

War Dads to Help In Reconstruction

Arch Stafford Will Return To Tell Rehabilitation Plans Proposal.

American War Dads, an organization dedicated to looking after interests of young folks while they are in the armed forces and helping them become reestablished when they return, was explained to a Wayne group last Thursday by Arch Stafford of Omaha, national treasurer. Mr. Stafford will return here February 7 to speak to Kiwanians and war-dad guests.

During the war the organization objectives are the following: Wholehearted cooperation in every effort to hasten victory; personal service to men and women in the armed forces; governmental cooperation in the prosecution of the war; keeping America American for the return of sons and daughters; sympathy and support to fellow war dads. Objectives for the post-war are: Permanent peace, adequate hospitalization, gainful employment, sound rehabilitation, training and education.

"When the Armistice is signed," writes Past President Nat Milgram, "we are determined that America must 'keep faith' with her fighting men and women of World War II, giving them every opportunity for life and living in accordance with the American way. Employment, hospitalization, training and education, for those who need it will be our dominant aim. As fighting fathers, with no selfish motives, we are planning and working now so we can 'keep faith' with those we love when peace is restored. With courage and determination the American War Dads apply themselves to the task at hand today and tomorrow. We will 'keep faith'."

It was in March, 1942, that Kansas City war dads organized to help their sons and daughters in service. Upton Close, radio commentator, was so impressed with the idea that he broadcast the objectives and possibilities. Since then chapters have sprung up all over the nation. Last October 526 men from 30 states responded to a call to convene. They dedicated their efforts to rehabilitation, vocational training and hospitalization for the serving group that is young in years but mature in thought.

Opportunity Is Wanted. Mr. Stafford, who himself has three sons in service, explained that all that these young folks want is an opportunity and the war dads are determined to see that they have this. It is expected that scarcely any will return to school where they left off but they will be interested in learning trades. The physically handicapped and the neurotics will need special care and guidance.

Interviews with men who have been discharged because of their health show that they want to go home. Mr. Stafford explained. Often they are not physically strong enough to reestablish themselves. They need help in finding something in which they will be happy and which is not too hard physically.

Mr. Stafford visited with a youth who had a disabled arm due to shoulder injury in Tunisia. When asked about the government proposal to provide each veteran with $300, the youth said that would barely buy his civilian clothes and "then they'd be rough with me." Fathers won't let that happen to their sons. They insist that they have a chance. And numerical strength of dads who are fighting for their sons will count with politicians.

Mr. Stafford also told of a marine who at 20 is a veteran of the battles of Midway, Guadalcanal and Coral Sea. He was wounded and he is jittery after his harrowing experiences. But, he emphasized, this boy doesn't want to be "sissified." He wants to "find" himself. He wants an opportunity.

The American Legion has a membership of 1,300,000 and 500,000 of these have sons in the present war. Five times as many youths are engaged in the present struggle as in the former conflict. "It would be unfair for me to return and not find the America for which they gave so much."

Plan in Communities. American War Dads feel that each community will have to work out avenues of rehabilitation for the young folks, but it is essential that such plans start. Mr. Stafford stressed. Many of the most active members of War Dads are those who have lost their sons. They feel that they can be of service to sons of other fathers.

Men who have sons, sons-in-law, daughters or foster children in service are eligible to membership in American War Dads.

Mr. and Mrs. Burr Davis, Jimmie and Sandra spent Friday in the Will Davis home at Blencoe, Iowa.

COMMUNITY WEEKLY SATISFIES DEMAND IN NEWS SERVICE

THE metropolitan newspaper whose value in furnishing general news cannot be overestimated, is unable to give the innumerable purely local news stories that are of vital interest to every community. For accounts of births, marriages and deaths and many other events that touch the lives of all sections of America, dependence rests on the rural newspaper. Newspapers in cities and rural fields are entirely different and have different appeals and are equally indispensable. When one moves from one locality to another, he wants to be followed by the "home newspaper," and he will continue a subscriber as long as he is interested in the moving procession of persons and events. One Herald subscriber who left here 40 years ago, expresses continued interest in Wayne and still welcomes weekly visits from the newspaper. As a matter of fact, nothing satisfies the demand for community news like the rural weekly.

