

Of July Intensifies Spirit of Independence as Successive Wars Gain and Preserve Free Institutions — Job of Reeducating Youth of Germany — Pheasants Become Destructive.

Aside from a few Indian skirmishes on the frontier — the aborigines feeling dissatisfied over being pushed back — the United States had no wars between 1864 and 1898. In the latter year, Spain, after a short conflict, surrendered Porto Rico, Cuba and the Philippines.

The Fourth of July observed the signing of the Declaration of Independence and the expulsion of King George's boys. The nation's natal day was celebrated with great relish by the Revolution's participants and descendants. For a long time settlers were mad at the British for trying to hang on.

The Civil war which broke a long period of peace, and which freed four million slaves and kept the union together, caused serious internal friction, but somewhat softened feeling toward England. Divided, the north and south kicked each other more and their British cousins less.

During the succeeding 34 years, there was a growing impression that the world had become too highly civilized again to resort to arms in settling differences. Then Spanish misrule in Cuba goaded the United States to interfere. Settling enslaved peoples free still further extended the scope and meaning of independence.

In 1900 William J. Bryan ran a second time for the presidency, and in that campaign he added "anti-imperialism" to his free sil-lion platform. Taking the Philippines and other insular possessions from Spain made Bryan a little uneasy lest United States would forget the Fourth of July and engage in a wild orgy of imperialism. Had he foreseen what was to happen in the Philippines— invasion and subjugation by the Japs — he would doubtless have concluded we were to become the victims rather than the instigators of the imperialism which he appeared to fear.

Until 1914 the Fourth was annually enlivened by speeches, music, parades, fireworks and weak lemonade with little thought of loving America. Before England and France were exhausted in World War I, the United States mobilized its forces and delivered the blows necessary to victory.

Then a quarter of a century slipped by, and the world awoke to find it had not been made "safe for democracy," as previously supposed. The most deadly and devastating war of all time was precipitated, and as the Fourth now approaches, one enemy lies prostrate and the other — we hope — is about ready to cup up.

Thus, the spirit of independence, uppermost on the Fourth, sinks deeper and deeper into human emotions. Its spirit means more not only to Americans, but to liberated peoples elsewhere in the world. Doubtless the Fourth will be observed without elaborate plans this year. But when the guns everywhere cease firing and boys are home from battle areas, Wayne should put on one of its old-time celebrations as evidence of appreciation and good will.

From Occupation Area. In a letter from S. Sgt. Howard W. H. Witt, employed by the Herald before entering service, now located with the armed forces in Germany, the following paragraphs explain the giant task involved in reeducating the youth of that country:

"While going through the June Reader's Digest this evening I came across Emil Ludwig's work at the back, the condensation of this book about what to do with Germany. His ideas are the best I have yet read or heard. They are the soundest and most workable of all. His mention of re-education reminded me of a German history book one of the fellows up here with me picked up during the winter campaign. It's very little German I am able to read and understand, but the fellow who had the book can do better, and between the two of us we figured out most of it. It was printed in 1941, so is about the latest one they had, for it even included part of the Nazi conquest of Europe.

Tells About Life In Santo Tomas

Mrs. C. F. Maynard Sees Japs As Ignorant, Fanatical Enemy Fighters.

How did the Japanese treat you? How long will they stay with Japan? What of the future of the Philippines? These questions are the ones most frequently propounded to Mrs. C. F. Maynard, recently back from the Philippines where she spent more than three years in Santo Tomas internment camp, and these are the topics on which she spoke to Kiwanians Monday.

Mrs. Maynard, who was presented by Rev. O. B. Froett, told that one day before she left Manila she and a friend walked to a bridge and there met two GIs, one of whom asked about Jap treatment. The friend answered, "It depends on your luck." That tells the story, Mrs. Maynard agreed.

Japs confiscated most personal property but those who had taken supplies of concentrated foods and who had friends in the city did have some advantages. The first year the Jap treatment was casual, the main rule being that internees should not escape. Week-end passes to Manila were granted occasionally, and censored notes could be written to persons outside the camp.

