

Fair Comes in Mid-September — Headway Made in Developing Big County Shows — Newspaper Boosts — Looking Outside.

Today's Herald is especially dedicated to the Wayne county fair which is scheduled for September 12, 13 and 14. By the best and worst in crop production will be settled. Despite some drought damaged streaks, favored fields will contribute excellent agricultural specimens. Inspection of exhibits will afford ample proof.

The suggestion that county fairs are slipping is disputed by redoubled interest in these annual shows. It is the one big get-together each year for a wide area. People enter samples of what they have been accomplishing. They also review experiences and exchange ideas. They rub shoulders with acquaintances they seldom meet.

Livestock, 4-H club, school, agricultural and garden products will please and often surprise inquiring minds. Amusement features promise to be above those to which the public has been accustomed. A few days at the fair will be thoroughly relished.

We recall our first experience at a county fair. It was back in the eighties. In partnership with another greenhorn we ran a refreshment stand. We had no wholesale supply connection. We were bought from a fellow who absorbed all possible profit in advance. Business was so lively the second day that we were thrilled. After we settled up on the third and closing day, we found only $1.30 kept us out of the red.

The same year we exhibited an extraordinary rooster. It had a red neck, formidable spurs, beautiful plumage and great dignity. In surveying the world, it was as cocky and confident as a modern bureaucrat. Cost of transporting the bird, 50 cents; premium realized after long delay, 50 cents; net profit, nothing; experience, plenty.

It is a far cry from the crudities of primitive county fairs to the polished and refined variety of today. First settlers usually came in lumber wagons. Now they travel in upholstered and swiftly moving automobiles. In the old days, omnibuses (now auto buses) to and from the fair grounds accommodated persons who owned no vehicles and who did not have the courage to walk. Clouds of dust circulated freely through the open conveyances and converted travelers into the appearance of grassless terra.

Horse races were main attractions, and they were exciting. We remember on one occasion the race manager was stabbed by a lawless horseman hailing from the river bottom. The victim lived, and his assailant spent only a few years in the penitentiary. The attack grew out of a determination to get more than a fair decision.

But persons who attended old-time county fairs seemed to be satisfied. They did not expect much, and they were not disappointed. No wars and no bombings from the sky were feared. No foreign nation threatened, no international policy disturbed. If diabolical intrigues in high or low places existed, they were not apparent. The state of mind at early-day county fairs was comparatively free from nagging worries.

But change to the modern fair has been wonderful. Conveniences are many and satisfying. Exhibits show the marvelous strides in creative genius. A world knit together by science — constructive and destructive — finds vision linked to a high but often distressing perspective. The county fair should furnish a refreshing interlude — a relief from alien threats and local annoyances. So, let's go to the fair, shake hands with trusting neighbors, drink in the good things planned for the occasion, with minds aloof as far as possible from evils and adversities at home and abroad.

Cost of Supplies Rising. Publishers' sensibilities, twisted by OPA announcement of a sharp rise in the news print price, were eased somewhat by assurance that production will thereby be stimulated. More supply, but more cost! The former is indispensable, the latter unavoidable. Wages keep closely in step with higher prices for supplies. Everything entering newspaper production is on the way up with no terminal point in sight.

In his Wahoo Wasp, Editor V. T. Pickett makes this observation: "According to a New York newspaper, the price of newsprint at $88 per ton will be set at $80 when the new OPA ceilings are issued. There would be no newsprint shortage if the publicity set-ups of some 5,000 bureaus at Washington were dispersed with. Every mail fills the average waste basket with government paper."

HOUSE IS BOUGHT BY ROY CORYELL. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Coryell bought the Mrs. Anna Isom property at 212 West 10th and will move to the house as soon as remodeling is completed.

SIXTY-FOURTH YEAR

Power District Service Grows

Richard Slagle Addresses Kiwanians on Project Here Monday.

Wayne county rural public power district, in operation 80 months, has a plant value of $353,218, and serves 950 consumers with 415 miles of line, stated Richard Slagle, local manager, who addressed Kiwanians Monday. When completed, it is planned to serve more than 2,000 consumers on between 900 and 1,000 miles of line in Wayne and Pierce counties.

The REA district, Mr. Slagle explained, negotiated loans for $678,500. Up to the present, $491,000 of this has been drawn because many materials are not yet available. The money for construction is borrowed from REA at 2 per cent and the district pays $1,320 principal and interest monthly. All payments due have been met and the money is being put into new materials with which to extend the lines.

When the district organized, it anticipated 100 kw consumption by each farm per month. The average is now 91 and in the spring it ran as high as 124. The future estimated consumption has been boosted to 250 kw.

Mr. Slagle told that last month consumers bought 242,800 kw. The revenue was $14.23 per mile, with an average of 2.3 customers per mile. The minimum monthly bill is $3.50, which furnishes 50 kw. The average was $5.10 this month. The rate decreases for large users and drops to 1 1/2c for over 200 kw. Mr. Slagle showed that the average cost for large consumers becomes smaller.

The district employs ten men and three girls. Four of the men are GIs who are training. The staff expects later to do all its own building of lines. In the past much of this has been contracted. The monthly payroll is $1,500. Three service vehicles are operated.

This district, like all others, has experienced difficulty in getting materials for extension. However, 14 cars of poles came just recently. Four were unloaded at Osmond, two at Carroll and the rest at Wayne. These are now being set for extensions. Wire and transformers ordered about ten months ago have not come, but these will be installed as soon as they do arrive.

The district owns the lot occupied by the Jeffrey barber shop at 3rd and Logan and expects to erect a new office as soon as building is permitted. C. Wallace Buck was a guest at Kiwanis meeting.

WAYNE, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, AUGUST 29, 1946

FRIDAY night's soaking of considerable of northeast Nebraska missed the area around Wayne, as had been the weather's habit too long for safety to the maturing corn crop. On the night mentioned, observers in the Elkhorn valley flood warning network reported moisture in inches as follows: Pilger, 1.19; Winside, 1.50; West Point, 1.66; Dodge, 1.20; Fremont, 1.53; Wisner, 1.45; Tekamah, 2.78; Lyons, 1.91. Norfolk received only a trace; Wayne none. The downpour is said to have reached within six miles of this place. Clouds have repeatedly appeared, but repeatedly disappeared without letting loose. Probably an OPA ceiling. An overcast sky and cold elements have modified damage, but what has been urgently needed hereabouts of late has been a genuine soaker after the fashion of the one reported in parts of the northeast Nebraska territory. The distribution of moisture has been uneven and painfully unfair.

