Plane Crash Fatal To Staff Sergeant

Full Military Honor Given S. Sgt. Francis M. Wiley In Rites Wednesday

S. Sgt. Francis M. Wiley, 23, was one of four army air men who lost their lives Thursday evening, December 23, about 8 o'clock when the B-26 Marauder which they were preparing to land at Godman Field, Fort Knox, Ky., crashed into a hill about a mile and a half away, at Colesburg, near Elizabethtown, Ky. The plane did not catch fire, but wreckage of the ship was scattered over a radius of a half mile. Word of the fatal accident came Friday to S. Sgt. Wiley's wife who makes her home here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Albert Johnson.

S. Sgt. Wiley was an aerial mechanic and had accompanied three lieutenants on an inspection tour Thursday. The four were returning from this trip. The ship was at a low altitude, as it was preparing to land, but the cause of the accident is not known. The plane had been traveling about 300 miles an hour.

Sgt. McDonald of Godman Field, accompanied the body of S. Sgt. Wiley to Wayne, arriving early Monday, just two weeks to a day after the Wayne young man had left for Kentucky following a 15-day leave at home. Willard Wilcox of the Beckenbauer mortuary met Sgt. McDonald and the body in Sioux City.

Funeral rites, with full military honors, were conducted Wednesday afternoon at 2 from Hartington Congregational church with Rev. Harry Goughy officiating. Sixteen aviation students from Wayne college, air corps detachment, the army's official number for one having the rank of staff sergeant, took part in the rites at Hartington and conducted military committal at Greenwood cemetery in Wayne. As part of the final service, aviation students presented the American flag to the escort, Sgt. McDonald, who in turn gave it to Mrs. Wiley. The escort and firing squad consisted of Aviation Students R. J. Sykes, W. G. Schaffer, A. C. Edwards, D. B. Barra, J. E. Chudecke, L. W. Hardcastle, W. Zolnerovich and P. Lazare. Pallbearers were Aviation Students M. A. Wilder, A. D. Willis, E. D. Watkins, J. A. Sassano, F. E. Waddell and G. L. Wright. Buglers were Aviation Students M. J. Rodriguez and C. F. Teufel, jr.

In April, 1942, the young man enlisted in the army air corps. He first trained at Sheppard Field, Texas, and later at MacDill Field in Florida. He had also been stationed at camps in California, Nevada, Georgia and South Carolina before going to Fort Knox, Ky. He received diplomas for expert mechanic, gunner, aerial engineer and was in the last stages of a co-pilot training course when the tragic accident occurred. S. Sgt. Wiley had been on a mission to England and Africa in October, spending some eight days in England. His air service had also taken him to New Guinea.

TWO YEARS SINCE ORGANIZATION OF COUNTY RATIONING

ON JANUARY 5 the county war price and rationing board will have been organized two years, and members who have served without pay, are commended for steadfast adherence to duty to regulate supplies and safeguard the war effort. One week after the Pearl Harbor attack, governors of the different states were asked to provide boards to look after the use of tires. From then on the rationing program grew. Sugar was first on the rationing list, and the number of users made it a huge task. Board members here and everywhere had some tough problems to solve, and inevitably have been objects of criticism. But the boards have been essential to the conservation of supplies, and their voluntary service receives much credit from the government.

Budget for County To Be Considered

STORY OF UPS AND DOWNS AS TOLD IN HERALD'S COLUMNS

A REVIEW of the year's important local events appearing in today's Herald, will prove of interest. It is a story of lights and shadows, of important achievements incident to the war and of tragedy and death. Some family circles have been saddened by the passing of dear ones; others have been gladdened by the arrival of small but precious human bundles designed for future citizenship. On account of building restrictions, improvements have not been so numerous or large as in former years, and accordingly demands have not been met. The postwar period, with government barriers lifted, promises to witness a flood of building and other improving, and then the record will be made impressive and gratifying. Awaiting that happy juncture, people are required to put on the brakes and curtail needs.

