

Ordinance Revived - New Weather Service Neb. Launched - Senator Crossland - Mistaken Practice.

We think blowing the curfew whistle as a reminder to underage youths to hurry home and get ready for bed is a wholesome revival of an ordinance long on the books of the city.

We think young persons' hearing is sufficiently acute so that a mild dose of blowing will perform the desired service.

Youths who have been raising more devil than is good for them or for the community, must realize that if they are to amount to a darn in the present social order they will have to yield to useful employment and cut out vitiating habits.

Earliest possible schooling does the most lasting good. One works harder and derives less if he waits too long to begin learning something.

Men of the community may well use their influence to persuade youths who have become careless to reverse damaging trends to study, work and play in rational proportions and steer clear of temptations that exact terrific interest when maturity arrives and when regrets are stinging reminders of neglected opportunities.

The State National Bank which has kept track of the rainfall for 30 years, has lately been appointing a government weather observer at this place.

Alert to Constituents. Senator W. A. Crossland is a perennial campaigner. He stops long enough to request and interpret election returns and then he resumes.

And doesn't he have the right to? Many office-holders are voted in while angling for votes and election returns and then he resumes. That may account for his increased majority each time he has run. It is noted that his majority was 947 in 1940, 2,369 in 1942, and 4,260 in 1944.

And doesn't he have the right to? Many office-holders are voted in while angling for votes and election returns and then he resumes. That may account for his increased majority each time he has run.

A New way to Carve

Will your holiday bird be carved with professional skill? There's a simple, modern way to do it just as aptly as do the smart chefs. The drawings and instructions given below are taken from a book "How to Carve Meat, Game and Poultry", by M. O. Cullen of the National Live Stock and Meat Board. Suggestion: clip them for the use of the family carver!

After the turkey, roasting chicken, or other large fowl has been brought to the table on a platter, breast up and with the legs pointing to the right or left (depending upon whether the carver is right or left-handed), the carver turns the turkey on its side so the back is toward him. Then he removes the drumstick by grasping the outer end and pulling gently while the knife cuts through the joint, separating it from the thigh.

Then the carver places the drumstick on a side plate, holding it upright, and slices its meat off, carving parallel with the bone. Next, he cuts thin slices from the thigh, continuing until the thigh bone itself is exposed. Then he loosens the meat on each side of the thigh bone with tip of his knife, and removes the bone with fines of fork. Remaining thigh meat is sliced off while still attached to the bird.

Slicing breast meat with the grain, the carver takes lengthwise slices from the breast and wing until wing-to-body joint is exposed. Fork is established in wing, and wing is unjoined from body with knife. Thin lengthwise slices are removed until all white meat has been carved from this side of the bird. (All meat, of course, is placed on the side dish as it is cut.)

To get at the dressing, the thin skin under the thigh is slit with tip of the knife, making an opening large enough to allow entrance of serving spoon. "Getting at" the dressing is much simplified by this method.

Once half the turkey has been accounted for, in this manner and provided the carver needs still more meat for a complete serving—the platter's position is reversed. The bird is turned over, to put the meaty side on top again. And the process is repeated. Simple? Of course!

Government Ownership THE NORFOLK Daily News calls attention to the complaint of E. W. Rossitor, Hartington banker, that government competition is proving unjustly burdensome to the banking business...

"Both in and out of the administration at Washington there are financiers who hold that the people should lend to the government and the government should lend to business."

"This will mean, as Adolph Berle said, that government will have to take over many businesses, and that is probably what the advocates of the plan would like."

"Whether the small bankers can do anything about the condition of which they complain will depend, no doubt, on how well entrenched the advocates of government control of credit are in Washington."

Holiday Season BEGINNING of the holiday season which is supposed to be the happiest of the year, is saddened by the consciousness of hard experience on all battle fronts...

The pre-Christmas buying season found earlier shopping than usual on account of reaching absent soldier boys in time for the holiday. Stores are well stocked with things suitable for gifts, and plenty of money in circulation permits liberal buying.

Increasing restrictions on a defeated Germany is the sentiment revealed by a recent Gallup poll. According to that survey, popular feeling is growing in the direction of more restraints.

OVERDUE? Hog cholera epidemics have a history of running in cycles of 10 to 12 years, and such an epidemic is now overdue, veterinarians who study such matters report.

