

In Democratic America—Nebraska's Independent Record—Featured in New York Newspaper—Wayne's Encouraging Prospect—Youngsters Under 16—Handling Youth Problem.

It is as old as American politics for leaders of each side in a contest to snaffle the laurels with themselves and predict victory on the eve of an election. When those leaders—the heavy centers of popular feeling—are thus contradictory, the rank and file are doubly confused in their guesses. Preliminary polls treating the national ticket this year were more uncertain than usual and pollsters did not attempt positive forecasts. They tried to reflect trends, but scores were so widely matched that they hesitated to impart their reputations by offering assurances as to the outcome. The soldier and other absentee voters added to this year's perplexity.

The late national campaign was fought with extraordinary vigor and zeal. But sharp divergence of opinion does not hinder a prophetic rejoinder of vital American questions. That is the wholesome custom in a free self-governing nation. In these times of war and coming peace plans, laying aside purely partisan considerations is more important than ever. After all, as a rule, voters are regardless of party affiliations, primarily interested in advancing and fortifying the popular welfare, and now more than in peace-time years, cooperation is essential in meeting obligations to returning soldiers and in preventing burdensome unemployment.

In the early days, political parties have shifted quickly and decisively. Nebraska has been progressive but usually sought its reforms. At one period it was like Kansas, was considered radical. For a brief time a new party, the populists, took of what seemed at the time a full of queer ideas dominated the state, electing two governors, Proctor and Holdcomb. Nebraska has elected republicans and democrats to the office of chief executive with equal facility. The last two years it has turned conservative, ditching its hopes to the republican party. Its course testifies to careful weighing of public policies. It proves truly typical of the best in representative government.

Plenty of Advertising. Geo. Olsen, democrats' choice for governor, was featured in a New York newspaper recently. A picture of his circle-squaring feat appeared doubtless to show an odd mental quirk rather than to reveal qualities of leadership. The New York story showed how he was studying to his bomber plant job, the whole expressing utmost confidence in his election. He had plenty of free advertising, apparently to amuse rather than to boost his candidacy. Voters may be expected to look with an inquiring eye on any future George Olsens appearing on primary ballots.

Given Green Signal. Giving municipal authorities the go-ahead sign in matters of aviation, citizens have proved their reputation as a wide-awake community with the regard for the future. Wayne will thus be prepared to take care of postwar demands and this means that it will be able to keep up its line with substantial growth.

Enforcing Ordinances. It seems an ordinance to keep youngsters under 16 years of age off the public streets after 10 o'clock is to be enforced. This action follows complaints and the need of improved behavior. Both boys and girls owe the age mentioned will do well to scoot for their homes as the curfew hour arrives. The new rule will be a more-treating men in the night-time, and restrictions are calculated to save tender youths from lurking evils.

Something Constructive. Sheriff J. H. Pie solved the problem of preventing Halloween disturbances by inviting a lot of young Americans to enjoy a winter feast. The youngsters had a happy time, and they forgot any thoughts of mischief that might otherwise have filtered into their impressionable minds. Of course the idea was to substitute wholesome pastime for wild and often damaging pranks. It was substitution of "do for don't," and that constructive plan usually works. It should be more often tried by people in dealing with young persons not only on Halloween, but on all other days of the year.

NEBRASKA is one of five states to observe the traditional date for Thanksgiving, the last Thursday of November. This year it comes on the last day of the month. Other states will follow the presidential proclamation when sets apart the fourth Thursday. People do not like to have this long-established holiday pushed out of its accustomed order. Reason given for doing so was to lengthen the time between holidays the presumption being to stimulate pre-Christmas buying. Whether that is justification or not we do not know. Anyway this state decided to kick out of the Washington plan another time to mid-west does not reject the way clocks were set ahead ostensibly to save electricity which, according to reports, it did not do in the area.

Keep Milk in Dark.

Information recently received by Miss Mary Burbank, home demonstration agent, states that milk should be kept in a dark place in order to save the riboflavin, which is the most important vitamin in milk. Without the riboflavin furnished by milk, it is difficult to get the needed quantity of this vitamin in meals. The paper containers now used by some milk companies help save the riboflavin by keeping the milk dark. If milk is delivered in clear bottles when the housewife is not at home, the milk should be placed in a closed insulated box which should be provided for this purpose.

Dr. M. B. Street Is Speaker At Convocation Held For Wayne State.

