

Of Fifty-six Years Ago Is Found — Comparatively Low Standard of Living Revealed — Omaha Bureau Issues Warning.

Dr. D. D. Tobiasz whose home is in Sioux City, but who has been sojourning with relatives in Wayne, has furnished this newspaper with a copy of the Chicago Herald dated in May, 1891. Dr. Tobiasz discovered the paper serving as background for a picture.

The paper is a record of 56 years ago. An advertisement offers among other things, 500 G. A. R. suits at $5 apiece. Civil war survivors — members of the G. A. R. — were numerous in 1891. Benjamin Harrison was then president. He was defeated by Grover Cleveland in 1892. William McKinley was elected in 1896. In a few years the Spanish-American war to free Cuba and other islands was fought and won.

Since 1891 two world wars have called for huge sacrifices. Both were fought to spread the democratic form of government and to extend human liberties. Since the last struggle, statesmen in free countries have used their best endeavors to cement amicable relationships and safeguard the independence of big and small nations.

Dr. Tobiasz calls our attention to the hay and livestock markets quoted 56 years ago. Timothy hay ran as high as $12 per ton. Good prairie hay brought $12 per ton. Fair qualities ranged from $6 to $9. Grass steers sold as low as $2.65 per hundred. Choice to January steers brought $5.90 to $6.25.

It was in 1893 that real tough times set in — three pounds of butter, three dozen eggs or three pounds of beefsteak for a quarter. There was plenty of everything, but prices were low, and there were comparatively few jobs at painfully small wages.

The yellowed copy of the old Chicago Herald emphasizes hard living conditions in 1891. But there were no threats of an atomic war to terrorize the world 56 years ago, and therefore we believe, despite poverty, there was more peace of mind.

Advices Due Alertness.

The Omaha Better Business Bureau has issued warning against what it terms lightning rod rackets. There are plenty of square lightning rod dealers, but the exception calls for the exercise of due care. There are plenty of honest dealers in other branches of service, but an occasional slicker invites due attention. In calling attention to the occasional lightning rod imposition, John J. Henry, general manager of the Omaha Better Business Bureau, says:

"Home owners, farmers and institutions which have protected their buildings with lightning rod equipment should exercise caution in authorizing anyone to 'check' or 'inspect' their installations. Failure to ascertain in advance what the total cost of a job would be has led in some cases to some very extensive 'repairs' and to bills which have staggered owners. A recent complainant to the Bureau, for example stated that she was solicited to have equipment checked because possibly a few points needed regrounding. The solicitor advised that he would also sharpen the points, 'to make sure you are fully protected.' The complainant asked for an estimate but the solicitor shrugged it off as if to say 'Why discuss pennies?' Whereupon he asked the complainant to sign what she described as 'a little slip of paper with some typing on it,' which he said would protect him in case anybody on the place questioned him while he was checking up on the equipment. The 'little slip of paper' apparently authorized the repairman to proceed. A week later he presented the complainant with a bill for over $2,000.

"Similar complaints have been received by the Bureau from others who have authorized what they thought was a mere checking up job but which resulted in the replacement of copper cable, grounding clamps, and lightning rods. In some instances victims of this scheme were given to understand the solicitor represented the fire insurance underwriters. After an inspection, the solicitor reported that the lightning rod equipment would not pass inspection and would have to be repaired. Bills ranging from a few hundred to over a thousand dollars subsequently were submitted for services rendered.

"This scheme can be avoided by the owners of lightning rod equipment by following the simple precaution of having a written contract specifying the work to be done, and its cost. If a contract is entered into with a firm of known reliability there will be no gouging for unnecessary servicing."

SEVENTY-THIRD YEAR

Boy Scout Drive Is Started Here

Willard Witke Is Chairman Of Campaign to Assist Work with Youths.

Following a "kick-off" breakfast at Morrison hotel Thursday morning, August 21, men will begin their annual solicitation of funds in the boy scout finance drive under the chairmanship of Willard Witke.

Mr. Witke and his committee hope to raise $650 as Wayne's contribution to the total budget of $60,000 needed to promote and service scouting in the 26 counties which comprise the Covered Wagon council.

