

Under Way to Insure Success of Proposed Bond Issue to Improve Memorial Park.

In the planned improvement of Memorial park, Wayne proposes to take another forward step...

It is remembered that before paving, wet weather made the streets almost impassable.

But the paving, Wayne's major change for the better—was opposed, as every public improvement has been opposed.

Suppose Wayne had secured none of the improvements gained in the last thirty years?

Wayne has been stepping forward at a gratifying pace.

Improved and equipped Memorial park will not only serve Wayne inhabitants, but bring here many visitors from the northeast Nebraska area.

Democrats and Republicans of County Reorganize by Electing Officers.

The credentials committee, Rev. H. G. Knaub, Winside, chairman, Edwin Jones, Winside, vice chairman, and Kathryn Lou Felber, secretary-treasurer, reported.

Resolutions Adopted. E. W. Huse, chairman, H. E. Siman, K. N. Parke, W. E. VonSeggern, Mrs. John Owens of Carroll, and Mrs. Lawrence Ring, reported the following:

Representatives of the republican party of Wayne county, duly assembled, have this to say: The new deal which absorbed the democratic party in 1932, has ceased to cause alarm.

What has that party to offer? Less enfeebled paternalism, a balanced national budget, return to the sound policy of supply and demand, laws to restrict labor organizations on a par with those restricting business and industry, recognizing real merit above scheming politics.

We deplore the innumerable strikes that have stifled production and prevented reconstruction. We deplore weak national executive leadership that has all too nullified the word consistency in denouncing what is and pledging what isn't, we offer something definitely constructive.

We want to get away from costly and autocratic bureaucracy which has upsurped rights and powers properly belonging to congress. We want to rid this nation's payroll of a horde of useless hangers-on—a sort of polite system of WPA in Washington.

We want to bring government back to the people and their duly elected representatives. We want to practice democracy—not just shout it.

We approve party conventions for the endorsement of candidates as a means to guide the electorate. We endorse the official records of Nebraska's senators and congressmen who have stoutly upheld American fundamentals. We commend the delegation's efforts to restore national sanity in the matter of price control.

We are pleased to recommend our state, district and county candidates to the voters for November approval.

The resolutions were adopted as read. County candidates were introduced and remarks were given by each. Remarks were also made by H. E. Siman, F. S. Berry and Wm. Crossland.

HEAD TO RETIRE—

Although loath to do so, they accepted his application and immediately elected him to the honorary status of president emeritus. His service here during his 11 years as head of the school was highly praised. Special recognition was given to him for his work in maintaining and improving the physical plant, which has grown tremendously under his administration. Indeed, so fine are the buildings here that the college recently won first place in student housing among all teachers colleges in America. This honor came as the result of a survey made by the American Association of Teachers Colleges.

Standards Are High.
High praise is to be given to the retiring president in other matters as well. During his administration, the enrollment at Wayne State Teachers has moved the school from second to first in size among Nebraska's teachers colleges. Through Dr. Anderson's efforts, the college faculty now ranks in the 85 percentile of all

American teacher-training institutions.

Holds Many Positions.
During his career as teacher and administrator, President Anderson has held many positions of responsibility and importance on both a state-wide and national-wide level. He has been president of District Five of the Nebraska State Teachers association as well as state president of the same organization. For many years he has been a member of the delegate assembly of the state association. He has served on many national committees, among which were the committee on federal aid to education, the nominating committee of the American Association of Teachers Colleges, and the resolutions committee of the American Association of Teachers Colleges. At present he is a consultant of the American Council of Education, serves as a consultant for the National Broadcasting Association, and is vice president of the Nebraska Schoolmasters club.

Leads Educational Progress.
Dr. Anderson has been a leader in the progress of education in this state for the last 40 years; he was he who instituted at Wayne the grouping of administrative units into six major divisions to supplant the old departmental organization. So successful was this scheme that all the teachers colleges of the state have since adopted it. Too, it was Dr. Anderson who furthered the offering of graduate work at Wayne, a policy which may in the future lead to the granting of a master's degree.

