FARM NEWS Cut Clover Hay Early. WFA is urging farmers to cut the first crop of red clover early enough to allow maximum seed production from the second crop. Despite the rush to plant field crops—delayed by a wet spring—the usual haying schedule should be maintained if at all possible. Besides allowing time for vitaly needed seed production from summer growth, early growth will assure better protein content in hay. Allied requirements may be as much as 30 million pounds of legume seed, of which 20 million is red clover. Unless 1945 production is larger than now indicated, however, and unless much of this seed reaches dealers, the quantity of the seed that can be spared for export will have to be reduced. Clover seed is badly needed to aid food production in areas where food and food stocks have been depleted by war. Payments of poundage basis under the 1945 AAA program will be made on red clover, alfalfa and alsike seed harvested and sold to dealers this year. Payments are 3 1/2 cents a pound on red clover and 2 1/2 cents a pound on alfalfa and alsike clover. In addition, AAA will make payments of $3.50 an acre for each acre of these seeds harvested. Serves with Unit Moving to Rhine. Doughboys of the 143rd infantry regiment, of which Pfc. Lloyd Surber of Wayne is a member, drove through the Siegfried line and to the Rhine river. These men slashed through rugged terrain of northern Alsace as the right wing of a U. S. 7th army spearhead maneuver on German troops caught in the Saar basin. They knifed through Maginot and Siegfried fortresses, then cut eastward to the Rhine to be the first 7th army troops to reach the historic river on German soil. The 143rd, on its first overseas operations two years ago, landed at Salerno, Italy, and was one of the first American infantry units on European soil. After one of the greatest strategic feats of the war at Anzio in Italy, the division sped through Rome to the hills overlooking Pisa. The men then moved to France to serve as the "stopper" at Montblimar and later helped in the Saar.

IS EXPECTED SOON FROM FRENCH PORT Lt. Beverly Canning, recently released from a German prison camp, is expected to dock early next week and will likely reach Wayne about June 23 or 24, according to estimate made by Mrs. Canning.

The Iowa young man had been interned in the camp two weeks before Lt. Canning arrived and he told Mrs. Canning that internees were being sent out in the same order in which they entered camp. According to this, the Wayne man would have left port June 7 and would arrive in the states about 10 days later. He would visit a reception center and then come home on leave.

German Warehouse Articles Are Sent To Richard Claycomb, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Claycomb, has sent home from Germany several articles from a Nazi warehouse. The warehouse was taken by Gen. Geo. Patton's army, with which the Wayne youth served. The Americans were told by officers that they might take articles as souvenirs. Richard sent home a pair of heavy leather and woolen boots, the soles reinforced with leather nobs and the insides lined throughout with woolen material. A camouflaged hood and cape, also camouflaged mittens are included. The hood, lined throughout, fits tightly about the head and neck, and woolen material is inserted at the ears. The mittens are large and lined and have space for the thumb and forefinger. The hood and mittens are of materials spotted with green, brown and black. A woolen overcoat was also sent from Germany.

Sgt. Geo. Claycomb, who is in Alaska, recently sent a long sharp knife. The blade is protected with a shield, and the knife folds. John Claycomb, another son of the Wayne folks, has been in India.

Farmer Is Helped By Marine Girls Among the marine girls from Arlington, Va., who have helped Farmer F. W. Jones of Wheaton, Md., on his 100-acre farm is Pfc. Nona Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Hall of Wayne. Because of the labor shortage and the farmer's need for help, the girls volunteered to assist in addition to their clerical duties at marine corps headquarters.

Dressed in dungarees and armed with plenty of GI food, they boarded a hay truck for the journey to the country. The young women rebuilt a five-strand barbed wire fence, hauled two tons of lime to the fields and painted three outbuildings and the concrete base of a barn.

In the course of the day the entire fence separating the orchard from the grazing field was torn up and rebuilt by the girls. Shone at work are: Sgt. Eunice Blauvelt of Yorkers, N. Y., Pfc. Pauline Kovach of Trenton, Mich., and Pfc. Nona Hall of Wayne.

cord, is enroute to the states for furlough after three years' service in the Pacific. He had participated in four overseas campaigns.

Sgt. Hanson advanced on Davao on Mindanao in the Philippines with the 24th Infantry (Victory) division of the famous old 19th Infantry regiment. The men found the Japanese had obliged by placing guns defending Davao in the same positions many of them were found when captured from the British at Singapore - commanding the sea approaches, but not the land. When the regiment with which Sgt. Hanson served came within range, the Japanese swung the guns inland as far as possible to cover the coastal road of march, but they wouldn't quite reach.