Seventy cents of each dollar raised is used for the training of local leaders, the organization of new units, special services such as camps, circuses, rallies and campfires, the advancement program and other program helps for local leaders.

Twenty-nine cents pays for the administration expenses of the Covered Wagon council. This is spent for rent, telephone, office supplies and salaries of the full-time executives and office help. The office of the Covered Wagon council in Omaha is actually the service station for the scouts and their leaders throughout the council.

Approximately one cent out of each dollar raised goes for expenses of the National council. The national program provides for the training of full-time leaders, editing and printing the scout handbook and other scout literature, the chartering of troops and the registration of individual scouts.

Every year about 30 Wayne boys pass their 12th birthday. Surveys show that three out of four of those boys want to become scouts. This does not include farm boys around Wayne who would either like to join a troop in Wayne or become lone scouts. Membership in the council has increased from 3,300 in 1930 to over 6,000 in 1946. This means that more boys are being reached, but many still have not had an opportunity to enjoy scouting. Three things are necessary to reach those boys — men, methods and money. A properly financed scouting program in this community will produce more scouts, better trained leaders and a more interesting program.

Membership in Troops 174 and 175 in Wayne has increased 86 per cent the first of the year. It will increase still more as the year progresses. Boys wishing to join the scouts may do so by contacting Scoutmaster John A. Lewis and A. F. Gulliver. Boys who are 9, 10 and 11 years old may join the clubs by seeing Rev. T. J. C. Schuldt.

Kiwanis Officer Speaks to Club

Local Members to Sponsor Toastmaster Group to Improve Speech.

"Build for peace, patriotism and prosperity." This theme for Kiwanians was the subject of the message brought Monday to the local club by Dr. Joe Svoboda of South Omaha, lieutenant governor of Division Five.

Dr. Svoboda's theory is that peace is not attained by preparing for war. The United Nations needs a transfusion. If it does not work then, the doctor advised making it function without Russia. He would cut off any troublesome spot like one would remove a superfluous growth on the body.

The speaker agrees with Father Flanagan that there are no bad boys but there are a good many bad parents. He cited the example of boys who will fight to stand up for their parents regardless of their reputations. The parents and not the boys are delinquent.

A man's conscience is clear-cut. He either does right and knows he is right or he does wrong and knows that it is wrong. A good citizen, Dr. Svoboda stated, is one who thinks right and does as he thinks. A communist works unhandedly.

Management, labor and politics have both good and bad leadership. The speaker feels that the public is too prone to criticize and not to commend those who do the right in these groups.

Democracy gives opportunity to all. The speaker cited the last two presidents as examples. Roosevelt was born wealthy and Truman was without advantages. Each aspired to the presidency and won. Each has stood for his own ideals. Such opportunity is available only in a democracy.

Dr. Victor Morely introduced the speaker and C. L. Pickett gave the invocation.

Form Speaker Club. Kiwanians decided to help organize a Toastmasters' club in Wayne at the suggestion of Ben McEachen of Huntington Park, Cal. Milo Dier has charge locally. The group convened for the first time Wednesday at 6:30 at Hotel Morrison. Those interested in improving their speech are invited whether they are Kiwanians or not. Two Omaha chapters will send delegations here August 27 to put on a program for the local group.

Locals Shut Out Brown Bombers

Score Surprising 6 to 0 Win Over Fast Colored Nine Here Sunday Night.

Wayne's Pioneer Site League came up with a surprising 6 to 0 win over the high touted Brown Bombers of Chicago here Sunday evening. The colored players, on their part, had suffered their sixth defeat this year and were favored to win over the local team.

Chuck Kimmel, Wayne hurler, turned in a masterful performance on the mound. He faced only 21 men in the nine innings, getting the first five frames and facing but four batters in each of the last four innings. He struck out eight, issued no free passes and allowed but six scattered singles.

Intensively, the whole Wayne team played hard-up, errorless ball behind its pitcher. George King of West Point, catcher for Wayne last season, was behind the plate for the locals, and Kroger of Fenwick augmented the infield at short.