A year ago the budget of $167,144 included $68,000 for general fund, $27,500 for bridges, $44,000 for roads, $13,944 for motor vehicle fund, $10,000 for relief, $2,000 for soldiers' and sailors' relief, $2,600 for county fair.

Polls and Speculations The first of the week the Omaha World-Herald published the result of a poll it had taken to find out the relative standing in this state of presidential possibilities. It showed Governor Thomas E. Dewey far in the lead as expressed by Nebraska republicans. He was credited with 40 per cent. Willkie followed with 19 per cent, Stassen with 11 per cent, MacArthur 10 per cent, Griswold 9 per cent, Bricker 7 per cent and Taft 4 per cent. In the Third congressional district the poll showed Dewey in possession of 56 per cent. If Dewey continues to refuse to enter the contest in advance, he may become an easy convention winner.

We find astrology tackling current questions. We are not convinced the pseudo science is more than a source of amusement, and we doubt that outlying stars or planets influence people's lives. However, it is interesting to note the speculations of one who believes in astrology. He says Germany will surrender next fall, and that Governor John E. Bricker of Ohio is the likeliest republican presidential candidate. He thinks Gov. Thos. E. Dewey of New York makes the strongest popular appeal, but that he should wait another four years.

More convincing than astrology is the opinion expressed by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, selected to command allied invasion forces, that the war in Europe will be over in 1944. When the impending invasion is launched, the nazis may not long be able to resist surrender.

Senator ANENT South American spending, Time magazine gives Nebraska's Senator Butler prominent space in its latest issue, and refers to him as a "freshman" offering "astronomically wrong facts." That magazine says three writers for Readers Digest accompanied him, and it is not easily believable that all of them shot wide of the true mark in reporting the truth. The senator is not a fantastic thinker, and he is not in the habit of reckless speculations. If he finds he has exceeded what can be proved, he can be depended on to say so. But investigation with more complete returns should await definite conclusions.

We do not like the way Time magazine banters the Nebraska senator. We do not relish the facility with which the smug down-east lifts its nasal organ in contemplating what it erroneously essays as mid-western product, unlettered and inexperienced. We would advise that the mid-west supplies the east with most of its alert brains and prevents it from bogging down in a morass of helpless inefficiency. As the mid-west has contributed to the life of the industrial east, so it is now furnishing young men of surpassing courage and strength for every branch of the armed forces.

Senator Butler may or may not have erred in his figures. Due inquiry will tell. In the meantime, the east should keep on its shirt and not try to belittle a senator who is no novice in public service.

President Roosevelt has advised that the movement known as the "new deal" since 1933 has served its purpose and should now be washed up and laid to rest. If the group's numerous and costly economic experiments were as effective as they were intended to be, it would be unfair to pass up the name and try to forget it. It should be inseparably associated with what was done, and it is likely no disposition to banish it could succeed. If it has done well, it deserves to be remembered.

Varying opinions as to when the war will end cannot safely lead to a relaxation of effort. Utmost production and utmost prosecution on all fronts must keep up until the last blow has been struck and enemies have surrendered. Any slow-up would prolong the conflict. As to the invasion of enemy lands in Europe, no one can rationally urge it ahead of full and adequate preparation.

In his Christmas eve speech the president referred to those who hold aloof and think there will be no more war as "cheerful idiots." For ten years we have dared to have in mind an association of those words with some of Washington's vaunting bureaucrats, and we have a suspicion he borrowed them from us by telepathic impact.

The last week of 1943 leads people to look forward hopefully. They look to 1944 for a victorious peace and a consummation of sincerest wishes. Then an orderly world, return of absent ones, release from war restraints at home and the unfettering of enslaved nations abroad will inexpressibly enrich the customary "Happy New Year."

In view of a threatened strike the president has taken over the railroads and the government will operate them to avoid delay in war movements. Similar action was found necessary in the first world war. Cost of operation increased, but interruption in transportation was prevented.