College convocation program Tuesday preserved National Education week and Armistice day. Prof. O. R. Bowen reviewed the objectives of Education week; Dr. M. B. Street spoke on "Improving Schools for Tomorrow"; and Prof. Russel Anderson led the group in fitting songs.

Abrided school system is democratic and is not dominated by government control as in many nations, stated Dr. Street who mentioned that improvements should arise locally. Teachers personally the school program. They are counselors and public relations officers between schools and communities.

Dr. Street mentioned two problems in improving schools, leadership and opportunity. Regarding leadership, he expressed the view that teachers should be members of the national educational association which is a mutual-aid society and they should realize their full responsibilities as leaders. Concerning the problem of equalizing educational opportunity, he suggested the possibility of collecting funds from various parts of the country according to economic ability to pay and scattering them where children are. "Conservation of mental power demands equalization of educational opportunity."

Dr. Street predicts possible financial pressure to create school districts somewhat larger than present ones, improved texts and equipment, increased use of visual aids, better curriculums in high schools and better trained teachers.

Letters and Papers
EAGERNESS of men in the armed forces for home news is emphasized in a letter from a soldier in the Tuscola, (Ill.) Review. The expression is in line with many received by newspapers from absent boys. They want to know the many small as well as big things that make up the budget of current news. Letters and newspapers are sources of profound relief in a titanic struggle, and they should not be neglected. Here is what the soldier wrote to the Tuscola Review:

"Here is another change in address. I want to let you know it because I haven't received the Review in the last few weeks due to that change. I really miss it now more than ever. It's one of the strongest reminders I have concerning the fact that I've plenty of good things to come back to after the war. It takes the place of lots of letters I don't receive. "That's another thing, the folks back home don't seem to write the boys enough letters. If they could see the disappointment on the faces of the boys who have empty hands and with nothing but an ache in their hearts after mail call, they'd probably get busy and take at least ten minutes of their time to write that lonely serviceman a letter. I really feel terribly sorry for the boys who have no one who will write to them.

"The people at home may think that nothing at home is interesting enough to put in a letter so they write about once a week. But they are wrong! These boys aren't interested in who killed who or what brick fell on this man half as much as the little things that they experienced when they were home, such as, the turning of the leaves, the old cat having kittens, whether baby has cut his teeth yet and other good solid things of the home life he used to be, and hopes to be, once more a part of. And, as I started out to say, the Tuscola Review answers lots of those little things for me. It tells me about the town I feel is my own and the people there that I like to call my friends. Don't ever let anyone tell you that the Review isn't doing as much for her sons and daughters in the service who read it as some of the huge USO organizations."

Voting Proposal
THE Lincoln Journal calls attention to the proposal to reduce the legal voting age to 18. Change in the law is proposed by reasoning that if one is old enough to fight for his country he is old enough to have a voice in managing its government. Says the Journal in part:

"The proposal is not new; it has simply been brought into prominence by the fact that in providing ballots for soldiers a considerable percentage could not use them. Back in 1939 Dr. Gallup took a poll, which showed 17 percent in favor of it. One taken early in 1943 found 39 percent favorable and another a year ago found 52 percent favoring it. "Investigators say that the real question is whether at eighteen one is well enough informed to take part in elections. They also add that well-conducted, tests have shown, first that the teen-ager is as intelligent on the average as are adults, and better informed on politics and government. About the only question they leave debatable is whether youth, always critical of things as they are, would make a prudent voter."

Nation's Business explains the rising price spiral after World War I and the subsequent collapse, and wonders if repetition of the economic disasters of that period can be avoided following the present conflict. Prices soared higher in 1920 than they have so far in this war, due, no doubt, to government controls. People may profit from former experience. Merchants may be careful not to stock up heavily with expensive goods and then depend on extravagant purchases, regardless of selling costs. A buyer's strike in 1920 speeded slumps and often wreckage.

Time was when a victorious political party engaged in wild and noisy demonstrations. Bonfires, cannonading and bell-ringing expressed rejoicing. Newspapers ran pictures of crowing roosters. Members of the vanquished were made to feel as disagreeable as possible. Civilization has made large and creditable headway in that respect. Success as a candidate or as a party is now accepted as a sobering responsibility. Sensible people do not gloat over those who have suffered defeat.

