NUMBER ELEVEN

Seriously Injured By Road Roller

Paul Powers Is in Critical Condition After Severe Accident Friday.

Paul Powers, 19, of Wayne, has been in critical condition in a Sioux City hospital since Friday when he was seriously injured about 12:30 p. m. He was accidentally run over by a pneumatic road roller while working near the junction of highways 15 and 20 two miles north of Laurel. It is thought that vertebrae in his back are broken because he cannot move his left leg. A kidney is ruptured. His chest, arms and head are in good condition. Ten young men went from here Friday evening and gave six pints of blood for transfusions, and Paul has had some transfusions since. Doctors started Tuesday to try to take X-rays to determine the extent of the injuries. The youth has been conscious all the time.

Paul, who has been with the state highway department about 18 months, was operating a tractor which was pulling the road roller on highway 20. He was going west when a truck, driven by Francis Yantzie of O'Neill, also going west, accidentally struck the rear end of the roller.

The impact knocked Paul off the tractor, broke the hitch between the tractor and roller and threw Paul into the path of the roller which went over his limbs, hips and back. The roller skidded about 40 feet along the pavement with the youth pinned beneath it. The weight was on his legs and hips with one corner on his back. His clothes were torn from him and gravel was imbedded in his flesh.

Another trucker who happened along rushed to a service station nearby for help. It was necessary to jack up the roller, which weighs well over a ton, and to use a tractor to release Paul. This required about half an hour. A doctor was on hand to administer first aid and an ambulance was also at the scene to rush the youth to Sioux City.

The tractor which Paul was driving continued to travel across the countryside after the accident and was located by following tracks which led some distance from the scene.

LOCAL MERCHANT'S INITIAL VACATION AFTER LONG GRIND

L. A. FANSKE, who returned last week from a trip to the Pacific southwest—the first real vacation he had had in many years—says everyone who has been in California more than a year, becomes an active salesman for the state. It is probable that most persons who accept a new location anywhere find favorable points and become boosters. Mr. Fanske says Dr. C. T. Ingham who moved to California a few years ago, misses his Nebraska friends, but has become satisfied and enjoys his new surroundings. One former Wayneite who has been in California long enough to appreciate it as the only state really worth while, was reminded that finished hogs and cattle pour into the Pacific coast country from Nebraska and other mid-west states and keep inhabitants from hungering for life's substantial. Mr. Fanske had a wonderful trip, but he still relishes Nebraska's great fields of waving grain and its filled feed lots on every hand.

First Case Tried Under New Law

Nebraska has a new state law, No. 162, which makes reckless and drunken driving a more serious offense. It provides that a car may be impounded and driver's license revoked if one operates a motor vehicle while intoxicated. Wayne county's first case under this law was tried in county court, Thursday when Sheriff Hans Tietjen charged Myrtil L. Wilson with driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

Wilson's car turned over west of Wayne July 14 when Mrs. Wilson suffered a fracture of a vertebra in the neck. Mr. and Mrs. Mildred Hurlbert, who were with Wilsons, were bruised.

Wilson pleaded guilty Thursday in court. He was fined $10 and costs of $9.20 and was given 10 days to pay the sum. He was ordered not to drive a motor vehicle for six months. His driver's license was revoked for that period and his car was ordered impounded at the Trolley Motor Co., in Carroll for the six months.

Aerial Spraying Is Used on Weeds

Aerial spraying was tried on the W. C. Berg, Paul Koester and Arthur Malcolm farms in Dixon county last week to rid oats fields of sunflowers, hemp, artichokes and giant ragweeds.

Max Bierget of Shickley, who has a plane equipped with a sprayer flew over the fields and spread a fog of 2,4D at a height of 10 or 12 feet above the weeds. The fog settled on the weeds which soon showed signs of becoming weaker and softer.

It is expected that the oats will be harvested easier now.

Heavy loss resulted to the Carhart-Shumway lumber yard at Hartington Sunday afternoon when fire destroyed the lumber sheds and their contents. Coal sheds and office were saved. The loss is insured, and the company plans to rebuild.

