

Befalls Another Wayne Family—Congressman Reports Renewed Action—Democratic Candidate for Governor—Fourth Term Discussed—Stored Corn.

Sunday was a black day for the McMasters—Dr. and Mrs. C. A. parents of Wayne, whose death with the United States armed forces in Italy, was reported in a telegram from the war department. Fate's severest blow—life's deepest sorrow—came amidst low-hanging clouds and drizzling rain. Wayne was originally with the air ground force in Italy, but some months ago, eager for greater action, he joined the paratroopers, and with such intensified service, involved increased peril.

Thus, to another Wayne family is brought a sharp close-up on the horrors of war, and like all such tragic consequences, it finds feeble mortals with inadequate words to express sympathy and lacking in ways to extend relief. Like the great army of American boys, young, ambitious and justly popular, it was an only son—the idol and hope of a worthy couple. His passing in the service of his country on a foreign battle field causes pang that only time and supernal grace can modify.

It was Wayne's mother whose thoughtful consideration for the Herald's free service to soldier boys, inspired dedication of Hollywood's Sardi's program to the associate editor a year ago. Ardent devotion to her own son led her to helpful sympathy for all boys on all fronts. Translating actuality into memory is a hard task. It takes a mountain of courage to stand blasted hope. May friends do their best to assuage the grief of these heartbroken parents! May heaven sustain them in their irreparable loss!

Another Wayne Boy. Since the above was written; another distressing report concerning another brave Wayne county boy, Vernie Brockman, son of the Ed. Brockmans, has been received. The war department announces that he is missing. His plane was shot down while engaged in a bombing mission over Germany. The machine did not catch fire, and the hope is maintained that he is a prisoner and alive. The Herald joins in this profoundly felt hope.

Daylight Saving Time. Congressman Karl Stefan reports renewed action in Washington against the present so-called daylight saving time. Those who favor continuing the existing mistake, say it conserves electricity, safeguards health and speeds production. On the contrary, observers in the middle west a few years ago reported increased consumption of electricity with no advantages in any direction. Many farmers, finding the new time did not answer their work demands, did not accept it, but stuck to the old order. People following different time standards are in such conflict that much inconvenience results. Plans do not work so well under disagreeing standards, and a generally applied arrangement would serve better and prevent a lot of ill temper. We think the middle west particularly would welcome return to the former order.

Proposes to Stick. Democratic chiefs are reported trying to persuade George C. Olsen to withdraw as the party's nominee for governor and permit the state convention to fill the vacancy. But why should Olsen withdraw? Was he not the choice of a majority of the sovereign voters of his party in a legally conducted primary? Would he spurn their judgment by lying down and kicking out of his racing harness? Is there an implication that he is not qualified merely because he is employed in manual labor? Didn't Lincoln split rails? But Olsen announces that he will not withdraw, and that any questions touching his official policies in the event of his election will be cheerfully answered at the state convention. In the meantime he will remain with his job at the Martin bomber plant.

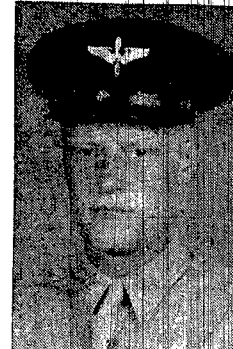

Burke Rated High. Former Senator Burke of Nebraska, was the star speaker in Town Hall of the Air's program last Thursday night. The proposed fourth term was the subject, and Burke's reasoning against perpetuating leadership was clear-cut and convincing. His answers to questions were quick and elocuting. He made plain that no one man among 100,000,000 could be rated as indispensable. He shattered the notion about changing streams while crossing a stream, pointing out that many persons are capable of success in concluding the war and shaping the peace.

Marking Old Corn. The government is trying to induce midwestern farmers to move their sealed corn to market and into consumption. Quality of stored corn depends on its protection against weather and rodents. The longer it is kept exposed, the worse it gets, and the sooner it is converted to use, the better it serves.

Mrs. Victor Peterson of Emerson, is a medical patient at a local hospital.

Reported Missing In European Area

Lt. Vernie R. Brockman Is Co-Pilot of Ship Going Down Over Germany.

Lt. Vernie R. Brockman, 27, of Wayne, co-pilot on a B-24, has been missing over Germany since April 8, according to a telegram coming to Mrs. Brockman Saturday from the war department. In a letter which Mrs. Brockman received Friday, a buddy of the Wayne flier tells that his ship was in the same formation with Lt. Brockman's and that he saw the latter's plane in a controlled glide and it was not afire. Mrs. Brockman is hopeful that she will get word that her husband is a prisoner of war.

Lt. Brockman enlisted in service May 18, 1942, and first trained in the signal corps at Camp Graceland, Mo. He transferred to the air corps November 30 and was in Nashville, Tenn., in December and January. His next phase of training was taken in February and (Continued on Page Two)

MEMORIES JOGGED IN ANTICIPATION OF EXPIRATION DATES

NOTICES are sent each month to subscribers whose payments are due or nearly due, and unless remittances are made promptly, their names are necessarily removed from the Herald's list. We are anxious for those who want the newspaper to have it, but a desire to remain a subscriber is best expressed by remittance when the time runs out. The Herald's list has reached an all-time volume and with 500 going to Wayne county boys in the armed forces, consumption of news print has taken a big jump. We must conserve paper by sending copies only by electronic subscribers who pay promptly in advance. Those receiving notices this week should clasp in early and plank down of transit by mail the required simoleons to insure uninterrupted news service to their addresses.

Good Will Week Being Observed

Kiwanians Paying Tribute To Long Friendship of Two Large Nations. United States-Canada Good Will week is being observed by Kiwanis International from April 23 to 29, according to messages from President Franklin Roosevelt and Prime Minister Mackenzie King. The dispatches from these leaders were read to Wayne Kiwanians Monday by Dr. R. P. Cuff, secretary of the local club.