SCHOOLS OF TODAY FAR ADVANCED IN TEACHING SYSTEM

AS resumption of school approaches, we are reminded of changes for the better in methods and discipline. Students of today are led to take an interest in gaining knowledge. Long ago reasoning supplanted brute force. Respect for leadership removes fear. Mutual understanding is developed, and accordingly, learning is made easier. Through the years, training of teachers has improved, and benefits are felt in the school room and are reflected in finer student qualities. More emphasis is given character development. This is the way to antidote a future crop of irresponsibles. Education in good citizenship, in truth, in self-reliance, in the nobility of work and in earned values are essentials in any school curriculum.

Wedding Service Is Held in Church

Miss Mildred Frevert Bride Of Wesley Pflueger at Rifles Thursday.

Miss Mildred Frevert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Frevert of Wayne, and Wesley Pflueger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Pflueger of Wayne, were married Thursday, August 22, at 7:30 candlelight service in Trinity Lutheran church at Altona, with Rev. Herbert Teske performing the double-ring ceremony.

The church was decorated with gladioli and ferns.

Miss Marion Sandahl, dressed in a blue gown with pink carnation corsage, sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer." She was accompanied by Prof. G. Hofius who also played the wedding marches.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white satin gown with white net covering the full skirt. Her long train was of net trimmed with lace which formed small bows on the edge of the train. The tight-fitting bodice was of white satin with lace forming a sweetheart neckline, long tight-fitting sleeves with lace falling over the hands. Her finger-tip veil fell from a Dutch lace cap trimmed with seed pearls and orange blossoms. She carried a white and gold prayer book with a marker of red roses and white satin streamers.

Miss LaVerne Frevert, sister of the bride, who served as maid-of-honor, wore a blue net over satin gown, with high neckline, tight bodice, full skirt and cap sleeves. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink and blue.

Miss Donna Belle Pflueger, sister of the bridegroom, served as bridesmaid. She wore a blue embroidered eyelet gown with tight fitting bodice, full skirt and cap sleeves. She also carried a blue and pink colonial bouquet.

The bridegroom and his brother, Harris Pflueger, who served as best man, wore light brown gabardine suits with white carnation boutonniere.

Alton Splittgerber, cousin of the bride, and Wendel Cophammer of Illinois, cousin of the bridegroom, served as ushers.

Mothers of the bride and bridegroom wore street dresses with black accessories and white carnation corsages.

A reception for 120 guests followed in the school parlors. Baskets of colored gladioli and blue and pink streamers decorated the rooms. White candles and garden flowers were on the tables. A three-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bridal couple, centered the bridal table.

Table waitresses were cousins of the bride. Miss Alice Biermann had charge of the guest book.

The bride chose as her going-away costume a gray wool suit with red accessories. After a short wedding trip, the young folks will reside in Wayne.

To Enroll at College.

THE DURANGO KID ROARS INTO ACTION

...WITH HIS SIDE-SPLITTING BUDDY RIDING ALONG FOR THE LAUGHS!

Shepherd Haboush Speaks in Wayne About Holy Land

Not unlike the notches on a gangster's gun are the 28 big spikes imbedded in the shepherd's rod of Stephen A. Haboush. The difference is that each spike represents a dead jackal, hyena or wolf, not a human life. Mr. Haboush shows pictures of the Holy Land and speaks at Wayne auditorium September 11 under auspices of the men's club of Grace church.

For several years, Haboush cared for 85 sheep and a dozen goats. He tells that the goats made his life miserable and stray sheep made him unhappy. But, thanks to his trusty black oak rod, he never lost more than seven or eight animals a year.

Mr. Haboush's father, who was head of the Haboush tribe in old Galilee, died several years ago. Stephen then became patriarchal head of the tribe despite the fact that he lived in the United States, and had become a citizen. He returns to the home land every four years and in the meantime tribal affairs are handled by a council of sheikhs.

When he first came to this country Haboush "hit the chautauqua trail" with the late William Jennings Bryan, former Ambassador Josephus Daniels and Explorer Stefansson.

Mr. Haboush was born on the hills about the Sea of Galilee, and in his youth tended his father's flock of sheep, just as every Galilean boy has done since the days when the Master walked among men. He came to the United States several years ago and worked his way through an American university. Recently he returned to the land of his birth and there personally took in full color motion pictures of the scenes and people of Galilee and Palestine. He is now in America with his unusual films and thrilling story. He has written for magazines and newspapers and spoken before great audiences in many of the famous universities, colleges, churches and schools in Canada and the United States.

Everyone finds inspiration in the life and teaching of Stephen A. Haboush. His messages and travelogues bring to the material present the story of life in Galilee and Palestine as it was and as it is, the story of the Scriptures interpreted by one to whom the scenes of the story of the four gospels are his native land. He is the author of "My Shepherd Life in Galilee" and in the book review of the Boston Transcript appeared this statement: "He enters into the feeling of the most famous bit of the world's devotional literature with insight and charm."

Mr. Haboush's travelogue is a distinct contribution to North American letters and to modern thought. It breathes the very life and mysticism of the ancient east. Part of it is delivered in native costume, the same costume worn by native Galileans in the days of the Bible story. Part of his dramatic story is delivered to the accompaniment of thrilling scenes and motion pictures in full color. Many of the scenes that he will show in this program appeared in the National Geographic Magazine and leading religious periodicals. He is to appear in person with Madame Haboush and two young men to present their Bible land musical travelogue, "On Sacred Soil."

Many in Dixon County Sign Up

Dixon county farmers have shown their intention to make soil conserving practices compulsory in excess of the budget of $309,031. Township compliance supervisors, who are practically all committeemen, are now busy checking final compliance under direction of the supervisor, Oscar Bensen. They find that while much of the performance is complete there has been considerable slippage from intentions shown for large dams and sod waterways. Equipment has not been available for this kind of work.

Pass Resolutions At Wayne Meeting

Representatives from Thurston, Burt, Dakota, Dixon and Wayne counties, who met at Hotel Morrison August 16 for the district meeting of the farm bureau federation, passed resolutions on subsidies and state aid to schools.

One resolution opposed the constitutional amendment which provides $40 per pupil based on daily attendance. Reasons for opposition are that it does not provide any definite means of raising money, does not equalize educational opportunities, benefits larger schools at the expense of the smaller ones, does not constitute a replacement tax, should not be written in the constitution but should be left to legislature for action because a minimum of $40 per pupil may at some future time become a burden upon taxpayers.

The second resolution passed commended the agriculture extension service on past performance in handling distribution of farm labor and requested that the extension service continue the active supervision and distribution of farm labor in Nebraska.

In the third resolution, the farm bureau opposed replacing of controls on livestock, livestock products and grains because it would be impossible to control without creating black market and it would cause an unjust penalty on many persons who have tried to cooperate in the past and future.

