

Day Stirs Tender Emotions—Wayne Girl Heard from Hollywood — An Early-Day Publisher — On State Ballot.

Recurring Mothers' day reminds us that in all parts of the world American boys think with deepest love of their mothers every day...

The tie between mother and children is the strongest tie in the world. It remains undiminished under every condition.

Coming of Mothers' day has brought us two poems dedicated to mothers who have lost their sons in service.

The Soldier Boy's Farewell Good-bye my little mother; the call has come to me...

Good-bye my little mother, so bonnie, brave and true, I caught in me is noble, I owe it all to you.

Good-bye my little mother; your lad to manhood grown, Though leaving you for duty, is still your very own.

NUMBER THIRTY

Navigator Missing In European Area

Flying Fortress Carrying Captain Tom Cavanaugh Fails to Return.

Capt. Tom Cavanaugh, who will be 26 June 13, navigator on a Flying Fortress based in England, has been missing in action over France since April 25, according to word coming from the war department.

A letter written the evening of April 24 by Capt. Cavanaugh to his parents closed with the message that "I had better go to bed as tomorrow is a big day."

A few hours before the war department telegram came Monday to Kansas City, the officer's wife received a message which Major Haggart, flight surgeon, had written to her in Indianapolis after the night of April 25.

After being graduated from Wayne high school in 1935 and attending Wayne college from 1935 to 1938, Capt. Cavanaugh attended the University of Nebraska in Lincoln and was graduated from the college of business administration there in February, 1941.

The Wayne youth took advanced training after his graduation until March, 1943, and from then until September, 1943, he was instructor in navigation at Ephrata, Wash., and Rapid City, S. D. During this period of service he was promoted to first lieutenant last August 20.

When Pilot Rod Francis was promoted to major March 24, Tom was at the same time promoted to captain. The pilot piloted his own plane's base on his navigator and very close friend. The officers were flying with their own crew April 25.

Mr. and Mrs. Cavanaugh visited their son in California. They and Miss Catherine Cavanaugh saw him in Rapid City, Sioux City and Grand Island.

COLD AND SNOW AT THIS SEASON NOT WITHOUT PARALLEL

THE WEATHER performed queer tricks last week. Rain and sleet, often turning to snow, and a little sunshine, though not enough of the latter to supply the demand. Off the paved and gravelled highways the roads presented almost impassable mud. Fields were wet, but farmers' often ventured into them to sow small grain.

Early Balloonist Passes In Wayne on Tuesday

W. E. Winteringer, 76, Wayne business man, balloonist and parachutist with a record of 4,137 drops in 54 years, passed away here Tuesday afternoon, May 9, about 3 o'clock from effects of stroke of apoplexy which he suffered April 27.

Funeral rites will be held Thursday afternoon at 1 at the Epiphany chapel. Dr. Victor Welch will be in charge and Sally Welch will sing. Mrs. Herbert Welch will accompany her. Burial will be at Hartington.

Mr. Winteringer's interest in the show business started at the age of 12 when he attended a circus in Sioux City. A tightrope walker fascinated him so he tried to walk a rope and did very well.

Mr. Winteringer's first jump was at Coleridge June 21, 1888. The balloon caught fire while being filled but Mr. Winteringer was determined to make his ascent.

Youth Is Sentenced In Omaha Monday

John V. Moody Had Trained At Army Detachment in Wayne Previously.

John V. Moody, 23, who recently staged an attempted "break" at the Douglas county jail, Monday was sentenced to three years in federal prison by Judge James A. Donohoe for violating the Dyer act. The youth had been at Wayne army detachment some time ago.

Moody's troubles began while he was serving in the air corps at Santa Ana, Cal. His application for a commission was rejected when the army learned he had forged his own recommendation. Moody went AWOL, stole his car on a journey which took him as far as Omaha before he was picked up by police. He also had stolen an assortment of radios and other articles from parked cars during his journey. He carried with him nearly nine hundred dollars, which, he said, represented his savings while soldiering.

In the county jail in Omaha, Moody "fished" for and obtained some plumber tools from an adjoining room, and had sawed several bars to his cell before other jail inmates informed officers about him.

Banks to Cooperate In War Loan Drive

Services Are Volunteered As Contribution Made Toward Victory.

The fifth war loan drive is scheduled to sweep the country in June and Nebraska bankers have already volunteered their services, without any cost to the government.

Complete bank cooperation in a war loan drive is no small undertaking because it not only calls for active sales effort and clerical work in issuing bonds, but it entails a heavy expense which the banks assume without hope of reimbursement. The expense of extra clerical bank help, working exclusively on war bonds in Lincoln and Omaha banks alone, totalled more than $80,000 last year, while the figures for the balance of the state raised this expense total in excess of $150,000.

In explanation of the willingness of Nebraska banks to continue to assume this heavy burden of expense, Robert I. Stout, president of the Nebraska Bankers' association said:

"The figures of the state administrators of the war savings staff show that banks issue between 85 and 90 per cent of the total sales. Nebraska bankers all feel that the money subscribed for war bonds should be devoted 100 per cent to war effort, without being expended in the least degree on expenses deducted. For this reason the bankers of Nebraska wish to assume their expenses incident to the sale and issue of these bonds as their added contribution to the war effort."

Wayne on Route Of Proposed Line

Representatives Will Come Here to Discuss Plan In Near Future.