Get Second Call For Service Men

Groups Leave Today and in Early February to Take Pre-Induction Test.

Wayne county draft board has received its second call for men to go to Fort Crook for pre-induction examinations, this being for about 20 to go February 9. It is expected that from this list the March quota will be called.

Under the new plan of conducting examinations previous to induction calls, the county sends 12 to Fort Crook this Thursday. They are Allen Frumm, Thomas Johnson, Calvin Gruenke, Marvin Barner, Elmer Thomsen, Eldon McGuire, John Lewis, Gordon Fisher, Walter Ulrich, Drexel English, Melvin Robinson, Louis Meyer and Weldon Weaver. The last two transferred in. It is thought that the February quota will be selected from those of this group who pass.

The new plan is to create a supply of available men so that quotas can be met in full. The new system also enables men to know well in advance if they will pass, thus making it possible for them to arrange their business affairs. Persons in I-A who pass tests for limited service will hereafter be classified as I-AL. When limited service men are needed, they will be inducted.

Those called to the army for January leave this Friday. They are John Ryan, Norman Clark, Raymond Iverson, Richard Tucker, Robert Ehnung, Leon Thompson, Leonard Strong, James Grier, Dim Powers goes to the air corps, and Ben Walker to the marines.

Suggests Ways to Win the Peace After War

"Do not go soft after this war," warns Dr. Harry VanWall, netter-lecturer and radio commentator, who escaped the Nazis after they overran his native land. Dr. VanWall addressed about 300 at the college student-union Monday evening at a program sponsored by the Faculty club. Hitler and all other nazis are paranoiacs, and this mental feeling of superiority is one of the greatest problems to be faced, the speaker stated. "Only can we bring democracy to Germany by demonstrating it and changing the outlook of these people."

If Germany or Japan should ask for an armistice now, what would we do? Dr. VanWall explained that action after the first war lost the peace. The Treaty of Versailles was hard but it was very humane compared with the one in which Germany made demands on Russia. But the appeal of privation and suffering then led America and other nations to pour food and supplies into Germany, enabling that country to rebuild fast both physically and materially. Many materials sent from here were used for railroad lines, etc. which have been strategic help in this war.

Plans for the post-war period are being pushed forward by representatives of all nations. Dr. VanWall is one of the Netherlands' committee studying these and two of his nation's proposals have been approved by the state department. Apparently 10 years after the first war, the conflict was forgotten. Germany was allowed to re-

To Make Award At Service Here

Decorations for War Prisoner Will Be Presented to Father of Neligh.

Porath of Neligh, Saturday at a special ceremony in connection with the weekly public review at Wayne college training detachment, beginning at 2:45. Since the officer is a prisoner of war, the decorations will be given to his father, Herman A. Porath of Neligh, who will be here for the occasion.

The air medal is awarded to S. Sgt. Porath for "exceptionally meritorious achievement while participating in five separate bomber/combat missions over enemy occupied continental Europe. The oak leaf cluster is for "meritorious achievement in the destruction of one enemy airplane while serving as crewman on a bombardment mission over enemy occupied continental Europe." This young man was with the 8th bomber command.

arm and prepare for war unconquered. "But the psychological danger is the worst. An upheaval of nationalism is logical in all countries after a war stops. Democracy, nationalism is isolationism and we don't want this," according to Dr. VanWall.

Fear Three Dangers. "After we have marched to Berlin and Tokyo, we have won the battle but we must win the peace. The first great danger is that we will forget the war. The second is that nationalism will spring up and the third is that the mistakes of 1918 will be repeated."

