

SIXTY SECOND YEAR

WAYNE, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, AUGUST 10, 1944

NUMBER THIRTY-THREE

From Bomber Crash North of Wayne - Farmers Given Deserved Credit - Told Where to Head - Incongruity Between Man and the Sun - The Winding Logan - Sweatless Kickers.

Stark tragedy gripped northeast Nebraska again Saturday noon when the siren sounded to summon Wayne firemen to the scene of a fatal bomber crash near Laurel. Local fire fighters who hurried to the place were soon joined by members of the Sioux City army base. They found the mangled bodies of 17 airmen and the wreckage of two planes strewn over surrounding areas. Only one of 18 was able to parachute to safety and escape. The gruesome landscape emphasized what may happen with a slight slip in the mechanism of the aerial giants or in the handling of the controls by trained brains.

This was the second accident of the kind in northeast Nebraska within a week. Earlier 28 lives were lost in the crash of a transport plane near Napier in Holt county.

Seventeen planes in the formation maneuvering over the Laurel neighborhood suggest the exactitude required to avoid accidents and prevent appalling consequences. Manifestly, the needs of war involve daring and risk that could and would be avoided in peace-time air navigation.

The Laurel accidental snuffing out of lives in an air catastrophe is the third to have occurred near Wayne since training for war began. On October 4, 1942, two of nine lost their lives in a crash southeast of Wayne. October 10, 1943, the entire crew of six perished in a flaming crash southwest of here.

Only Fair Reciprocity.

If the farmers have 70 per cent of the deposits in the two Wayne banks, as the local owner of misery joyfully testifies, then they are to be congratulated. More, therefore, is the reason the manifestly increased business of the community should be repaid by building up recreation centers as well as trade advantages to encourage a steadily growing influx of satisfied customers. Bankers themselves do not know what this apostle of despair knows and definitely states, because they have no reason to find out. But granting the large surplus to farmers which they richly deserve, they will come here to buy with more relish if they realize recipients are willing to spend something to serve convenience and lighten the daily grind.

The Editor "Called."

An irascible, offended sister of this ordinarily peace-loving community, phoned us to "attend to our own business." As an editor and guardian of the public interest, that is exactly what we are trying to do, often feebly in that direction, we must confess. Gentle as we are by nature and training, we must further confess that we wish nothing better than a fiery exchange if we know we are in the right and if we have a public service to perform. So let this aggrieved sister dump her complaint on our head and then see if we react. If we don't then we are squelched. But next time don't just sputter and hang up. Do some listening.

Time Change Urged.

The demand to have the time changed back to what it was before the false notion to save electricity took root, is still persisting. Nature arranged the sun's habits of rising and setting to suit human requirements, and when natural laws are set aside, the result causes confusion and ill temper. Lack of coordinated timepieces breeds inconvenience. Farm communities are especially wedded to the pre-war deal idea that the sun knows best. If congress will rearrange time observance according to the age-old pattern it will add one more thing to the relief of mankind in the coming autumn—winning the war being the main one.

Lest People Forget.

We hope the fact that the crooked Logan has been orderly of late due to lack of heavy rains, will not lead neighboring land owners to surrender plans to straighten the stream. Losses have been heavy and their repetition next year should be prevented if possible.

Sweet Least, Kick Most.

Those who do the least in these times of strenuous endeavor, try to boss those who do the most. And plainly, the never-sweats do the most kicking.

A year ago the 3.06 included 2 for unemployment, 1.3 for general fund, .7 for bridges, .72 for roads, .08 for soldiers and sailors and .06 for the fair.

Wayne residents have an 18-mill levy this year, based on a valuation of $1,858,143. The tax last year was 19.50. In Sholes the general fund levy is 3.5 on a valuation of $33,885. This is the same as for 1943.

Free high school levy is 1.63 mills, this being paid by rural districts for students attending high schools. For maintaining rural schools the levies are highest this year in most districts. One district, 14, two miles northeast of Wayne, has no school maintained. Its no school levy. Three rural districts, No. 83, No. 22 and No. 46, have the maximum allowed which is 8 mills. School levies in towns are: Wayne, 2.258 for maintenance and bonds; Winside, 11.02; Hoskins, 9.66 for maintenance and bonds; Carroll, 20; Sholes, 8.

