Nebraska District Leads in Command

Major Frank V. Kent, in charge of WAC recruiting in the states of Nebraska and South Dakota, today announced Women's Army Corps enlistments during July in Omaha district exceeded by nearly six percent the monthly procurement quota set by the Seventh service command.

The total number of enlistments, largest in many months, enabled the Nebraska WAC district to rank first among the six recruiting districts of the Seventh service command on percentage of quota obtained during July.

It also marked the fourth time in the last five months the Nebraska WAC district has met or surpassed the quota of new WAC enlistments asked by the service command, said Major Kent. Since last March, only in June has the district fallen below its quota, and then linked but seven enlistments in reaching the goal.

Two of the Nebraska WAC district recruiting substations, at Lincoln and Rapid City, S. D., established new procurement records during the successful July campaign, Major Kent announced.

Library Rates High With North Central

The continuance of membership of any higher institution of learning with the accrediting agencies of the North Central Association of Colleges and Universities and the American Association of Teachers Colleges depends upon the rating of the institution according to standards established by the association.

The North Central association requires a report every other year in one of three areas: financial, library service, and faculty competence. Data submitted by member institutions had to do with excellence of library service. A report recently received from the North Central association by the state teachers college at Wayne reveals that its library received superior ratings on two items: library holdings, which include reference books and periodicals, and expenditures for books, the figure for which represents the average expenditure for books over a five-year period.

The college is justly proud of the library and its contribution to the educational program.

IN CONTRAST

(Omaha Journal-Stockman) On May 25, 1939, this news item appeared on the pages of many newspapers of the United States: "Washington - To finance the railroads for the balance of the year and to pay the government's operating loss for 16 months up to this month, an appropriation of $1,200,000,000 was asked of congress yesterday by Director General Lines. The $1,200,000,000 is in addition to the $500,000,000 appropriated by the last congress. Quite different, isn't it, from the study that exists regarding the railroads in the present war and under private management. In fact, the contrast is so marked that it might well be worth the study of those who feel that the government should be entrusted with the management of everything and everybody.

plished by the Four Horsemen," Editor Howard says: "Henry Wallace was the choice of a clear majority of the delegates from states not absolutely controlled by the Four Horsemen—Hannegan, chairman of the Democratic national committee, New Jersey's Boss Hague, Chicago's Boss Kelly, and from the realm of the underground, the living ghost of Missouri's Pendergast."

Again: "It was the general view of the keen newspaper men who covered the convention that Senator Barkley of Kentucky was the victim of the double cross. The Four Horsemen induced him to present the name of President Roosevelt for renomination, and he did it magnificently. It is the general opinion of the newspaper men that he was promised the nomination, for vice president. He must have been greatly humiliated by the result. He was not even a good 'also ran.' I served many years in the congress with the brilliant Barkley. I sympathized with him when the gangsters double-crossed him."

FIELD SEED CARRY OVER. 1942-3 91,575,000 lbs. 1943-4 45,201,000 lbs. 1944-5? * TOTAL OF SEVEN BASIC FIELD SEED CROPS. WHAT'S GOING TO HAPPEN TO ME?

Due to unusually heavy drain on reserve supplies during the past two years, farmers are threatened with a serious shortage of legume and grass seeds—a vital link in production of food now and in the future. Uncertainty of new seed production and needs for fall seeding call for a sufficient carry over to meet requirements and maintain a reserve supply. In addition to providing feed for increased numbers of livestock, legumes and grasses have a direct bearing upon future yields of other crops. Land under wartime strain of peak production must have legumes and grasses to maintain and restore fertility, and must have cover to combat erosion. Desired hay and pasture acreage cannot be maintained, however, unless this year's seed harvest is larger than in either of the past two years. Since seed production varies greatly because of weather, and the acreage available for seed harvest is smaller than in either of the past two years, it is urgent that more than the usual number of acres be harvested for seed.

America's Heart Is In the Middle West

Congressman Stefan Says Veterans Want Home And Opportunity

"The heart of America is not in Washington but the heart of America is here in the middle west," stated Congressman Karl Stefan after his familiar welcome, "Well we got here all right," in speaking to a large group at Bressler park Thursday evening under sponsorship of Wayne county chapter of American War Dads. After serving 10 years in congress, Mr. Stefan added that "I'd rather call Nebraska home than any place else. Each time I return I am more glad that home is in Nebraska."

