do that if they lift vision above small politics and properly sense interests and obligations abroad as well as at home.

Rural Roads WE can see no good reason to oppose any movement to gravel country roads. What Senator Schroeder's proposed law would do to improve mail routes from a gasoline tax would not interfere with county projects to gravel other roads. There is no likelihood that two sources will attempt to hard-surface the same roads. The more contributing to gravel, the better. The more graveled rural roads, the easier will farmers reach markets, and in the long run, facilitated travel would pay the cost. Chugging over ruts or stopping through mud holes is an expensive as well as unpleasant experience. Breakdowns frequently happen, delays are caused and tempers are frayed. Hard-surfacing would save time and insure fewer repair jobs. Any government unit that can be persuaded to gravel farm-to-market roads—mail routes and others—manifestly ought to be encouraged.

fact that heavy drinking is not decreasing in Washington. Investigations show that during 1946, nearly 18 million gallons of beer, one million gallons of wine, 40,650 gallons of champagne, 356 gallons of alcohol and 5,071,180 gallons of hard liquor were sold in the nation's capitol.

It is reported that all of this liquor is not consumed in Washington but some is carried to nearby Virginia and Maryland, where liquor taxes are higher.

The $64 question on Capitol Hill today is who will receive the GOP and democratic parties presidential nominations in 1948. Much legislation enacted by the house and senate is influenced by this question.

Congressional scuttlebutt indicates that there are not less than 57 senators who are candidates for either the presidency or the vice presidency and that at least ten members of the house have presidential aspirations.

A taxpayer's nightmare: Thirty-two per cent of the increases in the proposed government expenses for the coming fiscal year is listed as salaries for federal employees.

It has been suggested by persons both in and outside of the government that if the automatic promotion act remains in force a great deal longer, most of the federal employees will be receiving salaries in the top brackets. It is also reported that when agencies make required separations there is a tendency to dismiss several workers in the low paying brackets and use the "savings" to promote the high-salaried class.

The army and navy munitions board is reported to have a balance of over $60,000,000 to buy strategic materials for the first six months of 1947. These purchases are made secretly and the materials are scheduled to be stock-piled for use in another possible emergency.

Besides a wide field of munitions and other commodities, coconut oil and copra are included in the purchases.

No detailed report was made nor prices mentioned, but information showing the necessity of buying coconut oil and copra from several Pacific islands to supplant cottonseed oil and soybean oil is being requested.

Prisoners of World War II are still apparently hard at work cleaning up the ruins of Europe. According to information received by congressmen, Russia has between ten and 17 million prisoners. France has 750 thousand and Great Britain, 400 thousand. Among these are a number of prisoners who at one time were held in the United States.

A familiar theme heard by members of the house appropriations committee: "Cut federal expenses to the very bone, but don't cut them if they hurt my party, state or town."

The Nebraska Society in Washington discussed plans last week for a boat trip on the Potomac river, to be held during the early summer. Last month, the society held an informal party in the Willard hotel here.

THE FREE PRESS.
 In connection with paper scarcity, the Lincoln Journal mentions the nobility of the newspaper spirit which supports the practice of a free press. It calls attention to the fact that last week the conservative New York Times furnished the communist Daily Worker enough paper to keep afloat. It is recalled that some years ago the Los Angeles Times, an ultra-stand-pat newspaper, was in court on a charge of contempt, and that the communist press of the Pacific coast rallied to its defense. Conflicting ideologies were laid aside in both New York and Los Angeles to uphold freedom of expression. The Journal closes with this paragraph: "Publishers know that the constitutional wording of press freedom is an empty phrase without the practical means of translating it into action. By their recognition of this fact, especially in the New York newspaper case, they have demonstrated also that they are well aware that freedom of the press is a privilege of all sorts and conditions of men."

Completed and the land auctions held, members of the club attended in sufficient numbers to assure each recognized squatter that he would be able to bid in his land at not more than $1.25 per acre.

With the establishment of land offices and machinery for the sale of land, claim clubs ceased to function. They were an important aspect of frontier justice, however, in the days before the land officers of the federal government arrived.