"Peaceful relations between the two nations is based on positive liking, admiration and trust of each other," states President Roosevelt. In a special bulletin to the 28,000 members of 2,200 clubs, the chief executive said that "great walls and Maginot lines have never succeeded in maintaining peace between nations. We have strong, sturdy staff than steel and masonry rely upon. And this is the fact that the people of the United States and Canada like, admire and trust each other."

"This week marks the 127th anniversary of the Rush-Bagot agreement between the two countries, one of the oldest in force treaties of friendship in the world, so it is especially fitting that Kiwanians observe this week," added the president.

In his message Prime Minister King stated that Good Will week provides an opportunity for exchanging ideas.

A suit growing out of a land deal filed by Chris Luaders against John Luschen and wife, was heard before District Judge F. H. Wayne Paratrooper Dies on Beachhead

GROUND SOAKED TO GREAT DEPTH BY A PROTRACTED RAIN

LAST year the fall of moisture was comparatively light. Hoped-for rains in the autumn did not come, and winter's snow was not great enough to lend much help. March's contribution of moisture was rather meagre, and we were feeling anxious. Would enough moisture come to satisfy the soil's demands? Then April wheeled into the harness and opened the moisture valves. As a climax to weeks of clouds and intermittent showers, the weather got down to business Saturday night and directed a steady drizzle on the terra hereabouts and kept it up all night and all day Sunday. It must have soaked well into the ground—to a depth not experienced in many years. Muddy fields have held up plowing and planting, but when they are dry enough to work, their soaked richness will respond quickly. We have too lively recollection of drought to be mad about extra moisture. We know, too, that wet ground is a powerful grasshopper resistant.

1st Lt. Wayne A. McMaster Succumbs to Wounds In Early March.

First Lieutenant Wayne A. McMaster, nearly 24, only son of Dr. and Mrs. C. A. McMaster of Wayne, died March 3 in Italy as result of wounds received in action, according to a telegram received Sunday morning, April 23, from the war department in Washington. The message from Acting Adjutant General Dunlop also states that letters will follow.

A V-mail letter written February 28 by Lt. McMaster to his parents reads, "Still in the traces. Alive and well. Wrote you two days ago. So you must know by now I am on the Anzio beachhead. Busy. Thinking of you all the time. Don't worry. Write as often as you can. Plenty of activity here. Don't be too optimistic about an early end of the war."

His Special Mission. A dispatch from the war department, received by the Herald for the March 23 issue, told that Lt. McMaster and Cpl. Wylter Flehr, the latter of Baltimore, "ran into trouble on a reconnaissance mission of the Fifth army's Anzio-Nettuno beachhead, but they returned on schedule with the information they sought for their 3rd infantry division. On their way to determine enemy strength in a stream bed, the two twofold-countered nazis who interfered with their patrolling. But they were able to overcome them and learned that the stream bed had been abandoned by the enemy. It is believed that Lt. McMaster was wounded in this encounter, which likely took place, the very last of February or first of March.

Enlists After Pearl Harbor. Lt. McMaster was one of the American young men realizing the importance of the present world conflict and taking most seriously his responsibility in it. He enlisted at Fort MacArthur, Cal., at the holidays in 1941, just after Pearl (Continued on Page Two)

Education as Investment.

"Pop Rings the Bell" was the name of the sound motion picture shown by Dr. Geo. C. Seek. This dealt with education as an investment rather than an assessment and with education as a responsibility of the community, the state and the nation. The film enumerated the benefits which education brings, such as increase of earning power, a decrease of juvenile delinquency and the giving to citizens of the information they need to make democracy work.

Lifetime earning power for an individual who has finished elementary school is estimated at $64,000, the picture showed, while that for one completing high school is $88,000 and for one being graduated from college is $160,000.

Herman Baehr, directed the group in singing.

Besides 47 members, guests were Dr. Geo. C. Seek who showed the motion picture, M. J. Ryan of South Stouk City, who was with E. S. Berry, and Lt. K. E. Cline who was with M. N. Foster.

Julia gives 8 ideas for the re-freshment of homes

SPRING housecleaning? Of course it can be a nuisance! But it doesn't have to be, as I've discovered long ago. There are dozens of ways to "cut corners" and still do a very thorough job of it (I find some new ways every spring). Let me suggest a few of them:

FLOORS Floors which are of non-waxed wood need a good bath of soapy water, and then a rinsing with clear water—but if a little furniture polish is added to the rinsing water, cleanliness is improved by real shining! (Work with the grain of the wood, of course.)

WOODWORK Wash painted or varnished woodwork with a paste made of mild soap powders and water. Then rinse thoroughly with lukewarm water. But remember: wash only a small space at one time, and then rub it until dry!

CEILING When you find cobwebs in the corner, up there in the closet, wrap a clean cloth around the business end of a broom and lift them away if they're brushed into the ceilings and walls, too bad!

FURNITURE When hot dishes have been rested on the varnished surface of furniture, leaving white marks, those marks are polished by rubbing with a damp cloth, seasoned with a few drops of ammonia; then waxed and polished. But do the rubbing and polishing gently, and with the grain.

PIANO KEYS have become yellowed, wet them with a cloth dipped in alcohol, or with flannel dipped in cologne.

WINDOWS Are your windows murky with winter film? Then take a cloth wrung out in equal portions of water and vinegar—that takes off the murk. To achieve really clear vision, polish the windows with a generous pad of newspaper, which leaves no lint.

Speaking of windows, how are your sills? It doesn't take a minute to wash them, both inside and out—and a good waxing is insurance against their aging prematurely.

IN GENERAL Ever notice (back in pre-war days) how swiftly and efficiently the hotel maids cleaned rooms? One reason they carried all their tools, liquids, etc., with them in a handy basket. There's an idea—saves running back and forth for this and that... makes the job easier!

