

Project by Nebraska Federation of Women's Clubs—Chicken Shortage—On Trail of Music Czar—No. 1 Farm Problem—Invited to Public Reception in Portland—Disclaims Connection.

The Nebraska Federation of Women's clubs has launched a threefold project—planting memorial trees for service men and women, clearing away dead timber and erecting honor rolls. The last-named has been provided here under War Dad sponsorship.

An acute chicken shortage is now reported. Storage supplies are running alarmingly low, and Omaha hotels and restaurants no doubt reflect in their reports of scarcity a generally prevailing condition.

Trimming Petriello's Sails. James C. Petriello, Musicians' Union chief, has become such an incubus and nuisance in the music world that legislation is proposed in congress to curtail his powers.

Taking Farm Boys. Stripping farms of boys for the armed forces threatens a serious problem in production. Farmers do not complain, nor do they question the need of the course pursued.

Naturalization Program. The Herald has received from Elmer Lundberg, president of the Portland, Ore., Americanization Council, an invitation to have attended Thursday evening, February 22, a public reception for newly naturalized citizens.

Elmer Lundberg who was evidently a leading spirit in the late citizenship ceremony, went from Wayne to the Oregon metropolis many years ago. Here he taught school, ran a newspaper and practiced law.

Alike in Name Only. "Hook" is not so common a name that one would often hear it along the highways of the world.

Park Development Will Be Promoted

Preparation Is Started for Recreational Center After the War.

Development of the city-owned 60-acre tract a mile north of Wayne into a recreation park was discussed Monday evening when a meeting was called of those who donated toward the purchase of the site for this purpose a few years ago.

Some time ago about 80 public-spirited residents contributed to the fund with which the tract was bought. All but $2,000 of the purchase price was subscribed.

In addition to receiving the land, the city was given the Country club house and equipment which are valued at about $2,000.

A committee of citizens asked the Chamber of Commerce recently about the advisability of starting the park planning so that the site will be ready for development as soon as the war is won.

The committee was instructed to ask that the council rent the land this year for small grain and that grass be seeded and trees planted at the park this fall.

Mr. Parke explained that most workers in the nation's 3,700 Red Cross chapters are volunteers, though some chapters have executive secretaries when the work is so great that it requires full time.

Mr. Parke mentioned a few of the services provided men in the armed forces by the Red Cross. Contacts are made to report on health and welfare of boys and of their families.

Unit Is Cited. A letter from Lt. Col. Harold N. Holt, commanding officer of the 366th fighter group, received Monday by Mr. and Mrs. Lueders, tells of a special unit citation awarded the group. The message reads as follows:

HEREABOUTS LEAST HINDERED BY LATE SNOW IN NEBRASKA

LAST week while Omaha and Lincoln and other parts of the state were digging out of deep snow, with highways blocked and travel impeded, this section was free from snow storm, and traffic was uninterrupted.

Film Presents Gettysburg Address of Lincoln in Dramatic Setting.

Wayne Kiwanis, meeting Monday at Hotel Stratton, heard a talk on "American Red Cross Services for Service Men" by K. N. Parke and saw a motion picture, "Nor Long Remember," presented by Dr. Geo. Seck.

Mr. Parke explained that most workers in the nation's 3,700 Red Cross chapters are volunteers, though some chapters have executive secretaries when the work is so great that it requires full time.

Food and articles of necessity are provided for prisoners of war. The Red Cross aims to get one package of concentrated and dehydrated foods a week to prisoners.

Reproduction History. The film, "Nor Long Remember," is a dramatic presentation of Lincoln's Gettysburg address, the settings and dialogue being historically accurate.

In the picture small town characters are shown in a store discussing the president's address after its delivery at Gettysburg. The village teacher defends Lincoln's speech against the jibes of others.

Cancel Feeders' Day. Feeders' day at the college of agriculture, Lincoln, in April, has been cancelled because of ODT travel regulations. This is the first time since 1913 that the meeting has not been held.

Through some of the most difficult fighting terrain in the snow-covered ridges, and innumerable points that are "naturals" for enemy ambushes, these combat engineers have cleared mine fields, constructed by-passes, repaired roads and constructed bridges to facilitate troop movements.

Internee Is Safe In Santo Tomas

Leila Mitchell Maynard Is Among Those Rescued In Philippines.

Mrs. C. F. Maynard, the former Leila Mitchell of Wayne, a prisoner of the Japs in Santo Tomas, Manila, the past three years, is safe and well, according to a telegram coming to the C. O. Mitchell here Thursday, February 2.

The message from the provost marshal general in Washington, D. You may send free through American prisoners of war information bureau, this office, one only 25-word message."

The Wayne folks immediately sent the permitted 25 words. A letter arriving Saturday from New York offices of the Relief for Americans in Philippines explains that "persons liberated will be sent home as soon as the military situation permits and the army is able to release shipping space for that purpose."

The news letter brought an address which may be used in writing to released persons. This is: "American Red Cross, Civilian Relief Section, APO 412, care of postmaster, San Francisco. The Mitchells have also taken advantage of this means of getting a letter to Mrs. Maynard."