Field of Politics THE political barometer varies. Last November's election which gave a republican majority in both national houses, suggested an easy victory for that party in 1948. A late Gallup poll, however, shows a decline of republican strength from 55 to 49 per cent. One concludes that neither side is warranted in feeling cocksure. Leaders in neither camp can blunder frequently and expect to capture popular confidence.

The president's handling of John L. Lewis and the late coal strike no doubt helped him. His excessive budget demands hurt him in the eyes of many. He has important decisions to make before the presidential campaign, and he may easily misstep and lose.

Republicans will need to be on guard against selfish politics to win in 1948. They will need to be broad-gauged and statesman-like. They must chart a course consistent with world responsibilities—responsibilities they cannot safely avoid. They do not need to tolerate fallacies, nor, on the other hand, do they need to dodge policies that will extend the cause of democracy and further fortify the American form of government. Wise, forthright republican leadership in a torn and embittered world is expected. It can win if real constructive merit is proved. And we believe it will, as eventualities unfold and requirements become apparent.

Democracy is still on trial. It has been threatened in the past—seriously not long ago. It may be threatened again, but with little effect if those at the helm see that it is adequately protected. Republicans can Senator John Callan, chairman of the legislature's budget committee, on returning to Lincoln, is quoted as reporting unfavorably on the state college at Peru by reason of dwindling enrollment. He suggested supplanting it by moving the state trade school there from Milford. The senator was not overly encouraged in his quoted remarks about the other state schools outside of Lincoln. He suggested more enrollment to justify bigger appropriations. Friends of the institutions would doubtless suggest more appropriations to get more enrollment. And we wonder if the senator would have just one state college—the overcrowded university? For instance, the school at Wayne is growing and serves important sections.

President Truman's recent speech sounding alarm over the spread of communism in Greece has aroused Moscow's official newspapers to charge the United States with "imperialist expansion in the guise of charity." That is the very thing the soviet union has been doing without any charity involved. It is doubtful if any synonym for "charity" could be found in the Russian dictionary. How many nations Russia wants to grab—how far it wants to expand—all in conflict with solemn pledges—furnish ground for suspicion on which to base due safeguards.

The Washington report that the administration proposes to induce its sharpest members to engage in deliberately harassing republicans of the house and senate suggests violence to the American idea of fair play. Voters send congressmen and senators to Washington to be constructive and to look out for the public welfare.

OUT OF OLD NEBRASKA
 By James C. Olson
 Superintendent, State Historical Society

Of all the varmints on the frontier, none were so low as the claim-jumper except, of course, the horse thief. These thieves were dealt with quickly, and once and for all, with the aid of the nearest tree, or (later and further west) telegraph pole. The claim-jumper didn't get treatment quite this rough, but when caught, he was shown in a number of convincing ways that the most desirable thing between him and the community was distance.

The usual procedure was first to warn the offending gentleman to get out of town. Should that warning fail, more persuasive methods were used. Along the Missouri a favorite technique was a ducking in the river. On cold days, especially, this usually was enough to convince all but the most thick skinned of the undesirable citizens.

Claim-jumpers were a breed of rascals spawned by the conditions of the frontier. Before the government surveys were run, and the land auctions held, settlers simply laid claim to certain tracts of land on a first-come, first-served basis. Once a claim was staked out, the law of the frontier decreed that the claimant, or "squatter," should be protected in his property rights.

Prior to the establishment of the regular forces of law and order, however, it was difficult for the squatter to defend his rights. Claim-jumpers, seemingly always present in great numbers, took advantage of the situation to encroach him out of them, either by force or cunning. One technique for "jumping a claim" was simply to remove the stakes already set, and put up others with the jumper's name on them.

To protect themselves from this type of activity, the early settlers organized claim clubs, which were simply local vigilante committees founded to protect the rights of the members. These organizations took the law into their own hands and gave short shrift to claim-jumpers wherever they were found.

Claim clubs were organized under formal constitutions. In each instance officers were elected and a set of rules and regulations adopted. (The State Historical Society, incidentally, has a copy of the records of the Platte Valley Claim association).

To be recognized by the club, a man had to record his claim at a meeting in full hearing of all the members. Once the land was recorded and the claimant admitted to membership, the club took care of the rest. On the day when the government surveys finally were

Congress

AS SEEN BY KARL STEFAN

Washington, D. C. March 20, 1947

The Nebraska congressional delegation received a "briefing" on the Greek crisis at its regular Tuesday breakfast last week prior to President Truman's speech to a joint session of the house and senate.