And this home in Nebraska, just as it was when they left, is what the boys in the armed forces want most to find after victory is attained, the congressman stated. Mr. Stefan related that he had visited thousands of American boys on maneuvers and at embarkation points; he has traveled on river boats, gone up the gang-plank and circulated among 16,500 on a single ship to find Nebraska boys so he might report to their home folks that he had seen them before they left. He has followed the boys into the hold of submarines. He found some laughing and many crying. Most of them, 18 and 19 years old, looked like children too young to leave. Many were crossing the ocean on the first trip away from home. All have confidence in the looks at home. Mr. Stefan added praise for the farm work on the farm. "We couldn't work without the service the farmers have given."

Do Not Ask Much.

"What do you want most?" Mr. Stefan asked the boys. All wanted their parents to know that they were all right and they wanted home to be just as they left it when they return. This is all these boys ask except an opportunity to make a living. For those who have paid the supreme sacrifice the war has already cost too much. For others, for those who have come back young in years but old in mind, for those who are maimed for those who can't think as they did before, all these want to come home and they want America to be as they left it. This, assured Congressman Stefan as one of the objectives of 500,000 War Dads.

G. I. Bill Is Passed.

Mr. Stefan told that congress is working on the GI bill and hundreds of others proposed as means of helping returning veterans. Some are good and others bad. The GI bill which has been passed and signed, will have to be studied carefully and amended some. Legislation will have to fit postwar program and reconstruction. The congressman urged veterans to keep a record of names of doctors and hospitals and above all to file discharge papers with the county clerk. Well kept records will help in later years. Much confusion has resulted in records of the First World War in which two million went overseas. The task now with eight million overseas is much greater.

Expect Nazi Fall Soon.

The question of greatest concern to all on the home front is the length of the war, stated the congressman. "The chance is 50 to 50 that the war in Europe will be over by November. The picture can't be bright when one thinks of the casualties, but the nazis are defeated. The hope is that they will surrender sooner than experts expect. The war will last longer in the east."

Plan Heavy Discharge.

Mr. Stefan quoted experts as saying that "when the war collapses in Europe, we may expect a heavy discharge of older members of the armed forces." The army will remain large and powerful so no heavy impact will be felt on the national economic system. But the older men will be returning home and they will need something to do.

Industry Is Hopeful.

The homefront faces a big responsibility in providing jobs, as many war plants will close. Industrialists assure congress that aviation development, road programs, automotive industry and other lines will be able to solve the employment problem. They don't want boys to come back to WPA.

Expense Is Immense.

Mr. Stefan gave figures to show the enormity of government spending. This nation's entire expenditure for everything, including wars, from the time of George Washington to Herbert Hoover was 112 billions. In the last four years alone the nation spent 181 billions. Because the people objected to non-war spending as they should, the appropriation was cut to 67 billion for the second session. The rate is under about eight billion every 30 days. Every

Cent needed for the war effort has been appropriated, but non-essentials have been cut. The speaker noted that youths wounded in Normandy arrive in Walter Reed hospital in Washington in 58 hours, due to the wonders of aviation.

The congressman stressed the need to expand the country's 3,000 airports to 6,000. Air transport is here, and no place will be up to date without modern air facilities. This industry alone will provide great employment.

Commends Women's Work.

Mr. Stefan commended the great service being done by women in factories, on farms and in various branches of the war effort. From Nebraska alone 5,000 workers are in Washington. Women are in factories, shipyards, machine sheds as well as doing much on the farm. Most of them will be anxious to return to their home duties after the war and will prefer that men take their places in industry.

Keep America American.

Congressman Stefan urged his listeners to give attention to their political leaders. "The government of tomorrow depends on the kind of people we elect. Vote and be sure to vote 'American.'" In referring to the soldier vote, Mr. Stefan said he believes the service men are interested in keeping America American, like the government established by George Washington. "Above all we must have faith in God. Let's have a good home for our boys when they come home."

The congressman told that he and Mrs. Stefan arrived in Norfolk from Washington the first of July to find that heavy rains had damaged the basement and walls of their home. Floods had ruined everything in the basement of Mr. Stefan's store in that city. Unable to get help to fix the home, Congressman and Mrs. Stefan did papering themselves. Now they are ready to welcome home their daughter whose husband leaves for service and the family of their son who is in the south pacific.