THRASHING SMALL GRAIN HITS BELOW USUAL QUANTITIES

SMALL grain thrashing is in progress, and while quantities are reported good, quantities are below those of normal years. Oats and barley, chief small grain crops here, got a poor start and could not catch up. Seeds in the ground early refused to respond until moisture came, and if arrived too late. But the major crop, corn, never looked better, nor more promising in early August. One observer says the reason parts of Iowa usually excel this area in quantity production is due to plenty of moisture in mid-summer. Ruins have been satisfactory so far, and if they will continue during the next few weeks, the number of ears to the hill and number of bushels to the acre will be greatly increased. There is prospect of a record yield at this juncture. This county has been free from damaging hail this far, and it is hoped it will continue to be so. Harvest, though there is no frost yet, is well advanced. Harvest of here has taken a heavy toll. Harvest and hays which are usually browned at this season, are still richly green.

COUNTY FAIR HAS BEEN PLANNED FOR SEPTEMBER 14-16

THE PUBLIC will be pleased to know the county's fair board has decided to put on an attractive program of entertainment in connection with the annual 4-H club show and school exhibition. Life must be something more than ceaseless toil to derive best results, and a series of stirring events will enliven the spirits of the home front. Time for the fair, September 14, 15 and 16, has been set, nearly a month beyond August dates selected in recent years, and the advantage will be cooler weather and more mature farm specimens for display. There will be plenty of extraordinary garden and field products to show. People have slowed down in travel and amusements during the war, and a good fair will be an acceptable interruption of dull routine. Detailed announcements will be made from time to time.

cer said nine were in the crew of his ship, and a like number must have been in the other bomber.

Seventeen Fortresses were flying in formation over this area Saturday when two collided. It was first reported that a fighter plane had also been in the tragedy, but Lt. Col. Wallace S. Dawson, commanding at the base, announced that all the smaller planes accompanying the flight returned to the base. It is believed that a section of one of the planes, severed in the collision, might have been mistaken for a small ship.

One of the bombers exploded when it neared the ground; officers report, and bodies of crew members and parts of the plane were strewn over about 30 acres on the Guinn farm two miles east of Laurel on old highway No. 20. Fire Chief M. L. Ringer of Wayne, who helped at the crash scene, described the sight as "horrible."

The other plane struck the ground about a mile north and was consumed by fire. The ships plowed deep into the ground.

Wayne, Laurel and Coleridge firemen responded. Smoke from the burning ship could be seen in Wayne, about 15 miles from the crash.

Sheriff J. H. Pile received a call at 12:03 and he rushed to the scene. Officers kept crowds from the area until 1:30 when about 300 army men came from the Sioux City base to take charge. The two fields were guarded to keep onlookers away. Some of the bombs exploded and others did not, making a serious hazard. It is reported that 10,000 visited the scene Sunday. Sheriff Pile found the crowds very considerate and willing to abide by regulations.

The site of the Laurel tragedy has been kept under guard until crews from the base salvage the

Water Is Wanted But Gas Is Found

Artificial Respiration Applied to Save Fish In City Reservoir.

At Eden, Tex., Driller E. A. Duffey struck gas—2,637,000 cubic feet a day of top quality, dry, highly inflammable gas—and everyone is pretty sad about it. Explained Ma J. Green: "During the hottest, driest stretch of a Texas summer, when we've had to cut out watering Victory gardens and washing cats and everything else that takes an extra drop, we get a gas well. Daddum! We wanted water!"

Thousands of fish slowly suffocating in the reservoir at Wallington, Conn., have been saved by the prompt application of artificial respiration by the fire department. Fish were found floating on top of the water, gasping for breath. The fish and game department said it was lack of oxygen. Fish jet engines were stationed along the lake and by pumping water into the air in a fine spray they supplied the deficient element. The fish are now out of danger.

L. Jake C. Miller, now of Camp Van Horn, La., sent from the west coast on July 29, 1942, a bundle of clothes to his brother, Sgt. Irwin A. Miller, who is stationed in Alaska. Seventeen months later on December 28, 1943, Sgt. Miller received the bundle, according to word received by the soldiers' aunt, Mrs. Emmet Long. "It's a good thing it wasn't a box of cookies," the sergeant wrote.

Farmer Carlos Thomas was digging in a 30-foot well when Homer McLemore found him. The war-keys out of my yard?" phoned an estate gardener to Philadelphia police. The cops suspected monkey business but investigated. They found two midget monkeys—five inches tall—and later found their owner, who explained they were a gift from an overseas son.

