IS IT NOTHING TO YOU?

ARE you among the preoccupied crowd that rushes heedlessly by the Saviour year after year? Can you afford longer to neglect the vital issues of life? What is life? Why are you here? Where are you going? Are you created merely for this brief, restless existence here on earth, to live your short span of life and then cease to exist? When death comes, what then? Are you ready to meet your God? The man or woman who puts these questions off and lives on with thoughtless abandon from day to day is gambling with eternity.

Do not try to choke your conscience. It is the best friend you have. Let it speak. Do not try to silence it with the argument, "I am all right. I am doing the best I can. I am doing no wrong; I am living a decent, honest, upright life. I am ready to meet God without the ministrations of the Church."

The God whom you must meet sooner or later says: "There is none that doeth good, no not one." "Ye shall be holy, for I, the Lord, your God, am holy." "If we say we have no sin, we deceive ourselves and the truth is not in us." Remember, God demands perfection in thought, word, and deed.

Remember also that sin is damnable. "The soul that sinneth it shall surely die." Your sins will testify against you unless they are removed. You need a Saviour. Your greatest problem in life is not solved until you have found Him. You are not ready to die unless you have found peace in Him. He says: "I am the Way, the Truth, and the Life; no man cometh to the Father, but by Me." "Believe in the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved."

What are you going to do about it? Your whole life is misspent unless you make provisions for a blessed eternity. Are you trifling with your soul's salvation? Do not argue, "I am just as good, and even better, than many church people." Perhaps you are. But your argument is wrong. Both you and the church member are sinners in need of salvation. The sincere church member has found his Saviour while you have not. That is the difference.

We are talking to you straight from the shoulder because we have something to you, and we are really desirous of offering its blessings to you. It is nothing strange or new. It is as old as time. It is the Gospel of the crucified Redeemer, the old story of man's sin and God's pardoning grace, the "sweetest story ever told," the solution of all man's problems.

Is that "old-fashioned"? But so is man's sin. Modern man with all his advancement in knowledge and all his achievements in many fields of human endeavor is not inherently different from his forefathers. He is still a sinner and still needs a Saviour. He still dies and faces the great issue of eternity. To this day the Word of God alone gives satisfactory answer to the anxious questions of the heart.

Wake up, friend, and get busy with the main business of your life. Come to church! We cordially invite you. If you have drifted away, use the Lenten season to come back. If you have never been connected with a church, come and give its message a hearing. Whatever you do, stop drifting and give serious thought to your own soul's needs.

Imagination Is Only Air Limit

Development of Aviation to Progress As Far As People's Vision.

The collective imagination of people is the only limit to development of aviation, in the opinion of I. V. Packard, of Lincoln, who addressed Wayne Kiwanis Monday. Mr. Packard is director of aeronautics in Nebraska.

"The air is the greatest highway system in the world," Mr. Packard stated. The airport is the device for getting on and off these super highways of the air. Nebraska has more than 100 airports.

Mr. Packard illustrated the speed of the air transport command by relating that at one time during the war fire destroyed a hospital in Alaska. Within 36 hours supplies and equipment had been brought from St. Louis and the hospital was again in operation.

Four days were required in Washington's time to travel from Washington to Philadelphia. Now one can reach any part of the world in that time by air.

During the war, hundreds of thousands of young men learned to fly and hundreds of thousands of others were associated with flying. They are taking aviation for granted. The progress aviation makes depends on how the public promotes it.

Nebraska is aviation-minded. In this state, Mr. Packard noted are more privately owned airplanes than the number owned by all the airlines of the nation. Many farmers and ranchers take keen interest in flying. They and others look to aviation not only as a means of travel and mail but also as a way to transport freight. The speaker noted that this is one of the services that will become more popular and which will cost less as it develops. "It is time for the public to think of what uses can be made of aviation."

Nebraska also leads in aviation instruction. This state today teaches more aeronautical subjects in schools than any other state. (Continued on Page Two)

Starts Addition To Parlors Here

Enlarged Chapel, New Show Room and Garage Area Included in Plan.

Construction of a one-story, 20x75 addition to the Beckenhauer mortuary is being started, and Wm. Beckenhauer hopes to have the improvement completed within two or three months. Mr. Beckenhauer will install pews in the chapel and beneath these will be linoleum. The front, back and aisles will be carpeted. The interior will be refurnished to harmonize with the carpeting, which may be green.

