REVIVAL OF MAIN STREET CROWDS AS WEATHER WARMS UP

SATURDAY night's Main street forum increases attendance and enlivens interest with return of warm weather.

The weather is eyed suspiciously at this juncture. More moisture is needed, but Main street speculators generally think it will come in time to put ground in proper shape and relieve the uneasy tension.

Some government agencies would have hard going if their fate were in the hands of Main street. The pre-primary campaign has too few local candidates to cause much excitement.

Main street usually considers state and national candidates carefully and fairly. Main street on Saturday night is interesting and informative and it is a source of real satisfaction.

Startling Reality
LIFE magazine shows up child delinquency in popular centers through pictures and words in startling fashion. To the squalor of slum districts is attributed most of the big city's low standards. Poverty, cramped quarters, no playgrounds, often drunken, shiftless and unsympathetic parents keep little ones from wholesome living and from gaining a fair start. They shift from bad to worse, cultivate habits of crime and finally land in jail.

The magazine fixes major responsibility on parents. It says: "Fundamentally the family itself is to blame. Neglect, apathy, selfishness, indulgence all contribute to insecurity in home life. Such insecurity at home sends a child out on the street to find companionship and excitement. Then all the worst influences of modern society are free to act upon his untrained, immature mind."

Living from hand-to-mouth and lacking knowledge of real values, parents in the slums become dulled to sense of responsibility. And outside the big city slums parents may well exercise firmly uplifting influences over their children. All waywardness and devilment are not confined to slum districts.

In connection with child delinquency, Judge Philip B. Gilliam of Denver, has issued these twenty-one rules to guide parents in getting their children into his juvenile court:

1. Don't give your son any religious or spiritual training. Just take care of his bodily needs.
2. In his presence don't be respectful of womanhood, or of law or government. Belittle "dames" and courts, the police, public officials, the school, the church, the business. It's all racket!
3. Never look for the real cause of untruthfulness in your children. You might find he learned the art of lying from you.
4. Never try to answer the endless "whys" and "hows" of your children.
5. Be sure to humiliate your child in the presence of his friends. It adds to his respect for you.
6. If a conflict in wills arises between you and your child, don't try to reason with him—just knock him down.
7. Don't have any constructive discipline.
8. Be sure to criticize departed guests in the presence of your child.
9. Never give your child a reason for commands laid upon him. Let him guess.

10. Don't consider his educational and emotional development of a parental responsibility. What are schools for?
11. Don't let him discuss his plans, problems, or pleasures with you. Just be too busy.
12. Be sure to be loudly intolerant of other races and creeds than your own.
13. Don't open your home to his companions; they will miss up the place.
14. Don't give him an allowance, because he might learn how to save or spend.
15. Don't be calm or poised. Be shocked and explode when he tells you he has done something wrong. Then he won't confide in you the next time.
16. Don't make a pal of him.
17. Never let your child forget that, but for you, he would not have a roof over his head.
18. Be sure to forget the promises you make to your child, because he will forget the promises he makes to you later.
19. Mother, always accuse your daughter of being promiscuous with every "date" she makes, so she will be impressed with the fact that you were a "good girl" when you went out with boys.
20. Never give your child affection and never tell him how much you love him.
21. If you forget all the above, just remember this one: Be a poor example yourself. You know: "Do as I say; it's no one's business what I do."

Though we were not present for the discussion, a report from headquarters states that Nebraska editors at their recent meeting acted in support of legislation to reduce the cost of legal publications in conjunction with steps to reduce attorney's fees and other expenses involved in the settlement of estates. If we understand the intention of the editors, they propose to join the attorneys in trimming down costs in all probate matters. Settling estates is recognized as unnecessarily expensive, and saving more for heirs is considered supremely important. This movement will be hailed as almost altruistic by persons who expect to leave worldly valuables when they check out.

We must be on the mailing list of Daniel J. Tobin's International Teamster, and we are thus periodically reminded of the unreasonable labor union leaders. We are impressed by the undisguised nerve exhibited in trying further to dominate and control the government. The magazine talks glibly about the advantages of free enterprise, but directs its attacks at those who are practicing free enterprise and who are making it possible.

