

Visitors Accomplished by College Cafeteria — Satisfactory Meeting Here — Home on Furlough — An Unfavorable Record — Kickers as an Asset — Modifying Blue Devils — Points and Cash.

But for well made plans by the college cafeteria to feed visitors attending the music contest here last week-end, the town would have been in a sorry plight to meet demands. The college had the capacity, ample help, sufficient supplies and firm determination, and an otherwise vexing problem was solved. It would seem otherwise no considerable number of persons could have been invited to come here.

Lack of public eating places down-town is doubly aggravating on special occasions. It is recalled that the only hotel in town was built some years ago through the cooperation of public-spirited citizens. The purpose was to induce more travelers to stop here, and to accommodate conventions and other visiting groups. In suspension of meals services the original plan has miserably miscarried, and what was intended as a help has proved a disappointment. Former stockholders who gave financial support to a worthy enterprise must now feel incensed.

But we are encouraged to believe the eating handicap to the town will not last long. Experienced hotel and restaurant men are looking this way. Some have been here. Others are reported coming. It is not conceivable that aroused public interest will permit the town long to remain bogged down in the matter of eating accommodations. We are assured by ration board authorities that plenty of points are available to meet any reasonable need.

Music Contest. School boys and girls who came to Wayne for the two-day music contest, were uniformly pleased with the accommodations afforded and the cordial treatment received. The buildings and equipment are found ample. Determination on the part of the college personnel and Wayneites generally to be agreeable and helpful plants good will that is certain to react to the advantage of the institution and the town.

Trind to Religion. Chas. McCConnell who was connected with the Herald during his school days, later employed in the advertising departments of different metropolitan newspapers, was here on a furlough last week. And speaking of Christianity among service men, he said it was general and real. In a world torn by war, soldiers suffering multiplied perils, are led more than ever to look above and beyond the immediate for comfort and assurance. Reporting for a new assignment, Charles does not know whether he will be held overseas or whether he will remain longer in this country.

Without an Equal. Sometimes Wayne receives unwelcome publicity. We note by the Lincoln Journal that this town had the lowest percentage of votes in its late municipal election in the state. The record should fire citizens to change it.

Spur to Achievement. A few chronic kickers are probably desirable. They kicking spurs achievement. They prod people to sense what is needed and do what is opposed. Real hundred-percent kickers contribute no cash, no effort to do anything constructive. Besides letting general public appeals flounder and sink, they would prevent every local improvement until values would flatten and "for rent" signs would stream from every other dwelling. A few kickers focus attention on popular needs. Too many would spell paralysis and doom.

Cultivating Encouragement. With an evident over-production of blue devils, due to unusually harrowing times, one is warranted in grabbing any indication that offers encouragement. Hope should spring eternal as the old saying suggests.

Housewives' Extra Burden. Husbanding food points and dishing them out with due care, usually falls to the lot of the housewife and adds measurably to her already heavy burden. In these days earning the dough with which to buy supplies is only part of the task. The balance lies in using government stamps with wise economy and heading off threats of want. Time was when one could satisfy even a dizzy whim if he had the cash. Now he must be accompanied by points. And it is customarily up to housewives to steer family barks safely away from the rocks of painful scarcity.

ASSISTANCE FUNDS COME FOR COUNTY. Wayne county assistance funds for April arrived this week and include: Old age, $2,370.50 (state and $2,343.95 federal); blind, $38.75 (state and the same federal); child welfare, $131.94 (state and the same federal). Administrative expense is $134.55.

Dedicate Trees At Wayne Park

K. N. Parke Is Speaker at Rites Honoring Service Personnel Sunday.

"It is fitting that we plant these trees as living memorials to those who serve for us," stated K. N. Parke Sunday afternoon at services dedicating trees at Memorial park to men and women in service. The speaker went on to say that trees make fine memorials. They combine beauty and utility and grow upward and outward, expressing an expanding hope and promise. "As these trees grow... may we be reminded of the unfinished task before us and be filled with the determination that the work shall be finished. May a true spirit of dedication be experienced by all of us on this Arbor day."

The speaker stated that V-E day and V-J day will not mean that the job has been finished. "That job will never be finished until men can live together in peace, until greed is wiped out and the products of our farms and factories be so well distributed that no one goes hungry or cold; so that men may work and earn a decent living; so that children may have equal opportunities; so that the products of our scientific thinking are used for construction rather than destruction, for advancing life rather than for bringing death." That job is for the living.