Through Dr. Anderson's efforts, Wayne State Teachers training high school became the first such high school in the state to offer vocational agriculture and vocational home economics.

Over the years, many honors have come to this outstanding Nebraska educator. His name is to be found in "Who's Who in Education" and in "Who's Who in America" and in "Who's Who in Education." He is a member of Phi Delta Kappa. He is a life member of the National Education association. He has membership in the American Association of School Administrators, the Wayne Chamber of Commerce and the Kiwanis club. He is a Mason. He has contributed to various educational magazines.

Indeed, with Dr. Anderson's retirement, Wayne college loses an exceptionally efficient president, and all education loses the active efforts of a capable educator. Dr. Anderson's plans for the future are indefinite. His first and foremost wish is for a long rest. He has been almost constantly in school or school teaching since he was 17 years of age, and he well deserves relaxation. He hopes eventually to move to California, where he and Mrs. Anderson may be with their children. His friends and co-workers wish him Godspeed wherever he may be and hope that in spite of retirement from active duty, he will find occasional time to help the cause to which his life has been dedicated.

Education Needs Told to Kiwanis
State Superintendent Reed stresses need to promote training in state.

Decisions made in the near future will set the tempo for the next 15 or 20 years in Nebraska education, according to State Supt. Wayne O. Reed of Lincoln, speaking at Wayne Kiwanis club Monday at Wayne Kiwanis club Monday.

Reed, who is to move from Lincoln to Wayne in a few weeks, stressed that the state must spend money educationally if it hopes to supply funds after residents see to it that they will support the educational cause.

Educational problems are far from solution as yet, stated Mr. Reed, who complimented the state board of education on the study given to these questions and the decisions made.

The educational leader sees the need for a single salary schedule for high school and grade teachers, this based on training and experience. In the past schedules have been separate for the two groups of teachers.

Mr. Reed explained a suggestion by which teachers might gain college training in summers and teaching experience winters to qualify for higher certificates.

Veterans returning require training that furnishes another problem for institutions. Mr. Reed thinks that special schooling in business, teaching, etc., may be the solution. One result will be a demand for higher training which will raise standards in town as well as rural schools.

The speaker complimented Wayne and the Kiwanis club on providing housing for so many veterans.

Nebraska colleges have done an exceptional piece of in-service work by taking teacher training to outlying communities. Wayne college staff excels in this. The work gave teachers in the field special help that they needed.

Mr. Reed suggested that child psychology is an important essential of the present educational program. Training must be geared to furnish an understanding of children and to give the guidance that teachers must have to make better citizens of their students.

Health is important in the whole field of education, Mr. Reed noted, and he complimented state colleges on the part they have had in helping teachers handle this phase of training.

The speaker congratulated Wayne college as one of four educational institutions which will have a veterans' counsel bureau. This is to be set up in Terrace hall with a government man in charge.

Nebraska colleges have done well in visual education. Mr. Reed stated that this training is not just movies but it is a real aid to education and growth when properly correlated with study. The training is not costly and it proves most valuable when done properly.

Radio is another phase of training that is entering the educational field. This proves worthwhile, Mr. Reed said, when it is planned to fit the program.

Education must be supported financially for best results, Mr. Reed added. The speaker thinks that state aid must be arranged if equal educational opportunity is to be furnished to all children. Parent-Teacher groups and other organizations are helping much in promoting adequate funds for schools.

Teachers' salaries have increased 10 per cent over last year, Mr. Reed stated. Kiwanis and other good forces can aid in presenting to the public the necessities of the state program. Nebraskans always give financial support to worthy projects and they will do so in education, Mr. Reed believes.

Teachers colleges train 37.6 per cent of the teachers, the University of Nebraska 25.5 per cent, denominational schools 30.2 per cent and junior colleges 6.7 per cent, the speaker noted.

Mr. Reed congratulated Wayne on the backing given the college in its work of building citizenship and good community living.

Mr. Reed was introduced by R. M. Carhart, vice president of the state board.