The reelection of President Roosevelt, apparent at this writing, was gamely accepted by Gov. Thos. Dewey. The middle west, including Nebraska, gave large majorities to republican candidates. Wayne county contributed its full share. Dissenting areas will lend strength to an ideological mean. They will be found foremost, as usual, in backing the war to the limit and in shaping a just and lasting peace.

Mudslinging is mentioned as an unpleasant contribution to the late presidential campaign. But any disturbing revelation of facts is likely to be interpreted by the offended as mudslinging. When the public's interest is involved, it is clearly entitled to the truth.

IN WASHINGTON.

Patricia magazine, details the terrific cost of living in Washington. Increased wages have not kept step with prices for things people have to buy. "Department stores look customers in the eye without a blink and charge $24.95 for a size-2 baby suit with leggings, then throwing on an extra charge of $3.50 for a cap to match. Zipped-up snowsuits for 1 and 2-year-olds are unblushingly offered at $14.95 and up." It is recalled that silk shirts cost $10 in World War I. In Washington mostly rayon shirts sell now for $15 and higher. Rentals for places to live are sky-high. The magazine mentions medium-sized houses renting for from $200 to $300 per month. Single rooms rent from $30 to $100 per month. Thousands of girls, two to four in a room, pay from $20 to $40 per month. These girls are said to earn $35 per week. The magazine says: "Officers with families assigned to Washington are probably the top victims of high rents. Their assignments often are of uncertain duration. They have to take what they can get and pay rentals greatly inflated by extra charges for furnishings. Frantic pleas for apartments at any price are common in the want ads."

Joann, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Johnson visited in the Lawrence Carlson home Sunday evening.

ARMISTICE DAY.
Armistice day, November 11, marks the anniversary of the end of World War I. It will be an occasion of sober reflection. It was a war to end war, and make the world safe for democracy. It did neither. Through mistakes in the settlement, or through insufficient attempts to safeguard what had been won, the world is now engaged in another terrible conflict. Germany and Japan were allowed to prepare for another fling at conquest. How to manage conquered territory to insure future peace has been discussed by many leaders. A just and secure peace will call for utmost wisdom, and it is hoped this may follow cessation of hostilities. The coming anniversary will revive memory of the war that terminated 26 years ago—the loud acclaim, ringing of bells and blowing of whistles with which restored peace was received. People then expected no more wars. But they were mistaken. Plans were soon under way in enemy countries for a bigger and uglier one. It is now in progress with growing assurance of allied triumph. Then will come the difficult problem of settlement, and to our part in this culminating action should be contributed America's clearest and soundest brains.

the Melvin Longe, Otto Meyer and Marvin Brudigan families. The latter part of the week Marcelline came down with mumps and the family has been since then, quite isolated.

Using Soft Corn For Feeding Stock

Soft corn can be used to advantage as livestock feed, especially for cattle. Hogs also make good use of such corn and lambs have done well on it, according to E. W. Janjke of the extension service.

Feeding trials, Janjke said, indicate that 100 pounds of dry matter in soft corn has a feeding value of 100 pounds of dry matter in hard corn. In determining the value when purchasing soft corn, the moisture content can be determined to compare with regular hard corn. Soft or immature corn will average about 65 per cent dry matter compared with 80 to 85 per cent for mature, ear corn.

Breaking the ears so cattle can handle them is one satisfactory and easy way to feed soft corn. Hogs can utilize the ears as they are, according to Janjke.

Last year, the South Dakota experiment station carried on some trials with cattle, hogs and sheep using soft, frost-damaged corn in comparison with hard No. 3 corn. The results were more favorable than previously indicated and since they represent but one year's work, results should not be accepted as conclusive. With cattle though the soft-corn lots made a higher daily gain. Lambs fed for 91 days on ear corn and alfalfa did well. The hard corn lot outgained those lambs fed soft corn but there were no apparent ill effects from the soft, moldy corn.

To Care for Rayons.
Rayons will wear longer when given careful attention in pressing and ironing. Viscose and cuprammonium rayon may have the same chemical properties as cotton and may like cotton be pressed with a fairly hot iron. But if the rayon is acetate, a hot iron is its worse enemy. If rayons are not marked, acetate rayon may be tested with polish remover which will dissolve in it, leaving a hole in the test scrap. Another simple test is to burn a small sample. Acetate rayon will pucker and curl and then melt, leaving a hard sticky crust along the burned edge. Other rayons burn with a quick, clear flame, leaving only a slight ash and odor like burning paper.