Wayne is on the route of a proposed air mail line between Hastings, Neb., and Rochester, Minn., via Wayne, and it asks for the cooperation of local interests. Sensing increased demand for air transportation following the war, the mayor proposes to be on the alert to keep Wayne in line for any advantages that may develop. He will insist and no doubt meet united and hearty response. Mail and passengers will sail through the air, and heavy shipments may in time be made practical in that way. The town that expects to grow and flourish in the postwar period must take to air travel and be in shape to accommodate the demand. Mayor or Lundberg is fully conscious of the need.

Crew and Instructor from Sioux City Air Base Are Saved and Plane Crashes Near Denison, Iowa.

After an engine of a new Flying Fortress, on training flight from the Sioux City air base, caught fire over the bombing range near Niobrara Tuesday night about 10, 11 men in the ship bailed to safety in the vicinity of Carroll, Winside and Wayne. The plane crashed and burned near Denison, Ia., about 2 Wednesday morning.

Two of the men suffered broken legs, and five had sprained ankles. They were not hurt otherwise except for minor bruises and shock. All were taken to Sioux City by ambulance.

The plane was making its first flight and carried a crew of 10 and a bombardier instructor. Two of the practice bombs, which are mainly sand with a charge, had been dropped on the range. The plane carried 18 other bombs and was supplied for about eight hours.

To avoid another ship approaching on practice flight, the supercharger was turned on to make the new ship gain altitude. At that time one of the engines caught fire. The ship was immediately turned toward the base. Flames in the engine could not be extinguished so the pilot ordered the men to bail out. The ship was then at 7,500 feet.

The first two of the crew out landed in a field at the H. L. Selin farm and another on the porch at the Ed. Hokamp home, these places being on the county line five miles north and one west of Carroll. Mr. Hokamp brought the three to Carroll.

The next one bailing out landed in the yard at the Edgwal Roberts place one mile west of Carroll. The young man was able to walk to the house, and he immediately called the Sioux City base. Officers at the base ascertained that the man assembled at the place and wait for an ambulance.

The next came down as the Lyle Jenkins farm one mile south and a half west of Carroll. This young man hit 80 rods south of the house in a corn field. He walked to the Jenkins home and also called Sioux City.

The sixth one out came down on a fence beside the road south of the T. P. Roberts home two miles south and a half west of Carroll. Mr. and Mrs. Roberts heard the dog making a fuss and opened the door to investigate. They then heard a man calling for help. Mr. Jenkins and people in town had also heard the call. Mr. Roberts and Mr. Jenkins found the youth, Lt. John Edwards of Houston, Tex., flight officer, who had suffered a broken leg in the fall and had torn his clothes on the fence. The officer couldn't hear temporarily and was most grateful when the rescuers approached. Mr. Roberts and Rev. C. G. Stevens, who brought the Roberts young folks home from school practice about the same time, took the injured youth and the other two from that vicinity to the Rev. Stevens home in Carroll. Dr. R. R. Seasongood gave first aid to the injured. Mrs. Nell George of the Carroll telephone exchange, helped direct the men and rescuers to assemble at the pastor's home. Rev. and Mrs. Stevens made sandwiches and coffee for the group but the men were so shocked by their experiences that they could only drink the coffee.

One flier landed near the Verdell Lund place about nine miles west of Wayne and the Lunds took him to Carroll.

Another flier bailing out landed in a field on the James Jensen place about eight miles west and a little south of Wayne. Dewey Jensen was plowing at night and he was startled when he came onto the unconscious youth lying in the (Continued on Page Two)

Eleven Fliers Bail to Safety

Parrow ahead of his tractor, Young Jensen had not seen him fall and first noticed the white chute. The other soon regained consciousness. He was 2nd Lt. Donald Beck, the bombardier; Dewey Jensen, pilot; Smith and son, Walter, took Beck to Carroll.

The instructor landed on the Otto Koch place seven miles west and a half south of Wayne. He had a sprained ankle. Sheriff J. H. Pile brought him to Wayne.

The pilot, last to leave the ship, landed on the Geo. Pest place and walked to the Aug. H. Wittler home southwest of Wayne. Mr. Wittler brought him to Wayne.

Fire lit the whole plane when the men bailed out. The pilot set the controls at 3,000 feet. The ship traveled alone until it reached the vicinity of Denison where it crashed in a field and burned.

For assembly program last Wednesday morning, Dr. George Seck showed two motion pictures, "Mexican Dances," in Technicolor, and "Pan American Highway in South America."

Fifth Grade News. Students are learning how colonial New England towns grew. The story of New London, Conn., is proving interesting.

Students like their new books, "Wishing Well" and the Allyn and Bacon reader. Students are practicing for the festival which is to be given Friday, May 19.

Big Hog Shipments

SCARCITY of feed and excess of hogs on farms are said to account for the heavy marketing of animals this week. Hog shipments to the South Omaha yards Monday were estimated at $4,000, and at the twelve principal markets of the country at a total of 200,000. Harry B. Coffee, president of the Omaha Union Stock Yards company, offered this comment when interviewed:

"The yards are in a mess. Producers are obviously scared to death that they are not going to get feed, and many are unloading because they have been chilled by their inability to get corn."

"Many hogs are being marketed prematurely because of the feed shortage. The situation is complicated by the fact that markets all around the circuit are glutted and the surplus can't be moved to some other market center." Mr. Coffee urges shippers to slow up on movements to market until the flood subsides.

