THE KNOT-HOLE

Vol. 3 Wayne, Nebr., Thurs., Nov. 7, 1946 No. 28

Prospective employee: "Do you give your help two weeks vacation?"

Boss: "No, a month. Two weeks when I go on vacation, and two weeks when they go on theirs."

Now is the time to get that ladder you have been wanting. You have your choice of step, straight or combination ladders all made of fine quality ladder stock. A 6 foot step ladder, fully rodded, costs only $3.54. Get your ladder while there is still a choice of lengths.

For that floor refinishing you will want Bruce floor finish. It's the best of Bruce Tuf-Luster floor wax because they have been found to make the perfect floor finish. Bruce floor products are made by the largest manufacturers of oak flooring in the world, people who insist that floors can be made more beautiful, easily and quickly.

Asylum Warden: "So you think you are sane now. If I give you your freedom, will you leave liquor and women alone?"

"I sure will."

"You'd better stay here. You're still crazy."

Standard Briquettes burn slowly and evenly, giving you heat all the time for a long time. They don't flare up when the draft is opened and then burn themselves out in a hurry. If you like steady heat, you'll like Standard Briquettes.

For stoker use there are two fine coals you will like, Broken A and Harco stoker coals. Both are exceptionally well prepared for stoker use, oil treated to avoid any semblance of dust. Fill your bin now with either of these coals and be assured of the best in stoker heating.

In reply to a summons for jury service a lady wrote: "In answer to your letter, I am not interested in your offer, as I have a good paying position now."

Presidential Expectancy

THE Norfolk Daily News urges congress to follow its own streamlining for efficiency by changing the presidential system for the same reason. It points out that a president reduces his life expectancy by eight years through the strain and stress required. William Howard Taft was an exception. He served only one term, and he exceeded his expectancy, due, as suspected, to an unusually cheerful nature. The News comments: "Herbert Hoover is now nearing his expectancy. He also was only a one-term, and he may perhaps thank his short tenure for the fact that he still is living. "The strains of the presidency have been increasing. The first ten presidents, except two, lived beyond their expectancies. The strains of the office in the early years were not what they are now. "A way should be found to relieve the president of much of the hard, but unnecessary work, which custom has put upon him. It shouldn't be said, as it is now that defeated candidates fare much better than successful ones in reaching their full measure of life."

Rural Schools

THE Saturday Evening Post calls attention to disappearance of one-teacher country schools in Kansas, as encouraged by an act of the legislature of that state. The Post concludes its story of the rural school with these paragraphs: "But farms have grown larger and the population of school districts has become smaller in consequence, making costs per pupil very high. Competent teachers are hard to find at country-school salaries. Improved roads and school busses as well as farmers' cars can provide transportation over longer distances. The logic of economics and the demand for broader school facilities, plus some pressure by the educational organizations, enforce consolidation into larger school districts. Less than a generation ago there were more than 189,000 one-teacher rural schools in the United States. The number is now down to slightly more than 100,000, and the rate of disappearance is more rapid than ever before. "Many of the abandoned school buildings are being sold for use as temporary houses during the housing shortage period. The little white schoolhouse, even to the end, is continuing to serve a useful purpose."

On the eve of every election, party leaders, in conflict over issues and candidates, present solemnly prepared statements of confidence. They see every reason for victory perching high on their banners. They see innumerable symptoms pointing that way. Even if their ticket is sinking with no apparent chance to survive, they shout words of triumph in advance. Political bellwethers no doubt think an expression of cocksureness is helpful psychology. We doubt if it has any bearing on results. Presenting facts and interpreting conditions without boasting would, we believe, impress the average voter as the sensible course with no possibility of a severe let-down.

Beautiful and costly floats, representing a lot of painstaking work, were in the college parade on home-coming day. Three bands enlivened the line of march. If there were any lack, it was lack of comedy. Animated caricatures would have helped. Did the gloomy war years with taut nerves and uncertain prospect, dull sense of humor? This may well be cultivated to give savor to the sober and serious. The parade was an imposing spectacle, but it could have been made still more attractive by a sprinkling of harmless burlesque.