Marry at Service In Mission Church

Miss Coreen Swanson Bride Of Gordon Bard at Rites Here Thursday.

At an impressive candle light service performed Thursday evening, November 2, at 8 at the Mission Covenant church in Wakefield, Miss Coreen Swanson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Swanson, became the bride of Gordon Bard, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Bard, Rev. E. L. Gustafson read the double ring ceremony.

The church was decorated with two large baskets of bronze and yellow baby chrysanthemums and candelabra. Miss Louise Swanson and Miss Betty Bard, wearing formal dresses of blue, lighted the tapers before the bride party entered the church. Mrs. Kermit Barsness, sister of the bride, sang "Love's Old Sweet Song" and "At Dawning" preceding the ceremony. She was accompanied by Miss Florence Ekeroth who also played the nuptial marches.

Mrs. Enock Martinson, cousin of the bride, served as bridesmaid and Mrs. Eugene Swanson as matron of honor. Attending the bridegroom were his brother, Dale Bard, and LeRoy Swanson, Kenneth Gustafson and Elvis Olson were ushers.

Mrs. Martinson wore a floor-length gown of blue and carried yellow baby mums. Mrs. Swanson's dress was of peach taffeta and she carried bronze baby mums.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white duchess satin which carried a sweeping train. The dress was fashioned with fitted bodice, long sleeves and sweetheart neckline. Her fingertip veil was of net edged with lace and fastened to a coronet. She carried white pom-poms and wore a gold locket, a gift of the bridegroom.

Mr. Bard and his attendants were in dark suits. The bride's mother wore a dress of soldier blue with black accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a black dress trimmed with gold and her accessories were black. Each had a shoulder corsage of lilies.

A reception for about 75 relatives and close friends was held in the church parlors. Mrs. Elvis Olson served as hostess and Miss Janice Weidell had charge of the guest book. The bridal table was centered with a three-tier wedding cake baked by the bride's mother.

Mrs. Bard was graduated from Wakefield high school in 1943 and Mr. Bard in 1941.

Millions of Russians will suffer this winter because they do not have adequate clothing to protect themselves from the cold. Our Russian allies are returning to recaptured territory to find their homes charred ruins and the surrounding countryside blackened by the ravages of fire set by the retreating Nazis. During the occupation, Russians were stripped even of their garments and shoes by the brutal Nazis. There was no chance to replace these necessities. In Russia today there is little manufacturing for the barefooted, ragged, homeless civilians.

Our Russian allies need CLOTHING. Russian winters are severe. Many Russians will die this winter unless we send them garments to protect their bodies from the sub-zero temperatures. By sharing your clothing with them you can help save the lives of these brave people who have suffered so much at the hands of the Nazis. Search your attic, your basement and all your closets—GIVE all the clothing you can to Russian War Relief for our Russian allies. Russian ships will carry the clothing you give to these suffering people.

SEND NO MONEY
This is not a campaign for cash contributions. Russian War Relief is not set up to handle money gifts. Only clothes are wanted. If you don't have clothing at home which you can give, but wish to help, we suggest that you purchase such articles of clothing as you desire to give. Please do not send money!

NEBRASKA STATE HEADQUARTERS: RUSSIAN WAR RELIEF, INC. 559 Omaha National Bank Bldg. OMAHA

The Big Drive in Nebraska is NOVEMBER 13th to 18th

ALL KINDS OF CLOTHING NEEDED

- 1 Practical, winter and summer wear—for all ages—in good wearing condition. The Russians have no facilities for doing much repairing.
- 2 Blankets and bedding.
- 3 Serviceable shoes.

Civilian clothes no longer useful to men and women in service will help fill this great need.

HOW TO PREPARE CLOTHING

- 1 Garments should be mended and in good repair so that they can be worn at once. Needles and thread are scarce in Russia.
- 2 Pack the clothing in cartons or wrap in bundles.
- 3 Shoes must be wearable. They should be paired and tied together.

Gift tags to be attached to the garments you send will be supplied by the Russian War Relief.

WHAT TO DO WITH YOUR CLOTHING

- 1 Have clothing ready for the "Clothing for Russia" Drive, the week of November 13-18 inclusive.
- 2 Watch this paper for announcement by your local committee concerning the method of collection and the collection depots.