H. G. Gengier, who had been painting an airport identification sign on the yard roof, discovered the flames about 4:30. He said he had noticed small boys playing in the yard a short time earlier.

CROP EXPERT SEES GOOD CORN YIELD IF WEATHER HELPS

H. J. GRAMLICH, general agricultural agent of the Chicago and Northwestern railway system, reports the subsoil in the middle west in good shape, but suggests to the weather service a half-inch of rain each week to guarantee ideal moisture conditions. He says: "Corn is making wonderful growth. While it is still a week to ten days behind, early plantings give promise of catching up if given a few weeks of favorable weather. Farmers have cleaned the fields remarkably well. Replanted corn is up and off to a good start with no weed competition problems. This may only make feed, but it will be useful in that way." He says that four things helped corn growth: Use of fertilizer at time of planting, use of tractors hybrid corn, and willingness of farmers to pitch in and work until the job was completed. He adds: "They know nothing about and care less for the 40-hour week."

Hall was safe on a fielder's choice which failed to nip Batenhorst at third, and immediately stole second. Zeng singled, scoring Batenhorst and moving Hall to third. Raabe, next up, came through with another single, scoring Hall. King struck out and J. Benne ended things by grounding out.

Wayne waited until the last of the 3rd before it started its offensive. After Bahe had grounded out, Moyer singled sharply and immediately stole second, scoring and Weber's single. Harder, next up, singled moving Weber to third, and then stole second. Both men died on base when Page struck out and VanAuker fled to second.

King, opening the 4th inning for West Point, struck out. J. Benne drove out a long trip which landed in the left field tower. Hill hit a fly ball behind third which Otto lost in the lights. Benne scoring and Hill stopping at second. Buchholz singled, moving Hill to second, but Wagner fled out to right and Hall grounded out to end the threat.

Wayne came right back in its half of the 4th to tie up the ball game at 4-all. Otto opened the inning by walking. Kimmel singled, sending Otto to third. Benton walked to fill the bases. Bahe went down swinging. Moyer was safe at first when Zeng, at short, took his grounder and overthrew the plate in an attempt to catch Otto coming in with the first run. Weber singled sharply to score Kimmel and Benton. Harder fled out to the pitcher and Page sent a grounder to Buchholz for a force out on Moyer at third.

The visitors scored their one-run victory margin in the top of the 6th. Buchholz, first up, doubled to left field and waited on second while Batenhorst grounded out to Benton and Wagner struck out, before Hall came through with a timely single to send in the tally.

Is New Officer At Kessler Field

Mrs. D. H. Summers, the former Ruth Ingham of Wayne, has been elected vice president of the Kessler Field Women's club which is composed of wives of officers attached to Kessler Field. Mrs. Summers is a gracious hostess and often entertains at the Officer's club. One of the recent affairs there was the party and dance for Sir Norman Bottomley, of the Royal Air Force, given by Gen. Edward Anderson, commanding officer of Kessler Field, and Mrs. Anderson. Col. and Mrs. Summers are often dinner partners of Gen. and Mrs. Anderson. Kessler Field is ranked as one of the most important installations of the army air forces. It has the largest airplane mechanic school in the world. Until recently it had the greatest air intelligence school, which is being moved to Denver because of the coming of Boca Rotan, another great school, devoted to Radar. The management program of the army air forces has a school for officer-instructors at Kessler. The officers' supply, pre-meteorological school and chemical warfare school are centered there.

Kessler Field is located at the resort town of Bixby which provides yachting, swimming, golfing and other sports. Mrs. Summers is a former lieutenant and an expert on dietetics. Col. and Mrs. Summers have an attractive cottage in officers' quarters on the field. Stirring reviews and the impressive daily event of lowering the flag are part of the atmosphere.

Wives as well as officers at Kessler Field realize the need for preparedness. They know, states a dispatch from the field, that a strong, alert, well-trained army in peacetime means freedom from aggression.