The disarmament proposal by Russia's Molotov may be courteously received, but quietly shelved for consideration when that country quits working three daily shifts to produce war equipment. The soviet union should remove its veil of secrecy to inspire confidence. America's disarmament twenty years ago must be a lesson to acute memories not to repeat the experience. Let us hope Russia means what it says. But let us take no unnecessary chances.

PILFERING.
 Life magazine devotes editorial space in its current number to the evil of pilfering table ware, napkins, towels, soap and other handy articles from hotels. Guests are charged with pocketing things for souvenirs, or to show they have been at the Waldorf-Astoria, or have sojourned in some town worth mentioning in the course of conversation. Big hotels lose thousands of dollars worth of property in that way. We cannot understand that it is less reprehensible to steal conveniences from a hotel than to purloin merchandise from a store. The relationship between management and guests should be reciprocally fair and above-board. Hotel hospitality should be emphasized, but not outraged. There should be a way to stop guests from lugging off things that do not belong to them.

It was on Armistice day in 1940 that an untimely blizzard descended on Nebraska and destroyed innumerable fruit and shade trees. Sap was still high in the trees, and the sudden change with freezing weather, reduced productive orchards and useful groves to lifeless skeletons, suitable only for fire wood. Before now plantings have repaired the damage.

It is probable most strikes in an inflationary period, with wages already skyrocketing, cause more loss than gain to workers. Strikers who cannot avoid following leaders of extravagant demands, usually fret in their idleness, as they hope for early settlements. As to the general public, it suffers and becomes resentful in any shut-down.

The OPA has been all but ended, and it is expected to receive the finishing touches by congress when that body reconvenes. Then that bureau with its multitude of employees will disappear, remembered mostly by the annoyance it caused.

Norfolk and Albion solved the Hal-loween nuisance problem by staging elaborately planned programs for both young and old. No one in either town had in mind the idea of doing devilment.

Out of Old Nebraska.
 By James C. Olson
 Superintendent, State Historical Society
 Do you have a housing problem? If you do—and who hasn't?—chances are it's still not as bad as that faced by Nebraska's territorial pioneers.
 People were pouring into the Nebraska territory in the late 1850s, and living quarters were at a premium everywhere, especially in the booming river towns. Nebraska was a new country which, of course, had to be built from the ground up. Then, too, the situation was complicated by the lack of building materials and a shortage of labor. House hunting was even a more dreary experience than it is today.
 Witness this excerpt from the diary of a young girl who came to Nebraska City with her parents in 1857: "This morning after breakfast we started house hunting. After a vigorous search of three hours we were compelled to take a small, dilapidated log house with one small room and a three-cornered kitchen directly across the street, which we had supposed was used for a stable, at the very modest rent of $15.00 a month. We were congratulated on securing that, as there is not a vacant habitation in town. I suppose the next poor emigrants will have to live out-of-doors. I shall never forget the looks of dismay when our new home was pointed out to the family."
 Others, perhaps more resourceful, took the situation into their own hands and built houses for themselves. The Reverend George W. Barnes, pioneer Omaha preacher, for example, had to build a house for his family with his own hands before he could start holding services. Except for raising, which was a community affair, all the help he had was a carpenter to lay out the sills. When finished, he had a structure 15-ft. by 25-ft., two stories high in front, and the back part lean-to.
 Houses were built rapidly in those days, too. The Brownville Advertiser for June 14, 1856, reported that in the past week four good-sized, comfortable dwellings had been completely built except plastering. The editor remarked, "This is putting up buildings tolerably rapid; yet it is only in keeping with this Express-Railroad-Telegraph Age."
 They even used pre-fabricated houses to alleviate the situation—the idea apparently is not so new. In 1885, a Cincinnati, Ohio, firm was reported to be manufacturing portable cottages for Kansas and Nebraska in large numbers. They generally had two rooms. No nails were used in their construction, and they could be put up or taken down in a few hours. They could be shipped on the river steamers at small expense, and were hailed as, "the cheapest of houses the emigrants to those new prairie regions can provide themselves with."
 Even with pre-fabrication and pioneer ingenuity, however, the demand still lagged far behind the supply, and there is hardly an issue of the early territorial papers but what contains an editorial on the subject. The following from the Brownville Advertiser for June 10, 1864, is illustrative: "During the past two weeks there have been quite a number of emigrants desiring to stop in this place and could not find houses to live in. Our capitalists should learn from this, and learn from it that as good an investment as they could make would be to put up about thirty good tenement houses."