Flagrant Ingratitude THE Norfolk Daily News calls attention to the bald ingratitude of Yugoslavia's dictator, Tito, especially in view of the bounty that country has received through UNRRA, which is supported mainly by the United States...

Senator Butler NEBRASKANS who gave Senator Butler landslide endorsement in the late republican primary must know as much about the senator as Life magazine which has referred to him disparagingly...

Government Controls. Speaking of OPA's renewed control of meat prices, the Omaha World-Herald says in conclusion: "If ever we are to get back to a safely stable economy it will come only when the Federal Government stops its spending-borrowing-lending policies and returns to sanity, along with the restoration of a free market, soundly regulated to protect all the people against monopoly, whether by capital or labor, and against all other immoral and essentially illegal devices to mulct the public."

The Sights are too High in Missouri. It is easy for editors who sit in office buildings overlooking the busy streets of a great city to get pretty far away from the grass roots. Readers remind us from time to time that we ought to take a powder from all this effete urbanity and get ourselves out into God's Country, which by definition is almost any place where anybody within a couple of miles is a near neighbor...

large field, but it reveals surprising narrowness and lack of information in considering the Nebraska senator. And we would suggest to Life that Nebraskans are not so dumb they did not know the stature of the man they supported at the polls.

Wild Tito LAST week the United States had a show-down with Marshal Tito, Yugoslavia's tyrant dictator. An ultimatum which implied use of force, if disregarded, was promptly followed by evidences of relenting. The military of the offending country had shot down two American planes engaged in peaceful flights. Tito promised due amends. Yugoslavia's provocative acts were doubtless prompted by support of Russia and belief in the superior power of the Soviet Union...

People do not like OPA because it is a distasteful Washington bureau, causing innumerable annoyances and doing little if any good. Businesses have enough to do without reporting a multiplicity of details to the government. People would prefer controlling prices through self-regulated habits of buying. If a thing is too high, just don't buy. It seems a happy thought for the government to suggest handling individual burdens, but, in conflict, it destroys self-reliance and weakens essential backbone...

As the result of a recent survey, Columnist Elsie Robinson found to her surprise that the one thing occupying the minds of returned soldiers most is religion. It is not the orthodox variety, or some new fanaticism. It is eagerness for the truth and an assurance of immortality with preserved identity. Soldiers who have gone through war's hard experiences thirst for something better and surer than mundane existence.

Until labor union rules work equitably for the employer as well as the employee, the relationship between them will be irritating and unsatisfactory. Time was when industrial overlords were unreasonably exacting. The tide changed. Now union radicals, able to capture dangerous power, far exceed reasonable demands, and they do not appear to have foresight enough to see they are riding for a fall.

Farm incomes are reported the largest in history, but no larger, considering investments, risks and hours of labor, than other fields of service.

the pseudo-seers in Washington. "The pseudo-seers need to be kicked out. Quickly, and with the greatest of vigor. Meanwhile it is idle to cry out against the Decontrol Board. Its members too, good men, are victims of the flood."

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Roberts and Bill were August 21 dinner guests of Mrs. Elizabeth James and children at Hartington. They had supper with the Martin Shope family at Hartington.

THE PAC. The Norfolk Daily News quotes Mark Sullivan, columnist, as charging that the Political Action Committee of the CIO is a political party the same as the democratic and republican parties, that notwithstanding Senator LaFollette's record of friendship for labor, it joined the opposition to defeat him in the Wisconsin primary. To the Wisconsin senator is attributed the opinion that his criticism of Russia fired the committee's wrath. The overthrow of Montana's Senator Wheeler, another friend of labor, is charged to CIO's auxiliary, the PAC. In Montana, Jimmy Roosevelt, son of the late president, worked for Wheeler's defeat, credited with charging the senator with having lost the confidence of his father. Young Roosevelt is reported in the employ of the CIO. Altogether, appearances on the political horizon lead the News to conclude that the "Political Action Committee is, in truth, not primarily concerned with labor, but is a group striving to become a third political party, which gives evidence of having leanings toward communism and Russian interests."

County (Continued from Page One) ernment publicity. The government printing office at Washington cannot get enough printers and operators to keep up with the enormous vaporings from these agencies.

Chadron Progresses. Chadron, another teachers' college town, has sufficient monetary dough on hand to equip its park with a swimming pool and numerous recreation facilities. Wayne has the setup for a complete playground, but it has experienced a slight check. Its proposed bond issue was defeated by a narrow margin. It feels jolted somewhat out of plumb, but it is not down. It will reurge, and with aroused interest get into step with live, progressive communities.

that a multiplicity of spittoons, while lowering the mathematical odds against a complete miss, would not meet the situation. Perhaps he has something. If Britain's wars of the past have been won on the playing fields of Eton, it is possible that the guided-missile warfare of the future will be won by the nation whose citizens have experimented most in pin point spitting from high altitudes and various distances. The man who can achieve the most accuracy in this field, with allowance for wind drift, tooth formation and cuspidor elevation, may be the bombardier of the future. Peace-time adaptations of this art less easily come to mind, but there must be some. Nobody would have thought that flying a kite would come to anything until Benjamin Franklin took it up.

July's Record of Motor Accidents

Captain C. J. Sanders, Nebraska safety patrol, reports that as "death" stepped on the gas in July to make it the heaviest month of the year in traffic fatalities with 27, motorists too had stepped on the gas in July to make it the highest month of 1946 in traffic violations. Captain Sanders' monthly activity report of the patrol for July shows that there were 860 motorists arrested for making dangerous violations. This was a 50% increase over the number arrested in June. Heading the list of arrests were 168 drivers who mistook the highways for speedways, 86 who were too reckless, 75 who didn't believe in "stop" signs, and 52 who forgot that drinking and driving don't mix. Two hundred and sixty-two motorists were arrested for not having an operator's license.

Equipment violation or "must repair" tags were given to 2,247 motorists for operating their vehicles with faulty equipment. Heading the list of equipment violations were faulty head and tail lights. Four hundred and eighty-seven other motorists were given written warning cards for dangerous driving practices. Speeders and "stop" sign jumpers received most of the warnings.

In the field of service, the patrol assisted 1,419 motorists in distress, removed 587 accident causing obstructions, and gave 40 safety talks.

To complete the patrol's activity report, 214 accidents were investigated and seven stolen cars were recovered. Captain Sanders stated that the 214 accidents investigated by the patrol were an all-time high. This is no doubt due to the patrol's new radio system.

Miss Darlene Nissen and Lyle Kumm, and Miss Lois Nissen and Neal Siecke were married at a double ceremony at Pilger August 18.