Get Personal Letter. A letter written by Mrs. Maynard February 6 from Red Cross headquarters at Santo Tomas and received Monday by the Mitchells reads as follows:

"At last it's nearly over! Received today eight letters from home. This business of being rescued by the advance troops of the American army is proving to be one of the most dramatic things that ever happened almost worth the long interment. I can hardly write intelligently, having been on the crest of a wave of intense excitement."

citement for three days. You cannot possibly imagine what it means to see our own rugged, fine upstanding soldiers, to see and have good food, to have people looking after you and wishing you well—all that once nothing after three years of petty persecution and hatred. And to get mail from home and to be allowed to write and to know that you'll have this in a few days. Well, it's no wonder I'm incoherent.

"About me—I came through in fine shape. I have many wonderful friends in here and did not even go hungry very much and then only for a month or two. I weigh 139 which may seem quite a loss to you but I have seen too many starve to death and die of malnutrition to think that a loss of 20 pounds is important. I have never been ill or idle. I have worked and studied constantly. Have learned to speak Spanish and Italian and have two and a half years' credit in scholastic Greek. I could go on and on but I hope to see you soon. I applied this morning for transportation home and only one thing will be lacking. I have no news of Brick (Major Maynard) except that a letter written last April said that he was all right. If only he comes through all right and I am able to be with him again, I shall not feel any bitterness about this experience.

"Today life seems to be overflowing with goodness. I just had a piece of sweet chocolate, the first bite of anything like that for more than six months. Daddy, I want apples and ice-cold buttermilk, so lay in a supply. Maybe you can't get the apples just now, so make it appeasable. You do get so hungry for something besides rice and corn. But I have been so lucky compared to hundreds and hundreds of others. Today the army is bringing in food convoys and we should receive tomorrow our first ration of raisins, chocolate and cheese. The soldiers have already given us almost everything they had with them.

"I know you will communicate right away with the Karos. Tell son I had his letter and am simply shaky in the knees to think that I may see him again before long. I still can't quite believe it. I have to file this letter in a few minutes but they tell me I can write again in a day or so. And I will and I'll sail for home at first opportunity which should be within a few weeks. How proud I am to be an American! This wonderful army we have! I can't describe how I feel. My emotions are all in tatters. In fact, I'm virtually delirious. Still have my fingers crossed because we're not quite out of the woods yet. But God willing, I'll be home before too long, and what a story I have to tell. I'm a little shaky from excitement but very happy. I hope you tell the truth when you say you're all well. I'll write again, probably to my son next time. With a heart full of love and thankfulness, Leila."

Anxiety Heightens.

Americans liberated the Santo Tomas camp February 4, and the anxiety of more than three years heightened as names of the rescued were released. It was a great relief for the Mitchells when favorable word came Thursday. Pic. Llewellyn Whitmore, who was at Nichols field, and Lt. Col. Dick Hunter, who was on Bataan, are others from this vicinity yet to be heard from.

Mrs. Maynard has spent about 10 years in the Philippines. Her husband, Major Clarence F. Maynard, who was captured in the fall of Bataan, is in Zentsuki war prison camp on the Isle of Shikoku, Japan. He was burned quite severely during the capture when he was destroying official papers and maps but he recovered from this injury.

Mrs. Maynard wrote in May, 1944, to her son, Arnold Mitchell Karo of Lyons, and the youth, who is nearly 17, received the message last fall. In that she said, "I am well and very busy." Word came last October from Major Maynard stating that he was well and asking members of the family not to worry.

Lover of Horses Has Big Surprise On Her Birthday

Patsy Hook, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Hook, had the major surprise of her life on her birthday, February 25. It should be understood that she is a powerful lover of horses. During a couple of summers Clarence Preston loaned her the use of a horse belonging to his son, Jason, who is in army service.

So, when Patsy's birthday came, Clarence Preston, appreciating her devotion to the animal, gave it to her. Her schoolmates knew of the proposed gift, but with rare restraint kept the glad news from her. She went with joy which, as anyone with average sensibilities would admit, was the proper thing to do.

Patsy has taken all care of the horse when it has been entrusted to her. She saw that it had clean quarters with plenty to eat and drink. She gave it extra currying last fall when she entered it in a running race at the county fair and won second place.

People who know of Patsy's energy and good sense in applying herself to every task, will applaud the gift as eminently deserved.

Fats Are Needed For War Purposes

Military and industrial uses demand more fats immediately and all homemakers are urged to help salvage 250 million pounds of used household fats in 1945.

Kitchen fats are used for explosives, for trench and chemical mortars, for airplane cannons and dynamite and for medicine for military purposes. The strong antiseptic and insulating which are so vital in treating the wounded, along with smallpox vaccine and nicotine acid are made from used kitchen fats. Coatings that protect implements of war, synthetic rubber and printing ink require fats.

Miss Mary Burbank urges each homemaker to save kitchen fats for the great need. She asks each to place a metal container in the kitchen near the stove and form a habit of pouring the fats into this. The filled cans should be turned in to the grocer or butcher.

OBSERVANCE PLANNED BY ROYAL NEIGHBORS

Wayne camp No. 207, Royal Neighbors of America, will take part in the nation-wide observance of the 50th anniversary of the society as a fraternal benefit organization. The local observance is planned next Tuesday, March 6, when 50-year members and others will be honored. The Wayne camp has 175 members, 67 of them juveniles.

In the 50-year period ending March 21, Royal Neighbors have grown to a membership of more than half a million. The society operates a home for aged and dependent members near Davenport, Ia., and maintains a fraternal fund to assist worthy and needy members.