Revolutions are impossible in Germany except among troops at the front, the speaker explained. Storm troops and machine gun nests are everywhere. When Hamburg people started a march for peace, 12,000 were shot by the troops. It is impossible to police Germany, stated the speaker. Holland, a nation the size of Maryland, required 400,000 Nazi police. Germany is 25 times the size and has as well-organized "underground." It would take 10 million men to police Germany, and men in service will want to return home rather than do this after the war. "As soon as the nazis see they have lost the war, they will denounce Hitler; they will appeal for pity; emotionalism will sweep the world; and we'll want to help. We will render a service to Christianity by acting thoughtfully."

Prepare for Third War.

Dr. VanWall read an official Nazi document of July 15, 1943, which stated that "Germany will need a strong army 20 years from

CONGRESSMAN ASKS WASHINGTON BOSS TO STEADY MARKET

CONGRESSMAN Karl Stefan of this district has asked War Food Administrator Marvin Jones to straighten out the bewildering hog situation. The congressman expresses fear that the present abundance may be turned to an unfortunate shortage. He urges suspension of pork rationing until the supply is diminished and he would have removed the fear of price penalties for heavy hogs when farmers are unable to market them at proper weights. Packing houses, have had more hogs than they could handle the past few weeks, and the congressman believes rules should favor orderly marketing without loss to producers. His reasoning seems sound.

Suggests Ways to Win the Peace

Ridicule would do most to turn the nazis against Hitler. Persecution would make him a martyr. In a democracy, the citizen is one who can think for himself, who can plan his own course and can go through life without being led. The speaker, who has lived in nine countries, finds in America the purest democracy. He thinks that the pioneer experience of surmounting hardships to establish homes and the sincere companionship that results have the best possible foundation for the democratic way.

Dismissing Mistake.
To dismember Germany would be a mistake and would lead to future trouble, the speaker believes. Such separation would only call forth another fuhrer later.

International Bank.
An international bank is another proposal made as a means of holding Germany in control. The plan would allow that nation 20 per cent of all profits. "Only can we keep peace by keeping the nazis from amassing wealth. As long as the nazis have their superiority complex, the world will be in danger."

Favors World Congress.
United states of Europe could not be successful. Dr. VanWalt stated because of great differences in religion, language, etc. The speaker does, however, think that the League of Nations could be reformed into a Congress of Nations that could maintain control.

"Let us try to bring about life in which we can smile again," Dr. VanWalt concluded.

The speaker was introduced by Dr. W. G. Ingram, president of the Faculty club, Dean Clarence McGinn presented Dr. Ingram, Capt. and Mrs. Wm. O'Donnell were introduced.

Examining Board To Come to Wayne

A traveling army air forces aviation cadet examining board from Nebraska recruiting district headquarters, Omaha, will be in Wayne this Thursday and Friday to interview and conduct official examinations for young men interested in becoming future army aviation cadets.

The army's air crew training course, which leads to the wings of a pilot, bombardier or navigator, lasts well over a year and includes five months of study at a leading college by university previous to flight training.

Capt. Eugene W. Huddleston, backfield teammate of Sammy Baugh at Texas Christian university and later with the Washington Redskins, professional football team, will head the aviation cadet board coming to Wayne.

No specific education requirements are listed for aviation cadets except that they must pass a multiple-choice type mental examination. The 17-year-old youths who qualify are not called to begin active training until after becoming 18. If they are attending school at the time, they are permitted to complete the semester, providing it ends within six months after they reach 18.

Capt. Huddleston, service officer from bombardier school at Deming, N. M., will visit Wayne high school to explain the cadet program to junior and senior boys.

All 17-year-olds who qualify and enlist in the army air forces reserve corps wear the blue and silver wings of a future aviation cadet until called to begin active training, and as enlisted men on reserve they are not subject to the draft.

Thursday, January 27, 1944.

