Miss Hicks was graduated from Wayne high school and Wayne State Teachers College. She has been teaching home economics in the Wayne city school during the past year and plans to resume her duties the following term.

Mr. Witt served four years with the army, three years in the Africa-Italy theatre. He is now employed in the Mines Jewelry store.

Wedding Service Is Held Monday

Miss Violet Allvin Is Bride Of Henry A. Arp at Rites In Local Church.

Miss Violet Allvin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernfrid Allvin of Wayne, and Henry A. Arp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Arp of Carroll, were married at 2:30 Monday afternoon in Redeemer Lutheran church, Rev. S. K. de Fresser performing the double-ring ceremony in the presence of relatives and friends.

The church was decorated with palms, ferns and baskets of peonies, snapdragons and carnations.

Miss Bonnie Kugler, accompanied by Mrs. M. L. Ringer, sang "Because" before the bridal party entered. She also sang "I Love You Truly." Mrs. Ringer also played organ music during the service.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white satin gown with a net yoke trimmed in lace and fashioned with a fitted bodice and long sleeves. The fingertip veil fell from a rope crown. The bride carried a bouquet of red roses and wore a gold and pearl locket.

Miss Ruth Allvin, who served as her sister's bridesmaid, wore a lime net formal over satin and carried a colonial bouquet.

The bridegroom was attired in a blue pin stripe suit and his brother, Harold Arp, who served as best man, wore a gray pin stripe. Dean Allvin, brother, and LeRoy Spahr, cousin of the bride, served as ushers. All wore carnation boutonnières.

Mothers of the couple, grandmother of the bride, Mrs. A. L. Ireland, Miss Kugler and Mrs. Ringer wore gardenia corsages.

A reception was held in the church parlors. The table of the bridal party was decorated in lime and white with vases of flowers and centered with the wedding cake baked by the bride's aunt, Mrs. Gerora Allvin.

Donna and Dorothy Allvin, sisters, and Lois Spahr, cousin of the bride, served as waitresses. They wore white crocheted aprons made by the bride's mother. Ardye Lutt, who had charge of the guest book, wore a white formal and a corsage of yellow roses.

district and also in other districts of northeast Nebraska. R. D. Slagle, local manager, explains that trees near the lines either broke or shorted the circuit. These are mainly trees which the district has been asking consent to trim or cut down to avoid such interruptions.

The single phase lines were broken in at least five places between 7 and 8 Wednesday morning. Service was restored on parts of the lines by Wednesday afternoon. The whole feeder circuit went out again at 4 Wednesday afternoon due to more trees falling. Three trucks with 12 service men were working along the lines until 10:30 p. m. Wednesday and they then had the feeders back on. By 1 a. m. Thursday all the single phase leads that were clear were repaired.

The workers were out again Tuesday and by noon that day the greatest share of the system was in working order. Heavy roads slowed operations.

The REA district in Dixon, Dakota and Thurston counties experienced the same trouble, also the district near Hartington. Concord was unable to get power from the highline for a time because of storm damage.

Mr. Slagle reported that collect calls about trouble were not accepted because the office knew where the trouble spots were located.

Gardens and Fruit Hurt.
Fruits and vegetables were hard hit by the late snowstorm. Tree, bush and vine fruits are practically gone. Strawberries that were covered by the heavy snow were protected somewhat and will likely bear some. D. Hall suffered quite a loss on fruits at the nursery.

Tomatoes, peas and potatoes were reported hurt but some will make a growth. Sweet potatoes, peppers, beans and other vegetables were lost. Sweet corn that was well advanced was also damaged considerably. Vegetables covered by snow were not badly hurt.

No loss occurred in the W. D. Hall greenhouse as a fire kept growing things warm.

Many Trees Broken.
Trees, bushes and flowers suffered much from the heavy snow and cold. Many branches were broken and often the entire tree was split open or the top broken off.

Flowers that were in bloom were frozen and the supply for Memorial day was greatly reduced.

Is Latest Recalled.
The heavy snow and hard freeze May 28 are the latest within the memory of many early settlers. A new record has likely been established.

Last year's heavy snow and killing frost came May 10 and did similar damage though vegetation was not so far advanced then.

Judge J. M. Cherry recalls that 68 years ago, when he was a youth at Iowa City, snow covered the landscape June 10. It was an impressive sight to see red cherries showing through the layer of snow. Then, however, the snow melted within a couple of hours after the sun rose and no damage was done.