The Christian Science Monitor says Massachusetts and other states are increasing unemployment compensation to a point where idlers can better afford not to work than to have jobs. "Legislation which calls for payments which are an inducement to idleness," says the Monitor, "deserves more study than it is now receiving."

Senator Hugh Butler's successful experience in agriculture and livestock growing may be properly offered as convincing proof of his ability to serve a state that majors in the two lines mentioned. An unbiased review of his record shows that he has been pitching vigorously and wisely for farm and town interests alike.

Firmness in dealing with Russia seems to have had the desired effect of bringing it into closer and more reasonable relationship with the United Nations group. That is an encouraging turn in high diplomatic circles.

FOOD SUPPLY.
Unusually small food surplus makes a normal crop this year of vital importance. The government miscalculated food demands following end of hostilities, as mentioned editorially by the Saturday Evening Post. Removal of rationing and maintenance of subsidies encouraged food consumption. It is pointed out that due to high wages, food consumption during the war had gone to 110 per cent. Since then it has increased to 115 per cent. The Post says in conclusion: "Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson has asked farmers to increase their already high 1946 crop goals by more than 3,000,000 acres, principally in spring wheat, corn and soybeans. Farmers, the nation's most willing producers, will do the best they can. But a lot of luck will be necessary if food production equals its recent rate. The shortage of serviceable farm machinery, which grew during the war, has been accentuated by strikes. Farm workers still remain scarce, with higher wage scales in the cities not expected to improve the situation. Meanwhile, the administration, asking consumers to eat less, proposes to make it easier for them to eat more by continuing to pay a part of their grocery bill through food subsidies."

as passed, authorizes an appropriation of 500 million dollars during the next seven years for allocation to eligible states and state agencies on a dollar matching basis. This particular measure is a statutory authorization and makes no money immediately available. The appropriation must be made independently and subsequently pursuant to the authorization.

Lt. Roy M. Byram of Decatur, Miss. Catherine Mundschenk of Albion, Miss. Sylvia Waterhorn of Ponca, Miss. Enid Yusten of Ponca, and Gabe Parker of Wipnebag, are some of the recent visitors at the Third district office.

A large number of people interested in government surplus material have been in town. Most of them are business men but some are college officials trying to get scientific instruments for their schools. Some of these visitors came from Nebraska. They found procurement of surplus government property slowed and made difficult by existing procedures. They learned that congress, in passing the first surplus property disposal legislation, intended to eliminate the danger of billions of dollars worth of government surplus property getting into the hands of a few people; also, that congress wanted surplus property disposal to function without injury to normal business. Some of them pointed to the fact that all over the country "Army-Navy" stores have opened and apparently have abundant surplus government material to sell, but on the other hand, old established merchants are unable to secure any of this material. These visitors are asking, "Why?"

For more than twenty years the farmers have sought to have the so-called parity formula for farm prices amended or repealed. Not until the dark days of the depression was it enacted into law, and it since has been used as an artificial standard on which to base the income of farmers. Based on comparative prices on industrial products, from 1909 to 1914, it is outdated. Twice the house has passed amendatory legislation to include labor costs in parity prices.

which was defeated in the senate. Now the senate has inserted such an amendment in the minimum-wage bill. It will easily pass the house if it can be brought up in that body. The president promises a veto if it does. But eventually it must pass. Agriculture is the only industry in which labor costs are barred by law from being included in production costs.

The government, through RFC agencies, is buying 300,000 tons of copper at $250 per ton, from Chile, for stockpiling to meet present and future shortages. Most of the imported metal will be apportioned to civilian industries. A subsidy allowance will be made to keep down the cost to domestic users. Copper is largely a cartel product. Not all the mines are owned or controlled by one combination, but the price system seems to be. There is a large supply of copper in our country, especially in Alaska. Stores of mines are closed down because of the competition of the bigger mines, and the subsidies will not be made large enough to open the smaller mines. The story of copper will eventually become an interesting chapter in some future congressional inquiry into the world cartel system.