FEDERAL AID. As with an individual, so with a state or nation, future security depends on balanced budgets, getting along on incomes, trimming sails according to economic weather. Matching federal with state funds for projects within states seems an unnecessary extravagance. It adds to a public debt already perilously big. The Sioux City Journal says prospective state aid from Washington will total in the neighborhood of $152,000,000. It expresses no surprise at Senator Pepper's announced plan to champion a move to provide a pension of $200 per month for every couple over 60 years old, or $150 per month for every unmarried person of that age. Pepper's idea imitates the so-called Townsend plan. Let states pay their own expenses, make their own improvements. Let oldsters do more for themselves, lean less on the government. Let the needy be helped without appropriating huge sums entirely beyond an individual's earning possibilities. The Journal thinks congress should recognize dangerous financial tendencies, and of course junk Pepper's proposal for wholesale government paternalism.

Highway Projects Making Progress

The new highway project on 81 between Norfolk and Madison, will be speeded up to a 24-hour schedule, it was announced by District Engineer L. N. Riss of Norfolk. Contractors started oil mixing operations last week. While time may not permit the spreading of a bituminous mat on the new route this fall, it will be opened to traffic during the winter months. Pouring of concrete started last week on Highway 77 project between Oakland and Uehling, and the project should be completed by October 1.

All the materials for the bituminous mat on Highway 81 between numbers 98 and 20 north of Norfolk are in place, and the oil has been applied on about three miles of the job. Plans are to have the work completed by September 15. The bituminous mat work has been finished on the Stanton spur number 24. The armor coat will be applied as soon as the condition of the mat under traffic is observed.

He's Weak on Dates. (Omaha World-Herald) On the anniversary of the defeat of Japan, Premier Stalin attacks the "international reaction front which has plans for a new war." In Russia, it should be understood, a "reactionary" is any one who doesn't agree with Russia.

Mr. Stalin goes on then to claim credit for Russia in Japan's defeat, and adds: "Japan did not last three weeks after we added our blows to those of the allies. On close reading, Premier Stalin does not say that Russia fought Japan for three weeks. That is the implication. A chronology might be in order.

Early June: Premier Suzuki warns the Japanese people against unconditional surrender—but the Tokyo radio talks about it quite candidly, and fishes for surrender terms. July 26: The Potsdam declaration is announced by the United States, Britain and China, setting forth the surrender terms. August 6: Hiroshima is bombed.

August 9: Russia enters war. August 11: Japan accepts the Potsdam declaration, with a request for clarification. August 14: Official V-J Day is declared. From Russia's entry to the time the Japanese accepted the Potsdam declaration was two days. From Russia's entry to V-J Day was five days.

The simple fact is that the Russians had to hurry like mad to get into the Japanese war at all, and that they had nothing whatsoever to do with its outcome. To make his story really good, Mr. Stalin should have stuck to the actual dates, and argued that Russia knocked over Japan in two days—from August 9 to August 11. But perhaps that would be a little too much for well trained Russians to swallow.

CONTROL BY BUYER.

(Norfolk Daily News) The price of butter at Lincoln dropped 5 cents a pound the other day. A few weeks ago it slumped more than that here. In both cases the cause was the same: The housewife quit buying at the high price.

Here we see the old reliable law of demand and supply at work. OPA supporters said when price control went off, that prices would soar to the skies. Others said that demand and supply would come in to the picture to hold the price down from excessive levels. There is evidence that the latter were right. Housewives can, if they choose, set the price of butter within certain limits. They apparently are inclined to use their power. The price of butter is being held down below what it was under OPA when the subsidy the consumer, as taxpayer, had to pay is taken into account.

The livestock market shows similar inclination to follow the law of supply and demand. An excessive run of sheep sends the price down. Scarcity of hogs keeps the price firm. Certain grades of cattle are weak, other grades strong and steady, depending on how far the supply for the day meets the demand. As long as the consumer uses judgment when he goes to market, there is little danger of runaway prices.

CROWDS THE RULE

(Omaha Journal Stockman) People are keen for diversion, and have the means to finance it. Vacations are setting a new record in spending; baseball and other sporting events draw record crowds; and the first of the state fairs, Illinois, is topping all attendance records. Other fairs can expect the same. Provision for such crowds is no simple matter. Yet it is important that adequate provision is made. People should not seek recreation, and be permitted to run into hardship. Where do we eat? Well, better take it along, this year. And, incidentally, this great outpouring for this season's fairs means business for exhibiting livestock breeders. It is an opportunity, unparalleled.

Dixon county old settlers' association met at Allen Monday last week when H. F. Good was elected president, Wesley Brownell vice president, Marvin Burgess secretary, Maurice Swanson treasurer and Fay Clough historian.

Thomas Ashford, 82, prominent in the livestock industry for 50 years, died last week at Homer.

The altars were beautifully decorated, and with all the children and the first communicants receiving the Holy Eucharist together, our hearts were moved to forget the material things of this earth and enjoy the peace and happiness that only the spiritual can give to the soul. Disabled Veterans Survey Is Planned

Members of both houses of congress were asked by disabled American veterans for a statement on what they thought to be of first importance to disabled war veterans, to be used as a guide in their deliberations by delegates attending the 25th national convention of the DAV in Portland, Ore., September 2-6. The more than 300 statements received will be published in the official convention program.

The following statement was issued by Rep. Karl Stefan, 3rd district, Nebraska:

"I consider it of the first importance for disabled veterans to make a complete and comprehensive survey of the plight of their fellow disabled veterans. No other group, official or otherwise, could be in such a strong position to gather this vital information. We want your recommendation as to 'Who,' 'When,' 'Where,' 'What,' 'How,' and 'Why.' With this knowledge before us, from such an unimpeachable source, we the members of congress could act intelligently and swiftly to bring security to those fighting Americans who gave part of their bodies for the great cause for which the rest of us were only able to give part of our time."

Halt Direct Relief, Advice of Senator

Council Bluffs Nonpareil: Some ago Nebraska's Senator Hugh Butler went to South America at his own expense to find out what the people of Latin-America thought about the United States. He also investigated U. S. spending in those countries.

When he returned Senator Butler told the senate and the American people about the scandalous waste of money by new deal agencies in every country he visited. Instead of making friends, he said, we were making enemies, and the good neighbor policy was being sabotaged.

New deal columnists and commentators started their usual smear campaign and several senile democrats joined in the hue and cry.

Senator Butler was accused of everything from juggling figures to interfering with the war effort. But when the smoke cleared away the Nebraska senator was found to be right on practically every count.

Time has confirmed the correctness of his findings. Our relations with Latin-America have deteriorated. The good neighbor policy has become a tragic joke.