Inflation occurred the second year. Philippine currency was withdrawn and Jap military money was used. Prices skyrocketed. Carrots became $7 a pound and later $3 per carrot. Cafes in the camp finally closed. By the end of 1943 internees were living mainly on rice and beans. Red Cross supplies came in the fall of 1943, about 50 pounds per person, and these helped tremendously. By close of the year a few privileges were granted in persecuting spirit. Occasionally one might see a movie if he were willing to sit through long films of Japanese propaganda. One of the two camp stores had meager supplies. Electric equipment was still usable.

Early in 1944 the market closed. Gates were locked and no messages were sent out or in. All electric equipment was taken; curfew was out from 9 to 8 p. m., and blackout was imposed. Cigarettes were reduced to three a month, and soap to a 1/2-inch square a month. The last half of 1944 it was required that all bow to Japs. Monitors were sent to Japs to learn how internees should bow. Japs conducted inspection and roll call twice a day and the weak people stood in line two hours for this ordeal. Arrests were made and some executions. A number starved, and T. B. and other diseases aggravated by hunger took others. As a final torture the Japs shelled Santo Tomas after Americans entered Manila.

As to how long the war will last, Mrs. Maynard says most Japs don't know that Germany has surrendered and many of those fighting in the Pacific think they are in the United States. They are afflicted.

BAND CONCERTS AT BRESSLER PARK IN WAYNE DESERVING

THE SEASON'S initial concert by the Wayne municipal band, directed by A. J. Atkins, Friday evening in the beautiful Bressler park, was not so largely attended as the occasion warranted. The fact that farmers work long days at this time cultivating corn and putting up hay, may have accounted in a measure for the small crowd. Following the wet spell, town people have been busy with gardens and lawns. According to a foolishly arranged time standard, nightfall comes late, and consulting the clock, some people are ready for bed by the time nocturnal activities begin. But as country and town work cases up somewhat for the summer, more music lovers will no doubt attend the band's weekly concerts and enjoy good music, the while visiting friends and feasting eyes on the park's rich foliage.

Appreciates Advantages in United States

"There's no place like home." This is the way Lt. Vernie Brockman says he's glad to be back in America after 13 months in a Nazi prison camp near the Baltic sea in northern Germany. The air corps officer arrived Sunday to spend 60 days with his wife, the former Eva Ream, and with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Brockman. He reports at Miami Beach, Fla., for rest and reassignment. Lt. Brockman, pilot of a bomber based in England, was on his eighth mission over Germany April 8, 1944, when his plane went down. The crew had bombed Brunswick and while doing so the ship was damaged by flak. Trouble started to develop over the target and the pilot decided he must leave. The ship had flown about 70 miles on its return when the plane failed to function longer. The crew of 10 bailed out and all were safe. Lt. Brockman landed in the railroad yards at Minden, Germany. Another also came down there and the others were scattered about the countryside. Nazis rounded up the air men and hauled them to an interrogation center where they were questioned. They suffered no physical violence. Nazis gathered plane crews constantly and when they had enough for a shipment, the men were locked in box cars and sent to a camp. The trip by train to Stalag Luft 1 took three days and three nights. The troop train did not experience any bombing. Red Cross food helps. Jerries provided a loaf of bread for five men a day and later made a loaf seven which was equal to about two slices. Each was supposed to get 16 ounces of potatoes daily but the amount never reached that weight. Red Cross packages were great help and they were received regularly each week at first. Later the Jerries refused to let the supplies come through. When the Russians were near, the Red Cross packages started coming again.

Convert Youth Camp. Stalag Luft I, at Barth, in north Germany near the Baltic sea, was a youth camp which was converted into a prison. About 9,000 men,

Calls on People To Hold Record

Governor Asks Nebraskans To Reach E Bond Goal During Week.

By proclamation of Gov. Dwight Griswold, the week of June 23 to 30 has been set aside for the purchase of additional E bonds in the public loan. The executive calls on people to express their appreciation to show their appreciation of North Butler, Miltonberger of G. North Platte, and the thousands of other brave Nebraskans who have made and are making a brilliant record in the war. "Nebraska has never failed to over-subscribe its E bond and individual quotas in every previous drive" and the governor asks all to invest this week to maintain the good record of the state.