• No medal will be awarded to you for taking part in this worthy movement. You may never receive special thanks from any individual for sharing your clothing with him... BUT... you will know in your heart that you have helped to keep a hero's family warm while he is at the front battling the Nazis or penned up in some German prison camp. You will have helped to win the war and to make even stronger the bond of friendship between the United States and Russia. You will have a right to feel proud!

SERVICE NEWS

is one of four dietitians for a New Guinea hospital unit which will soon serve 2,000 men. Col. Summers expects to move forward soon.

Lt. Summers writes Dr. and Mrs. C. T. Ingham that the New Guinea harbor is one of the most beautiful she has ever seen. It is enclosed with high mountains, and GI's have built wonderful roads in the area.

When Lt. Summers was being transferred recently from Australia to New Guinea, she happened to meet John R. Keith of Wayne, Red Cross field director in Australia. They were in Brisbane.

Will Come Today.

Writes from China.
Writing October 27 from China, Cpl. Gerald Beckner says he is still in the best of health. "I received two copies of the Herald this evening and surely was glad to get them. The most interesting part of the Herald is the service news. It is like a long letter from home."

"The weather is very cool here and we need all our covers at night. We have nice quarters to live in and it is real comfortable. "I had a nice trip over the hump and it surely was cold up there in the air. I am not cooking at present because here they have Chinese who do all the cooking and baking. We can go to town every other night and the other nights are for officers."

"It is quite a sight to go to town and see all the little shops and markets. The things are very high in town. Steaks in town cost us $430 which is equal to $2.50 in our money. It is funny to see the ox carts and rickshaws on streets. "I enjoy China more than I did India. In our P. X. rations we are allowed four cartons of cigarettes a month. I hope we will all be back home soon and especially to good old Nebraska. I haven't met any body from Nebraska since I have been overseas."

"Hoping everything is all right in Wayne, may I send regards to all my friends there?"

Mrs. Marie Kollert of Bancroft, was 100 years old November 1.

Lt. Wm. Curley of Laurel, pilot based in England, earned the air medal.

BOOK WEEK AIMS AT UNITY

THE better world of the Four Freedoms must be built from the ground up, leaders of National Book Week, November 12-18, feel. In sponsoring this year's theme "United Through Books," they are featuring children's books which will build a solid foundation of understanding among children of all nations, creeds and races for books are the open doors to the knowledge and understanding on which alone freedom and democracy can endure.

Many national organizations such as the Parent-Teachers Association, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, National Recreation Association, Pearl Buck's East & West Association, and many others are participating, with national headquarters at 62 West 45th Street, New York 19, N. Y. The United States Office of Education and the American Library Association are enthusiastic sponsors.
Wayne public library has two displays during this book week. One of the displays will be in the window at Hixcox store and there you will notice a sign inviting you to visit the more extensive display at the library. Everyone is invited to come in and look at and handle these books. Adults will surely wish they were children again with the opportunity to read such books as these.

We have noticed a change in the reading trend of the children of the intermediate grades. They are very much interested in biography and some of the books which are most popular with them are Sam Houston, Boy Chieftain, George Washington Carver, Boy Scientist, Jane Addams' Little Lame Girl, Daniel Boone, Wilderness Scout, Ben Franklin Printers' Boy, Andrew Jackson Boy Soldier, Mark Twain Boy of Old Missouri, William Penn, Friendly Boy and Stephen Foster, Boy Minstrel.

Reading of this type cannot help but have a good influence upon the lives of the children who read it. When they are adults they will be more discriminating readers than their parents who were raised on The Rover Boys and Horatio Alger.
The teacher and children from District 47, visited the children's department, last week.
Don't forget to come into the library next week to help us celebrate National Book week.

Article Published In School Journal
An article on "How an English Teacher Can Grow," appearing in the October issue of the Journal of Education, just off the press in Boston, Mass., Dr. R. P. Cuff of Wayne college staff, despises reading, speaking and writing as valuable aids to professional improvement.
"Vocational education has scores of advocates today, some of whom perhaps would like to see the post-war schools either partly or wholly forsake the study of literature. It is high time to re-evaluate all the English courses in order to make them more valuable and appreciable," writes Dr. Cuff.
"The teacher of English owes himself and his profession an obligation to increase as much as possible his own stature as a promoter of culture and as a contributor toward the advancement of his students in the art of effective communication. He must grow professionally if he cannot fulfill his obligation to himself, his students and his colleagues."
An English teacher may accelerate his professional development by reading to increase his literary and cultural stature, the writer explains. Reading should be of a wide range and should include works that seem to be the more select works. He may also accelerate his development by speaking publicly. Making well-received addresses contributes to his self-confidence upon the techniques of oral communication. Writing for publication is another effective means of extending ability and influence.
"Literature, and oral and written communication are three of the major phases in which an English teacher is expected to instruct his students. If the students need to grow in these aspects of the subject, so does the teacher need to continue to grow in these areas. At all times his attitude should be one of friendliness toward his students and of refreshingly vital and novel methods of teaching in the theory and practice of his subject. Such a teacher is already well on the way toward the professional growth that he seeks."

