He has French, German, Italian and English besides American and now wishes to get one of the Jap variety.

MELVIN PFUND NOW PROMOTED TO MAJOR

Melvin Pfund of Norfolk, former Wayne student, has been promoted to major. He has been stationed with the army air corps at Alexandria, La., since returning from the Pacific where he earned several distinctions.

Storm Cancels Trip.

Master Sgt. Robert Adams, who has been stationed at Wendover, Utah, was to have spent one day with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Adams, before leaving for overseas but was stranded Sunday by the storm between Fremont and Lincoln and didn't reach Wayne.

Good Paper Serves Camp.

A copy of the Prairie Schooner, a paper printed at Salinas, Kan., and dedicated to soldiers at Camp Phillips, has been sent by Sgt. Christian E. Barcholz. The 16-page edition is filled with news, features and advertising. The paper is a civilian enterprise and is printed each Friday for the boys.

Earns Silver Wings.

Frank Carlisle, jr., of Norfolk, formerly of Wayne, was graduated last Wednesday by the army air corps at Yuma, Ariz. He earned his commission as second lieutenant and received his silver wings. He pilots a B-25. He will spend a short leave with his parents in Norfolk. The young man's brother, Ensign Robert Carlisle, also formerly of Wayne, has a New York address.

Writes from England.

Lt. Leonard Martens, now in England, writes that he is sending copies of the "Yank" and "Stars and Stripes." The former is a weekly paper put out by army personnel in London and seems very popular with "us Yanks." "Stars and Stripes" is printed daily and is the soldiers' version of the Omaha World-Herald. Of course it is very abbreviated in both size and contents. The shortage of news print makes it necessary to cut down to a minimum, and advertising is limited.

Lt. Martens, recalling the effort of some in Wayne to organize a bicycle club, says that bicycling is a necessity in England. The entire population from 8 to 80 participates 100 per cent.

Moves to Louisiana.

Pvt. John W. Bressler writes that he has moved again and this time to Camp Folk, La. On his previous transfer the youth urged that his address be correct for if it is not he gets "gigged" and he feels that he gets plenty of "gigs" without any unnecessary ones.

The men have been spending nights out of doors on the ground and they sleep well though the blankets are quite wet from heavy dew each morning. "A lot of experience and a lot of work are managers but I'm glad to get in on some of them," he adds.

Pvt. Bressler writes that he'll be back in barracks November 15 and will then write to his friends through the Herald. "The Herald is a most welcome weekly visitor and I only wish it came more often."

WAYNE STATERS ARE ON MUSICAL FACULTY

Frank Gansbie, petty officer second class, arrived from Washington, D. C., Tuesday last week to visit until this Thursday or Friday with his mother, Mrs. F. E. Gansbie. The young man has recently been appointed to the faculty of the navy school of music and instructs in theory and ear training dictation. He also conducts small instrumental ensembles and appears on the weekly broadcast from the navy station over the Mutual network Friday evenings from 6:30 to 7. Officer Gansbie studies at the Catholic university in Washington and expects to earn his master's degree in music there next spring.

Two other former Wayne college students are on the staff of the navy school in Washington. Stanley Johnson of Stanton, petty officer first class, instructor in theory and cornet. Wm. Stewart of Valentine, petty officer second class, is personal secretary to the officer in charge.

Frank appreciates keeping in touch with home folks through the Herald. He finds the paper an excellent means for busy service boys to keep in contact with each other.

In Touch with Friends.

The Herald does much to keep boys in touch with their friends in service, writes S. J. C. Fred Potras from Farrago, Idaho. All are so busy that they do not have the time they would like for writing letters, so they are pleased to learn about new locations and promotions through the paper. Fred and others from Wayne also appreciate home news. The Wayne youth sends three cheers for Wayne high school football team.

Deer are numerous and exceedingly tame in northern Idaho. One day as the youths left school they saw a young doe in the woods just outside the building. Fred and a companion walked toward the woods and coaxed the deer to them with apples which she ate from their hands. All the area around the Idaho station is a government game preserve and the deer seem to have learned that they are safe.

Fred was delighted to meet Eddie Denkinger for a short visit last week. He hopes to spend a day at Camp Scott with Gregory Stuve but the difficulty of obtaining a pass at regimental headquarters may make this impossible. Such passes are rarely issued except for a visit with a brother.

Poverty Abounds In Natural Beauty Of 'Oil-Rich Iran'

Cpl. Sam Steele, son of Ed Steele, writes from "oil-rich" Iran that it is a strange, picturesque country filled with interesting, unique sights and experiences. A letter dated October 5 to Miss Grace Steele, his aunt, follows:

"Waking up in the morning, a beautiful, rosy colored sun peaks over the mountains and winks its eye and lightens the valley down below, chasing away the darkness that had enveloped the country in its cold, damp robes. What gorgeous shadows and patterns follow her robes! The panorama of elusive shadows that flit over crags and boulders, defies all laws of nature and widens our eyes to gaze at the treasures that Mother Earth and her elements have uncovered."