Mr. Parke used Lincoln's Gettysburg address as a model. "Our fathers, our brothers and sisters, our sons and our daughters, are serving on far flung battlefields in camps, in forts, on ships and stations, and on the seven seas, in an effort to prove to the world that nations so conceived and so dedicated have a right to endure. We are met this afternoon to dedicate this park and these new..." (Continued on Page Three)

Pilot of Lightning Fighter Is Killed

Lt. Marvin E. Thomas' Plane Disappears When Unit Goes Into Clouds.

INDIVIDUALS directly interested in saving their farm lands from being drawn into the frequently flooded Logan have undertaken the expense of diking some dredging to deepen and straighten the stream. They will make some headway in controlling high water and reducing losses, but much work will be necessary, and success in conserving fertile soil will depend on cooperative effort and an expenditure of considerable cash. Flood damage to bridges as well as to neighboring farms might reasonably justify the county to lend assistance. As a community to which every acre under production contributes, Wayne is vitally interested in seeing avoidance of waste. Destructive floods from the Logan happen often enough to cause serious doubt when a crop is planted, and united efforts to bring permanent relief would appear a sound and reasonable course.

Lt. Marvin E. Thomas' Plane Disappears When Unit Goes Into Clouds.

Lt. Marvin E. Thomas, 28, pilot of a P-38 Lightning fighter plane with the 9th air force in Belgium, missing over Germany since February 8, was killed in action, according to a telegram coming from the war department Friday to his wife, the former Ruby B. Surber. Word received February 26 stated that he was missing.

A letter written April 7 by Major E. A. Bradburn, air corps chief in Washington, D. C., informed Mrs. Thomas that Lt. Thomas had taken part in a mission to Schleiden, Germany, February 8. "During this mission at about 3 p.m., southeast of the target, the formation was subjected to enemy anti-aircraft fire," the major states. "After the final pass on the target the formation pulled up into a cloud and when they emerged your husband's plane had disappeared. It is regretted that crew members of accompanying Lightnings were unable to furnish any other information relative to the whereabouts of Lt. Thomas. There were no other persons in the..." Scientific Facts Are Dmonstrated

Post War Reconstruction Will Be Discussed for Kiwanians Monday.

Scientific demonstrations were presented to Kiwanians Monday by Dr. W. G. Ingram. He showed the actions of a gyroscope by use of a wheel, and explained that many instruments in planes involve the principles of the gyroscope and the aneroid barometer.

He also demonstrated high frequency electricity. Using a million-volt generator, he showed the spark with frequency so high that the current travels the surface of the human body rather than going through it.

Prof. O. R. Bowen of the Kiwanis education committee, presented Kiwanis membership buttons to Ed. Meese, Wilmer Griess and Ismael Hughes, and extended a welcome to them.

"The production of paper for civilian use has decreased again, hence, the supply is more critical than ever. All of us must conserve paper."

About buying and brewing coffee

COFFEE that's wisely purchased and carefully brewed will be really good coffee. Here are some plain facts about buying and brewing it.

BUYING COFFEE Choose the blend that you find most satisfactory to your taste. Some are smooth and mild—some are rich and robust. Buy it every day, once a month, boil it out in soapy water to freshen it.

BREWING COFFEE Clean containers and coffee makers are required, if you want good coffee. Keep vacuum-packed coffee in its own container. Before transferring store-ground coffee to your pantry container, make sure that all the old coffee has been removed.

AMERICAN COMFORTS

when, to say the least, all generosity on their part had completely disappeared.

Second Year More Trying.

The second year of internment was more trying by far. Supplies of all kinds became depleted and it was impossible to secure many items. Prices steadily rose and inflation began in earnest with the withdrawal of Philippine currency and the issuance of Japanese military notes. Each individual secured money as best he could by borrowing or by selling personal belongings. Many like myself bought food and necessities and put them away for use in the very uncertain future. While there seemed to be plenty of rice, corn and camotes (like sweet potatoes) in the camp stocks, the diet became more limited as the months rolled by, and requiring supplementing in order to be palatable and reasonably well-balanced. People who for one reason or another had not purchased supplies when they had been available began to feel the effects of insufficient food. Medical supplies were nearly exhausted and the camp as a whole before the end of 1943 felt the pinch of want. Many of those not previously interned were brought into camp. To make room for them, over a thousand internees were moved to Los Baños. A great deal of concern was felt about the future. Then, late in the year, about the middle of December, we received the Red Cross food kits and medical supplies. That was the big event of 1943 and the effect on camp health and morale was wonderful. Hundreds of people literally took a new lease on life, gained weight and regained former cheerfulness. Carefully budgeted, the food received by each person could have supplemented his diet for possibly four to six months. Many consumed it all in as many weeks and no one could make it last for a year. And so the effects, while good, were temporary.