WOMEN. Women who have been organized to help prosecute the war, and who are filling all kinds of places in civilian ranks to release men for active fighting, are certain to gain more freedom than ever in the postwar world. Women will be found on every war front and in every production plant, and their efficiency has been proved. The first World War gained access by women to places usually reserved for men. The present war is doing far more in opening avenues for members of the fair sex. Years ago they were largely restricted to house-keeping. Susan B. Anthony was one who labored long and hard for equality of the sexes, and if she were here today, she would rejoice to know what changed conditions have accomplished in attaining her aims. Women have sought equality without special privilege, and that is what they have now and in prospect in larger degree than many had expected.

A NIGHTMARE. A writer for a current magazine terrorizes taxpayers by emphasizing the size and complicated contents of the income tax forms that will have to be filled out and filed by March 15. The author says 10 millions who have never even seen a tax blank before, will be called on to report next year. He found some specially trained internal revenue clerks who could not drive through the provisions without error. The author suggests that all federal taxes be merged into one tax with a simple form that the average fellow who also has his private affairs to look after, can understand. Congress should know that people are not kicking on paying taxes for the war and for other necessary purposes, but they don't like to wade through complicated forms that often baffle a lawyer's acumen. The general counsel of the treasury is quoted as saying: "Our tax system might safely, though not wisely, irritate 4,000,000 of our citizens, but it is running serious risks when it irritates 13 times that number."

Washington, D. C. December 22, 1943. The Third district office is saddened by reported casualties among those appointed to the United States military academy and the United States naval academy.

Tom Malone, appointed to the naval academy in 1937 has been reported killed in action. The first casualty among the group was Robert Hunter of Loretto, who entered the military academy in 1935. Virgil Schwab (army) of Hooper and Eugene Huntere (navy) of Wayne have been reported missing in action. Robert Short (army) of Norfolk is a war prisoner in Germany.

General U. S. Grant III, grandson of the Civil war general, was a caller at the Third district office. He is a West Point graduate and a two-star general. He is interested in preservation of the boundary lines between Virginia, Maryland, and the District of Columbia, about which there is occasional controversy, also, in long-range national capital planning.

Tom Hughes who has been consul general at Buenos Aires and is now on his way to take up a similar job at Vancouver, B. C., hails from Kentucky. He's been in Buenos Aires three years. He reports that there are great meat supplies in the Argentine. Tenderloin steaks in cafes cost 50 cents. But, says Tom, the meat down there doesn't taste half as good as corn-fed American beef.

Best Washington Christmas story comes from the home of Congressman Carl Curtis. His 7-year-old daughter, Clara Mae, in some way got one of his congressional letter heads and wrote a message on it to Santa Claus. The congressman took his daughter to the community Christmas tree where Santa Claus was receiving letters from children. Through his mask and whiskers Santa read the letter and then addressed the Nebraska congressman: "Why congressman, I'm glad to meet you—I'm a Spanish war veteran and want to thank you for voting for sailors were on their way to London.

Among Nebraska visitors in the capitol were Ed. Apking, former editor of the Schuyler Sun, who is a Seabee and stationed near historic Warrenton, Va., and Cpl. Waitman of Platte Center, who had a 12-day furlough and was on his way to spend Christmas with his parents.

Legislation to provide mustering-out pay for veterans may be an early order of business when congress convenes on January 10. Already more than 600 thousand men have been discharged from the armed forces. Congress is very diligently investigating complaints that existing conditions of discharge sometimes create hardship and an equitable set-out of mustering-out pay and aid to return to civilian life is being sought.

Only white newspaper men have been allowed to be members of the White house correspondents' staff. Colored newspaper men are now asking to be admitted. The matter will have to be decided by the members of the newspaper fraternity. Indications are that for the first time in many years, one or two colored reporters will become members of the White house correspondents' staff.