Expresses Confidence

SUNDAY'S World-Herald pictures George Olsen, democratic nominee for governor, squaring the circle, shuffling dishes in the Martin plant kitchen and maneuvering a truck loaded with food supplies, none of which accomplishments would seem detrimental to his candidacy. In an interview, Olsen is quoted as expressing the belief that he will carry the state easily and carry the president along with him. He says he will make a personal campaign if the president's candidacy in this state seems endangered. He is said to have mentioned with sympathetic feeling his friendship for Governor Griswold, adding that the republicans could not have put up a better man. He regrets he will have to defeat the executive in the November finals.

In speaking of comparatively small losses in bombing trips over Europe, we wish broadcasters would cut out the word "only". Ten contrasted with the enemy's 100 are not many, but they constitute surrender of life that cannot be minimized by a soft pedaling "only". Listeners can make comparisons without being reminded. Loss is unavoidable, but crushing to the families involved. To those included in "only" a few, the world turns just as black as though there were many.

Rural and city schools are winding up the year's work this month. The college will have its closing programs the last week. A brief vacation in the latter institution will be followed by the summer session which will attract many teachers. Teaching experience reveals the need of increased preparation, and those who have presided over school rooms the past year, will usually enroll for the summer term.

The grievous mistake of leaving little children alone in a house was emphasized at Omaha recently when two boys, 2 and 3, perished in a fire started from a defective flue. So many perilous things can happen to children left unprotected by adults that the risk is always too great. Can't parents learn without being struck down by the pangs of endless remorse?

In proposing to harness water more for irrigation than for navigation, Secretary Ickes shows rare clarity of thinking. It indicates that the secretary has moments when he can consider a subject with practical judgment. The idea that we can get along without riding on water if instead we may have more food, appeals to us as highly rational.

Reports indicate that child delinquency is still in the ascendancy, due to problems growing out of the war. Both parents employed and neglecting home responsibilities are said to have resulted in too much child freedom in the wrong direction.

It does not look well in times of war demands to put on even a small strike like the one involving electric power in Nebraska, and we hope contending elements will get together and bury the hatchet for the duration.

So far the elements are out of accord with the straw hat season which is supposed to start May 15. The weather could right-about-face and turn on the heat in time for the annual coming-out, and it may do it.

We turn from the printed likeness of Attorney General Eiddle with less surprise over his interpretation of the constitution as it relates to protection of Montgomery

Ward's or any other private business. Also the outlines of his narrow physiognomy removes wonder of his tipping retreat before labor union hordes who have bushels of votes.

The campaign to gather old paper needed in different branches of the war service, is reported progressing successfully. Now if Washington bureaus would reduce their literary output, results would be still more satisfactory.

President Roosevelt, whose state of health has been a source of speculation for some weeks with reports often in conflict, is said to have returned to Washington the first of the week with old-time vigor restored.

This is music week, and music artists and fans are giving the subject extra emphasis.

Attempts at being funny are often employed to cover tremendous sadness.

Still a Great Instrument.

(St. Louis City Journal)

Well, even if today the constitution is not being applied by the powers that be in Washington, it still is a worthy instrument, and most loyal Americans will work and hope and pray for its resurrection.

Latest in 45 Years.

(Omaha Journal-Spokane)

An Iowa farmer looking over a 45-year diary discovered one year when oat seeding was as late as this year. It is certain that some land intended for oats will go into other crops, mainly corn and in some areas soybeans. Anybody got a diary going back of 45 years?

Almost Incredible.

(Cleveland Daily News)

All is not dull and drab in the life of a congressman. Occasionally some member gets hold of a questionnaire sent out by one of the trifling agencies in Washington and then there is a field day of jest and hilarity.

For example, the other day Congressman Elliott of California asked unanimous consent to proceed out of order to read a document that was being used to gather information from farmers in his state.

The questionnaire, bearing at the top the name of the bureau of agricultural economics of the department of agriculture, starts soberly enough with the name of the head of the family and his residence and with a blank for each member of the family, recording sex, relation to the head, marital status, age, schooling completed, major source of income, and employer.

The questioner really gets personal in the next group of questions with inquiries as to last previous residence of the head of the family, number of towns in California he has lived in since 1935; number of towns outside California; how many separate jobs he has held since 1935, what town he considers his home town, etc.

After reading this Mr. Elliott remarked "just listen to this silly stuff," and then went on.

The next group of questions has to do with the church affiliations and habits of the farmer and his family, with inquiries as to frequency of attendance, offices held, etc. Then comes these questions:

"Did any member of your family change denominations upon coming to this town, or since you have been here? If so, what was former affiliation? Do you attend church more or less frequently than before the change?"

Next, we come to inquiries as to club affiliations, frequency of attendance, offices held, etc. And after that to the informal activities of the family. Under this heading are questions as to the number of participations per year of each member of the family in such activities as school functions, card parties, picnics, dances, movies and community affairs. There is no space for an enumeration of kibitzers at the card parties, or of ants, beetles and mosquitoes at the picnics, but this may have been an oversight. But we do come to this:

Do you have a small group of close friends? Number in group. Where do they live? What do they do? Do they all belong to one church or club? What one? List families with whom you visited regularly in 1943 and in 1940 (if different) and whom you consider your more intimate friends. The following blank provides room for such information as the ethnic group to which one's friends belong, the number of visits in their home and in your home. Then: Do you do more or less visiting now than in 1940? Why?

Considerable space is devoted to buying habits, to the income of each member of the family and to a heading "Socio-economic status," under which are blanks to enumerate the household equipment owned. Then the questioner is asked to characterize the premises by one of the following: Well kept, with decorative planting; some decorative planting has been done; no planting, but neat and clean; littered and dirty premises.

