Agency to Keep Peace Is Needed

F. S. Berry Speaks to Local Kiwanians Monday About Preventing War.

The international organization to be formed after the war must have the power to make aggressive nations behave, stated F. S. Berry Monday in addressing Wayne Kiwanians in observance of the 30th anniversary of Kiwanis International.

First Kiwanis club was formed at Detroit 30 years ago and the first in Canada at Hamilton 28 years ago. Now the 2,250 clubs have a membership of 138,000.

Founders of Kiwanis were interested in service and they gave emphasis to spiritual values. One of Kiwanis' interests lies in government and good citizenship. Mr. Berry quoted a Frenchman's truism which states that character is a result of heredity, environment and the time when one comes upon the stage of action.

Kiwanis has had wholesome heredity and environment. The organization was formed at the time of the First World War when the period included inflation, an era of spending and then deflation.

The club experienced rough times, but the very difficulties of the times gave Kiwanis a reason for existence. Kiwanis lives because of the service rendered.

The chief purpose of Kiwanis is to build and this refers to everything constructive. One of the 1945 objectives is to win the war and make lasting peace. The war is being won. Germany and Japan are on the way to defeat but the final push is necessary to reach victory.

Lasting peace will be another problem. After every major conflict in the past 300 years, stated Mr. Berry, there has been a peace publicly purporting to be permanent but each time it failed. Mr. Berry mentioned that in this state and in the nation, violations of laws are punishable. A power is furnished to enforce the decree of the court.

Mr. Berry believes that a force must be provided to maintain peace. International law was provided after the last war but no machinery was set up to enforce the decree. After peace comes this time, the speaker stated that the world must insist on having a power to enforce decrees of what ever international organization is set up by nations.

Rev. O. B. Proffit introduced Mr. Berry. Singing of "Kiwanis" was led by F. L. Blair, and "Marsellaise" and "Battle Hymn of the Republic" by Jean Boyd, Mr. Blair, Mr. Boyd and Wm. Beckenbauer sang and verse of the last number, Prof. Russel Anderson was accompanist.

Thirty-six members were present. Next Monday Supt. Stewart Bialler will speak on "Education for What?"

Two cards that arrived Sunday brought to Mr. and Mrs. John Lindsay most welcome messages from their son, Pfc. Wilford, who has been a prisoner of the Japs since Wake Island was taken December 22, 1941. The Wayne youth, who was moved at that time to the Jap prison camp at Shanghai, wrote that he is well and in good spirits and hopes to see home folks soon. He said he had received letters, and he asked his parents to say "Hello" to all his friends. He mentioned that weather had been very warm, much like Nebraska's summer. One of the cards was written July 12 and the other August 8, 1944.

The brief messages on both cards were printed by hand and the signature is Wilford's. The post cards bear Japanese characters.

The Lindsays previously have had two messages from their son since he was taken to Shanghai. The last word before the one coming this week was written in December, 1943, and reached Wayne in October, 1943.

Wilford entered service with the marines in November, 1939, and was stationed at Pearl Harbor a year before going to Wake island just a month before the Jap attack.

Donald Duane, another son of the Lindsays, has recovered from wounds suffered during the invasion of Palau island and he is on duty again in the Pacific. He has just been promoted to sergeant in the marine corps.

fair—theirs, perhaps long after the guns have ceased roaring, will be the ultimate victory.
“Meanwhile, in whatever overflowing measure, we the people will give what must be given, do what has to be done.”

Only second in importance to winning the war is that of maintaining public schools in competent hands, so says a bulletin from the National Education association. As emphasized, this can be done by making teacher pay commensurate with salaries and wages paid in other lines of work. The bulletin makes this concluding observation: “Only through teaching can the long campaign for human progress be won. Let us with every ounce of strength wage World War II on to victory. At the same time let us man the battle stations of education. Only men and women of ability and long vision can do the work of the schools—the making of citizens who are wise enough and brave enough to establish and maintain a dynamic world order without war.”