World War II has placed emphasis on patriotic work of the society. Royal Neighbors invested $17,208,425 in war bonds up to last December and raised $25,000 for the Red Cross blood plasma service.

Tire Shortage Is Real

Appeals to retread, repair and reuse every worn and usable tire must be heeded if the nation is to avoid a serious breakdown of rubber-borne transportation this summer, according to Col. Monroe Johnson of ODT. The nation is living far beyond its income and using up its inventory as far as tire consumption is concerned, Johnson states. The critical situation will likely continue through the year.

The Claude Stanleys moved from Dixon to Carroll.

The purpose of the lesson is to help the homemaker analyze the job of ironing and to suggest methods of simplifying ironing to make it easier. An easy way of ironing and folding a shirt will be demonstrated.

Dairy Feed Payment Period Is Changed

Wayne county AAU committee will make payments on dairy production for the months of January, February and March beginning April 1 through May 31, 1945. LIMIT CONVENTIONS TO SMALL GROUPS

Conventions, conferences and group meetings which have an out-of-town attendance of 50 or less, in addition to local attendance, will not require permits, according to announcement by office of defense transportation. This action was taken because the task of reviewing applications which have been pouring into the office of the war committee on conventions has become so burdensome.

Subsidy THE government's steps to curtail travel and places of amusement in the interest of war efficiency have their roots in too much money in circulation and too little heed to wise economy, as pointed out by the Omaha World Herald. And in that connection that newspaper emphasizes the folly of "consumer subsidies." Speaking of an expenditure of $1,263,900,000 in 1944, as estimated by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, the World Herald comments in part:

"This billion and one-quarter dollars does not go to the destitute on the basis of their need. It is paid out equally to all who buy meat and butter, flour and milk, raisins and prunes, a multitude of other commodities. The profiteer benefits equally with the slum dweller, the Black Marketeer in the same degree as the family of the man who is serving overseas. It is a nationwide charity, shared in by all who buy food—and eventually they will have to pay the money back to themselves, with compound interest.

"Many curious things happened in the early days of the war when the government at Washington undertook to cross its do-good, almsgiving policies of peace with the hard-boiled realities of global conflict. But none was more preposterous... face of it, none contributed more directly to the difficulties of the times than did the consumer subsidy. It is a monstrosity and it should be repealed."

Support vs. Freedom SPEAKING of Sir William Beveridge's latest book, "Full Employment in a Free Society," in which the ultra-liberal English author conceives a society in which the individual surrenders control and responsibility to the government, the Norfolk Daily News makes this concluding observation:

"Americans have shed blood enough to fill several good-sized lakes for the privilege of minding their own individual businesses, and we suspect that they will keep right on insisting that that is a right which they are not going to surrender even to the most plausible schemer for a New World."

The story of a wounded soldier on return to his native America, appearing in a current magazine, warns against thought-

Netherlands Nationals have large investments in the United States. Queen Wilhelmina owns an apartment house in Washington in which there are about one thousand apartments, all occupied, and there is a waiting list. Warren Buffett, 15-year-old son of Congressman Buffett of Omaha, delivers papers to that apartment building and makes $140 a month doing it.

The U. S. patent office is 155 years old. The first patent was issued to a man named Samuel Hopkins of Vermont for "a method of making pot and pearl ashes." In the last 109 years of operation, patent office receipts have exceeded cost of operation by more than two million dollars. More than two million patents have been granted.

General Hines of veterans administration tells members of congress that nearly 400 thousand veterans of World War II are now on the pension rolls. He estimates that by the end of 1946, the number of World War II veterans that will be receiving compensation on account of illness and service connected disability will exceed 900 thousand.

At the last regular Tuesday morning breakfast meeting of the Nebraska delegation, principal attention was given to ways and means of getting more machinery, labor and transportation into Nebraska to help farmers. The work of each individual member of the delegation is supplemented by the collective action of the group in contacting appropriate agencies on problems affecting the state of Nebraska. An interesting visitor at this meeting was the father of Senator Kenneth Wherry of Pawnee City, Neb., who is here visiting his son and family. He is 83 years old.

According to present indications, less remarks by greeting countrymen. A soldier with a scarred face or with limbs off recolls from the stares and indiscreet inquiries of persons met in the course of travel. People are naturally sympathetic and kindly, but unintentionally they often say and do the wrong things. Injured boys are given every advantage of modern surgery, and they are restored to normal as quickly and completely as possible. Their great, burning desire is to move back into civilian channels with least delay and take up the tasks of civilian life, not unnecessarily burdened by consciousness of what they have suffered. Friends may help by exercising tact.

Surplus commodities accumulated for the war, are now being offered for sale, and the Surplus Reporter mentions things from pickle dishes to refrigerators. Included are 1,376 pickle dishes, 48,244 aluminumware and enamelware saucers, 853 coffee boilers, 368 meat dishes, 42 used refrigerators and 6,250 pairs of washbone type of spurs. These are sold out of regional headquarters in Kansas City. A bulletin explains that the spurs would make attractive book-ends, flowerpot holders or other useful household gadgets. They could also be used to encourage unwilling horses if there are any.