State War Finance Chairman Dale Clark is confident that Nebraskans will reach their goal in the war loan. "Unless the quota of 43 million in E bonds is met, the job will be incomplete. We have not won the war against Japan by taking Iwo Jima and Okinawa. Neither is a war loan made if we account for but two quotas out of three. The E bond goal is the all-important part of this drive."

Wilbur Farmer of Grant, adds that "unless we support the war bond buying programs, our government in its hour of need would be forced to tax the people directly to pay the war costs and the boys overseas would wonder whether or we at home were worth fighting for. It is the duty of every American to buy bonds and to keep them. If the bonds are no good then our money is no good. We should be glad of the opportunity of buying bonds. In many countries they simply take your property and don't ask you to loan it. Let's keep faith with our God, our boys and ourselves."

An report issued June 21 by the federal reserve Wayne county had invested $204,466 or 76 per cent of its E quota of $267,000. Dixon county had $180,389 or 75 per cent of its $240,000.

A report of June 21 on individual sales showed Wayne county with $436,966 or 92 per cent of its $475,000 quota. Dixon county had $229,789 or 57 per cent of its $405,000.

Little Replanting Is Required Here

Wayne county has a very small acreage of replanting of row crops in comparison with other counties, states Agent W. R. Harder, Early, maturing varieties of corn are recommended when available as corn can always be used for good silage if it fails to mature. Grain sorghums that do not mature before frost have very little feeding value as silage or fodder. Sudan for summer and fall pasture may be desirable where needed. Some farmers may wish to keep weeds under control and fall seed more broom and alfalfa for hay and pasture. Fertilizer may be the best crop for late June and early July plantings. Buckwheat is a possibility for a late crop but the grower may find it difficult to market. Early frosts damage the crop.

Help Move Crops

In order to insure the movement of the country's bumper crop of early potatoes and to conserve the limited supply of refrigerator cars, the ODT has announced an increase in the minimum loading required for that commodity.

Last year the ODT allowed growers and shippers to load the early potatoes on a 30,000-pound minimum per car. This year the minimum has been raised to 40,000 pounds per car, which was effective June 12, and in southern and eastern states, 36,000 pounds per car, effective June 16.

WAYNE, FRIDAY, JULY 6 TELLS ABOUT LIFE

with such ignorance that it is hard to predict how long and how fanatically they will fight. Mrs. Maynard is inclined to think Gen. Stillwell is right when he says it may take two years.

Regarding the Philippines, Mrs. Maynard feels sure that the islands will have their independence but she thinks that the Filipinos are not yet ready for it. They are loyal to America and hate the Japs and they will want American help and protection after the war. She believes that America will benefit the people and help develop their resources. The plan will help both nations.

Prof. O. E. Bowen, chairman of the education committee, was in charge of observance of Kiwanis Education week. He asked E. W. Huse to read from the special message of international president, Ben Dean, and from the report of the international secretary, O. E. Peterson.

'The days ahead will bring many difficult post-war problems,' stated Mr. Dean's message. In meeting war debt, taxation burdens and government controls curtailing personal liberties, Mr. Dean stated that power and unity of democracies can defeat the mightiest enemies. If power and unity are carried to peacetime, 'pressure groups and selfish interests must yield to the common welfare.'

Achievements of the past 30 years are most satisfying in Kiwanis, he added but 'the times demand an even greater devotion to public service. Not for a moment dare we relax our vigilance in safeguarding our freedoms.'

In urging primacy to human and spiritual values, Mr. Peterson quoted from a Chinese sage: 'If you would plan for a year, grow wheat; if you would plan for a decade, grow trees; if you would plan for a century, grow men.'

Two Are Elected.

C. L. Pickett was unanimously elected vice president to succeed E. W. Huse who succeeded to the presidency when R. K. Kirkman moved to Fort Smith, Ark. Dr. Ray Bryan was elected a member of the board of directors to succeed Burr R. Davis who resigned recently.

The membership voted to continue meeting through summer months.

Mr. Huse presented J. F. Keeline and A. R. Ellis, new members.