At the annual meeting of the Nebraska Children's Home Society in Omaha last week it was found that parental neglect is at the root of most child problems. Randall C. Blunt, executive director, reported case after case in which working mothers had neglected their children and thus increased the society's load. He explained that 70 per cent more children are now under care of the society than when the Japs bombed Pearl Harbor. It is found that home influences have suffered as a result of mothers taking men's places in industry. It is one of the tragedies of war—a tragedy which benevolent societies and thoughtful individuals are doing their best to overcome.

The steady march of Russia's giant army in the direction of Berlin encourages hope, though something adversely affecting the tide of battle might happen. In their desperation, the nazis may introduce surprises that will delay complete victory, but nothing of that sort has so far appeared on the surface. Also progress is being made on the western front where enemy forces are slowly retreating. Over-optimism is not safe until the final blow has been struck, and when that will come is a question in which few agree.

Persons who are doing all they can to help prosecute the war, contributing all within their power to essential branches, will not busy themselves finding fault with those they think are not doing enough. Some are able to do more than others, but those who are able to do comparatively little, may be doing their best, and their endeavors are highly meritorious.

President Roosevelt's fourth inaugural was comparatively simple and unostentatious. Crowds attending were comparatively small. The president's address was relished more because it was brief, and because what he said was sympathetic and constructive. Lack of pomp dovetailed with the seriousness of the war, and with attention centered on the struggle for allied supremacy on all battle fronts.

In studying a noble character one tries to figure out that he possesses similar values. In sifting the qualities inherent in a bad actor, one invokes himself to prove that he is different. Thus, an analysis of extremes is stimulating and probably helpful.

It is the constant desire of high-minded persons to hold to Christian virtues while prosecuting a brutal war, and to safeguard spiritual values while engaged in a terrific conflict to reinforce precious human freedom.

ELECTORAL COLLEGE.

A resolution has been introduced in the Nebraska unicameral asking congress to move in the direction of changing the federal constitution to abolish the electoral college. No one thinks the present system is necessary or worth while, but to get rid of it will require considerable time and some effort. Senator Fred Mueller of Kearney who made the move said: “The electoral college is obsolete and undemocratic in its results. The entire electoral vote of a state is cast without question for the candidate who received a plurality of the popular votes in that state. It is thus apparent the electoral college does not in any sense serve the purpose for which it was established.” Whether enough interest will be taken finally to remove the useless election appendage remains to be seen.

Prospect

used irrigation literally to lift themselves by their economic boot-strap.

“Nebraska has more miles of live water than any other state in the Union in proportion to its size. Nebraska has the largest amount of underground water of any state in the United States, and Nebraska has the largest undeveloped irrigable acreage of any of the 47 western states served by the Bureau of Reclamation, save possibly North Dakota.”

Many of them are on the farms and others in essential industries. The war manpower commission has ordered the re-survey of the farm lists by the local draft boards. Already more farm boys are being inducted, and the National Dairy Federation advises that if the farms are compelled to give up further workers, there will be a reduction of not less than five billion pounds of milk produced at a time when more milk is needed in every section of the country.

There are only 361,000 farm workers now deferred, between the ages of 18 and 25. Under the new orders of selective service system probably one-half, or nearly one-half, of them will be inducted before March 1. The department of agriculture stated that there now are only 2,048,000 hired hands on the nearly seven million farms of the country, workers of all ages. Already the word has gone out that the production of food products for 1945 must not fall below that of 1944. Apparently there will be a food problem looming up soon if the farms are to lose more and more of their workers. Congress passed the Tydings amendment to the selective training and service act, intending to authorize and direct local boards to defer registrants regularly engaged in agriculture, essential to an agricultural endeavor necessary to the war effort and irreplaceable. Only local boards can determine when a registrant is regularly engaged in agriculture, essential to an agricultural endeavor necessary to the war effort and irreplaceable. The national director of the selective service system insists that the continuing policy of his agency is to comply with the provisions of the Tydings amendment and that his recent directive to state directors neither requires nor contemplates any departure from the Tydings amendment. However, there is much opinion that the recent directive is ambiguous or has been too strictly construed by state directors and the director has been urged by many members of congress to clarify the directive. The director has not yet concluded that his directive needs clarification.