Believe it or not, Washington is suffering an onion famine. Grocery stores say they haven't had an onion for more than a month. Butter is very hard to get. It is easy to buy oleo.

One big post-war problem is the disposition of government owned war plants. In the last war we spent about half a billion dollars on such plants. So far in this war we have spent nearly 16 billion dollars for the building, machinery and equipment of about 16 hundred plants. Some of these plants will be scrapped and private industry may get the others.

When the house adjourned Tuesday, December 21, until January 10, 1944, all hearings on bills making appropriations for the fiscal year 1945 were suspended. This work will be resumed as soon as the members return. The fiscal year 1944 will end June 30, 1944. Each federal agency is now asking for the funds to support its activities from July 1, 1944, through June 30, 1945. Members of the sub-committees are being asked to endeavor to reduce all appropriations for the regular functions of the government but to be cautious in cutting appropriations needed for the successful conduct of the war. Members are told that great events are in the making and that these events may result in ending the war sometime in 1944. The weapons of war must be kept going to those who are doing the fighting.

General U. S. Grant III, grandson of the Civil war general, was a caller at the Third district office. He is a West Point graduate and a two-star general. He is interested in preservation of the boundary lines between Virginia, Maryland, and the District of Columbia, about which there is occasional controversy, also, in long-range national capital planning.

Our sore spot in South America is Argentina, and our department of state is not minding matters with the new government of that country which was put into power by a clique of army officers who are decidedly hostile to the United nations. Daily there come reports of hostile activities, including the endeavors of Argentina to help our enemies and at the same time to draw its gold from this country with the very evident intention of letting Uncle Sam and his people "whistle" for the 171 million dollars borrowed by the previous administration. It is the one country in South America which seems determined to foster its foreign trade after the war by catering to the interests of Germany and Japan.

At this interesting juncture comes a news story of a shipment of 500,000 pounds of Argentine butter to our country. It was not bought directly by our government but by the British purchasing commission. Instead of it being shipped to England, it was brought here and taken off the hands of the British commission by the commodity credit corporation. It was discovered that the butter was not up to the standard of our own butter, so it could not be used by our armed forces. It was said to have "barn-yard flavor," a complaint often made as to dairy products imported from Argentina before the war. As a way out, the commodity credit corporation bought the butter of the British commission and sold it to various firms in eastern states, barn-yard flavor and all, and it probably soon was sold over the counter to eastern consumers who find butter of any kind scarce. Probably there will be no more barn-yard flavored butter brought in for the duration.

Christian Science Services
"God" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, on Sunday, January 2.
The Golden Text is: "Behold, the tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them, and they shall be his people, and God himself shall be with them, and be their God." (Rev. 21:3.)
Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "God that made the world and all things therein, seeing that he is Lord of heaven and earth, dwelleth not in temples made with hands; Neither is worshipped with men's hands, as though he needed any thing seeing he giveth to all life, and breath and all things." (Acts 17: 24, 25.)
The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The universe reflects and expresses the divine substance of Mind; therefore God is seen only as the sun is seen in the ray of light which goes out from it... God is infinite, the only Life, substance, Spirit, or Soul, the only intelligent of the universe, including man." (pp. 300-330.)

SERVICE NEWS

the army nurses in Africa, that she recently underwent an appendectomy. She is improving nicely according to latest word.

Writes from Overseas.

Cpl. Terry Simmerman writes his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Simmerman, of the real service the boys overseas are giving in the war. The Wayne youth likes his comrades and finds that they are going to make home folks proud of them.

Will Arrive Friday.

Cadet Herbert Welch arrives this Friday to spend a furlough with his mother, Mrs. Herbert Welch here. He was transferred last week from Scotts Field, Ill., where he took radio training, to San Antonio, Texas, where he is in the pre-flight division of the S. A. A. C. C.

In Ferrying Service.

Lt. Robert Theobald is now stationed with the ferrying division of the air transport command with headquarters at Long Beach, Cal. He will likely receive several months' special training before going into active duty. A friend of Lt. Theobald, in the same service, remarked that he had laundry on three continents.