The new addition to the northeast will be a display room. This will be moved from the northwest part of the building will be converted into the garage.

Between the show room and chapel on the east will be Mr. Beckenhauer's room.

The addition will be of cement blocks which will be stuccoed to match the rest of the building.

Big Crowds Here For Farmers' Day

MARCH 15 IS LAST DAY TO FILE TAX WITH GOVERNMENT

TAXPAYERS have their eyes riveted on March 15 as the final day for filing income tax returns. The collector's office in Omaha has reported fewer persons asking for help in filling out blanks than formerly. This is due to simplification or increased knowledge.

Taxpayers have become used to the annual task and accept it as just another hardship. Paying this major tax makes smaller ones through the year seem less severe. If the sales tax would reduce other taxes, it would gain favor in harvesting funds for both the federal and state governments. It is the least painful tax. It is now receiving some attention in this state. Nebraska has bragged so long and so much about not having a sales tax that leaders would turn to it reluctantly.

Wayne's annual All Farmers' day, held at the auditorium Friday, drew one of the largest crowds ever for this occasion. An estimated 800 enjoyed the program of talks and music. The Chamber of Commerce and all farm organizations cooperated in sponsoring the affair.

Free lunch was served at noon to between 500 and 600. Glenn Houdeschild, general chairman for the occasion, furnished turkey for sandwiches. Edw. Seymour supplied ice cream. The Chamber of Commerce served buns, baked beans, potato salad, coffee and trimmings.

Dr. G. E. Condra Speaks. "Know the down and under of your county and state," advised Dr. G. E. Condra, University of Nebraska soil specialist. The speaker told that the rock formations of Niagara run beneath Nebraska, and that the rich Peoria soils of Illinois and Iowa are far beneath the surface in this state. Dakota sandstone under Wayne county is 14 per cent iron, but the plentiful supply of iron elsewhere does not now warrant use of the deposit. Two layers of poor quality coal are beneath this area and outcroppings may be seen along the river near Ponca. The state has 72 oil wells and to date five million barrels of oil, have been produced in Richardson county.

Water and soil are the two main resources of Nebraska, Dr. Condra explained, and these will grow grass, trees and crops. The average rainfall in the state is 28 inches, but 12 to 15 inches will grow good crops if received properly, the speaker noted.

"We have shallow water here and often too much iron in it," Condra continued. The speaker advised more sanitary wells, free from decayed matter and away from sources of pollution.

The kind of soil and way of life are closely related, Dr. Condra stated. Education is also related. Dr. Condra urged teaching children important facts about their county and state. They should not be worried about the atomic bomb for man can control explosion.

Food scarcity is this nation's chief problem," stated Rufus Howard of Lincoln, head of the state agriculture department. The speaker explained that the shortage is so acute people in eastern states live only on a week to week basis.

Nebraska has ranged fourth in cattle feeding, headed only by Texas, Iowa and Minnesota. In the past year this state has sold feed, whereas grains should have been put into livestock. The shortage of chickens is also acute. Corn, wheat, butter and many other products are far below former levels. Butter is at its lowest point on record. Farm machinery is scarce. Labor is lacking. Ceiling prices are raised on some products. The whole situation results in great confusion. Mr. Howard urged everyone to help avoid inflation in working out these problems.

Mr. Howard noted the need for industry and labor to work together. (Continued on Page Two)

Golden Wedding Day Is Observed

Mr. and Mrs. Wilke Lueken Honored on Anniversary Tuesday, March 5.

The golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Wilke Lueken was observed Tuesday, March 5, when relatives and friends were guests at their home near Altona. Dinner was served at noon, and guests called in the afternoon and evening.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Mintken of Fremont, brought the wedding cake which was decorated in gold. The ornament was the one used at the wedding 50 years ago. Miss Bertha Stuenkel of Hooper, is the only one of four attendants who was able to attend the golden anniversary.

Miss Madeline Mintken had charge of the guest book. Miss Irene Beune and Mrs. J. F. Mintken, sister of Mr. Lueken, decorated the rooms and tables. Miss Lillian Mintken, Mrs. Gertrude Peters, Mrs. Francis Mintken, Mrs. Mary Mintken and Mrs. Sophia Mueuting served the dinner.

But, he added, prosperity depends on farm prices. Many are taking an interest in cattle prices in Nebraska. Much progress has been made in improving soil. Improvement in the dairy and food situation should be made.