"I could go on forever and ever describing our scenic wonders but even we mortals soon tire of a continuous diet, and this certainly is a diet too rich under present circumstances."

"Towns—did you mention cities? Well, if you did let me give you a description of my first visit to a so-called town. Most of these towns nestle close to towering mountain ranges which feed and pour their streams into a muddy river. And usually running along the banks of these rivers is found the so-called 'civilization.'"

"We approach these towns with little or no excitement, most of our joy having been throttled by roads that are a foot deep in mud, and our once proudly pressed pants are stained and splashed by every vehicle and animal that passes us. Floundering on we reach the crest of the hill and down below, stretched out in all shapes and sizes are groups of mud-thatched buildings. This is town—incredible as it seems—but still a metropolis in this land."

"Natives of all types pass us, each one garbed in raiment that is hardly recognizable, but here and there we can distinguish a burlap bag that is doing an injustice to a coat; over here some trousers, even Aunt Matilda's quilt patch work would only run second to. As for hats, just a bunch of rags are worn in the same style as the American women wear, with very little conception as to the right angle or shape. (No stirr intended upon our fair sex.) They have no shoes, and sounds of their sopping bare feet against the mud are punctuated only by the yapping of dogs, which are as numerous as the fleas that inhabit both the natives and the canines. We scrutinize the faces, which are grimaced and streaked with dirt that has probably accumulated for months and months. It has been a known fact that the only time one distinguishes the true coloring of their skin is during the rainy season when nature washes that which otherwise would never be cleaned. All of this we gaze at with a feeling of remorse, pity and disgust.

"Now, let us leave the natives and go into the town."

"Down the hill we go, sliding, slipping, but we still go forward, for who knows what thrills lie behind those mud walls. At last we reach a cobble, filthy, winding thoroughfare that seems to be the main drag. On each side of us are the bazars, but wait! We stop and gasp for the most awful smell assaults our tender nostrils—a thousand and one odors blending their pungent aromas to stifle even the last spark of our adventurous spirit. Do we stop? No. We take a few paces forward and then, like an avalanche, herds of half-naked street urchins grab us by the coat-tails, and with their warm, pitiful faces, beg of us for alms. How can we resist? They are so pathetic in their poverty and hunger, yet for generations and generations they have been accustomed to the same hopeless environment. We dig into our pockets for small coins which we throw in all directions. But are we rid of them? No. For we are their benefactors and again we struggle onward leading a parade of coat-tail hangers. The sight of such a parade might seem ludicrous to us it was a stark and grim travesty upon the scales of justice. But no matter what we thought or felt or how we endeavored to balance the scales, there was always the heavy weight of fear, persecution and blissful ignorance. Even the hardest would have shared some of my sympathy."

"The bazars are quaint mud-thatched holes that displayed wares which were unrecognizable due to swarms of buzzing flies, that completely covered anything that was edible. Amid this spectacle of 'sanitation' could be seen other insect life that sort of broke up the monotonous workings of the flies. Our eyes filled. We soon sought some means of diversion and this was thankfully taken care of by the jabbering of the merchants, whose rapid speeches and gestures lent amusement for the first time during our pilgrimage. Seeing us, they quickly directed their voices toward us and in a hundred strange dialects tried to entice us into their shops. But not for all the money in the world were they able to draw us any closer."

"Women! Of all the sights I have seen, even though most of them were dressed in rags, these women were the only romantic sight in the whole town. They passed us and looked at us curiously. Their coquettish glances over the veils they wore was the most naive thing I have ever seen. These women are small and dainty and walk very gracefully. Their grace is in evidence especially when they are carrying baskets on their heads. Their most expressive characteristics are their large, liquid, luminous eyes which are as mysterious as the lands in which they live. Few are dressed in European style and small percentage in American. The majority wear native costumes which reach down to the ankles, just barely exposing their dainty feet which, although naked and splattered with mud, are still well shaped under the conditions to which they are subjected."

"The parade still goes on with native children, who haven't any hopes or cares or even desires to become clean, still tagging at our heels. The yapping curs, baring their yellow fangs, lend wings to our feet and as we leave the metropolis their barking can be heard in the distance. The jabbering voices of the merchants, intermingled with the braying of donkeys and the bleating of sheep blend the air into a hideous nightmare that only ceases when we are safely back into our tents."

