Relative of Wayne Man Passes Away

George Raymond Hoch, 63, of Butte, brother-in-law of Charles Heikes, died at the home of his brother, Charles Hoch, at South Sioux City, Thursday last week.

Funeral rites were conducted Saturday at Salem Lutheran church located three miles west of Dakota City, with Barber funeral home in charge. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Heikes and family of Wayne, and Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Aistrops and Mrs. Lettie Harman of Wakefield, went to attend services.

Mr. Hoch was born February 12, 1881, in Dakota county. He married Mary Heikes in 1913, at South Sioux City. The couple lived in Dakota City until 1920 when they moved to Butte. Six weeks ago, when Mr. Hoch became ill, he was taken to South Sioux City to the home of his brother, Charles Hoch, where he passed away.

Deceased leaves his wife, Mary, sister of Charles Heikes of Wayne, five sons, four of whom are in the navy, Donald at Farquhar, Idaho, Conrad, who is overseas, and Bryce, also overseas, who expected to be here Monday. The other son, Ronald, and a daughter, Maxine, are at home. He also leaves three brothers, Charles and Clyde of South Sioux City, and Carl of Owanka, S. D.

Mrs. Hoch returned to Butte Monday this week.

Need to Conserve Gasoline Stressed

Wayne and Winside Men Go To Norfolk Tuesday for Special Meeting.

Military needs in gasoline and other petroleum products must be stressed first if victory is to be won, stressed E. Dale Smith, oil company representative, in speaking at Norfolk Tuesday evening. Roy Langemeier attended from Wayne, and Carl Nielsen from Winside.

Capt. Marcus Johnson, who is a chaplain in the South Pacific, spoke of the tremendous demands and military needs of gasoline and oil. Mayor A. W. Breyer of Norfolk, appealed to civilians to use only the amount of fuel needed.

Military demands come first, as shown by the fact that 60 per cent of the world output of petroleum goes for army needs, and 40 per cent for civilians.

It is interesting to note that 1,000 four-motor bombers require 1,800,000 gallons of 100 octane gasoline in a six-hour mission. They can deliver 5,000,000 pounds more bombs when fueled with 100 octane gasoline as compared with 91 octane, the next lowest grade, and about the best quality of the enemies are using. To train one pilot requires about 12,500 gallons of aviation gasoline and a single squadron of 18 U. S. navy bombers burns 11,160 gallons in an average day's operations. The consumption in either case is equivalent to about 20 years' requirements of gasoline in the average motorist.

A motorized division can travel only 21 feet on a gallon of gasoline. It requires over 230 gallons to move a mile. About 50 gallons of petroleum of all kinds are required monthly to support each man in uniform. One battleship can take aboard enough oil in one fueling to heat the average home for over 350 years.

About 17,000,000 gallons of 100 octane aviation gasoline flow from the stills daily, compared to one-tenth that quantity being produced when the Japs struck at Pearl Harbor.

Mr. Smart presented these facts to emphasize the need for using gasoline supplies carefully.

Couple Honored On Silver Wedding

Rev. Wm. Kearns celebrated 25th wedding anniversary mass at St. Mary's Catholic church Saturday morning at 9 for Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Sharer at the request of their children. The day was brightened also by special messages from each of the children. James Sharer is in gunnery school at Yuma, Ariz. Cleus Sharer is training at Camp Lee, Va. Miss Mary Sharer is with the weather bureau in Washington. Miss Jean Ann Sharer is spending the summer in Washington and is employed in the want ad department of the Washington Star. The Sharers came here from Minot, N. D., 18 years ago.

Feature Musicians At Programs Here

Max Werner, formerly of Mapleton, Ia., accompanied Mr. Gurney, and Spencer Odum was accompanist and arranger for the colored group.

It is interesting to note that on the regular Sunday morning radio broadcast from Chicago, the Southernaires stated that they would appear in Wayne Tuesday evening.

Appreciative audiences attended both programs.

Democratic Convention THE democratic national convention, Chicago, was discordant rather than noisy and a few weeks before. Republicans have been out of power so long that they are inclined to get together and brush aside personal and sectional differences. Democrats have seen their party impregnated with ideological incongruities and often dominated in Washington by a queer assortment of economic crackpots. Results have been irritation and disagreement.