Chapter Starts Survey.

The congressman was introduced by E. W. Huse, president of Wayne county chapter of War Dads. Mr. Huse mentioned that the local chapter, with a membership of 78, has organized to make a survey to find opportunities for returning veterans. T. P. Roberts, Lee Sellon and Ray Roberts of AAA, and County Agent W. R. Harder are cooperating with the chapter and with the Chamber of Commerce in this. T. S. Hook has charge of organizing new chapters, and several new members joined Thursday evening. Fathers, fathers-in-law and grandfathers of boys and girls in the service are eligible.

Library News

Here are thumbnail sketches of the new books catalogued at the library this week. If you are too busy to read them now make a mental note to ask for the ones which interest you most and you'll enjoy them more when you read them.

Escape the Night. by Mignon Eberhart is one of the most exciting mysteries by this author for a long time. The scene is laid in California. It was serialized in the Ladies Home Journal under the title of The Sisters.

Lebanon. by Caroline Miller, who was a Pulitzer prize winner with the story, Lamb in His Bosom, is a story of the Georgia lowlands in the early decades of the 19th century. Lebanon is a swampy land and this is a tale of her life in the wilderness and of her loves. This novel has not been serialized in any form prior to book publication.

Another new book is Out on a Limbo, by Claire Mac Murray. Those who read and enjoyed And Beat Him When He Speezes will not wait but hurry in to ask for Out on a Limbo. This is a family on paper put down seemingly at random, actually with a development in which the characters grow in the affections of the reader. This is a delight to the reader—a read-aloud, a read-to-yourself, a read-in-bed and a read-over-again book.

The Time for Decision, by Sumner Welles, urges the vital need of immediately setting up effective machinery for settling international problems, and proposes a specific plan for world organization. Hard-headed, realistic, far-sighted, this outspoken and enlightened statesman has written a book of enormous scope and range, a book which presents not only a connected and coherent picture of United States foreign policy but also a plan for action which may well make this the most important, and controversial, volume of our time.

Watching the World, by Raymond Clapper, edited by Mrs. Clapper and introduction by Ernie Pyle, is a collection of his writings.

To Conservation Camp. Two Dixon county boys will attend the Nebraska 4-H conservation camp at Seward, August 8 through 11. These boys study nature and receive leadership training. In the night preceding that eventful day, cannon gave forth from surrounding hills a loud-vociferous roar for each state, wakening everyone.

To Save Tomatoes
Some of the tomatoes are being caused by an infection of a fungus disease which is called Spotted.

The leaves are spotted and then the leaves and branches wilt away, finally causing the entire plant to wilt.

To control this leaf, one may have fairly good results by pruning the branches that are infected and spray the plant with a 3-5-50 Bordeaux mixture.

Several sprayings may be necessary at about three-day intervals.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Schmidt, who have lived on the same farm south of Randolph for 46 years, observed their 63rd wedding anniversary on July 24.

Mr. Schmidt is 91 and Mrs. Schmidt is 84.

In addition to these rules, it is smart to use the right method for each type of food.

For fruits, tomatocies, pickled vegetables and the like, use a boiling-water bath.

For corn, peas, beans and other common vegetables, except tomatoes, use a steam-pressure canner.

To process these foods safely in reasonable time takes a temperature higher than boiling. It takes 240 degrees or higher.

The best and only way to get these high temperatures is to hold steam under pressure.

In using a pressure canner, make sure it is in perfect working order. Use only perfect jars, lids and rings, picked to fit jars, and make sure operation is mastered.

PROTECT THE PIGS

(Omaha Journal-Stockman)
Prof. W. J. Loeffel of the Nebraska College of Agriculture, emphasizes that now is the time to make sure that pigs are protected against cholera by vaccination.

Cuts in hog production this year make it likely that the pork supply for the coming season will have to be stretched to meet wartime needs. Recent favorable developments in prices bear this out, and also suggest that returns on 1944 pigs promise to be more satisfactory than those produced the year before.

In short, loss of any considerable number of hogs from cholera this year would not only be a financial blow to the individual farmer but would be a tragedy from the standpoint of the national food supply.