The state agricultural college, Mr. Howard advised, can be of great service to the farmer and he urged cooperation with this group.

Would Remove Subsidies.
A proposal to remove subsidies and ceilings will be presented to Secretary Clinton Anderson and OPA Chief Chester Bowles in Washington, D. C., soon by representatives of the Livestock Feeders' association, according to Larry Brock of Wakefield, president, who addressed the group on the livestock situation. The association includes ten midwest states. "We, the farmers, should remove the subsidies while we have prosperity," he stated.

Mr. Brock explained that the purpose of the Feeders' association is to cooperate with all other farm groups in the best interest of farmers. He mentioned a national meeting to be held in Omaha soon in the interest of agriculture.

Progress is noted. Mr. Brock mentioned that the last unicameral earmarked $100,000 for animal husbandry in Nebraska.

Cooperation of farmers and farm groups will not only work to the best interest of agriculture but also of the nation, Mr. Brock concluded.

L. F. Larson, extension agricultural engineer, showed motion pictures on labor saving devices on the farm. These dealt with manure loader, fence wire roller, post hole digger, tractor device, plastic irrigation tubes, etc.

Atkins leader, played in the morning and also at the noon hour. Myron Deck and Dale Behmer of Hoskins, furnished accordion numbers. The former played "Musician Come Out and Play" and "Sioux City Sue." The latter's numbers were "Home Town Band" and "South." Jean Boyd led group songs.

And the teaching of these measures up to higher standards than in any state excepting New York.

Airports serve an intangible value in that they interest promising fliers. Doolittle and Rickenbacker are examples of men who started in a small way and became aces of note in the flying world.

Many changes will result from development of aviation, Mr. Packard stated. The conception of geography will be revised. Few realize that Berlin is just as close to Nebraska as to Miami, Fla., by air. Languages will change. When one travels to perhaps five nations in one day, an international language may be the solution. Tables of standards vary and may become uniform to serve all. Time instead of distance will be important. In Paying Subsidies DR. A. L. MILLER, congressman from Nebraska's Fourth district, carried mid-western anti-new-dealism into the Town Meeting of the Air discussion Thursday night when he reminded Secretary Henry Wallace, a fellow-participant, of the fallacy of plowing under crops, killing pigs and paying subsidies to help the farm market. Dr. Miller evidently believes in abundance without subsidies and with a minimum of Washington control.

The Norfolk Daily News comments on the subsidy plan, referred to by Dr. Miller, in these paragraphs:

"The great danger today is from inflation. One of the towering factors in inflation is the enormous amount of spending money in the bank accounts and bond boxes of the people, ready to go out on the markets and bid high prices for the limited amount of goods to be had. Another is the continued federal deficit and the mounting federal debt.

"So how do the subsidy advocates propose to meet this double peril? They would increase the already over-extended spending power of the people by using payments from the federal treasury to meet the higher cost of goods, and would expand the inflationary federal debt by adding to it the amount of subsidies used to help us evade our fair share of the higher cost of living.

"Subsidy advocates, therefore, would give inflation a boost two ways, by helping us buy more with our money and by swelling the already dangerously large federal debt.

"Every economist recognizes the danger. It is those congressmen who are legislating in fear of the CIO political action committee who demand that we use this subterfuge to avoid paying the cost of what we buy.

"And besides this economic issue, there is the question on financial morality: Shall we pay our own bills while we have more money than either we or our children are likely to have again, or shall the future generations pay them for us, when ability to pay will probably be much less than it is now?"

The Sioux City Journal calls attention to the fact that all states of the union have reduced indebtedness while the federal government has increased operating costs and steadily added to its already huge debt. Then the Washington treasury should quit matching dollars with the states to pay for improvements which belong to the states and which should be paid for entirely by the states. Let the states do their own improving as one way to help the federal government balance its budget.

Ruffled feelings between the United States and Russia have been on exhibition during the past week. The difference between the two may be found in ideologies and national ambitions. Russia wants to spread communism and increase its power. The United States simply wants other nations to follow their own wishes and run their own shows. This country has no desire for world domination beyond that needed to preserve peace. The United States will be fair. Russia will be fair if it figures that to be the only safe course. It is inconceivable that two former allies, fighting together to stay the hand of tyranny, could not settle differences without resort to arms which must have become abhorrent to both.