The exterior of the house is characterized as: Neat and well painted; old, dirty or scaling paint; no paint or stain; the interior by these characterizations: Decorated with carpets and curtains, all in good order; poorly decorated, but neat and clean; untidy interior; extremely dirty.

Well, this is what the ladies and gentlemen who are going to lift up the California farmers want to know. It might be pertinent to close with a quotation by Congressman Phillips:

"I think the gentleman should say that the taxpayer that did this is being paid $212 a month, and $3.60 a day for the expenses of his day, and he is promised that that bureau of the department of agriculture will see that he gets the necessary gasoline, in case of the fact that the farmers cannot get that."

AS TO COMPLACENCY.

Dr. George Gallup sounds but opinions on a good many subjects, and how near he comes to revealing the truth is of course a question. He tries to show popular trends in thinking with reference to party candidates and current issues. His latest was a survey involving the charge that Americans do not take the war seriously enough. Sixty-six per cent upheld the charge. Perhaps many are complacent, but we can't understand how any with boys in the armed forces can feel that way. We believe in this middle-west area people are, as a rule, extremely conscious of the war, its problems and requirements, and are eager to make any needed contribution in money or personal service to bring the conflict to an early victory.

ing his residence at Los Angeles, he watched the procession of political events and he was anxiously looking to see American fundamentals restored. He was an able writer, and enjoyed many friendships.

As an Editor.

A Lincoln friend inquired our name on the general election ballot as one of the republican leaders. The place is entirely honorary, and offers no honor to get excited. If the republicans win, we win and if we win, the republican national convention's nominees receive our vote. But we like to be remembered favorably, and that is what happened.

Year Is Concluded For Study Group

The Mary Trowbridge Honey International Relations Study Group of A. A. U. W. closed an interesting year's study Thursday evening with covered dish dinner in the home of Mrs. G. W. Costerisan, 20 members and guests being present. Mrs. Costerisan is chairman of the group which began the year last fall with a study of existing conditions in various countries and with review of current books.

The members met with Mrs. G. W. Costerisan last October 7 to hear Mrs. Hazel Frantz picture conditions in Greece by reviewing "The Land of Silent People" by Robert St. Johns. Miss Cora Stoddard was hostess November 4 when Miss Roberta Stout reported on "India and Its Problems," reviewing "Crypp's Mission" and "The Indian Problem" by Mitchell. Miss Lettie Scott entertained December 2 when Miss Ruth Paten spoke on "Nazi Influence in Chile and Argentina," with review of portions of "Inside Latin America," by John Gunther, and "Chile," by Eric Fergusson.

Meeting with Miss Roberta Stout January 6, the group heard Miss Grettil Haecker review "Alaska Under Arms," by Jean Potter. The group presented Dr. L. Johnson as guest speaker for A. A. U. W. branch, January 13, his subject being "The Balkan Question." Mrs. K. H. Poulton entertained February 3, when Mrs. Hazel Frantz presented portions of "Journey Among Warriors," by Eric Curie, and "Mother Russia," by Maurice Lindsay.

Miss Grettil Haecker entertained March 2 when Mrs. W. R. Harder reviewed "What to Do with Germany," by Louis Meyer. When the members met with Miss Stella Traster April 20, Miss Lettie Scott presented "The Changes of China," by Elmer T. Clark. For the concluding meeting last Thursday

HELEN REID.

The story of Helen Reid, wife of Ogden Reid, owner of the New York Tribune, shows how a woman may gain power through exercise of genius and firm resolution. She was a member of a large Wisconsin family, and early she learned how to speak and manage. Her education was ample, but not extraordinary. She entered the employ of Mr. Whitlow Reid as social secretary, and eight years later she was married to Ogden Reid, who was neither brilliant nor overly industrious. Young Mrs. Reid's evident managerial success led her mother-in-law and husband to ask her to focus her attention on the ailing Tribune, which she did. She acted with such force and sound judgment that the property quickly rapidly in resources and power. It is suggested that "without Helen Reid, it is doubtful if the paper would be in the hands of the Reid family today." She shows what one may accomplish under the handicap of a husband who has inherited a fortune.

Mrs. K. H. Poulton, Miss Roberta Stout and Mrs. Costerisan were in charge.

Banquet Features Events at School

Twenty-one Seniors to Be Graduated at Exercises In Winside School.

Winside high school junior-senior banquet was held Saturday, May 6, at Trinity Lutheran church parlors at 6:30. The theme of the banquet was a flower garden. The basement was beautifully decorated by the junior class. A stone wall about three feet high surrounded the room. At each end of the room were picket fences on which colorful hollyhocks were growing. Sweetpeas climbed to the ceiling from one fence. Five trellises were around the room, two decorated with morning glories, one with pink roses, one with daffodils and one with carnations. The center of attraction was the tri-arc decorated with red roses, the senior class flower. All entered the garden through a pink rose arbor. Pink and white streamers dotted occasionally with butterfly files covered the upper walls. Blue, silver and white streamers hung from the ceiling. Green moss was the garden's carpet.

The head table was centered by a miniature rose garden. Vases of American beauty roses and ferns centered the other tables. Two tall rose candles were on each table, their holders being roses.

Favors were crystal candle holders and baby pink candles. Nutcrackers were silverleaf cups. All dinner ware was crystal.