Struggle of Endurance.

The year of 1944 was one long struggle of endurance as one by one our few remaining privileges were removed, restrictions increasingly imposed and petty persecutions multiplied. Hardly a week went by that did not see our conditions worsen. All contact with the world outside was officially ended; we were forbidden to know any news, to repeat rumors or to discuss the war. All shops, markets and "tiendas" were closed. Conveniences such as hot plates and electric irons were confiscated. The small rations of tobacco and soap were continually reduced. Our food allowance was repeatedly cut and we were forced to deposit our remaining funds in the Bank of Taiwan. We were made to stand in line for roll-call twice each day under Japanese inspection. We were ordered to bow in Japanese fashion to the officers and sentries and members of the commandant's staff. After the Americans began to appear over Luzon in September, we lived under rigid rules of blackouts and could move about the campus only at specified hours each day. Ascertaining that the approach of the American forces had completely disrupted all transportation facilities, the Japanese reduced our food and fuel rations again and again. Illness and death increased. The hospital lacked food and little could be done to alleviate such deficiency diseases as beri-beri and scurvy. Just before liberation, we were receiving a little less than half a pound of food per day per person. It consisted of poor quality rice, cracked corn, some soybean meal and a few greens from the camp gardens. People were in a pitiful condition and often faint while standing in food lines.

Situation Is Serious.

An excerpt from my diary for December 31, 1944, reads: "The end of 1944 finds me still in fairly good condition but surrounded by people who are weak and hungry. Many dying of slow starvation. Hundreds are mere skeletons. There are women as tall as I who weigh 70 to 90 pounds and men who weigh 110 to 115 who formerly weighed 180. The appearance of many people is appalling. The food we are receiving is far below normal requirements, although the commandant still says that there is no starvation in camp. It is painful beyond expression to see children and old men going through the garbage cans trying to find an edible scrap of food and to see them scrapping the serving counters where a bit of mush has been spilled. Many people beg outright for food and thievery is rampant. Every conversation, I think it is safe to say, turns to the subject of food before it ends. If indeed, it concerns any other topic to begin with. The Americans are near by. Our planes go over every little while. There have been a lot of bombings but still the weeks go by, our rations are cut again and again, and our army doesn't come in. We have only our moral and patience is hard for the hungry. Everyone says, 'Soon now. It can't be long.' And so we begin another year, full of hope and anxiety."

Strange and Wonderful.

As everyone knows, the Americans came in on February 3. What it meant to us can perhaps be imagined although I doubt it. Some who had lived on hope for a long time did not live to see the end and the rescue came too late to save the lives of others. Some of us were more fortunate and now are home again. To us, the taken-for-granted conveniences and comforts of American life seem strange and wonderful; we cannot help feeling that the rationing and other wartime restrictions imposed on the American people at the present time are slight indeed.

TREES DEDICATED

ly planted trees to the memory of all those who in one capacity or another have served or are serving our country, that it and other countries with similar ideals and purposes might live. What we do and say here this afternoon is but a feeble gesture compared with what our brave men and women have done in dedicating themselves to the service of our country," stated the speaker.

Mr. Parke pointed out that men present at the ceremonies and representing the Legion, hoped a generation ago that their job was well on the way toward being finished. "Our service men and women are entitled to a better deal than came out of World War I."

Reads Service List.

H. E. Ley presided and read a list of service men and women for whom trees are dedicated. He explained that the list will continue to grow and that the aim is to have a living tree marked in memory for each Wayne county man and woman serving in World War II.

Rev. T. J. C. Schult read the invocation and benediction. Wayne band, led by A. J. Atkins, played three selections at opening of the services and one at the close. M. N. Foster arranged for the Legion to present the colors.

Mr. Ley, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and Mrs. Chris Tielgen comprised the committee in charge of the program.

Trees were planted on two sides of the park last week, and sufficient have been reserved for the entire outer rim of trees. Reservations for memorial trees will continue to be made for other plantings at the park.