The government housing program still is in dispute in the senate as new housing construction lags. Lumber estimates indicate an increasing supply, but not in desired volume. Production in 1945 was 27 billion feet. For this year, the estimate is 30 billion feet, seven billion feet short of requirements. Export of lumber continues notwithstanding repeated announcements that it has been stopped. "Commitments" to other nations is assigned one reason for exports, but neither congress nor the people needing homes are responsible for the commitments.

Lumber alone would not be sufficient for the three million homes planned for the next 18 months, even if it were more plentiful. Other materials are equally short. When it comes to skilled labor, the scarcity is greater than that of materials. There is immediate need of 320,000 carpenters, 80,000 painters, 50,000 plumbers, 30,000 electricians and 40,000 bricklayers. For a dozen years little has been done in building new homes. The population has increased over eight millions in that time, and the shift of population from one locality to another has been nearly as great. Repairs to dwellings have been almost at a standstill since 1941. Remedying such a situation may require a much larger supply of materials and of labor than the experts can even estimate.

The foreign loan boys are lining up in long lines. The French delegation wants one billion dollars at once, and 2 1/2 billions soon. Otherwise, say the experts, France may turn to Russia for assistance and for its politics. But Russia also wants six billion dollars to restore its economy. The British loan of four billion dollars plus, still hangs fire as propaganda flows over the country as to how our country will benefit—through exports of industrial products already so scarce for domestic purposes that more exports may blow off the inflation lid.

The latest loan authorized is to Holland, for $200,000,000. Holland will be rich enough to repay if it does not lose the East Indian colonies, but it has a long and expensive war on there. Poland also wants 300 million dollars. Foreign loans are in demand from nearly every European country, and China, which has a civil war in long prospect, demands several billions.

Washington, D. C. April 4, 1946.
Colonel James Casteel of Randolph, Neb., District of Columbia provost marshal during the war, is now provost marshal at Yokohama, Japan. He writes about Pfc. Lyle Hagaman of Swedeburg, Neb., an American MP who recently found a Japanese messenger wandering about the Yokohama water front carrying a sack filled with 18 million yen that he was delivering from one postoffice to another.

A list of about 140 organizations known to have communistic leanings, is in the hands of the house committee on un-American activities.

A REMINDER.
In a current magazine, Sir Osbert Sitwell tells of an unhappy experience in a private English school that reminds one of Dickens's 'Dotheboys' Hall. No doubt Dickens showed up the worst extreme in the character of Squeers, school head, who was ignorant, brutal and avaricious. Sitwell did not sit well any time during his stay in the private school, according to his story. 'School masters were coldly exacting. Fellow students taunted and tormented him without mercy and without reason. His sensitivity made him more subject to abuse. When ugly words failed, his eyes were blackened, and he was kicked around. Rich parents put him in the school to enrich his future. He confesses abhorrence of masters and students alike. He says his studies resulted in a complete blank. His spirit was broken, and he was relieved when he was permitted to leave the institution. It is doubtful if such terrorizing methods are ever permitted in American schools. Perhaps England has by now learned to squelch them. We hope so.'

ties. Most of these organizations distribute literature.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, knows the score about "the enemy within our gates" better than any other American. Hoover says our greatest danger today is an internal danger. It is the American communist with his "godless, truthless, sinister program" to replace American liberty with communistic license and tyranny. In support of Hoover's statement we offer in evidence quotes from prominent present-day labor leaders:

"If all CIO members could understand what united political action means, there might not be any more employers or private industry in the United States."—Harry Bridges, Longshoremen's Union (CIO).

"We call upon our great CIO to lead the American people in defeating all anti-soviet forces in the United States."—Joseph Curran, National Maritime Union (CIO).

"Long live the soviet trade unions and long live Stalin."—Philip Murray, president of CIO.

Americans wishing to gain information about property in Germany and other occupied countries, must now channel their inquiries through the army. The state department has opened six consular offices in Germany and will open two more soon. The state department is re-establishing its foreign service in occupied countries to improve service to Americans.

