STATE DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH WRITES ON CHILD PROBLEM

DISCUSSING problems of children who go to sleep in school, or won't work, or otherwise misbehave, Dr. C. A. Selby, director of the Nebraska department of health offers this advice based on observation and experience: "Children with problems like these and many others need help to get well and to adjust themselves to the social group, the home and the school. They are ill, as much as if they had the measles or some other communicable disease. These children often need a medical examination first, to see that the body is functioning properly. Second, they need parents and a teacher who will try to help them understand life: a home where there is little friction and where they have the feeling of belonging; a place where they are helped rather than thrashed, and a home where recreation activities are planned for and with all the children. They need a teacher who understands children and who will realize that it is her responsibility oftentimes to help parents to work with her on home practices, needed corrections, program adjustments and other necessary measures for the proper growth and development of the child. Finding the child's point of interest and building around this, utilizing talents he may have, and finding opportunities to approve his contribution to the group is a good beginning. The boy who goes to sleep, we found had only four hours sleep between meeting trains and feeding papers. There is a reason for every behavior. Try to find the cause and give help at the source. Mental and emotional health is closely related to physical health, one influences the other. Punishment often accomplishes nothing where constructive help may save a child from failure and delinquency."

Number of Men Will Take Tests

Wayne County Is Meeting Quotas for Service To Full Extent.

Wayne county will have about 25 men going to Fort Crook Monday, March 20, for pre-induction examinations. Since special men who become 18 and volunteers will reduce the number of married men required, the list will not be selected by the draft board until the week before the tests. To make the quota, some married men will be called. Those without children will be taken first. Several who registered elsewhere and who now live here have transferred to Wayne county and will go with the local group for pre-induction tests March 20.

Wayne county has been meeting its quota in full. Recently several volunteers after the quota was arranged and these volunteers reduced the number required from the county for March.

Men who will leave Thursday, March 9, to train for the navy are Donald Wright, Henry Bohm, Richard Gifford, Richard Lund and Robert Burnham. The three who go March 19 for army training are Harold Murphy, Edgar Trickey and Dean Sandahl.

To Review Deferment.

Draft boards have been asked by Guy N. Henninger, state director of selective service, to review all deferred registrants between the ages of 18 and 37. Particular attention will be given those under 26 years of age who have been deferred by agriculture or industry.

In a telegram sent to state directors, President Roosevelt this week told that selective service is 200,000 short of the planned strength. "The nation's manpower pool has been depleted by liberal deferments and I am convinced that in this respect we have been overly lenient, particularly with regard to the younger men," the president's message states. "The over-aged man, the physically disqualified, the returned soldier and the woman of the nation must be used more effectively to replace the able-bodied men in critical industry and agriculture. Deferments for industry include over a million non-fathers of whom 380,000 are under 26 years of age. Of almost a million non-fathers deferred in agriculture, over 550,000 are under 28. Agriculture and industry should release the younger men who are physically qualified for military service. The situation is so grave that I feel that the time has come to review all occupational deferments with a view to making available the personnel required by the armed forces."

College Soloist Wins High Honor

Evelyn Patrick Competes for Place in Chorus of Phil Spitalney Group.

Miss Evelyn Patrick of Mapleton, Ia., junior at Wayne State, was one of the four singers chosen from 175 girls in the Omaha area, for further consideration in the search for the "undiscovered voice of America" sponsored by the "Hour of Charm" program. This was held in Omaha Thursday, Friday and Saturday last week.

Judges were Leo Kopp, Lytton Davis and Mrs. Cecil Sloum. Omaha was one of 28 sub-city locations throughout the United States at which contests were held for the purpose of selecting talent.

Three or four girls were chosen from each of these districts to participate in the more difficult audition held in Cleveland. Approximately 100 recordings and pictures of these girls will be sent in for the elimination there. Girls in Phil Spitalney's orchestra will judge these records, out of which they will choose 10 of the best. Then from the 10 finalists, three girls will be picked to have their way paid to New York where they will appear on the "Hour of Charm" program. From these three, one girl will get a contract with Phil Spitalney.

Miss Patrick recorded, "Tea for Two" and "Gavotte," by Popper, to be sent to Cleveland for the judging mentioned above.

In Omaha, girls were chosen on the basis of their voice, personality, interpretation, stage presence, poise and temperance.

After the winners were announced at Omaha, they were taken to dinner by representatives of General Electric company, who supervised the contests. They were also given an opportunity to call their parents long distance, with all expenses paid.

Other winners were Gladys E. Eisenach of Lincoln; Lenore Beck of Lincoln, and Martha Starks of Columbus.

Miss Patrick has been taking vocal instruction under Prof. Russell Anderson at WSTC.

Ethel Jean Olson of Wayne, also entered the Omaha competition.

War Dads Form County Chapter

Officers Are Elected and Group Prepares to Serve in Rehabilitation.

Wayne county chapter of American War Dads was organized Thursday evening with 58 charter members. More than 70 came to Wayne auditorium for the meeting which was addressed by Arch Stafford of Omaha, national treasurer of this organization which is interested in rehabilitating young men and women in the armed forces. Wayne county has about 800 in service and it is expected that the group will include most of the fathers as they are interested in helping reestablish the young folks in civilian life.