Draft Changes

CONGRESSMAN Curtis of Nebraska, complained to the house recently about confusion caused by frequent changes in draft rules. He did not blame draft boards, but the top stratum in authority. He said among other things: "A great many individuals have quit their jobs, closed their businesses, or held a farm sale, or abandoned their law practice and prepared to go into the service, only to be notified that the rules have been changed and they were not to report." Noting variable draft policies, reporting certain upper age groups in the air over their plans, the World-Herald in a recent editorial said, referring to a recent Washington authorities:

"They blew hot and they blew cold, sometimes changing their policies between the morning editions and the evening editions of the same day. With the result that the millions of men concerned, and their fathers and mothers and wives and children, were left completely confused and unable on one day to make intelligent plans for the next.

"The need here, as in many other Washington bureaus, is for less new dealing and more plain dealing. The millions whose lives can be upset by edicts from the bureaus would relish the chance to plan their affairs, for at least a few months in advance, on the basis of firm national policies clearly declared. The present war of nerves as waged by the bureaus is wearing them out, and surely that does not help our war effort."

REPUBLICANS and democrats are shaping affairs incident to campaign activities. County conventions are scheduled for today, democrats meeting in the court room this morning and republicans using the same atmosphere this afternoon.

Not much business is done at county conventions under the primary system which has absorbed the exciting function of making nominations. In old convention days when candidates vied for places on the ticket, feverish interest was developed without difficulty. Even naming delegates to state and national conventions has been captured by the primary. All left to county meetings is to shake hands, pass resolutions, listen to hopeful speeches and adjourn.

State conventions do little more of real consequence. Republicans assemble in state convention at Norfolk next Monday to hear a political orator or name pick the new deal to pieces. At this writing local democrats have not been informed of the date or place for their state convention.

Real political fire is held in abeyance until the national conventions—republicans in June and the democrats in July. From then on, in addition to winning the war, rival candidates will engage in a lively contest of ideas to be settled the first Tuesday in November.

Timely Warning

"THIS is disagreeable advice for some of the windbags who would like to run the republican campaign, but it deserves consideration," says the Saturday Evening Post in warning the party against domination by ante-bellum mossbacks. It points out that voters are sick and tired of the new deal and are ready and anxious to junk it, but they do not want to fall into the clutches of mere "agingers." Governor Griswold of Nebraska, is mentioned among others who see enlarged opportunities for service and are eager to measure up to ideas of practical world responsibility. Any who fear the party will be bogged down by selfish reactionaries are probably mistaken, as we hope. The encouragement which is sadly lacking in new deal leadership, must be provided by a forthright republican party, proceeding along soundly constructive lines. Then it will win, deserve to win and make good after it wins.

The proposed gold-based stabilization fund agreed to by 34 nations would promise convenience in transacting business, and if it could be adopted without saddling more burdens on Uncle Sam than he could carry, it would appear to be a move in the direction of solving monetary problems. Striking down gold and taking it out of circulation never seemed right to this editor, and we have hoped the precious metal would be restored to old-time consideration and use. If gold were made the world standard it would likely encourage a fair uniformity of values. And this one standard becomes more important as world relationships become closer and more interdependent.

We are reminded by the state department of health that now is the time to take steps against the fly menace by getting rid of filth and putting up screens. Flies breed in dirt, and one fly lays from 600 to 1,000 eggs during its brief lifetime. As flies buzz around, light on and amply exposed human cuticle, they are said to convey and insert dangerous disease germs. Therefore, sanitary measures are important, and all possible barriers to fecal fly circulation should be provided.

Secretary Knox is quoted as saying four out of five young men do not pass physical tests for entrance into the marines. We doubt if that ratio would hold true in the middle west. In fact, as we understand, qualifications for admission into any branch of the armed services are more often met in the great plains states than in any part of the soft and over-stuffed east.

No Inflation?

(Omaha Journal-Stockman)
So we aren't going to let it happen again—inflation, that is. That is the "line" that federal government propaganda has been following for many months—the line, also to which the president has pointed with pride on many occasions, once just recently when, on the anniversary of his famous "hold-the-line" speech, he cited the success of efforts to control the cost of living.

Some things, it must be admitted, have been held down in price—foods, and especially livestock and meat, for example—and that despite the fact that wages of the mass of war workers have gradually increased. Land values, it seems, also are rising. For example, take this paragraph from a recent government report on "Current Developments in the Farm Real Estate Market":

"The behavior of land values now is very similar to what it was in the last boom. Since this war started, farm values for the United States as a whole have risen at almost exactly the same rate as they did during the last boom period. Values now stand at almost two-fifths above the average immediately before this war. To say that we are not on the road to highly inflated land prices now would be to deny that we had a boom before. Then, as now, purchasers just refused to believe that land prices were inflated, because they thought they would always have a market for their products at high prices. But in the middle twenties and early thirties it was not hard to convince those same purchasers that they had paid too much for their land during the boom. Two million farm foreclosures told the tragic story."

Of course, there are extenuating circumstances. Land values in many parts of the United States were abnormally low when the war started. That's one. Another is that a far larger percentage of the land purchased since this war started has been paid for in cash, or largely in cash, than was the case in World War I. Still, official propaganda to the contrary notwithstanding, there's no denying that we do have inflation—not only in land values, but in wages, in the cost of many goods and services, and in the price of some foods. Those are facts which lose weight for the official protestations of "no inflation."

POSTWAR TAXES.