Members of the board of education and presidents of the colleges, who met in Wayne Monday, were guests of the club. In the group were Edgar Ferneau of Auburn, Ed. D. Crites of Chadron, Everett L. Randall of Kearney, Wayne O. Reed and E. Albin Larson of Lincoln, Pres. W. G. Brooks of Chadron, Pres. Herbert L. Cushing of Kearney, Pres. W. R. Pate of Peru, Mr. Carhart and Dr. J. T. Anderson, of the board, are members of the local club. Don Gibeau was a guest of W. C. Swanson, Dr. M. B. Street of Rev. O. B. Proett and Dr. Roy Matson of T. S. Hook.

Danish Couple Is Thrilled With Wonders in America

"America is very magnificent, greater than we expected and very rich, but may we pray about Denmark." These are the words of Mr. and Mrs. Hans Oppenhagen, who arrived in Omaha July 4 from Copenhagen, Denmark, aboard the Gripsholm to visit until October 1 in the D. Hall home.

The Oppenhagens have lived 52 years in Copenhagen where Mr. Oppenhagen is an interior decorator. They celebrated their golden wedding anniversary June 10 this year. There are five daughters in the family, four of whom are still living.

The Danish people were forced to work in the factories which manufactured nazi war materials. One time the workers went on strike. In reprisal, Hitler's men shut off all water, electricity and gas in Copenhagen for five days.

The second daughter, Else, is a physician. She also married a physician, who has a position in Bornholm in one of the largest hospitals in Denmark.

"New York is attractive and beautiful with the houses and trees and high buildings," stated the Danish folks. The thing that impressed them most was seeing lighted automobiles on the highways along the seashore.

The Danes found out that the nazis were going to take over their fleet. The Danish admiral then gave orders to scuttle 26 ships of their fleet.

Help in Underground. An underground soldier lived in the basement of the Oppenhagen home. He had stored there a supply of ammunition which was enough to equip 15 soldiers.

The Danish underground caused much trouble for Hitler's forces. The Oppenhagens cited the following as several examples of underground resistance:

Shortly after the Germans entered Copenhagen, with headquarters at the army depot, a number of Danes, with trucks, went to the depot and loaded nazi weapons onto them.

Bromegrass Fields Showing Damage

Many bromegrass fields are showing some damage to the seed crop. Some seed stalks are drying and the seeds are extremely light.

A hole is bored into the stalk near a joint and the borer enters the stalk and hollows it out. The small borer or worm, feeding inside the stalk, stops the circulation of plant food in the stalk.

Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Henry Tarnow and Mildred, Mrs. Erich Albers, Mrs. Ray Tonies, Mrs. Lester Korth, Mrs. Walter Burhoop sponsored a miscellaneous shower for Mrs. Mylet Korth Nicholson, a recent bride.

Weak Policy

THE Saturday Evening Post mentions the difference between labor union practices today and those of the long ago. In the earlier period, strikes were crudely handled. Today they proceed with every detail carefully worked out in advance. And supported by large groups, results have been effective.

But the Post suggests that due legislation is needed to protect industry and the dependent public. Vetoing the Case bill which promised headway in improving the relationship between employer and employee, is mentioned as not so serious as the president's failure "to give any leadership in the effort to correct the present impossible situation." He does too little to iron out differences on a practical basis. The Post draws this conclusion:

"We are glad the bad old days are gone when workers had no power to compel a hearing of their grievances and when strikers were beaten up in the streets. But in so far as 'truly modern unionism' means power over the whole economy, without responsibility under the law or the necessity of incurring risks of loss considered normal among gamblers, the balance should be changed."

Stassen Victory for Gov. Edward J. Thye

THEY in the republican senatorial race in Minnesota was a victory for Former Governor Harold Stassen who gave open, unqualified support. Isolationism was the issue in Minnesota, the defeated candidate, Senator Henrik Shepstead, having conducted his campaign as a pronounced isolationist. Another Stassen-backed candidate, Luther W. Youngdahl, captured the republican nomination for governor.

These victories will restore lost confidence in Stassen as a candidate for the republican presidential nomination in 1948. It was feared the Minnesota man's Nebraska appearance in behalf of Governor Griswold who was defeated by Senator Butler, would be interpreted as majority sentiment for isolationism in the mid-west. Careful observers, however, did not believe isolationism was a dominant influence in the Nebraska primary.