W. Huse was elected president. The eight vice presidents chosen, each heading a committee, are: Fidelity, Dr. J. T. Anderson; service, Lee Sellon; governmental, Sheriff J. H. Pile; program, Albert H. Babe; finance, Herman Lundberg; membership, W. C. Corvay; social, Dr. J. R. Johnson; publicity, A. W. Ahern. Ben Meyer was elected treasurer. W. E. VonSeggern served as chairman of the nominating committee.

The president, appointed Dave Huser as secretary.

The group will meet the last Thursday of each month, and men who have sons-in-law or daughters in service are eligible. Officers will convene soon to discuss practical ways of being of service.

American War Dads is dedicated to looking after the interests of young folks while they are in the armed forces and helping them reestablish when they return.

In his message Thursday Mr. Stafford pointed out the importance of helping young folks make the big adjustment which comes after they leave service. Money is not the answer. These young folks are sacrificing to preserve opportunity which is guaranteed in democracy and War Dads are going to cooperate with the Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars to see that they have this opportunity.

A wave of crime and vagrancy followed World War I because many young men had nothing to do. War Dads will unite six million fathers who will join with Legionnaires in one great band to "keep faith" with the boys.

Mr. Stafford complimented the Wayne group as being one of the most sincere he has met.

Will Hold Review If Weather Permits

The 349th training detachment will hold a public review at the college Saturday at 2:45 providing weather is favorable and the drill field is dry.

MARCH REPUTATION NOT THE BEST BUT IT COULD IMPROVE

AS MARCH bounces into the traces, it suggests that almost anything in the way of weather may happen. It does not bear a reputation for mild manners. If it brings abundant rains and soft zephyrs, it will prove an exception to the rule—a most agreeable exception, and one that would be eminently in order following a series of dry months. If it bellows like a mad bull occasionally, we will be displeased but not surprised. We cannot recall a March with plenty of rain, free from snow and ice and violent winds, but it could happen, and this year would be a most acceptable time for it to happen. Some rains last week gave hope of improvement in the month's behavior. Introduction of March found most of the moving finished. Those who planned to change locations, did so in February and thus forestalled the possibilities of badly acting elements.

Welfare Service Is Told to Club

Prof. K. N. Parke Addresses Kiwanians Monday on Red Cross Work.

The vast welfare service rendered by the Red Cross was stressed by Prof. K. N. Parke who addressed Wayne Kiwanians Monday. Prof. Parke, who is secretary and home service director for Wayne county chapter, was presented by Supt. J. W. Litherland.

The Red Cross grew out of war and it has not only served in wartime but in peacetime as the world's greatest welfare agency. The Red Cross is international in scope, having organizations in most countries. The American Red Cross is headed by the president who appoints a national chairman to run the organization. Among the vice presidents active in the organization are Chief Justice Stone and Ex-President Herbert Hoover. A central committee of 18 is responsible for business of the national organization. The financial report of the Red Cross is audited by the war department.

In the United States are 3,756 chapters and 6,048 branches. Each chapter has a chairman, vice chairman, treasurer, secretary and committee chairmen. All work without any compensation excepting the field directors, nurses and club directors who devote their full time to the service.

The committee aiding service men and their families is headed by the home service chairman. Communication and information, reporting, claims and service to families are the divisions.

In the communication and information division, contacts are made regarding the health and welfare of the service man and his family. Prof. Parke mentioned that a local mother wanted to go to camp where her son had an operation. Word was received that the son was doing very well and that

South Sioux City Educator Speaks

W. H. Swett Finds Much That Is Favorable in School System of Nation.

Prof. O. R. Bowen was chairman of college convocation at the college Tuesday. Miss Elbin Soderberg and Miss Martha Criblin entertained a piano-duo, "The Stars and Stripes Forever."

W. H. Swett, superintendent of schools at South Sioux City, was speaker. His subject was "What's Right with Education?"

While admitting that there is room for improvement and need for adjustment, Mr. Swett believes that the basis of American education is sound. He enumerated many things favorable in the educational system. The public schools laid the foundations upon which the military authorities have built, and thereby developed the best trained service men in the world.

All but about one out of a thousand successful men received their early training in the public schools. Education does not cost too much. The worth of the training received far outweighs the cost; it is too bad exact returns on the investment cannot be calculated.

Less graft and less scandal are in the educational system than in any other civil unit, because the personnel of this system is usually honorable and trustworthy.

Service men, home on furlough, seek the school and its familiar associations almost immediately after seeing the home folk. School teaching is not glamorous but it is important in winning the war and in winning the peace. Many things are right with education.

Youths Sworn in To Air Reserves

Plane Rides Are Given to Prospective Candidates For Two Services.