Senator Tamm, who is chairman of the advisory committee appointed to work out a plan to present to the republican national convention on postwar taxation; is quoted as favoring sufficiently high taxes on restoration of peace to balance the national budget. The Lincoln Journal comments: "This is a realistic approach to the most important problem that will then confront the nation. It is the sort of thing that congress refused to face when it constructed the present tax bill. The next congress is fairly certain to be republican, and the mandate of the national convention will be binding upon it, as it is intended to be. No easy task will confront congress. Any tax bill passed must take into account the necessity of lifting from the back of business all burdens that interfere with the prompt reconversion required to keep employment at a high level, while at the same time recognizing that it is from the larger corporations that the greatest contributions to the national budget must come. It must calculate with reasonable accuracy just what is going to happen to the national income when production for war purposes tapers off with the diminishing needs of the armed forces."

Logan McBride, formerly of Elgin, Neb., is now a major general and is in command of a division recently transferred from Arizona to Fort Dix, N. J. General McBride was appointed to the United States military academy by the late Dan Stephens of Fremont.

The Nebraska delegation observed Arbor Day by visiting the trees planted in memory of J. Sterling Morton, who was secretary of agriculture in the cabinet of Grover Cleveland. One of the trees is a white pine planted in front of the capitol and the other is a Nebraska elm planted near the department of agriculture administration building. Both trees are showing healthy growth.

Former King Carol of Romania is still seeking permission to enter the United States. He is now in Mexico.

Three members of the Nebraska Aeronautics Commission, Chairman Donald D. Mapes of Norfolk, Harold Jensen of Ainsworth, and Clyde Sharrar of Omaha, spent several days in Washington. In that time, they examined proposed changes in the Len Aviation bill and visited Wm. Burden, assistant secretary of commerce for air, Charles I. Stanton, civil aeronautics administrator, Charles Donaldson in charge of airports in the CAA, and other leading aviation experts. The Nebraska commission was told that until both the army and the navy finally decide what use may be made of air fields not immediately essential to the army, no definite program for community acquisition of the fields can be developed. The members of the commission called upon all six members of the Nebraska delegation in congress.

Gretchen Galley, daughter of Clifford Galley, former chief of the Columbus fire department, has been in Washington as a swimming member of the Water Babies of 1944. The cast includes featured performers of both world's fair acquades.

The Third district representative was appointed by the speaker to serve as a member of the board of visitors to the United States naval academy at Annapolis, Md. The assignment covered four days. The duties of the board are to report upon the adequacy and condition of the physical equipment and to recommend changes in the physical equipment that may be considered necessary or advisable to report upon the curriculum and to recommend such changes in method or practice that may be considered desirable; to report upon the general state of morale and discipline and any other matters contributory to the increased efficiency of the academy.

The alien property custodian is cooperating with the Smaller War Plants corporation in making about 45,000 alien patents available to American manufacturers. Many of these alien patents are being displayed at city hall in Kansas City, also in St. Louis, where interested manufacturers can examine their possibilities.

Three members of the Washington parliament have arrived in Washington and met with many members of both the house and senate. The three members are: Lt. Col. E. T. R. Wickham, conservative, The Earl of Lisowel, labour, G. Spencer Summers, conservative. The British have invited the American congress to send a delegation to visit the British parliament at some convenient time.

The growing dissatisfaction due to country-wide daylight saving time particularly in the farm areas is showing increasingly in congress. Farm members never have believed that daylight saving time is suitable to farming communities and opposed its legislative authorization in the beginning and have all the while since its adoption in January, 1942, insisted upon its modification, if not its repeal. However, the members of congress representing city and industrial districts have acted on the belief that daylight saving is a war conservation expedient in that it would conserve electric power, be conducive to health and speed up factory production. Those who have opposed daylight saving time say that now the accumulated evidence shows that the change in time has not accomplished any of the objectives claimed for it and that in fact electric energy has been unnecessarily wasted, that the health of neither young people nor old people has been aided and that, as a matter of fact, so-called war time has provoked rather than reduced absenteeism in war production plants. The prospect of modification or repeal of daylight saving time has never lagged for want of bills introduced in both the house and the senate to direct return to standard time. However, there has not yet at any time been accumulated sufficient voting strength to pass any of those bills over the opposition of those still holding the view that daylight saving time is a necessary war measure. Recently, however, the influential chairman of the house committee on appropriations, a representative from the state of Missouri, has become active in the repeal movement and has coupled his interest with the introduction of a repealer bill which is significant because of the standing of the member who introduced it, but is in no wise different in text from several bills earlier introduced. The house committee on interstate and foreign commerce has on several preceding occasions held hearings on proposed return to standard time, at least during several months of the year, if not for the whole year, but each time the committee has concluded that the evidence for retention of the daylight saving statute has outweighed the evidence for modification or repeal. Accordingly, it has not yet been possible to get the committee on interstate and foreign commerce to report any bill to the house for debate and vote. The recent activity of the chairman of the committee on appropriations may be indicative of increasing strength of the repeal advocates and, apparently, the only remedy for the existing situation is the persistence of those advocating modification of repeal until such time as they have recruited sufficient votes in congress to pass their measure.

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Laume of Ulisses, Neb., are in Washington visiting their daughter, Mrs. Wade Thomas.

There is a rumbling of dissatisfaction in both houses as to what is the real situation in India and Burma. At the Quebec conference, it was announced that Lord Mountbatten, cousin of the British king, had been made commander-in-chief of the allied forces in India. The monsoon season ended in October, and he was expected to move into a campaign to drive the Japs out of Burma, open the Burma highway to China, and start on the long road to Tokio. The monsoon season with torrential rains and constant storms will set in again next month. Lord Mountbatten has not made the expected progress. The fighting against the Japs in Burma has been done mainly by American and Chinese troops, aided by our powerful air force. Then, as the dry season ends, the Japs are actually invading India. There is said to be conflicting opinions as to the war in Burma, Lord Mountbatten favoring making an attack to recover Singapore, while General Stilwell wants to drive through to China. No matter what the facts are, six months of good weather have gone without positive advance, and the wet season will soon be on, postponing further activities until next October. Certainly our people who are doing their utmost to win the war are entitled to know why nothing big happens in Burma and China while our brave forces are steadily driving the Japs back in the Pacific.