We doubt if farmers want government subsidies to induce them either to decrease or increase production. On the contrary, we think they would prefer amply compensatory prices based on demand with no strings attached. We believe they would rather be independent and aloof from anything that smacks of Washington control. Farmers are accustomed to doing their own planning and naturally shrink from subservience to remote chair warmers who know little if anything about the intricacies and responsibilities of agriculture or the livestock industry.

Hitler's threats to German soldiers undoubtedly keep up fighting resistance. Obviously, the thing being done is to postpone the inevitable. Fear of consequences to ruthless nazi tyrants increases a needless sacrifice of life. Speaking of Berlin's fate, the Norfolk Daily News says: "Berlin is a bombed city, and what little hope of salvation there is for it, lies in an early surrender rather than in last ditch resistance."

Westbrook Pegler emphasizes Henry Wallace's dizzy ideas by explaining how he has had in mind the building of a concrete highway from New York to Paris by way of Alaska, the Aleutians and Siberia. Henry is also interested in developing air lines, and one of these to the moon would seem in order, financed by the United States.

More than hints or mild reprimands would seem necessary to stop strikes. Soldiers are not likely to resist interrupted war production while they are fighting and risking their lives for future citizen safety. The least a worker can reasonably do is to stick to his job and see that nothing is done to hinder the march to victory.

John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers' boss, whose picture appeared in the press on the occasion of his threat of a bituminous coal strike, would look more reasonable and more agreeable if he would straighten out the curves in his mouth when he poses for a photographer. Or was he caught unaware?

there will be no new post-war aviation legislation passed for some weeks to come. The reason is the interstate commerce committee is occupied with hearings on proposed amendments to the Railroad Retirement Act. When that business has been disposed of, the committee expects to take up pending aviation bills.

Washington traffic and transportation problems are many and difficult. More than 975 thousand people go and return from work each day. Nearly 40 thousand people work in the Pentagon building; about 17 thousand in agriculture and 10 thousand or more in commerce. Many of these have found living accommodations in Maryland and Virginia. Both states profit greatly from these resident government employees that are obliged to pay state income tax.

J. C. Penney, head of the Penney stores organization, talked to a group of 50 congressmen the other day on the question of "The Golden Rule" in business. He told the congressmen that the Golden Rule would solve all of our world affairs if it were really carried out in a real Christian manner. He told them how in 1902 he started his first store at Kemmer, Wyo., and now he has 1,600 stores and a number of farms in Missouri. Mr. Penney told the congressmen that he is now close to 70 years of age and he attributes his success in life by trusting his fellowman and following the principle of Christian teaching. He is now making trips all over the United States and Canada to tell his story to leaders in business, the professions, and labor.

Sgt. Lena Bauman of Pierce, Neb., visited the Third district office. Sgt. Bauman is stationed at Arlington hall where about 16 thousand people are employed in connection with vital matters in the war effort. Her duties are confidential. She is the daughter of the late Julius Bauman. She expects to spend a furlough at home in May.

The Pentagon building where 40 thousand people are employed in connection with the war, was once expected to be converted to storage space for valuable government TRIVIALITIES. Lincoln was derided when he made his immortal Gettysburg speech. Faults based on trivialities were lodged against him. But they had little influence in clouding the big things he had done or in determining his outstanding place in history. All other great men have experienced attempts at detraction by contemptible littlenesses. The spirit may be one of envy. It may be a futile endeavor to lift mediocrity by pulling down a great and useful character. The habit of picking flaws in high merit or extraordinary achievement is largely restricted to idle or envious minds striving for but unable otherwise to gain coveted limelight—unfavorable limelight being deemed better than none. But high-minded does like Lincoln and Washington, rise higher and higher in the hall of fame, while their detractors become lost in dark oblivion.

A few years ago the soy-bean was an agricultural crop of China, used largely for human food. It was not grown in America until recent years. Today, as a result of research, it has become one of the most valuable crops of our mid-west farms. The passage of the Anderson bill, could mean much to the future of our American farmers and to the economy of the nation.

The general accounting office is backing a bill to provide punishment including prison sentences for those who are paying "commercial bribes" to obtain war contracts. It is charged that original contractors are adding to their profits by compelling sub-contractors to kick back part of what they have earned under the contracts. Even when such cases become known, all that the government does is to sue for the civil amount of sums paid as such gratuities. It is high time that congress should pass such a law, and insure its enforcement.

Incidentally, the comptroller-general of the United States includes within his denunciation the "cost-plus-fee" contracts which became the system when our country commenced preparations for war, even over very strong congressional opposition. It was then urged as a "necessary evil" to prevent combinations of contractors from obtaining exorbitant profits. As production costs of war commodities in huge quantities were unknown at the time, it was urged that the "excess-profits" taxes would protect the government. Things did not work out that way. Through subsidiary corporations and sub-contracts the fees (or profits) were pyramided just as they were under the "cost-plus" contracts in the first World War. It is an iniquitous system, one which has permitted those producing billions in war goods to obtain outrageous profits. The comptroller-general estimates that the system has added 50 billions of dollars to the costs of the war. One of the first big jobs of the post-war program should be to thoroughly investigate the practices and the profits of those who seem to regard terrible wars as money making field days.