The fact that the cycle has been lengthened beyond its normal terms this time is due, they say, to vigilance of a majority of hog raising farmers in having their pigs vaccinated against the disease. In that connection, it is interesting to learn from hog cholera serum manufacturers that on the basis of serum purchased, the number of pigs vaccinated so far this year has been about 35 per cent below 1943.

If the country ever was ripe for a cholera outbreak it was last year when production was at an all-time peak. Records show that disease losses among swine were heavy, but that they were due in the main to ill other than cholera. That is a record of which all who have anything to do with the maintenance of swine health may well be proud.

Progressive Industrial Leadership (Industrial Press Service)

The courage and initiative of the individual American—essence of our victories on the battle front—are exemplified on the home front by the words of K. T. Keller, president of Chrysler Corporation, rallying industry to the tremendous task of reconverting to the peace to come.

He calls upon industry to "strike out bravely" to "face squarely its own problems" to "take swift and confident action, without reliance upon government, without fear of government or labor, or of stockholders or of its critics."

to future peace. Nazi leaders now know they are defeated, and the sooner they surrender, the more they will salvage from the ruins. The longer they postpone the inevitable, less will be the disposition to make concessions in the final settlement.

Some reforms are proposed in Washington officialdom, and all of them strike us as eminently sound. One is to limit a president to one six or eight-year term, and we think it should be pushed along without let-up.

With all due respect to Vice President Henry Wallace and his noble intentions, we think putting him in the place of Secretary Hull in case the latter's health forces his retirement would be a mistaken appraisal of the caliber required to handle the vital affairs of state.

Pathfinder magazine figures this country will spend one billion dollars for new buildings after the war. When hostilities broke out restrictions were placed on most improvements, and as a consequence unsatisfied needs grow.

A pressing need of the time to speed up production of military substance to deliver the knock-out blow in the war would seem a mandatory order to cut out strikes. Producing more to meet increased demands is the chief cry, and this may be accomplished by settling differences without lying down on essential jobs.

The PAC which is up in the finesses of old-world politics, is slick enough to fool heavily unionized industrial centers in the far east and far west, but apparently they are not slick enough to mislead mid-western states which have developed the habit of doing their own thinking.

President Green of the AFL is reported to have remarked rather casually at the convention this week that his organization contributed its share to the late election. We would agree to that, as results loudly testified.

The easy way to avoid hearing Walter Winchell, radio speaker, command his own unerring judgment as he rattles in criticism of Martin Dies and Upton Chase is to turn him off.

Stressing increased production to justify higher wages is more practical and satisfactory than to gain government favor in support of more cash for less effort.

WILBUR (By Staff Correspondent)

when the war is over, unless it is kept closely in check. That brings us back to the thought with which we started, that one of the most effective ways to guard against the naturally inflationary influences that will follow the war is to put surplus money into government bonds and keep it there.

AN ARGUMENT FOR BONDS. (Omaha Journal-Stockman) Besides the government's need of the money and the fact that the bonds are a good investment, another point is figuring more and more prominently as a reason for putting surplus funds into small denomination bonds as long as the government offers them. It is that this is one of the best methods thus far suggested for keeping in check the extremes of inflation that plagued the United States and the rest of the world after the last war.

No one can argue honestly that we have not already had some inflation. And no one who reads history can fail to realize that the inflation danger in the postwar period will be even greater than it has been up to now. For instance, scan these figures on a familiar subject. In the World War I days from January 1, 1914, to January 1, 1918, the farm mortgage debt in the United States rose from $4,707,458,000 to $8,536,860,000, a tidy 40 per cent. But in the next five years, up to January 1, 1923, farm debts increased to $10,785,621,000, a gain of 65 per cent over the 1918 figure and 129 per cent above 1914.

So far in this present war, the farm debt has dropped from $6,588,289,000 on January 1, 1940, to $5,634,772,000, a reduction of 14 per cent during the period. Inability of farmers to get certain things they would have bought had they been available has undoubtedly been a factor, but that very thing increases the danger of an inflationary spending spurge

NAME CALLING. Frank R. Kent, columnist, deplores name calling in the late presidential campaign, pointing out that careless disregard of facts was more the habit of new deal politicians than that of Governor Dewey and his managers.