Capt. Eugene Huddleston and Capt. Frank Greene of the army air corps, and Capt. W. H. O'Donnell, commander of Wayne college detachment, visited Wayne high school Monday afternoon when youths, who several weeks ago passed mental and physical tests, were sworn into the army air corps reserves. Lyle Gamble, Merion Ellis, Lawrence Smith and Richard Sala took the oath as a group at this time. These youths remain in school until their 18th birthdays, after which they are subject to call. Merion Mordhorst, who passed tests at the same time as now 18 and will be inducted on or before April 5. He is here with the Roy Langmeiers and goes to Rapid City March 16 to see how folks before leaving for training. Mrs. Langmeier will go to Rapid City with her peephew.

Each of the officers addressed the student body, and the high school band furnished music.

Capt. Huddleston and Capt. Greene have been here this week in the interest of recruits for the army air corps reserve and for the WAC's.

WAC's Sgt. White, who accompanied them, handed out slips to a number of students. Signatures of parents were required before young folks were eligible for free plane rides given from the local airport Wednesday and today.

Youths interested in the air corps reserve must be 17 years of age. Women wanting to serve the WAC's in the air corps or in any other branch must be between 20 and 49.

Officers contacted young men at both high schools. The recruiting team for the WAC's has headquarters at the Peoples Gas office under the direction of Lt. James Maxwell. Capt. Greene addressed young women at the college Tuesday evening regarding branches of service open to women.

Maj. Harry Sidles, Omaha, CAP wing commander, sent four army training planes here Wednesday and has three here today to give rides to young folks interested in the services. Lt. F. Gagne of the cadet examining board, conducts examinations for prospective candidates.

Approve Giving Military Credit

Wayne College Cooperates With American Council To Help Young Folks.

American Council on Education has made certain recommendations for the approval of educational credit for military experience.

The administration at Wayne Teachers college has approved the granting of credit to returned service men and women on the basis of records furnished the college by the United States armed forces institute in accordance with the institute's recommended program.

If the men and women now in service desire further college attendance they will follow these procedures: Application for examination should be made to the institute either by the service man facing demobilization or by the institution to which he seeks admission. The institute will then arrange to have the applicant tested and examined both for general educational placement and for possible credit in specialized fields. A transcript of the applicant's complete record will then be forwarded by the institute to the college of the applicant's choice. On the basis of this transcript the institution will decide what credit to grant the applicant.

Wayne Wildcats Win After Rally

College Defeats Norfolk Quintet in Game Here Tuesday Evening.

Staging a last quarter rally in which they tallied 16 points while holding the Norfolk team scoreless, Wayne Teachers Wildcats chalked up a 39-34 victory over the visiting college Blackhawk at the college here Tuesday evening.

Norfolk Junior college quintet dominated the first three quarters, leading 20-15 at the half and 34-23 at end of the third quarter. Then Coach Ralph Ginn changed his tactics and the Wildcats guarded their opponents all over the court and began bombarding the hoop themselves. Four Wayne regulars were put out of the game on personal fouls in the last quarter on the rally continued.

The score tied 34-34 with three and a half minutes to play. Then Thomas sank a free throw to break the deadlock. With a minute and a half left to play, Hanson and Dale sank field goals in rapid succession. Norfolk lost two men by way of the foul route during the final period.

Welfare Service Is Told to Club

No accommodations were available for the mother. This branch also deals with inquiry regarding the welfare of prisoners of war.

Reporting deals with emergency funerals. Through this service, a young man was brought from the Pacific zone at the request of his mother who passed away soon after he arrived. Also under this division doctors in camps often send for family history of youths when diagnosis is puzzling.

In the claims service, the Red Cross helps prosecute claims for medical help or aids veterans to get into hospitals.

Family service includes helping relatives of service men to relieve any worry. Just recently the family of a youth was returned after he had gone overseas. The family will repay the cost of bringing them back from camp.

Field, military and home service directors for Red Cross are so closely connected that quick and effective action is possible.

Prof. Parke mentioned other war services of the Red Cross. The organization has field directors in foreign and local camps. J. H. Morrison of Wayne, is one of those directors in England. He serves at the Red Cross camp which provides much needed rest for youths coming from combat missions. The bond bank is an essential war service and Chicago is the processing center for this area.

Another important service the Red Cross renders in wartime is the local production work. Wayne county chapter has filled 1,232 service men's kits. It has also made hundreds of gowns, skuffs,

"Dear Abner" Explodes

THE Barkley flare-up in the senate last week sounded a refreshing note of independence. The senator resented the president's veto of the tax measure, and was especially resentful of the executive's remark that the bill was "not for the needy but for the greedy."

Then followed a vote of confidence by fellow democrats and return of the aggrieved senator to his accustomed post by unanimous vote. Then the veto was lambasted by a majority in each house. The overriding vote in the senate was 72 to 14 and in the house 299 to 95. The bill calling for an appropriation of $2,315,200,000 was far too small to satisfy the chief executive, and thus he sounded sharp disapproval.

But Washington minds perform queer antics. The president hastened to send a note to "Dear Abner" expressing his confidence and good intentions, and the senator hurried back a note emphasizing his towering and unquenchable affection. This disturbing exchange, following critical words read into the record, did not prevent setting aside the veto nor modify triumph of congressional independence.