Is your daughter saying, "But mother, Jane has a simply super room all her own, and her folks don't have any more money than we do. How do they manage?" Let the public library answer that question for you. Jane's father and mother have found many suggestions in books and magazines there. They've found out how much fun and how easy it is to redecorate and remodel furniture. Take a tip from Jane and her folks and plan your redecorating with books from the public library.

A very fine new book for teenage girls is to be had in the children's department. The title is Let's Talk About You and the author is Marguerite Bro. The book is concerned about young girls and tells them how to get along with people—what to talk about on a blind date—how to become the sort of person they would like to be.

For the adults there is a nice variety this week. The mystery is No Time for Crime, by Charlotte Russell. This is the Crime club selection. Once in Vienna, by Vicki Baum, is a story of pre-war Vienna and the city lives again, basking in the melodies of Strauss' Blue Danube and Schubert's Lillie Tobe. National Velvet, by Enid Bagnold, is a good family story and also a good horse story combined. Breakfast at the Hermitage, by Alfred Leland Crab, continues a series of books about the old south. This one tells of Nashville, the home of Andrew Jackson and is the love story of a boy and girl there. Dinner at Belmont and Supper at the Maxwell House were the others of the series. Young Pess, by Margaret Irwin, the Literary Guild selection for April, is the historical novel of Queen Elizabeth, daughter of Henry the VIII and Anne Boleyn, and it is authentic history come alive.

Mitchell is, of course, located in the same state as Shelton, where some 90 farm-area residents recently issued raucous protests against a handful of Japanese-American farm neighbors, whom they regard as "undesirable."

We wonder if the Shelton petition-signers would regard Private Tanaka as worthy of burial in the Nebraska soil he died to defend. Their answer might have some bearing on the recent unseemly controversy, which did no credit either to Shelton or to Nebraska.

helped to plan the grand strategy that has made the military victory of the United States certain. He did not live to witness the victory, yet it was so near, at least in one of the principal theaters that he was concentrating on world security problems and planning his trip to the San Francisco conference when death overtook him.

The new president, Harry S. Truman, came to high office at a critical period for the world as well as for our own country. Serving as a senator from Missouri, he was nominated for vice president in a bitter contest with Henry Wallace at the Chicago convention.

His address was well received, and when he concluded, he was accorded an ovation from the floor as well as from the galleries of the house. The address reached the whole country through a hook-up of all radio stations. He declared for the prosecution of the war against Germany and Japan to "unconditional surrender."

Aside from President Truman's address to congress and the country, political Washington is merely surmising what changes may be brought about. There are many guesses and predictions. He has asked all members of the cabinet to continue in their positions. No immediate resignations are expected, but it seems quite likely that several may come in the course of a few weeks or months following the San Francisco conference and when the new president has settled into his job.

There will be no vice president until one can be elected in 1948. Senator McKellar of Tennessee, president pro tem of the senate, will be the presiding officer of the senate in the meantime. The president pro tem of the senate is a senator chosen by the senate and continues to discharge the duties of a senator. The vice president of the United States and constitutional president of the senate is not a member of the senate.

HOUSEWORK. Hired girls or household servants have disappeared from domestic life, according to an observation in a recent magazine article, and they will not return to the status quo ante bellum. They will not go back to old-time wages or old-time restrictions. Many formerly employed doing housework have gone to higher-paying jobs with more liberties. Those who have stuck to housekeeping posts at wages commensurate with those commanded in other lines, will not be satisfied with less. But manifestly, efficiency in housekeeping requires just as much knowledge and skill as posting books or waiting on customers or succeeding in any other work.

The sudden passing of President Roosevelt after a little more than 12 years in the presidency, shocked the country. While president he had complete party control of both houses of the congress. He dominated legislative as well as administrative policies throughout his tenure of office even though he did not have his veto without exception. Some legislation was passed notwithstanding his veto. Extraordinary war powers, unparalleled in the presidency, were delegated to him. He became an international leader with great prestige. Four times he was elected to the highest constitutional office in the United States. He had committee on post office and post roads.

One of the first bills signed by President Truman was the one extending lend-lease one year. Attempts were made in both the house and the senate to amend the bill to prevent lend-lease of war equipment to our European allies after the end of the war. The amendment was defeated. Our allies objected to it. They seem to want such war materials as they can get for their own forces that will be engaged in policing Germany and Italy. While estimates of the amount and value of equipment so involved can now scarcely be made, it is certain to reach into the billions.