Accepting Roosevelt as the only likely winner despite fourth-term aversion and other grounds for opposition, the south balked at Wallace. Southern democrats set out to defeat the Iowa dreamer, and they succeeded. On the other hand, organized labor, particularly the powerful CIO, failed in making its demand for Wallace stick. While labor union leaders profess intention to support the ticket notwithstanding triumph of the more conservative Truman, they could not and probably did not fold up their enthusiasm for the Iowan and leave the convention overly well satisfied.

What sudden call to an undisclosed Pacific navy base prevented the president from close proximity to the convention to accept the nomination, has not been explained. But it was spectacular and impressive for the president to broadcast acceptance to the Chicago group and to the country from a remote point. Why the chief executive could not have planned to dispatch public service earlier or later to be near the scene of momentous decision is not made clear.

Senator Barkley launched the fourth-term nomination in a burst of adulation, apparently overlooking his public flaying of executive action some months ago. It is reported from Washington that at one juncture the senator who was angling for the vice presidency, threatened to back up and not make the nominating speech when he heard the president had failed to endorse his latest ambition. The senator's somersaulting leads one to hope he may stay peevish long enough some time to appear consistent.

The national campaign is on and will grow in popular interest as the season develops. Results will largely be determined by trends in the far east and far west. The middle west is likely to present a solid phalanx for the republican ticket. There may be some deflections in the south, but the democratic party can probably, despite sharp disagreements, rely on customary strength below the Mason and Dixon's line.

Looking Ahead HOW immediate is the need to prepare for navigating the air by privately owned airplanes is a question about which opinions will of course differ. Forward steps have always been taken hesitatingly. What was considered impossible becomes an essential. Electric lighting was deemed utterly impractical when it was struggling into use. The first one-lung automobiles were playthings in the hands of the rich who could afford them and who dared to run them. As the first costly automobile wheezed along, scaring horses and terrorizing drivers, it was condemned as a flagrant nuisance and a source of constant peril. Now comes the airplane. What of its future? Those who think they know believe its development will be rapid. Many trained pilots, products of the war, will help. One imperative need is that every live community must be prepared with sufficient landing and take-off fields.

Hard Fact THE OMAHA World-Herald reminds Henry Wallace that the idealism which thrilled his soul was destined to disappointment, and suggests that he should have known when the president pronounced the death of the "new deal" and birth of "win the war" that he was on the way out. The CIO and other fellow-travelers should also have known. Failing to recognize the inevitable.

Mrs. Pete Petersen arrived home last week from a visit in Stockton and Los Angeles. Mr. Petersen has gone from Stockton to Washington to be employed.

Mr. and Mrs. August Alt and two daughters of Council Bluffs, came Tuesday to visit until today in the Conrad Meyer home here. They are cousins of Mr. Meyer.

Mrs. E. W. Huse, Mrs. D. S. Wightman and Donald, Mrs. Howard Witt and Billie, and Yvonne Koplin were Tuesday afternoon guests of Mrs. Lawrence Backstrom.

Capt. and Mrs. Tom Cavanaugh are spending a few days in Minneapota and plan to return to A. T. Cavanaugh's here Friday. The for-they decided to fight. The World-Herald comments:

"So again Henry packed his bag and went out on his Chautauqua route. In every city and hamlet where he could find a labor union or a chamber of commerce or a woman's club or whatever to sponsor his appearance, he made a speech. Into these speeches he poured the essence of his tender heart and his great, compassionate spirit.

"Agate Franklin Roosevelt listened. And the bosses listened. They sensed that the phrases which Henry Wallace was pouring out so earnestly—the phrases which he had borrowed from the earlier campaigns of his commander in chief—had lost their power to bewitch.

"So the word went out to the hatchet men in Chicago that while Henry was to have his chance, while he was to receive a frozen smile from his chief, while his followers were to have an opportunity to void their enthusiasm, in the end he was to be given the Kelly-Hague treatment in one swift stroke. And another, more suited to the temper of the times, was to be chosen in his place.

"So it came about.

"And Henry Wallace, the idealist, has been given a lesson which perhaps he is too idealistic to understand."

United in War THE SATURDAY Evening Post suggests that the nation would have rallied from Pearl Harbor just as magnificently under a republican president as it did under Roosevelt. It suggests that any other idea would have been preposterous. The Post observes in conclusion:

"All in all we rather doubt the wisdom of efforts to prove that American patriotism is a one-party monopoly. A similar slip cost Woodrow Wilson his congress in 1918. Maybe even twelve years of propaganda saturation are not enough to make it certain that the same thing cannot happen again."