The dinner menu served by candlelight was in garden language, as follows: Moonlight and roses, humming birds, snowball blossoms, tangled grass, buttercup petals and green berries, redrose, fleecy clouds and starburst, heavenly breeze and love's delight, mist and shower garden pebbles, and guests of the junior class, were seniors, faculty members, Mrs. Gilmore Sals and Dean Dion, past president of the junior class, who resigned when he moved to Wayne a few weeks ago.

Sophomores who served the dinner are: Wilma Jensen, Virginia Lettman, Duane Neary and Dick Wade.

The following program was presented: March, "Priests March," Charlotte Dillon; duet, "Moonlight and Roses," Wilma Jensen, Virginia Lettman; "Waltz of the Flowers," Marian Dangberg, Arlene Cary; duet, "By the River of the Roses," Eva Grow, Norma Jean Gillespie; duet, "Memories," Peggy Francis, Charlotte Dillon; "Star Spangled Banner," all, Marian Dangberg, accompanist.

Talks were as follows: "Open the Garden Gate," Arlene Cary; "Close the Garden Gate," LeRoy Wittler; "Our Garden Walls," Supt. Gilmore Sals; "Dirt in Our Garden," Norris Hansen; "Rocks We Have Moved," Betty Lou Weible; "Seeds We Have Planted," Peggy Francis; "Leaves We Have Raked," Shirley Wade.

Faculty members are: Supt. Sals, Miss Gladys Mettlen, Miss Ruby Reed, Miss Ruth Hosford, Miss Dorothy Hew, Miss Alma Lautenbough and Miss Olga Polony.

HOW FARMERS CAN SAVE MORE CALVES

Authorities agree that many farmers could save a higher percentage of their calves each season if they followed the well-known principles of breeding, management and sanitation recommended for other types of farm animals.

First—healthy calves cannot be produced by poor dams and sires, or by parent stock that is affected by Bang's disease. Second—a cow has to have good rations to produce a good calf. She especially needs good quality legume hay in the winter, before the calf is born, and needs plenty of Vitamin A. Otherwise, she cannot nourish a strong calf. Third—the young animal has a better chance if it is born in clean, well-ventilated quarters, which have been properly disinfected and bedded.

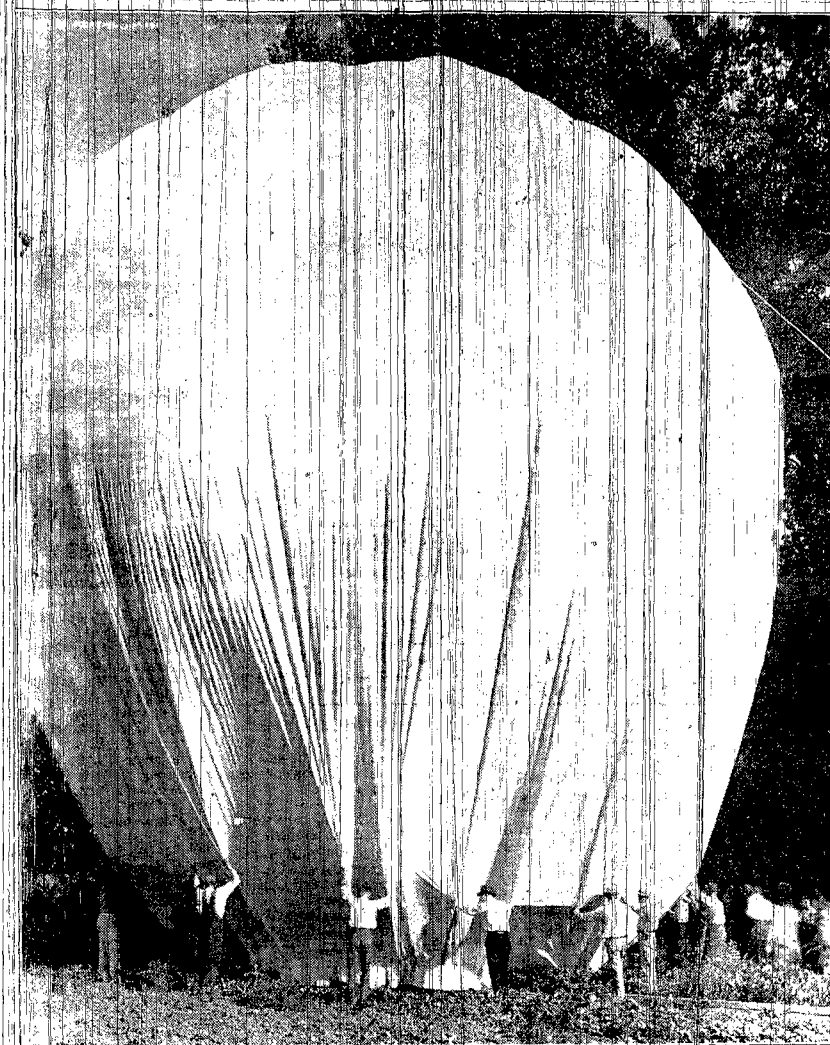

After the calf has been born, the owner needs to be on the alert against the common calfhood diseases which are always ready to step in and claim the animal, even after it seems to have a good start. First of these is white scours, which chiefly affects calves less than five days old. This disease is caused by a germ that is common to many farm lots and buildings, so sanitation is the best preventive measure. If scours develop, a veterinarian should be called promptly, and the calf should be isolated and its stables disinfected, to safeguard other calves. Calf pneumonia also takes a high toll on many farms. This disease is sometimes caused by infection, and sometimes by chilling or parasites. Clean quarters, with proper ventilation, are the best preventives. Veterinarians have reported some good results in treating calf pneumonia with sulfa drugs, but such success depends upon circumstances, and the use of the proper dosage, in a correct manner. Good nursing is vital if the sick calf is to have a chance of recovery.