LIFE OF SERVICE—

a small town doctor from Rochester, Minn., and my name is Mayo." The speaker noted that William Allen White and Dr. Mayo, both men who had brought fame to their small towns, were humble in their greatness. Pride in home, family, citizenship, race, religion are all worthwhile, Senator Schroeder added.

The task is to recognize the true ideals and American principles. A good life and just society are goals of America. "Let us take increased devotion to the cause for which they died. Let us have a new birth of hope. Let us show that this nation understands and practices the four freedoms to fill the American destiny."

The highest ambition should be to serve mankind, the speaker explained. All in America trace ancestry to other nations. "We owe our culture to all the world." The senator changed one word in the title of the well known hymn by quoting "As He died to make men holy, let us live to make men free." America has no restrictions on education, opportunity and other advantages. "Let us be thankful."

Senator Schroeder related the story of two knights who quarreled when one said a shield was gold and the other said it was silver. After they changed positions and looked on both sides, they discovered that each was right for one side was gold and the other silver. Differences of viewpoint lead to quarrels, so the speaker urged the importance of understanding.

Appleton chapel at Harvard has erected to service personnel a memorial which bears the message that "since they sacrificed their lives and fondest hopes for us and our allies, we should learn courage from them. We should make a better world for others."

GIVES CHALLENGE—

Poverty in Asia, where thousands die each year from lack of food, is another big problem that must be met.

"Your job and mine, our job is to break down these forces to create one world governmentally and in every other way," Gov. Peterson stated. "The challenge in our time is to learn to live together, to be social scientists. March forward and conquer the world if you wish but make it better for your having lived."

The governor, who flew here, left by plane at noon for McCook to attend dedication of the Ender's dam.

The graduation service included the following: Processional and "Alma Mater," symphony band with Prof. John R. Keith director; invocation, Rev. Wm. Kearns; overture, band; address, Gov. Peterson; conferring of degrees, Dr. V. P. Morcy; benediction, Rev. R. J. Bulkeley; recessional, band.

Because of last week's snow, the services were held in the auditorium.

themself, to keep us free" and he urged people to eliminate hate, greed, selfishness and intolerance.

Wayne city band, led by A. J. Atkins, played "The Star Spangled Banner." The band partially encircled the soldiers' and sailors' plot over which waved the Stars and Stripes on a new flagpole placed at the suggestion of the Legion and provided by the Cemetery association. Frank Helne and R. D. Slagle were responsible for its erection by Memorial day.

Don Shulteis read Lincoln's Gettysburg address.

After Senator Schroeder's message, Warren Finn, acting commander for VFW, closed with a few remarks, pleading for patriotism that will make this nation better.

Legion Adjutant Archie Wert read the roll of war dead in LaPorte, Altona and Greenwood cemeteries, this including 120 of the war of 1812, Civil war, Spanish-American war and the two World wars.

After one of the service men placed a wreath on the plot, K. N. Parke, Legion chaplain, offered prayer, urging that all "pledge service and devotion and help secure peace for which these men died." The salute to the dead and taps closed the service.

The commander of the local Legion post wishes to thank all organizations and individuals who took part in the Memorial day services.

"Rising costs of furnishing telephone service have forced a revision in our application to the Nebraska state railway commission for repricing of service," according to W. G. Schulz, manager of the Northwestern Bell Telephone company.

Commenting on the amended application filed with the commission, Mr. Schulz said, "In order to provide good telephone service to our customers in Nebraska and make needed improvements as we go along, prices for the service must reflect the prevailing costs of furnishing it."

"The original application filed on February 13, 1947," Mr. Schulz pointed out, "was our first request for statewide repricing of local telephone service in 21 years and was based on going costs at the time of filing. We are now forced to amend the pending application to take into account still higher costs, principally the recent increase in wages. Our payroll, the biggest single item of telephone service expense, has more than doubled since 1939 due primarily to higher wage levels and to more people needed to meet service demands."

"In recent years the outgo has increased so much faster than the intake that the company's level of earnings in Nebraska is at an all-time low. Repricing is the only solution but we are keeping it as small as possible. There were no margins in the original application to meet the amount of wage adjustments with which we are now faced and we now find it necessary to ask the commission for additional revenue."

Mr. Schulz said that the revised prices proposed for some of the principal classes of local service, including federal taxes, here in Wayne are as follows: Business 1-party, $5.25; business 2-party, $4.50; residence 1-party, $3.25; residence 2-party, $2.75; residence 4-party, $2.50; rural residence, $2.25.