Tests Are Taken.

Seven wrote on teachers' examinations here Saturday.

The Japs are losing heavily. There is no present shortage of ammunition on either front except that due to impaired transportation on the western front in Europe. The statement of the admiral in command of the Atlantic fleet, that New York, Washington, and other seaboard cities would probably be attacked by robot bombs within the next 30 or 60 days, made big headlines in the eastern press, and many people again became alarmed over possibilities. The navy department headed off the small panic which the admiral's statement had started, by issuing a statement of its own, insisting that while such an attack might be possible, as almost anything is possible in such a war, it was not probable.

SENATOR VANDENBERG.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, captured national attention and a good deal of favor last week when he declared on the floor of the senate in support of a strong international policy to prevent future wars. It will be remembered the senator lost as a presidential candidate in the republican convention in Philadelphia in 1910, but he now disclaims any wish ever to become chief executive. Speaking of foreign policies he advised that the “present fraternity of war become a fraternal unity of peace.” To promote greater unity he is quoted as saying among other things: “I do not know why we must be the only ‘silent partner’ in this grand alliance. There seems to be no fear of disunity, no hesitation in Moscow, when Moscow wants to assert unilateral war and peace aims which collide with ours. There seems to be no fear of disunity, no hesitation in London, when Mr. Churchill proceeds upon his unilateral way to make decisions often repugnant to our ideas and ideals. What should the U. S. do? Honest candor compels the U. S. first to reassert in high places our American faith in the principles of the Atlantic Charter. These basic pledges cannot now be dismissed as a mere nautical nimbus. They march with our armies. They sleep with our martyred dead. The first requisite of honest candor is to relight this torch.”

In 1943, the president said regarding this form of legislation that it would create a lot more governmental machinery, complicated life, and make for increased regimentation. There are 4 1/2 million draft deferred men at present.

ification and insists that he has never intended to do otherwise than to follow the Tydings amendment. Members have pointed out to the director the danger of impaired food production through excessive draining of manpower from the farms and have reminded him that any existing surplus of manpower are not on the farms but are in industries that have unnecessarily hoarded labor and among civilian employees on the federal payroll.

The president's budget message proposes total appropriations of $83 billions for the coming fiscal year. Of that, $70 billions will be for the war. This year, the total budget is $100 billions, and that for war is $89 billions. Apparently it is deemed possible to reduce expenditures for war by $19 billions, and for all purposes by $17 billions. Should the war in Europe end before July 1, further curtailment of appropriations will become possible.

The national debt at the end of the fiscal year, next July 1, is expected to reach $292 billions. Should the war with Japan last a year after the end of the European war, it is possible that the debt may never reach the limit commonly estimated at present, but it may come close to it. The interest on the national debt now amounts to about four and one-half billion per annum, or nearly $400 millions per month. It is estimated that the interest charge may grow to $5 billions or more when the final debt limit is fixed by war conditions, an amount about equal to all the expenses of government a decade ago.

Looking ahead to the postwar period, the president suggests an endeavor to stabilize conditions by full employment, estimated at 60 million jobs, and possibly increasing wage scales and commodity prices to maintain the national income above the present level. Reduction of income and corporation taxes to help maintain buying power and promote industrial expansion and activities is another suggestion included. However, the postwar program for expenditures, including the rehabilitation of Europe and the rest of the world, will have an enormous influence on taxes and government borrowing, especially if congress shall pass the bills demanding almost unlimited loans to foreign countries. Connected with the plan for buying industrial products for export to foreign countries to the extent of billions, which loans in large part will never be repaid, will be inflation on a scale in which the OPA will have little influence.