In the main, preventive measures are more important than corrective remedies in avoiding calf losses. If the calf has good parents, good quarters, good food, and good care, it has a much better chance to survive than the animal not given these advantages.

Weakness and scours associated with Vitamin A deficiency.

DIGESTIVE TROUBLES CAUSE SWINE LOSS

Hog producers may have to pay an increasing penalty this year for the high-speed pork production they are trying to obtain to meet war food goals. Crowding a hog's digestive system for fast gains places a heavy strain on it—and makes it a more easy victim of the digestive disorders which are all too common in our hog lots right now.

The most serious of these digestive troubles of swine, and one most likely to be a greater problem this season, is enteritis. This disease generally begins with scouring, reduced appetite, and a rise in the hog's temperature. After a time, the pigs may appear to return to normal, but they fail to show proper gains, remain unthrifty, and in some cases they become so debilitated that they finally die.

There are two bad complications that show symptoms of enteritis. These two conditions are recognized as the serious digestive disorders—dysentery and scours, and unless a veterinary diagnosis is obtained early in the course of the disease, the owner may be trying to combat the wrong disease entirely, and lose a number of hogs as a result of this. A second danger is the fact that some symptoms of enteritis resemble hog cholera, and the owner may try to vaccinate his hogs against cholera with disastrous results.

No known medicine has yet been approved as a specific treatment for all types of enteritis. Most authorities recommend preventive action, and a thorough program to eliminate the disease from the farm. Steps in this direction include raising piglets in clean houses, on clean pasture, and keeping them away from old lots which may have been contaminated by previous generations of enteritis hogs. New pigs should not be brought onto the farm without first being checked for this disease. The right type of ration will also help to hold down the trouble, in hogs already affected.

On the SIOUX CITY MARKET

With supply nearer normal, cattle and hog values braced Tuesday on the Sioux City market, following declines enforced Monday when cattle receipts reached 8,000 and the hog run exceeded 16,000. Fat cattle were steady to 15 cents lower Monday, steadily to strong Tuesday; hogs steady to 75 cents lower Monday, mainly steady Tuesday. Slaughter steers and yearlings sold at $12 to $16, fed heifers at $11.50 to $15.25, cows at $8.75 to $13.50. Bulls reached a new top of $12.75, and stockers and feeders turned strong at $10 to $14, with steer calves at $14.25. Support price butcher hogs, good and choice 200 to 270-pounders (effective May 15) to also include those down to 180 pounds), held steady at $13.45, with heavy weights and sows 15 to 25 cents lower and lightweight butchers 25 to 75 cents under last week. Feeder pigs, meanwhile, gained, with some up 50 cents or to $11 by Tuesday. Fat lamb trade was uneven, ranging from steady to 50 cents lower. Fed woolled lambs, with strictly choice unrepresented, sold at $14.50 to $16, clipped lambs at $13.75 to $14.25, and woolled slaughter ewes at $7.50 to $9. Feeder lambs were slow to move.

Robert Auker scored Tuesday's top with lambs that brought $16. Among other representative shipments from this vicinity are the following: Henry Tonjes, heifers at $14; Schroeder Bros., steers at $14.35; Elwood Sampson, steers at $15.35; Lawroche Brock, steers at $15; Henry Korth, steers at $14.35; Elmer Lundberg, steers at $14.50; Levens Bros., steers at $15; Harry Wert, steers at $15.25; Clarence Kahler, steers at $15.35; Mortenson Bros., steers at $15.35; Herbert Perry, steers at $15; Melvin Samuelson, steers at $15.50; Morris Bros., hogs at $13.45; Chas. Jochens, steers at $15.50; Emil Utecht, steers at $15.

said in regard to the winning of the ground. "You've got to have a man go there and stand."

Returns to Base.

SIC Howard L. McGuire, 29, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. McGuire of Leslie precinct, has returned to his base at New Orleans armed to his center after spending the past year at sea as member of a naval gun crew on a merchant ship. He was in charge of defending merchant ships in case of attack. The young man visited ports in Spain, Iran, Egypt and Arabia.

Howard was graduated from Wakefield high school and was farming until he joined the navy December 14, 1942. He trained at Great Lakes before being assigned to the armed guard of a merchant ship.

Attends Easter Service.

Sgt. Allan J. Perdue writes about the impressive Easter services conducted somewhere in England by a chaplain who gave a wonderfully inspiring message to men from all branches of service who assembled out of doors in early morning. The program was printed in gold on blue and concluded with "Crossing the Bar."

Sgt. Perdue, who is a mechanic, is feeling fine and keeping very busy. The countryside in England is green and very beautiful now. The young man gets the floral and appreciates contacts it affords with home and with others in service. He sends greetings to all in the armed forces.

Stationed in Africa.

When Pfc. Vera Paulsen of Laurel, former Carroll teacher comes home, she knows just what she wants!

Stationed in north Africa for six months, she has traveled across the northern fringe of the continent by train, by truck and jeep. She has seen the beauty of the desert and the awe-inspiring beauty of the ancient city of Constantinople.

Pfc. Paulsen has tasted the native dishes of Arabs and diners in the many French restaurants and sidewalk cafes that line the boulevard in one north African city. For one interesting period, while on a four-day train trip, she ate "civvies." On holidays she has enjoyed the turkey and chicken, prepared by the best WAC cooks. And this WAC, as do all other overseas members of the corps, declares that she has been better fed than the folks at home. She wants no seven-course dinner, with the trimmings that are traditional when a member of a family returns from a long Odyssey.