Care of Soybeans Advised by Agents

Farmers are urged by Agents Howard Glasspie and W. R. Harder to see that soybean seed planted this spring is properly inoculated, especially on land that has not repeatedly grown the crop. Inoculation by either commercial inoculants or by the use of properly inoculated soil can be effective, but the commercial inoculants are more readily used.

Inoculation is cheap and is a simple operation. It is one that usually pays good dividends in increased production and in maintaining soil fertility. The nitrogen-fixing bacteria which inhabit the soybean root system must be introduced from outside sources if the crop is to be grown on new land.

Working seed bed through April and early May to kill all weeds possible is important to the success of growing beans. Early June is perhaps the proper time to sow the beans in northeast Nebraska. They should be planted in rows about one inch apart and about one inch deep. When the beans are cultivated, care should be taken to avoid throwing soil on the plants. They should not be cultivated after blooms appear.

Some of the better beans for this part of the country are Muckden, Dunfield and Illinois. Late planting is necessary. Richland variety is recommended.

Miss Eva Cunningham and Jas. L. Dowling were married at Randolph April 14.

Increase in Egg Uses Is Urged

Hens on American farms are now supplying 440 eggs a year for each person in the United States. Out of this number, 90 eggs will go to the allies and the armed forces, thus leaving 350 eggs for each civilian—almost an egg a day.

State home demonstration agents urge the use of an extra egg wherever possible in cooking, while eggs are so plentiful. Eggs add food value, give color, flavor and richness.

TERRIBLE, IF TRUE.

It is hard for Americans accustomed to justice and mercy to understand the reported barbarities inflicted on peoples of Europe's subjugated countries. In addition to adult victims, the stories involve innocent and helpless children who would seem to soften the most calloused nature. One commentator recently declared that American soldiers are not fired by the hate that usually prompts those of other nations. That is, perhaps, the reason Americans are better fighters. They have a duty to perform, and they are performing it without frenzy or disorderly rancor. They know what they are doing and why they are doing it. They are not the human machines found in the armies of other nations. They are permitted to use initiative, and cradled in the spirit of free America, they have plenty of it to use. As to acts of cruelty, attributed to enemy warriors, they are altogether in violation of modern civilization. If true, they would put Nero the Nero of two thousand years ago

6 Stew-pendous Ways to Stretch Meat Rations

There's not a more versatile dish in the archives of American culinary art than the famous meat stew. Found on the tables of rich and poor alike, it is a standard item on the national bill of fare.

Even with American meat production at an all-time high, the multiple requirements of the armed forces, land-leas, and civilians necessitate that meat be conserved and extended. The nation's cooks and home-makers, searching for ways to extend meat dishes and conserve precious ration points, have discovered that merely by adding one or two ingredients to the basic American stew they can achieve almost an endless variety of meat dishes with an international flavor.

Following are recipes for six stews which speak various languages:

Hungarian Goulash
1 pound beef (for stew)
2 medium onions, chopped
Lard or drippings for browning
1 tablespoon paprika
1 clove garlic, minced
2 cups water
4-5 potatoes, sliced
1 teaspoon salt

Cook onions in drippings about 5 minutes. Add the meat and seasonings and water. Simmer one hour. Add sliced potatoes. Simmer until tender, about 30 minutes. Add bread dumplings if desired.

East Indian Curry
1 1/2 cups cubed lamb
1 cup chopped onion
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
1/2 cup chopped celery
1 clove garlic, finely chopped
1 tablespoon curry powder
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
2 cups lamb broth (stock made from bones removed from lamb roast)
2 tablespoons flour
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce

Cover meat with water and simmer until tender. Brown vegetables in drippings. Then combine them with seasonings, broth, and meat. Simmer for 30 minutes. Thicken with flour. Serve the curry with rice.

STEW TALKS MANY LANGUAGES

English Meat Pudding
1 beef kidney
1 1/2 cups water or soup stock
1/2 cup onion, chopped
Lard or drippings for browning
Salt and pepper

Wash kidney, cut into pieces. Cover with water and simmer about 30 minutes. Cut steak into strips and brown. Add one-half cup water and simmer until tender. Combine steak and kidney. Season. Thicken with gravy. Serve with or without a top of pastry or biscuits.

Mexican Chili
1 pound coarsely ground or chopped beef
Lard or drippings for browning
1/2 cup onion, chopped
1 tablespoon garlic, minced
2 tablespoons chili pepper
1 tablespoon paprika
1 cup tomatoes
3 cups cooked red beans
Brown meat and onions in lard or drippings. Add garlic, chili pepper, paprika, and tomatoes. Cover and simmer 1 hour. Add cooked beans. Heat and serve on boiled rice, if desired.

Chinese Chop Suey
1 1/2 pounds pork shoulder, cubed
1 cup celery, cut in 1-inch pieces
1 cup chopped green pepper
1/2 cup tomatoes
1 can bean sprouts
6 tablespoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons brown sauce
2 tablespoons soy sauce
Salt and pepper

Brown pork. Add celery, green pepper, and tomatoes, and simmer about 30 minutes. Add drained bean sprouts. Thicken with cornstarch blended with brown sauce, soy sauce, and water. Season to taste. Serve with boiled rice.

Irish Stew
2 pounds lamb (for stew)
Water to cover lamb
1 cup carrots, diced
1 cup turnips, diced
1 onion, sliced
4 cups potatoes, sliced or diced
Salt and pepper
Simmer lamb for 1 hour. Add vegetables and simmer for 20 minutes. Add potatoes and cook 20 minutes longer. Thicken gravy. Serve.

Expanded Program Is Being Planned

Staff Sees Bright Outlook For Coming Year Here At Wayne Prep.