An adjustment in the prices of supplemental local service and the discontinuance of the prompt payment discount were included in the original application. Price changes proposed for long distance calls within Nebraska are principally as follows: Establishment of a three-

CHOLERA IS WORST PERIL TO PIG CROP

Hog cholera, again this year, is the greatest threat to plans for a bumper pig crop. The deadly virus of this No. 1 swine killer lurks in every section of the country, ready to cut down unprotected swine herds.

Losses have run as high as 20 to 60 million dollars a year. Cholera occurs year after year, in spite of the fact that it is a totally preventable disease. If all farmers had their pigs vaccinated against cholera, around weaning time, losses could be reduced almost to zero.

Cholera strikes without warning and it kills swiftly. The virus is so potent that a single fly, going from one farm to another, can carry enough virus to start an outbreak. And a whole herd may die within a few days from this highly-contagious and treacherous disease.

Hog owners should watch for such symptoms as failure to eat, weakness of the legs, a tendency to burrow under bedding, scours, or unexplained death of pigs. Any of these suspicious signs calls for immediate investigation by a veterinarian, because a day's delay can mean disastrous losses. A dependable diagnosis is essential, too, because hog cholera so closely resembles several other swine diseases.

Prevention, however, is the only sure way to combat this deadly enemy of swine, and prevention means vaccination of all pigs around weaning time. Immune hogs bring better prices and can be fed to maximum weight without risk of cholera, losses.

A wobbly gait is one sign of cholera.

Hoover. FORMER President Herbert Hoover's charge that Russia is attempting to bleed the United States to make it weak and impotent is profoundly disturbing, and gives force to his suggestion that this country should speed world recovery by a separate peace with Germany and Japan, and in that way restore their production and self-dependence. Hoover thinks there is no real reason to fear the soviet union. It has played America for a sucker. It has imposed on charity and good will. It has outraged benevolence.

It looks like an effort to enfeeble a giant by cunning design without the strength to wage war. The former president's advice to proceed with peace plans without regard to Russia appeals to reason. It would hasten the world back to normal.

The Hoover stature has grown immensely in popular confidence and esteem. He responded to President Truman's request to make a survey of world conditions to determine possibilities for self-support without any nation becoming a threat to a peaceful order. Mr. Hoover has performed missions for every president beginning with William Howard Taft in 1910, excepting the late Roosevelt administration by which he was coldly ignored. Manifestly, that administration would have fared better if it had invited him to contribute from his store of knowledge and experience.

It is gratifying to note the readiness with which President Truman has asked Mr. Hoover for counsel and help during a critical juncture, and it is also gratifying to note how willingly the former president has complied. No party politics is involved. Hoover has no personal ambition beyond a desire to see the world restored to plenty and peace. He is a great economist and a great humanitarian. His cooperation is invaluable.

Sense of humor modifies troubles and is a good thing to cultivate.

Personal Tax List. GOV. Val Peterson's proposition suggested in the shape of a bill to the legislature to publish the personal tax list, was defeated mainly because it would arouse a lot of hateful talk. Publication would show how few chattels many persons have had the nerve to acknowledge. How successful it would have been in accumulating revenue, is a question. Time would have been required to find out. The need is immediate and urgent. A sales tax against which an effective hubbub was raised, would no doubt have answered the cash demand. Objections were offered on the ground that the poor would be soaked equally with the rich. On the other hand, the defeated bill to tax federal income payments would have soaked only those who pay incomes. So, the legislature was led to a tender regard for both the poor and rich, and adjoined with the hope that the property tax would bring forth sufficient shekels.

What does Henry Wallace want? That is what dispassionate observers wonder as they note his travels and speeches in support of communism which, as practiced in Russia, is the very antithesis of America's free order. And the additional and greater wonder is that huge crowds gather to hear him. Are they convinced or just curious? It is strange indeed that a man who must know of the inhumanity of the Russian government even to Russians, would saddle a similar system on his own native land.

Fatalities over the Memorial holiday exceeded all previous estimates. The death list included unprecedented airplane tragedies. Many perished in automobile accidents. It is hoped travelers will be shocked into exercising more care. It is hoped the toll of death on July Fourth—only four weeks off—will be modified by the recent experience.

Notwithstanding prevalence of unusual wetness, the agriculture department in Washington warns against drouth and dust storms which, it says, will happen within the next twenty years. In the meantime, it will be advisable to hurry along and complete irrigation projects.

A drive through Wayne reveals more buildings under construction than could reasonably be expected in view of material and labor scarcities. This favorable condition suggests a veritable building boom later on. And it is needed to satisfy demands.