Possibly the more important agreement arrived at was unity among the United Nations in the prosecution of the war against Germany with the promise of attacks on all sides. The creation of a united war staff will aid in bringing such assaults to an earlier conclusion. It would seem that this better understanding should mean victories on all European fronts swift and certain. As to Russia joining in the war against Japan, nothing is said in the report. There are arguments that because the San Francisco conference meets on the very day that Russia's neutrality treaty with Japan expires, Russia will enter

NEEDS MODERNIZING. Disengaging to the executive branch of the government powers that belonged to congress is working to the disadvantage of that body, according to the Saturday Evening Post. That magazine suggests that the law-making branch ought to be modernized and streamlined. As pointed out, congress has forfeited much control over expenditures of agencies which it created. It is emphasized that congress should equip itself to restore normal functions rather than allow agencies to operate as spenders with too little restraint. With the backing of the CIO and other left-wingers, Wallace was appointed to the office of secretary of commerce with the prospect of handling great sums of federal money. Says the Post: "The powers which congress had abdicated in time of past emergency could now be used to defy the current policies of congress." The Post suggests that congress should control its lending agencies. Though passage of the George bill modifies Wallace's authority in case of his confirmation, many still look askance at his appointment on account of his visionary ideas. "Now that congress has seen how its policies could be defied," says the Post, "to the grave peril of democratic institutions, the members may shake a leg in putting the people's legislature abreast of the times."

The need for H. R. 295 has been fully demonstrated during the present war, because our country has been completely cut off from its source of supply from foreign countries of scores of vital agricultural crops which are so essential to our American economy. We should make our country and its economy as nearly self-sustaining as possible. It is believed that scores of vital plants, now grown exclusively in foreign countries, can be profitably produced on American farms. An excellent illustration of the value of scientific research in connection with American agriculture is the development of our soy-bean crop the war in the Pacific, but there is nothing said officially as to such prospects.

The Criecean conference of the "Big Three" is over. The three United Nations leaders, each accompanied by a staff of assistants and advisers, met for eight days. The report of agreements arrived at was more ample than the reports of preceding conferences. It has been received as evidence of mutual understanding which will make for an earlier end of the war and the establishment of a world organization to insure peace in the future. The world conference of nations will assemble in San Francisco on April 25. The president has already designated the eight representatives of the United Nations at the meeting.

ANTICIPATE CHANGE IN FOOD SUPPLIES
United States civilians should have plenty to eat during the first quarter of 1945 but they should expect sudden changes in the stocks of certain foods, WFA points out in announcing an emergency allocation of 113 million pounds of meat to the armed forces.
Compared with the last quarter of 1944 civilian allocations for January-March are: Meat, 15 percent less, decrease mostly in veal, lamb and mutton with slightly less pork and beef; butter, about two pounds less per person; per capita consumption is expected to be about 10 pounds in 1945 compared with 12 in 1944; other fats, about 225,000 tons less than consumed in last quarter of 1944; condensed and evaporated and condensed milk about the same.
Of the non-allocated foods, civilians will have plentiful supplies of eggs, fluid milk, citrus fruits and most fresh vegetables. Most of the canned fruit and vegetable supplies are being rationed.

ASK FOR INCREASE IN EGG PRODUCTION
Principal reasons for the recent increase in the national goal for egg production on farms in 1945 are: Increased requirement for dried eggs for supreme headquarters, allied expeditionary forces; larger estimated egg consumption by civilians this year.
The goal was increased to 4,350 million dozen eggs from the 3,920 million dozen suggested earlier.
Farmers are urged to get their checks early to take advantage of the fall and winter laying season. The national goal can be achieved with average production from the number of hens and pullets on farms as reported January 1.

IMPORTANCE OF FOOD IS BEING STRESSED
A statement issued by President Roosevelt stresses the importance of food in the war. He states that during the past three years every American who has played a part in the job of growing, conserving, harvesting, distributing and processing the food supply has done a magnificent job. This year the demands for food at home and abroad are greater than before and it is essential for every man and woman to do everything to help in the huge task of getting food produced and seeing that it is conserved and shared.

Response Is Good From State Women

Response from Nebraska women in the state-wide campaign to enlist medical assistants in the women's army corps for duty assignments in crowded United States army general hospitals is encouraging.

The first platoon of Nebraska recruits in the "Purple Heart" campaign will be enlisted in honor of the 134th infantry regiment, Nebraska's own fighting men who left as a national guard regiment months before Pearl Harbor.

Urging eligible women to visit WAC recruiting substations in their areas, Capt. Bruce F. Dorbo, WAC public relations officer, declared there is now a "pressing backlog of requisitions for WAC medical and surgical technicians. We need women to work under professional supervision to help with blood transfusions, serve as ward masters, feed helpless ones, see for the sightless, write letters for the armless, keep essential records as medical stenographers, a multitude of specialized duties only a woman can best fulfill."

YOUR NUTRITION COMMITTEE presents

Food For Folks

In cooperation with STATE AND NATIONAL NUTRITION PROGRAM

(Mrs. R. M. Carhart, nutritionist)

Turnips and Rutabagas. Turnips and rutabagas are high in food value while they are low in calories. A pound of these gives twice as much vitamin C as the body requires in one day.

Some suggestions are made for cooking root vegetables such as turnips and rutabagas. Start in boiling salted water, about one teaspoon of salt to a quart of water.

Fish Is Protein Food.

Fish gets a top spot in protein foods. Fish contains materials needed for growth and repair of tissues. Fish may supply this diet necessity for children if bones are carefully removed before serving.