A survey taken Monday revealed that members present had already invested $31,925 in war bonds in the present drive.

Prof. Russell Anderson was accompanist and F. L. Blair leader for the singing of 'Kiwanis Lives' and 'The Song of Kiwanis.'

Besides 36 members, guests were Mrs. Maynard and H. E. Ley, the latter with Mayor Herman Lundberg. Mrs. Maynard is a daughter of the late C. O. Mitchell, charter member of the club.

Why my personal formula gives you coffee with an extra flavor "lift"

Here at Edwards we roast and blend coffee by a formula slowly perfected over 40 years. Our method is not an easy one or one that's easily learned. But we feel it does give you coffee with an extra flavor "lift"—rich, mellow and completely satisfying. Try Edwards Coffee for just 10 days. If you don't thoroughly enjoy it, your money will be refunded.

Mr. Dwight Edwards OF THE DWIGHT EDWARDS COMPANY—AN AUTHORITY ON FINE COFFEES

WE'RE VERY EXACTING about the coffee we buy. Without question, they must be the choicest coffees from only the finest growing districts of Latin America. Although the shape, color and size of the beans tell us much about their quality, we buy only after roasting and carefully tasting actual samples.

WE BLEND these beans not by weight but by flavor, for richness, smoothness and strength. We roast only by the controlled Thermo process which develops all the natural flavor in the bean. And because Edwards is roasted only to your grocer's order, it comes to you at the peak of freshness.

Make Suggestions To Save Sugar

Because new sugar coupon No. 36 must last four instead of three months, OPA Director M. E. Rawlings suggests the following: Save fresh fruits instead of heavy desserts; call for sugar; save syrup from canned fruit to sweeten other fruits, sauces or beverages; be sure sugar is completely dissolved to get full sweetness; cook cereals with prunes, raisins or dates to serve without sugar; use fewer or no frostings on cakes and don't frost the sides; serve sweet yeast breads occasionally in place of sugar-consuming pies and cakes; make desserts that use honey, molasses, sorghum, corn and other syrups when these are available; stretch sugar with honey, molasses and syrups. Honey can replace sugar cup for cup, but use half the quantity of other liquid called for in the original recipe, and keep the baking temperature moderate. Corn, cane or maple syrup can replace sugar cup for cup also but reduce the liquid by one-third.

Food Crisis LOUIS BROMFIELD, columnist, blames food bungling on the new deal's inexperience and power thirst. To lack of a single responsible head—now proposed by congress—is charged the failure to handle the food problem with practical judgment. Bromfield makes this among other observations:

"At the time Chester Bowles took over the OPA mess left by Leon Henderson—and the OPA controlled food production far more than the WFA—not one top man had ever had any experience with the production, processing and distribution of food. They were radical lawyers, fresh water college economists and reformers. Even at the time it was evident that a food crisis was inevitable."

Bromfield mentions that abundance will cure the black market, and it is apparent that abundance with unusual demands, can be secured only through removal of unnecessary restraints. And what restrictions are needed in an emergency should be decided by the practical wisdom of one man whose idea is more service and less politics.

Popularity of Bullheads FOOD scarcity and the growing demand for even bullheads as a means of driving off hunger, reminds one of the old days when a young fellow, garbed in a dollar's worth of wardrobe, went to a nearby creek and caught that kind of fish. Bullheads which shared the muddy water with an assortment of turtles, were not particularly desirable. They would fall for any kind of bait. They offered all the exciting resistance of mountain trout, but had little of the latter's wariness. One needs none of the foreign diplomat's finesse to catch bullheads. Developing such easy pastime would be especially apropos as warnings are heard of too few calories and not enough of the right kind of vitamins. Of course, it would be necessary first to find a stream inhabited by bullheads.

The San Francisco charter, the product of representatives of fifty nations in support of future world peace, has been completed and will be presented to duly authorized government bodies for sanction. It will no doubt receive official endorsement in America. It may have weak spots, but it is the best that could be worked out at this time, and it is better than none. It is a long start in the right direction. The masses nowhere want wars, and they are the ones who have to bear the brunt of loss and suffering. The talk now in some quarters of the likelihood of a third world war is disheartening. An international charter will help ripen understanding, and due preparedness will be a large supplemental contributor to peace.

