Can Save Sugar Canning Peaches

Peaches are abundant now and will be the most plentiful fruit on the market. They may be canned, frozen, made into peach butter or peach pulp. The following recipes, prepared by the Nebraska cooperative extension office in agriculture and home economics, show how peaches may be canned with less sugar.

How to Can With Sugar.

For easy peeling, put peaches in wire basket or cheesecloth and dip for a minute or two in bolling water, then quickly into cold water. Slip off skins; halve and take out pits. Slice or leave in halves. To keep from darkening, dip in a gallon of water containing 2 tablespoons of salt and two tablespoons of vinegar; drain. If fruit is juicy, use ½ cup. sugar to each quart of raw fruit. Heat to boiling. For less juicy fruit drop into thin or medium syrup, boiling hot; just heat through. Pack hot, cover Practical PERMITTING Japan's imperial nut. Hirohito, to remain on the throne, but compelling him to act under the absolute direction of an allied commander is considered justified on the practical ground that obedience and order will thereby be made easier.

In their abysmal ignorance the Nipponese-have confidence in words that issue from the royal palace. While civilized peoples regard Hirohito as an inferior quality of animated putty, the Jap with one brain cell—and that one not always working—believes he is a god, specially ordained by heaven to lead.

Hirohito's leadership was in the hands of a ruthless military, and it is doubtful if he ever knew when or where he was leading. Now an allied commander will not even have to form the habit of thinking.

Getting rid of war lords and instituting.

Getting rid of war lords and instituting Getting rid of war lords and instituting a system of education may after a long time teach the Japs to reason and grasp the meaning of self-government. Survivors may in time escape the unholy spirit of conquest, and see the value in living peacefully with other nations. But the task of taming and humanizing the oriental devils is a gigantic one, and will require courage and patience. Retaining a worshipped figurehead as a medium seems advisable.

Looking AT considerable length the World-Herald, taking note of to Future the socialist victory in England, warns against a similar trend in the United States. Whether the American system which has no equal, will be fully maintained, is the question that arouses anxiety. The World-Herald says in part:

"As we prepare for the fateful effort we need to look into our own hearts, all of us. Are we for fellowship, or are we bent upon promoting blind-eyed strife among ourselves, with failure for all at the end of the road?

"We must look, too, and out of necessity, to our government at Washington. Will it lead and serve us in the American way? While helping to bind up the wounds, to cure errors, impartially to promote a unity of justice, will it throw open the switch to free labor and free enterprise, and give encouragement to both alike?

"Or will it be frightened, made timid, irreso-

"Or will it be frightened, made timid, irreso-

"Or will it be frightened, made timid, irresolute, by the rapid drift of a hungry and desperate Europe toward a reactionary statism?

And, with that, contribute to an eventual sad surrender?

"The temptation, at first glance, is great. Many enthusiastic voices are predicting a wide 'swing to the left' in response to Britain's warning. A whole-hearted effort to avert unemployment, destitution, social unrest, industrial disorder is imperative. The record of warning. A whole-heartest effort to avert un-employment, destitution, social unrest, indus-trial disorder, is imperative. The record of President Truman gives ground for the belief that he will lead that effort within the limits of the American system."

Wayne's two already highly developed parks were almost overflowing with picnicking, and leisure-seeking crowds Sunday. This fact suggests the need of developing for use the new, large, ideally situated Memorial park north of town as soon as possible. It has been lined with trees honoring the county's war veterans, and it has received other attention consistent with objectives. But improvements, prevented by war, should now be hurried along. It may be made an outstanding spot for recreation, and the more persons who come here to enjoy it and the other parks, the more will be the temptation to make Wayne their home town. And we hope a modern's swimming pool will be included early in the planning. Original investors will feel warranted if the town now goes ahead to finish what was started a few years ago.

Is the war, just over the Armageddon mentioned in the scriptures? Certainly it was a terrific battle between forces of good and evil, between freedom and slavery. And the utter rout of designing tyrants should mean the dawn of a better era for mankind everywhere. What made this war, caused sacrifice of innumerable lives and reduced to naught millions in material values? It was a diabolical intent to enslave and pillage a whole world. It was started by the lowest instincts of hell. It brought a train of unspeakable miseries. It was frustrated by the none-too-soon aroused democratic giant.