Whether Hitler is being disillusioned, or still entertains the crazy idea he can win through an intensified policy of ruthlessness is not apparent. Events on all battle fronts are fast shaming for his overthrow. As a last resort will he fly to a distant retreat in the hope of escape, or will he meet his just fate? Unless Hitler can perform a miracle—which some of his deluded subjects think he can do—he will not long be able to stand off the gathering storm of retribution. Returning to London from Normandy last week, Prime Minister Churchill expressed his belief that Germany might fall any day. Such optimism should not encourage any one to let up in his war effort. One the contrary, it should speed up action to hasten the final and coveted result.

Some one guesses the postwar living standard will be lowered. But perhaps a downward revision would be no lower than the one to which many of us have long been accustomed. What is a high standard of living? Is it one that insures every citizen and luxury, little work, big pay, no responsibility and much leisure? Or is it an uninterrupted flow of wholesome food, a comfortable home and plenty to do to keep one's mind and hands usefully employed? But whatever it is no one is going to scare us into thinking we can't stand it.

In Sunday's Lincoln Journal J. E. Lawrence who has attended party conventions for many years, views with alarm the race problem which has been treated cautiously, frequently sidestepped awkwardly by national leaders. The race question will vex society until a feasible solution is reached. It is plain that when first settlers brought the blacks from Africa as slaves they started something.

We wonder how Gen. Kuniaki Kulo, successor to Tojo, will look when the procession of events in the far Pacific takes the smile off his face. We wonder if he can pull his face together enough to conceal his teeth.

Sidney Hillman, high labor boss, has had sense enough to advise his followers that if they destroy employers they will destroy their own jobs.

One Nebraska delegate to the democratic national convention is quoted as saying he voted "against Wallace because Norris endorsed him."

Senator Barkley reminds one of a religious fanatic who changes his belief and then fervently urges everybody to do the same thing.

Some one quotes the president as saying he will not run for a fifth term. But let's go easy on giving credence to political pledges.

INDISPENSABILITY. Like many other publications, the York Republican emphasizes the fallacy of the "indispensable" man, and wonders what Franklin and others would think of our plight. The plea for support on the ground of not changing horses while crossing a stream will be urged with increasing fervor as the campaign progresses, and "indispensability" will be extended to include solution of postwar problems. From one emergency to another new deal hangers-on will jump in the hope of continuing at the public crib. As a matter of fact, there is no "indispensable" man, as the York editor points out in this concluding paragraph: "This newspaper refuses to believe there is such a thing as an 'indispensable' man. It has high hope that American citizens will not only dispel that illusion in the coming election. The democratic foundations of government are crumbling. Future safety lies in regaining the assurance that it is policy, not men, who make nations great; that indispensability culminates in infuency and a type of government we are fighting to destroy in Germany and Japan. The 'indispensable' man theory has no warrant in constitution, Americanism or safe government."

bears large and lasting compensations.

Society has not been such a howling success in directing and developing children that it cannot improve. Duties often press hard on mothers, and defenseless children thus frequently and unavoidably get within the range of spurs of ill temper. We wish children might always be orderly and angelic, but as they won't, we think every means of kindly and tactful leading, without over-indulgence, should be exhausted before employing physical punishment—frequently the product of adult bad temper rather than adult horse sense.

As to little children, we are for them however they may occasionally slip from highest standards of behavior, because they are immature, comparatively helpless, all-ways dependent and too often subject to flights of unwarranted irascibility.

FOR CONTROL. Some years ago workders were often under-paid, and were justified in making organized demands for fair treatment. The past decade, however, the unions have gained huge power, and have frequently abused it. The CIO now proposes to raise three million dollars to battle for a fourth term. Labor leaders have gone into politics with the evident intention of running the government and forcing agriculture, industry and small business to obey or get out of the way. Speaking of labor union activities in the direction of control. Time magazine says this among other things: "But beyond its 1944 objective, P. A. C. has a far-sighted purpose. From now on, labor has political ambitions of its own. P. A. C.'s young thinkers—the Auto Workers' Walter Reuther, CIO Secretary Jim Carey, economist Ray Walsh—are already skeptical of the ability of private enterprise to provide full employment after the war. They argue that without government initiative the U. S. cannot be effectively mobilized for peace; they are prepared to accept—and even seem eager for—a postwar world in which the economic initiative belongs to the government. P. A. C.'s 1944 platform is a specific blueprint calling for a planned economy, federally controlled—including everything from raising the standard of living in backward nations by granting them three credits to free hot lunches for the 20 million U. S. school children. This is a lot more than Sam Gompers or Bob La Follette or Bill Green or John Lewis ever thought of. But if P. A. C. ever wins its objective, and becomes the balance of power in U. S. elections, the U. S. voters will hear a lot more about P. A. C.'s long-range plan."