Experience has shown that immunization does keep cholera in check, and also that the best time to vaccinate, from the standpoint of both protection and economy is around the weaning period. Waiting until later in the season gives the disease a chance to get a foothold, is more costly, and requires the use of much larger amounts of serum which, if an epidemic developed, might not be readily available.

The same thing to do is to make vaccination of pigs a regular part of farm management practice.

To Preserve String Beans
Now that the string bean season is here, homemakers are confronted with the question of whether to can or freeze them. To can some and freeze some, especially if one has a frozen food locker box, is the suggestion of county agents.

If beans are to be frozen, they should be picked when in prime condition. Grade them for uniformity in maturity and size. Clean them thoroughly and prepare as for cooking. Scald them immediately, using one gallon of boiling water to a pound of beans. A wire basket may be used for immersing the beans in the boiling water. The water should reach the boiling point again one-half minute after the beans have been put into it. Scald for two minutes. Cool the beans quickly in cold running water. Drain well and pack. Quick freeze at once. A brine pack may be used instead of the dry pack. The beans are put into a 2 per cent salt solution which later can be used as part of the cooking water. The brine is made by adding one teaspoon of salt to one cup of water and should be cold when added to the beans.

Extension Circular 9965, food preservation by freezing, gives additional information on freezing foods. Ask for a copy at the county extension office.

By trying both canning and freezing one can determine which he likes better.

Elmer Chederquist of Laurel, has been promoted to first lieutenant in service.

Early Resident Passes In City

Rites for Mrs. C. E. Beneshoff Are Conducted Sunday At Local Church.

Funeral rites were conducted Sunday afternoon at 2:30 at Winside Methodist church for Mrs. Cara Jane Beneshoff, who passed away in a Sioux City hospital Wednesday morning, July 26, at 8:24, aged 70 years and 27 days. Rev. J. Bruce Wylie of Hooper, delivered the sermon, and Rev. Mrs. C. T. Dillon, local pastor, assisted. Jean Boyd, Dr. E. E. Gormley, Mrs. Harold Neely and Mrs. Leo Jensen, accompanied by Mrs. Irving Gaebler, sang "The Old Rugged Cross," "In the Garden" and "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere." Gaebler & Neely had charge of committal in Greenwood cemetery in Wayne.

Cara Jane Tidrick, eldest daughter of Samuel and Winifred Dew Tidrick was born at Newton, Ohio, June 29, 1874. In 1889, with her parents, deceased, moved to Wayne county, living on a farm south of Wayne for one year. The family then moved to their home southeast of Winside.

Deceased was married February 1, 1893, to Curtis Evan Beneshoff, and the couple established their home southeast of Winside. Since then, with the exception of a few months spent in California and two years on a farm near Carroll, the Beneshoffs had always been in and near Winside. Mr. Beneshoff passed away November 13, 1942, and one son died in infancy.

Mrs. Beneshoff leaves one daughter, Neva, Mrs. Harold Quinn of Winside, and four sons, Mark, Gurney and Ben of Winside, and Wesley of Carroll. The eight grandchildren are Donald, Laura Jane and Marilyn Ellen, Wilber, Kermit, Merlin, Beverly and Carolyn Sue Beneshoff. Donald Quinn is with the army in California, and Merlin Beneshoff is with the navy in Hawaii. Mrs. Beneshoff leaves one sister, Mrs. Bert Oman of St. Lawrence, S. D., and four brothers, Rollie and Harry of Winside, Floyd of Los Angeles, and Clyde of Pillager, Minn.

Mrs. Beneshoff's outstanding character was cheerfulness. She greeted all with a smile when she must have known her health was failing. Her complete calmness and ability to receive guests made all hope that the illness was not as serious as feared. She was taken ill April 21 and entered a Sioux City hospital July 16. Leaving for the city she smilingly promised her neighbors she would come and see them when she returned. Two days later she passed away. Some will say of Mrs. Beneshoff, "she was my mother" and know with God as her guide she fulfilled the calling of motherhood so well. She understood the problems of her home and met them, but with stern advice, but with loving understanding. Some will say, "she was my sister," and be thankful for the pleasant years of association with her. Her even temperament and sweet personality made it always a pleasure to have her in family gatherings. Others will say, "she was my friend." To endure life's sorrows all need friends. Mrs. Beneshoff was the friend who was always kind, always true and always understanding. The church will say, "she was our helper." She was a life-long member of the Methodist church, faithful to its divisions. She was, at one time, president of the Women's Society of Christian Service and a willing worker in that society until a few weeks before her death. Around her earthly home are the memories of her spirit of kindness, Christianity and a life rich in doing good to others.