Frank R. Kent, columnist, deplores name calling in the late presidential campaign, pointing out that careless disregard of facts was more the habit of new deal politicians than that of Governor Dewey and his managers. Kent charges that the new deal got into the habit of ignoring facts back in the campaign of 1932. The columnist mentions something known by many—that the economic slump which was disappearing in June and July, 1932, was revived by the new deal's successful attempt to destroy confidence in Hoover. Speaking of the depression, Kent says in part: "The broader facts, which history will record, are that the depression was world wide; that its major origins were in Europe; that it swept in on the United States like a hurricane; that it originated from the backwash of World War I; that by action of the republican administration 18 million people were under organized relief; that no one starved and that the Hoover administration took drastic steps to protect the people's savings by creating the RFC and the Home Loan Bank and by expanding agricultural credit institutions. The bank failures were mostly in state banks not under federal control."

A NOTE FROM MARTHY Dear Editor:

We had a letter from Marty this week, saying that she was looking for Gene home on a delayed furlough or maybe it was a relayed one, anyhow one of them short stop orders the military gives them while they're going from their training station to their port of embarkation for overseas. Don't seem like odd yesterday that the young one left home and it ain't only about 17 weeks, but seems he was one of them places where they change them from green farm boys to young town kids into completely trained men ready to go out and replace battle-weary veterans in the infantry's front lines, the ones that's earned the right to come home. But what is worrying Paul and me is this, why is the regular army and some other military organizations insisting on a year's full compulsory military training for all boys in peace time, when in war time they can take a boy like Gene and thousands more like him, so young they hadn't even shaved yet, and in less than four and a half months train them and send them out to defend their lives against a powerful and conscienceless foe? Ain't according to reason, and all this talk about correcting physical defects, as teeth and tonsils and poor diets and such as all hog wash, as that is all coming about 18 years too late. That is what parents is for is to look after such things and the majority of them do, as far as they are financially able. When troubles is better prevented than cured and if all our public schools was to start giving the girls the right kind of training to fit them to be the wives and mothers of tomorrow, there wouldn't be so many physical disabled. If girls as soon as they reach their teens, was taught how to cook a decent meal, how to keep a home, how to sew and most important of all how to raise healthy babies into healthy children, then the schools would have a reason to feel proud of their graduates. They must have their military training, then let's be honest at least and call a spade a spade, but we're kind of suspicious of them words "military indoctrination." They don't sound so good in our land of liberty.

Sees Twins First Time. Sgt. Herschel Manning, after 23 months in the European area, is home on a furlough. He met his twins, a son and a daughter, for the first time. He recently visited Paris. Mrs. Manning is the former Eleanor McGuire, who taught in district 73 in Leslie. She now teaches in Pender.

Northwest Wakefield (By Mrs. W. C. Ring) Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wolter and children spent Thursday evening with Les Brudigum. Mr. and Mrs. Joe H. W. Johnson are spending some time in the Leslie home during corn picking.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnson of Thurston, is reported missing in action since October 29.

NOT DEAD. The Christian Science Monitor gives editorial treatment to the idea suggested by some new dealers that the republican party is dead and ought to be buried. The Monitor disagrees, and concludes that "one need not be a crystal gazer to say there is a future for the republicans."

The message on Alaska's flag, reads: Eight stars of gold on a field of blue, Alaska's flag. May it mean to you the blue of the sea, the evening sky, the mountain lakes and the flowers nearby; the gold of the early soundings' dreams, the precious gold of the hills and streams, the brilliant stars in the northern sky, the bear, the dipper, and shining high the north star with its steady light over land and sea—a beacon, bright Alaska's flag to Alaskans dear, the simple flag of a last frontier.

Hoskins Soldier Sees Much Action

After 16 months of overseas duty during which he saw action in numerous major battles in the Pacific, T5 Lester Marten has arrived in his parental Gus Marten home at Hoskins, where his wife and two daughters reside. He is grateful that he came through the 16 months without being injured. The young man received an honorable discharge at Jefferson Barracks, Mo., and plans to farm at Hoskins.

"Pepper" as he is known to his friends, was in on the invasion of the Admiralty islands, where he experienced his bitterest fighting. After an amphibious landing was made they fought day and night to hold the two air strips needed for a landing base. He was attached to a medical field artillery detachment, and when not actually rendering aid to the wounded he was engaged in combat.