Edward Carter, president of the national relief movement, said that, "The Average American who, despite wartime shortages, enjoys a life of comparative luxury compared with that of our Russian allies, finds it difficult to comprehend the hardships and privations they are uncomplainingly enduring to sustain the brilliant accomplishments of their armies. The supplies we send are gratefully received, meticulously accounted for and judiciously distributed," states Mr. Carter who visited Russia recently.
Clothing, textiles and blankets are taken from American ports in Russian boats that deliver them to devastated areas to help residents until they are able to help themselves.

Has been organized to be known as the Wayne Implement Company with Ed. Bahe as manager. This new company was organized by W. C. Coryell and Ed. Bahe as partners for the purpose of handling Allis-Chalmers and J. I. Case-lines of farm machinery and equipment. It will also supply services on all types of farm tractors and machines.

This new company is completely removed from the automobile business with the thought in mind that we will be able to give better service by having an exclusive place of business with men operating it who have nothing else on their minds except the farm implement business.

We wish to thank you for the business given us in the past and hope that you will continue with us. We invite you to call at our new place and tell us what you think of it.

At some later date we hope to have a formal opening with all that goes with it. The time will be announced later.

The officer is in the air supply depot, furnishing parts for aircraft of all kinds. He has been at the island station 19 months.

Porto Rico is a semi-tropical island southeast of Florida. Spanish people predominate and they are of two distinct classes, the wealthy Spanish who are well educated and the poor Spanish who are more like the negroes and who are extremely poor.

The wealthy people, who are owners of the huge sugar plantations, have homes more beautiful than most of those in this country. They send their children to the United States to be educated and they are very exclusive. Most of them do not associate even with American soldiers. Many of these people live in San Juan which is the most modern city on the island.

The poor, who comprise the major part of the population, are extremely poor. They and their goats, hogs and other livestock often live together in shacks of wood or grass. Living conditions, health and morals are bad.

S. Sgt. Karel is stationed near Aguadilla, a city which is chiefly made up of poorer class people. However, the city has two modern buildings, a drug store and hotel.

The island is always warm, and sugar cane is the principal crop. This is used for sugar and also for rum. Natives who earn 6 cents a day in the sugar cane fields; prefer to work at the American airport for more money. Many tropical fruits are raised in Porto Rico.

Everyone on the island speaks Spanish, even the G. I.'s. But taxes are now adopting many American customs.

The officer says the air service men on the island keep exceptionally busy. They do have free recreation for them during rest periods. Soft ball under lights, tennis, roller skating, swimming, bowling, golf and fishing are some of the diversions.

WINSIDE-YOUNG MAN ARRIVES IN AFRA

Pvt. John H. McIntyre, son of Mrs. Catherine McIntyre of Winside, arrived in north Africa a few weeks ago and writes his mother as follows:

"We left Hampton Roads, Va., the last of August. We sailed on a liberty ship. That is about the size of it except that we had a beautiful trip with only two days bad weather. I didn't get seasick. "Since arriving on this side I have had an opportunity to travel a great deal. I have had that cruise on the Mediterranean that I have always wanted. I also flew across the Mediterranean. For speed, flying is the thing, but to travel leisurely the boat is far more romantic."

"We stopped off on the cruise in Augusta, Sicily, and sailed through the Straights of Messina. The waters were a beautiful blue and the terraced hillsides with rocks in the background were lovely. The hillsides were almost a solid green, dotted here and there with houses of brownish tan. Every little way there was a town. It was truly beautiful.

"I saw the Bay of Naples and city of Naples. Both of them are damaged due to the war, but you could use your imagination. I took an excursion out to the Isle of Capri in the Bay of Naples. Coming back you could see Mt. Vesuvius off to the right and Naples to the left. With the boat rocking with the waves it was actually hard to believe you were in the army. You feel like a tourist."