Those unlovely and unloved dime-like pennies will continue to plague and embarrass you until they wear out or vanish. Production of the zinc-coated steel penny was halted the first of the year but officials of the mint said Monday those already in circulation would not be retired. They will wear out in a few years or just disappear, one official explained.

Mrs. R. S. Yellen, Denver, feeds meat twice daily by hand to her 12 German boxer pups. If they eat from a bowl, they choke, she found. She had to tell which pup has eaten and which hasn't. Mrs. Yellen solved that by tying a string around the neck of a pup after he's eaten his quota of 12 tiny meat balls. When all 12 pups are wearing strings around their necks, Mrs. Yellen knows she's through feeding them their 144 meat balls.

At New Britain, Conn., when chimneys of the South Congregational church sounded intermittently for nearly 45 minutes, rumors that the war had ended spread rapidly through the city. A mechanical defect caused the intermittent concert.

A peddler paid a $10 fine at Westbury, R. I., for vending without a license and then, apparently to show there was no hard feelings left at police headquarters, two of the watermelons he was selling when arrested.

Motorist Charles Hagerman of Kansas City, had an unexpected witness on his side—the patrolman who arrested him for speeding. Patrolman William W. Broyles said he thought Hagerman was going 44 miles an hour, but later discovered his stop watch was out of order. Now, he wasn't so sure Hagerman was released.

FROM MARTHY Hoskins, Neb.

Dear Editor: This is a busy week ahead for most of the farms in this county with threshing a coming, is usually being one of the main events of the year. Dad never gets flustered about it, so he says, but mom notices he leaves his second cup of coffee unattended and rushes out, forgetting to take along the pail of milk for the bucket calf. Mom has been up long before daylight getting five pies rolled out and into the oven, the meat on to roast, and aiming to get all the heavy cooking done early letting the fire in the range go out, to cook the kitchen, using the kerosene stove to finish up dinner. Eleven-year-old Johnny is downstairs and out, leaving a barely tasted breakfast, but gets called back by mom to dig another pail of potatoes, as the threshers ate so many last year. Johnny is soon back, over all legs dead soaked and mom wondering how many potatoes he left in the ground. Seeing the pail of milk waiting, Johnny is urged out to feed the bawling calf. Johnny goes, but unwilling, as he wants to ride along out to the field when the threshing machine arrives.

Mary, sweet 13, after drying the dishes, gives the parlor one last dusting then goes outside to sweep the porches and side walk. Baby Jimmy wakens and after being fed and dressed is put outside in 6-year-old Susan's care, along with the pet kitten. Susan's orders being to keep Jimmy in the front yard in the shade. Going outside an hour later to throw out the potato peelings mom finds Susan hanging on the back yard gate watching the doings and Baby Jimmy being at the creeping stage, as at home in the sand pile busily sucking his thumb, with face and rompers soiled from dirt and sand tasted and found not to his liking. Baby is taken in and with clean face and rompers is tucked into his crib for an early nap. Mary, herself prettied up, rounds up Susan and coaxes her in to a clean pinafore and shoes.

Mrs. Brown's car is seen coming down the lane and mom hurries to change in to a clean apron. The empty racks start coming in to the farm yard and mom and Mrs. Brown start dishing up the food. Just then Mr. Forrester, the landlord, drives into the yard and mom mentally subtracts Johnny from the first table and adds Mr. Forrester. Mary fills up the water glasses and passes the pie, exchanging shy smiles with the Briggs boys, who are helping that day in their pa's place.

Dinner finished the men go outside, and the second table is set for the kids and the women folks. After a leisurely meal, the stacks of dishes are washed and then the lunch prepared except the coffee and then mom and Mrs. Brown have a few minutes free for visiting. Then Mrs. Brown goes on home and mom after calling her lunch to the field, can talk her day's work done, except that she will have to cook supper for dad, who wasn't hungry at noon.

Sincerely,
Marthy.

Voting Weakness THE primary system does not require a candidate to earn his spurs before wearing them. It affords no opportunity for personal appraisal. Geo. Olsen, democratic nominee for governor, is no doubt an eminently well-intentioned individual, but his communications to the public reflect training far out of line with that demanded for gubernatorial leadership.