All of the Cornhusker State congressmen agreed that the situation doesn't "look good" and the results of the Big Four foreign ministers meeting in Moscow will probably give the nation a clearer view of "where we stand" on a foreign policy.

Also attending the meeting were members of the Mid-State district, who are here to back a $12,000,000 loan, sought from the Reconstruction Finance corporation, which is proposed to be used for a special water diversion project. In the party were Harvey Lippincott of Gibbon, president of the district board, Harry Grimminger of Grand Island, attorney for the district, and E. P. Ryan of Grand Island, secretary.

The Mid-State project proposes irrigation in three counties—Hall, Buffalo and Merrick—and hydroelectric power plants as well, it was reported.

House Speaker Joseph W. Martin, Jr., also spoke at the meeting.

The subject of "30-cent pork" is causing quite a rumpus in Washington. A considerable number of congressmen are trying to "play up" farm gains through prices of pork chops rather than discuss dividends, salary increases and bonus payments of the large food monopolies.

Local banquet speakers are groaning over having to eat fried chicken because pork loin steaks are difficult to find.

While on the subject of "hogs," it might be well to mention the

OUT OF OLD NEBRASKA

By James C. Olson
Superintendent, State Historical Society
Nebraska now is 80 years old. It was March 1, 1867 when the reluctant hand of President Andrew Johnson signed the proclamation which declared Nebraska to be a state of the union, thus ending in controversy the life of a territory which 13 years earlier had been organized in controversy.

The quarrels at both ends of the territory's life were bound up with the issues of the civil war. When the territory was organized in 1854, it was a question of "popular sovereignty," or the right of the residents of the territory to decide whether they would allow negro slavery. At the time of the admission of Nebraska as a state, the point at issue was whether congress had the right to force Nebraska to give negroes the vote.

The territory of Nebraska (along with Kansas territory) had been organized in 1854 on the basis of popular sovereignty. This infuriated many in the north who were bitterly opposed to the extension of slavery, and who were demanding that congress keep it out of Francisco 10 days after it left St. Joseph. Later this was shortened to eight days, and on special occasions even faster time was made. A copy of Lincoln's first inaugural address, for example, went from St. Joseph to Sacramento in 7 days and 17 hours. On this same trip, the riders sped the address from St. Joseph to Denver, a distance of 665 miles, in only 69 hours.

The pony express was never a financial express. Even though letters were limited in weight, it was impossible to carry enough on the trip to pay the cost of maintaining the riders, the horses, and the stations. The enterprise almost broke Russell, Majors, and Waddell.

When the transcontinental telegraph was completed in October, 1861, the pony express was abandoned.

Organized as a private venture by the famous freighting firm of Russell, Majors, and Waddell, the pony express was a dramatic attempt to solve the problem of bridging the gap between California and the rest of the union. An overland stage for some time had carried the mail along the southern route to the west, but there was a demand for faster service, coupled by a desire to develop the great central route.

Terminals of the pony express were St. Joseph, Mo., and Sacramento, Calif. The route in Nebraska followed the old Oregon trail. From St. Joseph, the express went overland to Fort Kearney. From there it followed the Platte, going along the South Fork to Julesburg, whence it cut north and west to Scottsbluff, by way of Thirty-Mile ridge, Mud springs, Court House rock, and Chimney rock.

The life of the pony express rider was a hard one, and required courage as well as endurance. Heat and dust in summer, snow and ice in winter, and hostile Indians the year around, made the trip hazardous and difficult. Both horse and rider, though, were tough and wiry, and able to stand the strain of the work, grueling as it was.

Stations were placed along the route at intervals of from 9 to 15 miles apart, and each rider covered three stations, making a lightning change of horses at each one. Thus day and night the mail was sped across the plains and mountains between the Missouri and the Pacific.
Originally the schedule called for delivery of the mail in San the newly organized territories. The present republican party, it is interesting to note, grew out of "Anti-Nebraska" meetings held in Wisconsin, Michigan, and other states of the old northwest.