Is in Supply Office For Plane Squadron

S 1/C Ruth Lundberg, aviation machinist mate, now stationed at Jacksonville, Fla., writes her parents of the work she is now doing. She is working in the supply office and it is a part of her duty to order all the parts that go on planes for their squadron.

Miss Lundberg likes her work very much and she also is enthusiastic about the Jacksonville station. She describes her room as having a dresser, mirrors, desk, table, chairs, closet, bookcase and running water. The young women have maid service to clean their rooms. "We go to bed when we feel like it and go to work at 7:30 in the morning. Buses take us to work and bring us back. We have three out of four nights liberty.

"The food here is better than at Norman and I didn't think that could be beaten. We eat on plates, we have glasses and napkins and sit on cushioned chairs."

At Jacksonville physical education is run on the honor system. Young women are to have three hours a week of any sport they want. All equipment is furnished.

Aleutian Climate Is Not So Frigid As Many Believe

Climate in the Aleutians isn't so frigidly cold as some around here would believe, according to Lt. (jg) Quentin Whitmore, just back from eight months in the Aleutians as co-pilot on one of the navy's flying boats.

The first snow fell October 3, but this stayed on the ground only a short time. The cold, damp snow which came to stay fell October 26. All the snow is damp so it never drifts. Most of it will melt by next July. During the summer weather gets so warm that at times one can go out with no shirt and even tend to get a tan. During the summer many brightly colored flowers spring up here and there.

Population of the Aleutians is now made up entirely of army and navy personnel. All natives were removed to Kodiak in 1941.

Lt. Whitmore had much to say about the food. The men had powdered milk and powdered eggs, and bacon "which must have been synthetic." Pork and lamb were the main fresh meats available, and it was a celebration when one had steak. Except for the last week, not much butter was available.

Recreation was pretty well taken care of, as many good pictures were shown at the theatres and there was a small gymnasium where one could play basketball. Local broadcasting stations are on the islands. Errol Flynn and his band of entertainers visited the camp at one time.

The squadron with which the young man was associated ran routine and reconnaissance patrols and was in a group which dropped bombs on Kiska. Lt. Whitmore has never been forced to bail out of a plane. He spent most of his time around Adak. He flew over Chichagot Harbor after the Japs were forced to flee that position.

Mail service was quite regular, taking as few as eight days to get mail from the states. When the mail did come it came in bunches.

It is the opinion of Lt. Whitmore that the Japs have been forced out of the Aleutians, the last going in October.

Lt. Jim Ahern and Lt. Whitmore chanced to meet not so long ago. It was the first visit these two "old" Wayne friends had had since college graduation in 1941. Another Wayne Stater, Ensign Delmar Heyne of Pender, serving in the Aleutians, and the Wayne co-pilot had a short visit.

When Lt. Whitmore arrived in Seattle he visited the Norman Eckhoffs, who were scheduled to leave December 24 for Juneau, where both will be employed in airways communications.

Lt. Whitmore arrived last week Friday to spend a 30-day leave with his wife and his parents, the S. B. Whitmores. He reports January 22 to San Diego for a new assignment. His wife will accompany him.

SIXTY SECOND YEAR

WAYNE, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 30, 1943.

NUMBER THIRTY-ONE

Library News

The library staff extends New Year's greetings to all patrons and wishes to share this resolution; more and better books for 1944!

About now the little folks will start asking, "Do you have stories here, today?" Story hour will start January 8 and will be sponsored by the Mothers club. Watch this column next week for further information about it.

There is one page of a book that probably 90 out of 100 people never notice. On this page, which usually begins, "Dedicated to the author, in one line or a paragraph gives the reader a peep-box view into his personality. These inscriptions may be gay, clever, puzzling, poetic, sentimental, sincere, or even taunting. A survey of several writers during the past few years will reveal some unique bits of writing.