When buying fish, be sure they are fresh. If the eyes are bright the fish are good. Truly fresh fish have bright scales or skins, bright colored gills and are free from odor.

Value of Soybeans.

Soybeans, first grown as valuable feed for livestock, are now found to be valuable additions to the vegetable clan for humans. Dried they yield such products as flour, milk, curd, refined oil for salads or cooking purposes and soy sauce.

In general soy flour goes best in recipes containing finely ground flour such as wheat and rye. It goes well in breads, cream soups, sandwich fillings, scrambled egg roll and similar foods.

About Iodized Salt.

Iodized salt is ordinary table salt with iodine compound added. Because it is effective in keeping the thyroid gland in good working condition and in maintaining physical well-being, iodized salt is included in the diet of every service man.

that is enough to fill a definite body requirement.

Regarding Beef Cuts.

From the standpoint of food value, all lean beef is similar whether it comes from the cheap cuts of grades or from the more expensive ones.

One method of tenderizing is to break the tissue by pounding or grinding. If the pounding method is chosen, flour should be pounded in at the same time to save juice and flavor.

into many meal schemes. The second tenderizing method is "moist heat," slow cooking at low heat with some liquid. The meat may simmer in its own juices, drawn out by steam, in water that has been added, the juice of vegetables cooking around it or in tomato juice.

Any acid, like that of tomatoes or vinegar, is an extra aid in tenderizing meat. Sometimes the French, who are known as economical cooks, let not-to-tender meat stand in French dressing for several hours. The vinegar in the dressing softens the tissue, the oil provides flavor needed by lean meats and a tender piece of meat is the result.

Whatever kind of meat one has, it is well to remember that low heat brings out flavor while a hot fire toughens and shrinks the meat.

Undergoes Appendectomy. Duane Orte of Wayne, underwent an appendectomy in a Wayne hospital Tuesday.

Situation Better In Northeast Area

The stored corn situation is not as serious in Wayne county as in some other counties in northeast Nebraska, according to County Agent W. R. Harder. Corn that is still piled on the ground needs immediate attention. A number of cattle feeders have indicated they will buy ear corn if they can secure trucks. However, they cannot accept shelled corn until it is dry enough to store without heating. Farmers have fed much of the immature corn and it is thought there is not more than 10 or 15 per cent of the crop on the ground.

T. P. Roberts, AAA chairman, and County Agent Harder will be glad to assist farmers with corn problems in any way possible.

See No Relaxation.

Chances of approval by the war committee on conventions on any non-local meeting of more than 50 persons are "extremely slim," Col. J. Monroe Johnson, director of the office of defense transportation, and chairman of the committee, said in commenting on the official government ban on conventions, which became effective February 1. In addition, the CDT director said that all organizations "should give serious consideration to the advisability of voluntarily canceling or postponing all meetings during the critical months ahead."

Surplus Being Sold.

The treasury's office of surplus property announced that the sale of consumers' goods amounted to $13,264,703.12 during the month of January. These items were mainly surpluses that were turned over to the treasury by the army and navy.

Stickers on Cars.

M. E. Rawlings of Sioux City, OPA director, warns each motorist to be sure that the windshield of his car bears the gasoline sticker showing the highest gasoline rate.

Checking of Oats Is Being Urged

Marion oats are recommended for higher ground and Boone and Tama for lower ground, according to Dixon County Agent Howard Gillaspie. Farmers are urged to check oats supply now. OPA rules that all oats, unless tested and carries over an 88 per cent test, must be sold under a ceiling of over 88 per cent and free of weed seed suitable to Nebraska weed laws, may be sold as seed without a ceiling. It has been taking about four weeks to get a return on seed oats tests. Those who have oats that they think would make good feed and could spare it for seed, a sample may be taken into the county agent's office where the sample can be prepared for mailing.

SEWING CIRCULARS MAY BE OBTAINED

"Time Savers in Sewing," extension circular 471, "Dresses and Aprons for Work in the Home," farmers' bulletin 1963, are now available according to Miss Mary Burbank, district home agent. "Time Savers in Sewing" was planned to help homemakers save time and energy when sewing. It contains pointers for equipment, tips for using patterns and suggestions for making seams and finishes. The other bulletin contains illustrations of dresses which allow for free action and coolness through short sleeves or ruffles and wings instead of sleeves. The dresses are easy to make and launder. These circulars may be obtained at the Wayne county extension office.

As a step in transportation conservation, schools and colleges have been urged by Col. J. Monroe Johnson, director of the office of defense transportation, to cancel their spring vacations this year.

Mrs. Bertha Pfeil Passes Away Saturday at Home At Advanced Age.

Funeral rites for Mrs. Bertha Pfeil, 92, of Hoskins, who died Saturday, February 17, were held Thursday, February 22, at the Home for Funerals in Norfolk and at Trinity Lutheran church, Hoskins, with Rev. R. F. Bittorf in charge. Burial was in Hoskins Lutheran cemetery. Pallbearers were Gustav Schmidt, Ernest Puls, Herman Puls, Herman Buss, E. O. Dehmer and Herman Nitzke. Memorial wreaths were given for the old people's home, Omaha, deaf mute institute, Detroit, St. Paul school building fund, Norfolk, and the Lutheran radio hour.