Marten landed in Australia July 3, 1943, and was attached to General MacArthur's forces. From there he was sent to New Guinea and then to the Admiralty Islands. He saw General MacArthur when he was in Australia.

When he left the Admiralty Islands he went by plane to New Guinea, where he got a boat for San Francisco. The trip took 20 days. He said it was a small ship and only brought 1,400 men back. Some of them were medical cases, while others were on rotation furloughs.

Although at present Marten is quite yellow from malaria taken to prevent malaria, he expects to regain his natural color soon.

Broadleaf varieties to be available in 1945 are Russian mulberry, American elm, cottonwood, green ash, honey locust, black locust, Chinese elm, hackberry and caragana. Evergreen varieties to be had are ponderosa, yellow or bull pine, Austrian pine, jack pine and red cedar.

Farmers interested in securing seedlings for windbreak and woodlot plantings should make application soon, as the supply will likely be exhausted earlier than in previous years. It should be noted that trees will not be available for landscaping.

Earl Maxwell, state extension forester, states that "Because of the danger of tree insects and diseases and different growth habits of trees, a windbreak should be made up of three or more varieties of trees and should include at least one row of evergreens. Evergreens are slower in getting started than broadleaf trees, but they are more drought resistant, longer lived, add more beauty to the landscape and give better winter protection."

Lesson on Potatoes Given to Leaders

"Potatoes in Popular Ways" is the November lesson for project clubs. Home demonstration leaders received their training in this at the Congregational church west of Carroll November 13. Suggestions are given in the lesson on best ways to get the most good from potatoes. The very best way is to cook potatoes with the skins on. Boiling potatoes with the jackets on conserves more vitamins than baking.

Several recipes demonstrate using potatoes in different ways, also a recipe for a potato alternate. In eastern and central Nebraska few potato growers had a normal crop. This means that some potato stretchers and alternates may be used. The national crop, however, is about the same as consumed in normal years so potatoes will be available and they are a cheap energy food. Penny for penny, potatoes have more energy-giving value than any other vegetable. Besides the energy value, potatoes provide one fourth the daily requirement of vitamin B, besides iron and other important minerals. "Put potatoes on your priority list for year-round eating."

State School Plan Is Explained Here

Supt. Wayne O. Reed Urges Study of Educational Program to Improve.

In addressing Wayne Woman's club Friday in the club rooms on "America, the World's Hope," State Supt. Wayne O. Reed of Lincoln, stressed the need for study and cooperation to improve Nebraska's educational system. The executive mentioned that six proposals are frequently made to the department of public instruction for equalizing educational opportunities and financial burdens of education in the state. It is often claimed that the present division of the state into 1,000 school districts is inefficient and uneconomical. Some propose that attaching of all lands to the nearest high school districts would equalize the responsibility for conducting and financing high school education. It has been suggested that all farm lands be removed from high school districts and that a uniform county high school tax levy be placed on all farm lands to reimburse the high school program for the revenue that would be lost as a result of removing lands from districts. A high school property replacement tax bill introduced in the legislature failed to get out of committee. This proposed that, because of unequal tax assessments in the state, the only fair way in which property taxes can be reduced in districts with high levies is a new form of taxation to be used for replacement purposes. Another idea suggests that all education below the 11th grade be financed by local districts and that the 11th and above be financed by state general fund, the same as the university. The sixth proposal is that a general state tax be levied for equalizing educational opportunities and that this be distributed to schools on the basis of need and effort along the line of reimbursing the local school at so much per teacher-pupil unit. This conforms with the idea of leaving the school under local control. A district could still maintain its school but the district would not receive aid under this plan. It is argued that this plan would encourage consolidation to qualify for state aid.

Will Hear Cases In District Court

District Judge Lyle Jackson of Neligh, comes this Thursday to hear the claim of C. H. Hendrickson against the Phillip Sullivan estate. He will also conduct the regular fall term of court and hear any other cases that are ready at this time. Judge Jackson made a special trip here last Thursday to take care of juvenile matters.

At the evening dinner at the Chamber of Commerce, Louis Bromfield, noted conservation enthusiast, will speak.

Northeast Nebraska tri-county harvest festival and pasture-forage-livestock finishup is at Emerson this Thursday, November 23. In the evening, O. S. Bare, of the extension service, speaks on the corn borer and its relation to northeast Nebraska, and Dr. Snyder, state veterinarian, discusses animal hygiene, especially dealing with Bangs disease. Corn king and garden queen will be crowned. E. A. Kelloway of the Omaha livestock exchange, will present views on livestock trends.