President Truman's urgent advice to congress, as a precautionary measure, to change the rule of presidential succession in view of the perils involved in his approaching air trip to Europe, must be accepted as a very thoughtful consideration of the country's future. As the system is now set up, the secretary of state who was chosen by appointment, would become president if a possible fatal accident should overtake the incumbent. It is believed by President Truman that the house speaker would be the proper successor, as he was elected and would more nearly represent the popular will.

Russia celebrated its victory over Germany the first of the week, but we think that country would feel better to hold back its hilarity until Japan has been defeated. In pressing its arms, Russia received indispensable help from America, and reciprocal aid now in conquering the oriental savages would seem highly in order. Such cooperation would hasten crushing defeat and quicken restoration of a peaceful world order. But the end in the southwest Pacific, with the dead and maimed to contemplate, will be a source of more relief than great rejoicing.

We believe the careless disregard of small business and of the middle class, generally apparent in high new deal circles, is being changed, perhaps by an infusion of new and different blood, to more rational and practical consideration of a big and essential group. Members of the middle class are vital to development and progress. They furnish steam and action in innumerable useful activities. At least they should not be discriminated against.

The Japs are capping the climax of savagery committed under the influence of fanatical religion. Pages of history are blood-stained by cruelties practiced at the instigation of mistaken interpretations. The Nipponese are going the limit in that direction. They figure dying for a piece of deified imperial putty like Hirohito, lifts them to everlasting glory, and that is what makes war against them tough for an enlightened nation that prizes human life.

A discouraged preacher in a neighboring town complains that only six per cent of people of all communities attend Sunday's divine services. He adds emphasis by saying that the church is indispensable to an orderly and peaceful society. It is the connecting link between worldliness and spiritual hope. The preacher is giving noble and vital service, and he must have sympathetic and substantial support. Indifference is a real threat to the future.

The hard, strained faces evident in pictures taken in both liberated and conquered countries of Europe reflect the terrific ordeal which they have endured. The countenance betrays a terrorized mind or an over-taxed body. Nature usually starts one off with a fairly acceptable face, but worry and hardship may change it for the worse.

When one is asked for advice he should endeavor to find out in advance whether it is advice or approval that is wanted. If the questioner stoutly maintains his own opinion, it would seem better, unless a grievous blunder is threatened, to agree. A questioner of settled, though mistaken, conviction might be benefited by getting stung.

If the report is true that the late President Roosevelt suffered a light stroke in 1938—two years prior to his election to a third term—and a severe cerebral hemorrhage late in 1943—before his election to a fourth term—the public was deliberately deceived. People were assured the president was in the best of health.

Prime Minister Churchill is campaigning for the endorsement of Great Britain's populace. The prime minister was out in front with words of wisdom and courage when England was perilously near defeat. In qualities of genuine greatness, a magazine writer ranks Churchill above any Englishman in history.

It is reported—how reliably we do not know—that California's leading spirits are advising the coast's growing army of idlers, made so by industry's reductions, that the middle west is the land of opportunity and plenty. This advice is said to be made particularly emphatic if the idler has nothing to invest.

Care must be taken to keep the miasma of brutal war from deadening sensibilities of sympathy and fellowship so necessary in the blood stream of future civilization.

Race Horses Preferred.
(Norfolk Daily News)

We have quit trying to make sense out of many of the rules and regulations that are issued in Washington. So we have no comment on the order that bars farmers' show stock from railroad transportation, but opens up the cars to race track horses on which people gamble away their substance.

We have quit looking for an explanation of why ODT puts up high barriers against state and regional fairs which are held to promote agricultural improvement, but opens wide the doors to race meets, wherever held.

We are past being interested in the reason our own state fair is to operate with race horses, hurdy gurdies and hula dancers, and without the livestock and agricultural exhibits which are the only excuse for spending money on it.

We are conserving transportation, they say, but what are we conserving it for? Race horses and book makers?