Library News

As the new books for fall start coming in we notice that the majority of them are historical. Some of them are very good and some rather ordinary. The Moneyman by Thomas B. Costain, who gave us the Black Rose last year, is one of the good ones. It is a superb story of romance and action and the setting is 15th century France—the France of King Charles VII, of Agnes Sorel, the king's mistress, and of Jacques Coeur, the king's moneyman. It is a great love story with colorful backgrounds and it tells of a great conspiracy.

The Big Sky is another of the better historical novels. This one tells of the opening of the American west, during the years of 1830 to 1943. It is the story of primitive life of the frontier, with its dirt, savagery and Indians. The hero is Boone Caudill, a Kentucky boy, who tried to kill his vicious father, then stole his gun and set out for the west.

A modern novel by Robert Hichens called Too Much Love of Living is a change from the historical novels. The action in this story moves slowly but the character studies are good and it has a well worked out plot. The heroine is an American girl but the scene is England.

After a refreshing three weeks' vacation, your librarian has returned and is now trying to get ready for all demands that we expect to be made upon us this fall. Quite a number of college students have been using the library this summer and we expect more of them in the fall.

The Writing in the "State of the Nation" in the Christian Science Monitor, Roscoe Drummond, chief of that newspaper's Washington news bureau, says tax reduction has become a political football. Re-passing the tax reduction bill to be vetoed a second time by the president promises to strengthen the republican position in the 1948 campaign. The veto was overridden in the house by a large majority, but was endorsed in the senate by a narrow margin.

It is noted that the power of one man to frustrate acts of representative bodies has given rise to talk of an amendment to do away with the veto or put down the over-riding two-thirds at present required. Says the Monitor writer in conclusion: "There is no party issue here, since President Hoover used the veto as often when he lost control of congress in 1930 as President Truman is using it today. "Fundamentally the veto is a brake on popular government and was so designed by the authors of the constitution. It certainly would be as logical to abolish the requirement of a two-thirds vote to override a presidential veto as it would be to abolish the requirement of a two-thirds senate vote to ratify treaties. Both are instruments of minority government. Elimination of either would increase the responsiveness and power of congress."

Parents Remiss CRUEL parental neglect is sharply suggested by a recent editorial in the Lincoln Star. It adds proof to the generally accepted belief that parents are largely responsible for child delinquency and juvenile crimes. The editorial says: "It was around midnight Saturday when the telephone rang, interrupting a sound sleep. "On the other side was a mad man. He had been to a picture show. Three youngsters, he believed them to be under 10 years of age, had become his responsibility to see that they got home safely. He took them home in a taxicab, told the editor that when he arrived, the home was dark and the youngsters told him that the parents were out to a party. "In the light of recent days I can't understand it," he said. "These are the facts which he reported. They may or may not be the full facts. But police and others tell of escorting little children home, only to find the homes dark when they get there. The place for parents is in the home with their children, unless adequate arrangements have been made for the safe care of those children."

Congress

KARL STEFAN

A move is underway to change the name of the library of congress to the "National Library of the United States." At the present time, the proposition is in the unofficial stage, but Dr. Luther H. Evans, congressional librarian, testified at a recent house appropriations subcommittee meeting that he thinks it's a good idea. There are probably many reasons for changing the library's title but the best thought thus expressed is that the institution no longer is strictly for congressional use. "Many college students and instructors make use of its reference services—and therefore Dr. Evans says his collection of books and pamphlets should be considered on a national scale. One thing is certain, the library's volume has grown like an ear of Iowa corn on a sultry afternoon since the first unit was established in 1800 for the exclusive use of the house and senate. The library's first appropriation request was $5,000. Today, Dr. Evans says: "It is the view of our experts in various fields that the library now secures perhaps not more than half of the currently published material of the entire world which is reasonably required to give adequate service to the congress and the government, and to meet the important demands of scientific and scholarly research in this country. Demands which the law compels us to meet as far as giving access to our collection is concerned." The library houses the copy rights on everything from the New York Times to present day music. The scientific library of the Smithsonian Institution was transferred to the congressional library in 1866. Since that time an accurate record of various scientific ac-by a trip over the old trail. This was done in automobiles in a comparatively brief time as contrasted with the slow, tedious trek 100 years ago. However much one may disagree with the Mormon religion, it must be admitted that the Mormons have surpassed in industry and independence. They have accomplished wonders materially; never had a WPA, never looked to the federal government for aid.