Congress

AS HELD BY EARL STEPHAN

Washington, D. C. July 19, 1944

Old issues crop out in unexpected places. They seem to run in cycles. They disappear for a time and then return. One instance of it is the injection of the gold and silver question into the international money conference in New Hampshire. The silver countries like India are far outnumbered in the delegations. China is in such straits on account of the war that its 33 delegates did not make much noise, and Mexico was not vociferous. But India and Egypt had their own particular situations to consider, and they made protests, feeble in expression but sufficient to cause a stir. China had had a loan of $500 million from our gold store in the Knox for basing its currency.

The conference is proposing a plan for currency stabilization, among others. The plan when it comes forth will be on the basis of the gold standard. Our own country's gold, safely locked up in the big vault at Fort Knox, the stock-pile ownership has been changed somewhat by our marketing and foreign loans. The stabilization of currency based on the gold standard will keep silver on a commodity basis, subject to control as now. There are billions of dollars of orders for commodities which will be an important economic factor after the war. Egypt has placed over a billion dollars with Britain, and India about four billion. Argentina, Mexico and other silver countries of South America likewise have many such orders in Europe. Consequently they are concerned as to how stabilization of currencies may work out.

The ways of monopoly are many and some of them are wicked. We read much about trusts and international cartels making enormous profits at the expense of the people and of the government in war time. But there are small monopolies as well as big trusts which have all the inclinations of the international combines whose scattered operations make successful prosecution difficult. Not long ago an international group headed by London and Holland financiers were holding up the world supply of quinine and limiting the use of that important drug by our army boys in the tropics. Quinine is produced in only a few countries.

The drought in eastern states has assumed alarming proportions. There has been a lack of rainfall in many sections of the middle west, but the east has suffered much more severely. This is the second dry year in Virginia, Maryland and adjoining states. The hay crop is a failure there and pastures are parched. Unless rain comes soon the dairy farms which supply the eastern cities with whole milk will have to sell their stock.

To Theatre Conference. Miss Ruth Ross plans to attend a conference on children's theatre given by the school of speech of Northwestern university, Evanston, August 7 to 9. She will go to Chicago this Friday to visit her sister and remain for the conference.

Will Move Soon. The Paul Liljedahl family plans to move soon to Mapleton, Ia., where Mr. Liljedahl will head the school. Coach Ralph Ginn will move from the L. F. Good residence to the Edw. Seymour apartment which the Liljedahls leave.

Brothers Honored For Food Production

Conroy and Carroll Munson, Wakefield, have been chosen as members of a select group of individuals in the United States to be honored by Allied Mills, Inc., for distinguished service in the production of food for victory. It was announced Monday this week.

These boys will participate in the special broadcast "Victory Farmers on Parade," which is to be heard over a number of leading stations, at which time they will be interviewed. The interview can be heard over station KSCJ, Sioux City, Ia. at 12:15 p. m., Tuesday, August 1, and over station WHO, Des Moines, at 12:15 p. m., and station KFAB, Lincoln, at 6:32 a. m.

This is one of a series of programs on the air Tuesdays and Thursdays to inform people of the United States of the importance of food production in winning the war, and to pay tribute to the American farmers and farm women who are doing a particularly fine job in helping attain the production goals established by the U. S. department of agriculture.

Soil Conservation Officers Selected

Charles Chinn is Chairman of Dixon County Group Just Organized.

Charles Chinn, Wakefield, is chairman. E. G. Lundahl, Wakefield, vice chairman and County Agent Howard Gillaspie, Allen, secretary of the recently organized Dixon county soil conservation district. Besides the officers, other members of the board of supervisors are C. H. Gibbs, of Newcastle, Lenus Rung of Wakefield, and Leslie Noe of Dixon. Mr. Lundahl was appointed by the state board of directors and the others were elected by members of the soil district.