Manifestly, voters did not figure on qualifications for the governorship. They just fired their votes blindly, and they hit Olsen. His name had a pleasing ring, and that seemed enough.

The Norfolk Daily News suggests that naming Olsen showed lack of understanding on the part of voters. It comments in part:

"This was unfortunate, for though there isn't much chance that Olsen will be elected, governor, his nomination does leave the democratic party without the means of waging a strong opposition fight which is one of the essentials of good government.

"Our faulty primary system, of course, was partly to blame. No convention would have endorsed Olsen. We have revised the primary law and we hope the new plan will work better. But if it works as well as it should it will have to have better support from the voters than the law has had heretofore.

"For after all, it is we, the voters, who are to blame for the cracks in our governmental machinery."

Fairs Return PATHFINDER magazine mentions return generally of county fairs after many suspensions following Pearl Harbor. More than 1,600 county fairs and 40 state fairs will be held this year. It is estimated that 25,000,000 persons will pass through the gates and that $3,000,000 will be paid out in premiums, most of the amount going to livestock and agricultural exhibits. Pathfinder comments on the idea of the revival:

"Much of the renewed interest in this phase of the fairs—always a feature but often overlooked by many—is due to emphasis on wartime food production needs, and consequent increased interest in improving the breed of livestock.

"The fair has become a social gathering again, much as it was in the days before the automobile. Families picnic under the trees, away from the dust of the crowds, on good, filling lunches packed at home.

"It's the old-style fair that is on tap this year in all but four states—Arizona, Florida, Rhode Island, Washington. And they're all counting on big crowds."

In dull times there is a spirited contest for county offices. When jobs are plenty in the house following the report of the official Elkhorn valley survey.

H. R. 4915, the new federal aid highway bill how under consideration would provide more than $2,100,000 per year for Nebraska's farm-to-market roads. County supervisors throughout the state are watching this bill with a great deal of interest. The bill is now in the committee on rules.

Nebraska has 10,000 miles of roads which are eligible for the federal secondary highway system. So far only about 3,400 miles have been included in that system. More than 6,600 miles of eligible roads are still left out in the cold.

Some members of congress estimate that when the war ends there will be close to $70,000,000 worth of surplus material to be disposed of. How and by whom it is going to be redistributed is the problem now confronting congress.

Washington leaders of War Dads' organizations report that chapters are being organized in every corner of America. Members are told that eventually the organization may have over a million members.

The reason why the house voted against commissioning the WASPs was because many men instructors who have been doing flying test their posts when the war training service program was inaugurated. Army is taking as many of the instructors into the service as can pass the army tests. WASPs will continue as civilians and will continue to do ferry service and ferrying.

Following hearings by Col. Freeman of the U. S. army engineers at Norfolk and Fremont, August 29 and August 30—engineer parties will be sent into the Elkhorn valley to complete the survey of the Elkhorn river and its tributaries.

Legislation authorizing some government work throughout the Elkhorn valley will be introduced and pay in most lines is high, salaries paid in county jobs are not attractive. We understand the clerk of Dixon county recently resigned to operate a cafe which he bought at Hartington. At last accounts, no one could be found to take his place. Here is the solution: Redistribute and enlarge county units, and thus reduce the number of county seats. That is made especially feasible in view of modern means of transportation. By such rearrangement, Wayne county would gladly accept certain adjacent townships now belonging to Dixon county, and we know the townships would be willing.

Gallup's latest poll shows a small margin in favor of Roosevelt in states surveyed, though the trend is generally away from the president. Southern states polled report Roosevelt majorities. The easiest and safest way to figure out probable results in advance is to dump the south as a solid block into the democratic column. Then from there on divide the rest of the states according to the seeming drift. Surprises in the south may favor the republicans, but they cannot be depended on. Southern states often look with distaste on the new deal, but when they notice it is labeled democrat, they think of the Civil war and vote against the republicans.

Adolph Hitler harangued his subjects early this week to force what he called "blind confidence" in his leadership, congratulating the nation on its good fortune in having him at the helm at this critical juncture and whistling long and loud to keep up his courage. He is smart enough to see his ignominious end, but he still thinks he can drive helpless followers farther into the certain vortex of death and ruin.

One strong point in the appeal of the two republican national candidates lies in the fact that they are clearly aloof from machine politics and self-seeking racketeers. Their records as governors of two great states will stand closest examination, reflecting the sound common sense of the American people. A change to two such proved leaders would be heartening.