"Life goes on, and yet as I have pictured it here, there still was a time in our own country when our people were almost in the same desperate situation. So I close my eyes and pull the blankets over my head and try to find the arm of Morpheus so that he may be able to take me away from these pitiful sights and bring me back again to watch the sun wink over the land and to smell the crisp, brown bacon that is lying on the skillet in our mess hall."

AS SEEN BY KARL STEFAN

Washington, D. C., November 4, 1943

Watch the fight on the new bill to amend the civil aeronautics act. The committee bill that may soon reach the floor of the house is being attacked as a dangerous invasion of the rights of the states in aviation matters. A minority group of the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce is backing a substitute bill that shows greater respect for the rights of the states. The entire aviation world is watching this proposed legislation.

No matter what laws congress may enact regarding the drafting of fathers, the local selective service boards will have the final say in individual cases. That is the general feeling of committee members who have selective service legislation in charge.

Thousands of men are rejected by the army and the navy because of illiteracy, but thousands are taken in despite that handicap. One army camp in six months time teaches the three R's to 3,000 men that were unable to read and write when inducted.

Argentina continues to be the worst of our "good neighbors" in South America. Just why anybody ever was fooled into believing that it was a friendly neighbor is not known. Seemingly it was just included in the generalization that all South American countries are sympathetic toward our aims and purposes. The state department has criticized its new government for hostile acts as Argentina continues to insist that it is "neutral" in the present war.

Previously, our government had forbidden any dealings with over 1,800 firms in Argentina which our secret service had found buying critical materials in this country. Lists of those enemy firms have been published occasionally, but somehow there never has been any list made public of firms in our country doing business with the Argentine double-crossers. Now, after two years, comes another list of 79 more firms in Argentina which have been helping the enemy by obtaining critically needed materials here for Germany and Japan. After all the notices given as to Argentine hostility, certainly no firm in our country could be innocently engaged in such trade. All the lambasting the state department has given the Argentine government has not been effective in stopping that particular form of "foreign trade."

It was only a few years ago that our government was coddling Argentina. A reciprocal trade treaty lowering the tariff duties on imports from that country was partially drawn, but the farm interests of the middle west prevented its consummation. Then came the loans, $100,000,000 in one instance, and $71,000,000 more to "stabilize" crop prices in the pampas. Still later, Argentine beef was declared superior to our own product, and purchases of canned beef for our army and navy amounted to $0 million dollars in a single year. Our own agricultural department sent its experts there to show the big farmers how to produce more agricultural products and improve agricultural conditions generally. The money loaned is still down there, and so may be some of the government's farm experts. Also there are thousands of farm tractors and trucks with good rubber tires, along with a lot of good farm machinery sent to Argentina.

With all the evidences of distrust and hostility displayed toward the present government of Argentina by our state department, there seem to be powerful commercial interests in our country which favor more trade with that country. Some of the large meat packing plants in Argentina are recovering nicely from her recent illness.

Helicopter buses will be plentiful in Nebraska if the inventors' program is carried out. Welch Pogue, former Nebraskan, now chairman of the Civil Aeronautics board, and his associate board members were told a job about this proposed program during hearings on post-war aviation programs.

The office of economic stabilization has finally fixed a ceiling price on cattle, which has long been demanded by the packing interests. The OPA has previously fixed ceiling prices and ration points for retail sales of meat. Under this latest order, small packers who are not processors will receive a bonus of about $10 per head for each animal slaughtered, and $110 per hundred pounds. The western cattle farmers and ranch men insist that the plan is not workable, and that the result will be a decline in meat supplies instead of an increase of production. Whether or not it works, it will require still more government job-holders to keep the books, pay the subsidies, and look after the program.

John Bouchal of Wilber, Neb., has offered his services to Uncle Sam for the duration. For nearly 22 years he served our country as a foreign service officer. He served in Egypt, Canada and Bohemia. The Nazis put him in a concentration camp for six months. He has been telling Nebraskans about that experience. He is now in New York awaiting orders from the government.

The Czechs in Washington observed the 25th anniversary of the Czechoslovakian republic at religious services, and there were a few speeches on the floor of the house of representatives. Several hundred Nebraskans got together last week at a regular meeting of the Nebraska State society. The idea is to get the 4,000 or more Nebraskans working in Washington better acquainted with each other. Mr. Blanchard was a former president of the Nebraska State society.

Who is going to get the land, the buildings, the jeeps, the tractors, the half-tracks, the canned goods, the dehydrated food, the clothing, the shoes and a gigantic assortment of other things that may be surplus at the end of the war? Congress is trying to work out the answer to that problem now. Committees are at work, but the solution is still obscure.