By 1867 the civil war had decided the fate of slavery. The problem agitating the country at that time was whether the newly freed negroes were to be granted the right to vote. The constitution originally submitted by the territory for the approval of congress—in common with the constitutions of most other northern states—had restricted the suffrage of white males. (Women, of course, were not considered qualified to vote.)

Congress controlled by radicals who were demanding negro suffrage, amended the enabling act to provide that Nebraska could not be admitted unless this restriction were removed. President Johnson vetoed the bill on the grounds that congress had no constitutional right to dictate to Nebraska in this fashion. The bitterly hostile congress, which shortly thereafter, you will remember, tried to remove the president from office—passed the bill over the presidential veto.

Out here in Nebraska, the legislature which had been elected the year before in anticipation of statehood was called into special session by Governor Alvin Saunders to consider the conditions imposed by congress. The legislature acted quickly. It was convened one day and adjourned the next, the conditions approved.

President Johnson then proclaimed Nebraska to be a state. His afore-mentioned lack of enthusiasm is understandable. Actually, insofar as Nebraska was concerned, the whole question—though it stirred up a great deal of controversy was quite beside the point. At no time did the territory contain enough slaves to form a corporate guard. At the time of statehood, the argument, as one historian of Nebraska put it, was over the "enfranchisement of imaginary negroes."

Wedding Service Is Held Sunday

Miss Rosalie Korn Is Bride Of Ivan Diedrichsen At Church Here.

Miss Rosalie Korn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph H. Korn of Wayne, and Ivan Diedrichsen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. F. Diedrichsen of Scribner, were married at Redeemer Lutheran church Sunday at 2 p. m. Rev. S. K. de Fresse officiating at the double-ring service. Ferns and palms banked the altar. Tapers in candelabra were lighted by Miss Esther Korn and Miss Edith Reeg, sister and cousin of the bride, the former wearing a pink net formal and the latter a blue net formal. Each had a white carnation corsage.

Miss Bonnie Fay Kugler, wearing a blue formal and a white carnation corsage, sang "I Love You Truly" before and "The Lord's Prayer" during the ceremony. Mrs. M. L. Ringer accompanied her and played the wedding march and soft music during the service. Her corsage was of white carnations.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white satin, fashioned with a sweetbread neckline, long sleeves and gathered skirt, ending in a short train. Her two-tiered fingertip veil fell from a halo of lace. Her bouquet of pink roses was tied with white satin ribbon streamers to which were fastened snapdragons. She wore three-strand pearls, a gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Norma Korn, who served her sister as maid-of-honor, wore a blue formal. Miss Alice Diedrichsen, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid and wore a pink formal. Each carried a colonial rose-gay.

The bridegroom wore a dark suit. Howard Diedrichsen, serving his brother as best man, and Marvin Korn, brother of the bride, as groomsmen, wore in dark suits. Harold Korn and Earl Diedrichsen, brothers of the couple, were ushers. All the men had white carnation boutonnières.

Mothers of the couple wore in navy blue and had pink carnation corsages.

A reception for 65 was held in the church parlors. The bride's table, decorated in her colors of pink and blue, was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake in pink and blue, topped with a miniature bridal couple beneath an arch. Miss Euvodia Johnson, Miss Arline Johnson, Miss Ardyth Johnson, Miss Ruth Pfeiffer and Miss Helen Mann, waitresses, wore white aprons trimmed in pink. Miss Arline Rohlf and Mrs. Henry Kugler were in the kitchen. Miss Guinevere Lyngen, in light brown and with a white corsage, had charge of the guest book and gifts.

The couple left for a week's trip, after which they will make their home on a farm north of Wakefield. For her going-away costume the bride chose a light blue suit with pink accessories.

Mrs. Diedrichsen was graduated from Wayne high school and had been assisting at home.

Mr. Diedrichsen has been employed north of Wakefield the past year after 43 months of service, 21 months of the time spent in the Aleutian islands.

Any price is too high if it can be reduced

International Harvester announces $20,000,000 price reductions

International Harvester announces $20,000,000 price reductions

We believe there is nothing more important to this country than to lower the prices of the goods that people buy.

The American people have insisted that the government withdraw from its attempts to control prices in peacetime. That places the responsibility where it belongs—in the hands of business and industry. Not all business can reduce prices now. Not all can reduce by the same amount.