There are no apparent benefits from the socialistic government which England fastened on itself. Then why should individualistic countries like the United States fall for it? Why should people anywhere be misled by crackpot theorists?

Of 100 leading corn-growing counties in the United States, twenty-seven are in Nebraska, and Wayne county is one of them. The report comes from the department of commerce, Washington.

Propaganda from the government and other sources still pours into newspaper offices. Most of it goes into waste-baskets. It is costly waste.

MR. ACCHIONE'S ISM

(Omaha World-Herald) Now comes Robert A. Accchione, a Detroit attorney, with an idea on how to make this a happier land. Mr. Accchione proposes that all liberty-loving citizens get together and provide one-way boat tickets for all believers in "isms" other than Americanism to reach the land of their heart's desire. Attorney Accchione digs down into his own jeans to get things under way. It's to start the "If You Don't Like It Here Go to the Land You Love Fund, Inc.," reports the Detroit News. Mr. Accchione hopes there are other Americans of similar mind to help get rid of "those who don't like our democracy."

Mr. Accchione, described as a mild-mannered gentleman, feels that somebody has to begin the job of giving the lovers of foreign philosophy a taste of what they're advocating.

But he is tolerant. If the recipients don't like the "ism" after they have tried it they can repay their fare to the fund and come back home. Of Italian descent, Mr. Accchione was born in London, came to America at the age of 14, went to Italy at 17. But he had such a taste for America he came back a year later, with 82 cents in his pockets. He entered grade school when 24 years old and did the eight grades in a year and a half. Then he put himself through high school and law college.

Democracy is ingrained in Mr. Accchione. He knows why and how it works. That's why he wants only one "ism" in America.

LABOR LEGISLATION

The Saturday Evening Post says congress knows what it is doing in passing labor legislation containing sharp teeth. Members of both houses know their constituents demand a curb on self-asserted labor union license. They know the pulse of the people. They know strikes and slowdowns have hindered precious recovery and incensed patience, eager to get the country back on an even keel. It is easily understood how the law-makers can overlook protests arising from labor union leaders and go forward with needed legal restraints. The Post concludes: "Anyway, this analysis seems simpler and more realistic than the left-wing view that members of congress have suddenly taken leave of their senses, ignored the opinions of their constituents and invited a ruthless group of labor-baiting employers to write labor laws for them. The senators and representatives have something to sell, too—namely, the idea of another term. The thing that was itching them was what 'spontaneous outburst of feeling and will' from the folks back home would do to them if they didn't do something to clip the wings of the Lewises and Petrillos. Even if it turns out that they have set up a field day for lawyers, it can't be said that they ignored public sentiment."

Washington, D. C. June 5, 1947

The flags over the old and new house office buildings last week were flying at half-mast in memory of Representative Fred Bradley of Michigan. But to the saddened members and employees of the Nebraska congressional delegation the drooping banners stood for something else: the untimely death of Milton R. Cox, veteran Nebraska newspaper publisher and executive secretary to Representative Curtis of Minden.

Known to everyone as "Milt," the co-owner and publisher of the Arapahoe Public Mirror had acquired a list of friends in nearly every section of Nebraska among members of the fourth estate.

Throughout the First congressional district, the various newspaper editors actually looked forward to a visit from Mr. Cox—something unusual for a politician. His humor was unending and at the same time, he could contribute to the most serious of conversations.

To Milt Cox a problem was a challenge. There was the time when he was visiting the editor of the Alexander, Neb., Argus. The editor of the paper was having difficulty with a linotype machine.

"What can I do with this thing, Milt? I can't afford to buy a new one," asked the newspaper chief.

Up stepped the Arapahoe veteran of linotype problems, and with a screwdriver and a hammer, he put the machine back in working order. The editor of the Alexander Argus will never forget Milt Cox.

He believed in Nebraska's youth. A few years ago a young high school graduate from one of the Cornhusker state's southern cities came to Washington. The youngster wanted a job and at the same time he wanted some knowledge of congress. Milt took a chance and gave the boy a job in the First district office. He became one of the most efficient members of the staff.

Later this same lad was killed while serving with the army-air forces over Germany. "It was though I had lost my own son," Mr. Cox admitted.

Milt's name may never be inscribed in the hall of fame but his smile and courage will long be remembered in the hearts of many Nebraska newsmen.

Members of congress faced a tough hurdle last week. Over in the senate, a 10-30 per cent individual income tax cut bill had vigorous opposition from the minority party. Meanwhile, the house wrestled with the department of agriculture appropriations bill in which a subcommittee recommended a $400 million cut in the president's budget estimate.