Has Long, Active Business Record

Monday was an important anniversary for Fred L. Blair for it was just 52 years ago, on Monday, November 4, 1894, that he took a hack from Harlan to Dunlap, Ia., to begin his career as clerk in a furniture store. Two years later, in 1896, Mr. Blair transferred to a clothing store in Fremont, and in 1912 he came to Wayne to establish his own men's outfitting store which he has owned and operated since.

Mr. Blair thinks that people learn and adjust themselves much faster between the ages of 15 and 30 than afterward so he advises them to pick a work they like and get started in it in earnest early. If a young fellow does not like the work he is in, Mr. Blair suggests that he select some other line, but he urges him to do it while he is young enough to learn fast and to adjust readily.

Mr. Blair has helped guide a number of young men to be contented and to serve well in business.

Hungary Family Is Adopted Here

Some of the suggested articles that would be useful are new and used warm clothing as caps, sweaters, mittens, hosiery, underwear, dresses and coats, sewing needs as yarn, thread, needles, scissors, remnants and yardage, school supplies as pencils, tablets, crayolas, tooth brushes and paste, combs, soap, food as canned milk, dried vegetables and fruit, tinned and dehydrated food, and small toys.

DESTROYING LIGHT GLOBES JUSTIFIES INVOLVING THE LAW

VANDALISM Halloween night seemed to center on shooting out street lights and breaking light sockets and reflectors and damaging stop signs. This needless destruction of public property, obviously instigated by a low form of devilry, would plainly warrant prosecution. * * * Wayne is not overly well-lighted when everything is working. We understand plans were developed to improve this essential when the war broke out, and were suspended on that account. It would appear high time to revive plans and put them into effect at the earliest possible time. We further understand the three engines at the power plant are insufficient to carry an increased load, and that a new and adequate one is in prospect. These improvements are vital to the demands of a growing community, and they should not be put off until the town is made to look anemic and sick in comparison with other centers.

Worries Switch Now to Airplanes

Shoppers Find That Scarce Articles Are for Looks And Not to Buy.

County Treasurer Carroll Carter of Seattle, Wash., used to worry about dents in the car fenders, but now he worries about scars on the family airplane. When Mr. Carter met his wife and two teen-age daughters on their return from a Florida flight he found several patches on his plane. Daughters Mary and Sue explained they had an argument with a gas pump in Wyoming, a forced landing in Idaho and an encounter with a bull in Florida.

So many Mountain Lake, Minn., residents enjoy "a good fire" that firemen protested to the village council that onlookers interfered with their work. The council ruled spectators must remain at least one block from the scene of a fire, or pay fines.

Shoppers passing a West End grocery in Huntington, W. Va., felt they "discovered" a bonanza when they spotted nylon stockings, beef-steak, ham, soap flakes, jelly, sliced bacon, shortening and a white shirt in the window. The proprietor told breathless customers he had only one of each scarce commodity, all borrowed, and they weren't for sale.

Atlanta, Ga., firemen rushed to a hotel where fire broke out in a grease vent of the kitchen. Smoke swirled through the adjoining coffee shop, but it failed to disturb Mr. and Mrs. R. L. West. When the fire fighters retreated the couple to leave, Mr. West refused. "I haven't had a steak in so long, nothing could make me go," he said.

Marshal Pressley, 87, Peoria, Ill., never would have anything to do with automobiles, but lately he has been handicapped by an injured leg. So he built his own 1946 model, a three-wheeled affair made of junk yard scrap, iron bed rails, metal fence posts and a 1-horsepower gasoline engine. He says he's been offered $200 for the contraption.

From 9 p. m. to 3 a. m., Alice Byrne, 24, is a chorus girl in a Chicago night club. Between costume changes, she prepares for her daytime job. It is teaching the 5th grade at Ward public school on the south side.

At Richmond, Cal., 3-year-old Wayne Glass watched wistfully as his older playmates climbed aboard a school bus and departed for school. When the next bus came along, he followed them. The lad was taken off a trans-continental bus at Vallejo, 20 miles away.