"Gobblegook" is what a former Texas congressman, writing for a current publication, calls bureaucratic word torrents offered to explain government orders. Often such verbose and tangled pronouncements mislead rather than direct. The writer quotes from the scriptures to emphasize the confusion involved in a mere splash of words.

If strikes occur in the presence of war demands, they are reasonably certain to multiply in times of peace when the call for production is less imperative. Then reconstruction will be on. It will be retarded by strikes or speeded by cooperation, but people will not suffer the stinging consciousness of possible insufficiency on battle fronts.

Big centers are anticipating Victory day by safeguarding against damage in the excitement. It will be a mighty welcome occasion, but immediate problems of restoration should and will have a very sobering influence. From the relief found in victory we must turn to the severe task of reconstruction and readjustment.

Only those who would mislead the people and destroy their independence would abolish the free press. Sir William Berkeley, colonial governor of Virginia, was against free schools because he feared enlightenment would weaken his control. He was a notorious tyrant.

William Burden, assistant secretary of commerce, will return to Nebraska next fall to discuss future aviation with members of the Nebraska Aeronautic commission.

Washington visitors over the third district are enthusiastic over the growth of shelter-belts. These visitors became valuable assets to farm-district members who must continue each year to plead for continuation of the tree-planting program in the plains states.

John E. Gamble of Norfolk, a Spanish-American war veteran who is in the Veterans' hospital at Lincoln, will soon be transferred to the Veterans' Facility center at Knoxville, Ia. Gamble, who is colored, was known by many regular army officers. During the Spanish-American war he served in the Philippine Islands.

Conferences are being held by the third district member with people interested in farm and road machinery, highways, flood legislation, farm work clothing, shoes, batteries and rural electrification.

Congress has convened on a three-day recess program. Committees in the third district are active. The third district member has been notified that there will be no legislation until around Labor day. In the meantime the Third district offices are open both at Washington and Norfolk. The work in district as confined mostly to work on the Missouri and Elkhorn river flood control; farm-to-market roads and post-war aviation.

FOR THE SOLDIERS

It is encouraging to note that the county selective service board, acting within a nationwide organization, will take a leading part in readjusting returned soldiers to civilian life. War Dads, the American Legion and other groups promise active cooperation in meeting that important responsibility. The task will be to furnish needed information and find jobs for those who do not have places waiting for them. The plan is to satisfy postwar demands, and see that those who went from this county, may come back here and remain advantageously. The county survey by the triple A, under auspices of the War Dads, should help. Organized efforts promise to see that avenues of relief are opened where and when necessary, and that the rights of the boys are properly protected.

Employment agencies notify the Third district office that farm labor problems are just as serious as a year ago. They anticipate difficulty during corn harvest.

Need Brome Grass For Deep Gullies

Rough fields this season have caused much binder and combine grief, according to County Agent Howard Gillaspie. Many deep gullies which could be crossed a year or so ago with relative ease cannot now be crossed without likely breakage of implements and possible injury to the operator.

Some of these gullies will be sown to brome grass in the near future. This practice lets water down off hills with little erosion. Waterways that are properly seeded become smoother and easier to cross. In another year such grassed waterways provide hay and seed.

While establishing grassed waterways, run off water must be diverted until the grass is established. August is a good time to seed gullies.

Wayne Stater Is Manager of Yard
Miss Mildred Lulow of Norfolk, has been selected to manage and operate the Joyce lumber company in Griswold. She was graduated from Wayne college after completing high school at Norfolk.

Miss Lulow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lulow, started in the lumber business in Norfolk 16 years ago under the tutelage of her father, who is manager of the firm's branch in Norfolk.

The young woman's knowledge of the lumber business is superior to that of many men engaged in that enterprise, Norfolk business men have said.

While employed with her father, Miss Lulow did all types of work in the office and in the yard. The only job she has not attempted is the loading and unloading of lumber. This work she supervised.

For seven years Miss Lulow was missionary preacher at the colored Second Baptist church of Norfolk.

Reunion at Plainview.
Seven of the 12 members of the 1913 graduating class of the Atkinson high school and their families had a reunion and picnic dinner Sunday at Plainview country club. This is the second reunion of the class in 31 years. Those attending from this territory were Dr. and Mrs. W. G. Ingram and family of Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Wahl of Concord, and Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Chinn and family of Waterbury. Dr. Ingram and Mrs. Wahl were members of the class and Mr. Chinn was superintendent of the Atkinson school and sponsor of the class.