After organizing, the board made application to state directors for assistance with erosion problems. Any farmer in Dixon county may receive help and advice in solving soil moisture problems without any cost to anyone in the county.

The technician will be an employee of the U. S. department of agriculture.

This spring an enormous amount of soil was carried off to lowland grounds, that do not need these deposits, and to rivers. This erosion represents a great loss. Many hills are becoming a hickskin color, which means that rich soil is being carried away. Soil and moisture conservation can help reduce the loss.

Any farmer in Dixon county wishing help and advice on soil conservation problems from technicians may apply for such aid through the supervisors.

Gene Cheney of Laurel, navy cadet on a B-24 based in England has earned the air medal.

United War Fund Drive Is Planned

Quota for State Is Fixed and Chairman T. C. Woods Gets Started.

The 1944 campaign for the United War Fund of Nebraska will begin Monday, October 3, according to announcement of Thomas C. Woods, Lincoln. Preparations are now in process in 33 counties of the state to raise the quota of $925,000. County quotas will be announced soon.

"The needs and causes for which the fund exists merit the wholehearted support of the people," states Mr. Woods. "The USO, the war prisoners and the united seaman's service, the refugee relief, the various allied relief societies such as those of China and Greece — 19 worthy agencies — challenge our best efforts."

Walter F. Roberts, executive director of the United War Fund of Nebraska, has just returned from a statewide county visitation and organization tour. He reports that the prospects for a highly successful 1944 campaign are excellent. With the experience of the 1943 campaign behind it, it is likely that the 1944 drive will be a shorter one.

YOUR NUTRITION COMMITTEE presents Food For Folks

In cooperation with STATE AND NATIONAL NUTRITION PROGRAM

Mrs. R. M. Carhart, Wayne County Nutritionist. Since a real need exists for wise food-use, a nationwide nutrition program has been designed to help Americans make the best use of available food supply, to educate people in adjusting their eating habits to the food situation.

Food is fuel, supplying energy for every type of physical and mental activity. Food also supplies material for body growth and muscle development. Thready food keeps the body running smoothly.

The building and repair foods are milk, milk products, eggs, liver, lean meat, fish and poultry. The foods that keep the body running smoothly are green and yellow vegetables, oranges, tomatoes, grapefruit, fruit and other vegetables.

Milk in Diet. Milk is the most outstanding source of calcium and is nicely balanced with phosphorus; both are essential for good bones and teeth. When present in the right amounts and right proportions, these minerals prevent rickets in growing children.

Milk also contains all other minerals known to be needed for normal nutrition. Listed as one of the protective foods, milk also contains all the known vitamins which are needed for normal nutrition. But it is the best source of riboflavin, that substance which increases youthful vitality of the human body and aids in keeping up the health of the eyes.

What It Will Provide. A normal moderately active adult man who gets one pint of milk a day can expect it to supply him with more than 1/2 of his calcium requirements, about 1/3 of his riboflavin needs, 1/4 protein needed and about 1/5 of the vitamin A for the day.

The riboflavin content of milk will be destroyed by light, so in order to retain this important element, the homemaker should take special care to take milk bottles in out of the sunlight immediately after the regular delivery is made.

One quart of milk will provide for the average child the amount of calcium contained in about 4 pounds of vegetables that are relatively high in calcium content. Although a shortage of calcium does not affect growth as quickly as a shortage of calories, proteins or some vitamins, a lack of it will cause children to grow up "calcium poor."

"A quart of milk a day for every child and at least a pint for every adult" is one of the most important teachings of nutrition and if the milk supply is sufficient these amounts should be used in some form.

To Protect Stock.

To protect stock from biting stable flies, Don B. Whelan, state extension entomologist, advises using good commercial sprays. He suggests applying these lightly and more often for best results. The skin of animals should not be wet with spray. It is also most important to keep flies from breeding.

Survives Ship Sinking. The passengers we came in contact with were the most hospitable people I have ever encountered. We arrived at our destination about 7:30 or 8 in the evening and drove over to the place where we were to be quarantined during our stay. It turned out to be an abandoned farm house with no windows or doors. Where to sleep? On the floor. Then up walks a Russian officer, sees the situation at a glance, gets in a jeep and drives off. A few minutes later he came back and told us that he told his men we were going to sleep on the floor. They jumped out of bed and said, "Here take mine. Maybe you didn't appreciate that earlier driving since I'm in the morning."