Both bills appeared ready for passage, although much opposition was voiced over cuts in the agriculture legislation, affecting the American farmer. For example, the slash in rural electrification seemed to many farm states congressmen too deep. In the past few years the farmer has been provided many benefits through this bureau and it was hoped that the service might continue on its present basis.

However, one thing must be remembered by all economy-minded Americans: If income taxes are to come down and if we are to pay on the national debt, federal expenditures will have to be lowered and everyone will have to share the burden as well as the benefits.

This column two weeks ago promised the Nebraska State Society that the organization's boat trip on the Potomac river would be a "moonlight cruise." Though the writer doesn't contend to be a weather prophet, the lunar beams did shine upon the society's waterborne journey.

Reunion in School Locates Lost Pen

Basement Is Found Missing When Church Structure Is Moved at Site.

E. H. Koons had the floor at a class of '27 reunion of Hagerstown, Md., high alumni. He reminded that he never would forget his dismay at losing a new fountain pen in City Park Lake when he was a sophomore 23 years ago. Merle G. Kaetzl got up to say he would never forget his joy at finding a new fountain pen in City Park 23 years ago. It was the same pen.

Moline, Ill., a police are looking for a counterpart of Little Johnny Green who tossed a kitten in the well. He dumped a cat into the downtown mailbox and when the police got an SOS to rescue the imprisoned cat they didn't call on Big Johnny Stout to pull it out. They notified postal authorities. The mailman who rescued the cat, finding no postage attached to it, turned it over to the officers.

A church basement is a pretty good-sized thing to lose. But one has been misplaced. The following advertisement appeared in a local newspaper: "Reward will be paid for information leading to the identification of the party or parties who hauled away the basement over which the Baptist church formerly stood. The church was moved and when the workers returned for the basement it had disappeared."

The winner of the annual cribbage tournament for patients at the Minneapolis veterans' administration hospital used a deck of marked cards. But none of the contestants protested. He was George Klym, 27-year-old Minneapolis blind World War II veteran. The cards he used were marked in Braille.

The man who walked up to the desk of Miss Helen Bernsee, cashier in the Belmont hotel, Chicago, didn't intend to be funny. But Miss Bernsee apparently thought he was. When he handed her a note which read, "Give me the money or I'll shoot you," Miss Bernsee broke out in a loud laugh. The would-be bandit became disturbed, turned and fled.

Patrolman Edward Zadroski of Detroit rescued John D. McGory from drowning six months ago. Recently the patrolman was summoned from his beat to aid in recovering a drowning victim from the Detroit river. It was McGory.

Woman's ego took a terrific deflating at a Missouri state fair. In the hooked rug competition, 71-year-old James Hloyle of Kansas City took the blue ribbon for the finest exhibit.

Tommy Burch of Raton, N. M., lost his pet, a desecrated baby skunk. A newspaper ad produced a phone call from a woman who said she had seen one of the striped animals in her yard. Tommy acted on the clue, set out a bowl of milk in the woman's yard and waited for developments. They came in the form of a mama skunk and three of the baby variety, but none was of the deodorized variety.

Elderly George Edward Roberts of Seattle, Wash., had his life ambition fulfilled. His name was legally changed to Daniel Livingfree. The name continually reminded him, his petition said, that his ancestors "were born and labored in slavery." He left the courtroom, happily repeating: "Livingfree, Livingfree, that's a good name."

If Missoula county, Mont., has another execution, the county jail may fall down. Sheriff R. D. MacLean has ordered the lumber in the gallows, last used for a hanging in 1943, to be piled against one wall of the sagging historic jail. "I've used just about everything to prop up this building to keep prisoners from digging their way to freedom. But I never thought I'd resort to the gallows," he said.

Eight Newark, N. J., teen agers, who looted thousands of bars of candy from a freight car on a siding and staged a four-hour eating orgy, were in the hands of the law. Two of them were sick. Police followed a trail of candy wrappers to a children's "clubhouse." They found caches of chocolate bars, with and without almonds.

He parked his car to go in and see about repair parts. Ten minutes later he returned. Car and tractor repairs had been stolen. Grand Island police are working on the case.