"They tracked us with heavy shells for several miles," Hanson said, "but all landed from 75 to 100 yards to the right of the road. Some fragments showered the road, but they caused us little trouble. It was different after we reached Davao and started pushing into hills ringing the city. There we ran directly into their everything the Japs have in their arsenal. They shelled us with four different types and sizes of mortars, the bazooka guns, stuzing rockets and even anti-aircraft guns. We never knew when we would trip over a wire and set off a 500-pound aerial bomb which the Japanese called hand mines."

Paratrooper Hurt By Rocket Bomb Cpl. Bob Siman, son of Dr. and Mrs. V. L. Siman of Los Angeles, formerly of Norfolk, and grandson of H. E. Siman, Wayne attorney, writes to his parents from a hospital in Auxerre, France, where he was sent after being injured at Bergstien by a rocket bomb.

Bob, who is a paratrooper, says he saw his first action June 16, 1944, in Italy, and at this time his company was practically annihilated.

After a month's combat in Italy, he was sent back to Rome for air-borne training which lasted a month. On August 15 at 5 a. m., his company jumped at Drogular, France, near Nice. From there they worked their way into Germany, seeing and taking part in some of the most horrible battles of the war. Their only relief was being sent to a rest camp in December for two weeks.

Siman participated in the taking of St. Vith and Bergstien, along with numerous other important cities. At Bergstien, a rocket bomb lit on a house which was near the place where Bob was fighting. It seriously burned 12 of his company men and knocked Bob out. The youth says that he has been a little of everything - rifleman, bazooka handler, machine gunner and scout runner.

Bob was in a hospital for some time, recently being released. In his letter, he stated he expected to be home within two months and then be on his way to C. E. I. He has been awarded the bronze star and will soon receive the purple heart. He is a Norfolk high school graduate.

People in Germany Subject of Study "As one sits in the quiet of this calm, serene Sunday afternoon watching the people of this German town stroll past, it is a bit hard to realize fully that one is located in the country which has caused the worst war in all history. It is indeed a study in contradictions," writes S. Sgt. Howard W. H. Witt May 6 from somewhere in Germany.

"Much of France and Germany that I have seen has been wrecked and ruined. This is especially true of the larger industrial cities. Many of the smaller communities in both countries have escaped the war unscathed. That is true of the particular small town in which we are stationed at present. There is practically no evidence to indicate that not so long ago armies were all around it, and battles were being fought not so far away. These little places, populated mainly by the simple peasant folk, will be

Distribution Plan Is Being Revised

The action of OPA to require all commercial slaughterers, both federally inspected and non-federally inspected, to resume the same pattern of meat distribution that they followed in the first three months of 1944 will provide more uniform distribution of meat, according to M. The fair distribution plan will in no way assure each city, town or county that it will be able to get as much meat as it got in 1944. The total supply available for both the armed forces and civilians just won't stretch that far.

Auto Owners Need Insurance Under New Nebraska Law

Nebraska's new financial responsibility law, which goes into effect August 10, makes adequate automobile liability insurance the most economical and practical method of protecting your right to drive.

Except for motorists having this protection, any driver responsible for an accident will have his right to drive taken away unless he pays the damage or files proof of financial responsibility within sixty days.

#7 War Loan

I'M BUYING MORE AND BIGGER BONDS THAN BEFORE

THE JOB IN THE PACIFIC IS STILL TERRIFIC

You've never been asked to do more in any War Loan. And the need has never been more urgent!

Nes, this one is going to hurt! It's going to take every extra dollar you can spare—and then some—to meet your personal quota. It means that you must buy the War Bond you think you can't afford!

By this time last year you had been called upon twice to help meet the tremendous cost of this global war. This is the first time in 1945 your country has called on you. That's why the need is greater. That's why you must buy bigger War Bonds... and more of them.