A few days ago Senator Butler returned from an official tour of China, the orient and several European countries. He conferred with American state department and allied government officials in every country he visited.

"Many of our representatives believe we are the biggest saps in the world for our direct relief and loan programs," Senator Butler reported.

The best thing this country can do as a "good neighbor," he declared, "is to halt direct relief and all government and other loans" (except those on a sound commercial basis. He suggested that future direct aid should be on a personal basis—that is aid for Greeks from Greek-American clubs, organizations, church and missionary groups."

Senator Ellender of Louisiana, ranking member of the congressional party of which Senator Butler was a member, agreed in most respects with the Nebraska senator.

The graft in UNRRA shipments to China, he said, has prevented most of the relief from reaching the poor people who really needed it.

"Every local official handling UNRRA relief was expected to extract a 10 per cent graft fee just for handling," Ellender declared.

"The same thing is true in many other nations receiving UNRRA aid," he added. "I never would vote for another dime for UNRRA or anything similar with possible exception of helping the Greeks get some shipping."

Senator Ellender said American troops should be withdrawn from China as soon as "all the Japs and Germans are out."

Senator Butler took much the same view declaring, "We have no

A COSMIC RAY QUEST
(Sioux City Journal)

Scientists will read with avid interest the records accumulated by a specially equipped B-29 bomber that has been flying for weeks as an aerial laboratory at great altitude and ranging over a large part of the western hemisphere seeking data on the cosmic rays. The records now are in Washington for official scientific study. What may be discovered no one knows yet, but there is no end to the speculation the men of science have indulged in during this quest.

There is no one who knows much about the cosmic rays. All scientists know about them for they have studied them for years. But no one knows where they originate or what real potentiality of power they may hold. These rays constantly are bombarding the earth. They are the most penetrating form of radiation yet discovered in the scientific field. They go through anything and everything. They pass through all living things 20 to 30 times a second. Long ago it was announced that they would penetrate 17 feet of solid lead. Only a thin leaden blanket will stop X-rays and the gamma rays of radium. Now Frank Carey, Associated Press writer in Washington, says the cosmic rays "have penetrated lead blocks 75 feet thick."

Because of scientists having discovered the secret of releasing atomic energy, the cosmic ray study in the future becomes even more important. Possibly, another secret of the universe is just around the corner. More knowledge of the cosmic rays might enable science to reveal other secrets nature still guards. Ultimately, if man only could harness the cosmic rays, he might, as Mr. Carey writes, "have an endless source of titanic energy."

A PROPHECY IS GONE
(Nebraska State Journal, Lincoln)

H. G. Wells, like Emile Zola of the generation before, dedicated himself to keeping mankind's conscience alert. Unlike Zola, who used realism to shock readers into an awareness that the world was far from perfect, Wells largely expressed himself in fantastic novels. Yet his purpose remained the same; hence his serious and scholarly "Outline of History" is not so drastic a change from his fictitious "War of the Worlds" as it would seem at first glance. In the first case the author was exhorting his readers to profit from the experience of things past; in the second he was speculating on what might conceivably happen in the future, human nature being what it is.

"A shrewd layman's insight into the possibilities of science enabled him to conjecture dramatically 'The Shape of Things to Come,' a title he used for his fictional forecast of the second world war. America still remembers the brief panic precipitated by a radio dramatization of his theme of an invasion from Mars—a public reaction which shockingly betrayed the state of nerves that gripped and still grips mankind. Today, with the atom unlocked, rockets probing the fringes of earthbound space, and radar soberly calling the moon, the moral of Wells' fantasies seems clearer than when he wrote them.

"Men Like Gods," another book, defined a hopeful possibility which Wells detected in the human race. Whatever folly and doom man's actions seemed to point to for the future, there was always the grain of hope that he would learn from the past, and learn in time. This was the lesson taught by the "Outline of History," and the real measure of Wells' contribution to the world.

GENERAL DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER
Supreme Commander, Allied Expeditionary Force
1944-1945

Lincoln, Neb.—Highlighted by the presence of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, who will be the principal speaker, and unusual display of military might, weather permitting, Veterans Day at the opening of the Nebraska State Fair on Sunday, Sept. 1, is certain to establish a new attendance record for the first day, as well as for the week, in the opinion of those in charge of arrangements. General Eisenhower is flying his own plane from Washington, D. C., to Lincoln especially to have a part in the opening ceremonies. His staff will accompany him.

Running a close second to the general for popular favor will undoubtedly be the colorful mounted revue to be presented in front of the grandstand by nationally known Lexington, Neb., Plum Creekers. Also in high favor will be the greatest lineup of army leaders ever seen together in the middle west. Included will be no less than 11 generals of whom Butler B. Miltenberger of North Platte will be one. Now a major general, he is chief of the National Guard Bureau with headquarters in Washington.

Mr. Buffet and the PAC
(Omaha World-Herald)

The CIO-PAC has declared war on Representative Howard Buffet and the Omaha Congressmen has accepted the challenge.

Presumably Mr. Buffet's record will now be raked over the coals, examined under a microscope and etched in smoke by sky writers.

That's all to the good.

Mr. Buffet has taken strong stands on controversial issues. He has never pussy-footed, and he has therefore made some enemies. It is his opinion that he reflects the views of the voters who elected him. He will put that opinion to the test again next November.

The prevailing opinion seems to be that Mr. Buffet has the votes, with room to spare. In his last victory he won by a larger majority than in his first race. The Republican tide is running high in Nebraska and the hosts of Democracy are hard put to make a respectable showing at the polls.

However, this is mid-August and the election is almost three months away. The PAC is moving in with its money and its doorbell-ringing technique. It seems to be taking the play away from the party organization. Truly something new has been added to the Second District race in Nebraska.

Nebraska voters generally are not much influenced by gee-whiz campaigns. And some of them are just old-fashioned enough to resent outside interference.

However, what will come of the PAC's entrance into Nebraska politics no one can say—except the voters in November.

See Times Trend In Plane-Car Lot

Check for Mere $400,000 Is Finally Recovered by Proper Authority.

Signs of the times: Over what once was a used car lot in Los Angeles, Cal., now hangs a sign which reads "You got $300, I got a plane. Your old car or old plane in trade. Three surplus army training ships are for sale. But they can't be flown away." The lot is surrounded by telephone wires.

Deputy State Treasurer Jacob Willson, Denver, picked up an envelope in the mail addressed to "The Treasurer of the State of Colorado, Hartford, Conn." It had been forwarded carefully by Hartford, Mr. Willson slit the envelope and out dropped a United States government check for $400,000 made out to the state of Connecticut. Mr. Willson is returning the check, in another envelope, to Hartford.