HOG CHOLERA BOTH DEADLY, INSIDIOUS
Hog cholera is not only the most deadly of all diseases affecting this disease with symptoms resembling those of poisoning; others may suffer fits and convulsions, suggesting a brain disorder; others may linger on with weakness, scouring and vomiting as the principal outward signs.
Because of the confusing symptoms and fast-killing nature of cholera, and because there is no known cure, all leading authorities urge that the only really safe step is to have pigs vaccinated against this disease as a matter of routine practice. Shortly before or after weaning is the best time for vaccination, but the pigs should first be examined by a veterinarian to make sure that they are in proper condition, so there will be no ill effects.
If the disease is detected as soon as it strikes, prompt diagnosis and immediate use of large doses of serum may help to salvage some of the hogs—but protective immunization in advance is the only sure way to be safe against cholera. Swine raisers should also bear in mind that cholera is highly contagious, and new pigs brought to a farm should be segregated for at least three weeks; to give the disease a chance to show up if the hogs have been exposed in transit.

TWO VERY COSTLY CATTLE DISEASES The two most widespread and costly cattle diseases in this country today are mastitis and brucellosis. Authorities estimate and add greatly to its milk production and profits.

Mastitis is a disease of the udder. It can be caused either by under injuries or by germs. Injuries may be largely prevented by providing large enough stalls, good bedding and clean floors. The germ form of the disease may be transmitted from one cow to another, often on the hands of milkers. Good sanitation is one answer, coupled with scientific veterinary treatment, including under infection. Affected cows should be placed at the end of the milking line, and treatment of these cows should be started as soon as the disease is detected. Brucellosis is an even more difficult problem, causing shy breeding, failures and abortions. Childhood vaccination has been used widely, and adult vaccination in some instances, but the advisability of both depends on local circumstances and the veterinarian's findings. Blood-testing and elimination of reactors is an essential part of most brucellosis control programs. It will take a long fight to clean up brucellosis, but it can be won, if all owners will cooperate in it.

DON'T START IT (Norfolk Daily News) Said Gov. Tom Dewey, "The way to get rid of communists in government is not to hire them in the first place." That is a truth that could be extended to other practices of government. Congress is trying with less success than it had hoped to cut the expensive bureaucracy that has been set up during the last fifteen years. We might say that the way to get rid of needless bureaus is not to create them in the first place. It is a little late to say that, for we have the bureaus and their spending habits have become so set that it is hard to break them. But looking to the future we might apply the lesson by a reversal of past policy. We can nip future extravagance in the bud now by refusing to establish new bureaus and agencies unless they can definitely prove their value to the people who have to put up the money for them.

HEALTH HINTS for LIVESTOCK PREPARED BY AMERICAN FOUNDATION FOR ANIMAL HEALTH LIVESTOCK DISEASES CAUSE HUGE LOSSES The American people have become "meat-conscious" during the years of wartime rationing and postwar scarcities, but probably erysipelas and mastitis (of dairy cattle) are just a few of the more important diseases that take a heavy toll of farm animals and poultry. With meat and dairy products at their present high prices, the wise farmer can profit more than ever from a sound, all-round program of livestock disease control. Here are some of the things he can do to prevent costly losses: Thoroughly clean and disinfect all livestock quarters; raise young animals on clean pasture. Have animals treated for internal and external parasites if necessary. Have pigs immunized against hog cholera, around weaning time. In erysipelas areas, also have them vaccinated against swine erysipelas. Isolate newly-purchased livestock for three or four weeks before putting them in with the home herd. Provide well-balanced rations, containing adequate vitamins, minerals and proteins. If sickness does occur, call a veterinarian to take a heavy and accurate diagnosis may save an entire herd.

HEALTH HINTS FOR LIVESTOCK

PREPARED BY AMERICAN FOUNDATION FOR ANIMAL HEALTH

ANIMAL DISEASES HARD TO IDENTIFY

Too often we are inclined to think that all animal diseases run true to the form described in books and bulletins. Unfortunately, times so closely resembles other blood infections as to appear identical. Swine pox and acne are both skin diseases, and may look alike to the owner. "Fiji" of swine can easily be confused with certain nutritional deficiencies or infectious pneumonias. Anthrax, blackleg and malignant oedema of animals are all caused by spore-forming germs, and both the symptoms and post-mortem findings may be easily confused. The list of "look-alike" diseases is endless, and the chance for error in identifying the trouble is so great that an owner using "guess-work" may be risking serious losses in mistaking one disease for another. In any of these confusing diseases the best policy is to get an accurate diagnosis by a trained veterinarian.

In many cases, even the veterinarian has to draw samples for laboratory tests before a positive diagnosis of the specific and true cause of the disease is possible. If men with years of science behind them have to resort to laboratory checks to be sure, certainly the ordinary person cannot be expected to tell such diseases just by looking at the animals.