Lt. (jg) Budd Bornhoft, Wayne commanding officer of a coast guard-manned LC, wrecked after taking part in the invasion of Normandy, is a veteran of three invasions, Sicily, Italy and France. He is now visiting his wife and son, also his parents, Chief of Police and Mrs. Geo. Bornhoft.

Wayne Staters Meet. Before home we are continually on the alert for familiar faces. Often we see such a face only to be disappointed by finding the person to have come from miles and miles from our stamping ground. Yesterday in church I saw a face I was sure I had seen before. It was Sgt. John Alden Lewis July 10 from Italy. "We broke into conversation in the usual manner by saying, 'Your face looks familiar. Haven't I seen you someplace?' I was very glad to find that I too looked familiar to him. We named all the camps that we had been assigned to, and none were familiar. Asking what part of the country he was from, he said Nebraska. That sounded familiar. Soon we found that we are both products of Wayne State Teachers College. He is Sgt. Robert D. Ekwall who attended Wayne in 1939-41. Although he was not one of my class, I remember having seen him about. He is a ball turret gunner in the B-17 and has only recently joined our group. He has flown several missions and enjoys his position with the crew but like all other combat men he thinks about what's in store for tomorrow's fight. Mail, fighters, bad weather, etc. all combined. He sweats out each mission. We talked of old times and I gave him my Wayne Hospital and G.I. emblems which he was very glad to receive. It is a small world, especially with Berlin a few hours away from all.

Is in Unit Moved To Italian Base. Air Angels is the name given a group of air WACs in which Pvt. Betty Jo Hinkle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hinkle of near Randolph, is a member. The name is given because the young women have never been airmail, and lady G. I. will tell one that is quite a distinction.

Recently the girls flew from Agiers, north Africa, to Italy where they are now stationed. The women WACs are proud of the winged air force shoulder patch they wear. To these girls the winged star, superimposed on blue, is the insignia of the greatest branch of service.

The unit is made up of groups that went overseas with other detachments, some last November and others in January. They move when their officers go. To see the unit carrying field equipment and marching to their assigned plates to be "clouped" to a base hundreds of miles away, is to get a glimpse of the post-war world.

Infantryman Badge Awarded to Youth. Pfc. John W. Groskurth, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Groskurth, has been awarded the infantryman badge by Major Fred Eddy, division commander of the Ninth infantry division, fighting on the Chembong peninsula.

The awards were made in England shortly before operations on the continent began. This division was the first to land on the beaches with heavy elements of the invasion. It was one of the first to enter Chembong.

This division landed in north Africa and was the first infantry unit to enter Bizert. Later the Ninth fought in Sicily as part of Lt. General George S. Patton's Seventh army. Elements landed at Salerno on August 2, 1943, and fought through the center of the island, helping the First division capture Trapani and later to defeat German positions at Kandazza.

Hospitality of Russians is noted by American soldiers who visit that country, according to Cpl. Sam Steele who writes July 13 from Iran to his aunt, Miss Grace Steele. "I have been up north for a while. The trip was quite rough but it was something to break the monotony of our everyday routine. It was the youth. 'To get away from the heat was an appreciation in itself. Down here where it is so hot, most of the fellows have moved their beds outside to sleep, while up there we put our jackets as soon as the sun went down. At midnight, if it was our luck to be standing guard, an overcoat felt very comfortable."

"The Russians we came in contact with were the most hospitable people I have ever encountered. We arrived at our destination about 7:30 or 8 in the evening and drove over to the place where we were to be quarantined during our stay. It turned out to be an abandoned farm house with no windows or doors. Where to sleep? On the floor. Then up walks a Russian officer, sees the situation at a glance, gets in a jeep and drives off. A few minutes later he came back and told us that he told his men we were going to sleep on the floor. They jumped out of bed and said, 'Here take mine. Maybe you didn't appreciate that earlier driving since I'm in the morning.'"

All had an enjoyable time with them, especially talking to the soldiers who had come from the front and hearing of their experiences. One had returned that day with a leg shot out. He had had three years at the front and was only 21 years of age. "On our way back we stopped at a Russian hospital to stay all night. When we walked in there beds, mattresses, sheets, pillows and pillow cases. You never saw a state of appreciation as appeared on our faces when we saw those beds."