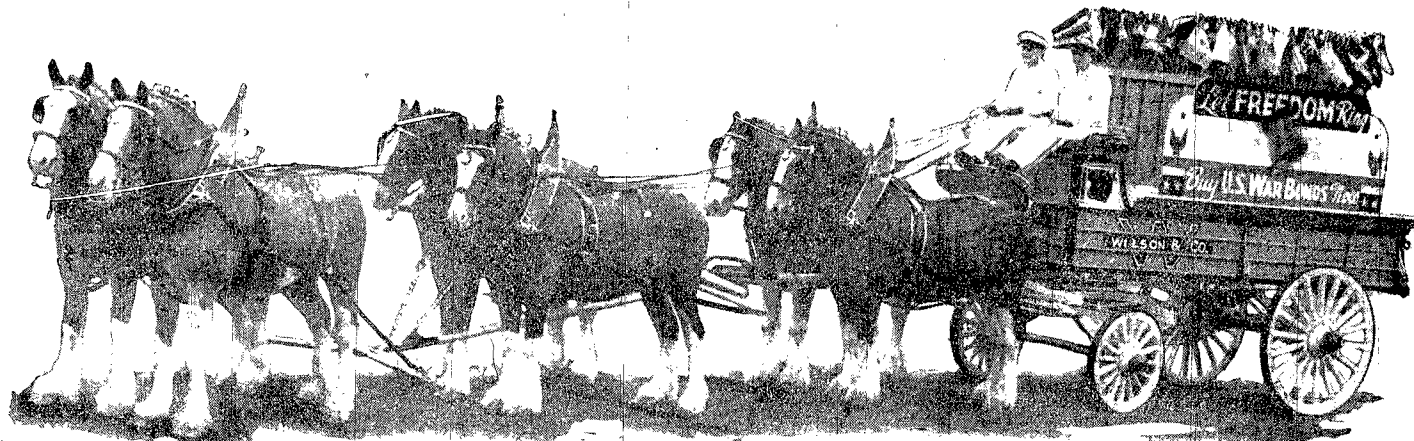

When it's a case of lives or equipment... we cannot wait to repair equipment. We cannot wait to transport arms from one theater of war to another. New and advanced equipment must be sent in a never-ending stream to the Pacific. And you know that even when the guns stop firing, the cost of war goes on and on. As the casualty lists grow, thousands more of our wounded must be cared for. And America's fighting men get the best care in the world.

Help make the goal—on your payroll

You thrilled to the news of Iwo and Mindanao; of the bombing of Tokyo, Nagoya, Osaka. The victories in Germany filled your heart with pride. The men who gave their blood for victory met their quota. How about you?

Patriotic Fowls Lay Bigger Eggs

Name of Los Angeles Girl Fits Appropriately into V-E Day Slogan.

Mrs. A. W. Nicholls of Decatur, Ill., has patriotic biddies. She was on the prowl for a turkey around her farm after she had found giant eggs among the nests reserved for her flock of 240 hens. But there was no turkey, so Mrs. Nicholls has decided that some of her hens are heeding the government's call for larger production. The big eggs weighed about four and one-half ounces each, measured eight and one-half inches length-wise and seven and one-half inches in circumference.

V-E day brought fame to a Los Angeles girl. Her name is Virginia Elizabeth Day—V. E. Day.

Wayland McCarthy, blind justice of the peace at Oklahoma City, feared it would be a long time before he could get another seeing eye dog after his died, but friends contributed $362.50 so that Mr. McCarthy could get another dog. Justice McCarthy has appointed his dog court bailiff.

James Malcomson of Browning, Ill., has given up his job as weekly newspaper correspondent to help his son and grandson farm in the "Food for Victory" program. Mr. Malcomson, who is 83, wrote his first weekly letter to the Rushville Times more than 63 years ago.

Remi C. Delacy of Seattle, asked superior court to allow him to change his name to DeLoy. "The way it is properly pronounced, 'I'm a bus driver,'" he said when filing his petition. "and I'm dog-gone tired of having people say, 'Here comes General Delacy again.'"

An army private from Decatur, Ill., stationed at Fort Francis E. Warren in Wyoming, spotted a home town company's tank cars near the fort and got an idea. Pvt. Robert J. W. Fisher chalked messages on the cars, sending greetings to the company, the railroad and to his two brothers. "I'm doing all right," he wrote on the cars. "Everything is fine in Cheyenne. If anyone in Decatur sees this call 9082. Lots of people saw the messages—all day strangers telephoned Mrs. Anna Fisher that her son, Bob, was "doing all right."

At the opening concert of the Oklahoma City symphony, Conductor Victor Alessandro waved his baton in small circles instead of his customary sweeping ones. Worried music lovers were assured that Mr. Alessandro planned no musical innovation. It was just, the maestro explained, that his new suit hadn't arrived and with that light suit, gracious knows what would happen with a full fledged gesture fortissimo.

Librarians find that sometimes the public is a little ditatory in taking advantage of the tomes of knowledge that repose on their shelves. A patron reported that, in quest of historical material on Peru, he happened to run across a book at the Chicago Newberry library called "Concerning the Peruvian Regions Among the Newly Discovered and Famous Provinces." The book was printed in Latin and published in Antwerp in 1567. And its pages still were uncut!

Superior Judge James T. Ronald of Seattle, Wash., who has been in office 36 years and will observe his 90th birthday soon, will not claim the title of the nation's "oldest judge." He said he tried it once and his bailiff found two judges who had him topped. "I couldn't even play second fiddle—I was reduced to bass drum," commented the judge. The other judges have died, but Judge Ronald says he doesn't want "any more stock in that corporation."

When a soldier in Italy was moved to a hospital for care, the first person he saw was his twin sister, a Red Cross worker.

Hale E. Landry, Boeing aircraft instructor and pastel landscape painter at Seattle, is color blind and uses special lenses for his work. But once in a while he forgets them. He did this once when painting a farm scene. He had blue cows and red haystacks. Another time he did a portrait of a girl with green lips.