Wallace SUPPLANTING Jesse Jones in the commerce department by the appointment of Henry Wallace was purely a matter of reciprocal politics as acknowledged by the president in his letter dismissing the incumbent. Manifestly, Wallace showed unflinching devotion to the chief executive and his new deal despite the fact that he was pried out of second place on the democratic national ticket. Wallace is so pronouncedly left-wing and such a happy and confident idealist that he sidestepped feeling hurt over the national convention setback. He forthwith buckled on his armor and went up and down the land preaching the gospel of the new deal and the indispensability of the president. This noble self-effacement, together with labor union influence, apparently prompted the chief executive to act.

The reason was not lack of efficiency on the part of Jones, nor promise of greater efficiency on the part of Wallace. The job involves handling billions of dollars, and every evidence indicates that Jones measured up to the responsibility completely. Wallace told the president he felt qualified to wrestle with the government's billions, and the president expressed confidence in what he said by appointing him. Jones whose public service was praised by the president and other Washington leaders, will find himself looking in instead of out because of the inexorable rule of politics. He had to be dislodged to pay a political debt.

Common SPEAKING of the vital force of the common people in the war and in shaping the policies of the world, the Omaha World Herald says in part:

“And it is these people, the common people of our land and others, who do the hard work, make the sacrifices and man the battlefronts, who alone can save themselves and the world. Governments cannot, rulers cannot and will not, but the irresistible sentiment and power of the people will. Theirs will be the final verdict. Theirs the responsibility today to carry on. Theirs to assert the dignity of the individual. Theirs to preserve the family as the unit of any decent way of life. Theirs to cultivate good will and neighborliness. Theirs to consider the other fellow's rights and point of view. Theirs to keep the social order wholesome; to show that men and women are indeed the children of God. Unless they fail in this—and they will not, for men and women are in essence decent and kindly and airs, probably ferreties and insular affairs and will keep his place on irrigation and reclamation. Senator Wherry landed posts on the judiciary and appropriations committees and Butler is on agriculture, finance bank and currency, irrigation, territories and insular affairs.

Nebraska members are told officially that the action of the government against some western railroads in an anti-trust suit may not come to trial for another year or more. The trial will be in the United States district court at Lincoln because of the overloaded dockets of federal courts in the east.

About 100,000 Japanese-Americans who have been interned will eventually go back to California or scatter to other states. About 5,000 of them will be sent back to Japan because they have stated they owe their allegiance to Japan.

Federal prisons population is now about 16,000. Department of justice officials expect it to increase to 19,000 in 1946.

When the big three meet to discuss the remaining problems of winning the war and the preliminary problems of peace, President Roosevelt should hold the trump cards. It is to the United States that both Russia and Great Britain must look for the major part of the implements of war. American made tanks, planes and artillery enable our allies to keep on fighting.

The forces back of a national conscription act are pushing hard for early action. The endorsement of the proposed legislation in the president's message to congress has been seized upon as an important argument for the legislation. But congress seems inclined to study the question. One senator has addressed a letter to the president in which he points out that more harm than good would be accomplished so far as production of war materials is concerned, and asked that something be done to prevent the hoarding of labor by some of the big industries. Everybody wants the armed forces to be fully supplied at any cost, but even when production was so large that war industries were being closed down and men were being discharged to hunt jobs elsewhere, there was pressure from certain sources for the same kind of an enforced labor law as that now advocated.

In 1943, the president said regarding this form of legislation that it would create a lot more governmental machinery, complicated life, and make for increased regimentation. There are 4 1/2 million draft deferred men at present.