Manifestly, farmers help pay in taxes any subsidies they receive. We think they would prefer price increases on products in accordance with supply and demand. OPA is another unsatisfactorily functioning government regulation. It finds difficulty in establishing acceptable price levels. It is believed by many that if the OPA were discontinued altogether, there would be increased production, regulated buying by individuals and, as a consequence, equitable prices.

No one will deny that the president acted wisely in selecting Herbert Hoover, former president, to look after the distribution of food to starving peoples abroad. Mr. Hoover had successful experience in the first world war. He gives assurance that relief will not in the least be influenced by race, religion or political belief. Through the years since retiring from the presidency, Mr. Hoover has been actively engaged in philanthropic work.

Post-war financing was considered at recent regional meetings of Nebraska bankers, and it was proposed as far as practicable to translate community savings into community progress. It was agreed that "the volume of idle money now deposited in banks calls for the most progressive type of financing consistent with sound banking to the end that Nebraska wealth may support Nebraska enterprise."

Monday evening, March 18, will be an important occasion in Wayne for the county's 4-H clubbers who will at that time have their achievement program in the municipal auditorium. Awards will be presented to 1945 winners. Farm club activities have proved their usefulness, and such organizations are deservedly growing.

Moisture over the state the past week, mostly in the form of snow, has been a boon to wheat growers in southwest sections. It will prevent brisk winds from scooping up seeds and scattering them promiscuously. Moisture is also welcomed as a help to mellow corn lands for plowing and planting.

The near blizzard which threatened success of the special farmers' day program in Wayne last Friday disappeared in time to save the occasion. Growers were on hand early, and they followed events of the day with liveliest interest. Those in charge have reason to be highly pleased.

We are reminded that Nebraska's new convention preliminary imposes three campaigns—first to get convention endorsement, then to win the primary nomination and last to land triumphant in November.

Surveyor George Gallup has found that two-thirds of the people of the United States are willing to curtail their daily diet in order to help satisfy hunger abroad.

One frequently wonders if he is as dumb as he secretly thinks he is, and whether an unbiased appraisal would prove stimulating or discouraging.

STEFAN HONORED

Third congressional district of Nebraska will be pleased to know Congressman Karl Stefan gave the Philippine people such helpful war service that he was entitled to the Philippine Military medal which was bestowed on him in Washington last week. Congressman Stefan served as a telegraph operator during the Philippine insurrection, and he was a member of the congressional delegation to visit the islands in 1935 to prepare for their independence. He made many friends, and anticipating trouble with Japan, he arranged a system of codes for short-wave broadcasts from Washington to assist underground resistance. Following the December 7, 1941, attack he put his system into practice, and it proved of signal value. Thus, the honor which has deservedly come to him.

Sin

with Jesus' list of sins, and they have made their own rules which they seek to fasten on others. As a result, many practices, or habits, which are merely harmful, like smoking cigarettes, are moved into the list of sins meriting condemnation. Personally, I have not made any rules about sin except that they apply to myself. I think that everyone should make his own rules. I have my own notions regarding what it is sinful for me to do. Differences of opinion on this point are so wide and great that no one is justified in assuming superior wisdom. Preachers at times fulminate loudly about the sins of the many, but such fulmination leaves me cold, generally. I do not agree that they know any more about it than I do. At least, I will not concede that they know anything about the sins that afflict me and what I am doing about it. As you say, what was regarded as sinful a half century ago may be free of that condemnation today, and vice versa. The times change, and human thought changes with the times. A parting thought: Who am I, that I should condemn my neighbor?"

POOR PLAN. The current Coronet magazine contains the story of a new household service. According to the idea, the old-fashioned maid who was on the job all the time and who was usually a member of the family, is passe, out, a has-been. The new plan is directed by an agency which contracts to serve any household demand from scrubbing the floor to looking after the children. The experts provided are under bond. This plan enables the household head to give more time to playing bridge and doiling up for formal social occasions. Offhand, we don't like it, even if we could afford it. It would hold the housewife aloof. It would dull her personal interest. It would remove the personal touch so vital to smoothly running domestic affairs. It would be undemocratic. A housewife doesn't want to be a drudge, but neither does she want to be a useless ornament. She usually likes to share practically in house work, and would not relish becoming the victim of an unfeeling machine.

ARM Chester Haverer was transferred to Olathe, Kan. The boys had been together 14 months.