The house passed a bill to provide additional compensation for postmasters and employees of the postal service. At the public hearings, representatives of the various postal employees organizations presented evidence showing the need of this increase. Approximately 136 members of congress appeared before the committee to urge approval of the legislation.

The conference report on the federal airport act was approved by the house by a vote of 140 to 89. The revised bill channels the federal contribution through municipalities and state agencies rather than solely through the states. Many state aeronautics administrations objected to this particular phase of the bill because of the trespass upon the rights of the states. They wanted the airport money channeled as money for federal aid in building and improving highways is channeled. The bill,

Grass and Legume Seeds Are Raised

Poundage Payments Made For Production of 1946 On Short Crops.

Payments offered under the 1944 and 1945 agricultural conservation programs to stimulate the production and harvest of grass and legume seed have been effective in getting increased production of seeds in short supply. In 1946 goals for these crops are greater than either the 1944 or 1945 acreage harvested.

Poundage payments will be made for alfalfa, red clover and alsike seed produced during the 1946 crop year because of the demand. Payment will be computed on a clean seed basis and will be made only for seed sold to dealers before January 1, 1947. The rates of payment will be: Alfalfa, .07 per pound; red clover, .09; alsike, .07. Poundage payment practices will not require prior approval of the county committee and the payment for such practices will be determined on the basis of all seed sold to dealers before January 1, 1947.

Signing of a farm plan will not be required as a condition for making the poundage payments, but no payments other than the poundage payments will be made with respect to a farm for which a farm plan was not signed before the closing date.

Broadway Success To Be Staged Here

"Blithe Spirit," Noel Coward's bright and brilliant farce, is to be presented at Wayne municipal auditorium Wednesday evening, April 24, under sponsorship of the Wayne Players. The New York Sun characterizes this Broadway success as "hilariously funny, brilliantly clever and about as hockeyed as a play can be and still stay on the stage." The New York Journal-American calls it a "side-splitting design for living with one foot of the eternal triangle in the grave."

In the cast are Ann Ley, Henry E. Ley, Billie Stirtz, Lula Way, Edna Sutherland, Willard Wiltse

and Ruth Ross. Director is Harold West.

The players are stage artists of much experience. The Leys appeared in "The Push" and "The Queen's Husband," and Billie Stirtz was also in the latter when these plays were presented before Wayne Players organized. Mr. Ley and Miss Ross starred in "Big Hearted Herbert," and they and Mr. West in "The Night of January 16." The Leys, Mr. West and Mr. Wiltse were featured in "The Bad Man," Miss Ross, Mr. Ley and Mr. West starred in "The Bachelor's Dilemma," and Mr. and Mrs. Ley and Mr. West in "Mr. and Mrs. North." Miss Ross and Mr. Wiltse were featured in the melodrama, "He Ain't Done Right by Nell."

Senate Bill 1921 was introduced in the U. S. senate March 12 by Senators LaFollette of Wisconsin, Johnson of Colorado, and Butler of Nebraska.

A bill to increase by 20 per cent the monthly rates of compensation, pension and retirement payments to veterans and their dependents.

Be it enacted by the senate and house of representatives of the United States in congress assembled, That (a) the congress recognizes the present economic trend in this nation whereby wages, prices and the cost of living are rapidly increasing.

(b) The congress further recognizes that the current trend toward higher wages and prices is causing hardships for those with fixed incomes and particularly the disabled and aged veterans and their dependents.

(c) The congress declares, in accordance with our traditional policy, it is essential that disabled and aged veterans and their dependents should not be penalized by the present economic trend.

Sec. 2. That all monthly rates of compensation, pension, or retirement pay payable to veterans of World War I and World War II and dependents of such veterans which are payable under laws or regulations administered by the veterans' administration are hereby increased by 20 per centum.