Writes from Italy.
Cpl. Gene Olson, son of Mrs. Lucille Olson of Wayne, writes from Italy as follows:
"December 27: Your letter of December 3 reached me today. Seems odd to hear of Thanksgiving days when we have already had Christmas dinner. It was a wonderful meal and consisted of 34 different foods. Meats included turkey, chicken and sirloins. Dinner was served from 1 to 6 o'clock. I think our company has the best food on the continent.
"In our spare time we are building a house around our tent. The stove smokes all the time.
"January 11: The days are short and the nights are so long. I have finally learned to play pinocle which I had always thought an impossible game. Cards are a great pastime.
"I have been to town twice, but there is really nothing to do. One leaves camp to get away and then can't wait to get back. The people here are suffering from effects of war. Nazis took most of the stock and children beg for something to eat.
"Write me everything that goes on. No matter how short a letter is, it sounds good."

NOW IN BELGIUM WITH PATTON ARMY
"I wasn't too much impressed with Germany," writes CWO Frank E. Grahek, son-in-law of the James Hamptons of Carroll, in a letter from Belgium January 6. The soldier is with Patton's 3rd army. "What I miss most is that we were more or less ghost towns, very few civilians. The people were sullen looking and I didn't see any who waved or smiled.
"The Belgians are certainly a friendly lot and the ones I run into mostly speak French. One can't help but notice the difference as one crosses from France to Belgium. The Belgian towns are so clean. Even when nazi planes came over and blasted, as they have been doing for some time, these people waste no time in cleaning up the rubble and debris.
"Right now, more than any time since we've been overseas, it seems a natural winter. It has been awfully cold and we've had lots of snow.
"We had turkey and lots of it for both Christmas and New Year's.
"Our mail is being delayed since we've been in lots of countries, but the Dutchy of Luxembourg is the one that caught my fancy. Had some mighty good ice cream.
"Made several trips back to France and even got to spend two days in Paris. I was there on business. The second night I managed to get to what they call Montmartre, the night club section on the Rue Pigalle. Attended the floor show.
"The young man says his Christmas packages reached him in Germany but he did not have time to open them until he reached Belgium."

Drama Is Planned By Wayne Players

Program Is Presented for Local Group Thursday At Meeting Here.

Wayne Players, meeting in the woman's club room Thursday evening about 50 present, decided to present a play in April with the woman's club as sponsor. Mrs. H. E. Ley, Miss Lenore Ramsey, Mrs. Howard Fisher, Mrs. Don Wightman and Miss Ruth Ross are on the committee to make a selection.

Mrs. F. S. Berry spoke on the organization's accomplishments and future plans. Prof. Russell Anderson talked on the mechanics of speech.

Activities of Group. Mrs. Berry, who spoke on the group's activities, was served as contact chairman between the woman's club and Wayne Players the past five years.

Mrs. Berry mentioned that the little theatre movement has supplanted what was once known as the home talent play, and Wayne has proved large enough to support such an organization. A wealth of local talent has made it possible to maintain high standards and to contribute to worthy community causes. The group has 54 members. This educational, non-profit organization is devoted to advancement of the American stage. Miss Ruth Ross is president. Henry Ley vice president and T. S. Hook secretary-treasurer.

The Players have provided about $200 in the woman's club.

The first meeting of Wayne Players was called February 19, 1939. Mrs. Berry explained, and then Henry Ley acted as temporary chairman. Dr. L. F. Perry was elected president and Rev. W. F. Dierking secretary-treasurer. All adults, interested in the drama were invited to join.

The first play sponsored by the group, "Big Hearted Herbert," was presented April 20, 1939. The woman's club gave $400 from this for the library. Players presented two dramas for the fall of 1939 and "The Bad Man" for Kiwanis club. "The Bachelor's Diploma" was given for the Chamber of Commerce in December, 1941.

The group enacted "He Ain't Done Right by Nell" for the Chamber of Commerce war bond and stamp drive program in October, 1942. The drama, "Mr. and Mrs. North," was given in June, 1942, for the woman's club and proceeds of $100 used for a war bond. "The Night of January 16" was sponsored by Our Redeemer's Aid. Another play, "Goodnight Please," was given for the Chamber of Commerce in December, 1942. Two plays, "The Still Alarm" and "Dark Wind," were shown for cadets at the college in April, 1943. "Arsenic and Old Lace" was enacted in April, 1944, and about $110 realized for the woman's club.