The locals, determined to get the jump on the Bombers, scored their first run in the bottom of the opening frame. Babe, lead-off man, was hit by a pitched ball, and immediately scrambled in with a tally when Kroger, next up, drove a triple into deep left field.

Wayne's next run came in the fifth. Jones, first up, singled and went to second when Babe walked after Babe had whiffed. Kroger fanned, but Meyer was safe on (baser's) error, filling the bases. Kimmel singled sharply, scoring Jones from third. King grounded to short to end the inning.

After going down three in a row in the 6th, the Wayne boys came through in the last of the 7th with four runs, their big scoring spree of the evening. Dug, opening the inning, singled and scored on Babe's double. Kroger singled, Babe holding second. Meyer singled, filling the bases. Kimmel was safe at first on a fielder's choice to toy which nipped Babe at the plate for the first out. King doubled, scoring Kroger and Meyer. The throw in from the field was relayed to Catcher Burch who nipped Kimmel coming in to the plate. Burch's throw to third was wide in an attempt to catch King who scrambled in with the last run of the game.

Girl Scouts Find Understanding Is Big Need of Today

"International understanding could be improved considerably if people would give a little more and not grab so much." This is the opinion expressed by Miss Ruth Mary Atwater, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Atwater of Des Moines, who represented Iowa at the international girl scout camp in Logan forest of the Pennsylvania Alleghenies June 26 to July 16. Mrs. Atwater is the former Elizabeth Mines of Wayne.

Girls from all 48 states and from 29 countries of Europe and the Americas lived together. Ruth Mary said they got along well and had no trouble when they learned each other's customs. "It seems to me that understanding could be applied to the world as well as to our camp," the Des Moines Miss observed.

In the tent with Ruth Mary were girls from South Dakota, Luxembourg, Trinidad and the Philippines. A Swiss girl was a week-end guest. The young folks found that they gained the most from their tent talks. They felt that racial and religious prejudices come mainly from adults and that they "had to look at them squarely and get rid of them. The only way is to destroy them by common sense."

Girl scouting is again strong in Italy and will be organized in Germany and Japan.

Miss Atwater, a senior in high school this fall, has been a scout 10 years. She plans to continue as a leader. She is junior counselor this summer at Camp Mitigwa near Camp Dodge.

Returns to West After Visit Here

Miss Laura Lyons of Long Beach, Calif., arrived home August 8 after spending a 90-day vacation in this vicinity. As the time of her stay could not be extended, she missed seeing many friends while here.

Miss Lyons left Long Beach May 12 and stopped in Denver with her nieces, Mrs. Carl Eldrick and Mrs. D. F. Allen. From the 19th story of a Denver building she viewed two universities, the capitol, Lowry field, the mint and churches. On clear days one can see Kansas from that point. The Eldricks had luncheon and dinner to honor Miss Lyons. They went to the mountains and viewed the Denver mountains which is cut from red rocks, the there being 60 rows of seats. Miss Lyons attended the program when Mrs. Allen was installed as P.T.A. president of the school in which her daughter, Ruth, is enrolled. While in the city Miss Lyons telephoned to Lillian Bruggeman, formerly of Carroll.

Miss Lyons came from Columbus and reached Wayne May 27 when snow was falling. This was the first heavy snow she had seen since the winter of 1918-19.

While here Miss Lyons visited in 35 homes of Wayne, Laurel, Norfolk, Carroll, Concord and Wisner. She left July 30. At Wisner she noticed the sandbags and dirt embankments which had been prepared when the Elkhorn was high this spring. Alfalfa dehydrates at Wisner and West Point and the soybean center at Fremont were interesting sights. Much building was noted at Boys' Town near Omaha.

In Omaha Miss Lyons tried to contact Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Krause, formerly in the telephone office in Wayne, but they were in Sioux City with their children, Mavia and Elwin. Miss Lyons' cousins, Mr. and Mrs. John Thayer, took her to Oakland, Iowa. They accompanied her to Sidney, Iowa, to the annual Kerhey reunion, 32 of Miss Lyons' mother's people being there. At Glenwood she visited in the home of Geo. Bowers, who lived in Wayne 37 years ago. Glenwood was the early home of Miss Lyons' parents and the birthplace of Bertie, Frank, Grace and herself.