Starting early the 1944-45 season with spring track, Wayne prep, the college high school, is making plans for next year's program which includes besides sports an enrichment of the dramatic, journalistic, music, forensic and social activities.

Last Friday saw the production of "Gill Ska," the annual school play directed by Miss Meda Bone Crawford. With her aid also freshman-sophomore and junior high dramatic clubs were formed this year and will continue next. A series of one-act plays will be presented throughout 1944 and 1945. In addition, declamatory work sponsored this year by Miss Lettie Scott, will have a place in the next dramatic schedule.

Sports is ever important at Wayne prep. This year's basketball five, runner-up for the Class D trophy, loses only two men by graduation. Jim Morrison and Bill Ingram, Jim's younger brother, Bill Morrison, however, who already has shown his prowess as basketball tipper, has two more seasons to play as do Bob Shively and Charles Surber, first team members who are to be juniors. Potentialities for a strong new quintet are seen in Kermit Stue, Bill Cross, Jim Kemper, Bob Penn, Earl Echtenkamp as well as other members of the second string, according to Prin. Clifford Wait, athletics supervisor. Ten games not including the tournament are being arranged.

Football possibilities for at least six good games seem high with a whole team returning. The newly formed "W" club increases interest in future events which have been under the direction of Prof. Raymond Schreiner and Charles Thomas.

Wayne prep's first regular yearbook, Spizzetti, will appear this May, managed by the senior class, members of which make up the journalism group and also publish the paper, Prejster. According to Editors Jim Morrison and Bill Ingram and to Miss Roberta Stout, adviser, a fund is being established for future annuals.

Music, as seen by recent contest results in which several superior and excellent ratings were secured, has a great part in prep's future plans. Besides several student teachers, accomplished in the field, prepsters will continue to train with Prof. Russell Anderson, Prof. Albert Carlson and Prof. John Keith, the last named a Red Cross director for the duration. Miss Ramsey has also built winning debate teams for this year and next from Wayne prep students.

Other activities to be accorded on the college high schools accelerated program for 1944-45 include student council, assembly and library committees, and various social groups. Pop or Girls' club enlarged both membership and work this year and will be even more active next. A strong boy scout troop makes its headquarters at Wayne prep and girl scout troops were started during 1944. Several dances, parties, dinners and programs are listed for next year's activities. Instructors who help with these affairs in addition to those already mentioned will include Miss Ruth Paden and Mrs. Esther Dewitt Carlson.

Officer's Fortress Has Lucky Escape

Capt. Ed. Lundak of Wayne Helps Fight Off Swarms Of Nazis in Europe.

Lady Luck was with Capt. Edward Lundak and other members of a Fortress crew that visited Berlin. Forged to break formation, the Fortress beat off attacks by swarms of Nazi fighters in a 15-minute battle from which all crew members escaped unscathed. Capt. Lundak's wife makes her home in Wayne, and his sister, Miss Genevieve, teaches at Wayne city school.

The tank armies said that the Nazis came in 50 and 75 at a time with the "scrub teams" lining up awaiting their turn to attack the lone Fortress.

The trouble started 90 minutes before the ship reached the target when the ball turret gunner, Sgt. Robert Johnson, Banning, Cal., passed out twice from lack of oxygen.

When the Fortress was forced to drop out of formation the crew, instead of losing their nerve, lost their temper.

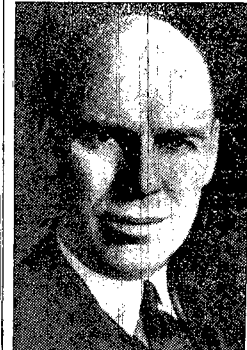

T. Sgt. L. M. Wright, radio operator, Merion, Tex., having no other left to fire, threw a few lead pencils.

Fortress Takes Off.

The new Flying Fortress that made a forced landing at Norfolk airport Monday night last week when it ran out of fuel, took off Wednesday and returned to Sioux City air base. Caterpillar and trucks moved the ship to firm ground, and the plane was supplied with 2,200 gallons of gasoline.

Plantings Made To Observe Day

Flaming Meteor Is Found On Farm Near Winside, In Early Days.

Early Days from the Wayne Herald for April 26, 1928: Arbor day, April 22, established by J. Sterling Morton of Nebraska City, was observed by planting a wealth of trees on farm and city property. One of the larger projects was the planting of trees and shrubs at the Country club.

A flaming meteor, thought to be part of a falling star, caused a bright blaze that filled the whole yard at the Westerhaus farm near Winside, the place occupied by Geo. C. Drevesen. The meteor fell about 100 feet from Alfred Drevesen, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Drevesen and daughter, who were in the house, heard the object fall. Search revealed a stone about the size of a hand.

Former Residents Hold Annual Picnic

Ellis Miner, Glenn Wallace and Mable Horn Picked For New Officers.

The picnic for former Wayne residents now living in and near Long Beach, Cal., was held April 16 in Bixby park, according to a recent letter from Miss Laura Lyons of Long Beach. Ben McEachen served as president and Charles Nicholas as secretary-treasurer. These men had charge of serving coffee. Dinner was enjoyed and then the group elected Ellis Miner, president, Glenn Wallace, vice-president, Mable Horn of El Monte, secretary-treasurer.