Unusual COLDER with snow was predicted this week, but on the contrary and perhaps without precedent, in any January known to the middle west, the elements felt like a soft and soothing sample of early May. Old-timers remember one year when the unusual experience of plowing fields in February took place with no later interrupting blast from icy Boreas. Planting was early, and nothing happened to stay the triumphant march of agriculture.

But January's sweet temper of late is unusual, as Californians would say in apologizing for a bad break in the weather. People have invariably looked for nesting robins and listened for croaking frogs. They have turned yearningly to gardens and flower plots.

But the North Wind could change January signs of spring by a slight twist of the weather department's thermostat. So, we had better be patient, keeping our heavy clothes on and our fires adequately fueled. It is hoped the light fall of rain Monday night was a forerunner of more.

Butler Replies SENATOR Hugh Butler has returned to bat in the controversy over the United States' expenditures in South America. After his December exposure, he was charged by inner-circle new-dealers with being 95 per cent wrong. His latest figures are offered to show he was nearly 96 per cent right.

The senator is in favor of due neighborliness with South American countries, but he is critical of a policy that dishes out cash, often without reason, and raises wages out of line with those paid in the different countries. An unnecessarily high wage scale disorients the economic order and spreads dissatisfaction.

If the senator is able to reduce the cost of benevolence to South American countries, stressing more the wholesome policy of self-reliance, he will perform valuable service for the United States as well as for its neighbors.

A measure is proposed in congress to simplify the income tax law, and those who are wrestling with long and complicated forms will agree. Burdens involved in the tax program are not so much the amounts to be paid as the task of following through a labyrinth of rules and trying to meet all requirements. People realize that heavy taxation is unavoidable, but they would like to arrive at facts more easily and shell out with less circumspection and ceremony. There is no doubt a reason for formulating anticipated earnings and for frequent reports, but to the paying masses, simplifications and short cuts would be a signal relief.

A high class observer remarked recently that no matter how well-intentioned a senator or congressman might be, he is influenced for or against a public policy by the number of votes in prospect. His idea is that a law-maker will move swiftly to the support of proposed legislation if it has an imposing array of home backing. We doubt if this is always true. A representative who measures up to worthy statesmanship, will follow a course he thinks is right and run the chance of changing popular feeling if it is against him.

Judge E. L. Reeker of Madison county, talked about child delinquency over W.A.G. Norfolk, Sunday, and he charged parents with most of the blame. He emphasized common sense as the most potent remedy. He said "parents who smile smugly" and declare their children would do no wrong, have little idea of the temptations that assail them. Often, he thinks, parents rather than their offspring should be punished for the latter's law violations.

We conclude from observing the farmer's state of mind that he does not relish government paternalism—that he does not want to be bonused to do things or not to do them—but that he wants a favorable legislative structure to encourage demand and stabilization of prices. The farmer is probably the most individualistic person in the world. He wants to plow his own furrow without special favor and without unequal discrimination.

The Norfolk Daily News suggests to congress the wisdom of looking out for industries so that they will be in shape to supply jobs for returned soldiers; maintenance of employing sources is of vital importance.

FARM SALES.
Numerous farm sales lead to the query, "Why?" Prices for farm equipment and animals are up because the demand exceeds the supply, and if a farmer plans he has been at the task long enough to merit retirement, he is tempted to sell and quit. Some are merely reducing quantities to continue farming on a smaller scale. Others are moving to newly acquired acreages, and a few—not many—are journeying to other states. People who remember what happened after World War I, will not look for collapse of prices for farms or farm equipment when peace comes. The prospect is that everything connected with agriculture and livestock raising will be on the upswing on account of world scarcity. So, postwar fears are not prompting farm sales. They are due to readjustments encouraged by high prices.