Russia has received close to nine billions of dollars worth of goods under lend-lease. That covers the cost of 13,000 war planes, thousands of trucks, guns, tanks and other heavy equipment in addition to ammunition, small arms, the factory equipment, etc. In four years we have also sent over 16 million tons of food to that country. Britain's lend-lease account is still larger, and France and the Balkans have had and running into billions. Even Turkey, which has been on the edge of the war but not in it, has received over $100 million of new equipment and material.

Russia's shift from defeat at home to victory in Germany has been greatly aided by American supplies. Last year we shipped them 1,355 locomotives, 50 diesel locomotives, 9,274 flat cars, 1,000 dump-cars, and 124 other railway cars. Since the first of this year our merchant vessels have carried 96,000 tons of food to Russian ports.

Shipment of men and equipment from Europe to the Japanese fighting area has commenced, but will not be well underway until Germany is subdued. Berlin may be captured within a few days, but there still will be large German forces in the mountain regions of Germany and Austria. The generals seem pessimistic as to how long a time may be required to force all German armies to surrender. The Pacific front will be supplied from our own ports even more largely than from the surplus equipment sent from Europe.

There are many predictions made as to what will happen to business when victory finally comes to us. With the heavy flow of war goods to the Pacific theater may not be much of a slump in the war industries as long as Japan holds out. Possibly 10 or 15 per cent of the industries may at once turn to civilian production. The demand for civilian goods will be so great there need be no slack in employment. In the course of six months after Japan gives up, production for war will be largely at an end and the test will come.

LEGISLATIVE LETTER

April 21, 1945 The legislature passed 22 bills this week. The following bills are of interest to citizens of this district:

L. B. 254 provides that where rural school children reside more than 1 1/2 miles from the school house in their district, and closer to a school house in another district, the home district may contract for school instruction for such pupils in the adjoining district.

L. B. 33 abolishes exchange on checks drawn on state banks and will become effective 90 days after the adjournment of the legislature.

L. B. 234 authorizes a one mill levy to raise funds for roads within the county, which may be matched or used with federal funds. The funds so raised cannot be diverted or used for any other purpose. This levy is in addition to all other levies authorized by law.

L. B. 373 authorizes the board of educational lands and funds to accept 240 acres of Hurt county farm land bequeathed by the will of Jonathan P. Lydick. The ornamental cedars on the state capital grounds came from this farm which may be eventually used as an experimental farm. All net income will be used for the support of common schools.

HE SHOOTS TROUBLE on the Fighting Front

I've been doing a lot of trouble shooting (preparing telephone lines) and want you to know that the crews I worked with back in our Construction Department are responsible for the successful tasks I have accomplished.

Part of a letter from a Northwestern Bell man in the Army Signal Corps.

One man out of every six who were with this Company when the war started is now with the armed forces. Many are using their skills learned in peacetime to provide communication service on the fighting fronts.

Here at home, operators, linemen, business office representatives, accountants, managers, installers—all of the nearly 14,000 telephone people—are providing a service that helps to maintain production in plants and on farms, to train and equip troops, and to carry on essential government and civilian wartime activities.

In American Hospital

Word came last week that Alfred Sick of Hooper, radio-gunner on the plane with Sgt. Paul Harrington, is in an American hospital in Europe or England receiving care for injuries suffered when the bomber went down March 15. The Paul Harringtons have not yet had word from their son who is still gunner.

FLIER HERE VISITING HAS HIGH AWARDS

T. Sgt. Andrew Martischang, who was awarded the distinguished flying cross, the air medal and four oak leaf clusters for his services as a waist gunner on a bomber based in England, arrived Sunday from Pueblo, Colo., to spend a week's leave with his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Martischang. The young man completed 30 missions over the continent and is now instructor at Pueblo army air field.

Writes from Italy

S. Sgt. Gene M. Olson, with the army air force in northern Italy, writes April 3 to Mrs. Luella Olson of Wayne: "Today we are sweating it out. The weather is very warm after plenty of rain. The grain field back of us is about knee high. The Wayne Herald comes through regularly now but each copy is about two months old, but it makes good reading. I save them for Matthew Stapleton of Concord. The comic books are also favorites. Last night we had a barbecue for officers and enlisted men, roast pork and beef, potato salad, boiled eggs, buns and punch. Before each mission we get a K ration. Mine had cheese in yesterday."