Leaving Omaha August 6, Miss Lyons crossed the great Salt Lake and through the valley to Bakersfield and the Mojave desert. Groups of young folks on tours were on the train.

Miss Lyons reports that the coast has been unusually warm and dry this summer.

Harry Clark of El Monte, cousin of Miss Lyons, was severely injured in the face and about the head. He works in a foundry in Los Angeles.

Senator Pepper THE SIOUX CITY Journal thinks Senator Claude Pepper of Florida is angling for the democratic vice presidential nomination as a running mate for President Truman next year. Senator Pepper is a left-winger of the Henry Wallace type, but he thinks Wallace may serve better by speaking from the ranks. The senator does not mention himself in connection with the nomination, but he describes himself as the one fitted for second place on the ticket. The Journal comments in conclusion:

The democrats of the south felt as did the republicans about the labor legislation that was passed and re-passed over the president's veto. Democrats in scores voted for the Taft-Hartley bill in the house, and the republicans who barely control the senate had sufficient democratic support to muster a two-thirds vote there in overriding the veto. Now as Senator Pepper talks of making the labor legislation an issue he is challenging leaders of his own party as much as he challenges the republicans. His formula for the vice presidency, a champion of the working man and one who subscribes to the (new deal) views of Franklin D. Roosevelt, is one unacceptable in the eyes of the only real democrats left, those of the solid south.

H. J. Gramlich, general agricultural agent of the Chicago and Northwestern railway system, is encouraged by the tenacity with which the corn crop in the mid-west has been withstanding drought. He says in part: "The first two weeks in August have been hot and dry. No showers of importance throughout the central corn belt. Intense heat in the main producing areas of Iowa, southern Minnesota, Illinois, Nebraska and South Dakota, combined with the protracted drought of the past five weeks, checked the growth of corn, but in most communities plants have not burned and a general rain within a few days could result in a decent kind of corn crop. The absence of hot winds during the period of extreme heat is what has saved the corn from 'cooking.' Hybrid corn has an exceedingly strong and complete root system. To this, and the absence of hot winds, can be attributed the tenacity with which the crop has held on during the past two weeks."

Senator Hugh Butler joined other senators in sponsoring a bill which, now a law, makes sugar beet growing more attractive. Senator Butler thinks many farmers, especially in irrigated areas, will and should be attracted to beet production next year. The senator explains: "This new act provides a guarantee to domestic sugar beet producers that they will be able to market 1,800,000 tons of sugar each year. This represents a greater market than we have ever had in the past for our sugar beets. The new act also provides a method of maintaining sugar prices on a more profitable basis than before the war." All rationing of sugar has now been discontinued, he pointed out, and price controls will come off within a few months. "We need additional supplies of sugar produced right here at home, so that we will never again be caught short of sugar as we were during the war," Senator Butler emphasized.

Too little water in central Nebraska streams for power serving electrical lines has been threatening future consumption. Restrictions on service may be deemed inadvisable. It is hoped conditions will soon change for the better and that this suggested emergency action will be found unnecessary. Also war-time gasoline scarcity without a war is reported. One reason for this lack is said to be that motorists are using more gasoline than ever. Travelers are more numerous, and they are said to have dipped deeply into gasoline supplies.

In going to bed with the chickens and getting up early, we feel decidedly unconventional. We miss many desirable social contacts. But the other extreme is the habit of staying up most of the night, often motoring at a mad pace, retiring in the early morning hours and feeling exhausted the next day. There would be compensations in a middle course — cultivating friendships during evening hours and hitting the land of nod before the night is nearly spent. No doubt many of us need readjusting.

Weather forecasts last week were, like the weather, intensely aggravating. Predictions did not often encourage hope for rain, but when they did, the result, if favorable, was a feeble sprinkle. People were disappointed, and eager expectations were blasted.