BUSINESS MEN.
We heard a radio announcement that Washington authorities are awakening to the need of easing up on the small business man and doing something to protect his interests. It has likely been discovered that small business men are numerous, but that they are too busy and overburdened to raise their voices in protest. They are not rich, and they only expect to get along, which they would like to do with fewest possible restraints. In contrast with the role of the small business man who is performing a valuable service, David Lawrence, columnist, rises to complain that a company with an investment of a million dollars is taxed more accordingly than the company with an investment of twenty millions. But the small community will not feel like contributing tears to David's spell of sorrow over those who rate in the millions. We are led to sympathetic consideration for the small guy who has a few thousands invested, works hard and tries to meet government and other demands without grumbling.

Lt. John Oliver Johnson, youngest son of Mrs. Anna Johnson, now of Chicago and resident of Wayne many years, received a citation and medal from W. L. Ford, brigadier general, chief of staff, from the north African theatre of operations, October 23. The officer is a nephew of Mrs. Frank Gamble of Wayne.

"The legion of merit medal was awarded to 2nd Lt. John O. Johnson for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services during the period of March 4 to August 4, 1943. As acting battalion supply offer and platoon leader of Company B, Lt. Johnson's resourcefulness, unflagging efforts and ceaseless application to his duties made it possible for his unit to draw all organizational equipment and vehicles in less than 48 hours after its activation and to depart for the Tunisian sector fully and thoroughly equipped. In later activities of the company, when it was necessary to take fuel and ammunition to advance units in combat zone he made personal reconnaissance of the area to insure safety and road for his vehicles. Unsparring of himself, working long hours, Lt. Johnson's devotion to duty was truly exceptional and in the highest traditions of military service.

The officer entered service in Chicago.

Graduate of Wayne Flies Near Tokyo

Ensign Delmar Heyne, 37, was on a mission which took him closer to Tokyo than any American has been, on an aerial attack mission, since the Doolittle raid of 1942.

The purpose of the mission included bombing Kurabi Zaki's installations on the southern tip of Paramushiro island. All the planes, which dropped some 10,000 pounds of bombs, returned safely.

County Takes Part In Drive in March

Field Director Is in Wayne To Arrange Red Cross Campaign Soon.

Wayne county Red Cross chapter is making preparation to participate in the annual drive to raise 200 million dollars in March for the 1944 war fund. Mrs. Marjorie Schneider of the St. Louis office, was in Wayne Thursday and Friday to confer with Chairman Dave Theophilus and Drive Leader Wm. Beckenhauer. She also visited Wakefield Red Cross officials.

The aim this year is to secure as large contributions as possible from each person. It will be necessary to have more than a dollar each, explained Mrs. Schneider, to reach the goal.

The increase in Red Cross requirements results from greater demands from the armed forces. The total of men in the armed forces continues to increase and the areas requiring Red Cross service become more scattered. When one considers both these factors, the sum asked is not too large, the field worker showed.

Red Cross work for the coming year will include service in army and navy hospitals at home and abroad, also in camps in this country and in combat zones; blood banks, surgical dressings and garments, emergency supplies, rest centers overseas, aid to prisoners of war, training in health, education and service, emergency assistance to safety men and aid in disasters.

IT'S IN THE AIR. You can feel it, every time the Axis is struck. This is the climax year, the year of decision.

In history, 1944 will be the big year of the war—every stroke for victory counts more now. That's why it's vitally important for every American to be at his post, doing his part right now.

You, personally, have an important job in winning the war—buying War Bonds. It's not glamorous—no, not even a sacrifice, really, because you are only lending your money, to be returned with interest. But it is essential to complete victory.

Your part in this year of decision is at least one extra $100 Bond, above your regular Bond buying. That is your minimum individual quota. But don't stop there. Remember wars are won only by all-out effort. So buy $200, $300, $500 worth—buy more than you can afford. And buy your Bonds where you work—at the plant or at the office.

Your country is counting on you—let's make the year of decision OUR year!