"Then back home and routine duty again. Sure will be able to appreciate flowers when I get back there again. The jones we planted here came along well until it got so hot. We had a dandy lawn but the heat has dried it all up. It gets watered three or four times a day and 10 minutes after it's as dry as a bone. The temperature keeps climbing as the days go by. Had a letter from a friend south of here and he says it's hitting 160 and 170 there every day which beats us a little. "I didn't get to see Del (his brother) when he was around this way, because they changed his orders the last moment. He says he is to be here again about the middle of August."

"The Herald reaches me quite regularly and I surely appreciate it. I'll say the very best."

Library News

This has been a busy week around the library. No more books have been checked out than usual but a great many books have been received and the library force has been working furiously to get them catalogued and ready for the shelves. The largest group of new books was given to the library by Miss Pearl Sewell. These are all children's new books, some of them reference, such as geography, health and science, but many of them are story books. In this group are 80 books and the children are going to be thrilled to have so many new books all at once. Orders for children's new books have been difficult to get through this summer so this gift was doubly welcome.

Two new reference volumes for adults have been added to the library collection. They are Who's Who in America for 1943-44 and the Americana Annual for 1944.

Mazo de la Roche, who wrote the Jaina series, has written a travel book about Quebec and this book was received at the library this week.

The Literary Guild book for August is also here. The title is Sirocco and the author, Lion Feuchtwanger. Movie rights for this book have already been purchased. The story of Joan of Arc was the inspiration for the story, although the heroine is a modern girl whose courage and spirit and loyalty to the great traditions of a noble France make a powerful, moving tale.

Work and Scenery Interest Wayne Girl. Miss Cleve Jorgensen, who is employed with the signal corps at Arlington Hall, Arlington, Va., writes the Herald that she is unable to say anything about the work she is doing because it is secret. "She" describes Arlington as follows: "Arlington hall was once an exclusive girls finishing school. It is a beautiful place with many flowers, trees and shrubs. The army has constructed many temporary buildings. We have our own P. X's and cafeterias, and no one is allowed inside except army personnel and civilian employees. "Arlington farms consist of many halls named after various states in the union. As Nebraska was full when we came, I live in Louisiana hall with about 600 other girls. There are about 7,000 girls living at the farms, and many WAVES.

"It is a 20-minute bus ride to work and a 10-minute ride down town. Both rides are very interesting. Going to work we drive past Arlington cemetery, the big band shell for open-air concerts that is anchored on the Potomac, and Fort Meyer. On the way down town, we cross Memorial bridge, and drive past Lincoln memorial. One can look down the tidal basin and see Washington monument and the capitol. Jefferson memorial, Washington memorial and the White house can be seen in the distance. This is an impressive sight and makes me proud to be an American.

"Washington is a crowded city, but it is beautiful and clean. Food and clothing are cheaper here than in Omaha, and room rent is very reasonable at Arlington farms. We eat at the cafeteria at the farm. The average person spends about a dollar a day for food, and it is delicious. Everyone likes it here in spite of being so far from home.

They know they are all doing a big job towards victory.

"No matter how large or small a gathering, one can always find persons from different states. In our office there happens to be a girl from Lincoln. I read in a paper that Annabel Jensen is at Fort Meyer, so I may see her sometime."

Men Build Station On Admiralty Off New Guinea Coast

SKCC Lowell Meyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Meyer of Wayne, is now stationed in the Admiralty Islands, which are off the northern coast of New Guinea in the South Pacific. He says that he has been out of the States for about three months and has been doing a lot of work. He continues to say, "When we landed on this island there wasn't a thing set up and no place to live. We had to begin everything from the beginning and build it ourselves. We finally got the place in pretty good shape and now have moved into our permanent office. I am in charge of all the posting and stock upkeep. The fellows here have been putting in about 16 and 17 hours a day getting files and cards set up so we can use them. We like to be busy all the time because it makes the time go faster. We still have a long time out here and we are trying to make the best of it."

"We are a long way from the States and not very far from the equator. It gets very hot during the day but cools off at night which makes it especially nice. The hottest day we have had so far was about 130 degrees. We usually have to have a blanket at night. It makes it nice sleeping. It was very hard to get used to the hot weather but now we can take a lot of heat. Another good thing is that we have very few mosquitoes. I have seen about 10 since I have been here. It rains just about every afternoon, but doesn't rain all day today (Sunday) it rained all day."

"Wayne's young man" says "It is really nice to get the Herald and read about what is going on around Wayne. It is also nice to find out where other fellows from Wayne are located."