These Curious 'Rights'
(Omaha World-Herald)

One bill now pending before congress enunciates the principle that "all Americans able to work and seeking work have a right" to a job. And it proposes that the government guarantee to provide the job.

Another bill states the belief that every American is entitled to an "adequate" diet—calories, vitamins, amino acids and all. And it proposes that the government make a "food allotment" to those whose diets do not measure up to the government's specifications.

Still another bill is based upon the theory that every citizen is entitled—notice how often that word is cropping up these days—to the best medical attention. And it offers a system of state medicine which would put a doctor and his black bag at the command of every sufferer from real or imaginary ills.

If these are indeed "rights" to which people are "entitled" by virtue of the fact that they exist, then it goes without saying that there are other "rights" of equal or almost equal importance.

Surely if a citizen is entitled to an adequate diet he also is entitled to a home which he will deem suitable. If he is entitled to medical care, naturally he is also entitled to drugs from the corner pharmacy. If he is entitled to other necessities, surely he should also be assured of adequate clothing, cut to government pattern. And if job, food, clothing, medical care are his right, why should he not also be granted by law the relaxation which his spirit craves—an automobile, an occasional night at the movies, a summer trip to the Riviera? And government-approved magazines and newspapers and books?

What a beautiful world this could be, with all the pleasant things supplied by the government, and all unpleasant things suppressed by the government's might.

There is only one drawback. To make that sort of society tick, a man with a bayonet must stand behind every civilian—telling him what to do, when to do it, and jabbing him when he is slow to obey. Americans might not like that.

THE MILLENNIUM.

The millennium would appear in the office. Westbrook Pegler and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt are about agreed on communist threats to democratic America. Pegler quotes approvingly Mrs. Roosevelt's warning to communists in the United States, and her advice to Russia to keep its totalitarian ideology at home. Pegler regrets the former first lady had not taken the anti-communist position long ago. Stirred by evident activities of the alien political group in the United States, Mrs. Roosevelt is quoted as saying: "It frightens us to see any group in our midst proposing to propagandize instead of cooperating where possible and let people think and act for themselves."

Fourth

Thinking has been placed into the minds of German school children with stuff like this! This isn't history—it's poison. Things like this make one realize more fully that it will be a tremendous, lengthy job to make over Germany, so it will be peace-loving, willing to be friends with all other peoples.

Damage to Seed Corn.
One farmer complains that pheasants have developed the habit of burrowing into corn rows and eating the seed. There would appear sufficient hunger-satisfying opportunities for foraging without destroying the basis of the coming crop. But that line of reasoning is not likely to make an impression on the birds. Whether the complaint is general or not, we have not been informed.

HOOVER ADVISES.
The advice from a man of former President Hoover's experience and public spirit is certain to make an impression on high officialdom even though the latter may not feel like acknowledging superiority. In solving food problems the former president suggests that the secretary of agriculture should be authorized to absorb most of the present duties of the OPA. He would have the latter continue the task of rationing. Closely knitted to the one agricultural head he would have committees of proved knowledge. Each committee would be qualified by experience in a designated field. The plan would call for coordinated effort. All contributors to food production and distribution would be represented, and representatives would be made responsible.

NUMBER SEVENTEEN

Births Are Ahead Of Deaths in Year

Heart Disease Is Leader Among Fatal Diseases in Wayne County

Births in Wayne county in 1944 totaled 140. In Dixon county 133 births were reported for the same period. Sixty-seven deaths were reported in each county. These figures are taken from the report of the Nebraska bureau of vital statistics, received by Wm. Beckenhauer. There were no maternal deaths in either county. Each county reported death of two children under 1 year and two infants under 1 month of age. Wayne county had one death caused by tuberculosis while Dixon county reported none. Cancer caused five deaths in Wayne county and eight in Dixon county. Heart disease is reported to have caused 14 deaths in each of the two counties. Five stillbirths were reported for Wayne county while Dixon county had none.

Nebraska's estimated state population for 1944 was 1,213,792. This is an increase over the 1,176,023 reported in 1943. Births in 1944 for the state totaled 24,894. In 1943 there were 23,991. Total deaths in 1944 were 12,560 and in 1943 the figure was 12,936. The infant death rate was decreased from 35.6 per 1,000 births in 1943 to 33 per 1,000 in 1944. Infant deaths in 1944 were given at 815.

