

To Hamper Herald III Advised - Fewer Government Agents Might Help - Other Notes.

It would help society and themselves more if a few editors themselves would quit trying to shut off the Herald's news channels in their respective communities.

The Herald's news service to schools, churches and other institutions and activities in outlying communities costs nothing to the ones served, and it is strange, indeed, that anyone would go out of his way deliberately to interfere.

Obviously, the hope—vain though it be—is to destroy the Herald's reader interest in outlying areas and stop its steadily increasing coverage. This cannot be done without first gaining the approval of families served.

So, if the Herald stands as strong in reader interest as the interfering attempts of a few newspapers would suggest, the effort should be to use its columns more instead of its subscribers.

To those newspapers that apparently would like to cripple and restrain the Herald, we would suggest that they work harder on a basis of merit, and while putting their shoulders to the wheel, pray for the end of the war when help will be more plentiful and individual burdens fewer.

Another surprising revelation appears in a letter just received. A Wayne county woman wants to know if it is true that she cannot subscribe for the Herald until somebody else has been dropped.

To Save for War. We are wondering if the government couldn't get along with fewer itinerant agents, and thus save much gasoline and a lot of manpower.

Bromfield attributes this lack of confidence in part to a presidential inclination to surround the new deal from the start with too many "frustrated theorists, many of them social workers, third rate professors and economists, who had a poor opinion of the rest of the world and were used in slums and classrooms to exercise an authority that was seldom if ever questioned...

If it can capture minor offices, it will be able to develop more power in the national field...

Prospect that Vice President Henry A. Wallace, soon to retire from his present niche, is to be taken care of and not allowed to be plowed under, is indicated by a Washington report which connects him with the cabinet office of secretary of commerce, now held by Jesse H. Jones. Also this report dovetails with Henry's apparently calm and confident state of mind.

A recent Washington order heard over the air was to the effect that baseball must depend for participants on men unable to fight in the war or work in defense plants. That would appear to mean suspension of baseball for the duration.

Our world leaders have a wonderful facility for breathing hot before they get through breathing cold. They depress the spirits of the people one day and lift them up the next day. Why, we do not know.

High temperatures in Washington's bureau and sometimes open windows to cool the air came to the public's attention when the order was issued to reduce thermostats everywhere to 68.

Envy is a fairly accurate barometer of success, so Victor Hugo said. He mentioned that when envy begins to bite, one is making progress and keeping his bark off the rocks.

Mild sunshine smiled on the anniversary of the terrific blizzard that swooped down from the north January 12, 1888.

One refreshing post-war prospect—more news and less propaganda.

Putting things off is an all-year habit—mighty poor one, too.

COOPERATION. Nation's Business suggests that cooperation between big and small businesses during the war may reasonably bring similar relationships—agreeable and profitable—after the war. Examples of how small industries have benefited by helping big organizations carry their burdens are mentioned. Working together has proved mutually advantageous if labor unions would lay aside their various desires to master their employers and if all production groups, big and small, would engage in close team work, pulling together rather than apart, the result would hasten substantial postwar recovery...

Attempts (Continued from Page One) The two desperados who escaped jail in Council Bluffs, were at large in Wayne. We mention this to show how possible presence of a bold, bad criminal, unrestrained, may unintentionally yield some benefits. This is not to be interpreted as reason to permit crime-steeped and law-defying eggs at large in every community every night.

Members of the military affairs, naval affairs and foreign affairs committees who have been at the various war fronts expect to make detail reports to the chairman of their respective committees. Much "off the record" information is being given to colleagues by these members. Some of the information is depressing.

War Mobilization. Director Byrnes let loose his recommendations several days preceding transmission to the congress of the president's annual message on the state of the union. These recommendations are of such scope and importance that congressional committees will be busy for months if they are all taken up for action. Some of them are new. Some of them are not new. Some have been under consideration without action since the war began. Some of them have already been cited with approval in the president's message to congress. Others will receive approval in subsequent presidential statements.

Director Byrnes in particular wants more power given the president and executive agencies to meet the manpower situation. He advocates legislation which will draft as many as possible of the 4-F registrants into production for war purposes. He intimates that a national labor conscription act would be preferable, but he was one of the justices of the supreme court before he came to his present position and great responsibility. He was familiar with the demands made for "conscription of labor" at the time conscription for the armed forces came in, when pressure for universal conscription had many advocates. Congress failed to act, and the administration failed to demand it. In congress as well as in the press the question was asked as to constitutional authority for such legislation. Conscription is a broad word, and it can be applied to capital as well as labor. Where the policy would end once it was adopted, nobody could say. Director Byrnes therefore limits his recommendations to the drafting of the 4-F registrants whose induction into fighting forces has been deferred for many reasons. Winning the war is the first and most important of all problems.