But when she comes back to Laurel, this WAC daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Paulsen, will order hamburger and one chocolate cone—and no need to tell where. She says the fellow at the drug store will know.

Wayne Youths Write.

M. T. Sgt. Russell A. Olson, stationed on a south Pacific air base, writes that times at that place are now normal and lights are on until 10 o'clock each night. It used to maintain total darkness at all times. The youth also says he can sleep without being disturbed by visits from "the little yellow men." He hopes to return to the states by September first.

Pvt. Gene M. Olson is now stationed at a gunnery school at Las Vegas, Nev., and writes that sand banks there are higher than any Nebraska snow drifts. Fences like old snow fences are built along the railroads to hold back the sand.

The boys are sons of Mrs. Lucille Olson.

To Enter Navy Service.

Don Simpson of Sioux City, whose wife is the former Mary Jane Morgan of Wayne, has been commissioned lieutenant junior grade in the navy and reports June 2 at Babson Field, Mass. He will be assistant paymaster. Mr. and Mrs. Simpson and son, Jack, plan to spend next Sunday here and Jack will stay at F. S. Morgan's while his folks go east. Mr. and Mrs. Simpson and Mrs. Carter Dennis, the last of Sioux City, will go to Washington, D. C. to see Lt. (jg.) Carter Dennis. The Simpsons will also visit the Jack Morgan family in Phillipsburg, N. J., and then go to Babson Field. Mrs. Simpson will return and she and her son, Jack, will be in Sioux City at least temporarily.

WAYNE FLIER COMMENDED — "Congratulations," smiles Rear Admiral Frederick Carl Sherman, USN (right), West Coast Fleet Air commander, following presentation of a letter of commendation to Lieut. (jg.) Quentin R. Whitmore, USNR, Wayne, who was cited for outstanding performance of duty in the Aleutians campaign. The ceremonies took place at San Diego. Co-pilot and navigator of a Ventura medium bomber, Lieut. Whitmore demonstrated courage and zeal in scouting missions in hazardous weather on extensive over-water patrols in the Aleutians. Lieut. Whitmore's brother, Llewellyn, was in the Philippines, and no word has yet come from him since the fall of these islands.

another inspiring message for these young people.

Worship service following Sunday school and young people's meeting. We honor particularly dear mother this Sunday in this special service. That's right, remember, honor her, bring her along to church service. A service like this was always the means of her inspiration. The Bible was the source of her ideal mother-and-womanhood. She was patient in performing her sacred duties. Let's go back to the old home place with her where she gave us life and all those priceless remembrances of her childhood, the later years, and above all back to the church, the source of her everlasting faith in God and man.

Student at College Receives Award

Miss Jacqueline Plantenberg, Wayne college student, was presented the forensic award in recognition of her winning the class A discussion contest at the Nebraska intercollegiate forensic meet in Kearney and other noteworthy speech activities. The annual recognition night which is part of the commencement activities and which recognizes meritorious achievement by under-class men will be suspended for this year. The armed services have so depleted ranks of music, speech and athletic activities that participants in these fields were meager. The music people found that metal for the awards was lacking and consequently presentation of medals had to be cancelled.

Wedding Service Is Held in Church

Miss Bonnie Jo Martin Is Bride Here Tuesday of Pfc. H. G. Ahrens.

Miss Bonnie Jo Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Martin of Wayne, and Pfc. Herbert G. Ahrens, son of Mrs. Bertha Ahrens of Scribner, were married Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at a candlelight service performed by Rev. H. H. Hazzard in the Baptist church.

Ms. W. C. Swanson played "At Dawning" and "Liebestraum" and she accompanied Mrs. Clarence McGinn while she sang "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life" and "Because" as guests were assembling.

The church was attractively decorated, carrying out the bride's colors of blue and white. The altar was banked with flowers and white tapers. Miss Arvel Lewis lit the tapers before the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. The party entered the church to the strains of "Lohengrin." Mrs. Swanson played "Präumerel" during the ceremony and "Mendelssohn" as the wedding party left the church.

The bride chose white chiffon over taffeta for her wedding gown. It was fashioned with peasant sleeves, fitted bodice and sweetheart neckline edged with pearls. Her finger-tip veil fell from a comb of Venetian point lace.

Miss Margaret Wade, friend of the bride, served as maid-of-honor and her floor-length dress was ice blue fashioned with a fitted satin bodice and full skirt of net. She carried an arm bouquet.

Pfc. Robert Bentback of Wayne, who is attending medical school in Omaha, served as best-man. Both he and the bridegroom wore military uniforms.

Following the ceremony a reception for about 75 was held in the church parlors. Mrs. Paul Bates of Columbus, Ohio, and Miss Vivian Brighton of Omaha, were in charge of the serving table. Decorations carried out the bride's colors. Mrs. McGinn sang "Always" and "Oh Promise Me."

The couple are at home in apartment 4, 2014 Mason street, Omaha.

Pfc. and Mrs. Ahrens received their A. B. degrees from Wayne college in 1942. Pfc. Ahrens is at present a junior in the Nebraska medical school in Omaha.

Normal Corn Flow Is Urged for Area

Chairman Lee Sellon Notes Need for Grain to Help In War Effort.

Farmers living outside the area affected by the "corn freeze" order, can make a valuable contribution to the war effort by maintaining a normal flow of corn to market for feeding purposes.