Many authors, with a feeling of indebtedness and humble apology, like to inscribe their work to their family or friends. There is the fine dedication of William Shirer's Berlin Diary: "To Tess who shared so much." Allan Michie also strikes a tender note in his Retreat to Victory as he writes: "To Barbara and Bobby who have gone too long without their daddy." Ilka Chase begins Past Imperfect with this salutation: "To mother who thought it would be a good idea to try, and to Bill, who prodded me until I finished it. It is their check and it has come home to roost."

Allen Smith intrigues us in Life in a Putty Knife Factory by saying, "Ten percent of this book is dedicated to Harold Matson." And who wouldn't want to read Inside Out, by John Mason Brown, who dedicates his book to his sister "with a fondness far beyond a scalpel's reach."

So don't skip the dedicatory page

Message Received From Friend Who Came on Gripsholm

Mrs. C. F. Maynard is in good health, busy and is well cared for in Santo Tomas internment camp in the Philippines, according to a letter coming to her parents, Mrs. and Mrs. C. O. Mitchell, from Mrs. Marjorie Davis, one of the passengers on the exchange ship, Gripsholm. Mrs. Davis and her younger daughter were allowed passage on the Gripsholm because the child had been hospitalized about 18 months. Her husband and older daughter are still in the islands. Mrs. Davis writes December 20 from Liberty Corner, N. J.

The Mitchells recently had a form letter from Mrs. Maynard telling that she is well. They thought this came on the Gripsholm. Mrs. Davis mentions that the letter the Wayne folks received was undoubtedly one which she and other internees wrote just before the repatriates sailed. "We were told to write these letters in July or August. Leila (Mrs. Maynard) came into camp the first day with me, January 4, 1942, and we had beds side by side and so remained until I came away. Then she took the space I had been occupying as she had all that time been in a double decker bed with Doris Egner, the wife of one of the genetic men.

"Tell her son not to worry for she thinks of him constantly and is certainly coming home to him at the first opportunity, which we all hope is not so far away. There was no place to keep his picture out as we only had space for our beds and had to keep all our belongings under them, but she brought it out every few days, and we would all talk of those who were over here. Leila was making a very valuable stamp collection for her son—all the stamps issued by the Japanese since they took over—first covers and all, doing so in a real professional way. Some of them are already very valuable.

Is Busy in Camp.

"Leila was one of the busiest persons in camp. Aside from a full schedule of teaching, which was her 'camp job,' she was working in the university library all other hours of the day. This library was not open to the internees, but the camp was anxious to repay in any small way for the courtesies extended by university officials. They had quite a large library of old and rare books as well as new ones and these had never been catalogued, so Leila and a Mr. Strawn, who has had some experience in collecting, were undertaking the huge job of cataloguing the old books. There were over 600 volumes of 15th and 16th century books, mostly in Latin, but some in Spanish, which Leila was translating and reviewing, and reporting on condition, history and value as well. Together with this she has been studying Spanish and Greek ever since she has been in camp and can also translate in these languages fluently, especially in Spanish. She has made quite a name for herself. Father Provincial as well as the rest of the Spanish Padres with whom she comes in contact hold her in the highest regard, and will use their influence in any way to help her.

This may be of real value when the time for repatriation comes along. She has a quiet place to work—at least semi-quiet for there is no such thing as real quiet in Santo Tomas—for no one is allowed to enter the room in which she works without a pass. A few days before I left she took me to show me the books and served me coffee and cakes—well 'near' coffee, the best to be had and delicious compared to that served on the line. She has a little hot plate where she can prepare her lunch, and a sink, both real luxuries.

Disposes of Belongings.