The closing days of every war bring to the surface crackpots who dare to deceive the people. Sunday night's false report was quickly corrected and a five-thousand-dollar reward was offered for detection of the guilty person. What satisfaction can be derived from lying to an anxious public could not be determined without the aid of a psychopathic expert. The task of gathering and disseminating news accurately is most exacting and every radio listener and newspaper reader is vitally interested, and anyone who would deliber-ately and intentionally insert a false note should be prosecuted to the limit of the law

Report comes from Tokyo that on hearing of the empire's collapse, Japs by the thousands fell to the ground before the imperial palace in shame and tears. But they may be comforted by assurance that orders will be filtered through their deity, He will have no more initiative or individuality than Charley McCarthy or Mortimor Snurd, but acting as a medium he will be on hand to worship. This arrangement is satisfactory to the allies and necessarily acceptable to the defeated enemy.

It behooves nations, now freed from war and the threats of tyrants, to emphasize spiritual values more and worldly self-seeking less, as preparatory steps for what lies in the great hereafter. The late internecine struggle counted its victims by the thousands, and such tragic consequences must arouse remaining thousands to think and act more unse!fishly to enrich the prospect.

It is reported that the state department of roads and irrigation is launching a survey of the area between Norfolk and South Sioux City to ascertain needs for highway improvements. Territory leading to Wayne will doubtless realize its share. It is hoped the day is not distant when Congressman Karl Stefan's proposed farm-to-market hard-surfaced roads may be made realities.

The congressional plan reported from Washington to revise the tax structure to relieve small business is encouraging. For a long time middle groups seem to have been discriminated against—perhaps not intentionally, but because they have not been sufficiently organized to express with telling force how they suffer and feel.

Reports of improvements in Wayne dur Reports of improvements in Wayne during peace-time years are numerous and seem to be reliable. Building restrictions held back construction in both residence and business sections during the war, but lifting these before long will be the signal to go ahead. Many advanced steps are needed and are in prospect.

'In greeting President Truman as he landed in England, King George VI said: "Welcome to my country." Why that "my" stuff? How much better to say "our country?" Like a clerk in a store saying: "I'm just out" of this or that. Burying self alway leaves a better taste.

Paul Mallon, columnist, reports that new Pall Mation, Comming, reports that her deal elements in the democratic party are maneuvering forces in opposition to President Truman's political chances. The president appears to be building his own political organization independent of the new deal-CIO coalition.

The frightful atomic bomb and entrance of Russia into the war no doubt helped the Japs decide to surrender while they had enough left to do so. The subsequent responsibility falling to the United States is huge, but it may be handled by dealing justly but firmly with all nations.

News currents the last few days behaved like a severe case of hiccoughs. Ending of the war was the cause. What seemed perfectly true and reliable one hour was often changed the next hour. People had to switch thinking from one direction to another with shocking suddenness.

President Truman's statement at Potsdam that the United States wanted no additional territory from the war overlooked the need for protective island bases in the Pacific. This oversight was corrected in Pacific. This oversight was corrected in his later speech on arriving in this country.

In welcoming peace, the prayerful, serious mood is infinitely more appropriate and more to be desired than getting drunk and raising hell. And those who did the latter most, usually contributed to the war and victory least.

Westbrook Pegler, columnist, annoys labor union leaders by asking them if returned soldiers who have been fighting for freedom, will be permitted to accept jobs without joining the organization.

Anyone who encourages another war simply encourages the prospect of depopulating the earth. Humanity could not stand a session with atomic bombs and other kindred demolishers.

Threshing crews report small grain yields fully up to expectations. Now we are looking hopefully to a large, matured corn crop to round out a profitable agricultural year.

Margin Is With Us.
(Norfolk Daily News)

The current worry among farmers is the late-planted corn and the cool weather which has retarded its growth toward maturity.

June was a cold month, July was cooler than normal and August has had several days and nights of below average temperature.

The farmer wants to know what this will mean to his corn.
Wallace's Farmer has checked over the statistics for several years with cool sum-statistics for several years with cool summers.

"Apparently," it says announcing its conclusion, "a warm September can make up for some cool summer weather. And after three out of five cool summers, September has been warmer than usual."

Three out of five isn't a very reassuring margin, but it is encouraging to know that we seem to have a better than even chance for good corn-maturing weather next month.

RECONVERSION

RECONVERSION.