Those present were: Mrs. Louis Horn and Dorothy, Ella Pippenstick Miller, Charlotte Larsson Jensen, Mrs. and Mrs. Charles Nicholas and Dorothy, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Blom, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Ben McEachen, Mrs. Radelia Erickson, Mrs. Frank Gumble, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Larson, Mr. and Mrs. A. West (nee Helen Johnson), Mrs. Anna Verneberg Notky, Mr. and Mrs. Gust Westberg (nee Frances Johnson), Bessie Green-ten Brink, Gene-ten Brink, Jr., D. W., and Alice McEachen and two children, Willis, Lyla and Patty Penhallow, Harry Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Mattson, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Johnson (nee Lucille Kay) and Eleanor Mae, Mr. and Mrs. Ted James (nee Hazel Backstrom), Mrs. L. F. Perry, Nancy Backer and Susan, Mrs. Gertrude Stevers Fossom and Donald, Mr. and Mrs. Leland Johnson (nee Evelyn James) and two children, J. R. Hoover, Mr. and Mrs. Ivar James (Orva Utmark), Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Utmark and Gene, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Jenkins (nee Hazel Klipping), David and Beverly, Mrs. R. M. Brown (nee Helen Jones), J. A. Samulsohn, H. H. Zainier, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Root, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Miner, Ellis Jr., and Marilyn, Mrs. Effie Forbes Cunningham, Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Ingraham and Dean.

Mr. John Larson wrote regrets from Pasadena saying she had been about in a wheel-chair the past two months following an accident December 22 when she was dragged by a car driven by her son, Ervin. Her hip and pelvic bones were broken. L. L. F. Perry was unable to attend as he was on duty.

Miss Lyons writes that the weather was mild and chilly, but all enjoyed a few hours visiting. Ben McEachen recently sold his pickle factory in Huntington Park, Cal.

Miss Lyons writes that the weather was mild and chilly, but all enjoyed a few hours visiting. Ben McEachen recently sold his pickle factory in Huntington Park, Cal.

As to the Short Line road, no word has come lately. It is presumed that during the recent thaw weather the road changed from the mountainous drifts which beset it and that its trains now, as of yore, gaily pursue each other like phantoms to and fro upon its surface. It is reported that a large sum of money, $2,000,000, has been cornered for the purpose of continuing the road beyond O'Neill, over the vast contiguity of sand between that city and the setting sun. It is reported also that the formidable builders of the Short Line bridge between Sioux City and Covington, continue cheerfully to exemplify the old saying that "hope springs eternal in the human breast." There can be no doubt that if people can be found to furnish the money to do it with, and the river doesn't show up too full a hand against it, the bridge will sometime or other be built.

County officials will meet in Norfolk Saturday, April 29, for their spring session.

Office In Hospital.

Dr. S. A. Lutgen has his office in the Wayne hospital. Phone 61.

Jan 5, and Leona, 3, daughters of the Otto Ottensmans of Burlington, Colo., formerly of Pender, met instant death last week when lightning struck their home. The mother and two other sisters, who were home at the time, were unhurt. Fire destroyed the residence.

Library News

Everything bound between two covers is not literature. Thousands of books published each year are meant to be read in a few minutes and forgotten. As things are organized, these have to be put out in the same form and bought at the same price as really good books. Most of the book clubs, such as Book of the Month and Literary Guild, are performing a service for the reading public by putting their stamp of approval on certain books and this helps the average reader in making selections of worthwhile books. But even these clubs are not infallible, and so book selection is difficult. Just because a book is popular and is running on the best seller list does not mean that it is literature either. However, such statistics do influence book buying in a library where the public expects to find the books which are being read in other parts of the country.

Razer's Edge, by Sommeret Maugham, comes as near to being literature as any novel we have had for some time. This story has been serialized in Red Book and it is good but not up to the standard of such classics as Maugham has to his credit as Of Human Bondage and The Hour Before the Dawn.

Seed of the Puritan, by Elizabeth Dowling Kaup, is a new novel that will either be read at or read about. Behind the characters in the story is the country itself. It is really what the whole novel is about - its politics - and one of the main characters says, "It has spots and splendor spots that will have to be cut out, but it gets along in spite of them. This is a good political novel if you like political novels."

Admirers of Franklin P. Adams of Information Please fame will enjoy a collection of light verse selected by him and bound into a volume entitled Innocent Merriment.

The mystery experts will be interested in looking over the new book, The Man with the Lumpy Nose, by Lawrence Sanders. This is a $1.00 Red Badge mystery.

Some of the letters received indicate that some farmers believe they must file estimates of 1944 income and tax liability on April 15. They need not do so. A farmer, if he chooses, may make an estimate in April and pay his liability in quarterly installments. This is purely optional. The current tax payment act of 1943 did not greatly change the method of income tax collection for farmers. It was recognized that advance estimation of a farmer's income is extremely difficult, that in many cases the farmer's income comes chiefly from the marketing of a single crop once a year. Under the current tax payment act of 1943, farmers must file declarations of estimated tax on December 31 for the current year and pay at least two-thirds of the estimated liability for the full year. A final return is due and a final adjusted payment is to be made by or before March 15 following. Farmers are allowed 3 1/3 per cent tolerance on underpayments before the 8 per cent interest penalty applies. A bill has been introduced which, if enacted into law, will change from December 15 to January 15 the date for filing farmer's returns. That recommendation has been approved by the ways and means committee. If it is approved by congress, it will eliminate the estimates and penalties that are so confusing to farmers.

Auditors who have been studying and analyzing the present antiquated cost accounting system in the post office, department have made their first report on the subject of penalty mail. On the strength of that report a bill has been prepared and passed by the house, the provisions of which, if the bill becomes a law, will save from 50 to 60 million dollars per year in penalty mail. A second report from these auditors is now before the committee on post office and post roads. It deals with five special services — money orders, special delivery, C.O.D., insured mail, and registered mail. It shows that the cost of these five special services is 21 million dollars more than the receipts from these services. The committee is now preparing a bill to eliminate this $21 million a year loss.

The first appropriation bill to be reported to the house following the Easter recess is the bill making appropriations for the navy department for the fiscal year 1945. The grand total of the many items in the bill is $32,647,134,336. There is included in this bill about $763 million for payments to dependents of enlisted personnel of the navy, marine corps, and the coast guard. The amount in the bill for pay, subsistence, clothing, transportation, medical care, training, education, and welfare is $6,229,919.17.