Another district finishup meeting was held at Laurel Wednesday, E. A. Kelloway of Omaha, O. S. Bare and Dr. L. E. Hanson of Lincoln, were chief speakers.

To Request Bids On Stadium Soon

State Board of Education Reviews Specifications At Lincoln Today.

Specifications for the new stadium to be built at Wayne college will be reviewed at a state board of education meeting this Thursday in Lincoln. It is expected that final plans will be formulated in preparation for requests for bids soon.

John Latenser of Omaha, is architect for the new structure. He was in Wayne November 11 to map final plans for the erection.

The stadium will have a seating capacity of 3,000 and will be located where the old stadium stood. It will be of concrete, reinforced with steel and will be fitted with ample dressing rooms, a spacious recreation room for running, jumping and calisthenics, as well as with a protected press-box and announcer's booth.

Naphtha Under Control.
Light naphtha, a petroleum product, normally used primarily for cooking and lighting, was brought under rationing control November 20 in 15 midwestern states, according to Sioux City district office of price administration.

The action was taken to stop the illegal use of the product as a motor fuel. The heavier industrial naphthas, however, will remain free from rationing.

Asked to Reduce Travel.
All persons have been asked by Col. J. Monroe Johnson, director of the office of defense transportation, to refrain from traveling on railroads and buses between December 15, 1944, and January 8, 1945. Government and private business have been asked to make special efforts to cut down all business travel during that period to the extent that such travel could be deferred without impairing the war effort. Col. Johnson said he realized that a considerable personal sacrifice is involved in giving up the normal holiday reunions of families, but such a sacrifice is an essential part of civilian contribution to the war effort.

Library News

November 19 to 25 has been declared Freedom of the Press week by the American Library association. The libraries of the nation take this opportunity to call to your attention the great privilege Americans enjoy in their freedom to read whatever they please, without censorship or pressure from political bosses or special interests. The public library is the symbol of this freedom. Treasure it, use it and defend it!

Did you know that there is always a trend towards religious reading in wartime? This is probably due in part to a desire to turn our thoughts to something steady and lasting. Herbert Agar has written a book called "A Time for Greatness. This is not exactly a religious book but Lewis Mumford in the Atlantic Monthly said, "This book has the weight of the Last Testament. No one else has painted the moral background of the war with surer strokes or greater eloquence." Herbert Agar served in the first World War and since then has been the author of poetry, novels and history. (The Pulitzer prize winner for American history in 1934.) and editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal. At present, he is a lieutenant commander in the United States navy, on active duty. With persuasive common sense, the author writes a challenging clarification of our present problems, showing that history demands of America an especial greatness at this moment.

New books this week are: War Through the Ages, by Lynn Montross, The Great Lakes by Hatcher, Fundamentals of Chemistry, by Offner, The World of Washington Irving, by Van Wyck Brooks, The Green Years, by A. J. Cronin, and four mysteries, Come On My Hands, by George Sanders, Puzzle for Puppets, by Patrick Quentin, Till Death Do Us Part, by John Carr, and The Case of the Black-Eyed Blonde, by Erle Gardner.

Miss Ruth Ross and her 2nd grade pupils visited the book display at the library during book week.

To Send Gifts Soon.
Office of defense transportation urges all to purchase Christmas gifts soon. Early gift sending is essential to help overburdened transportation facilities handle this year's volume of gift sending.

To Reach War Prisoners.
Telegrams to prisoners of war may be sent until November 30 through the Red Cross. K. N. Parke handles such communications for Wayne county. This applies only to prisoners in the Philippines.

Plans Coordinated For Project Clubs

Wayne county home demonstration committee, meeting at Wayne city hall, November 14, with Mrs. A. G. Sydow presiding, adopted policies that will strengthen and correlate all interest for the development of home and community life in Wayne county. The group will help develop the home demonstration program by cooperating with the county agent, W. R. Harder, and district home agent, Miss Mary Burbank.