"When Leila came into camp, a friend with small children, who was allowed to stay out for several months, took over her house and for some reason the Japanese never molested it. In due course of time the friend was able to sell most of the furniture and thus secured cash to carry Leila along for a long time. Even her car was not taken. This could not be sold as a car for it would have attracted the attention of the Japanese, but the friend succeeded in getting rid of it as spare parts. So Leila is very well taken care of financially. She has a large stock of tinned milk, meat, vegetables and fruit, which will carry her over the time when food may be hard to get. Leila, being a loyal friend, naturally has many friends who will always look after her interests in case of need. She has kept in excellent health except for an occasional cold, and has kept in the best of spirits though at times it has been pretty hard on her to be separated from all her family.

Mail Is Received.

"Tell her son certainly not to be discouraged about writing for his mother has been one of the lucky ones to receive mail. She had a letter from her sister in October, 1942, and a cable from her father early this year. Someday maybe one of his will get through and it would make her so happy for weeks that it would be more than worth the effort. We all shared

B. J. Brandstetter & Son To Present Implement Service Show.

"Food Fights for Freedom" is the keynote of the John Deere service show to be presented at the Gay theatre January 4, at 1:30 p. m., by B. J. Brandstetter & Son, local John Deere dealers.

"Every farmer in the community will get worthwhile information from this talking picture program," say the Brandstetters. "It is a wartime show with emphasis on greater food production through better operation, care, and repair of farm equipment. Regardless of the make of equipment a farmer owns, he will get valuable pointers on how to get better service and longer life from his equipment."

Featured pictures will be "Wartime Care of Your Tractor," "More Grain in the Grain Tank," "The Clean Cut," and a stirring newsreel "America at War." Admission is free.

each other's letters—there were so few—and it was almost like getting one when a friend did. Leila has also heard from her husband. He was sent to Japan late last year and she had one brief note from him through the mail. This said that he was well. We have been told that the prisoners in Japan receive better treatment than they do at Cabanatuan, near Manila, where he was first sent. And Leila, heard from him several times before he was taken to Japan. You may have heard that he had his arms quite badly burned when destroying maps prior to the surrender of Corregidor, but they were quite recovered long before he went to Japan.

"When writing letters, use the form in which Leila's was written—full name and address of both receiver and sender on the letter as well as the envelope—this is a Japanese regulation and am sure will help to insure delivery.

"Leila had a fairly good supply of clothes. In return for the many nice things she did for me I tried to keep her mended and altered. Shortly before I left I made her several dresses from material which she purchased soon after we came into camp, and luckily for they can't be purchased any longer. As for myself, my best dress now is one of Leila's woolen ones for which she had no use there and I was not lucky in saving any of my winter clothes, so had to depend on friends to outfit me for the trip home."

Mrs. Davis urges the Mitchells not to worry for Leila is well and is keeping busy. "Her greatest worry is that you will worry about her. If, when you write, you add the two words, 'Marjorie wrote,' she will understand that I am in communication with you and will really feel better."

Are Busy in East.

Miss Theodore Carlson, formerly of Concord and teacher in Wayne city school a few years ago, sends greetings to friends and adds the note that she is now working in the editorial section of the library of the tariff commission at Washington. She was in the Columbia University library before going to Washington last August.

Miss Carlson writes that her mother is selling hats in one of the larger department stores in the city. Miss Judith Carlson is keeping the house, all preferring to be busy so as not to worry so much about Phillip, who is navigating on a Liberator bomber and expects to go into combat soon. The Carlsons saw him a few days in September, the first time in two years.

Home Is Damaged By Fire Thursday

Henry Peters Finds Blaze in George Berres Farm Property Nearby.

Fire causing about $200 damage on the George P. Berres farm one-half mile south of Wayne started in the oil burner in the furnace last Thursday afternoon about 4. Wayne fire department responded with both trucks and the flames were extinguished in about 20 minutes. The loss was covered by insurance.

The oil fire caused considerable smoke, which penetrated through the house riving walls so that much will have to be refinished. The flames ate through the floor above the basement in the living room and bedroom.

Henry Peters lives on the farm alone. He found the blaze when he came to the house from the feed yards.