It is now concluded that Nebraska is no more isolationist than Minnesota or other sections of the middle west. The issue in this state was between two good men, the incumbent who has served well and the governor who just wanted his job.

Nebraskans who were not persuaded by the Stassen speech-making tour, could still be for the Minnesota man for president without seeming to contradict themselves. Nebraska voters generally have their feet on the ground and can be depended on to do their own thinking.

We have heard complaints that Wayne does not take full advantage of its opportunities. Strangers looking for locations deserve to be helped to find what they want. New public enterprises, contributing to the community, should not only be given the hand of welcome, but the strong arm of assistance, as appears needed or acceptable. The county fair merits heartier cooperation, as its plans and desires are made known by its leaders. That is a public project of county-wide interest, and everybody should be aroused to help make it bigger and better. Live towns are on the alert to build and improve in many respects, and Wayne cannot afford to lag.

Bernard Shaw, English author and playwright, will be 90 years old July 26. He is a cynic and a kicker on a big scale. He once discredited persons who reached the age of 40. His criticisms of everything and everybody aroused attention if not approval. An article in the current Atlantic follows the threads of his life. He won fame and fortune, but he held aloof from society and remained unassimilated by any class. He confesses that through the years the world learned nothing from him, and he is now rated a sad, disappointed old man. Shaw's influence would have been greater if he had been more kindly and more sympathetic.

Not satisfied with information contained in tax forms, one Washington bureau employed to gather business statistics not related to taxes, thus imposing extra tasks on already overburdened individuals. Aside from tapping a business or industry for revenues, we can see no good reason to require more and more figures, more and more percentages, all difficult and costly to compile for persons engaged in other than mathematical services.

With some exceptions, price levels, released from OPA, have been kept surprisingly within reasonable bounds. If a price becomes exorbitant, all buyers have to do to bring it down is to quit buying. Increases on some things are necessary in view of increased production costs, made higher by wage boosts. With a number of exceptions, notably rents, prices may be regulated by a discriminating public which is a powerful regulator.

The puzzling question of how to tame wild motorists seldom lights on the advisable policy of requiring every driver to carry insurance, thus making him responsible for any accident that may happen. The legislature could reduce reckless motoring by fixing responsibility on the fellow at the wheel.

Due care has to be exercised in taking a vacation to avoid a consequent sick spell. If one can keep well during the vacation ordeal, the relief felt in getting back to routine may be accepted as compensation enough.

The less one thinks or talks about summer heat, the easier it is to tolerate it.

AS SEEN BY KARL STEFAN

Washington, D. C. July 11, 1946 Mr. and Mrs. James C. Carey of Bancroft, Neb., are leaving Washington for Boulder, Colo., where, at the University of Colorado, Mr. Carey will complete work for his doctor's degree. The Careys lived for several years in Lima, Peru, where Mr. Carey instructed scores of Peruvian male students.

Frank Manske, formerly of Pierce and Norfolk, is now connected with the foreign liquidation section of the state department. He will be sent to India in the near future.

Bob Johnson, son of Howard Johnson of Fremont, due to be discharged from navy, will return to Nebraska to complete his education.

Wendel Berge of Nebraska, assistant attorney general in charge of the anti-trust division, department of justice, has been encouraged by the appropriations committee to continue prosecution of illegal monopolies. The appropriations for his division have been increased.

The civil aeronautics administration has decided not to move its Lincoln office to Omaha. One CAA representative will be stationed in Omaha, but the Lincoln office will remain intact in order to work closer with the Nebraska aeronautics commission.

Representatives of the Nebraska aeronautics commission are in Washington to get fuller information about federal aid for airports. Congress recently made appropriations to implement the seven-year airport program. Nebraska tax payer. This figure includes only direct expenditures from the United States treasury. It does not include indirect expenditures such as interest or cost of administering subsidies. Nor does it include the billions of dollars paid by consumers for inferior quality merchandise at ceiling prices, black market overcharges, and cost of higher-priced alternatives after standard brands had been driven off the market.