An aerial photographer planned to fly over Zoro Nature park in Roseland, Ind., to take pictures of the members of the American Sunbathing association. Alois S. Knapp, president of the association, said that so many planes have been flying at low altitudes over the camp that "we'd like to know how we look from the air."

To King, a mixture of bulldog and terrier, heroism is old stuff. Several months ago the dog led Russell P. Bomar, 18, Los Angeles, to safety from a burning house. Recently Leo Fowler told how King dragged his 4-year-old daughter, Jacka, from the Fowler driveway as he was backing the family car from the garage. Mr. Fowler unaware the child was in danger.

Spokane county, Wash., found it had acquired a $17,500 school in payment of a $340 tax bill. Marshall school district failed to get a clear title on the site of its school building. So Jean Hughes, county real estate agent, checked the boundaries of the plot which the county took by foreclosure when nobody paid the taxes or bid on the land. He made the discovery. But officials quickly quieted the cheers of students. The county will give the school back on a tax-free basis as soon as the title is cleared.

Aldo P. MacCagle, 26, New York City, said he was one of seven men ordered to bail out by Colin Kelly during the mission on which his famous dive on the battleship Haruna took place. Mr. MacCagle said he escaped to Luzon, fought until captured at Corregidor, escaped from Santa Thomas prison, fought with the guerrillas and finally got home for discharge. Magistrate Alex Piscotta decided that Mr. MacCagle's record entitled him to a suspended sentence for smoking in a subway station.

Mrs. George S. Perkins of Salt Lake City told her 6-year-old son, Sherry, to take a bath before dinner. A few moments later she heard him call to her and went into the bathroom, but the youngster couldn't be seen. A fire department emergency crew worked 45 minutes and had to remove all the pipes leading to the bathtub before the child could crawl out from his "hiding place" between the tub and the wall.

Farmer Joe Kinsella, Altamont, Pa., reports that while he was working in a field a pack of 15 foxes approached him and chased him into the yard of his home. Many farmers in that vicinity are carrying shotguns to their fields to guard against the animals. The influx of the foxes is believed caused by heavy trapping in surrounding counties.

At the height of the Pacific northwest's gale, Light Superintendent Paul Peyton at Centralia, Wash., answered a telephone call from a woman motorist who reported her car was snarled in power wires at Rainier. She asked him to shut off the power until her machine could be removed. "How did you get out of the car?" asked Mr. Peyton. "Oh, I just pushed the wires aside with my purse and got out," she replied. The flabbergasted official assured her the power would be shut off immediately. The city's wires at Rainier carry 2,400 volts.

A police car at San Diego, Cal., was dispatched to a local theater to watch "two men in a green sedan with the motor running." Other police cars also sped to the scene and found the car under suspicion. The automobile turned out to be a police car with two detectives who were watching a suspicious person in front of the theater where receipts were being counted.

Wayne Pioneers Win Two More

Wayne Defeats Pierce 8-2 At Winside; Wakefield 3-1 at Pender.

The past week saw the Wayne baseball chalk up two more wins to its long string of victories. Playing in the first round of the Pender invitation tournament Sunday, Manager Fritz Dinmel's boys overpowered Wakefield, 3 to 1, to advance to the semi-final game against Bancroft Sunday evening at 8:30 under the Pender lights.

The team had little trouble at the Winside old settlers' picnic last Thursday afternoon when it overpowered Pierce, 8 to 2.

Wayne 3, Wakefield 1.
Outstanding in the game Sunday was the mound work of the two opposing pitchers. Each allowed only three hits, all singles. Scott, hurrying for Wayne, struck out 11 and walked one. Hoekinsy, for Wakefield, also struck out 11, but issued three free passes.

Wayne took the lead in the 1st frame by scoring a run on two walks and a sacrifice hit. They added another in the 2nd on a pair of singles and a Wakefield error. The third tally was marked up in the 6th on a walk, an error and a sacrifice. Wakefield's lone score came in the top of the 9th on a walk and a Wayne error.

Library News

Back to school is the slogan for this week and next. Here is a message from the public library to men and women who wish to continue their education. Most subjects can be studied from books, at home, in your own time. The public library is open to you, without fee. Librarians can help you plan your reading so that you advance step by step through reading courses tailored just for you. So let the public library help you out. Open a library book and continue your education!

We have three new "Who Dun It's" for those who are interested. They are "Diamonds in the Dumpings" by Susannah Shane, "The Cinnamon Murder" by Frances Crane, and "Desperate Cure" by Ruth Fensong.

"Double Wedding Ring," by Josephine Lawrence, is a new novel received this week and is found on the rental shelf. Aside from the fact that it is our personal opinion that what happens to the characters in Miss Lawrence's novels shouldn't happen to a dog, they are fairly well written and usually hold the reader's interest. If you like soap operas, "Double Wedding Ring" would make a good one of the better type.

One of the most unusual novels we have read in many a day is "Hollow Triumph," by Murray Forbes. It is not, strictly speaking, a murder mystery, although a murder is involved in the plot. It is a story about a doctor, a psychiatrist, who is the subject of the psychoanalysis of the author. The author is not only a writer but an actor who appears on several radio programs. A good deal of medical research had to be done before this book could be written.

Beginning the first of September, the children's library will be open between 7 and 8 o'clock in the evening again. It was closed evenings during summer months.

Reunion Is Held.
The Wittler reunion was held Sunday at Bressler park with 86 attending. Henry Wittler, 87, of Cook, was the eldest, and Steven Glassmeyer of Wayne, 7 months, the youngest attending. In the group were Henry and Ed, Wittler of Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Aug. Wittler of Wayne, Wm. Beune and Irene, Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig Beune, Henry Beune and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Stiggs of West Point, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Beune of Howells, Mr. and Mrs. Ortwin Beune and Nadine of Wisner, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Toelle and Candace of Beemer, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. A. Wittler of Winside, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Wittler and Ruth of DeWitt, Julius Wittler and Emma Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Wittler and Darlene of Janson, Mrs. Lena

The Curtain Rises on ELECTRICAL FARMING

His Farm Fields Are Factories

U. S. FARMERS have made our fields into factories

We live better than people in other countries because our farmers get more out of the soil.

The steel industry takes pride in the way it has helped bring about this improvement in farm practice. Tools of steel—from the plowshare to the giant combine—have multiplied in number and increased vastly in quality.

Fifty years ago the typical farm in America used about 3 tons of steel. Today the figure is nearer 17½ tons.

That is a measure of the modernization of agriculture and an indication of the interdependence of steel and farming.