Arrives from Pacific. Robert Levin was expected to land in the States the first of the week from Okinawa. After receiving his discharge in California, he comes here to be with his wife and daughter, Connie, at Basil Osburn's. Mrs. Levin is the former Bonnie Osburn. The Levin's will go to Oakland, Calif., to live. Mr. Levin is having a position with a telephone company there.

Cousins Are Home. Wayne Randol, who is with the marines, and Leonard Roberts, with the naval air corps, cousins who arrived on leave the same day, were Thursday dinner guests of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Roberts. Wayne, who was at O. L. Randol's in South Sioux City, left the last of the week on his return to Hawaii. Leonard, who was at Ray Roberts', left this Tuesday to return to Washington state.

Receives Discharge. Alvin Osburn, son of the Basil Osburns of Wayne, received his honorable discharge from the navy at Ft. Wayne, Ind., last week Wednesday after serving nearly three years. He and his wife were in Hooper with the latter's parents last week and they will come here this week for a visit. Mr. Osburn had no leaves during his period of service. He goes to Chamute Field, Ill., soon as civilian instructor.

Confessions Saturday at 7:00. Catechism after masses. Lenten devotions Wednesday and Friday evenings at 7:30. Monday, the feast of St. Cyril. Tuesday, the feast of St. Joseph.

The pastor suggests to the members of the parish that they open their Bibles during Lent and read the holy gospels which are read each morning in the mass. It would be praiseworthy if before retiring after the labor of the day the head of the house would gather the family together and read these inspired words of the Master. The gospels as read in the mass will be as follows for each day: Wednesday, St. Matt. 12:38-50; Thursday, St. Matt. 15:21-28; Friday, St. John, 5:1-15; Saturday, St. Matt. 17:1-9; Sunday, St. Matt. 17:1-9; Monday, St. John 8:12-29; Tuesday, St. Matt. 23:1-12.

The events that transpired there form the basis of the whole system of Christian doctrine. The work of atonement is the heart which gives life to the various teachings of Christian theology. Our whole hope of heaven is built upon the deity of Christ and the effectiveness of His substitutionary sacrifice. Christ is the Lamb of God that taketh away the sin of the world." Unless He is that, our visit to Calvary has no significance and our whole system of religion is built upon sand. On Golgotha our eternal fate was settled." (This is the message that is regularly proclaimed at Grace Lutheran church. You are invited to come and hear it.)

Library News

"O for a Booke and a shade nooke. Flyther in-a-dooer or out. With the grene leaves whisp'ring overhead. Or the Strete cries all about. Whither I maie Reade all in my ease. Both of the Newe and Olde; For a iollie goode Booke whereon to looke. Is better to me than Golde."

In penning these lines, John Wilson expressed not only his own pleasure in reading, but also that of every other reader since words were first recorded.

We have a new biography at the library and it was sent to us as a gift. Bernard Baruch, park bench statesman, has been written about by Carter Field, and the book sent to libraries all over the country by his friends. The card enclosed with the book did not state just exactly who his friends were, but he must have many and they must think highly of him to make such a gesture, especially while he is still living. The book is good, it is interesting and contains no partisan politics.

The Literary Guild Book of the Month is very unusual. Not since Sholem Asch wrote The Nazarene and The Apostle have the critics been so extravagant in their praise for an author's writing, or have they been so unanimous in their opinions. Through the magic of words Gladys Schmitt has evoked the story of God's most magnificent sinner, David, the King. This is Bible history with a new approach, using the force and power of the Old Testament and the flexibility and clear outlook of modern writing. It has been said of this author that "there is not a paragraph in her book that was not written by a writer. There are many books that are written by story-tellers and nerve-exciters, and plot-makers. But a book that is written by a person who can write, an artist with the gift and the power of style, is rare. Gladys Schmitt in America, is one of these rarities."

Another new book of which we will be hearing more because it is the Doubleday, Doran $20.00 prize winner and also of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer $125,000 award for 1945, and is being made into a movie, is "Before the Sun Goes Down," by Elizabeth Metzger Howard.