Returns to Wayne Telephone Force

Miss Arline Rohlf

Miss Arline Rohlf, who went to Alliance, Nebraska, three months ago to help handle the greatly increased number of telephone calls there in connection with the Army Air Base, has returned to Wayne to again serve telephone users here.

The willingness of telephone workers to serve wherever they are needed most is helping us to meet wartime telephone demands much better than otherwise would be possible.

The first aim of telephone men and women is to make telephone service of maximum usefulness in winning the war.

NORTHWESTERN BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY

So you'll understand

As a telephone user we want you to know what is happening to the telephone business these days.

In peace times, we were able to keep the supply of telephone equipment ahead of the demand for service. But for more than a year copper, rubber and other materials normally used in large quantities by the telephone industry have had to go into fighting equipment.

Our reserves of used telephones and other equipment have been reconditioned and put back into service. This equipment is just as dependable and as serviceable as new equipment. But wartime telephone needs are so great that these, with other measures, haven't been enough and we are nearing the limit of present facilities.

New telephone service for persons defined by Government Order as "essential" users will be provided without delay. However, it no longer is possible to provide as promptly as in the past service for other new customers or additional service for present customers. Facilities shortages in some cases may cause considerable delay in providing service. In most instances, transfer of service for present customers who move will be taken care of with reasonable promptness.

We welcome applications for service and will do our best to meet everyone's requirements as promptly as possible.

Your understanding helps a lot and we thank you for it.

Library News

The library is indebted to Miss Winifred Main for a year's subscription to the magazine, called Read. For those who are not familiar with the magazine it can be described as similar to the Reader's Digest, both in size and make up. It will make an interesting addition to our magazine selection. We are also indebted to Elizabeth Mines Atwater of Des Moines, for the renewal of The Christian Herald in memory of her mother, Mrs. J. G. Mines, who for many years had sent a yearly subscription to the library.

Another gift has come from the General Electric company in the form of a book. The title is Punched in Susie! and is written by Neil Giles who is staff writer on the Boston Globe and who took a job in the West Lynn plant of the General Electric company to find out what it is really like to go to work on the "second front." This book is written for all American women who believe they should sacrifice "life as usual" to do their part in the war effort but haven't been able to make the break. Punched in Susie! is full of humor and humanity. Twenty full-page pen and ink sketches illustrate the text.

Where's Sammy? is the title of a new biography by Sammy Schumann, news photographer. This book was edited by Robert Considine, jr., who also edited Thirty Seconds, Over Tokyo. It is more than a biography as it covers so much news of the past few years, right up to the pictures taken at Casablanca. In the foreword of the book we learn that wherever the president goes he always looks and asks for Sammy, because one time Sammy saved his life. That explains the title.

Among the new fiction is the latest book by Joseph C. Lincoln called The Bradshaws of Barniss. This book is typical of the author in its New England setting, although it is a story of Cape Cod today.

Youth Is Missing In Asiatic Area

Sgt. Gerald Pfund, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Pfund of Norfolk, and nephew of Mrs. Jack Dawson of Wayne, is reported missing in action since a flight over the Asiatic area January 13. Sgt. Pfund, who has been stationed in India more than a year, has been on flights between India and China in recent months. The young man has two brothers in service, Major Melvin Pfund, former Wayne college student, a veteran of the south Pacific and now stationed at Alexandria, La., and Seaman William Pfund who is in Hawaii.

Convoy Attacked By Jerry Bombers

An attack of enemy bombers on an American convoy is described by Pvt. Tom Shehan in a recent issue of The Yank, newspaper printed by and for the armed forces. Lt. Wm. VonSeggern of Lincoln, son of the W. E. VonSeggerns of Wayne, was in the convoy and is mentioned in the article. The title of which is "Bound for North Africa on a Liberty Ship, Yanks Get Visit from Jerry Bombers."