Notwithstanding "Dear Abner's" obsequiousness on the heels of his wrath, the country takes courage from proof that the senate and house are fast becoming separate and independent entities, determined to serve on the strength of their own judgment and aloof from executive orders or bureaucratic whims.

THE government is forcing people to keep accurate records of their occupational doings, and it is no snap to jump from cultivating fields, tending live stock, answering the demands of customers or portraying the events for a newspaper to mastering figures and revealing a true record of big and little things—mostly little—one is doing to live, serve, stay on his feet and keep out of the red.

When a fellow had no partners and was answerable only to himself it mattered little whether his bookkeeping system was complete or not. Now that the government has voted itself into partnership with every line of human endeavor it is necessary to present an adequately detailed description of operations that will pass the scrutiny of experts who have plenty of time.

So, improved bookkeeping systems are in order, but the simpler they are, the easier will be the task for persons accustomed to doing other things in relation to incoming and outgoing cash.

Parentetically, we once knew a fellow who spent so much time and money in working up a wonderfully elaborate system of keeping records that his otherwise neglected business evaporated and finally he had no use for any kind of system.

Child Health

WE have used in a first-page box the words of the head of the state's medical adviser, touching ways to fortify wholesome childhood and head off child delinquency. We may add the suggestion that over-indulgence—granting the whims of adolescence—is too often accompanied by shirking personal responsibility. Often wrath turned on a child should be aimed at the parent who senses and reasons superficially. A child is a precious gift that needs constantly to be strengthened in the direction of resistance. Neglect shifts the burden temporarily, but later repercussions add immeasurably to the pains of disappointment. To prevent mental or physical disorders, understanding is imperative; active, helpful interest is vital to health and orderly processes. The rote of punishment is too frequently unthinking—a burst of bad temper on the part of the parent. The result is harmful rather than beneficial. Parents may well look to themselves for defects that cause child-irregularity and delinquency.

Producing more with less help is a constant problem on the home front. Taking the able-bodied into the armed forces leaves civilian tasks largely in the hands of those who have lost youth's pristine vigor. Everybody buckles down to his job, puts in long hours and does his best to satisfy demands, looking forward hopefully to the time when a victorious peace will bring relief.

The more Gov. Tom Dewey apparently tries to keep out of the republican presidential race the farther he gets into it. Every time he raises his voice against being a candidate, the political barometer registers stronger than ever for him. What ever he means—whether he will finally yield or not—his reluctant attitude toward the highest office in the world is proving wonderfully sagacious as a means to victory.

Emil Placek, Wahoo banker who resigned as chairman of the Saunders county war finance committee, may be talked into returning to his post, a la "Dear Abner" Barkley. The Wahoo banker may be justly incensed over lagging support of government activities, but if he were permitted to use methods in conflict with legal processes he might invite a train of serious consequences.

Why Profit Now.

(Omaha Journal-Stockman) A reader thinks we have too much in mind to profit in the livestock business at this time, and asks, pertinently—"What difference does it make whether we make any money, so we get this war job done successfully?"

Exactly. There are no financial losses that could compare with loss of what we know as the American way. That is worth preserving, at any cost in goods and chattels.

But the point is that even under war conditions a business must keep solvent in order to continue production. Farming is no exception to that rule. And no business can keep solvent under recurrent losses.

As we have said time and again, the farmer, as we know him, has no ambition to get rich out of the war. He does want to be in position to maintain production for its contribution to the war effort, and asks no more than that.

It is our feeling that food is of such prime importance in carrying on the war that a reasonable price incentive is justified as a national policy. And that in effect must mean that some farmers make good money, for the price level must be such as will keep all farmers producing, the poor farmers as well as the good farmers, to get the vast volume required. And there is no way to prevent that. You can't pay the good farmers poor prices, and the poor farmers good prices.

The Demobilized Airman.

(Omaha World-Herald) The almost fabulous Mr. Kaiser predicts a great era of transportation following the war, particularly in the air. He foresees such a demand for air travel and traffic that hourly plane service between San Francisco and Honolulu may be necessary to meet it.

There is undoubtedly piling up a great backlog of desire to travel which will have to be satisfied after the war by all the agencies of transportation. There is also piling up another backlog of wants for consumer's goods which will have to be satisfied by use of the various mediums of transportation. For a few years at least all the means available will probably be kept humming while people are catching up on their delayed desires.

But Mr. Kaiser asks a question which we would answer somewhat differently than he: He puts it this way:

"What are three million young men in our air forces going to do when they get home? They're going to want to fly. They'll want to make their living that way."

Assuming correctness to the three million figure we suspect that a substantial part of them will want to get back to the kind of employment they left before they took to the air for Uncle Sam. Some of course will want to make aviation a career, but the number may not be anywhere near what Mr. Kaiser suspects. Some even may be so sick of the air they will never want to step into an airplane cockpit or cabin again.

Those who do want to continue as pilots may find unexpected hurdles in the way. They are the result of the different psychology which underlies military and civil aviation. The military aviator is trained not only to expect but to accept certain risks incident to the accomplishment of his mission, while super caution is the basis of the civil aviator's training.