COMMUNISM. Town Hall of the Air Thursday night discussed the question of whether communism constitutes a threat to the democratic way of life. Able and well informed men took part on each side. All speakers branded communism as bad. Men on the negative, however, contended that its membership was made up of a small and un-influential lunatic fringe that could exercise no dangerous power. The two upholding the idea of a real menace to free institutions emphasized the steady growth of totalitarian governments in Europe, and pointed to signs of a similar movement in this country. Those who frowned on the communist scare said if democracy were made to work there would be no hindrance to its survival. But communism or other alienisms may insidiously scheme to break down free enterprise as an excuse to install a system of central control and individual regimentation. The trend to collectivism is too apparent to be just a fad arising from big and undesirable intentions.

Production must be maintained. But Director Byrnes expresses its importance without more than suggesting possibilities. Congress will have to find the way if the way is to be found.

Mr. Byrnes did clear up the matter of ammunition shortages which has been the subject of so many wild statements. He states that there is no present shortage of ammunition for the fighting fronts, but that there may be unless production shall be vastly increased. There are difficulties in getting ammunition and equipment to the battle fronts from the huge supplies at the bases abroad. That has been the case throughout. Materials costing billions have also become obsolete and declared surplus. New equipment including bigger planes and tanks, rocket guns and ammunition for them, is needed now and the output has increased, but it is not meeting the needs of the factories daily. Congress may inquire into reported charges that some of the larger industries are "hoarding labor" in anticipation of future orders.

Washington hotels now are serving butter to their guests only at breakfast. If anybody wants butter with lunch or dinner he must bring it with him, providing he can find any to bring. The hotels make two claims. First is that butter is so scarce that it is almost unobtainable. The second is that OPA by increasing the required points from 20 to 24 has put butter on an unobtainable basis so far as they are concerned. Restaurants are similarly situated, and serve only half or a quarter "pat" when they serve any. Some endeavor to meet their difficulties by offering oleomargarine, with but few takers. Little dishes of honey or peanut butter, have come into general use because of the butter shortage.

There is a loud roar in the capital city over the shortage of gas for cars, not the rationed shortage, but that in which the car owner can't get the gas even with a ration card. The gas shortage has grown more acute during the holidays and continues. The blame is laid upon the black-markets, but the principal reason seems to be that Washington has been bypassed by the transportation lines and has not received its regular quota. A similar situation developed a year ago and the fuel oil supply was also curtailed.

PRODUCTION CREDIT GROUP IN MEETING

Farmers from Wayne, Madison, Pierce, Antelope, Stanton and Cumming counties met Saturday at the auditorium in Norfolk for the annual meeting of the Norfolk Production Credit association.

Yale Hoffman of the Production Credit corporation at Omaha, spoke. He pointed out that past history shows agricultural prices have risen during every major war since 1800 and have declined after every war.

He emphasized that during the present war five million fewer farm people have increased farm production by 20 percent above the pre-war years and that this country is eating better on three-fourths of what we produce now, than we did before the war.

"One-fourth of our present production," he added, "goes to our armed forces and allies under lend-lease."

Peter H. Claussen of Leigh, and Holger Madsen of West Point, were re-elected by members to three-year terms on the association board of directors.

Other board members are Adolph H. Claussen of Wayne, W. A. Monson of Wausa and C. E. Christiansen of Plainview.

L. J. Richling, secretary-treasurer, said the association made loans totaling nearly $800,000 during 1944.

Youth Is Injured With Third Army

S. Sgt. Gene M. Wrobel, with the Third Army, was slightly wounded in action in Germany, December 22 according to a telegram coming January 6 to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Wrobel of De Pere, Wis., formerly of Wayne. Since then, the Wrobel's received a letter from the young man saying that he was in a hospital in France receiving treatment for shrapnel wounds, but that he expected to go back to the front soon. Another son, S1C Don, who received his first class rating December 1, is now on sea duty in the north Pacific.

Brothers in Pacific.