Out-of-town relatives at the funeral were Mrs. Bert Oman of St. Lawrence, S. D., sister of the deceased, Miss Inez Beneshoff of Jay, Wyo., niece of the deceased, other relatives from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. True Prescott, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hyatt and Mrs. Dora of Wayne. Pallbearers were Dr. N. Dittman, Erwin Warrhamunde, Erwin Leary, Fred Bright, Geo. Farran and Burt Lewis.

Refers to Atlas To Solve Matter

Summer Job Taken to Pay Way Through College Is Followed Long.

Lt. Tom Manzer received a Seattle police warning that he would be brought to headquarters unless he posted $9.50 within five days for two overdue traffic violation tickets. In his reply, Lt. Manzer suggested that the police refer to an atlas. He was exactly 8,647 miles away, he said, in New Guinea, when the alleged offenses were committed. Charges dismissed, said the police. Nobody even bothered to check an atlas.

James Ware of Philadelphia, took a summer job in 1894 as a railroad waiter to help pay expenses at medical college. He never got to college but he does have a 50-year service button from the railroad.

Thanks to a woodpecker, aided by a swarm of bees, Mrs. Helen Sharpe, Los Angeles, is in a sweet mess. The woodpecker drilled a hole in her house. The bees took over and filled the walls with honey. Mrs. Sharpe attempted unsuccessfully to rout them with a vacuum cleaner. Mrs. Sharpe, well-stung, says anyone who can remove the bees may have the honey.

Howard W. Pingree, pharmacist's mate, third class of Salt Lake City, doesn't need elaborate tackle to catch fish. Pingree, stationed at the naval training center at Farragut, Idaho, says five companions will vouch for this story: Idly skipping stones on Lake Pend Oreille, he threw just as a large trout surfaced and struck the fish "right between the eyes."

Last December Mrs. Simon Cronin Waterbury, Conn., sent a fruit cake to her grandson, Sgt. James Cronin, AAF gunner in Sardinia. Last week she received a V-mail letter from north Africa which said in part: "This is to thank you for a very nice fruit cake. You neglected to show Jim's organization on the address. I have the same name and rank as Jim, so today (July 8) I received the cake."

George Sides reported to Decatur, Ill., police that between $25 and $30 had been stolen from his hotel room. The thief didn't stop, however, with just taking the cash. He also took his suspenders and cut the buttons from his pants, Sides reported.

Near Stillwater, Okla., driving through 100 degree Oklahoma heat, V. A. Doty felt a tire on his automobile go flat. When he stepped down to investigate he found the tire blazing furiously.

Cattails, ornamental marsh plants previously considered useless, now have a part in the war effort. Officials at Watervliet, N. Y., arsenal report they have found them more buoyant than kapok and 90 per cent warmer than wool so they are using them to fill cushions of army ordinance amphibious jeeps which can be used as life preservers in the case of accidents.

V-mail deliveries totaling in the millions, had more than a two-year perfect record in the middle of July. The navy announced that one million V-mail letters go out every day from the navy's New York fleet post office to service men all over the world and that not one letter had been reported lost. That form of mail began June 15, 1942.

At Decatur, Ill., the man who mows the court house lawn has put the grass to patriotic use. He did it by letting the grass grow under his feet. First he formed two large V's by leaving cross-hatch strips of grass grow long. Then he accomplished a major lettering job. In letters 15 feet high he cut out the words, "Buy Bonds."

Maury Maverick finally caught up with his laundry by back tracking. The war production vice-chairman barely had settled in his hotel suite at Seattle when a maid delivered a package. It was laundry he had sent out before he checked out of the hotel April 20, 1943. He had forgotten all about it. The bill: $2.20—without a storage charge.