The need for corn in the war effort is very urgent, and for that reason it was found necessary to limit corn sales to the government for 60 days in certain designated counties in Nebraska and four other corn belt states.

Those who live outside the area, and have corn above our feeding requirements are not without responsibility in this program.

Corn is one of the most important grain crops in the war effort, in that it virtually every war weapon uses corn in its manufacture.

"I am sure that farmers in Wayne county will cooperate in this emergency situation," Mr. Sellon said. "No one wants to do anything that will in any way prolong the war."

Mrs. Marietta Morris of Wayne, and Robert L. Waller of Belden, were married Saturday afternoon at the Wayne court house by Judge J. M. Cherry. David Hamer and Mrs. Marie Brittain served as witnesses.

Mrs. Waller is the mother of Mrs. Wm. Leuders of Wayne.

Returning Veterans To Get Assistance

Extension Service to Help Reestablish Those Who Prefer Farming.

Nebraska agricultural extension service will work with farm people in establishing committees of farm people in every county to give advisory assistance to returning war veterans who want to farm. Director W. H. Brokaw has announced.

While the main job of these committees will be to furnish local farming advice to returning veterans, the committees will work very closely with other groups that administer loans or other assistance programs for veterans. Director Brokaw pointed out.

The county agricultural agent in each county will be responsible for establishing local committees, and will serve as liaison between the committees and local selective service boards and other groups. The committees will be composed largely of successful farm people in the county. In some counties committees already organized will perform this function. In others, new committees will be organized. The group will work closely with the county agent in advising veterans of the types of farming suitable to the county, safe margins of indebtedness, amount of capital required, sources of credit, size of farm necessary to maintain a satisfactory standard of living, leasing arrangements, good local farming practices and the like.

Memorial Flower Is Symbol of Life. The idea of the poppy as the memorial flower came about as naturally as the little bright red wild blossoms spring up on the fields of France and Flanders during World War One when they provided the one touch of beauty among the horrors of war.

Even before men had returned from the war, the perfect little poem of Col. John McCrae, himself soon to lie beneath the poppies, wrote: "In Flanders' field the poppies blow, between the crosses, row on row." Spontaneously the poppy took on a sacred significance and it became the flower of remembrance for men who gave all as well as for those who are living victims of the war.

The nationwide sale of memorial poppies was begun by the Legion and Auxiliary in 1921. At first silk poppies made in France by widows and orphans were used. In 1922 the first poppies made by American veterans were produced in hospitals in Minnesota, and this work has expanded until now they are made by veterans in 50 hospitals in 40 states.

The crepe paper poppy was selected as the official flower for the Legion and Auxiliary because it provided the maximum of work for disabled men with the minimum expenditure for materials. The fabric poppy did not afford sufficient employment for disabled veterans.

By 1924 it was seen that the poppy program lent itself more naturally to the work of women than men, and the Legion gave the Auxiliary complete charge of this national program.

Following the ceremony a reception for about 75 was held in the church parlors. Mrs. Paul Bates of Columbus, Ohio, and Miss Vivian Brighton of Omaha, were in charge of the serving table. Decorations carried out the bride's colors. Mrs. McGinn sang "Always" and "Oh Promise Me."

LIVESTOCK HEALTH ODDITIES

ANTHRAX, THE DISEASE WHICH KILLS SO MANY CATTLE EVERY YEAR, KILLED CAMEL CENTURIES AGO. THEY CONTRACTED IT FROM WEARING THE SKINS OF DISEASED ANIMALS.

DOGS ARE NOT THE ONLY CARRIERS OF RABIES. SKUNKS, CATS, FOXES AND MANY OTHER ANIMALS CAN CONTRACT IT.

DOG CHOLERA ONCE KILLED ONE OUT OF TEN DOGS IN THE U.S. BEFORE VETERINARY RESEARCH WORKERS DEVELOPED PROTECTIVE ANTI-CHOLERA SERUM AND VIRUS.

HEALTH HINTS FOR LIVESTOCK

PREPARED BY AMERICAN FOUNDATION FOR ANIMAL HEALTH

HORSES ENTITLED TO BETTER CARE

Most people agree that the horse is the most intelligent animal on the farm—but unfortunately, evidence also shows that it is the most neglected animal in many cases out of ten.

Take the matter of diet, for example. The horse has an extremely small stomach. Therefore, it needs a better-balanced, more easily-digested diet than any other farm animal.

Yet few horses, today, are given the type of ration. Horses need minerals such as calcium and phosphorus. They should also be given alfalfa, for the proteins, minerals and vitamins which are in this rich food.

Because of the small size of the stomach, horses cannot store food and water for long periods. They should be fed and watered frequently—otherwise colic and indigestion may develop—or serious impactions.

The average farm horse is also an easy victim of internal parasites. This is especially true of bots and stragyle worms. Bots, which are larvae of bot flies, fasten themselves to the lining of the horse's stomach during the winter months. They burrow the animal's health, often puncturing the stomach, and can make a poor animal out of a fine one.

Work horses if they are allowed to go unchecked. These bots can be eradicated by proper medication during winter months, the best plan being for farmers of a locality to band together and have the veterinarian treat all horses at one time thus eliminating the pests from the area for the season.

In regions where sleeping sickness has occurred, horse owners should also have their animals immunized against this disease before the insect season begins. Such immunization is usually good for a year, and confers a high degree of protection.

With horsepower doubly valuable this year, proper care of farm horses is not only a matter of humanitarianism, it is good business as well.