Henry Pardeck of Cincinnati, wrapping supplies in special plastic containers for delivery to American paratroopers on an isolated mountain top near Venafro, Italy. Supply planes are based only four miles from the front. They use a special release mechanism to drop food and equipment to paratroopers.

Lt. McMaster is himself a paratrooper and has made jumps from planes in the Italian theatre. In a letter to his parents, Dr. and Mrs. C. A. McMaster, he writes, "I made my first jump October 29. A sergeant and I jumped from 1,500 feet. My exit from the plane was good and I was particularly surprised by the silence and calm around me as I floated down. That was in direct contrast to the rush of wind and the noise of the plane. It took me over a minute and 20 seconds to come down. I landed in a cabbage patch and soon Eyeties (nickname for Italians) came streaming in all around me, shouting and clapping their hands. A fellow dressed in a white suit, sparking a big red and white striped tie, came running through the field. It had rained the night before so the field was muddy. By the time he reached me he was mud up to his knees. Eyeties of all ages fought among themselves for the chance to pick up my chute. They were yelling 'bravo' and I felt like old Caesar himself."

Lt. McMaster explains that his second jump also brought him to another cabbage patch. He and others jumped at 800 feet that time. The third jump was from 500 feet on a windy day. The wind took Lt. McMaster's chute as he descended. The young officer did a backward somersault but landed on his feet. In the fifth jump, Lt. McMaster had to maneuver his chute to miss a house, trees and high tension wires but he was rewarded by making a fine landing and this time in a garden of sweetpeas.

Lt. McMaster likes paratrooping and remarks that it's safer than crossing Broadway in New York's busy traffic. The Wayne officer is one of the many Americans fast speeding the day of victory.

Case Is Decided By Egg in Court

Men Respond to Eatables And Roll Bandages Far Ahead of Time.

Harry Zacky, Los Angeles poultry market operator, on trial in municipal court for violation of the business and professional code by selling a cull stewing hen (weighing 35 cents a pound) as a pullet (40 cents), brought along the little white hen as Exhibit A. Assistant City Attorney Tom Howard refers red to her as "an old cull." Defense were overjoyed when she promptly responded by laying an egg on the counsel table. It proved, they said, she was a laying pullet, not a cull. The jury will decide.

Passengers on a Kansas City street car stared when an army officer, with his companion, entered with a wintry blast, tipped his head to one side, then the other, and extracted a carfare token from each ear. Depositing the fares, he drew on his gloves.

At Washington, Conn., the Red

Cross women had an impressive quota of bandages to roll by January 1, feared they wouldn't make it. Someone suggested they have a party, invite the men, serve refreshments. About a dozen men showed up, ate, rolled bandages. Result—quota filled two weeks ahead of time.

At Jefferson City, Mo., Joseph Slay of St. Louis, a delegate to the state constitutional convention, proposed that Missouri's new constitution include a provision that no landlord in St. Louis be permitted to refuse tenants because they have children. Slay has 10 of his own.

M. E. Briggs, his son, Bill, and Reed Lyons of St. Anthony, Idaho, trapped many miles through snow in near-zero weather. At last they sighted a flock of geese. All three men fired simultaneously. Only one goose dropped—the one at which all three had aimed.

A nurse in a Spokane, Wash., hospital, says Chronicle Columnist Myrtle Gaylord, noted that all patients in a ward except one had cake for dinner. "I'd like some, too," he complained. "What's your name?" asked the nurse. "I don't know whether you're allowed to eat cake." "My name is Pickens, and if it's anything to you, the nickname is Slim," he replied.

First Sgt. Robert E. Payne approached a nice looking young woman on a Denver street corner, tipped his hat at the correct angle, and began: "Pardon me, Miss. . . He got no farther—the woman walloped him. Sgt. Payne retreated, too abashed to tell her that he is a member of the Air-WAC recruiting team.

Itemizing the portraits in the San Francisco city hall, Jim Leary