Troop Two met at the city school last Wednesday when Mrs. Leonard Strong, leader, presented to the girls Mrs. H. D. Addison, who is new assistant. Mrs. Addison responded and told of plans for the future. She will have charge of initiation for the girls who will become first class scouts. Chere Houdersheldt, Janis Derry, Rosalyn Ellis, Jacqueline Andersen and Karol Lou Kay. In the lesson on art appreciation, reports were given on paintings by Millet. Chere Houdersheldt reported on 'The Gleaners,' Mary Carhart on 'The Sower,' Derelea Woods on 'Feeding the Hens,' and Shirley Gildersleeve on 'The Angelus.' Other reports were by Billie Roberts, Janis Derry, Chere Houdersheldt and Karol Lou Kay, these given to apply on merit badges. Tickets for the Mothers' Study club benefit were sold by Jean Rogge, Janis Derry, Helen Pile and Jacqueline Andersen. The girls have received orders for belts and correspondence cards, and Christmas cards are coming in for scrap books. The artist, Joshua Reynolds, was presented in biography to the troop March 13.

Brownies met at the city school this Thursday. At a special meeting of senior girl scouts held Tuesday evening last week, Miss Marybelle Schmitt led discussion on good grooming, costume selection and posture. Material on nutrition was distributed relative to badge work of troop members. Many members are doing individual work.

Troop Five had a 'play party' for themselves and guests Tuesday night at the training school. Sandwiches, cup cakes and Dixie cup ice cream were served. The party was chaperoned by Mrs. Walter Simon and Mrs. Ella Kingston. Browniescout Troop III gave a recital last week. The program included: Carol Simonin, piano selection; Mary Christensen and Nancy Peterka, song, America; Shirley Kingston, piano solo, Lady Moon; Linda Kessler, flute, The Mat on the Flying Trapeze; Little Brown Jug and America; Joyce Ingram, piano solos, Happy Rosetta and If I Build You a Bower; Dawn Buckley and Dorothy Lewis, cornet duet, Lightly Row; Nancy McGinn, piano solo, Gentle Maiden; Ruth Beck, piano solo, At Dancing School; Mary Jo Lindahl, violin solos, Beautiful Dreamer and Home on the Range; Patty Hinawalt, piano solo, In the Sweet Bye and Bye.

Library News

"O for a Booke and a shadie booke. Either in-a-doo-re or out: With the grene leaves whisp'ring overhede. Or the Streete cries all about. Where I maie Reade all at my ease. Both of the Newe and Olde; For a jollie goode Booke wherof to looke. Is better to me than Golde."

In penning these lines, John Wilson expressed not only his own pleasure in reading, but also that of every other reader since words were first recorded.

We have a new biography at the library and it was sent to us as a gift. Bernard Baruch, park bench statesman, has been written about by Carter Field, and the book sent to libraries all over the country by his friends. The card enclosed with the book did not state just exactly who his friends were, but he must have many and they must think highly of him to make such a gift, especially while he is still living. The book is good, it is interesting and contains no partisan politics. The Literary Guild Book of the Month is very unusual. Not since Sholem Asch wrote The Nazarene and The Apostle have the critics been so extravagant in their praise for an author's writing, or have they been so unanimous in their opinions. Through the magic of words Gladys Schmitt has evoked the story of God's most magnificent kinner, David, the King. This is Bible history with a new approach, using the force and power of the Old Testament and the flexibility and clear outlook of modern writing. It has been said of this author that "there is not a paragraph in her book that was not written by a writer. There are many books that are written by story-tellers and nerve-exciter, and plot-makers. But a book that is written by a person who can write, an artist with the gift and the practice of style, is rare. Gladys Schmitt, in America, is one of those rarities."

Another new book of which we will be hearing more because it is the Doubleday, Doran $20,000 prize winner and also of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer $125,000 award for 1945, and is being made into a movie, is 'Before the Sun Goes Down,' by Elizabeth Metzger Howard.

Cooked Fine Dinner; Then Threw It to Dog

One lady recently stated that she used to throw her own dinner to the dog most of the time. It made her sick just to look at anything to eat. She was swollen with gas, full of bloot, had headaches, felt worn out and was badly constipated. Finally she got ERB-HELP and says she now eats everything in sight and digests it perfectly. Bowels are regular and normal. She is enjoying life once more and feels like "some other woman" since taking this new compound.

ERB-HELP contains 12 great herbs; they cleanse bowels, clear gas from stomach, act on sluggish liver and kidneys. Miscellaneous people soon feel different all over. So don't go on suffering! Get ERB-HELP. Sold at all drug stores here in Wayne. Adv.C