In addition to the plays, the group has had short plays and reviews for its meetings, furnishing good clean entertainment for members and others. "Wayne Players have an honest right to the support and encouragement which they justly deserve," Mrs. Berry concluded.

Give Short Drama. Mrs. S. B. Shively directed presentation of the one-act play, "Tobacco Alley." Parts were taken by Dr. and Mrs. R. P. Cuff, Prof. and Mrs. C. H. Lindahl, Mrs. Paul Evans, Dr. S. B. Shively, Prof. C. V. Wait and Frank Landreth.

Get more war mileage out of your Studebaker

KEEP YOUR CAR UP TO PAR WITH MORE MILEAGE SERVICE

NOBODY knows how long war conditions may continue. This means that all cars—even brilliantly engineered, soundly built Studebakers—should get expert maintenance attention regularly.

Your car may have to serve you for some time after new-car manufacturing starts—and right now there's no way of telling when that will be.

Frequent car inspections are more advisable now than ever. And remember, Studebaker service is more mileage insurance. It saves tires and gas as well as cars.

Is in Battalion With Good Record

Sgt. Edgar Friedrich of Norfolk, brother of Mrs. T. J. Hughes of Wayne, is with the 751st tank battalion of the 26th army in Italy, which holds a two-to-one edge over the nazis. The battalion has knocked out or destroyed more than two enemy tanks for each casualty of its own.

From the start of the Italian campaign the 751st tank battalion has been in the thick of things. On the day of the landing on Pasolini beaches, seven crews of the battalion destroyed 13 nazis tanks. By the time the 5th army reached Venafro, the 751st worked with the 36th and 731st infantry divisions. When terrain was unsuited for tanks the 751st men slipped out of their armor and worked with the infantry.

After the 5th army successfully broke through at Anzio, the 751st pursued the enemy and made an early entry into Rome. Later the division helped reach the Arno river. The unit spearheaded attacks against Pisa and Viareggio after forcing the Arno river. In subsequent action the division functioned as armor and as artillery.

At Aleutian Base. Cpl. Cletus J. Storer writes from the Aleutians that one copy of the Herald reached him and he is anxiously waiting for others. "They mean so very much more here." The Wayne youth, met Don F. White, former Wayne student, who is a first lieutenant in the coast artillery at the northern base.

Is in Hospital. Pfc. Dale Brockman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Brockman of Wayne, entered a hospital in the Philippines December 27 to receive cure for yellow jaundice. He writes that he expects to be all right again after a couple months' rest and a diet that includes plenty of fruit juices. He has a bed with mattress and pillow after 21 months on canvas cot that is usually dusty and sandy. The youth says he craves ice cream and good cold milk, though he never liked milk at home.

Promoted in Italy

Lester O. Lutt, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Lutt of Wayne, a half-trusty gunner serving with one of the most active B-24 Liberator heavy bomber groups in Italy, has recently been promoted to the grade of staff sergeant. He has taken part in several successful combat missions over enemy occupied Europe and has seen action over Italy, France, Germany, Austria, Hungary, Rumania, Poland and Yugoslavia.

Sgt. Lutt entered the service December 5, 1943, and received his gunnery training at Lago, Tex., and Pueblo, Colo., before going overseas.

Word from Overseas

Sgt. Allan Perdue, who has been in England, writes that winter here is a pleasant surprise. He jokes to Nebraska as far as temperatures are concerned, but the air makes it seem cold. The sergeant tells that "the group he is with" work well, sleep dry and have USO plays and shows for entertainment. He continues by telling that all the men are waiting for the day when they will come home.

The youth expresses thanks for the many Herald's you have sent. They may be two months late, but the important thing is not when, but that they come! We are a long way from home and for far too long a time, but we will never forget the friends back there and enjoy reading how they are getting along.