Lesson for President.

(Norfolk Daily News) As passing time gives a chance for a backward look at the tax bill rebellion and what has followed, it appears that the purpose of the rebels was to pull the president down off the high horse he has been riding these last few years.

President Roosevelt's statement "as an interested citizen" (laughter) in which he called the bill to give the soldiers a state ballot with all the names of candidates on it, a fraud, and demanded that his federal postcard ballot, which would give him and some of his favorites an advantage at the election, be passed, irritated some old sores. (It is ironical that one of the candidates the president wanted to help with his bootailed ballot was Senator Barkley himself.)

The sores were rubbed raw by the tax veto message accusing congress of legislating for the needy, and Senator Barkley, who had long restrained his tongue, decided it was time to teach the president his place, and that of congress, in the constitutional scheme. Now if Mr. Roosevelt shows a disposition to climb down off his long-legged mount and become a mere president, there will probably be a disposition on the part of senators and representatives to meet him part way.

Whether the incident will mean more than this depends on whether the fire ignites the prairies and the hillsides and the wooded places. If it should there would be a mighty threat to the fourth term, as the president must know. If the rebellion confines itself to congress, the rebels may let it die out, after having given the president his lesson in constitutional government.

But it must have already taught the president that there is much latent feeling ready to surge up, if he goes too far in his attempt to substitute personal government for constitutional processes.

MAKING ENEMIES.

The Sioux City Journal calls attention to the Roosevelt habit of breaking with friends. The late Gen. Hugh Johnson was a close supporter of the president until something happened to turn friendship into bitter enmity. Jas. A. Farley who is believed to have exercised the power that lifted Roosevelt to the presidency, fell out with him. Alfred E. Smith, another erstwhile supporter, became an outspoken opponent. Brain-truster Raymond Moley, Labor Chief John L. Lewis and former Secretary Harry Woodring, all at one time in high favor, indignantly bolted out of the Roosevelt circle. "Jack" Garner, vice president during two Roosevelt terms, is listed among present enemies. The president bears the reputation of trying to defeat well known democrats—Senator Tydings of Maryland, Senator George of Georgia, and Senator Gillette of Iowa. It is suspected the president will sidetrack Vice President Wallace and order another running-mate. The Barkley flare-up is just another break within the inner circle. The president has a way of alienating closest friends, figuring he can still win in a popularity contest.

Long Beach Home Is Swept by Flood

The recent storm and resulting floods in southern California swept away the home of Harry E. Fisher and Vernon Cassel had on Ocean boulevard in Long Beach. The former Wayne young men had recently had their cabin redecorated. They were about to salvage most of their belongings before the house was taken into the sea by flood waters, and they are now staying in the Dr. L. F. Perry home.

Play Is Presented By Hyannis Pupils

Juniors and seniors of Hyannis high school, directed by Mrs. Hattie Bliervernicht, presented a comedy, "Take it Easy," before a large and appreciative audience Friday evening. The amateur actors proved themselves veterans in the dramatic art under the excellent directorship of Mrs. Bliervernicht. So successful was the production that the instructor and her cast were invited to present the play to soldiers in the hospital at Alliance air base.

Miss Mildred Erxleben recently received from Colonel Cooks a medal for nine months of satisfactory work in the army station hospital.

Mrs. Erxleben states that weather has been cold in the west but residents are thankful for this because it has checked the flu epidemic which broke out in December.

TWO MEN.

An editorial in the Saturday Evening Post, lauding the talent and character of the late William Allen White, draws a contrast between White and another widely known Kansas newspaper writer, Ed. Howe of Atchison. The assigned reason is that White was an optimist and breathed hope, whereas Howe was a pessimist and breathed despair. The editorial explains: "Looking back at those newspaper years, I have sometimes wondered why most of us wanted to be like Bill White rather than that other great Kansas editor, Ed. Howe. Up at Atchison, Ed. Howe was still writing an article like the Emporia editor; he was being heard far beyond the borders of the state. There were two stars of first magnitude in the Kansas firmament, but few of us younger editors could see more than one, and I think now I know the reason why. Howe was cynical and bitter and the ghosts of disillusionment walked through nearly every line of the talented press he wrote. William Allen White was no William Rover Boy who thought the whole world was hunky-dory, but the fires of optimism—the youthful optimism of the west—did burn within him. Ed. Howe said in effect, day after day: 'Everything is stinko, and it will never be any better.' White said: 'Things may be stinko, but, by gosh, we'll make them better.'"

As Seen by Karl Stefan

February 23, 1944. CAA reports that nearly 800 graduates of civilian pilot training schools have been decorated for battle exploits during this war. Some have received as many as 18 citations. Some of the Nebraskans in the list are: Wm. P. Dwyer, Randolph, the distinguished flying cross and the air medal; Frank L. Gaunt, North Platte, Nebraska, the air medal, one oak leaf cluster; Dalton C. Goerke, Burr, Nebraska, the distinguished flying cross; Merle C. Hamilton, Orchard, Nebraska, the distinguished flying cross; Robert A. Moos, Omaha, Nebraska, the air medal; Melvin G. Pfund, Norfolk, Nebraska, the purple heart, the silver star, one oak leaf cluster; Russell K. Pierce, Jr., Fremont, Nebraska, the silver star, distinguished flying cross, the air medal; Louis A. Prehal, Omaha, Nebraska, the distinguished flying cross, the air medal; Arthur Rouse, Jr., Oxford, Nebraska, the air medal; Henry K. Smith, Omaha, the air medal.