Our company has felt a duty to act as promptly as possible. In our case, the business outlook now makes it possible to move toward the goal of lower prices. The only way out of the vicious circle of higher and higher prices is to break through.

We have taken this step not because of present competitive conditions nor because of a drop in demand from customers. We have taken it because of our belief that ANY PRICE IS TOO HIGH IF IT CAN BE REDUCED.

These reductions, which will save the users of our products approximately $20,000,000 a year, will become effective before April 1, and will apply to a selected list of tractor, farm machine, motor truck, and industrial power products. Since we lose money on a few of our products, and barely break even on some others, these reductions will not apply to our entire line. Reductions will be made individually on products. Some will be cut more than others. Exact details will be announced as soon as possible.

Our ability to maintain this lower level of prices will depend in part on what happens to the prices and flow of materials that we buy from others. Because we believe price reduction is vital, we are willing to assume the risks that are involved.

Prices had not gone up as much or as fast as many others
Here are Average Price Increases since 1941
All Manufactured Products (U. S. Government Reports)	63.7%
Motor Trucks	35%
Industrial Power Products	34%
Farm Machines	25%

These benefits to customers will depend, too, on uninterrupted production at reasonable wage levels. This is not a program that can be carried out if it is hampered by strikes or work stoppages.

Our employees have had substantial increases in pay, and wage questions are currently being discussed with many of the unions with which we deal. Stockholders have recently had an increase in dividend rate. Having considered the interests of these two groups, we are now making these price reductions for the benefit of the third group—our customers.

Business, to our way of thinking, has a social as well as an economic responsibility. This company has long followed the policy of operating in the interests of three groups—its customers, its employees and its stockholders. The duty of the management is to see that equal justice is done as between the three groups.

This price reduction program is another demonstration of our policy in action.

Veterans administration reports a total of 458,749 admissions of veteran patients to VA and non-VA hospitals during the calendar year 1946. This is an increase of 174,342 or 61.3 per cent over the calendar year 1945. The greatest number of admissions—381,619 or 83.1 per cent of the total—were general medical and surgical patients. Under present laws, veterans with service-connected disabilities have a top priority for hospitalization in VA hospitals, and in certain cases may receive treatment in non-VA hospitals. Veterans with non-service connected ailments are provided with medical care if beds are available and if they say they cannot afford to pay for the treatment elsewhere. However, all emergency non-service connected cases are taken care of promptly.

Veterans of Foreign Wars are backing legislation which permits to civil service changes. Their national committee agrees to add 5 to 10 points only to earned rating. The veteran must earn a passing grade of 70 before being placed on the register with the additional 5 or 10 points now allowed to enhance ratings. At the present time the 5 points for non-disabled veterans and 10 points for disabled may help veterans attain a passing grade, the 10-point preference eligibles going to the head of the registers. Under the proposal adopted, there will be no change in the manner of dealing with registers, but a passing grade of 70 must first be earned. Under the existing procedure, only 3 1/2 per cent of all eligibles fail to reach a passing grade before the additional points are given, it is alleged. All others would fail anyway.

It seems that congress has pigeon-holed the Kearney bill, which would increase earning ceilings in veterans on-the-job training. Things do not look too promising for the lifting of these ceilings. Lending substance to rumor, it seems that many people think that the increased earnings allowed in addition to subsistence would be "handouts" to veterans. The veterans do not wish charity or to be called "pup-fed." They just wish to have the opportunity to earn a livelihood. Living costs have mounted 26 per cent the past year and therefore the earnings should be in proportion. The Kearney bill would raise the ceilings to $250 for single men, $325 for married men, and $350 for married men with children. Also under study by the Veterans' administration are measures to increase subsistence payments to veterans receiving educational benefits. Statistics today reveal that the present subsistence allowances for veterans in school are insufficient to meet living expenses.

Veterans who apply for out-patient dental treatment should bring a copy of their discharge with them to the service office. The small miniature can be used by the service officer in making a certified copy which is forwarded with the application.

Q: My son, who was killed in action, said that he had made out his insurance to me in case his wife remarried. Could you give me some information about this?