"The Mediterranean was calm and the sun red when Jerries attacked our convoy on the 20th day at sea. Art Luzzi, 19, of New Jersey, spotted seven German planes from our Liberty ship. The Jerries began to fire. The convoy put up barrage and tracer fire." The writer describes the attack which lasted 30 minutes. One Liberty ship in the convoy was destroyed by flames, another was damaged and two Spitfires from the aerial escort were shot down. The Jerries lost two of their attacking planes. As the battle subsided the men watched tracer fire make ribbon-like arcs on the darkening sky.

"Lt. Wm. VonSeggern of Lincoln, an AMG agricultural expert, came down to see how the men were doing. He took the back up on the bridge," writes Pvt. Shehan, "and we spent the rest of the night on lookout for Jerry planes. First shades of darkness brought with them a bright clear moon, making us an easy target in the night. About 9 o'clock the moon went behind some clouds and there it stayed, much to everybody's relief. Jerry never returned but nobody missed him."

Lt. Wm. VonSeggern and his brother, Sgt. John VonSeggern, are both in Sicily, but as yet have not been able to see each other.

Brown-McDonald's Annual Pre-Inventory CLEARANCE "Two Days" - January 28-29

Once a year, at inventory time, we've got to see cold facts, and this year they seem colder than ever before. Odds and ends, poor styles, bad colors and "wax qualities" we had hoped to sell are still here—you've been too smart. But we can't and won't inventory them, we hope. To clean 'em out, and quick, we've cut prices way down for a two-day inventory clearance Friday and Saturday of this week. We won't try to kid you for you've already proved you can judge values—we're not quoting comparative prices, but we honestly believe the low prices on the selected odd lots make the reasonable values. And don't come expecting unlimited choice of the stock at these reductions. We're not dopes, either.

ODD LOTS Women's Shoes REDUCED

One-Third
Short lops and broken sizes of women's novelty dress shoes in pumps and ties, rationed.

"RATION-FREE" WOMEN'S Play Shoes $1
Assorted color fabric top sports and casual play-type shoes, open toes and "ersatz" soles.

ODD LOTS Children's Shoes $1
A very assorted group of youngsters' white and two-tone ties and straps, patent sandals, rationed.

MEN'S ODD Dress Oxfords $1
Single pairs and broken lots of men's black and brown dress oxfords grouped for clearance, rationed.

MEN'S TWO-TONE Sport Oxfords $3
No, they're not so hot in January, but it'll be summer in six months. There's a catch—rationed.

ODD MEN'S Work Shoes REDUCED 20%
A selected group of composition and cord sole, leather top work shoes, hard-lookers, rationed.

ODD MEN'S - BOYS' Dress Caps
Shop-worn and punk sellers, REDUCED 1/3

ODDS AND ENDS Men's Suits REDUCED

One-Third
We can't pension 'em and you've passed 'em up at full price. Some are all-wool, too.

CLEARANCE LOT Men's Suits REDUCED

One-Half
Honestly we don't recommend these for they're only half-wool, but "half-wool, half-price" sounds good, doesn't it?

ODDS MEN'S - BOYS' Sport Coats REDUCED

One-Third
All-wool fabrics, but some of the patterns and colors are plenty wild. Think not? See 'em yourself.

MEN'S WOOL Topcoats REDUCED 20%
Frankly we'd just as soon you pass these up for they're not bad—indeed they're good, if we didn't have so many.

SMALL LOT OF Men's Coats REDUCED

One-Half
Not many, and are we glad. Wool and part-wool fabrics, funny colors, and atrocious tailoring.

MEN'S Fingertip Coats REDUCED

One-Third
All-wool coatings, some reversible with water repellent linings, but a treacherous style.

JUST TWO MORE DAYS OPA RELEASE SALE WOMEN'S LOW PRICED

A very few in the lot. They have been so scarce even we couldn't collect many dogs, but there are a few.

WOMEN'S AND GIRLS' ODD Sportwear REDUCED

One-Half
Small groups of slacks, slacks suits, sports shirts and jackets—strictly the leavings, but we're still trying.