The president of the Nebraska State Society in Washington is Robert Shields of Wynora, solicitor for the department of agriculture. Hundreds of Nebraskans who work for the government in Washington are members. They get together frequently in order to get better acquainted and keep Nebraska traditions alive in the nation's capital. One report is there are now 7,200 Nebraskans in the District of Columbia.

Mrs. Vladimir Palic, wife of the First Secretary of the Czechoslovakian Embassy, drives a Red Cross truck. She is one of the many women representing allied governments doing volunteer work here. She is well known in Nebraska.

Emil Hurja, once statistician for the democratic national committee, is now giving out republican statistics. He was seen at the republican Lincoln day gathering here working with pencil and paper.

Lieutenant Herbert Blutchel who once lived in Norfolk, is now with the anti-aircraft forces. He is taking special training at a camp in Maryland and expects to join his outfit on the east coast in the near future preliminary to going overseas.

The U. S. Botanic gardens in Washington are getting ready for the annual azalea show. Hundreds of beautiful azaleas are displayed under roof and thousands of lovers of flowers visit the display each year.

Capt. Darvel Dudley of Norfolk is in charge of two of the biggest army laundries in the United States. The army has about forty large laundries. The ones run by Capt. Dudley and another one are the only ones that show a profit. Captain Dudley is stationed at Ft. Belvoir, eighteen miles from Washington and laundry for thousands of enlisted men is serviced in the two large laundries that he operates. He received his training in his father's laundry at Norfolk.

Lt. J. C. "Ted" Dell of Beatrice is one of the outstanding air transport command officers at the Washington national airport. He has charge of much of the important air transport work along the east coast. Lt. Clifford Carmody of Norfolk is also stationed at the national airport in Washington. He has charge of priorities on air travel.

The report is that the $86 billion Pentagon building will become a combination building after the war. It may house most of the regular army activities during peace time and part of it will be used for the storage of valuable papers now in many structures around Washington.

Military police guarding the White House are commanded by Colonel Casteel of Nebraska. These M. P.'s, at least a dozen of them Nebraskans, are quartered in substantial barracks just south and west of the White House.

Kangaroo courts in war prison camps in the United States have resulted in several suicides and other violent deaths. The outstanding case in the prisoner of war camp at Concordia, Kansas, was called to the attention of the war department. The department is taking every precaution to detect discord among prisoners of war growing out of racial, political and national differences, and to prevent self-initiated disciplinary activities by groups of prisoners against other prisoners. The scheming of these groups is secret and conducted in foreign languages, and it is often not apparent until some violence occurs. The department tells the Third district office that where it is believed a prisoner or group of prisoners are in danger of violent treatment by another faction of prisoners, violence is precluded by transfers of prisoners to more suitable camps. The investigation into the camp at Concordia brought no result because of the attitude of the prisoners called as witnesses. They refused to divulge information to the American officer, apparently either because of their faithfulness to the fatherland or because of fear of the wrath of their comrades.

Jesus is the founder of the church. It is 2,000 years old. It has been persecuted and neglected but cannot be overthrown. It is a place to worship God and learn of Him, and through it we can serve a needy world. Lent is an appropriate time to give more time and thought to Jesus through the days of His suffering, death and triumph.

Former Student Is Training as Pilot

Among the second group of women's air force service pilots to take to the cockpit of the speedy B-26 Marauder bomber at Dodge City, Kan., army air field is Miss Mueller of Thayer, former Wayne college student and granddaughter of Mrs. J. G. Berg of Atlanta. The women began a nine-week transition flight training course.

The 20 women fliers, commonly known as WASPs, are special civil service employees who are being trained by the army air forces for non-combatant flying duties, such as piloting top target planes at gunnery schools of the AAF training command.

The women receive the same strenuous 14-hour-a-day course as given to men fliers who will soon be Marauder combat pilots. The schedule includes transition flying, instrument training, local night flights, navigation, day and night cross country trips, plus hours of classwork at the technical training department.

"The arrival of more WASPs for Marauder transition training indicates that the first experimental group proved highly successful in the assignment after leaving the field," stated Col. C. B. Root, commanding Dodge City field.

Most of the women pilots wear blue WASP uniforms. However, those who have not yet been able to secure uniforms wear officer shirts and slacks.

WASPs reside in special barracks set aside for them in the officers quarters area.

Miss Mueller was a parachute packer before she took up the pilot training.

stationed at San Francisco, has received orders to go to Oregon for a time before an overseas assignment.

Is in Texas Camp.