Donald U. Miller, MM1C, on submarine duty, who was at a rest base in the Pacific, was called out suddenly. He reports that his new base is not so nice. No entertainment, no bus rides and no ice cream are available. Coral reefs are so bad that it is almost impossible to swim in the ocean. He is well but his whereabouts cannot be disclosed for several months. His brother, To Wm. Miller, with the infantry service company, is on Palau Island near the Philippines. He enjoyed Christmas here and especially the soap as each is allowed only one bar of soap a week for laundry and bath. The men have not had white bread but expect completion of a new bakery soon to provide several thousand loaves of bread a day. William has charge of men and trucks traveling all day on rocks and coral reefs. Men swim for recreation. A number are in the water at a time and register before going. No show troops have come to the island. The youth says that men stay two years before they are granted leave and he has been there one year. He expects to stay another year unless the war ends sooner.

AMERICANS SURPASS JAPANESE SOLDIERS

Cpl. F. A. Ziemer, who is now in the Philippines, sends appreciation for the Herald. He states that he is in the Seventh division that was first located on cold, bleak, tundra-frozen Attu. From there they were sent to Kwajalein in the Marshalls. The weather in the Philippines is hot and rainfall extremely heavy. The group landed D-day and has engaged Japs in battle since that time. Cpl. Ziemer writes, "At times the going was rough, but Japs are no match for American coordinated infantry and artillery outfits. Nips have definitely suffered a major defeat in the Philippines. We are getting near their homeland and our bombers from these bases will be able to bring destruction to their cities and war factories."

Cpl. Ziemer continues, "Things have quieted down here considerably since the outbreak of the battle. Natives were happy to see us here. You can't imagine cruelties that the natives were subjected to under Japanese conquest. Under any other conditions it might have been an interesting place to visit."

Carroll Soldier Writes of Trip To Pacific Isle

"About 50 of us took a trip to a neighboring island and a native

village," writes Cpl. Gerald Swarth December 31 to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Swarth of Carroll. "It took about four hours to go over and we have two now heading back. We have two landing crabs and took sandwiches and tomato juice for dinner. "American missionaries have done a wonderful job in many parts of these islands and the natives really think a lot of the Americans. There was a missionary at the first place we visited today and the way the natives are educated is very surprising. We talked to one young woman for a while and she was very interesting. She talked a bit broken but good English. She said she had studied about the United States in history. She mentioned some of the places she had studied such as New York, Mississippi river, Texas, California, Gulf of Mexico, etc. She said the first American she had seen was in 1944 and the first American she talked to was Gary Cooper. We were quite surprised at that. She wore a home-made dress, very similar to the plain house dress worn in the U. S. A. Her hair was well groomed and fashioned much as the women at home. Of course, you see, she is a very extraordinary case. Practically all the others, men and women, wear only a cloth known as a 'hap lap'. They also go barefooted, even the one I referred to."

"After touring this mission we crossed a channel to a native village. What comes? They had grass skirts for two pounds or about $8.40, polished sea shells, pineapples, bananas and various gadgets, but what prices! If you don't want to pay what they ask they just won't talk business. They have dealt with soldiers enough to know what they can get. They really go for cigars, chewing gum and any edibles. Knives, flashlights, razors and such are also easy trades. I was out of luck because I didn't have a thing to trade them and my finances totaled two Australian pennies and one American penny, a value of about 2 1/2c. So I must chalk up this trip to the interest of experience and exploitation."

"A group of sailors were there too and challenged the natives at the main mission to a soft ball game. Much to my surprise, the natives were very active and defeated our party 11-2."

"Continuing his letter January 1, (Cpl. Swarth writes: "It began to rain yesterday and was quite damp the rest of the way. We got back about 5 and supper was waiting. We ate, had showers and then went to the picture show. It begins to get dark about 5:30 and by 6 it is pitch dark. Shows usually begin about 6:15. Last night they showed 'Rhapsody in Blue.'"

"We go on duty from 4 this afternoon until 1 a. m. tomorrow morning with an hour break from 8 to 9 for lunch. Do I ever have a dirty job at this tire shop, in the buffing department? I have a 7.5 h.p. motor, electric, and it has a flywheel about 10 inches in diameter with a bunch of roofing tacks projecting from it. This wheel revolves about 2,200 revolutions per minute and I have a tire on an extending arm of iron and shove the tire into the rasping flywheel. In that manner I take off the old tread and rough up the surface so the recap can be placed on and will stick adhesively. When I come out of there after a few minutes of grinding I look like a negro with those millions of particles of rubber all over me. I use a dust respirator and eye shields to protect my eyes and respiratory system."