A: In applying for insurance, your son named a direct and secondary beneficiary. If his wife was named as the primary beneficiary, the insurance would be paid to her during the rest of her lifetime.

Robert T. Hudson, veterans administration contact representative at Norfolk, urges veterans not to write, wire or telephone to Kansas City if their subsistence checks are delayed. The Kansas City office only completes the mechanical routine of writing the checks. Veterans whose checks are unaccountably delayed should make inquiry through the VA's local contact office or should write to the VA regional office in Lincoln. Chief among the causes for delay are: VA fails to receive from the veteran's school or on-the-job employer the papers necessary to issue the check; the veteran himself fails to notify the VA of change of address; or the VA fails to receive from the veteran a prompt return of his "earning report," VA form 1963.

"Your dollars will help this crippled child and thousands of others like him on his way to a healthy, happy life," said W. O. Swanson, president of the Nebraska Society for Crippled Children, in explaining the message of the 1947 Easter seal. Miss Ruth Ross, Mrs. Rollie W. Ley and Miss Marie Wright have charge of the seal sale in Wayne county.

"Help Crippled Children" is the plea of the tiny boy pictured on the 1947 Easter seal. With a crutch under his arm he walks up a path to a distant star. Frank Gross, Janesville, Wis., high school student, designed this seal in full colors. Frank received the Michael J. Dowling Memorial award presented annually by the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults for the best Easter seal design.

The national society, serving the crippled for the last 26 years, distributed 22 million seals during the first Easter time campaign in 1921.

"Now distribution exceeds the billion mark annually... a symbol of the public's confidence in the work of the society for the crippled," according to Mr. Swanson.

"The program for the crippled is growing in direct proportion to the public's willingness to support it. Funds raised in 1947 will mean that more of the needs of the thousands of crippled children in Nebraska and in the nation will be filled," Mr. Swanson concluded.

Seals will be sent to homes and residents are invited to buy the health seals.

Phases of Air Age Presented in Talk

Dr. Howard Tempero Speaks To AAUW and Guests Wednesday Night.

"Various Phases of the Air Age" was the subject discussed by Dr. Howard Tempero Wednesday evening last week for Wayne branch of AAUW and guests in the Women's club room.

The importance of fast transportation in present day life prompts much thought of air travel, the speaker noted. Whereas a railroad line is usually managed by one man and the employees are readily trained, airlines are operated by companies and training is a long process. The skill required in operating planes leads to care in assuring the safety of the pilots.

The automobile and plane both came into being in about 1904. The car went ahead faster because of lack of technical development. Pilots of First World War went into other lines of endeavor, but many from World War Two stayed in the flying industry. As a result great strides are being made in aviation. More people are traveling by air and more attention is given to air safety. Insurance companies now protect air travelers at the same low rate as they do railroad travelers.

The air industry was subsidized before the war. Government mail contracts were the main means of support, and boards were set up to control flying. After the war many pilots bought surplus planes and started their own lines.

Dr. Tempero, who was in the administrative branch of the aviation business during the war, told that each plane is torn down and given a complete check-up after 500 hours in the air.

In 1936 a million tickets were sold for air travel and in 1946, more than 12 million. The cost of air travel was $1.09 a mile in 1929 and 4 1/2 cents a mile in 1946. It is talked that the rate will soon be 3 cents so as to compete with railroads.

The problem of getting to and from the airport will be solved along with other steps in air advancement, Dr. Tempero stated.

Mrs. Hanawalt introduced the speaker.

Miss Jessie Boyce reported $34 given to the fellowship fund.

Mrs. Yale Kessler, Miss Mamie McCorquindale and Mrs. Howard Witt were named on a committee to nominate candidates for officers. Election will be held in April.

Miss Ruth Pearson, Mrs. W. R. Harder, Miss Ruth Paden and Miss Coral Stoddard served.

Creative Arts group, with Miss Lula Way chairman, has charge of the April 10 program. A play will be given.

Miss Mabel Lorenz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lorenz of Randolph, and Ray Petersen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lars Petersen of Wisner, were married March 6 at 10:30 at the Lutheran parsonage at Norfolk. The bride wore a lime dress with black accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. Her pearl necklace was a gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Darlene Shipley of Norfolk, niece of the bride, was bridesmaid. She wore a pink dress with black accessories and a pink carnation corsage.