Pvt. James B. Grier, jr., who entered service recently, is stationed at Camp Wolters, Tex., for training at the infantry replacement center. He is assigned to a battalion stressing heavy weapons.

Goes to Columbia.

A/S Francis Smith, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Weber of Wayne, finished his training at Minot, N. D., and has gone to Columbia university in New York City to finish officer training.

Is Here on Visit.

A/S Warren Noakes, U. S. N. R., who is studying at Maryville, Mo., arrived Friday to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Noakes, until March 6. Mr. Noakes has just completed one course and will return to Missouri to start on his final course there.

Writes from Italy.

Pfc. B. I. Davis, with American hospital forces in Italy, writes February 10 that he just received the December 16 issue of the Herald and found it most interesting even though it was two months old. The young man adds that he will be glad when the war is over and he can land back in Wayne again.

Will Arrive Friday.

Cpl. Dorothy Liedtke and Mrs. Byron Darnell will arrive Saturday to visit their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Liedtke and Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Ellis, Cpl. Liedtke, who is with the WACS, is stationed at Dale Mabry Field, Tallahassee, Fla. Mrs. Darnell is with her husband who is stationed at Sbrning.

Gets Overseas Orders.

Lt. Margaret Mines, medical department dietitian with the army,

Fla. The two young ladies met at Jacksonville and will make the trip home together. Mr. and Mrs. Liedtke plan to meet them in Omaha.

In Advanced Course.

Kenneth E. Whorlow, son of Mrs. Cora Whorlow of Wayne, is a member of the largest class of aviation cadets reporting at Foster Field, Tex., for the last step of pilot schooling. Foster Field is an advanced flight training pilot school. Upon completion of the course, the youth will receive his silver pilot's wings and commission of second lieutenant.

Trains As Pilot.

Aviation Cadet Myron Erickson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernhard Erickson of Wakefield, has just completed basic flying training at the Merced army air field in California and will now take advanced training to earn his silver pilot wings.

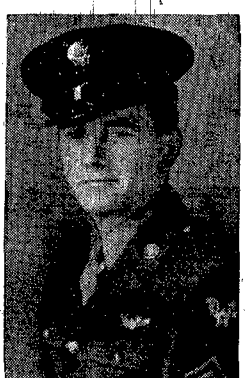

The youth enlisted in the fall of 1942 and was called to service February 16, 1943. He started his course at Grand Forks, N. D., and went from there to Santa Ana, and then to Twenty-nine Palms, Calif., later to Merced. He is now in Douglas, Ariz.

The Bernhard Ericksons are in Pasadena, Cal., at present.

Heralds Reach China.

"Just a few lines to let you know that I am receiving the Herald and am enjoying it more than ever," writes Pfc. Marvin E. Fredrickson February 11 from China. "Most of the issues are anywhere from three to four months old by the time they get here but that doesn't lessen my interest in them in the least. Yesterday I received the December 2 issue which got here in record time. I hope that succeeding copies will find their way to China just as fast. I always enjoy reading the service news and am proud to be from a community where so much interest is taken in the boys and girls who are in the service. Keep up the good work."

Earns Air Medal.

S. Sgt. Glenn M. Sandahl, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Sandahl, has been awarded the air medal for "meritorious achievement in combat with the enemy." He is a ball turret gunner on a Flying Fortress and is with the 8th air force in England.

Likes Far North.

"I wish more people around Wayne knew what this country of Alaska is like," writes Cpl. Sol Grunke February 21. "Before I arrived here I thought it would be a very desolate place. I like it much better up here than the camps in which I was stationed in the states. Don't take me wrong I don't like this country better than I do the states but if I have to be in foreign service, I want to spend that time in Alaska. The coldest weather we had this winter has been about 26 below zero, and that is not very cold for being this far north. We haven't had a great deal of snow either and most of it has melted now. The winter sports are really great in this country - skiing, ice skating and all the winter sports that a person would care to take part in. We have a very fine skating rink on the post and we have music over a loud speaker system so you see we have a great deal to do in our spare time if we have any."

"When I first joined the outfit I had the job of driving one of the staff cars but now I am mail clerk. I handle more mail for this outfit than the entire population of the city of Wayne. I have one man helping me part of the time. I have plenty to do to keep me busy. I really like my work very much. "I wish that I had the power to tell you really what this country is like. One has to see it to be able to appreciate the beauty. Alaska has all kinds of scenery, and the appearance of it is changing constantly."

Cpl. Grunke tells that he just received the February 3 issue of the Herald and it was most welcome. "I always read it from one end to the other. I even read the want ads."

Picture in Post Resembles Youth

Colorful pictures of India, in the February 26 issue of the Saturday Evening Post, include a group of four, one of whom appears to be Pfc. John Claycomb, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Claycomb of Wayne. The two pages of brightly colored views show a strange contrast of the modern and primitive in India. In one of the scenes, three army men and an Indian boy mascot are watching an impromptu

Five Sons Serving Armed Forces Soon

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Nichols will soon have all their children, five sons, in service. J. J. Nichols of Omaha, the eldest, plans to dispose of this business so that he may enter training May 1. Sgt. M. E. Nichols is at Lowrey Field, Denver; Sgt. D. W. Nichols is with a motorized division in Africa; SF 3-C Charles Nichols is with the Seabees in Ireland; and Sgt. Robert E. Nichols is with an engineering corps in England.