Weather Supplies Plenty of Variety

Making Corn Stalk Paper Is Thought Advisable In This Area.

Early Days from the Wayne Herald for January 17, 1929:

Weather the past week has furnished ample variety to suit any desire, and all the changes have come without request. It has been warm and cold, sunny and cloudy. Snow has fallen. Temperature was moderate and also dipped below zero.

Making paper from corn stalks has proved successful, and numerous mills are expected to start in the corn belt. Since Wayne is the center of a great, unfolding corn area, it is thought advisable that such a mill be promoted here.

Wayne county board estimated expenses for 1929 at $157,000. Frank Erickson was chosen chairman, Dr. C. T. Ingham county physician and R. P. Williams member of the soldiers' relief commission.

The new college dormitory for girls is ready for occupancy. Ensey Moore, 83, early resident of Wayne, died in Jacksonville, Ill., in January, 1929.

Thomas DeLong, 91, Civil war veteran, died in Carroll January 9, 1929. Wayne county has four remaining Civil war veterans, T. F. Grant of Carroll, A. J. Hyatt and R. P. Williams of Wayne, and W. C. Lowry of Winslow.

Ola Olson, 89, resident of Wakefield since 1890, died January 14, 1929.

Fred Krause, 86, died at Hoskins January 10, 1929.

Mrs. J. M. Pile suffered a broken wrist when she fell in Rochester, N. Y., where she is with her daughter, Mrs. Helen Newton.

Mrs. Rose Rice, 84, early resident of Wakefield, died January 9, 1929.

Miss Pearl Goldberg and Geo. T. Magnuson of Concord, were married January 16, 1929.

Pass on Requests To Hold Meetings

Col. J. Monroe Johnson, director of the office of defense transportation, who was appointed as head of a committee "to receive and pass upon applications for the holding of group meetings after February 1 which are to be attended by more than 50 persons to determine if the need for these meetings is sufficient in the war interest to warrant tax on transportation and services," announced that other committee members are Under-Secretary of War Robert Patterson, Under-Secretary of Navy Ralph A. Bard, Chairman of War Production Board J. A. Krug and Deputy Chairman of War Manpower Commission Charles May.

The committee will meet promptly, Colonel Johnson said, to determine its policy and to develop the information required properly to pass upon applications for special permits.

The committee was formed to help in curtailment of non-essential travel.

Need Mileage Ration To Get Gasoline

All operators of passenger cars with basic "A" rations must have "Mileage Rationing Records" to be eligible to apply for any other gasoline rations, M. E. Rawlings, Sioux City district OPA director, pointed out this week.

In the recent re-registration of the nation's 23,000,000 basic "A" ration holders, each registrant was issued one of these mileage record forms. The form replaced the old tire rationing record, on which was kept a list of all gasoline rations issued to the vehicle.

Without this important record form no motorist may be issued a "B" or "C" supplemental ration, OPA states.

Information has been received from local war price and rationing boards that many motorists did not understand the use of the record form and lost or destroyed theirs. No supplemental rations or special or furlough rations for cars with basic "A" rations may be issued to an applicant who does not present his mileage rationing record with his supplemental gasoline application, OPA emphasizes.

In cases where a motorist is not issued a mileage rationing record, or it was lost or destroyed, he should immediately apply to his local board for a duplicate.

TRAVEL EQUIPMENT IS AT LOW LEVEL

Production of civilian transportation equipment was larger in 1944 than in 1943, the office of defense transportation announced, but it remained on a level far below that of pre-war years for many items. Locomotive production totaled 936 units as compared to 830 built in 1943. Freight car production was 42,810. Only 28,799 were produced in 1943. An important item of railroad equipment which does not appear in the tabulation is new replacement steel rail, of which 1,900,000 tons were furnished in 1944, as compared with 1,540,000 tons in 1943.

Library News

Information Please has been chosen the favorite radio program for the year 1944. Wayne public library has its own "Information Please" everyday. You ask the questions, and the librarians try to find the answers. Here is a sample of questions asked in an ordinary day. The population of Nome, Alaska, the name of a poem with the first line "I'm looking for a little girl," the life of Edna Ferber, who defeated Tilden in the race for president, and who wrote "The Flying Dutchman." Try to stump the experts at the library when you want information on a special subject. We will do our best and the service is free.

Can you remember when science meant long words and mysterious formulas? Well, science has climbed off its lofty pedestal and gotten down to the rank of the common man. Your library has books like Fundamentals of Chemistry, by Offner and A Treasury of Science, by Shapley, written for the common man. Ask for them at your library and find out more about the unseen world around us.