These symptoms of depression may indicate several different diseases. It takes more than a check-list of symptoms to identify the many confusing and complicated ailments of livestock and poultry. Any experienced veterinarian will agree that the so-called "atypical" or "run-to-form" cases occur constantly in almost every infectious or contagious disease of livestock. Hog cholera, for example, some-

Notes from Ponca Paper.

From Northern Nebraska Journal, Ponca, for May 26, 1937: Petitions have been signed asking that Ionia and Newcastle be one precinct in Dixon county.

When Newcastle builds a new school a new dictionary will be bought. Corn and small grain continue to do well.

Bladen brothers are organizing a band at Newcastle. Buffalo Bill has had several hundred dinner invitations in London.

A 50-hour walking match closed in Denver and the winner made over 200 miles.

The Ponca band gives the town excellent music nearly every night.

Covington, South Sioux City, Dakota City and all points along the shore are going to have a street railway.

C. E. Hunter, secretary of the Logan Valley Fair association, states that the festival in the fall will be held in Wakefield.

Every man, woman and child in Dixon county should plan to see the big balloon ascension at the county fair. Ponca plans a big celebration on the Fourth.

The famous cow which T. J. Caffee purchased is kept near Ionia and is now a regular mountain of flesh. The cow will be in Ponca on the Fourth and be in the celebration.

Dr. Frank Porter who started some weeks ago for the Fort Peck Indian agency in Montana met with a shipwreck between Bismarck and Fort Peck. The steamboat struck a snag and sank. The passengers escaped with the clothes they were wearing and Dr. Porter proceeded to his destination by team.

Sioux City has hooked the big bridge. The railroad has the charter and agreed to put up a first class bridge over the Missouri river at the Sawyer bluff route. It is expected that Sioux City will grow to 50,000 within 10 years.

Vivid full-color scenes from astronomy and natural science are featured in "The God of Creation," sound motion picture to be shown at 8 p. m., Sunday, June 8, at the Wayne Baptist church, according to Rev. Robt. J. Bulkeley, pastor.

Produced in Moody Institute of Science, west coast department of Moody Bible Institute, by Irwin A. Moon, S. D., "The God of Creation" is the second in a series of evangelistic films. The first film, "They Live Forever," had a large showing in all parts of the country.

In the opening section of "The God of Creation," the audience takes a trip to the stars by means of solar photographs taken through the giant 100-inch telescope of Mt. Wilson observatory in southern California, and views complex gyrations of the solar system.

Lapse-time photography is utilized to demonstrate the beauties of natural science. The illusion of flower buds developing into full-blown blossoms in a few seconds is created through this time-compressed photo technique. The metamorphosis of a caterpillar through the various stages from worm to butterfly, and pollination of flowers are seen on the screen in full color.

Believed to be the first of their kind are the natural-color pictures of photosynthesis, the mysterious food-manufacturing process resulting from the action of sunlight on green leaves.

Through photomicrography the audience peers into the microscopic world of a drop of water and observes the complexity of tiny organisms enlarged more than a million times.

"The God of Creation" will be presented by Rev. F. R. Morningstar, Moody film representative.

The bride is a former Wakefield resident. A reception was held at the home of the bride after the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Ben Fredrickson, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Felt, Mr. and Mrs. Myron Felt, Miss Edna and Miss Ruth Collins and Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Ware attended from Wakefield.

Absence of Ruins Most Impressive

Miss Mable Furlong of near Southampton, England, who is spending three months with her aunt, Mrs. Thomas Busby of Wakefield, is most impressed by the fact that there are no ruins in the United States. She was also amazed at the amount of canned goods, since England has had practically none since lend-lease stopped.

Each person is allowed two ounces of butter a week, two and one-half halves of bread and two and one-half pints of milk a week in England. Miss Furlong said she would like most of all to take a runcout and shoes back to England with her. Shoes that would cost $1 or $3 here cost about $16 there. Dresses that cost $25 in England are about $3 or $6 in America.

The American educational system also impressed the visitor. In England one cannot work his way through college. One either has to have the money to go, or get a scholarship.

When Miss Furlong returns to England, she will go back to work as a private nurse.

Beer Industry Meeting To Strengthen Self-Regulation

In an effort to still further increase the effectiveness of its Self-Regulation program, executives of the state's beer industry will meet June 5th in Omaha. The progress of the past 9 years will be reviewed and new goals set.

This program has had one objective—that beer be sold only by responsible persons in respectable places in full accordance with the law and standards set by this Committee.