The public was over-fed last week on the bitter conflict and ugly personalities involved in the senatorial committee investigation of Howard Hughes' $25,000, 000 flying boat built by him for the government. Senator Harry Cain of Washington said the investigation was not to determine the quality of the huge plane, but to find out whether it was needed and would justify the cost.

In a recent broadcast Winston Churchill, former prime minister, warned Great Britain that proposals in the labor government point in the direction of totalitarianism, and urged free enterprise as the only way to relieve distress. He stoutly opposed rigid controls of industry and individuals. Experience of the socialistic order in England is proof of what to avoid in America and in other democracies.

And Still They Go. (Omaha World-Herald)

Nothing, it appears, can dissuade the man who has not yet had his vacation from going through with it. Bearish reports from returned vacationists don't faze him. Reports that half the country is motoring and the other half tearing up the roads leave him unmoved.

Yet much may be said in favor of vacationing right around home. This is what the ancient Latins undoubtedly had in mind when they pointed out that we change our skies but not our minds when we go running about the earth.

Madame de Staël defined travel as "the saddest pleasure in the world."

"Would you seek afar?" asked old Walt Whitman. "Surely you come back at last; finding in things near to you the best — or as good as the best." That was probably written after his return from New Orleans, the longest trip he ever made.

You can get away from your environment, said Emerson, but never away from yourself. But even Emerson, who called travel "a fool's paradise," didn't let it keep him from making two long tours of Europe.

REMINISCENCE

Henry Ford reminiscences were many, but they have increased since the passing of the great auto-mobile empire builder. The Saturday Evening Post tells this one: "Few are more eloquent than an account of a talk between Mr. Ford and James Dore, former London editor of the Manchester Guardian. Mr. Dore met Mr. Ford in 1910 at England's worst period of the war. It was natural that they talk should be about the war and about Mr. Ford's important contribution to the slaughter as a manufacturer of tanks and trucks."

"Finally, when the two men had exhausted that subject, Dore asked Mr. Ford something about his views on the life to come. 'The only thing is,' said Henry Ford, 'I should like to be sure of having the same wife.'"

"That's the difference between you and me," his interviewer ventured to say. "I hope that my own wife will have better luck in the next world."

"There you are," said Mrs. Ford, who was sitting near. "You only think of yourself, but your friend thinks of his wife."

"It's a nice point who was the winner of that contest in dialectical immaterialism. Only a wife could make the decision."

When former Nebraska Governor Dwight Griswold appeared before a house appropriations subcommittee to justify the money needed to carry out the Greek-Turkish aid program, he turned the problem facing members of the committee as "somewhat nebulous." After he concluded his talk and other members of the mission said their piece, the committee agreed with the Nebraskan.

I was not in on the original planning, but I have been reading and going to school for the past three weeks. I feel that you should not cut down the size of this appropriation. When we get into a program like this one, we think you (the committee) should take into consideration the many items needed in the agricultural program.

"I think very definitely if there is a rejection of even one dollar in this appropriation for Greece and for Turkey, it will have a terrible psychological effect in the other parts of the world."

Rep Keefe (R-Wis) asking the former governor, as to what Uncle Sam's position will be a year from now, Griswold said:

"The condition of the world will have to decide that. I will say this, that in my judgment, after spending just a few months in Germany, if the United States backs out of Germany and backs out of Greece, communism will take Europe. And I am willing to make this prediction, that when the communistic type of thinking, when the communistic philosophy, takes over the governments of Germany and Greece, if we get out they will then take over Italy and France and you gentlemen will be coming back here in a special session to appropriate billions of dollars to prepare this country for the possibility of a future war. And you are just patriotic enough to do it of your own volition; you will come here because you will be scared for the way of life of this country."

Our military commitments to the Greek government were made very plain to the committee. On this subject, George McGhee, state department coordinator for Aid to Greece and Turkey, explained:

"In opposing the armed bands which defy the authorities in many sections of the country, Greece has been obliged to maintain armed forces far above the size she can support from her own resources. The removal of this threat to her political integrity is, however, essential if Greece is to regain the atmosphere of security required for the functioning of a normal economy. Under the American assistance program it is planned that the United States will furnish to the Greek armed forces military and naval equipment and supplies in the amount of about $150,000,000."