Pilot Is Assigned To Veteran Group

First Lt. Kenneth E. Cline, pilot on a B-24 Liberator, has recently been assigned to an 8th air force Liberator group based in England and is now flying in bombing attacks on targets in Germany. Mrs. Cline, the former Jean Foster, is residing in Wayne with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. N. Foster.

The airman is a member of the 392nd heavy bombardment group, commanded by Col. Lorin L. Johnson of Payson, Utah. The unit is one of the older members of the second bombardment division, commanded by Major General William E. Kepner.

The 392nd participated in the long struggle to cripple decisively Germany's war machinery, bombing submarine and ship yards, aircraft, aircraft factories, synthetic oil works and the flying bomb sites. Its 20th mission was made Anniversary day.

Leaflets Dropped Ahead of Invasion

Leaflets which were dropped in Germany by American flyers before the D-day invasion of the continent took to the German people a message which has been kept from them by nazi dictators. One of the leaflets brought back by T. Sgt. Andrew Martischang, son of Mr. Elizabeth Martischang of Wayne, is headed, "How shall it end?" The message, in the German language, tells the accomplishments of the allied nations and explains how the Germans will be cared for when they capitulate. Also dropped with the leaflets were ration stamps for meats, showing the people that food will be available after surrender. The air officer explains that this procedure is followed in every such invasion and the language of the country is always used.

One of the precautions taken to safeguard American flyers is that of furnishing them with money of the countries over which they travel on each trip. If a trip is to be taken over France, a flier is provided with about $140 in French money. In case the plane goes down, the flier thus has money that is readily usable for supplies he needs and for paying the "underground" for helping him back to his base.

The number of missions a flier completes varies with the type of ship. On a heavy bomber, it is 30. T. Sgt. Martischang, waist gunner, completed his missions over the continent from an English base in about six months and then remained there another six months to instruct. He earned the distinguished flying cross.

T. Sgt. Martischang arrived in the states recently and he and his mother spent the holidays in the Alhambra Martischang home in Denver. Another son of Mrs. Martischang, 1st Lt. Frederick, who is personnel officer at Camp Howze, Tex., was unable to be with them.

Rachel McIntosh of Pilger, and Rollin D. Craig, pharmacist, second class, were married December 30, 1944, at Riverside, Cal.

A fire January 15 burned nearly everything in the office of the Farmers Union, number 103 at Stanton. The loss is estimated at $2,000 and is covered by insurance.

Not Stubborn-- Just Tired. Sure! Tractors get tired. They ache in the worn bearings; they creak in the loose joints; poor alignment of gears is a toothache, and faulty ignition is a bad case of heartburn. Maybe they keep on going, but they can't do a real job of work. We are specialists in the cure of tired John Deere tractors. We put new life into them because our factory trained experts spot and cure all these ailments before they develop into a serious case for a major operation. Don't wait for your equipment to "sit down" on the job. Bring it in to us for inspection and overhaul. Only Genuine John Deere Repair Parts. B. J. Brandstetter & Son. PHONE 276 WAYNE, NEBR.

Memorial Service Is Held at Laurel

Sgt. Kenneth Dalton, Native Of Carroll, Loses Life In French Sector.

Memorial services were conducted Friday morning at St. Mary's Catholic church in Laurel for Sgt. Kenneth Dalton, 26, son of Mrs. Wm. Dalton of Laurel, formerly of Carroll. The youth was killed December 22 in France where he was a tank operator. Deceased was a nephew of Bernard Dalton. Members of the American Legion were honorary pallbearers and friends of Kenneth were pallbearers. Laurel Legion had charge of rites and one of the group presented Mrs. Dalton with an American flag. Laurel high school and the rural district deceased attended closed for the service.

The officer had earned the silver star for saving comrades from a flaming tank.