Mrs. Pfeil's maiden name was Bertha Wilhelmine Raasch. She was born November 10, 1852, near Watertown, Wis., the daughter of Martin and Wilhelmine Maeske Raasch. She was baptized and confirmed in the Lutheran church and remained a faithful member throughout her life.

Deceased came with her parents to Norfolk in the early days. She was married to Edward Pfeil of Hoskins, November 11, 1875, and the latter died 35 years ago. Bring Art Exhibit For Public to See

March 8 will begin a series of community showings of "Paintings of Summer," by Mildred Terrett. This is an exhibition of original water colors, selected by Wayne branch of A.A.U.W. from 17 exhibitions which are organized and circulated by A.A.U.W., national headquarters.

The exhibit will first be shown for study at A.A.U.W. meeting March 8, and at Woman's club March 9. Two days of public showing are then planned, after which the pictures will be loaned to the city high school and the college. Hours and places of showing will be announced in next week's Herald.

The Terrett show was chosen because its 37 pictures were painted simply for fun, during the artist's summer vacation. They are full of sunshine, blue sky and water, and ask the spectator only to enjoy their serenity and happiness. Miss Terrett painted what she saw in the fishing villages of Peggy's Cove, Nova Scotia, and Nantucket, Mass.—seashore, boats, light-houses and fishermen's homes.

Although Miss Terrett is a gifted artist, she is neither formally trained nor a professional painter. She is a social worker in Washington, D. C. Her experience includes war service in France during the last war. Since the paintings selected for exhibition were done over a period of 15 years, it is interesting to note the increasing skill with which the artist works.

Library News

Have you heard any of your neighbors say, "It turns me up to read about sending butter and beef to the people of Europe, when I can't get enough for my family." We hope this was your answer: "Lady, that butter and beef are buying future peace for your children. The women of Europe won't forget that we helped to feed and clothe their families when they were in desperate need; and you can be sure their children will grow in friendship for the United States."

There may be some things even you don't understand about our foreign policy and our proposals for the peace. Why not learn the why and wherefore by asking at the public library for the book, "An Intelligent American's Guide to the Peace, by Summer Welles?" This is an excellent reference book telling you about all the countries in the world, their history, lands and peoples, the economic policies and their stakes in the peace. It is concise and easy to use to find any information you are seeking. A book of maps which is handy to use in connection with this book is put out by Fortune magazine and called Look at the World. Until we learn to look at these new maps we have never really had a good look at the world and it is time we were getting that look.

Other new books received this week are, The Bolinvars, by Marguerite Bayliss, Always with Me, by Margaret Nichols, Red Fruit, by Temple Bailey, a new mystery called Darkness of Slumber, The Thurban Carnival and Image of Josephine, by Booth Tarkington. For the reference shelf we have a new book of authors of the 20th century which supplements the other short biographical sketches of authors of today and yesterday which we have had.

Market Feeders From this Vicinity

Go. Roggenbach and his son-in-law, Arnold Siecken, of Wayne, sold 38 heifers in Omaha February 12 at $15.50 to share top honors on that day's market.

While in the city the men were interviewed by reporters from the Omaha-Journal-Stockman. They stated that they believe inability to obtain lumber with which to construct corn cribs is hampering efforts of some northeastern Nebraska farmers to get 1944 corn off the ground.

"We've got quite a little soft corn that we're worried about," Mr. Roggenbach declared. "We don't want to lose it if we can possibly help it, either. It's not only a case of what it is worth, but it's too bad to see feed spoil in times like this."

Mr. Roggenbach declared, "There are a lot of good cattle on feed between our country and down around Wisner, but I'm afraid even that it won't be possible to feed all corn on the ground or in the fields now."

The heifers the men sold were purchased early last fall and were put on full feed of shelled corn, alfalfa and linseed oilmeal as quickly as possible. The men have steers to market later.

The farmers told that weather conditions in this locality have been more favorable to feeders this winter than in some other sections.

Washington, D. C., February 15, 1945. That part of the high moisture corn problem that is dependent upon an increased supply of empty box cars is still in difficulty for reasons that have recently been explained to the Third district office by the general traffic manager of the commodity credit corporation, Chicago, who, in a letter, says, among other things: "The empty car situation west of Chicago due to continuing snow and cold weather east of Chicago has been increasingly more acute since 1 last wrote you. Western lines have probably lost 50,000 cars net to eastern lines since January 1, 1945. Normally Chicago should receive about 700 cars daily from eastern lines, but to date these receipts have been averaging around 200 cars or barely enough to take care of loadings of war material in the Chicago area. The Association of American Railroads reports that the accumulation of cars at Buffalo was cleared up this week and if this is correct there should be an immediate material increase in the number of empty cars moving west. There are, however, nearly 1,800 closed elevators in the area west of Chicago and it will take weeks to clear up this situation. You may rest assured that the war food administration, the office of defense transportation, the interstate commerce commission, the Association of American Railroads and the individual railroads are fully aware of the prospective loss of corn if it is not moved before germination starts and are doing everything humanly possible to prevent such loss."

From sources wholly outside of congress have come plans for modification of the organization of congress and for increase of salaries of members of congress. No proposed increase of members' salaries is traceable to any bill introduced by any member of congress and the agitation is from without and not within congress.