The country, as well as congress and the administration, is watching the results of taking the lid off prices, even temporarily. There have been some sharp rises, particularly in rents and foods. In many cities, rents have gone up exorbitantly, as was generally predicted. In some cases, increase in rents has been limited by action of associations to 15 per cent. In other instances, rents have doubled and even quadrupled. The cancellation of leases, orders for evictions of present tenants, and demands for increased rentals have come in volume.

Washington has its own rent-control law, which is locally enforced, and New York, Texas and a few other states have similar laws. In some states without rent control laws, governors have issued decrees fixing rents at OPA levels, some of which may be of doubtful constitutionality. But in most states, the roofs on rentals are off. However, resolutions excluding OPA control of rents have been presented in both houses, and because of pending evictions and further chaos in the housing situation nearly everywhere, they may be favorably acted upon even before settlement of the main question of continuing OPA.

An increase in tax rates may be asked by the administration next year if there is sharp inflation in prices, suddenly cut loose from control by expiration of the OPA. This was disclosed by the new secretary of the treasury, John W. Snyder, who told his first news conference that consideration was being given to using taxes to break inflation. "If prices get too far out of hand," Snyder said, "the administration may ask an increase in taxes on individuals and

SWINDLERS.

The Nebraska Press association office warns against possible swindlers with this definition from Omaha's Better Business Bureau: "Many people vision the swindler as a man wearing a checked suit, diamond studded necktie pin, and a waxed mustache, while actually, there is no set pattern for recognizing a swindler." Rush Barns, general manager of the Better Business Bureau of Omaha, stated: "Barns went on to say that the swindler's proposition must sound plausible or so many people wouldn't be taken in. He is a subtle flatterer and a smooth talker, a post-graduate in practical psychology. Judging from his appearance and manner, he may be the last one you would suspect of being a crook. He may even talk of the need for more religion and faith in one's fellow-man. "However, there are three things to watch for: 1. Great bargain - He offers you something for nothing, or a lot for a little. 2. Secrecy - He flatters you by 'letting you in on the ground floor' of a project so profitable it has to be kept secret. 3. Hurry - He can't stay long enough. So sign up right away or you'll always regret it. Probably he says that this is the last one he has or that the price goes up tomorrow, or he has to catch a train in an hour and this will be your last chance. "If everyone would remember these things, and also remember to investigate before investing, there would be fewer swindlers," said Barns.

corporations when congress meets after the first of next year."

Sugar rationing draws attention as the canning season progresses and the demand becomes greater in all parts of the country. The outlook is not so good. The Cuban and Porto Rican crops are much less than usual and the crops from the Philippines and East Indies have not become normal. The present allotment to industrial consumers is only 60 per cent of pre-war use, and prospects are that it may not be increased before 1947. Home users of sugar, and for canning especially, will have to look to OPA local offices for rations. The world allotment of sugar is made by the combined food board, which allocates each year's crop to all the countries within the treaty agreements.

The secretary of commerce releases a statement that by 1948 food production will have so increased that there may be surpluses instead of shortages in farm commodities in our own land. After six big years during which our farmers have supplied nearly half the people of the world, the prospect held out by the secretary is not so promising. Of course, there may not be six more years of such wonderful harvests and anticipating surpluses may not happen. Regardless of prophecies and predictions, our country has won a world war in which a strong agricultural production played its big part in victory.

Uncle Sam let foreign borrowers have more than three times as much credit as they can spend this year, the commerce department said. These borrowers were pictured in the position of a man with a charge account and a desire for white shirts that aren't to be had. Unable to get prompt delivery of the goods they want, they can't use up their credit. Their credits from the United States government probably will total about ten million dollars by the end of the year if congress approves the $3,750,000,000 British loan proposal, the department said, adding that they probably can't spend over three billion dollars. At the end of March, the department reported, Uncle Sam had out $655,000,000 in loans - representing used credit and $1,642,000,000 committed for credit that the borrowers hadn't been able to use. The department said that.

NOTE OF OPTIMISM.