It was July 16 when the youth's tank received a direct hit, setting it afire. He was wounded and severely burned about the face and arms. Disregarding his injuries and in spite of the exploding ammunition and heat of the flames, Sgt. Dalton crawled back into the tank and rescued all of his crew members, dragging them out one by one. In addition to receiving the silver star, he was awarded the purple heart for his bravery and heroic action. The youth spent three months in a hospital in England and then returned to the front where he lost his life in December.

Kenneth Dalton was born at Carroll October 26, 1919. The family moved to Minnesota and returned to Laurel about 17 years ago. He was graduated from Laurel high school in 1936 after which he helped his widowed mother, Mrs. Viola Dalton, operate the farm until he entered service more than two years ago. He had been overseas 17 months.

Besides his mother, the youth leaves five brothers and two sisters, Darrell, somewhere in Italy, Donald who has a physical discharge due to a broken back suffered in a jeep accident when training in Tennessee, Jim who operates his mother's farm since Kenneth left, Marlin who is now in Texas, Marjorie and Madeline who attend Laurel high school, and Richard in rural school.

When Johnny Climbs Out of His Last Foxhole...

Some day Johnny, who is using his telephone training in the front lines, will climb out of his last foxhole and return to his job with the telephone company. When he does he will find a hearty welcome. His skill is needed and he is an honored personal friend.

About 60 telephone men and women have already returned and are at work with the Company. We are glad to have them. In meeting postwar telephone needs, we'll need their help and that of all the 1,300 others from this Company who are in military service.

Meeting peacetime telephone service needs will require not only the help of returning veterans but much material and millions of dollars of new capital which will have to come from people who are willing to invest their savings in the telephone business.

Want ad in the Kansas City Star: "Will exchange my interest in the hereafter for productive load on clean, furnished apartment or house. I'm desperate."

Radio announcer Julian Harris of Kansas City, hadn't gone far from the taxicab before the driver started honking insistently. "My wallet," thought Harris, "perhaps I've left it in the cab." It was something else. The driver handed Harris the pack of cigarettes he had left on the seat.

Preparing a snack for friends she started to open cardboard container labeled "Chow Mein Noodles." The label fell off to reveal the name of a popular dog food. wife muttered as she pried off the lid. She sampled the contents warily and found they were noodles.

King county jail inmates at Seattle, Wash., who know well the meaning of "getting the book thrown at you" in court, have learned a different version. Seattle Council of Churches presented the jail with a 3,500-volume library valued at $6,000 for use of the inmates.

At Chalk Buttes, Mont., Jim Keith sports a nifty home-made pair of overalls of plaid bed ticking. A search of a half-dozen communities and several mail order houses failed to turn up a pair of ordinary work overalls, he said, so Mrs. Keith went to work with thread and needle and made her husband one of Montana's best sheepherders.

Totin' a gun out west is every-day stuff to a cowboy, but it brought about the arrest in New York City of Robert B. Bowler for violation of New York state's Sullivan law. Mr. Bowler, however, was paroled by Magistrate Charles E. Ramsgate when he produced a California permit and explained that the gun was a necessary prop-in the Madison Square Garden radio where he performed.

Albuquerque, N. M., police, peering over their records, found they had arrested a man twice during the time he was supposed to be a prisoner in the county jail. No need to worry, the prisoner reassured them, they weren't seeing double. When they caught him, he was out as a truster.

Filling Station Operator J. F. Gish at Albuquerque, N. M., saves unnecessary words when out of high grade gasoline. He drapes the pump in black.

The robbers refused to listen and one slugged him. Richard W. Smith, 23, youngest man ever to hold the office of county attorney at Miami, Okla., won't waste any time having his mettle tested. One of his first cases involves man-slaughter. And representing the defendant is a former district judge and one of the ablest criminal lawyers in this section--J. J. Smith, Dick's father.

The "meanest thief" says Minneapolis police, is the pickpocket who stole $150 and a railroad ticket from Jack Peterson, 18-year-old blind ex-service man. Mr. Peterson got to his home in Benson, Minn., however, two girl workers in the veterans information and referral office giving him train fare.