Mrs. Clarence Schroeder of Hoskins, was elected secretary-treasurer of the organization. Wayne county home demonstration committee includes the present county chairman, Mrs. A. G. Sydow of Wayne, the co-chairman, Mrs. Wm. Wylie of Winside, the two immediate past county chairmen, Mrs. T. P. Roberts of Carroll, and Mrs. Clarence Schroeder of Hoskins, the county music leader, Mrs. Lloyd Morris of Carroll, and presidents of all project clubs. These club presidents are: Mrs. Frank Hicks, Wayne, Progressive Homemakers; Mrs. W. R. French, Carroll, Hillcrest; Mrs. Leonard Moore, Carroll, Four Corners; Mrs. Arnold Vahlkamp, Wayne, Hillside; Mrs. Wm. Wylie, Winside, Country Workers; Mrs. Ed. Maas, Hoskins, North Valley; Mrs. Clarence Schroeder, Hoskins, A Teen; Mrs. Lou Lutt, Wayne, El Deen.

Studying State Aid

The legislative council, stated Mr. Reed, is studying the Nebraska state aid program. One present source of school funds is the income of educational lands and funds, one-fourth now being distributed equally among districts and three-fourths distributed according to enrollment. This fund averages $35 per district and $2 per child each year. A second source of revenue is state aid to weak districts. About 110 districts qualify for this aid which averages $245 a year for each. Under the Malberry consolidation act about 58 rural schools qualify for aid in vocational and industrial subjects, this averaging $250 annually. About 125 high schools offer normal training and by doing so qualify for about $290 each per year from this special fund.

In conclusion Supt. Reed urged the need for conscientious and thorough study of Nebraska's educational system for greatest effectiveness.

Supt. Reed was introduced by Mrs. C. V. Wait.

Music by Orchestra.
Preceding the talk, the club enjoyed a half hour of music played by the high school orchestra of 35 under the direction of A. J. Atkins in the auditorium.

The serving committee included Mrs. W. E. VonSeggern, chairman, Mrs. T. T. Jones, Mrs. Nettie Call, Mrs. A. B. Carhart, Mrs. Charles McEachran, Mrs. Erville Hughes, Mrs. Wayne Lake and Mrs. Harry Kinder.

The club meets again December 8 when Mrs. C. V. Wait gives a book review and Mrs. W. G. Ingram is serving chairman.

Santa Claus Sends Sum to Amy Claus

Pulls Boner by Weighting Deposits in Bank Chute With Dog Bone.

Stranded in Denver without funds, a 13-year-old Missouri girl wrote Santa Claus for help and received it. Amy Claus, who told police she came to Denver "to see the mountains and real Christmas trees," wrote to her father, the Rev. Santa Claus, at Marshall, Mo. He responded with a letter enclosing a check.

The Oklahoma City OPA office, checking an application for an oil heater, could find no reason why the stove was needed. A reply for more details stated: "I have never bought a stove and do not have one of any kind. My husband is in service and I am not able to get any other kind of fuel." She got the heater.

A Topeka, Kan., business woman didn't trust the weight of a canvas sack to carry her five-figure check. Down the night deposit chute at the bank she weighted it with a dog bone. Assured later by the started banker that the walls of the chute were so slick they couldn't even catch interest, she stammered, "I guess I pulled a boner."

In This Free Country YOU are the Boss of Your Dollars:
Keep Them GOOD

The dollars you earn are yours. In this free country, you are their boss. It is up to you whether you spend them wisely . . . waste them foolishly . . . save a reasonable number of them. But remember one thing. The way you handle the dollars you now earn, means a lot to your country and to your family—both now and in the future.

Foolish spending today drives up prices and drives up the cost of the war—drives down the dollar's buying power—increases your taxes. Foolish spending by you today weakens America and weakens you . . . deprives you of dollars to tide you through the readjustment days which are bound to follow the war.

Many of us are making pretty good money today. It is easier for us to set aside some of this money if we plan our saving. There are fewer things to buy today. It should be easier for us to plan our spending in such way that every dollar we earn doesn't fly right out of our pockets.

You, too, can save sensibly . . . spend sensibly. All this double job requires is a little horse-sense planning. Take a pencil and figure out your total income, your necessary spending. Then save as much as you can of your surplus dollars. Buy more War Bonds. Put over-and-above dollars into a savings account for emergencies. Get something real out of those extra dollars you now are earning and maintain their buying power for the future.

Help the nation's efforts to keep your living costs DOWN, the buying power of your dollar UP.