We no longer have separate "farm production problems" or "industrial production problems." We have but one set of problems for everybody.

If strikes, for instance, restrict the supply of farm implements and supplies through work stoppages, or make their cost prohibitive, America is out of gear.

Anything which tends in this direction is bad for the farmer—and finally for everybody. Farmers know it. Everybody else should know it.

Steel mills need all the scrap iron and steel they can get. The shortage is serious. Farmers can get extra dollars and help increase steel output by sending worn-out machinery, etc., on its way to the furnaces. AMERICAN IRON AND STEEL INSTITUTE, 350 Fifth Avenue, New York 1, N. Y.

Development of northeast Nebraska from raw prairies to a high state of modernization has taken place in less time than the life span of many pioneers. One of these early settlers who has been privileged to watch the change is Judge J. M. Cherry who was 85 years old last Friday, August 16.

To honor the occasion, Miss Frances Cherry entertained at dinner Friday for Mrs. Gertrude Sonner and Mr. and Mrs. Merton Hillon.

Judge Cherry has an interesting life to recall. He was born at Iowa City and learned the carpenter trade in his youth. Equipped with a few tools and lots of ambition, he decided to start out for himself. He didn't know anyone west of Des Moines, but he had heard that the new town of Wayne in Nebraska was progressive and offered much promise so he and another young man decided to come here for a year and try it out.

Judge Cherry arrived in Wayne March 31, 1884, with $1.65 as his entire capital. He went to Chas. Wilkins, who operated the hotel on the site of the present depot. He laid out his finances and explained that he needed a place to sleep and eat. Wilkins asked what he could do. Cherry explained that he was a carpenter and had his tools in his trunk at the depot. Wilkins took care of him and sent a dray to the depot for the trunk.

After one good night's sleep Cherry walked up Main street and heard Jonas Ryther, agent for the Peavy elevator on the west side of the street near the depot, trying to get men from the saloon, which was on the site of the furniture store, to unload a car of coal. The Iowa was pushful but very anxious to get started. So after Ryther left the crowd of loafers, Cherry followed him and finally gained nerve enough to stop him and ask him if he needed help. Ryther told him he'd pay 15c a ton for unloading the coal and Cherry took on the job. He cleaned out the 20 tons in the car in one day, and he recalls that he really had a sore back that night for he had been accustomed to lifting wood instead of coal for fuel in Iowa.

On Cherry's second day in Wayne, Franz Moses asked him to help put shingles on his new house near the German church as he was anxious to get moved in at once. Cherry did so in a fierce spring snowstorm. The daughter born at that time to Mr. and Mrs. Moses, now living in Pasadena, was the first person to whom Judge Cherry issued a delayed birth certificate after the law went into effect in recent years.

Land Agent Bennett wanted a sidewalk built at his residence which stood on the site of the telephone office. Cherry had never tackled such a job but he was willing and he built the walk which was the first placed in front of a Wayne residence.

Contracts for frame. Next, Cherry asked a carpenter for work. The man explained that he had no employment but he'd sub-let a contract to build a 16x22 frame on the John Heeren place seven miles southwest of Wayne. Cherry loaded his tools on his back and walked to the farm. A granary on the place was partitioned. The tenant and his wife slept on the bed which was in one half which also housed the table and stove. In the other half four men and the tenant's son slept on flax seed. One of the men was Jake Ziegler who was breaking the land. Cherry made $2.50 a day, and the men soon had the new frame ready for plaster.

The Baptist minister, who lived in a frame across from the present Gay theatre, hired Cherry to shingle the roof of the kitchen which was a lean-to back of the ten-story property. The judge recalls that he finished the job and had to stay on the roof for some time as the minister went on an errand and left no way for him to get down.

Cherry's next jobs were to build houses southeast of Wayne for Jim Conner and John Conner. He then took a sub-contract for finishing doors, windows and tower for the city school. He was to receive $218 for the work, but the contractor in the meantime lost everything and Cherry's lien could not be enforced as it was on public property.

The shock of loss on the school construction was a blow to Cherry and his friend and the latter decided to return to Iowa. Cherry decided to stick it out for a year at least, as he had determined to do so. Cherry told Gene Jones, brother of the late Harry Jones, that he believed he'd have to return to Iowa at the close of the year. Mr. Jones, who had a lumber yard south of the depot, offered Cherry a bookkeeping job at $45 a month for the winter. Cherry took it, bought a bookkeeping text and studied it hard. Jones then trusted Cherry with the business while he went on a wedding trip, and the books were perfect.

When Jones sold the yard to Paul English, Cherry was out of a job again. He was packed and ready to return to Iowa when H. F. Wilson asked him to accompany J. M. Strahan to Chicago with cattle as Mr. Strahan was not well. Cherry did so and kept the cattle on their feet for the trip. Once when he was getting a steer to stand, the train came to a good stretch of road and really traveled. Cherry was on top of a box car and was afraid to walk the cars back to the caboose so he sat on the cattle car during a hard rain. Finally Mr. Strahan sent a brakeman out to find him.

Things Change at Home.

On the return from Chicago, Cherry got off the train at Cedar Rapids and went to his home in Iowa City. Things had changed so in the year that he did not feel that he fitted into the surroundings. It was then he determined to return to Wayne and he did. Paul English was at the depot when Cherry arrived and immediately asked him to help in his lumber yard and elevator. English put in a side track and stock of lumber at Winside, which was then open prairie. The 8x8 office and siding were all that comprised Winside. A mile north of the site Cherry secured board and room with the Hornby family. He walked back and forth and the Hornbys packed lunch for him. The last of February, 1886, a railroad flat car moved the section house, McDerby store and blacksmith from a short distance west to the site of the elevator and left them along the siding.

Judge Cherry married Edith Mears and both stayed at Hornby's until they converted two bins in the flat house into rooms for living. Then as soon as the town was laid out Cherry bought a lot and built a house.

In June, 1887, Mr. English sold his Winside yard. Determined to find another job at once, Cherry went to Schuyler and one of the first people he met was J. O. Milligan who took him to James Smith of the Fuller, Smith & Fuller yard and recommended him for a job. Smith hired him and Judge and Mrs. Cherry were there until January, 1890.

Steve Russell was elected county clerk and asked Cherry to take his place as manager for the Milligan elevator in Wayne. He did so and remained four years. Then Ed Reynolds was elected sheriff and picked Cherry as deputy. When Judge Brown, deputy county clerk, died, Steve Russell, then clerk, persuaded Cherry to work for him and he did for three and a half years. Cherry was elected sheriff afterward and served four years.

Becomes Party Candidate.