The responsibility of reconversion is at hand, and many who have had lucrative jobs in war, plants, will lose them and have to look to other; sources for employment. This condition is inevitable, and should have been anticipated. Many mo doubt looked forward to this day and planned accordingly. It is hoped so. It is hoped a share of carnings has been saved to tide over the interim between jobs. Some time will be required for industry to change to civilian production, and thus absorb workers who have been otherwise employed. So many things are needed in the world that manufacturing will be stepped up as rapidly as possible, and it is believed private enterprise can satisfy labor and consumer demands if given reasonable time and cooperation to do so. A temporary slump is certain to be followed by an era of unprecedented activity. There should be employment for all who want to work without a WPA or government subsidies.

Lambs and Sheep Payments Fixed

A new government program of payments direct to producers and feeders of lambs and sheep for animals sold on or after August 5 is expected to result in feeding and growing lambs to heavier weights by giving larger returns to sheep raisers and lamb feeders. These special payments will continue on sales through June 30, 1946.

The reconstruction finance corporation is withdrawing its payment of 95 cents a hundredweight lamb subsidy which has been paid to packers as part of the government's price stabilization policy.

The U. S. D. A. payments to be paid by the commodity dredit corporation through county AAA offices will vary from month to month. The largest payments will be made on lambs marketed during February, March and April, 1946. The rates starting this month and continuing through November will be $1.50 a hundredweight for 65-90 pound lambs and $2.15 a hundredweight for 7lambs over 90 pounds. Payment for all other sheep and lambs for the entire 11-month period will be $1 a hundredweight.

ON THE FARM.

ON THE FARM.

The Omaha Journal-Stockman says town boys who have spent summer vacations working on farms, have found the experience both pleasant and profitable. With healthful toil and attractive financial rewards, the youth is not tempted to try to think up some new form of devilment. In a wholesome atmosphere his mind turns to try to think up some new form of devilment. In a whole-some atmosphere his mind turns to what he can make of himself. The Journal-Stockman goes on to say: "Take the case of a southwestern Kansas boy who went to a farm, drove a tractor for summer fallow plowing until harvest time, then piloted the machine ahead of a combine, plowed stubble, drilled wheat, and tid repair jobs, finally ending up with $400 in his pocket—and he is only 14 years old. That was last summer, and there is little doubt about where he is spending his summer this year. The money is interesting, of course, ($300 of last summer's take went into war bonds), but that is 'chicken feed' compared with what this boy, and others like him, get from such a venture. Even if he shouldn't eventually end up on a farm, he will carry always a profound respect for agriculture. He is learning what it means to do a full day's work. He is realizing the importance of his future responsibility in doing that day's work as his contribution to man's society. He is adding to his physical stature and future health. And he is taking a big step toward growing up to manhood—the right way."

Billfold in Calf Protects Rations

Southern Straight-up Hills please don't take it all. Will $10 do?" "Okay." She said she handed him that amount and then he fled.

Because his calf had an appetite for billfolds, R. F. Soutee, a Taneyville, Mo., farmer, has applied to his ration board for gasoline A and B book replacements. Mr. Soutee explained to the board he lost his billfold on his, farm and later found the calf making a meal of it. He killed the calf and reclaimed the wallet with all its contents, including money, ration books and a lock of his daughter's hair. Ration officials were able to identify the A and B books. The lock of hair, wrapped in cellophane, was undamaged.

It's no joke about the farms in these rugged southern hills standing straight up on end. Henry (Deacon) Young reported that his Jersey cow fell out of the pasture and was injured fatally. Farmer Young immediately butchered the cow, and while he loses his milk supply, there is meat around for a while.

At Salt Lake City, George White went to a fortune teller's booth at a carnival. After he left, he told police, what little fortune he had with him, in his wallet, was missing immediately butchered the cow, and while he loses his milk supply, there is meat around for a while.

He descended a few minutes later with his reward and a look in his eye.

At Miles City, Mont., the Rev. John B. Fitz, delivering an outdoor sermon after a church picnic, was annoyed by rattling sounds. With dignity he stepped from an improvised pulpit, took a gun from an automobile and, with two wellalmed shots, climinated two buzzing rattlesnakes near the congregation. He then resumed his sermon.

Mrs. H. Burghardt has a cow, but she isn't sure how much longer it will be hers. For the last week some one has been milking the cow before Mrs. Burghardt has had a chance to get to the barn. Someone took the milk stool and later the cow's block of salt was missing. In, desperation, Mrs. Burghardt entered the following classified advertisement in the Watseka Times: "Will the party who has been milking my cow, who stole my milk stool and now the cow's salt please call at the house and I'll give you the cow?"