Heart diseases seem to be the leading causes of death, according to the report. The 1944 figure shows 2,405 deaths, or the rate of 198.1 per 100,000 population. Cancer ranks second in fatal illnesses, with 1,659 deaths in 1944. Cerebral hemorrhage, nephritis and diabetes mellitus are other diseases having a high mortality rate in this state. Tree Is Growing For Air Officer

The East Oregonian at Pendleton, Ore., for June 16 contains the following:

A tree grows in Wayne, Neb., and it grows because Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Stratton caused it to be planted in honor of 1st Lt. Alvin Berthelsen, 26, recently liberated from a German prison camp, after capture January 28 of this year, following distinguished service as an army pilot.

Wayne, former home town of the Strattons, is an up-and-coming little city of 3,000; and they're building a country club and in connection with landscaping, citizens are buying trees to honor service men—evergreens for those who lost their lives for their country, and other varieties for the living.

"We thank God Alvin's tree is an elm, and not an evergreen, for he has had a dangerous time of it," said the Strattons. "Son of the Carl Berthelsens, Nebraska farmer, Alvin worked part-time in our hotel at Wayne when he was attending normal school there. We liked him so well that we took him to Missoula, Mont., where he worked in our hotel, the Florence, while studying law at the University of Montana. After enlistment, he was in the south Pacific, and had 50 missions as a gunner to his credit before returning to the United States, where he received his commission.

"Based in England, he completed 31 missions as pilot of a B-24, prior to his capture. His wife is now living in Spokane, Wash., with their baby boy, whom he has never seen."

In Dixon County Files. From Northern Nebraska Journal, Ponca, for June 20, 1884: A bill before congress proposes pensioning all veterans of the Civil war when they reach the age of 40. The American envoy to Spain has authority to offer Spain $100,000 for Cuba. Crops in New England were damaged by mid-June frosts. Corn will have to be replanted, and vegetables were frozen. Beginning in July trains will operate between Sioux City and Valentine by way of Wayne and Norfolk. A body of oxide of tin 900 feet long has been located at Rockford, Dakota territory. Northern men who rushed into cotton planting in the southwest directly after the war lost heavily but those who turned their attention to sugar were successful.

Crops are looking fine in north-east Nebraska. Work started on the new Methodist church in Ponca. Fifteen couples went to the E. Newton grove north of Ponca for a picnic. After clearing out the large strawberry bed at the Newton farm, the group sat down to dinner, and the way victuals were disposed of would make the eyes of Theopelus Muggs bulge out in holy terror. Swings and hammocks were put up for quiet afternoon enjoyment. Complimenting with a request, Miss Lena Feauto favored the ruralizers with a choice declamation, showing to advantage her elocutionary powers.

The people of Wayne are indebted to Miss Elsie Warrick for a gift of 50 books to the Wayne library. Most of the books are English literature or biography and all of them are in very excellent condition. They make a very fine addition to the reference section and should be widely used.

A new non-fiction book purchased by the library this week was Philosophy for the Millions, by J. McWilliams. In this book are chapters dealing with our problems of distress, the causes of irreligion, life hereafter, and the role of the Christian in our present crisis. The pressing questions which every American is asking are answered with foresight.

The older teenage boys and girls will like a new book entitled The Buffalo Coat, by Carol Brink. This is a very fine historical novel of the pioneer life in America.

The Wide House, by Taylor Caldwell, will interest the readers who have followed the writings of this author. This is also an historical novel of New York state in the days just following the Civil war. We can especially recommend this book.

Story hours for the little folks on Tuesday and for the older children on Wednesday are progressing nicely. These warm summer days the basement of the library is cool and quiet and a fine place to spend the hot part of the afternoon.