Patrolman Peter G. Maggio's trouble began when he tied a stray cow to the rear of his patrol car to lead the animal to a Brooklyn, N. Y. police station. En route he encountered a man who sought to annoy the cow with a shadow boxing performance. Maggio brought the man along, too, and he later paid a $3 fine. Brooklyn night court after pleading guilty to disorderly conduct charge.

Clarence Brown, jr., was in a St. Louis sandlot fight and was hit by the ball. He was treated for burns at a hospital. The ball had struck the pocket in which he carried matches.

Pvt. Albert F. Zornado, 25-year-old veteran of Guadalcanal, and Miss Carolyn Chaffee of Los Angeles, wanted to marry. Zornado had only a three-day pass, the county clerk's office at Los Angeles was closed and no one wanted to issue them a license, so Judge Thurmond Clarke performed the ceremony at a distance, for he had the rings. "I missed out on the best part of the deal," commented the priest through swollen jaws. "I couldn't kiss the bride."

At Fort Ord, Cal., Pfc. Andrew Sorrentino, member of an ordnance unit, carried on a fruitless search for his missing partial denture plate for a week. Then it came back, unchanged, in a post package with this notation from the laundry: "Partial plate rejected."

Two years ago when two men held up Walter Gustafson, part owner of a Chicago paint store, in the garage behind his home, they robbed him of a $500 ring and $18. Recently when two men held him up in the same place, they robbed him of a $1,000 diamond ring and $42.

Duane D. Hellwig, SIC, a member of an armed guard crew in the navy, and his brother, LaVerle D. Hellwig, BM2C, met in Portland, Ore., recently for the first time in three and one-half years. They live at Laurel.

The war department announced Monday of last week that Pfc. William F. Wagner, son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Wagner of Stanton; had been wounded in action in the European theatre of war.

Clifford N. St. Clair, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph St. Clair of the Lindy community, was killed in action June 10 with the invasion forces in France, just four days after the opening of the front.

Administrator Donald Nelson, of the WPB, is having another of his periodic disputes with the war and navy departments over his proposal to push the resumption of production of commodities for civilian purposes. The dispute has gone to the White House and back, and Nelson seems to be the winner on most points. Just how far Mr. Nelson may go in assigning materials to civilian industries and in permitting factories to convert from war to civilian production will be more fully determined as the WPB issues its orders. One of the materials that will become available is aluminum. There now is a surplus of aluminum with several of the newly erected plants closed down, but the highly financed Canadian plant continues to manufacture and ship to us many tons daily under its contract which fixes a higher price for the Canadian product than our own mills have been receiving.

There is more to the matter of conversion of industries to civilian production than appears on the surface of things. The big industries which hold enormous contracts for war materials that will keep them busy for months to come are not favoring permission to smaller factories to engage in production for civilian purposes. Smaller concerns have completed their contracts, have no orders on hand and in many instances will become idle unless they turn to making other goods which the people need and which are not available. The big interests do not want such competition for future trade. They would delay conversion of industries until they are again able to turn their great industries, many of which were constructed by government funds, to manufacturing peace-time commodities. The Truman committee of the senate, months ago, denounced the attempts of monopoly control by some such industries.

After ordering production of farm machinery on a limited basis, for allotment to agriculture, production was not increased. Mr. Nelson made a trip to the midwest industries to learn what was the matter. He found out that in many lines the industries were turning out less than 30 per cent of the allotment for farm machinery and equipment. Smaller factories were unable to operate and the larger industries held big war orders. The steel mills reduced their daily tonnage and the WPB was blamed for not providing the equipment of which the farmers were in such great need. What Mr. Nelson found out in his investigation may have opened his eyes to the situation in other lines of industry. He is now in a hospital, recovering from pneumonia, but when he gets back on the job there may be further disclosures.

Now the government has clamped down on another association of financiers which had a corner on the pepper markets. The headquarters of that monopoly also are in a foreign country. The world supply is about 28,000,000 pounds. A New York City firm and its associates had accumulated 16,000,000 pounds which it had purchased as our country entered the war, knowing that the larger supply in peace time had come from the East Indies. It was holding the eight thousand tons in its warehouses and declined to sell at OPA ceiling prices. There soon was a shortage of pepper, which is extensively used in packing meat for our armed forces as well as for family purposes. The government has taken over the supply and the financiers are complaining about the government's interference with their business.