Gurney Lorenz, brother of the bride, served as best man. He and the bridegroom wore gray suits with white carnation boutonnières.

Mothers of the couple wore black dresses with red rose corsages.

A wedding dinner, prepared by Mrs. Kate Oberding, Mrs. R. L. Spahr and Mrs. Joe Hinkle, was served to 40 relatives at 1 o'clock in the Lorenz home. The home was decorated in streamers of lime and white and bouquets of flowers. A three-tiered wedding cake centered the table. Miss Lila Shipley and Miss Joy Hinkle were waitresses.

Chamber Holds Boxing Benefit

Crowd Is Here Wednesday To Witness Bouts At Auditorium.

A little over $300 was received from the amateur boxing bouts sponsored by Wayne Chamber of Commerce for Wayne Golf and Country club at Wayne municipal auditorium Wednesday evening last week.

In the main event of the evening, Jim Daniel, 151, Sioux City negro, took a split decision over Jim Bartlett, 145, Omaha Golden Glove champion.

Chief Bigfire, 160, Macy, decisioned Bob Panter, 169, Wayne, marine light-heavy champion, in a close contest as a special event.

Clarence McCalley, 138, Macy, decisioned Frank Semnitz, 137, Sioux City champion in '36. Semnitz finished strong, but could not offset McCalley's edge piled up in the first two rounds.

Ed Sokolowski, 151, Morning-side, decisioned Emmett Walker, 145, Macy, in a rousing slug fest.

Ralph Hawkinson, 185, South Sioux City, decisioned Carol Hamilton, 190, Macy, in a good heavy-weight match.

Jack Walding, 160, Sioux City, knocked out Dixie Blackbird, Winnebago, 160, in 1:38 of the first round.

Herman Parker, 150, Winnebago, TKO'd Nares Tyndall, 157, Macy, at 2:16 in the third round in an added attraction. Referee Gerald Ellyson stopped the bout after Tyndall had hit the canvas three times from Parker's terrific uppercuts.

Kermit Smith, 132, Oberlin, decisioned Billy Dowling, 135, of Randolph.

Jim Hartnett, 138, Jackson, decisioned Corbet Tyndall, 111, Macy.

Tom O'Gara, 135, Jackson, '46 Golden Glove Champion at Sioux City, decisioned DeWayne DeCora, 135, in one of the best fights of the evening. O'Gara used a lightning left to take a decision over the less-experienced Inman, who received the Sioux City "most promising boxer award" in the Golden Glove tournament recently.

Ray Hartnett, 127, Jackson, kept the Irish win column clean by carrying out a decision over Charles Tilman, 127, Sioux City negro. This was a good crowd pleaser, due no little to the colorful, clowning antics of Tilman.

Balancing of Egg Forecasts Spring

Indiana Theatre Requires Parking of Popcorn Sacks at Show.

Spring is here, either Chinese or Southern California version. As proof, Chinese Consul General Yi Sengkiang at Los Angeles balanced an egg on end, the native test of the season, which under the Chinese lunar calendar began recently. Outside the temperature was 83, an all-time record for the date.

One of the newest pieces of equipment on display at the annual office equipment exhibit at Chicago is an executive desk. It has a built-in radio and 12 station inter-office communication system, electric razor, hidden telephone and electronic transcription equipment that slides out on panels, built in fluorescent lights, clock, cigar lighter, burglar proof chest, bar and a refrigerator guaranteed to freeze ice cubes in 16 minutes.

Complaints against popcorn crunching and cellophane rattling brought a new deal at Loew's theater, Indianapolis, Ind. Ushers at the door now ask patrons to surrender all edibles before they enter. Sacks are labeled and filed in a big box and returned to owners as they leave. Manager Boyd Sparrow says comment is "generally favorable."

The chunk of metal which rattled out of A. Biehl's clarinet case after an Eastern Washington College of education band practice at Cheney, Wash., was not an extra mouthpiece. It was a piece of shrapnel imbedded in the wood case since the student's navy days on Saipan.