Speaking of science reminds us of a new book of cartoons by Rube Goldberg. He has plans for the Post War World that will really make you chuckle.

Another new book this week is China to Me, by Emily Hahn. This book has had some good reviews as well as some adverse criticism and both have been deserved. It will hold your interest but you are likely to learn more about Emily Hahn than China but if you know this before you read it you will not be disappointed.

Mrs. A. J. Atkins will tell stories for the children Saturday at 3 o'clock. We are introducing three new stories and telling one old favorite each time. Last time the request was Cinderella and this week it will be Rumpelstiltskin.

Miss Burbank will be in Dixon county the first few days of the weeks of January 22 and 29 and in Wayne county the week of February 5.

Demonstrates Ways For Canning Meats

Two meat canning demonstrations were held in Wayne county the past week, one in Winslow, January 11 and the other in Wayne, January 12.

Miss Mary Burbank, district home agent, demonstrated the canning of chicken by the hot-pack method processed in the pressure cooker, and beef by a new method being recommended by the bureau of human nutrition. Since the pressure cooker is the only method recommended for processing meats and non-acid vegetables, she demonstrated the use of a pressure cooker.

The pressure cooker at the Wayne county extension office is available for use to any homemaker in the county. Anyone who cannot purchase a cooker and who is interested in using one, should contact the extension office.

I left New Guinea, had my Christmas dinner on a boat and am now in my newly assigned company. It is really good to get back in an organization after being a replacement for a while. "I suppose you folks are right in the middle of winter now. We have plenty of rain and sunshine. The nights are fine for sleeping, though I'd just as soon be sitting by one of Mr. McQuinn's Coleman heaters now keeping warm. "Well, my news is scarce for now at least so before I close I want to ask if you will change my mailing address. My Wayne Her-

We had a nice turkey dinner with cranberry sauce, dressing and gravy—no nice mashed potatoes though."

I received your Christmas package last week. It came through just fine and is really nice. I like the soap very much. Anything which smells nice is sure like to use over here. The candy bars came through fine too and certainly fit the sweet tooth. Thanks very much for remembering me."

The young man, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Sals, writes the Herald as follows: "It's a beautiful day in the Pacific, an excellent day to bring in the New Year. However, it seems like a summer day at home. I hope the people back home are enjoying the full benefit of the New Year's celebration, snow and all."

The Herald is slowly catching up with me. For a long time it was four months behind time but now I'm caught up to the middle of October. I really enjoy getting it. Thank you for the swell work in getting the Herald my way. "I have a few Wayne buddies cruising around here in the vicinity. I never get the chance to see them. Someday I hope my luck changes. The lieutenant has been awarded the Purple Heart for wounds received when enemy flak broke the cockpit window of his plane and struck him in the shoulder, inflicting a painful but not serious wound. This mission was one of the most thrilling as one of the tires had been flattened by enemy fire and the crew, in order to land the ship evenly, had to shoot out the other tire. In Hawaii Lt. Boche met Dale Fuert, who was employed at the State National bank here before entering service, and Dale Steinrauser, Pierre, former Wayne college student.

Holiday Is Special Occasion for Men

Sgt. Don Powers, who is stationed in England with the air corps, writes his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Powers of Wayne, that Christmas was quite an occasion. Dinner, which was in the evening, included turkey and all the trimmings, pumpkin pie, candy and apples. A highlight of the evening was the fact that the enlisted men came in and sat down at tables and were served by officers. The officers later did the dishes. A swing band from a nearby base furnished music. Sgt. Powers recently visited London where he saw Westminster Abbey, House of Parliament, Piccadilly Circus and other historic sites. The young man had been on three missions up to the first part of December. He arrived overseas in November.