"I had an opportunity to see the Cathedral of Caserta and the Bay Chapel. I visited the summer palace in Caserta, the ruins of Pompeii and New Pomicole. It was here I visited the Cathedral of Our Lady of the Rosary. That is one of the most beautiful things I have ever seen. They had a painting of Our Lady of the Rosary, over 300 years old. The painting was studded with jewels, so large that you could see them from the back of an immense cathedral."

Lt. Gene Cherry of Laurel, completed 35 missions over Europe from an English base and is back in Florida for reassignment.

Engine Wrecked Miles from Track

Santa Fe Man Will Award News Boy $10 for First Word of Victory.

A state highway patrol report at Santa Barbara, Cal., says a railroad locomotive was wrecked 20 miles from the nearest track. The engine, a small one, was being transported overland by truck-trailer when the vehicle swerved and landed in a ditch.

When V-day arrives at Santa Fe, N. M., James Gervos wants the news, but fast. He inserted this ad in the Santa Fe New Mexican: "Ten dollars will be awarded to the first newsboy to bring the Santa Fe New Mexican announcing the fall of Germany. The award will not be divided."

That's quite a mixture being brewed at the amphibious training base at Coronado, Cal. Among those in training at the base's landing craft school are L. O. Martini, S. J. Champagne, A. Cola, J. Beer, W. H. Redwine and M. Hozer.

T. Sgt. Floyd C. Dusen, Carpp Crowder, Mo., received a commendation from his draft board the other day. "We have been advised that you have been discharged from the armed forces. In order to complete our records, it will be necessary for you to submit a copy of your discharge." The sergeant thought over his two years of active duty with the army and replied: "How about you mailing me a copy of the discharge you mention?"

At Vancouver, Wash., a car struck Clarence H. Williams, breaking his leg. The driver stopped a few feet away and ran back to Williams. When he carefully removed Mr. Williams' wallet, drove on.

At Vancouver, B. C., City Solicitor A. E. Lord points out this feature of a proposed "back-seat" driver traffic law under consideration by the city council: "If a husband wants to can take action against his wife under the clause that says no passenger shall do any act which will interfere with the driver's proper control of the car."

After hunting weeks for somebody to dig a 10-foot ditch so that a new water pipe could be laid at his home—and finally doing the job himself—a Lyons, Kan., physician said: "Some night one of these fellows afraid of hard work is going to call me out of bed, to hurry and save his life. You know what I'll do? . . . Yes, I'll go."

Mrs. Ruth Kuntz, Los Angeles, testifying in a suit for divorce from Herbert L. Kuntz, said that sometimes dinner was delayed until 11 p. m., because first her husband drank three quarts of beer every evening.

A Raton, N. M., city garbage truck whisked merrily past the fire station belching smoke. Fire Chief W. D. Moore panted after it afoot, gave up, ran back and got the fire truck for pursuit. Several blocks later the firemen caught up with and put out the fire.

Confusion was the notation made by a soldier, who sent his war ballot to County Clerk Hal Rager at Topeka, Kan. In the space for the address of his home precinct where the ballot must be returned to be counted, the soldier wrote one word: "Various."

At Colorado Springs, Colo., at an exhibit of military equipment at a downtown park, three GI's and the wife of one of them climbed in and gaily rode off in a light tank. Police caught them four blocks away when they turned up a dead end street.

William Gavin, 16-year-old

Portland, Ore., high school basketball player, won the state 4-H dinner cooking championship over seven girl contestants. He also won numerous honors with his canning displays at the annual state 4-H summer school. But he said he wants to be a farmer when he grows up.

Things really hummed after Ned Claysville's light truck and Willard Ulmer's car collided at Hatch, N. M. No one was seriously hurt, but the drivers and a companion of each left the scene hastily. Claysville had 26 beehives aboard, all fully tenanted.

A. B. Chalk, operator of a charter airplane service at Miami, Fla., received an emergency ship-to-shore radio call from the yacht Flowade. "Need you to fly ill woman to Miami," was the summons. Chalk flew to the vicinity of Bimini, Bahama island, returned in quick time. Mrs. Wade H. Furrow of Miami, stepped from the seaplane, called her chauffeur. "I got seasick," she explained.