The 5th grade had a demonstration lesson showing some study techniques for Dr. M. B. Street's observation class Friday.

Experiments dealing with the germination of seeds are underway. Barley, wheat and corn have been sprouted and the development of the embryo plants has been observed. The fact that plants know how to grow upward and the appearance of root hairs intrigued the children's interest.

From Fourth Grade. After attending the Arbor day convention the class made two tree trips taking a list of trees to be found on the campus and checking those located. Over 30 varieties were found. "Trees and Birds" was the title of a song written as a part of this activity.

Along the natural science line, students are studying about insects. Before long, everyone will be invited to see their "bug-around."

The 2nd graders are planning to take some trips soon. In spite of tire and gasoline rationing, students hope to travel easily from Nebraska to California or Florida. Students will take just such a trip in their classroom Wednesday.

The study of farm animals has brought the dog to the attention of students.

Dog is man's greatest animal friend and through the Weekly Reader, students learn that there are hearing-eye dogs as well as seeing-eye dogs. Surely social and natural science are making man's life more enjoyable.

From Kindergarten. Students have made the managers for their barn and all their animals for the farm. A tractor and two trucks have been added to the project. Students are learning the poem, "The Little Pig." They enjoy dramatizing "The Little Wooden Farmer" by Alice Dolgites.

Dairymen can secure services for Holstein and Guernsey breeds. Brown Swiss services may be available when enough agreement contracts are signed for that breed. Services may be available for Milking Shorthorns through the University of Nebraska if 250 cows are owned by these breeders.

Dairymen in Wayne community are interested in the newly formed association as it eliminates the herd bull on the farm as well as the dangers involved in caring for the animal; it saves the dairymen the time and expense involved in locating herd bulls; and in many instances sires from productive dams of blood lines, which could not be financed by the average dairyman, are available.

Pilot of Fighter

Ensign Allen Splittgerber
Knocks Out Jap Bomber
On Airfield.

Ensign Allen C. Splittgerber, USNR, of Wayne, pilot of a navy fighter plane, battered Jap navy fighter bombers and knocked out a twin engine bomber on the ground when he flew in a strike against Tokyo, according to a report just received from the fleet.

Flying a Hellcat fighter, Ensign Splittgerber took off from a big Essex-class carrier and pressed home his attack through heavy weather and thick anti-aircraft fire. "Just before we made a rocket run on a hangar our division was jumped by a Jap fighter (Rufe) but our flight leader promptly shot him down," said Ensign Splittgerber. "We wound up the sweep by strafing all the planes in sight."

The carrier on which the officer is based distinguished itself by taking part in the Tokyo strike only six weeks after the shake-down cruise, a feat that broke all previous records. In addition to the many military and industrial targets smashed during the two-day campaign, the air group's pilots shot down 44 planes and destroyed 46 others on the ground.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Splittgerber, the 23-year-old airman formerly attended high school in Wayne.

How Bell Company Plans and Serves

Rural telephone development in the area served by the Wayne telephone office is exceptionally good, according to W. G. Schulz, manager for the Northwestern Bell Telephone company. Four out of five farmers in this area have telephones.

"Practically all these rural telephones are on service station lines, owned and maintained by groups of farmers and connecting with the Wayne telephone office of the Northwestern company. Under wartime conditions, it has been unusually difficult for farmers to maintain their lines so that service can be satisfactory," Mr. Schulz explained, "but substantial improvement can be expected when materials and manpower are again available for this work."

"The Bell system regards the providing of rural telephone service as one of its most important activities, and rural telephones served by the Bell system have increased about 60 per cent since the depression of the mid-1930's. Before our entry into the war, the Bell telephone laboratories and Bell system engineers were developing several important devices and methods for use in extending and improving telephone service in rural areas."

"New types of facilities include improved high strength steel wire and long-span pole line construction, dial and common battery service and improved instruments. Starting in 1938, the Bell laboratories have done considerable work on a rural carrier system by means of which telephone conversations can be transmitted over electric power lines. Investigation also is being made of the possibilities of using radio telephone circuits to reach the more remote farms and ranches."

"Communities like this where almost all farmers are within reach of present telephone lines, principal improvements probably will be in better line construction and maintenance and improved instruments and equipment. However, all rural telephone developments are made available to service station telephone companies and advice and assistance are given in the interests of good service."