Some Californians have launched a boomlet for Henry Wallace for the 1948 democratic presidential nomination. We think it is wasted effort. It is not likely anyone could wrest the nomination from the incumbent, but if Wallace could he would be buried under an avalanche of disapproving ballots. When Wallace gets into a crowd of sympathetic radicals he feels he is insuperable. He needs to run for something to find out.

The Lincoln Journal calls attention with regret to the Portland Oregonian's report that baths are disappearing from hotel rooms in the northwest because of lack of plumbers. This will be bad news to many. It will be good news to boys who have an aversion to being scrubbed, and also to some elders who have enjoyed boy in them to entertain a similar feeling.

The state tax commissioner reports an increase of $124,000,000 in the state's tangible personal property tax over 1946. Assessment increases in Nebraska counties range from 10 to 100 per cent. Wayne county has gone up 40 per cent. Boosting personal tax schedules is the way adopted to meet increased needs for public funds in lieu of a sales tax or some other special tax.

Dwight Griswold, former Nebraska governor, now chief of the American aid mission in Greece, has advised the Greeks to cut out fighting and get down to business if they expect best results from the United States' investment in reconstruction. That should be understandable even to recalcitrant communists.

Soviet tyrants who represent a small Russian minority, keeping their country's masses in fearful slavery, now want the United States to destroy its stock of atomic bombs. What effrontery! The bombs will not harm the Russians if they do not draw this country into armed conflict.

A Washington report says the campaign to eliminate federal agencies has been followed by more instead of fewer. Eight have been cancelled, twelve new ones installed. That is a discouraging record. Bureau hangers-on are persistent and no doubt hard to dislodge.

The report that Senator Wherry of Nebraska and Senator White of Maine got into a word battle recently over the latter's assumption of privilege suggests the advisability of early adjournment and a due vacation.

Harvesting of an immense wheat crop in southern Nebraska has started with the aid of all available combines. Cutting small grain will gradually move north. Ripening grain in this area appears about ready.

complishments has been recorded by the library. The library, located east of the capitol building, contains the Declaration of Independence and the constitution plus the original copy of Lincoln's Gettysburg address. When Rep. A. L. Miller of Kimball returned from Mexico last week, where he was serving as a member of a congressional committee investigating the foot-and-mouth disease among cattle, he was worried. His 1946 Buick had been stolen from in front of his apartment here. The auto was abandoned near Baltimore and returned later in the week. Mr. Miller was informed that more than four cars daily are lifted in the District of Columbia, whose reorganized police department is attempting to curtail a current crime wave. Legislation has been introduced in congress to admit 400,000 displaced persons in Europe who desire to reside in this country. This proposal will probably not reach the floor of either house during the current session. Prior to 1921 immigration into the United States was in general unrestricted, except for special classes such as anarchists, displaced persons, and persons likely to become public charges or to be detrimental to labor conditions here. By an act of 1921, congress first set up quotas, by nationality. As amended in 1924, the law now limits immigration of any given nationality to a quota determined on the basis of the number of that nationality in the United States in 1920. It further excludes from admission any person not eligible to become a citizen. C. C. Sheldon of Columbus and Max Kier of Lincoln were guests at the Nebraska delegation breakfast last week. The Nebraska State Society of Washington held a picnic in the city's Rock creek park Sunday. Congress is leaving the investigation of the "flying saucers" episode up to the army and navy, who had reported from people who say the aeronautical phenomenon looks like "a man in the moon shaking hands with a lion" or a luminiferous race track covered with the following placards: "Pop got mad, it turned Sis rave when Pop forgot his Burma Shave—take your pick!"