A 38-year-old Panamanian sailor on an unwitting "towaway" on the Samuel F. Dewing was in Houston, Tex., trying to figure out what to tell his wife back in Cristobal, Panama. He said he reached Cristobal on the Dewing, went ashore for a "little party" before going home to his wife, returned to the ship for his papers and went to sleep. When he awoke, he was bound for Houston.

Theodore Schulz, Springfield, Ill., told police a hungry burglar took $20 from his house after he raided the ice box for a repast. But it could have been worse. Mr. Schulz said. The intruder was a vegetarian. He helped himself to several dishes of food in the refrigerator but he left untouched a three-pound uncooked beef roast.

September 24 is a big day in the Dan Robinson household in Sedalia, Mo. It's just one big happy birthday. The eldest son, Jack Daniel, was born September 24, 1941; Terry Andrew was born September 24, 1944; and the third son, George Michael, was born September 24, 1946. All three boys were born in the same hospital and with the same attending physician.

When City Engineer Frank Akers, Portland, Ore., drained the city's reservoir, a displaced duck took off, flew some seven blocks and crashed into the side of Mr. Akers' home. The Akers family had duck for dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Sharp, caretakers at the Black Oak fire station, Hammond, Ind., are shopping around for a new bed. During housecleaning the Sharps parked their bedstead on the rear of a fire truck. A few minutes later the truck went out on an alarm, with the bed, and came back without it. Mr. Sharp retraced the route but couldn't find the bed.

Jimmy, the seal, was in disgrace in Philadelphia, Pa., guilty of violating the age-old tradition of "the show must go on." Jimmy elected to quit the Shrine circus flat, right in the middle of his act. He floundered out of the Philadelphia arena into the midst of busy Market street. He confused two taxi drivers into minor collisions. A circus attendant finally corralled him.

An elderly woman came into the office of Dr. Edward Davis. "How much do I owe you for those two babies you delivered for me?" she asked him. "Well," he said, "think

Being a fireman in Falls City is beginning to be a lazy man's job or else it's only a full before the storm. The fire department made not a single run between August 12 and September 12.

Police of New York sought the "world's nerviest burglar." The burglar wriggled through an iron-barred window and looted the apartment of Deputy Warden Chas. S. Stemple. He took jewelry valued by Mrs. Stemple at several hundred dollars, perfume, cigarettes and a musical jewel box.

Education Week To Be Observed

Hi-Y Will Help Provide Christmas Cheer for Unfortunate Folks.

National Education week will be observed by Wayne high school teachers who, at a meeting last Friday, voted to hold open house next Thursday evening, November 14, from 7:30 to 9. Parents will receive mailed invitations and they are urged to attend. Teachers will be in their rooms and work, texts and equipment will be displayed. Children will not be present. Instructors hope that parents will attend and become acquainted to build a closer relationship between school and home.

G. L. Campbell reported to the teachers, and F. A. Landreth explained schedule changes necessary to accommodate Milo Blecha who succeeds R. A. Speece as coach and industrial arts teacher.

The group presented Mr. Speece with a gift before his leaving for York, and Mr. Speece responded.

Season Is Closed.

Wayne high football team closed the season at Oakland Friday evening, when Oakland won by 26-12. Jim Thomas and Warren Ellis scored Wayne's touchdowns.

Prepare for Play.

"Out of This World," the three-act comedy by Paul S. McCoy, which will be presented by Juniors Friday, November 22, at the city auditorium, is being directed by Miss Wilhelmina Johnson. The story centers around Otis Kerby, Halton Heier, an eccentric bachelor, and his attractive niece, Linda, Bonnie Caldwell, who live near the campus of Parkhurst College, a school for girls. The occasions of spring homecoming and the importation of "fellows" from Cedar Heights college for men, involving a dignitary in the person of Homer Judson, Don Shulteis, a newspaper publisher who has been selected for the speaker of the day, and his son, Bruce, Harry Swinney, Jr., weave a story of unusual complications and tricky situations out of which unfolds a beautiful story.

Will Help Europeans.

Wayne Hi-Y voted to cooperate with the international organization in guaranteeing a Christmas for boys and girls in war-ridden countries of Europe. They will serve as agents in this community to collect gifts to be sent overseas. Toys, clothing, money and food will be received for shipment. The local community will be given credit and will be known to the unfortunate as the benefactor.