A fire in a Philadelphia police garage was averted by two officers who thought quick and then turned "cowboy." A backfiring police car, one of 50 being serviced, started a blaze in a portable greasing machine. Capt. Edward McBride and Patrolman John Davidson lassoed the apparatus and towed it into the street.

Wm. Joslyn, 73, Yonkers, N. Y., backed up to a stove to loosen an adhesive plaster on his back. When his shirttail caught fire, Brother George Joslyn, 70, threw a pail of water on him. These goings-on brought policemen, firemen and ambulance attendants, who agreed Wm. should go to a hospital. There, a nurse got the adhesive off in jig time.

Anastasia Bajenoff, Los Angeles, 17 years old, in order to marry, became the ward of her future mother-in-law. She went to superior court and had Mrs. Marjorie L. Spurlin appointed her guardian so, they testified, Mrs. Spurlin could give permission for marriage of the girl, a minor, and her son, David, 23. The two met in Shanghai when Mr. Spurlin was in the army. The girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arcadius Bajenoff, still reside in China.

A New York City taxi driver, puzzled when a young man tipped him $10 at grand central terminal and told him to "keep your mouth shut," decided to check up. He went to the Park avenue candy shop where the passenger had made a stop and learned the store had been robbed of $250. "I figured something was phony when he came out of the store," the cabbie told police. "He had no candy."

Crew members of a Monon railroad passenger train at Bedford, Ind., decided their passengers would rather be five and a half hours late and well-fed than five hours behind schedule because of bad weather when the crew stopped the dinerless train in the public square. The 30 passengers dashed into nearby restaurants for quick meals.

Manager A. J. Meeks of the Twin Falls, Idaho office of the Idaho state employment service, thought the man asking for construction workers appeared familiar. "Haven't we met before?" Meeks asked. "Yes," was the reply. "I was in here about a year ago to apply for a job and you got me one at the construction company. Now I own it and I'm looking for more help."

It's getting so dentists can't even tell their own handiwork. Dr. Carl W. Gielor of Chicago, told the convention of the Chicago Dental Society that so much progress has been made in the art of making false teeth that dentists are having difficulty in distinguishing real from man-made choppers.

R. B. Heehler, 34, Chicago, a painter, got a ticket for speeding in Suburban Oak Park at 4:34 p. m. At 4:50 p. m. he got a second ticket for the same traffic violation. Four hours later the policeman who gave him the second ticket said they saw a car snailing along about eight miles an hour, impeding traffic. They curbed it and found Mr. Heehler was the driver.

Called as a juror in a federal court lawsuit, Louis Racek, North Bend, Neb., asked to be excused. Judge J. A. Donohue asked why. Mr. Racek replied: "I am a member of the volunteer fire department." The judge hesitated and the prospective juror added: "I am assistant chief." The court let him go.

A south Omaha department store displayed this sign: "Pants, $1.98, formerly $1.98." Eager for the apparent bargain, a customer rushed to the sales counter and bought a pair. At home, he examined his purchase. He found another bargain in one pocket of the pants, four neatly-pressed $1 bills.

The cookie jar in the pantry of the Vito Spallera home in Chicago was empty. But Vito, 25, had no taste for cookies anyway. Vito and his wife, Clarice, 25, returned home to find that a burglar had paid them a visit and taken loot which included $2,000 in cash hidden in the cookie jar.

Six frightened young American actresses promised police they wouldn't go out for public walks in downtown Buenos Aires again.

They caused a riot when they walked down fashionable Florida street. Police rescued the girls who were mobbed by fans wanting not only autographs but garments as souvenirs.

Chicago police are looking for a gunman who robbed and bound two victims and fled with pants afire. Carlys Whiddon and Guy Mooney said they surrendered $40 and a pistol to the intruder who tied them with a rope and shoved them into a closet. Mr. Whiddon added: "Then, through a crack in the door, we saw him back into the oil stove, scream and run out the door with his trousers smoking."

An argument over who shines the Chicago courthouse cuspidors has reached the Illinois supreme court at Springfield. A 58-page brief, opposing Republican Sheriff Elmer M. Walsh's suit against the Cook county board and the circuit court judges, says the common law doesn't give the sheriff "statutory powers to scrub and clean washrooms, run elevators and the like." The big question involved is who handles the hiring and firing of 211 custodial employees.