"It has always been the Northwestern Bell company's policy to provide good telephone service to farmers and this effort is being continued to the greatest extent consistent with the availability of materials and manpower, recognizing that war requirements must come first. As rapidly as conditions permit, every reasonable and practicable step will be taken to make good telephone service available to every farm in the territory it serves, not only on Bell lines but also on the lines owned and maintained by farmers."

Announced April 18 at the Salinas army air base of the 4th air force, where Auker is management control officer, was his promotion to the rank of captain, effective April 13, 1945. A former student at the Nebraska State Teachers college at Wayne, Auker entered military service in 1941. Capt. and Mrs. Auker now reside in Salinas, Cal.

Sends Messages Home.
Lt. Arthur Gulliver of Wayne, Cpl. Robert E. Day of Concord, Lt. Graham W. Howe of Wisner, and Sgt. Donald Kile of Osmond, were present at the Cornhusker state reunion dinner held recently at the American Red Cross Mostyng club in England, when the center of attention was Jim Morrison, Red Cross club program director, now returned to Wayne. Nearly all the men present had a message for Mr. Morrison to take to homefolks when he returned after two years overseas.

Soldier Earns Medal.
Pfc. Ernst J. Eckman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Eckman of Hoskins, has been awarded the good conduct medal. He is with the 32nd infantry division in Pangasinan Province, Luzon, P. I. In the service since October 1942, Eckman trained at Camp Roberts, Cal., before departing for overseas duty in February, 1943. He is a veteran of three major engagements in the southwest Pacific and holds the combat infantryman's badge for exemplary conduct in combat. He is now fighting with the "Red Arrow" division on Luzon.

Promoted in Italy.
Dale L. Samuelson, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Samuelson of Wayne, with the 15th AAF in Italy, has recently been promoted to the rank of first lieutenant. He is pilot in a B-24 Liberator and has been overseas since last September. Lt. Samuelson is a veteran of extensive operations against vital axis targets in the German network of industrial sectors throughout southern Europe.

Gets Flying Cross At Base in England
First Lt. Lyle E. Seymour, 21, right, pilot of a B-17 Flying Fortress of the 95th bombardment group, an 8th air force component, is here seen receiving the distinguished flying cross for "extraordinary achievement" while participating in heavy bombing attacks on industrial or transport targets in Germany, or on enemy strong-points in conjunction with advances by allied ground forces on the continent. The presentation is being made by Col. Joseph A. Moller of Winnetka, Ill.

Earns Air Medal As Turret Gunner
Sgt. Theodore R. Green, 19, son of Mrs. Meta B. Boje of Norfolk, formerly of Hoskins, has been awarded the air medal at an 8th air force bomber station in England.

Flier Getting Lost Has Exciting Time
S. Sgt. E. C. Weseloh of El Monte, Calif., formerly of Wayne, was shot down over nazi-occupied territory but he contends that that wasn't the worst of the 23 missions he made as a B-17 tail gunner with the 8th air force based in England. "Once we were returning from Germany when we got lost over the North sea," says the young man, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aug. Weseloh, who is now a staff car driver at Ellington Field, Texas, installation of the AAF training command. "Our number one engine went out and the number four caught fire." S. Sgt. Weseloh relates, "I was sitting back there in the tail spot watching the flames go by until the fire went out and the pilot headed in what he thought was the general direction of England. We finally made it but our two remaining engines quit just before we hit the runway. We were out of gas. Believe me, we were sweating."

Writes on Okinawa
"This is the first time we have had a chance to write since getting here on this island," writes Pfc. Bob Stull of the marine corps April 10 from Okinawa to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Stull. "I am now permitted to say where we are for a change. Well, Dad, we are in action down here just 300 miles from Tokyo. We are on the island of Okinawa. We have shot down and also seen many Jap planes shot out of the air. Some of those boys really come in pretty low to strafe with their machine guns.

"Been coming here we were in Kauai in the Hawaiian islands. After leaving there we stopped in the Marshalls and had a tea party on one of the islands. We stayed there five days. In a few days I hope I can tell you where I was before coming to Okinawa. Here on Okinawa there are quite a few Japanese women and they are not like any other woman.

"It is cold here and after being used to hot weather we are just about freezing. By the way, I think Lindsay is on this island. I am going to try and find him after the action is all over."