Milo Blecha told the group of experiences as pilot of a B-17 in Europe. Capt. Blecha described a complete mission and the intricate workings of the plane mechanism. Mr. Blecha's ship, named Montey's Wagon, for his wife, whose name was Montgomery, made 37 missions without an accident to any of the crew or to the ship. Though crippled several times the ship always got back to its home base, a record made by only a few.

Clifford Pinkelman was elected president and Jim Thomas vice president of Hi-Y. The vacancy in the presidency occurred when Dick Carver moved to Iowa.

At the meeting Tuesday last week, Kurt Otte had devotions and read the story of the Good Samaritan.

Hi-Y holds induction and initiation November 26. A party is planned at that time.

Champion to Come.

Geo. R. Rhoades of Kansas City, national champion baton twirler, will be here Saturday, November 16, to instruct city school baton twirlers in the art. That evening, he will appear at the city auditorium in a public exhibition. Local twirlers under direction of Miss Hazel Reeve, chorus under direction of G. L. Campbell, and the band under leadership of A. J. Atkins, will also appear.

Speaks to Group.

Library News

Next week is Children's Book week and preparations are being made in the library to observe it properly. We try to make every week book week but we would like everyone to drop into the library next week just to help us make it something special. We have a poster in the hall which says to the children, "What is your Favorite Today?" and to the adult it says, "What was your Favorite Book When You Were a Child?" Below the poster is a box and a pad and pencil and you are urged to cast your vote. We hope it will be interesting to everyone to have the results of that vote published in this column the week after book week is over.

We also expect to have a display in a window down town and we hope that you will be interested in that too.

New books are the wares which attract people to a library and so we are glad to report that we have many new ones right now. The new mysteries are: The Silent Speaker by Rex Stout, Purgatory Street by Roman McDougald, My Late Wives by Carter Dickson, Dangerous Legacy by George Coxe, and Omit Flowers Please by Audrey Gaines.

Do you remember the exceedingly popular book by John Roy Carlson called Under Cover? Now we have a new one by the same author with the title The Plotters. It is the personal experiences of an undercover agent investigating individuals and groups that menace our national unity.

A Treasury of Sports Humor by Dave Stanley will be popular we are sure with the boys and men. The introduction is by Ted Husing and even some of the women readers will like the chapters written by some of the authors such as Margery Sharp, Katherine Brush, Cornelia Otis Skinner and Ruth McKenney.

For the new young people's shelf we have Please, No Paragoric! and by Ethel Hueston, Fighting Coach by Jackson Scholz.

On the rental shelf we have B. F.'s Daughter by John Marquand.

Vet's Corner

Leave pay cash is going out to veterans. To date several Wayne county veterans have received their bonds.

Soldiers' and Sailors' Home.

The state of Nebraska has established a soldiers' and sailors' home at Grand Island. The object is to provide a home and subsistence to honorably discharged soldiers, sailors and marines, and also hospital nurses who served in the United States army or navy hospitals during the war periods, who shall at time of application for admission to such home have been actual bona fide residents of the state for two years next preceding such application, and who have been disabled by reason of such service, old age or otherwise, from earning a livelihood, and would be dependent upon public or private charities. Wives and mothers of ex-soldiers, as well as the widows and mothers of those who died in the service, and who have reached 50 years of age, and are unable to earn a livelihood, are also eligible. Women must also have been bona fide residents of the state two years prior to the date of their application.

Applicant must go to the county clerk in the county in which he resides to secure an application blank. When it is completely filled out, it must be approved by the county board and then sent to the home, together with applicant's army discharge and pension certificate for further approval.

It should be noted that wives, mothers and widows of veterans, while not eligible for admission to Veterans Administration facilities, are, under certain conditions, eligible for admission to the state home.

Identification of Claims.

The symbol preceding any number assigned to any claim or record in the Veterans administration is significant. In any action in connection with a veteran's claim or record, it is essential that all identifying number be given. The veteran's file is identified by a C (claim) number if he has made application for any one or more of the following benefits administered by the Veterans administration: Compensation or pension, hospitalization, waiver of premium, payments of converted insurance (K) due to permanent total disability, vocational education or training.