ODD WOMEN'S - GIRLS' Skirts, Blouses REDUCED

All Ranks Salute But By Mistake

Car Purchased at Auction Fails to Have Essential Parts of Vehicle.

At Gunter Field, Ala., men of all ranks turned and saluted as Sgt. James E. Housh of Tampa, Fla., drove by in an army staff car. At his first stop, Housh found the reason. A tag bearing a quartet of stars on a red background—the shield of a four-star general—had been placed on the car by mistake.

Because the vehicles are stored in various scattered garages, bidding at the annual county auction of abandoned automobiles at Seattle is done without the bidders seeing them. One bidder later saw what he had acquired and asked for his money back. His $45 jaopy had no motor, no wheels and no differential.

A V-mail letter to a soldier stationed at Lehigh university, Bethlehem, Pa., has reached him three and one-half months after it was mailed in London. It was first sent to Bethlehem, Palestine.

"Merry Christmas," said a pretty, 5-year-old girl to the kindergarten enrollment teacher at Los Angeles. "And a merry Christmas to you," answered the instructor. "What is your name?" "Merry Christmas," said the child. The teacher looked at the girl's birth certificate: "Merry Kathryn Christmas."

At Twin Falls, Idaho, F. L. Stewart wants $582 damages for injuries he says his hunting dog received when it was struck by a truck. His claims: Hospital bill, $25; travel expense, $20; cost of hunting the dog two days after accident, $12; loss during hunting season, 30 days at $10 a day, three hundred dollars; expense for being "nurse maid during convalescence, $25. "His teeth are all broken," Stewart said, "and I'm listing this last amount as the general damage, $200."

Finders may not be keepers in the finest moral sense, but then, opportunity only knocks once. Mrs. Belle Bearison, Newark, N. J., had been given a lesson in an unusual form of philosophy when her lost purse containing $25, was returned intact except for $8 which had been removed and a note which had been included. Write the self-described "thoughtful finder": "Some time ago I, too, lost a handbag in which there was $8. I would have been satisfied if the bag had been returned, even without the money, but I did not get either. I have taken $8 from your bag and am returning everything else." Mrs. Bearison agrees there ought to be a moral somewhere in the story but, so far, she has been unable to find it.

The Frisco railroad ticket office in Kansas City received an urgent plea for Pullman reservations to Florida from a 70-year-old man who wrote that he has had "two operations and can't stand biz-zards any more." To which this case he inclosed a receipted hospital bill for $179.58.

Salt Lake City detectives were a bit surprised when 6-year-old Ronald Steel arrived with a ticket for jaywalking. It turned out to be a ticket issued to his mother, who had sent him in to see what they must do about it. Ronald not only found out; he came back with a 50-cent piece he'd wheedled from a detective.

Mrs. John R. Hughes, Los Angeles, said she was dumfounded when a 10-year-old boy jumped into her car, brandished a pistol and ordered her to drive on. "Lady, this gun is loaded," Mrs. Hughes said he told her. "I don't care—you get out!" She snapped. Abashed, he did.

At New Haven, Conn., a janitor who entered the courtroom in the county building just before midnight one night was startled to hear a voice demanding: "Hey, when are they going to take me to jail?" Investigation disclosed a man who had drawn a three-months jail sentence earlier—much earlier—in the day, sitting forgotten in the prisoners' pen without food and water.

Pvt. Victor Elbow of the Bronx, New York, assured his family that he was all right despite reports that he had been wounded in the Pacific war theatre. He wrote, "Don't worry," in Russian to his father, in Polish to his mother and in English to his sister.

Curb service! As a Fifth Avenue (New York) bus came to a stop for a red light, a passenger shouted: "Look, on the sidewalk, that baby carriage fell over on the baby." Out jumped the conductor, righted the carriage and replaced the unharmed infant as the mother hurried out of a nearby public library.