Given Permission To Visit Brother In Pacific Island. Pfc. Warren Lewis, who arrived here last Thursday to spend 10 days with his brother, Herbert Perry, and sister, Mrs. C. R. Lewis is in the marines and his brother was in the infantry. When the marine learned that his brother was on the island, he secured the special permission from his commanding officer to spend a few hours with Lt. Lyman. The day before the latter was killed, Pfc. Lewis was moved from Guadalcanal to New Zealand. He wrote from there and when the letter was returned, he knew what fate had befallen his brother. Pfc. Lewis, who made his home with the late Sheriff and Mrs. O. L. Lewis here when he was a kid, entered the marines in Oklahoma City four years ago. He served in the Pacific for many months and there contracted malaria. After a time, he was returned to the states and received care at Great Lakes station until he was moved to a special malaria camp near Klamath Falls, Ore. The youth has not had an attack since August so officers thought he could return to duty, though not in the Pacific. He has been assigned to the Hastings ammunition depot as guard and will report there after his furlough. About 4,500 men who have returned from the Pacific because of illness are in the camp which is about four miles from Klamath Falls. The altitude of 4,500, about 800 feet above the city, is especially good for these patients. Recreation and drills are provided at camp to rebuild the men physically. Pfc. Lewis was there about 18 months. Some require longer and others shorter time. One of the pretty sights from camp is Mount Shasta which is 73 miles distant. A naval air station is also located near Klamath Falls and men are trained as pilots. The city of Klamath Falls has grown to about 35,000 and is on the main lines of the Southern Pacific and Great Northern railroads. Sgt. Henry Hansen of Hartington, missing over Germany, is a prisoner of war.

Sugarless Cake Risks Too With Baking Powder as Given in Recipe.

It must be a non-smoker. In Kansas City, N. C. Neely, a laundry driver, saw a corrugated box fall out of a freight truck ahead. He stopped, opened the box and found it contained 10 cartons of cigarettes. He started in pursuit of the truck and, failing to overtake it, turned in the cigarettes to police.

Housewives who followed a recipe for "sugarless cake" given in a San Francisco newspaper found out why their product swelled to such alarming proportions. It should have been two and one-half teaspoons of baking powder, not two and one-half cups.

Ora Stumpff of Santa Fe, N. M., has filed an embezzlement complaint against a watch repairer. He thinks it's time he got his watch back. He says he took it in to have it fixed 23 months ago.

If Los Angeles all-dogs-must-be-on-a-leash law spreads to the suburb of Inglewood, it will interfere with the war effort. Tool-maker Kenneth Parkhurst lives in an auto trailer, and has no alarm clock. Skipper, a fox terrier, arrives every morning at 6:30 and scratches at the door until he is let in. The dog belongs to Mr. Parkhurst's brother who lives two blocks away. "Haven't been late yet," says Mr. Parkhurst, "and believe it or not, he doesn't bother me on my day off."

Trouble ganged up on Robert Kolb, Chicago. He left his hotel to get his car to drive to open his meat shop. He discovered the car was missing from its parking place. While walking to a police station to report the theft he was held up and robbed of $320.

Police Sgt. Charles Kemper of Decatur, Ill., rubbed his eyes when a $20 bill blew past him. But he swung into action when several other tens, some fives and a $100 bundle of greenbacks went scattering down the street. Passersby helped him round up a total of $377. Mr. Kemper investigated and found a warehouse clerk had arrived at a nearby bank with $7 of $384 she planned to deposit. The wind had scattered the bills.

Dixie, a bird dog owned by Bill Rennan, Chanute, Kan., looked on while the family was showing motion pictures taken in Australia and New Guinea by Mrs. Brennan's brother, S. Sgt. T. F. Varner. Dixie was startled and pleased when a group of small birds flitted across the screen. But the next scene scared the dog so she buried her head behind the stove. It was a closeup of an ostrich.

H. M. Hendrickson, Granville, N. D., wanted to be sure he got a job. He applied for position as doorkeeper in both the senate and house for the 29th session of the state legislature at Bismarck. He got 'em both and his name went down on both pay rolls—but not for long. He picked the senate position. The house is still looking for a doorkeeper.

"Bandits," observed Policeman W. S. Millett, Seattle, when three boys about 10 years old returned his missing pistol, "and getting younger and younger." But Mr. Millett only knew the half of it. The kids said, sure, they'd tell where they got the pistol. A couple of 5-year-olds gave it to them.

Robert Shapiro, 26, merchant from Mount Union, Pa., suffered an attack of indigestion in the Dale Smith was just a little late. Mr. Smith, owner of a roadside chicken dinner place at Grants Pass, Ore., walked into a newspaper office to place an advertisement for a New Year's eve party. The editor told him it was no use. While Smith was in town shopping the roadhouse had burned.

A vexed Youkers, N. Y., railroad company reported to police early one morning that one of the trolley cars was missing. Then followed a flood of calls from irate suburbanites. Bell clanging, the trolley had whizzed in unscheduled flight through a half-dozen communities and later was found abandoned 15 miles from its car barn. The motor man must have been an old hand, for he negotiated several electrically operated switches.