After the veteran's death, the prefix X is placed before his old C number or a new XC number may be assigned on any claims for insurance, compensation or burial filed by his dependent or beneficiary if the veteran did not file claim for any benefits during his lifetime.

All applications and correspondence in connection with the veteran's National Service life insurance until conversion is made to a permanent plan of insurance, are identified with the letter N. If the veteran converts his National Service life insurance into one of the permanent plans, the converted N insurance is then assigned a V number.

The K number refers to converted insurance (U. S. Government life insurance), usually a conversion of T insurance, but may mean a direct application.

The T number identifies term insurance in force in World War I. The A number has reference to adjusted compensation of World War I, commonly known as "bonus."

The R number distinguishes World War I vocational training applications.

The summary of the symbols used to identify veterans' records in the Veterans administration follows:

C—claim K—converted insurance (U. S. Government World War I). N—National Service life insurance. V—change of plan of National Service life insurance.

T—term insurance (World War I). A—adjusted compensation (bonus World War I). R—rehabilitation (World War I only). Rehabilitation and training for World War II are carried under the C number.

American Legion Post No. 43

President Harry Truman, an active Legionnaire, recently made this statement concerning the American Legion in America:

"I wish to express my good wishes on the occasion of our 28th annual convention. As the Legion grows in numbers and importance, it also increases in responsibility and obligation to the nation."

"The American people have a right to expect the same patriotic service from the Legion which you gave in both World wars. I have complete faith in our organization."

After World War I the bodies of 43,310 American dead overseas were returned to the United States for final burial. In many cases proper military honors were not bestowed upon these heroes when they returned to their native land. The government, however, is concerned only with the delivery of the deceased to the community designated by the next of kin. In order to complete the plan, the Quartermaster General has appealed to patriotic, religious and fraternal organizations to provide for proper local services if the next of kin desire to have a military funeral.

The organization most capable of carrying out this plan in every city, town and village in the nation already has answered this appeal. That organization is the American Legion, 3,305,000 strong, with its 15,194 posts in nearly every community in the country. Through the graves registration and memorial plan every Legion post stands ready to provide an honor guard to meet the body upon arrival in the community; to provide a bugler, firing squad, color bearers and a chaplain for the burial service; and to sponsor a memorial service for the honored dead. It is the duty of every Legion post to see that the returned overseas dead have a fitting service and also to render this same service to comrades who answer the Last Call from the local communities.

Join the American Legion, the largest and most active veteran organization in the United States.

Merlin Finn has been appointed to canvass Wayne and rural territory for memberships in Irwin L. Sears Post No. 43. Present membership being 150 with a goal of 250 members set for October 31, the date of the district American Legion convention in West Point.

Every World War I veteran who is a member of the local post should have his son or daughter who served during World War II join his post.

UNKLE HANK SEZ

YOU CAN USUALLY TELL WHAT KIND OF A PERSON A MAN IS BY ASKIN' HIM ABOUT TH' FOLKS BACK IN HIS HOME TOWN.

Ask the folks from any land... and they'll have to admit that without the help of the fighting Yanks the first Armistice would never have been possible and the end of the second World War would probably not have been here at this date. We pause from our job of supplying the farmers of Wayne vicinity with the supplies they need, long enough to say "HURRY TO THE END OF WARS... MAY THERE NEVER BE ANOTHER."

Why Bert won First Prize

Folks weren't surprised when Bert Childers won first prize for his corn at the county fair.

Yet the judges admit it wasn't just because Bert had the finest ears of corn. He knew how to display them: neatly arranged, with the husks cleanly trimmed, and the both white and sploss.

"Trimming" sure make a difference no matter what you're offering—as Andy Botkin, keeper of the Garden Tavern, well knows. Andy doesn't just sell good beer. He sells it in a place that's clean and attractive... in nice surroundings that belong with the enjoyment of a wholesome beverage of moderation.

And Andy, of course, is a whole-hearted supporter of "Self Regulation." That's the system by which the Brewers and tavern keepers themselves make sure that taverns selling beer are clean and orderly.

From where I sit, people like Andy also rate a "First prize." Not just for the quality of the product—but for the "trimmings" too.