Joe finds that Jane hates to be interrupted. (Party-liners never break in when the line is in use.) Jane senses that Joe is bored with a long story of household difficulties. (Party-liners keep their calls short and to the point.) Joe locked Jane out—once!—by forgetting to leave the key under the mat. # Produces Unusual Means of Identity

Skeleton of Lamb Tells Customers That Shop Is Out of Meat

Capt. Herbert Frank, Camp Butler, N. C., post finance officer, was paying off patients in the convalescent hospital. He required each man to produce his dog tags or some other positive identification. He stepped Pvt. Willie Jackson. He said, "I haven't any dog tags, sir, but I have something just as good." He opened his mouth, removed his upper plate and placed it in front of the startled officer. Inscribed on the denture was "Willie Jackson, 34510783." Willie got his money.

The customers knew there wasn't any use asking Butcher Tony Travell if he had meat. He just mounted the skeleton of a lamb in his showcase. Prospective patrons chuckled and passed on.

At Milwaukee, one bus driver didn't have any difficulty in getting passengers to "step to the rear of the bus." The passengers made a beeline for the rear and right out the back exit when a small boy permitted a half dozen harmless garter snakes to escape from their shoebox container.

If you think you have troubles, consider the Otto Asche family of Holdrege. Eighteen months ago a daughter, Gwendolyn, 16, was injured in an automobile accident. She recovered, then returned to the hospital to undergo an appendectomy. Subsequently, another daughter, Janice, 6, suffered a broken leg, and a son, Kenneth, was accidentally shot through the chest. A heart ailment sent Mrs. Asche to the hospital for a while. More recently, a son, Wesley, 15, underwent an appendectomy. The father has just joined him at the hospital. He was injured when his tractor overturned.

James Augustus Cooper, 101, was trimming eyes for a living and he insisted that his bride-to-be, Mrs. Julia Westphal, 62, quit her job as a waitress because he intended to support her. He attributed his long life to clean living and the love of good women.

First Baseman Omar Lane and Shortstop George Morgan of the Memphis Chicks found the housing shortage so acute at Memphis, that they are sharing a hotel room with one bed and two mattresses. Thus, the player with the most hits for the day spends that night in the bed. The other spreads his mattress on the floor.

William Hayes, a war plant worker, swam 17 miles to reach the shore of Lake Ponchartrain Sunday to bring help to five companions after their boat capsized. A flying boat which the six men helped build at the Consolidated aircraft plant picked up the five men two hours later. Their 55-foot launch had floundered in a squall and sank. The men used life mattresses to keep afloat in the choppy waters 23 hours.

During the unseasonably cold weather at Port Washington, Wis., Temple, 37-year-old circus elephant, with the Lee Brothers circus, refused to act. The elephant was bedded down in a barn near Port Washington while the circus moved to the next stand. Temple went on a sitdown strike. The circus was forced to move on minus one elephant with a cold trunk.

An Ohio father for the second time is following in his son's footsteps. Paul Bernard List, 42, Cincinnati salesman, obtained a license to marry Mrs. Lora V. Barnett, mother of his son's wife, Paul, Jr., married Jean Barnett a year ago. Mr. List entered the Merchant Marines with another son, William, last August and was discharged May 30, William still is in service.

At Manchester, Mont., Election Judge Oscar Johnson sadly penned this report on a recent election: "No election. Mud." Only Mr. Johnson battled the quagmired roads to the polling set-up, then maintained lonely vigil as the other election judges and voters failed to appear.

United States Attorney Howard L. Doyle jumped from his seat in federal court at Springfield, Ill., when five men started to leave the courtroom and asked the judge what he had forgotten to remember. Only four prisoners had been arraigned. Judge Charles G. Briggie grinned, told the prosecutor it was about time he became acquainted with one of the five men, Joseph Wilson, newly appointed deputy marshal.

The parents of 18-month-old Kenneth Harnois, Richmond, Cal., may be forgiven if they think his latest playful trick wasn't cute. Mrs. Julie Harnois, 29, asked police to help look for a purse containing $900 and the family's five ration books. She said Kenneth had thrown it from the car window on a busy street.

At Wilbur, Wash., Geo. Schoolcraft is displaying a four-inch-long, white radish that grew through the eye of a button. The top of the root was still making growth although nourished only by the slender bit of radish which passes through the button's eye.