Cherry then returned to the carpenter trade. He was working on the entrance to the old college building when a spokesman for the county democratic convention telephoned him and told him to come to the convention at once as he was wanted as candidate for county treasurer. Just the day before Cherry had introduced Joe Jones of Carroll, republican nominee, to many on Main street. But from then on he canvassed for himself and he was elected.

Cherry's next venture was a real estate partnership with A. J. Ferguson. The real estate business was not good and along with this Cherry served seven years at city clerk and water commissioner.

In 1918 Judge James Brittain died and his son was appointed to fill the vacancy. That fall Cherry was elected county judge and began serving January, 1919. He has been in this office continually since.

Wayne city council is giving notice of an election to vote on bonds for a waterworks system. M. S. Englert and Chris Nelson competed in a walking match from Coon creek to Wayne, making the five miles in about 50 minutes. Sioux City corn palace will be open the last of September, and parades like the Mardi Gras of New Orleans are arranged.

Olmstead & Co. improved their hardware by lengthening it, putting up a warehouse and work shop and covering the rooms with corrugated iron. Corn is selling for 35c a bushel in contrast with last year's 15c. Officers of the Omaha railroad were in Wayne to complete the organization of the Randolph and Northeast Nebraska Railroad company. Ft. Randall, S. D., is terminus of the road, but the intention is to build 20 miles beyond Randolph. It will be made part of the Omaha road when completed. The railroad company is protesting having Logan street, the first east of Main, opened across the tracks as it will necessitate the removal of stock yards and coal sheds but stockmen want the change. E. Cunningham reports a good yield of wheat on land near Wayne that was hailed badly early in the season.

Emblem of Marine Corps Is Explained

The globe, eagle and anchor have been the emblem of the corps since 1868, according to Platoon Sergeant J. W. Whitney of Norfolk, who was in Wayne Friday interesting young folks in enlistment.

The globe represents the world in every part of which marines have served. "The winds of the world are in their faces and salt of the seven seas." The eagle, emblematic of the United States, is a symbol of marine air activities. "Its wings unfold the world." The anchor and entwining hawser signify the relationship between the U. S. marine corps and U. S. navy. The anchor stands for security and steadfastness. "On the land, the sea or in the sky, the marines are always there to defend their country."

All young men who join the marines do so voluntarily. Sgt. Whitley mentioned, and they live to serve and learn that "Once a marine, always a marine." They have upheld their motto, "Always Faithful."

Men who enlist in the marine corps up to August 31 will receive a 10-day boot leave. For further information Sgt. Whitley invites young men to call or write the U. S. marine corps, room 305, post office building, Norfolk.

The Norfolk office has a limited supply of booklets on "How to Respect and Display Our Flag." This booklet is free of charge.

get the nail works which, it is reported, will be moved from Omaha.

Because of unsettled relationships with Mexico, it is ordered that all mail be sent by rail and cross the border at El Paso. Watermelons are plentiful. Buildings and improvements in Ponca double those of any previous year.

An extra railroad coach was required to take G. A. R. members and the band to the soldier's reunion at Norfolk. The band members camped with the G. A. R. and participated in the program. Rev. R. L. Wheeler also went from Ponca. Many from the Black Hills area joined the Nebraskans. A rumor of a new manufacturing establishment in Ponca persists. The water power is a special inducement. Miss Feauto's class in elocution will give a program that will be a rare intellectual treat. Ponca has 1,700 residents and is growing fast.

PICK YOUR CORN EARLY!

Dry It In Crib, with Behlen All-Steel Ventilators and Tunnels

New, modern, fast way to dry corn. No more waiting for corn to dry in fields. Pick early, when mechanical pickers work best. Crib it, and let Behlen Ventilators and Tunnels dry corn faster than you ever dreamed possible.

GOODBYE TO CORN BORERS!

Agricultural colleges and experimental stations recommend picking early, to help control corn borers. You get your corn into cribs to dry, and shred or chop stalks and plow under before ground freezes, to kill the borers.

Behlen Tunnels not only ventilate, but are very handy for shelling. Just run shelter "drag" into tunnel, as at left. Pull out tunnel sections one by one. Corn drops onto conveyor belt. Saves hours of labor!

COME IN NOW!

Don't wait. We have Behlen All-Steel Ventilators and Corn Tunnels on hand now. But due to present industrial situation, we cannot promise we will get any more this fall. We strongly urge you to come in right away, while we are still able to supply you. Cost is less than for old-style wood ventilators.

WINSIDE

We are stocking new merchandise as fast as it is available

We want you to know how much we appreciate the patience and understanding you showed in meeting the trying conditions of the past few years when it was so often difficult or impossible to get needed merchandise. Your cooperation in waiting for merchandise and often accepting substitutes made it much easier for us.

The situation is improving steadily. We are getting increasingly large shipments of formerly scarce items, but it still isn't always possible to supply exactly what you want when you want it. We are in constant contact with all sources of supply and are on our toes every minute to get new merchandise and pre-war items as soon as they are back on the market. So keep on asking us for what you want because, even if we haven't it today, we may have it in stock tomorrow.

We Hope to See You at the Wayne County Fair

"My Serval is so-o-o silent!"
says JERRY COLONNA
famous radio and picture star

"I picked a Serval Gas Refrigerator years ago. And it's never made a sound. That's why I advise my friends—choose Serval."

If you're thinking about a new refrigerator, Jerry Colonna's advice can help you. Like 2,000,000 other happy Serval owners, he's found the gas refrigerator is different.

Serval makes no noise. And never can. Because it freezes with no moving parts. A tiny gas flame does the work. There's nothing in the freezing system to wear or get noisy—ever.

Ask the folks who've had Servels during the war. They'll tell you Serval is trouble-free, long-lasting. They'll tell you, too, it stays silent and needs no costly repairs.

Come in and see the new models!
Look inside to see how really roomy a refrigerator can be! Those flexible shelves mean lots more useful space! And your Serval will give just-right temperatures for meat, vegetables, frozen food!

Stays silent... lasts longer

Autumn apparel is arriving with dramatic fashion changes. There's a new mood in the air. After the strain and regimentation of war years there's a desire to "go places" and "do things." Here in your popular Brown-McDonald store you will find the coats and suits that will add excitement and flattery to that desire.

Elegance and luxuriousness are evident. You will find many changes and points of interest to make your next shopping trip to our ready-to-wear section a real thrill. This year instead of "taking what you can get," you'll be "getting what you want."

Style Highlights

A new style quality which will catch your eye at once.

Fitted, smaller waists, cinched with a belt or molded to the form in both coats and suits.

Much shoulder interest in variety of design. Dropped shoulder yokes.

Buttons are outstanding for ornamentation, appearing on shoulders, cuffs and collars.