Gets Two Heinkels Off Coast of Italy

Further details have come from the war department regarding the engagement in which 1st Lt. Wm. Beverly Canning of Wayne, shot down two Heinkel 115s, while flying with an AAF Spitfire squadron on a bombing mission off the coast of Italy recently. Canning accounted for two of three Heinkels brought down in that engagement.

Sighting the three Heinkels, Lt. Canning closed in to within 40 feet of one on the outside, firing all the time. Both engines of the Heinkel burst into flames and the aircraft dropped into the sea.

Lt. Canning then went after the lead ship of the bomber formation and caught it. From 200 yards Canning began firing and hit the Heinkel all along the fuselage on the right side. Then, pulling directly astern, he fired at the left engine and wing, tearing big gaps in the wing, flaps and aileron. Canning continued firing until oil poured out of the engine and the bomber burst into flames and crashed on the water.

Happy Christmas Is Provided for English Children

Americans whose home circles were broken at Christmas by absence of those in the armed forces prefer not to recall the past holiday but instead like to think of next Christmas when young men may be home. But to hundreds of English children the holiday just past will linger in memory as the brightest in their lives.

Copies of the Peterborough papers, sent by J. H. Morrison, Red Cross field director for the army, tell of the gigantic Christmas party staged by Americans for children in Northamptonshire and Huntingdonshire. The party was held in the Red Cross Aeroclub located on the Rothschild estate. Not far from the club is the Rothschild mansion, now a British convalescent home. In summer months men who frequent the club use the swimming pool, billiard room and other facilities of the estate.

Hundreds of little folks were "adopted" for a few hours by American units in the neighborhood. Transports collected the children and took them to Red Cross recreation centers where the generosity of hosts was beyond mere words.

In the decoration of their halls the men ran wild. One unit spent 19 pounds on holly alone. Colored fairy lights in gigantic trees flashed welcome. Huge fireplaces were specially built for the arrival of Santa Claus. Some of the men had made toys; others prepared tiny red stockings containing candies. For some weeks the Americans spent their spare time and saved from their own rations to provide for the little folks.

One 150-foot room was turned into fairyland. After children had eaten their fill of sandwiches, cake and real ice cream, all became one big family. A young hostess from Philadelphia, started off the fun with "My name's Helen Page, what's yours." Then the youngsters were introduced to Santa Claus and lots of the little folks found for the first time that Santa is a big husky fellow in red suit trimmed in white and that he has an American accent. One serious little lady of 9 remarked, "I don't care if he has an American accent. All nice people are Americans."

Rope spinning by a real cowboy

straight from the wild and woolly west, liting hill-billies with guitars, a gay nineties show and many other features kept the big family thrilled from time the children arrived until they departed for home chattering like magpies; in their excitement over a Christmas for which the hearts of their parents were really too full to thank their American hosts enough.

In the main lounge the Americans carried out the traditional English custom of burning the Christmas decorations between 11 and midnight. For hundreds of years the English have followed this observance. All joined in singing the Twelfth night carol.

Canon St. John Wayne, honorary chaplain to the U. S. forces, expressed the children's thanks when he said, "They will never forget Christmas, 1943, the biggest party they have had, and a party such as they might never have again."

Confusion Grows Over the Murphys

Colonel Pins Own Wings on Air Graduate to Avoid Any Disappointment.

The Richard Murphys at Livingston, Mont., (there are two of them, and each has a wife named Dorothy), thought their problems were solved when one joined the navy's Seabees. Then the other Richard Murphy joined the Seabees, and the navy has a new head-ache. They're at the same base, work in the same office as storekeepers and—each is Petty Officer Richard Murphy.

One by one, members of a Douglas, Ariz., airfield cadet class received their wings from Col. Harvey F. Dyer, their commanding officer, at graduation exercises. As the last cadet stepped forward, Col. Dyer found he was shy one emblem. So, smiling warmly, he unfastened the wings from his own blouse, pinned them on the fledgling flyer.

Cried Chaplain, Frank B. Edwards at Camp Roberts, Cal., when blonde Bernice Sweet appeared with S. Sgt. Marvin J. Ewe: "Young lady, I can't marry you, you're already married." But he did. Miss Sweet produced her twin sister, who a few weeks before had been married to Pvt. Arnold Vinge by the chaplain.

At Daytona Beach, Fla., WAC First Sgt. Rosemary Genzle and Marine S. Sgt. Louis Champbell walked into the county judge's office of a nearby town for a marriage license. "The clerk isn't here right now to type it for you," said the judge. "Oh, that's all right," said the WAC. "I'll do it." She did.

At New York Daniel Feldman politely asked three holdup men to return his wallet after they had fished out the cash. One of them graciously did so. When police arrived, Feldman discovered the wallet was not his, but the hold-up man's. And it contained identification papers. Police made an arrest shortly afterwards.