Gratifying progress has been made. The men and women who patronize the state's taverns will attest to the fact that law observance has reached a new high level.

Tavern keepers have learned to say "NO" when customers ask them to "break the rules." The friends of beer will NOT ask dealers to violate the law or their good conduct pledge.

Nebraska beer industry, which pioneered beer industry Self-Regulation, continues to blaze the trail toward better control.

RIISING COSTS FORCE REVISION IN REPRICING OF TELEPHONE SERVICE

In order to provide good telephone service to our customers in Nebraska and make needed improvements as we go along, prices for the service must reflect the prevailing costs of furnishing it.

On February 13, 1947, we applied to the Nebraska State Railway Commission for a statewide repricing of our local telephone service. This was the first such request we had made in over 21 years and was brought about by the upsurge in our costs of doing business.

We are now forced, in the light of still higher costs, principally the recent increase in wages, to amend this pending application.

Payroll More Than Doubled

Wages are by far the biggest single item of telephone service expense, amounting to 70% of our costs in Nebraska.

Our annual payroll, at the going rate, is about $7,744,000 or 162% larger than in 1939, due primarily to higher wage levels and to more people needed to meet service demands.

With rising costs all along the line, outgo has increased so much faster than intake these last few years that the level of earnings of the Company in Nebraska is now at the lowest point in our history.

Repricing Only Solution

We ask this repricing only because it is absolutely necessary and we are keeping it as small as possible.

LOCAL SERVICE

The revised prices proposed for some of the principal classes of service in this exchange (not including Federal taxes) are as follows:

Business 1-party	$5.25
Business 2-party	4.50
Residence 1-party	3.25
Residence 2-party	2.75
Residence 4-party	2.50
Rural Residence	2.25

An adjustment in the prices of supplemental local service and the discontinuance of the prompt payment discount were included in the original application.

LONG DISTANCE SERVICE

The principal adjustments proposed for long distance calls within Nebraska are as follows:

Establishment of a three-minute initial period for all calls from 10c up.

An increase of 5c or 10c in the initial period station-to-station day rates for most calls under 175 miles; similar increases for person-to-person calls except that a few rates will be increased 15c.

Reductions up to 30c on day station-to-station rates and reductions up to 40c on day person-to-person rates beyond approximately 175 miles.

An increase in most night and Sunday rates of 5c up to not more than 20c for the greater distances.

We regret that this action is necessary, but in the interest of good service there is no alternative. Our Manager will be pleased to discuss our situation further with you if you so desire.

HOW YOU CAN REALLY Kill WEEDONE

• MUSTARD
• BINDWEED
• THISTLES
OUT OF CEREALS WITHOUT LOSING YOUR CROP

REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.
the famous 2.4D weed-killer

Weedone does not merely kill the tops of weeds. It kills right out to the root tips.
Weedone does not corrode metal spray equipment.
Weedone is not a fire hazard.

FOR BEST RESULTS:
1. Spray bindweed while it is growing actively.
2. Spray mustard while it is in the flat, rosette stage—before it goes to seed.
3. Aim to spray all thistles before they bloom. If they have already bloomed, cut them down and spray shoots when a foot high. Warning: To control perennial thistles, especially Canada thistle, repeat sprays are necessary. Hit 'em again a month later, and keep hitting them until they're gone.
Weedone is a selective weed-killer. It does not kill wheat, corn, soy or barley. Warning! Weedone kills beans and other legumes, beets, tomatoes, etc.

Establish Terrace And Drainage Ditch

The Rollie Ley farm, now occupied by Aug. Dorman, has a recently constructed diversion terrace that also serves as a road. The top of the terrace is wide enough to have a 12-foot road bed, reports Herbert Kohlmeier of the soil conservation district.

This terrace protects considerable crop land below from erosion damage. The area above this terrace is a long steep hill now in oats. It is planned to construct two more regular broad-base terraces on this hill after the oats have been harvested. The road-terrace was staked on the third terrace interval from the top of the hill, leaving room for the two still to be constructed.

This road formerly went straight up and over the hill. Ditches were formed in the road and the hill was steep enough to be impassable in bad weather. The present road is much more convenient and makes an excellent field boundary between the poorer soil on the steep hillside and the better land at the base of the hill. The Wayne county soil district is assisting Ley and Dorman in establishing this work.

A 1400-foot drainage ditch has also been completed this spring. This summer, soil district technicians plan to survey the old Logan channel which is now a mud hole. The survey will determine successful methods of draining this area, and Mr. Ley then plans to see this area to grass.

Plum Creek Rustlers.