The department of Justice maintains an effective border patrol, which operates more than 8,000 miles of coast and border, the Mexican border, Canadian border, and the Gulf coast. Their activities of late have very productive results. They are the ones who are primarily responsible for the high figure of 15,000 apprehensions and expulsions per month. At the present time our border patrol consists of 1,475 men.

There are at total of 103,165,465 fingerprints on file at the federal bureau of investigation building in Washington. The percentage of identifications made during the past year of the prints received indicate records in 68.6 per cent of the case. According to Director J. Edgar Hoover, the bureau effected 683,351 criminal identifications during 1946. That means they were able to establish nearly 700,000 persons' police records through the fingerprint system.

The library of congress has a collection of 200,000 special maps. They are not hydrographic charts, they are not aeronautical sheets, or topographic graphs, and they are not historical maps. However, they depict all types of information — economic, political and ethnographic — and are used primarily by the various executive departments and members of congress.

SOIL SAVING Progress in vital soil conservation is pointed out in a Lincoln Journal editorial which says: "Taking note of the 10th anniversary of the soil conservation service, that great farm paper, the Washington Post, pays tribute to its achievement and admirably analyzes its form of operation. It attributes much of the success of the services to its intelligent decentralized method of operation," which begins on the farm instead of in a far off government bureau. Considering the amount of land still being ruined through wasteful practices, the service hasn't yet been nearly widely enough adopted, yet its work is of tremendous significance, notes the Post. It is the first essential, for instance, in any comprehensive plan of flood control. Even more important is the moral implication of this effort to use the land more effectively. It amounts to elementary recognition that the land, instead of being something to be squandered at the will of its present holders, is a public trust that must be maintained for generations to come."

OUT OF OLD NEBRASKA

By James C. Olson
Supt., State Historical Society

State fair week brings to mind the first territorial fair, held in Nebraska City, September 21, 22, and 23, 1854. While it can hardly be compared to the present exhibition, it is notable not only as the first fair of its kind in Nebraska, but also as the first territorial fair held in the United States.

Nebraska City was chosen as the site as the result of a competition conducted by the territorial board of agriculture. The Otoe county people offered to enclose a 10-acre tract with an eight foot board fence, and, according to a story in the Nebraska City News, to provide "all the necessary stalls for stock—a floral hall—sheds for agricultural, mechanical and other implements and mechanisms and a first class show ground for exhibiting horses, etc."

The list of premiums indicates that the managers did not overlook any type of article that could be grown or manufactured in the new territory. Prizes were offered for a wide variety of exhibits, and ranged in value from $20 for the best jack and the best 10 yoke of working oxen from any one county, to 50 cents for such articles as the best pair of cotton wove stockings or the best pair of woolen fringed mittens. In addition there were many items for which no cash was awarded; just a diploma.

Aside from the exhibits, the principal attraction appears to have been a speech by J. Sterling Morton, then the 27-year-old secretary of the territory.

The fair was not a financial success, and another one was not held until 1869. There were many difficulties in the way of a successful exhibition! The times were hard (the territory had not yet recovered from the disastrous panic of 1857), and many at a distance felt they could not incur the expense of attending. Even if they could have, the two regular steamboat packets—the primary means of transportation were out of commission; one was sunk and the other fast to a sand bar.

Then, as the time for the exhibition grew near, the board of agriculture found it didn't have sufficient money to pay the premiums advertised; therefore, it had to pay off in territorial warrants which, even though they drew 10%, were not received with particular enthusiasm by farmers who had seen paper money become absolutely worthless two years previous. Finally, as the Brownville Advertiser put it, the territory was "in the midst of election excitement, and everybody thinking and talking politics."

Even so, it was a good beginning, and, to quote the Advertiser again, "Taking everything into consideration, we repeat, the result was all the most sanguine friends of the enterprise could expect."

John Luther, 82, died at New-castle August 8, after a heart attack.

Miss Martha Frederick, 75, of Randolph, died Monday last week in Norfolk.