Wheeler McMillen, writer for Pathfinder magazine, is an optimist. He recently made a personal survey of thirteen states, and then wrote these two conclusions: "Quite a few things are still bright in the U. S. A. The country might be better off if more people were doing more work." In his travels he found green landscapes, innumerable fields of maturing small grain, vast areas of growing corn, great herds of cattle and droves of sheep, countless little pigs and myriads of chickens. He found oil still being pumped in Oklahoma, railroads handling increased business and the highways teeming with automobiles and trucks. He found merchants busy trying to satisfy sharpened customer demands. Young men and women were being graduated from high schools and colleges with many planning to get jobs and go to work. Altogether, the writer's travels revealed to him quite a contrast with the threats of chaos suggested by daily news reports. He found useful activity in towns and on farms, and nothing to remind him of the industrial struggle in manufacturing centers - no evidence of strikes or ugly discord. He was out to find the good things in the country, and he believes he found them.

besides the British loan proposal, the prospective 10-billion-dollar credit total at the end of this year would be made up by: Practical exhaustion of the Export-Import Bank's $3,500,000,000 lending capacity. Allowance of credits totaling $2,750,000,000 covering surplus property sold abroad, merchant ships sold to foreign purchasers, and lend-lease settlements.

Soviet Ambassador Novikov expressed belief that "there is no basis whatever for war" between his country and the United States. He declared he is confident all differences between them will be "ironed out." In his first interview with an American reporter since he presented his credentials to President Truman a month ago, Novikov said with feeling: "I know this - that the people of the United States do not want to wage a war against the soviet union or any other country. I know the soviet union will never start a war against the United States or anyone else. Thus, any differences between us must be ironed out. I believe they will be ironed out. To that extent you might say I am an optimist," Novikov added. He had been asked if he were optimistic about the world situation and particularly about American-soviet relations.

However, the ambassador emphasized his belief that solutions for all existing world problems will not be hammered out overnight. Many will require time and patience, he said. "Europe is now in its most difficult period - the transition from war to peace," he said. "Problems inevitably will be difficult." Asked how the United States could best assist the soviet union in rebuilding areas devastated by German aggression, Novikov said: "First of all, we wish the allies, including the United States, would carry out the agreements on reparations from Germany, especially in respect to deliveries from the western areas of Germany to the U. S. S. R. It would facilitate our reconstruction of the devastated territories of the U. S. S. R." He said deliveries of industrial reparations from the western occupation zones to Russia - now halted entirely - had amounted to little, so far as soviet rehabilitation purposes were concerned. Some devastated soviet areas, particularly the Ukraine, could make good use of equipment from plants in the western zones having to do with manufacture of iron, steel and related products, he added. In reply to a question, the ambassador said he believes the soviet fear that the western allies do not actually intend to destroy Germany's war-making capacity will continue until the plants actually are dismantled or made available as reparations.

The "big four" ministers agreed in principle to make Trieste an international zone, but they failed to reach a decision on the way it is to be administered. Secretary of State Byrnes insisted that he would accept the zone plan only if it came directly under the United Nations, not under the "big four" powers as Russian Foreign Minister Molotov demanded. Byrnes held that Molotov's proposal would imply that the "big four" should assume power to act for the United Nations although this power never had been given to them.

There were two choices for the conference, Byrnes said: 1. To internationalize Trieste under direction and control of the "big four." This he said, he emphatically would not accept. 2. To internationalize Trieste under the United Nations, to be directed and controlled by them. This he said, the United States could approve.

British Foreign Secretary Bevin supported Byrnes throughout. Molotov submitted a three-point plan asking (1) that a Trieste statute be written by the "big four", acting in behalf of the United Nations, plus Italy and Yugoslavia; (2) that the administration of Trieste be established on "democratic" lines, and (3) that the governor of Trieste be named by agreement between Italy and Yugoslavia. If they failed to agree the "big four" would name the governor. It was this proposal Byrnes rejected. He said the zone must be directly under the United Nations and he wanted that agreement formulated for submission to a 21-nation peace conference.