LOAN REDUCTION
 For a second time the president has used his veto power to overthrow the judgment of congress to reduce the tax burden. If the government would practice the economy that every successful man in private life must practice, undoubtedly taxes could be eased on all payers without hindering debt payments or budget balancing. Like a sagacious individual who safeguards his future, the government should trim payrolls and avoid costly duplications and waste. Granting that people have more cash than ever, they should be permitted to save more, thus to counter future ill winds. Let the government get down to sound business economy, closing avenues to unnecessary spending rather than keeping up a spending spree and getting more of the taxpayer's money to spend. Flush times should be a time for saving to ease the pinch of bad times. The government should do it and should relieve taxpayers, so they may also do it.

LOYALTY
 Congress is planning to make certain that government employees are completely loyal to the United States. A bill aiming in that direction was recently passed by the house and sent to the senate, as reported by Congressman Karl Stefan. It is plain to congress as it is to most citizens that individuals who are dissatisfied with this country, should be compelled to move out. The congressman explains: "Known as the 'Federal Employees' Loyalty' Act of 1947," the measure provides for the establishment in the executive branch, a loyalty review board to be composed of five members appointed by the president, by and with the advice and consent of the senate. No member can serve on the board unless he is a United States citizen. The board will investigate every employe and every applicant to determine whether the individual is disloyal to the United States. Sources of information for the board, according to the bill, will be the federal bureau of investigation, files, civil service commission files, military and naval intelligence files, the files of any other appropriate government investigate or intelligence agency, and files of the house committee on un-American activities."

OUTWEARS PREWAR TIRES

FOR EXTRA SAFETY AND EXTRA MILEAGE THE NEW B. F. Goodrich Silvertown IS WORTH THE WAIT

There's no getting away from it! When you have a good thing—word gets around—and FAST! And from our view, it seems everyone is demanding the tire that OUTWEARS PREWAR TIRES.

The new Silvertown tires have been setting records for long mileage, safety and economy not only on taxi fleets, police cars and special test cars but in regular car owner use.

These new tires are built with a broader, flatter tread that puts more rubber in contact with the road, spreading the wear over a larger area. To hold this heavier tread, B.F. Goodrich engineers developed a 35% stronger cord body with stronger cords and more of them... This meant better bruise resistance, greater safety.

If you want the tire that OUTWEARS PREWAR TIRES, place your order today. A little wait will be rewarded with today's biggest money's worth in tires.

Places of Interest Visited on Travels

Old Mexico, the east and parts of Canada have presented interesting sights to Mrs. Alice Hurlbert of Long Beach, Calif., who arrived here Friday to visit her daughter, Mrs. E. L. Pearson.

Leaving Long Beach April 21 by bus, Mrs. Hurlbert went to Mexico City where she was a guest in an old Spanish home which had no outside entrance except a front door which was locked and barred. Many donkey packs and people living in sod and grass huts and doing cooking on hot rocks outside were seen. Children and old women, clad in rags, beg at every bus and train.

Mrs. Hurlbert went to Eldorado, Texas, and then to Hot Springs, Ark., where she took two weeks of invigorating baths. It Atlantic City, N. J., she was delegate of a Long Beach church to the Northern Baptist convention. She watched 70,000 Shriners parade in gay regalia.

Mrs. Hurlbert visited buildings, memorials and historic spots in Washington and Alexandria. A trip to West Virginia completed Mrs. Hurlbert's visit to the 48 states. After stopping in Pittsburgh and Philadelphia she went to Albany Park, N. J., to attend the world's and national WCTU conventions, being a delegate to the latter. Sunday service was held in Ocean Grove, N. J., where vehicles are not allowed on streets on the Sabbath. There the only electrified American flag seemed to unfurl as all sang "America the Beautiful!"

In New York Mrs. Hurlbert visited the Clarence Lintons and Mr. Linton's mother, formerly of Wayne and Carroll. All are well. Mrs. Hurlbert stopped in Plymouth, Mass., to see homes of centuries ago, the old burial ground of the Pilgrims and the first old church where the bell which Paul Revere molded still rings each noon.