Men Do Hard Job In Summer Heat

Tiny Denver Boy Helps Sell Bonds to Follow Example of His Mother.

With temperature in the upper 90's, two men at Havenhill, Mass., delivered 20 tons of coal to the Colonial theater Monday, sighed and headed for the showers. Then they discovered the coal should have been taken to the Strand theater instead. So they shoveled the 20 tons out again and delivered it to the correct destination.

Mrs. E. F. Wood, Denver, coming home after canvassing her block for war bond purchases, missed her 3-year-old son, Jimmie. The mailman, reporting a small boy was ringing doorbells farther down the block, ended Jimmie's own bond-peddling campaign. But Jimmie brought home the reason. A note clutched in his fist said, "Mrs. Wood, see me." Mrs. Wood did—and sold a bond.

A woman at Oklahoma City applied for two new passenger car tires but would not bring her old ones for inspection. Asked why, she told Don Hardin, district tire examiner, that "they're around my nasturtium beds." She did not get the new castings.

At Sommers, Mont., Grandpa and Grandpa, Rumbley, grumbled because their grandson was too young for military duty. And their son's honorable discharge after combat duty left the family with no one in the armed forces. Grandpa tried to enlist, but was turned down. Too old. That was too much for grandpa, who is now a WAC Pvt. Phoebe A. Rumbley.

Firemen at Couer d'Alene, Idaho, dashed to the Lions club. The ice box was on fire.

It took a postal card 30 years to make the 40-mile trip from White Sulphur Springs to Wilsall, Mont. The card was mailed to Mr. and Mrs. George Bruckert in May, 1914. Recently it was delivered, but a relative had to accept the card. The Bruckerts had been dead for years.

A deaf mute, in a municipal court at Portland, Ore., on an intoxication charge, took out his pad and started writing. He wrote and wrote. At the end of 15 pages of scrawled testimony, the judge dismissed the case.

John H. Keest, sr., Springfield, Ill., observed his 75th birthday by hiking 24.6 miles, just like he did on his 70th anniversary, but he complains that he's losing speed. Five years ago when Keest, a real estate broker, walked from Middletown, his home town, to Springfield, he had time for the 24.6 miles in five hours, 30 minutes. This year's hike to the state capitol, he said, took him six hours, 20 minutes.

At Lafayette, Ind., two women complained to Police Sgt. Cecil Baker that a dog was in their car and wouldn't get out. Baker, removed the dog, found a tag with the name of Alvin Fay, whom Baker telephoned. "Put the dog on the phone," Fay said, "and I'll talk to him." The "Sarge" was dubious, but obeyed. "What are you doing up there, Pat?" Fay admonished. "Get right on home." The dog went directly to Fay's residence.

The auction of unclaimed articles in the main Chicago post office drew many in search of the hard-to-get in-war-time goods. Henry Braun said he went to the sale to bid for camera equipment but he left after buying beauty sets, 50 pounds of modeling clay, 30 boxes of water colors and 200 assorted do-it-yourself kits. His wife will have first choice on his purchases, he said; the rest he will sell. One man bid past $17, supposedly for a set of books. Then he discovered he had bought a lot of women's skirts and blouses.

Mrs. Fred Bartel of Rush Center, Kans., reports that after she ran the family wash through the electric machine, including three trunks through the wringer, her husband found his glasses in the pocket of a pair of overalls that had been in the family laundry. The glasses, not in a case, were "unhurt and unbroken, even to a place which had been cemented."

Ronald Lair of Minneapolis, told police he had been held up by a bandit who took $27 and his gas ration book. When asked why there was a 24-hour delay between the holdup and report he replied: "I didn't know who this holdup fellow was, never saw him before, so naturally I didn't know if I should say anything about it." Detective Capt. Elmer McLasky assured him that many people who are held up by total strangers lose no time telling about it.

A two-passenger private plane undershot the airport at Phoenix, Ariz., but the pilot, James Taylor, 38-year-old amateur flier, managed such a successful landing, his only injury was a cut lip. He landed on the hangar roof.

It isn't a jeep any more, at least officially. The Mexico defense ministry at Mexico City has announced austerly that hereafter it must be referred to as a "light one-quarter-ton exploration car."

Mrs. L. E. Rails of Orange, Cal., knows that victory gardening pays. Rooting around among her vegetables, she harvested a $10 goldpiece.