Early Resident of Wayne County
Is Honored Here on Anniversary

Mrs. Emma Baker, resident of Wayne county 60 years, was 91 years old Sunday, August 10, when a number of relatives and friends called. Mrs. Baker received many cards and remembrances through the mail also. Among those here from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Elza Ross of Winnebago, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Shomshor of Scribner, Mr. and Mrs. James Mulvey of Chadron, Mr. and Mrs. Art Herscheid of Winside. Mrs. Emma Baker credits her longevity to regular habits and not worrying about calories. "Be moderate in all things," she advises. Success in any line of endeavor, Mrs. Baker observes, is due to good judgment and common sense. Mrs. Baker's greatest wish is that the world may live in peace. "Good neighbors are precious assets," according to Mrs. Baker who was richly remembered on her anniversary by thoughtful friends.

Mrs. Baker was born August 10, 1856, in Beiltingheim, province of Baden, Germany. She is the last of a family of eight. She came to America at the age of 14 at the request of a sister, Amelia, who arrived five years earlier and who became homeseick. Mrs. Baker lived with her sisters at Lincoln, Ill., and was married there to Wendell Baker. They located in Harlan, Iowa, in 1881, and came to Wayne county in 1888.

Mrs. Baker's greatest pleasure has been caring for nine children. The six who are living are Carl of Sidney, Joe of Presho, S. D., Mrs. Neil Thompson of Dalton, Mrs. Elza Ross of Winnebago, Mrs. Art Herscheid of Winside, and Mrs. Arthur Carson of Lander, Wyo. Wendell, William and Margaret are not living, and Mr. Baker died many years ago.

Mrs. Baker recalls hardships of early days when corn sold for 19 cents a bushel. The family experienced the blizzard of 1888.

Mrs. Baker has been very active and drove a car until she was 89. She had only one severe illness. That was in 1934 when she underwent an operation for appendicitis. As a thanksgiving to God for her complete recovery, she presented an eight-foot bronze crucifix to St. Mary's Catholic cemetery. Mrs. Baker is the eldest living member of St. Mary's parish and she is a faithful attendant at services.

In Rochester Hospital.

A. H. Brinkman who underwent a major operation in Rochester August 2, is improving. Mrs. Brinkman has been with him. Mrs. Art Dranselka and Mrs. Fred Thompson were in Rochester Sunday last week with their parents.

Gets Master's Degree.

Elwin Fletcher of Orchard, former Wayne student, received his master's degree from Greeley, Colo. college. He teaches in Norfolk.

Library News

The inscription on the Archives building in Washington, D. C., says, "What is past is prologue. We can only understand the present in the light of the past. Here books which deal with the struggle of the human race and with its aspirations are of infinite value to all of us."

Harold Lamb who wrote Alexander of Macedonia is a superb story teller. In his new book, A Garden to the Eastward, he has created a strange and truly beautiful novel—the story of two people to whom the war brought only pain and disillusionment, of the ancient bronze winged horse that led them to search for a 7000-year-old civilization beyond the hills of Kurdistan.

Another novel that deals with the past is Storm Center, by J. Walker McSpadden. It is the fictionalized life of Andy Johnson. The author lived as a boy in the little town where Johnson got his start. His novel is the moving and realistic story of one of the dynamic figures in our national life.

Sports fans will enjoy a new book by Gordon Campbell, Famous American Athletes of Today. Included in the volume are the lives of Eddie Arcaro the jockey, Louis Boudreau, baseball's wonder boy, Spud Chandler, Yankee mound ace, Dit Clapper, football pro, Gil

"BIDDING 'EM UP"

WON'T INCREASE THE SUPPLY

AFTER the "Bidder Uppers" have dashed back and forth across the country . . . just remember, they won't have put any more implements into Farmers' hands than would have been supplied without their high priced help.

However, we will continue to be the source of supply for ADDITIONAL REGULARLY PRICED farm machinery. So, don't be misled into buying elsewhere at fancy extra prices. "Bidder Uppers" don't CREATE anything, except inflation.

We want to assist you with your implement problems. We'll have the Parts and Service you need, too. To us, Farmers will be honored and valued friends through the long years to come.