Going to Boston, Mrs. Hurlbert was with Miss Beatrice Cobb, also a former resident here. Together they took a boat trip to Provincetown across Cape Cod, where Pilgrims spent three months before crossing to the main land. The monument erected to them can be seen across the cape on clear days. The two attended the colonial festival at Old Salem, Mass., where boys in dresses, girls in tight waists, women in curls, busses, hoops and bonnets and men in spike-tail coats and silk hats welcomed visitors to 30 colonial homes as the town crier called out the daily news. Many homes remain as they were in the 16th and 17th centuries. Money from the festival was used to restore old Hamilton city hall.

Mrs. Hurlbert and Miss Cobb spent the week-end of the Fourth in the Green hills of New Hampshire in a brick home built in 1800. Miss Cobb's father was raised there and her cousin Miss Ellen Cobb, now keeps a summer boarding house in the home. Miss Cobb remained there.

Mrs. Hurlbert went to St. Stevens, N. B., Canada, then to St. George and St. John. She stopped in Amherst, N. S., to see the first Baptist church, built 137 years ago. No changes have been made except a pipeorgan has been added.

Stopping in Halifax, Mrs. Hurlbert saw the first church of Canada, material being brought from England. The public garden is claimed the best in the world.

Mrs. Hurlbert took a boat from Digby, N. S., across the Bay of Fundy to St. John and then went by bus to Quebec to see the old French town with its buggies and wheeled carts. Many go there to the shrine of Sainte Anne and discard braces and crutches.

A 12-hour boat trip took Mrs. Hurlbert to Montreal. Mrs. Hurlbert planned to go through Canada to Vancouver but because of wash-outs in Canada, travelers were routed to Detroit and Chicago and back to Canada at Spokane. Mrs. Hurlbert decided to stop off here for a visit before resuming her trip.

Seriousness of Occupation Observed Along With Beauty

"It is very unnatural to live in a conquered country," comments Mrs. H. B. Lane in writing July 1 from Tokyo to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mines of Wayne. Though Mrs. Lane was thrilled with the beauty and unpopularity of Japan, her early reaction is that one must have a "sense of values and love for all fellowmen."

Mrs. Lane and 3-year-old Tommy, docked in Tokyo June 28 after a 12-day ocean voyage from Seattle on the U. S. Army transport General H. B. Freeman. Lt. Col. Lane went there in January. Mrs. Lane and son made a short visit with relatives of Lt. Col. Lane in Seattle before going to the Officers' club to join other wives and children of army officers for and Tommy enjoyed these. Other movies were shown each evening. Chaplains also had story hours for children.

Ocean Is Terrifying. Mrs. Lane and son also enjoyed much time sitting on deck and watching the ocean. Even on the top deck salty spray blew over them so one can imagine the height of the waves. "I keep thinking how awfully terrifying it must have been for the boys to be way out here on a ship or in a plane and know they might be forced into this ocean," writes Mrs. Lane. "It looks so big and treacherous and yet you can't keep your eyes off it either. An ocean voyage is certainly quite an experience."

The ship crossed the date line June 22, gaining a day. Sunday was followed by Tuesday. Each night the travelers set their watches ahead an hour and at the date line they were 17 hours ahead of Seattle.

Everybody was feeling much better June 22 and the Wayne folks found that they too had become pretty good sailors. Tommy wakened early and couldn't wait for the bell so he ran into the dining room and the Filipino boy put him in his chair, fastened his bib and began feeding him.

Mrs. Lane visited the ship's wheel and captain's quarters on the bridge. She learned that the ship's route was slightly south of the great circle which actually goes within 50 miles of the Aleutian islands. The ship skirted a stormy, cold wave about 500 miles south of the Aleutians. At that time the ship was 2,267 miles from Port Angeles, near Victoria, B. C., and 2,183 from Yokohama. At that point the ocean was more than three miles deep.

Writing June 26 at a point 900 miles from Japan, Mrs. Lane said that all were hoping the ship would dock early Saturday afternoon. If it didn't reach the harbor until 5 p.m., it would have to lay anchor until Sunday and none wanted that to happen.