Listed below are skilled trades and the years of training that are customarily required. There is a tendency to broaden the training and provide better supervision. These are: Baker, 3; barber, 3; blacksmith, 4; butcher, 3; carpenter, 4; chef, 3; cosmetician, 2; dental technician, 3-4; dressmaker, 2; engraver, 3; iron worker, structural, 2; jeweler, 4; lathe, metal, 2; lens grinder, 3-4; machinist, 4; meat cutter, 3; modeler, 4; painter, 3; paperhanger, 3; pipefitter, 4-5; plasterer, 3; radio repairman, 2-3; sheet metal, 4; steamfitter, 4-5; stonemason, 3; tailor, 4; tile layer, 3; upholsterer, 3-4; watchmaker, 3-4; electrician, 4-5.

The army discovered that 63 out of every 100 veterans expect to work for an employer. It also revealed that eight out of ten veterans go "back home" to the same state in which they lived prior to their military service.

The veterans are the pick of America's human resources. They are the leaders of post-war America, its strength and hope. They are the future. Their force must not be wasted in neglect, misunderstanding and indifference. Their fresh leadership must not become embittered or disillusioned.

The returned veteran will look upon you, the employer, as the representative of the country from which he has a right to expect some sign of appreciation for the job he has done. The major factor for veterans migrating was employment. It is a civic obligation to provide work for veterans who desire to remain in their former pre-military locations.

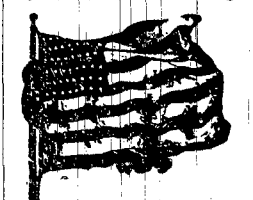

Q. May a serviceman take out two insurance policies and name a different beneficiary in each one? A. The insured man may name

It is full of before and after pictures and also has all the directions for doing the job. It is grand for ideas. If it is not your furniture that is bothering you but those dreams of a time in the, we hope, not too distant future when you can build that new home, you have been waiting for or remodeling your old one, the library has a book for that, too. "How to Choose, Plan and Build Your Own Home" is the title of the book and it is not full of just exotic new-fangled ideas for building, but practical modest plans that are just what we are looking for.

And you looking for information on South America? You can find a new reference book at the library - "South American Handbook for 1945." This is just facts and figures, not to be read any more than the dictionary, but if you want to verify any facts on population, industry, agriculture, or anything else in South America, this book will have what you want. On the rental shelf are two new stories which have plenty of the dramatic elements which make good escape reading. They are "The Wake of the Red Witch," the new Literary Guild book, and "Wild Calendar" by Libbie Block. The usual slack month at the library is May. That is usually the month of housecleaning and gardening and all of those activities which keep folks from reading. We can tell by our circulation that spring is early this year, even if we didn't have a touch of that spring fever ourselves.

Hold on to that "Million-Dollar Rain" That welcome rain that brings new life to your land, crops and livestock is the traditional "million-dollar rain" known to every farmer and rancher. There is an old saying, "You can't do much about the weather." But you can do a great deal about what the weather does to your land. Rain can bring relief after drought and is worth that million dollars - or it can be a savage enemy that "dashes off with grit in its teeth and tears down our soil like a billion furious buzz saws."

Sent Your Letter Yet? Prize Contest Closes May 1 Still time to win one of the 43 cash prizes totaling $400 for best letters on "Methods Employed by Meat Packers in Marketing Meats, Poultry, Eggs, Butter and Cheese." Contest closes May 1, 1946. We'll be glad to send you the needed information. Write today to F. M. Simpson, Dept. 128... Swift & Company, Chicago 9, Ill.

THE EDITOR'S COLUMN In addition to being a business corporation, Swift & Company is people - 62,000 folks like you and me who have pooled their savings to build a business. These savings are invested in plants and equipment, in livestock and other raw materials, and in all the many things that make up Swift & Company.

WORTH THINKING ABOUT In view of the recent talk about the business, profits, etc., of the meat packer, it's worth remembering the basic economics of all business in this country. To be successful, any business must do four things - 1) it must purchase its raw materials at prices comparable to the prices paid by its competitors; 2) through know-how, efficiency, good operating, it must manufacture products of comparable quality at a manufacturing cost no higher than that of its competitors; 3) in doing this, it must pay its workers wages rates comparable to the going wage-scale paid by others; 4) and it must sell its product at prices that a large part of the public is willing and able to pay.