Pfc. Stull wrote again April 11 from Okinawa. "I wrote a short letter the other day because I really didn't know when I would have time to write again. Well today it is raining as usual. It has been clear only one day since we hit the beach. Things were pretty hot here the other day. Jap planes were coming from about every direction possible. Of all the planes that came over us none went back. Most of them were shot down and crashed just off the beach. It really is a great thrill to see them blown out of the sky. Now don't get me wrong and think that I like this because I don't, I would rather read about it than see it really happen.

"It is a lot cooler here than it was at Samoa or Tarawa and believe me we about freeze. You get warmed up pretty quickly though when those Japs come over. This weather is just about like it is at home around December. Right now we have mud here about up to our knees. You wake up in the middle of the night in a pool of water and then freeze all over again.

"I am sending you some Japanese invasion money. The ten yen bill is worth $10 to the Japs or $1 to us. The one yen is worth $1 to the Japs and 10c to us. The 50 sen is worth 50c to them and 5c to us. That is about all there is to it."

The youth tells that he is sending home some precious pictures which are hard to keep in good condition on the island.

"Folks, it is 7:10 and we have a blackout here so I must put out the candle."

Suggests License Plates for Horses

Fatima, the Ostrich, Helps Provide Proteins for Cafe Shortage.

Traffic along the forest preserve trails at Chicago is getting to be a problem and Superintendent Charles G. Sauer is in favor of putting license plates on Dobbin. His proposal that horses using the trails be licensed under the approval of the Cook county board legislative committee. Gas rationing is one of the reasons for the increase in horseback riders, board members said.

"Today I saw my first white girl in six months," a Hamilton, N. Y., service man wrote from the Pacific. "She was a nurse pacing the deck of a hospital ship and I could see her through a pair of binoculars."

The protein shortage was relieved in a measure by Fatima. Thanks to her efforts, "Devised ostrich egg sandwiches, 20c." were listed on the menu at the Brookfield zoo restaurant. Fatima's egg weighed three pounds, and Assistant Zoo Director Robert Bean estimated it provided as much deviled egg as about two dozen hens' eggs.

Discouraged with trying to stretch his weekly quota of eight cartons of cigarettes, Cafeteria Owner Ray Cox at Albany, Ore., tossed all the cigarettes in a bowl marked "free—take one." People take them, but they're a little choosier," he said. "They peck around in the bowl until they find their own brand."

Marine Sgt. Stanley E. Bronk of Seattle, wasn't just wasting time when he hid his marine corps serv-

Trainmen on a South Shore electric train at South Bend, Ind., lifted an exhausted and bruised Maltese cat from the air hose between two coaches—a speedy 90-mile ride from Chicago. One of the cat's ears was frozen and it was bleeding from cuts, apparently from cinders. The trainmen gave it a name—Breezy—and found it a new home, the South Bend station.

Police Reporter Joe Doolittle of Seattle thought it would be easy to get a good story on a hearing in which he was a witness. But, to avoid prejudice, witnesses were barred from the court when not on the stand. So the only testimony he heard was his own.

Cafe Owner George Pappendrew of Portland, Ore., was hoping for the first time in his life that a patron would suffer acute indigestion. He told police a man quietly ate a full meal, slowly drank his coffee and then calmly stepped behind the cash counter, scooped up $150 and vanished.

It's two down and one to go but by the process of elimination the United States marshal's office at Salt Lake City thinks it will eventually find his man. A subpoena came from federal authorities at Portland, Ore., for a man whose address was listed as Enterprise, Utah, but there are three hamlets bearing that name in the state. After checking two of the towns, and starting on the third, an attaché at the marshal's office said: "We're perplexed. We think the subpoena is intended for Enterprise, Ore."

When Mrs. E. L. Crain, Villa Ridge, Ill., spotted a large gray fox prowling in her chicken-house she called on Neighbor Mrs. James B. Walter for aid. Mrs. Walter,

Remember THE OLD RAIN BARREL?

The water in that old barrel was fine—because it was SOFT water. But there seldom was enough soft water to go 'round.

REFINITE SOFTENER TAKES ITS PLACE!

In your home, a REFINITE Softener will give you a constant supply of perfect soft water—at less than a penny a day. Soft water will make your laundering and dishwashing easier; bathing, shampooing and shaving delightful. And, too, soft water saves 40% to 80% of your soap; prevents scale in water pipes; and the resultant plumbing bills; and adds years of life to laundered clothes. Ask us for a FREE demonstration.