Seventeen members of the Cotterman family were interned in the Philippines by the Japanese. In Washington, there was an unconfirmed report that C. M. Cotterman, formerly of Albion, had passed away some time ago. The state department, still unable to confirm or disprove this and similar rumors, has promised to report to the Third district office when the army releases lists of liberated internees.

Herbert Brownell, chairman of the republican national committee, has made frequent visits to Washington recently. He tells Nebraska here that he plans to be in Lincoln in March to visit relatives and to confer with republican party leaders in the state.

When the war is over, the government damage corporation will be called upon to settle damage claims aggregating hundreds of millions of dollars. Claims are already coming into the government for war damage done to property in the Philippine islands.

The R. F. C. tells the Third district office that the government is now paying met subsidies at the rate of 40 million dollars a month, butter subsidies at the rate of 5 million dollars a month, and flour subsidies at the rate of 9 million dollars a month.

Attorneys general from several mid-west states have been in Washington conferring with Attorney General Biddle and members of congress regarding federal operation of certain truck lines. The state officials say if the practice continues, states may lose considerable revenue due to the fact that when truck lines are taken over by the government, they become tax exempt. Attorney General Walter Johnson of Nebraska was a leading figure in explaining the states' side of the question to congressman. A congressional committee has been selected to see what can be done to help the states through negotiations with the attorney general of the United States and through legislation.

The state department is growing by leaps and bounds. In 1933, the appropriations for the department ran around $16,000,000. For the fiscal year 1946, the cost will be around $78,000,000. As axis held countries are liberated by the allies, the cost of the American foreign service will increase.

There will be some curtailment of work in our ship-yards, and 150,000 men will be transferred to other work. It is announced that a large number of employees will be placed in repair yards. Ever since lend-lease was started our ship-yards have been busy making repairs to the naval vessels and merchant shipping of our allied nations. Inasmuch as our countries have not had extensive naval battle experience the past year, the repairs have amounted to reconditioning. Our own navy has been doing most of the hardhitting, especially in the Pacific. Over two billion dollars have been spent upon the repair of foreign ships. Our yards have been turning out merchant ships at the rate of 120 per month, principally of vessels of 10,000-ton capacity, averaging more than four per day.

The temptation of the nice, long banister on the stairs leading down to the lobby of the Union National bank at Kansas City proved too much for one man. As he reached the top of the stairs, he glanced wistfully downward, then turned to see if anyone was looking. He straddled the banister, whisked down to the bottom—made a perfect landing in front of surprised bank patrons.

Hugh Larimer feels the citizens of Oklahoma City didn't react correctly to his little gag. Mr. Larimer, dressed in part of a nazi officer's uniform he had received from his son-in-law overseas and walked into a drug store. A half dozen women employees armed with bottles of hand lotion closed in ready to pop him. Then a customer engaged him in conversation till police arrived. Newton, Iowa (Special)—Hopes of civilians for new washers at an early date were given a rude jolt today by Fred Maytag II, president of The Maytag Company, who declared that recent setbacks on the European fighting fronts had wrecked all prospects of a return to peacetime production for many months to come.

His statement was in answer to a query as to how The Maytag Company's acquisition of a new war contract to produce several million dollars worth of aerial bomb fuses for the Ordnance Department would affect possible output of peacetime products.

"So long as Maytag facilities are needed for war production, washing machines will wait," he said. "When our fighting men ask for more ammunition, we don't want to have to tell them there isn't enough; because the folks back home are too busy building washers."

Maytag said that last fall when certain of his company's major contracts were completed and schedules on others were being cut back, it appeared that new washing machines might be available early in 1945. "All this has now changed," he said today. "Our machine shops and assembly departments are being tooled not for washers, but for the production of aerial bomb fuses and other new war products. Our aluminum foundry, down to one shift last fall, is back on a twenty-four schedule producing Royce engine crankcases and other important aircraft parts."

"It is always thus in war," he said. "Changing conditions on the battlefronts bring new demands for more and different kinds of products, and we stand ready as always to change our production with the shifting tides of battle."

Last fall when war production schedules were being cut back, The Maytag Company obtained a spot authorization from WPB to produce a limited quantity of component parts for Maytag washers, though not in assembly or sell complete washers. Maytag said today that it was doubtful if these parts would be assembled into washers before Germany's surrender, but that the program had served the useful purpose of keeping workers and equipment busy while his company retooled for new war contracts. "These pilot operations," he said, "carried on when war production was slack, will have served to shorten the time required for reconversion to peacetime production when VE Day arrives and our fighting men start coming home to their old jobs."

Officers chosen for the Journey club which now meets each school day except Wednesday during language period are Jo Ann Powers, president; Harold Surber, vice president; Thomas Myers, secretary; Miss Ruth Roberts is the student teacher.

Thursday students from the 2nd grade came to see the squares 4th graders have knitted for Junior Red Cross.

From Third Grade. The spelling record last week was unusually good. Over half the group had all words spelled correctly. Illustrations of some stories of the jungle were drawn for a moving picture show. Children had a Washington's birthday party Thursday.

Second Grade Notes. Last week was an exciting one for all students. They celebrated George Washington's birthday one day and Margaret Seeck's the next. Marlan Carlson brought two pictures of Mr. and Mrs. George Washington.

Pfc. Melvin A. Schmucker was killed in action February 9 in Germany, according to a telegraph coming to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anton Schmucker of Emerson.