The sun shown that day for the first time in a long period. Most of the women and children had colds and the Wayne folks did not escape the epidemic.

Mrs. Lane noted the beauty of the sunset on the ocean. "The air is finally getting balmy and smells so good. The ocean is so beautiful in nice weather and so treacherous looking in storms."

Arrive in Japan. The army wives and children departed Saturday at 4. Shortly after noon that day the women could tell they were getting close to Yokohama as they could see land and fishing boats. A patrol boat came out with lots of bright flags and a big welcome sign. "All at once we realized that we were practically there. We passed British ships and they knew we were dependents and flashed welcomes to us."

Women and children dressed in their very best. "You should have seen the transformation. All gathered on 'B' deck, which is a small narrow deck off the first class cabins. As we edged toward the pier we could see all those husbands huddled together straining their eyes to see us also. The closer we got the more families recognized each other and called out to one another. It was some time before all this registered with Tommy, but suddenly I saw his face wreathed in smiles as he suddenly realized his own dad was standing down there and recognized him."

All then returned to their cabins and as the gangplank was let down each husband came on deck and was told his wife's cabin number. It was all thrilling and everybody was beaming."

To Fujia Resort. Lt. Col. Lane had a beautiful orchid for Mrs. Lane. He had reserved a car and driver and took his family on a three-hour drive to Fujia hotel which is the finest resort hotel in Japan. A drizzling rain was falling. In the ride Mrs. Lane was impressed with how little everything is in Japan. Railroad cars look like toys. Flowers are exotic and beautiful and the rice paddies are very green. The whole countryside smells, and Mrs. Lane attributed this to the fact that people throw slop in the streets.

Mechanics Not Good. "Our Japanese driver tried to make all the mountains on high, which proved harrowing. Mechanical common sense is very limited. The same is true of plumbing. All that I've seen looks fine but groans and squeals."

The Lanes had a room in the Flower Palace wing at Fujia. It had mammoth picture windows, huge closet, two arm chairs, coffee table, complete bath and baby bed. This was their temporary billet until July 12 when quarters were to be assigned. But Lt. Col. Lane was unable to take the customary 15-day leave, so rather than stay in the mountains, Mrs. Lane and Tommy went with him to the Imperial hotel in downtown Tokyo. This hotel for officers was designed by an American and provides every convenience. Fujia provides for children but very few little folks are at the Imperial. "We have all our meals in our room as we don't want him throwing forks at us generals or Russian attaches." The room in the Imperial has a combination sitting room, doolittle park across the street, and the sun deck and pretty courts with gardens provide outdoor life for Tommy.

Mrs. Lane was glad for the opportunity to be in downtown Tokyo for a few days because quarters will be out from the city. The whole basement of the Imperial hotel is an arcade of lovely shops with exquisite China, linen, made to order dresses of gorgeous silks, all high on legal exchanges.

Service Is Excellent. The officers pay regular mess rate of 25 cents for a full meal. "The service is out of this world. You don't even put your own napkin on your lap. They always serve soup first. This is passed in a big silver bowl and you ladle out your own. Then the entree also from a silver dish; then selection of potato and two vegetables. The food is hot and tasty. Tommy eats fairly well and even drinks powdered milk."

"We will maintain our billet at Fujia in case our wait for quarters drags out and it's hot in the city and Tommy gets bored without children to play with. Then Bert will just come up to Fujia on weekends."

"Our sedan was just loaned to us till Sunday so we came back on the train. We took a tram car down off the mountains, then had a two-hour ride on the train. Certain cars are marked for allied personnel. They are not crowded, are very clean and the trains are electric and fast. We saw very few other white people traveling and the Japanese seemed to stare at us and smile and we did likewise. Tommy talks to them constantly. He can't understand the fact that they don't understand him. Tom and I know just three words so far, anozoo for come here, nushi for hello and nitura for water."

Herman Luecke, formerly of Pilger, died in Lincoln last Wednesday. Funeral rites were held in Wisner Friday. A daughter, Gretchen, and son, Adolph, are in Germany, and a daughter, Mrs. Hans Heineman, at Beemer.