Mary Ann Evans and Marilyn Swanson were selected to give a demonstration in Wayne, August 4. Pins, signifying 4-H work were given to members. Members judged potato skins, stocking darts and hand towels. After the business meeting one-course luncheon was served. The next meeting will be Friday, August 11, at the Leland Waller home with Patsy Waller as hostess.

925 REASONS

Why You Should Continue to Buy War Bonds

Every man whose name appears in the list on this page is now serving or has served in our armed forces in World War II. Some are Gold Star names, having made the supreme sacrifice. Others have been wounded in action and there are some prisoners of war. Several have been decorated and are serving their country faithfully. We are proud of these men who make up Wayne county's honor roll. Each name is another reason for you to buy more War Bonds. Don't fail them. They are not failing you.

Wayne county's honor roll is no doubt incomplete, and unavoidably so, because some men and women have enlisted from other addresses. Others may have been unintentionally omitted due to lack of an available record. It will be appreciated if any whose names do not appear in this list or who have not been previously reported, are sent on the accompanying coupon to the Wayne Herald. From the Herald's 500 or more correct addresses persons lacking full directions and wishing to communicate with the boys may, on inquiry, secure needed information. Incidentally, letters from home are always sources of soldier relief.

The Honor Roll when complete will have much historical value.

Please use this coupon. If you can give more than one name and address furnish the additional information on a separate coupon. Mail, don't phone.

Experience Thrill In Dealing with Jap Submarine. Lt. (jg) Robert Walton Lundak of Sioux City, graduate of Wayne college, and son of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Lundak of Perce, writes one of the most exciting times at sea he ever had. This took place while his ship was anchored in an Indian harbor.

Experience Thrill In Dealing with Jap Submarine. "A midged Jap submarine or human torpedo had evidently slipped through our submarine net into the harbor," Lt. Lundak said. "The harbor was subjected to the most violent depth bombing I have ever heard of, three and one-half hours steady, with practically every escort ship in action."

Experience Thrill In Dealing with Jap Submarine. "I don't know why, but that deal bothered me more than anything I saw happen. I guess it was the tenseness of waiting, expecting a torpedo, and the constant booming of the depth charges."

Experience Thrill In Dealing with Jap Submarine. Lt. Lundak recently returned to his base at the armed guard center at New Orleans, from an 11-month trip at sea as commanding officer of a navy gun crew aboard a merchant ship.

Experience Thrill In Dealing with Jap Submarine. The armed guard officer had another experience when his ship narrowly missed a floating mine in the Atlantic. The mine passed the entire length of the vessel, coming within 10 feet of it at one time.

Experience Thrill In Dealing with Jap Submarine. "We had a brush with a submarine in the Indian ocean," the officer stated. "It was early in the morning when our lookout sighted what he first thought to be the wake of a fish. Instead, it was a torpedo fired at extreme range. We out-manuevered it, and cut some fancy capers with our dodging. No more torpedoes were fired at us, fortunately."

Experience Thrill In Dealing with Jap Submarine. "A short time later, we sighted a life raft. Investigation proved it was empty, so we used it for tar-

Cool Off with Hot Water

Hot, sticky workdays call for frequent baths... lukewarm baths that wash away the grime and at the same time give you a cooling, soothing after-effect. This is just ONE of the many uses for Automatic Natural GAS HOT WATER during the summer months. People who have automatic hot water say they would rather give up any other home appliance than their Automatic Natural GAS WATER HEATER. If your present heater is worn out you can replace it without WPB certificate. If you don't now have a water heater, plan to get one at the first opportunity.

EVERY HOME NEEDS AN AUTOMATIC NATURAL GAS WATER HEATER

because those long distance calls mean so much

A soldier has to line up for a lot of things but we don't like to see him wait too long for a long distance call.

That's when thousands of soldiers call to their telephones at the camps and we'd like to give them first call on long distance.

You and each of you are required to answer in said action on or before September 11, 1944, otherwise the allegations contained in plaintiff's amended petition will be taken as true and decree made and entered against you as prayed. Dated July 27, 1944. The City of Wayne in The State of Nebraska, Plaintiff. By Fred S. Berry, Special Counsel for Plaintiff.