Hundreds of men and women who have been held by the Japanese for many months are on their way to the good old U.S.A. Communications to and from the exchange ship Gripsholm are frequent. The news these Americans are sending back is not encouraging. Their reports reveal that the Japanese military clique is in such complete control in Japan that the Japanese people hear little of the truth about the war. Food in Japan is becoming scarce but not scarce enough to dampen the war spirit.

Conditions in Philippine prison camps where Americans are interned are not good. Food is becoming scarce. Vitamins are cut far below normal average.

When the government acquired thousands of acres of land in Saunders county and other counties in Nebraska and other states on which to build war plants, school districts and other local governmental subdivisions were deprived of substantial tax revenues. A sub-committee of the house committee on public lands is investigating. Some members of that committee plan to go to Wahoo or Mead in connection with that inquiry.

Flyer Soars Low And Takes Advice

War Hazards Begin at Home For Easterner Making Plans for Service.

Lt. Ian P. McGreal, soaring around over the Kansas plains at Pittsburg, Kan., suddenly realized he was lost. He recalled flying instructors told him to swoop low over a water tower and read the name of the town, if he got lost. He spotted a tower and had to drop to five hundred feet before he could read the sign. It said, "Go to church Sunday." McGreal finally found his way back—and he went to church Sunday. This flyer's plight might have been the same as that of one who soared over Wayne one Sunday night recently.

A typographical error at Springfield, Mass., gave young women in that area a somewhat different reason for joining the W.A.C.s. The acting major issued proclamation called for observance of "WAC Day." The proclamation asked women to enlist in order that they might "relieve many able young soldiers for more active duties."

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Stinson, sr., Norfolk, whose sons, Guy, jr., and John, are in the armed forces, have a service flag that is unusual in more ways than one. The all-wool flag, which has a star and anchor for a soldier and a sailor, was first used twenty-five years ago by Mrs. S. A. Stinson, Dakota City, mother of Guy Stinson, who was in the navy. Today, twenty-five years later the flag is being used for a Guy Stinson in the army, who is a first lieutenant at Fort Ord, Calif., and a John Stinson in the navy, apprentice seaman at Berea college, Berea, Ky.

A girl complained to her companion on a suburban Chicago train that she couldn't study at home. She believed that she could do better if she went away to school. There was too much housework to do at home, she said.

Asked what she was studying, her answer was: "Home economics." The shortage of shotgun shells worried Blade Gladfelder of Columbus, until he had a bright idea. He hung his shotgun in the local bowling alley with a sign below reading, "Shotgun for rent—10 shells per day." He's getting some shells now.

An Allentown, Pa., newspaper said marines at Cherry Point, N. C., needed two pianos. Residents responded with 19 pianos, a phonograph and two juke boxes. Marine Capt. Andrew Duke messaged: "Please, no more pianos."

When Pvt. Lela Murray's alarm clock went off at 2:10 a. m., all the W.A.C.s in the barracks turned out—and then turned in again. Pvt. Mildred Williams had set the clock to wake her after an afternoon nap, and forgot to change it back.

Overweight Motor Oil Proved Non-Essential See how safe and economical a surprisingly Light grade can be with your engine Winter OIL-PLATED A motorist who kept a record for a month averaged only 2.7 miles between stops. Maybe you average twice that. Yet the "coupon shortage" means short runs—lots of stopping and starting. That's extra bad for your oil. The first hardships of Winter will find it unfit. This year, of all years, the height of economy is to change your oil promptly. The lightest suitable oil you can use is best for your engine—your battery—your gasoline economy...best for lengthening your car's future! You needn't risk any overweight grade...not when you have your engine OIL-PLATED for Winter by changing to economical Conoco Nth motor oil. The "magnetic attraction" that seems set up by a certain synthetic in Conoco Nth oil—patented—enables it to OIL-PLATE. All good plating forms a staunch protective surface, and that gives you the idea of OIL-PLATING. Now think of any OIL-PLATED part in your engine facing another OIL-PLATED part...double OIL-PLATING in between—plus Conoco Nth oil's regular-type liquid film that's extra strong! You can't get more protection than that, while with overweight oil you'd only invite needless drag and dangerous "absence" lubrication in starting cold. Don't risk it. Consult your Conoco Mileage Merchant for your lightest grade of Nth, and face Winter fully confident, with your engine OIL-PLATED. Continental Oil Co. DREAD ENGINE ACID IS FOUGHT BY OIL-PLATING Normal combustion always leaves acids inside of your engine when it stops. Formerly it seldom stood idle long. Soon mileage and speed heated your engine enough to oust acids! But nowadays rationing may force long rests, while corrosive acids gnaw. To combat corrosion, metals are plated. You combat acid corrosion with your engine OIL-PLATED. CONOCO Nth MOTOR OIL