THE INNOCENT SUFFER

(Omaha Journal Stockman)

The record reveals that more persons lost their lives on the nation's highways during April than in any other April. And that is only part of the story, for "Bodily injury insurance rates have increased 20 per cent in 29 states and property damage rates are up 25 per cent." So we pay in cash as well as in pain.

It is a serious situation about which much could be, but isn't done. What could be done is to riddle off the highways out-of-condition cars. What can't be done is to induce drivers to take greater care.

As to the latter, there is something about it in the air. Everyone who drives today sees more stop and cautions are ignored, the rules of the road are violated, and decrepit cars are driven at high speeds, and that even where traffic is heavy. It is getting so you hate to go out, for fear some fool will run into you. That happens every day.

Another case of war's aftermath? Maybe so.

Sherman Act and Hobbs Bill

(Omaha World Herald)

President Truman signed the Hobbs Bill, which makes labor racketeering in interstate commerce a felony. Theoretically, the weight of government should now be brought to bear against a practice that Chief Justice Stone said "renders common law robbery an innocent pastime."

Actually, it doesn't follow that because a law is on the books, enforcement will be vigorous. The Sherman Act was passed in 1890 but because of pressure of big business, which was in the saddle then as big unions are now, it was allowed to pass into innocuous desuetude.

Not until Theodore Roosevelt took office was this law used with force. In seven years and a half, 14 prosecutions were brought under it, as compared with 18 in the preceding 11 years.

Public opinion was solidly behind Theodore Roosevelt in his trust busting. Public opinion, as reflected by Congressional action, favors the Hobbs Bill now. The House twice passed the Hobbs Bill. It passed it a third time as one of the provisions of the Truman-vetted Case Bill. Though it failed to override Truman's veto of that bill, a majority approved its provisions. The Senate passed the Case Bill and passed the Hobbs Bill.

In the train strike, President Truman pledged trainmen immunity from prosecution under the Smith-Connally law. He will be misjudging the temper of the Country if he takes a similar attitude towards the Hobbs law.

Library News

Now that Wayne is baseball conscious the library is trying to keep up by providing material on that subject. We have a new book on baseball rules and also the Baseball Register for 1946, in case you baseball fans are interested.

The demand for light fiction for summer reading is keeping us busy this season. We have four new ones to offer our reading public this week. They are, The Bride Was Late by Myra Gay, Staidist In Her Eyes by Tanya West, Summer Will Come Again by Maud Welch and Clementine by Peggy Godd.

Ex-service men and countless others will undoubtedly be interested in a book called Job's Ahead. It is a book for you today, to help make your tomorrow secure. Precise, accurate, up-to-the-minute information on jobs in the post-war world—what they are, where they are, why they are, physical and educational requirements, hours of work, starting salaries, promotions you can earn. With many examples of men who have made good in real life. If you are undecided about your career, this is the book for you.

Philatelists please note that we have a book on Commemorative Postage Stamps of the U. S. It is the New Revised edition.

And the book for which we predict there will really be a demand and possibly a waiting list is Why You Lose At Bridge by S. J. Simon, the famous English expert. This is unlike any bridge book ever written. It is designed to teach you to play—not perfect bridge but winning bridge. There are two primary reasons why you lose at bridge: (1) lack of technical skill, (2) losing tactics. Mr. Simon is the one bridge expert who believes the second is more important than the first. Why You Lose At Bridge is money in the bank. But more than that, it is a highly readable book written with persuasive charm and ironic humor. It may not make you a better bridge player. But, after you have read it, you will win a good deal more and lose a lot less.

LIKE THREADING 50,000 NEEDLES—that's how accurate and steady-handed you have to be to hook this new equipment into existing telephone circuits. And that's why this work takes time.

You're looking at only one of many costly pieces of equipment that must be installed before telephone service can be as good as we would like to make it. We're working to catch up with demands accumulated in the war years when little or no building was possible, and to be ready for tomorrow, too. In order to do this job in the five states in which it operates this company expects to spend $100,000,000 during the next few years. This money must come, not from "war profits"—for the telephone company made none—but from investors attracted by earnings comparable to those offered by similar investment opportunities.—NORTHWESTERN BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY.