Manufacturers who make overalls while writing prices on overalls are so low they can't make them without loss. They ask members to help them get higher prices at the factory.

People who took pictures of cherry trees in bloom here on Easter Sunday had to wait in line for their turns. As usual, the crowds around the Tidal Basin where most of the trees are located, were large.

Some agricultural experts here admit that there may be a shortage of corn in the middle-west. They say government owned corn is not being moved from the mid-west now. Considerable corn is going to the United Kingdom. Much protein feed goes to Canada.

Arboretum fishermen are out in large numbers around Washington. The fishing fun has started and large numbers of fish are caught in the Potomac.

The canal that General Washington constructed near here will be open soon to sightseers who will get a chance to ride up and down the canal in canal boats that will be reproductions of the original craft.

Lobbyists for and against various pieces of legislation came back to Washington at the end of the Easter recess. Post-war highways, aviation development, merchant marine expansion, disposal of surplus war materials and many other matters engage the attention of these visitors.

First grade fresh eggs are still selling for 40 to 49 cents a dozen in Washington.

The administration leaders continue to express their worries over the manpower situation as the selective service system continues to change regulations so as to increase induction of men into the armed forces. As a matter of fact, the army now has reached the goal set more than a year ago, with a total of 7,700,000. More than one million have been discharged from the armed forces, so that the total of inductees has been over 8,700,000. Still another million are clamored for replacements, etc. The navy has 3,300,000 so that the total of the armed forces is over 11,000,000.

The war industries have so met production demands that many have been closed, and in all parts of the country plants are running at less than capacity, but production records for March in all war essentials are even above expectations. The war department leaders demand a national service act, making all people between 18 and 65 eligible for service in war industries if not in the armed forces, but the congressional committees have not favored so broad a measure. The Truman committee report indicating that some of the larger industries have been hoarding labor has been cited. There may come a special investigation of the whole matter. The house committee on military affairs has pronounced a series of inquiries based on the Truman committee investigations to the war department and manpower commission, and further action on the national service act may depend upon the response. The committee desires to know how many industries have more employees than they can use. In 1943, the number of man days of labor in industry exceeded those of 1939, 76 per cent even though 11 million men are in the armed forces.

The chairman of the house rules committee has sprung his own investigation of what he claims to be a surplus of army officers. He alleges that there are 30,000 of them idle and demands to know the reason. One cause of the excess, if the evidence shows that there are more officers than are needed, was the commissioning of many technical men by the war department earlier in the war. The construction of camps and war plants occasioned a great demand for engineers and construction men of experience. The civil service commission failed to lure men from their regular employment to the war department activities. The department thereupon issued commissions to thousands of men for the work. Now that camp construction has been completed and the war plants completed, there has been less demand for such experts, many of whom are without military training. The building of the foreign air fields on which a billion was spent, also called to commissions many more men with special qualifications. With the great demand for expert help, in nearly every phase of war activities, there seems to be no good reason why any of them should be idle.

The farmers have again met the demands of the government for food. The surplus production of eggs at this season of the year is not uncommon, but present surpluses are largely due to the pressure of government agencies for more poultry and poultry products. When egg prices were set and seemingly guaranteed in order to supply egg drying plants which were established in all parts of the country, some of them with government loans and all of them under government contracts insuring profitable operation, the assurance was given that the farmers could go ahead to the limit. Now comes the crash in price. In many sections farmers have been unable to market their eggs, and in others the price dropped to as low as 20 cents per dozen, far below cost of production.

Second Thought Is Worthwhile

North Carolina Farmer Is Not Impressed with New Song About Diet.

That second thought may have saved Bernard Arandi's life. He saw a small cardboard carton in an alley and was tempted for a moment to give it a kick. Instead he opened it and found its contents labeled "Nitro starch—high explosive. Property of the corps of engineers, United States army." The explosive was enough to have wrecked the entire block.

Farmer Glenn Williams of Wilkesboro, N. C., doesn't care much for the current song that tells about the diet of mares and lambs. He bought a flock of lambs and ewes. Six of them died after they ate it.

A runaway horse galloped down a Brooklyn, N. Y., street, stumbled over a curbstone and sprawled headlong onto a carriage in which 11-month-old Aimee Ullman was sleeping. Passers-by ran to the scene and extricated the child, who was unhurt. Then the infant's mother, seven other women and the horse's owner fainted.

Lt. Rosaire Dubrulle, 27, Lawrence, Mass., AAA pilot, returned without a scratch from a year in the Pacific with air medal and oak leaf cluster and a record of 46 successful missions. Now he is under a doctor's care because of a fractured ankle suffered while skiing.

John E. Lindley of Tucson, Ariz., used glasses until he was 90. Then as he couldn't find a pair that fit he cast them aside. Now he has passed his 100th birthday and is through with glasses. He reads daily the small print of his Bible without so much as a squint.

A colony of beavers at Dover, Del., certainly caused trouble. They burrowed in a small dam in St. Johns river and this caused it to collapse and flooded several acres of lowlands forcing two farm families to leave their homes.

At Philadelphia, Detective Edward Mayer's memory clicked as he questioned a man held on a charge of stealing a fur piece. So Mayer asked the man if he wasn't the guy who walked out 13 years ago after he was held for stealing golf balls. The man admitted he was and Mayer rearrested him on the old charge.

A woman summoned for jury duty in Bergen county, New Jersey, wrote jury Commissioner Governor L. Goodlove: "Dear sir: In answer to your letter, I am not interested in your offer. I have a good paying job now."

Because she said her husband's hobby of collecting rifles, pistols and shotguns made marital life both dangerous and uninteresting. Mrs. Pearl J. Venard, Chicago, obtained a divorce from her husband.
