Thursday, September 18, 1947 Upholds Labor Law Vania congressional district failed in the cleation last week. Republican Candidate Lichtehwalter, who was running to fill a vacancy, was elected by a large majority. He was voutspoken in favor of the law. His defeated opponent campaigned against the law, and he was stoutly supported by the CIO. The election took place in a heavily industrialized area. It is reasonable to ex-pect overwhelming: endorsement of the law in agricultural states like Nebraska. Com-menting, the Noffolk Daily News says among other things: A national poil, taken recently, indicated that while the leaders had peen able to forment opposition to the bill as a whole a majority of the workers questioned endorsed all of the main provisions of the bill except one—the ban on the closed shop—and 48 per cent favored that. Senator Telf pridicts that it he labor bill will not be a principal issue next year—and next of the it area on the bill may decide to drop it like a potato to hot to handle. No modern nation's leadership has

No modern nation's leadership has shown the equal of Russia's in cold-blooded duplicity. It fetes its subjects sumptuously, and then without proved reason chucks any suspicious members into concentration camps. Its tyrant bosses apparently don't try to figure out where the truth begins or ends. The United States is evidently in the way of communist world domination, and so Russia is eyeing this country with thinly disguised threats. That despite contribu-tions made to Russia during and since the war. Why the soviet union wants to force universal rule is not understandable. That that is its ambition is made clear. That its will fail in a conflict with free peoples is also clear. Then deflated power and shrunken territory will be the penalty. But the United States must be on the alert and be prepared. prepared

The Des Moines Register suggests the kind of literary pabulum Russian reporters are fequired to dish out to their home readers. The Register says "If a Russian journalist were to visit the fair he'd cable home a bitter piece about the Americans who were throwing baseballs at a colored journalist man. Of course, nobody was; they were throwing balls at a board which dumped him into a tub of water if they hit it; a wire screen protected him from being hit; he wasn't a colored man anyhow, just a white man in blackface; and the boys throwing, the balls couldn't throw yery straight. But a Russian journalist would cable what Pravda wanted.

Members of the Nebraska delegation in Washington have not been loafing since adjournment of the two houses. Senator Butler has been in Alaska, informing him-self on conditions there. Senator Wherry has been visiting Nebraska towns and get-ting acquainted with popular reactions. Congressman Karl Stefan has just returned from a trip to the Pacific coast where he inspected government installations. The congressman is chairman of the house ap-propriations subcommittee. He is planning to visit points in the Third district before returning to Washington.

The Norfolk Daily News quotes Karl Wilken, Washington economist and busi-ness analyst, as telling livestock men meet-ing in Fremont recently that the cost of Wilken. ing in Fremont recently that the cost of living figured in percentages is no higher than it was in 1922 when farm prices and everything else were down to a low level. Mr. Wilken sags we were spending 20 per cent of our income for food in 1922 and we are spending the same proportion now. This report may tend to ease feelings dis-tressed by present high costs.

Louis Bromfield, columnist, says labor ions suffer most from restrictions impos ed by a socalistic government. This is prov-ing true in England. It is true wherever socialism is in actual practice. Unioners are told when and where to work and how much they are to receive. Union labor should be the last to flirt with the socialis-tic idea.

Not to be outdone by republican candi-lates, President Truman is to be urged by his party leaders to take a swing through western states on his return from Brazil. The president is not uneasy over his nomination, but his supporters have reason to be doubtful of the subsequent election.

Gov. Val Peterson is quoted as express-ing the need of a special session of the legislature to remedy defects in Nebraska's public assistance laws. It would seem any other public matters pressing for attention should be included in the call.

Following sky-high prices, a small drop in hogs, corn and wheat came last week-end. But high prices are caused by abnor-mal buying at home and abroad, and de-mand has been and is unprecedentedly strong. Supply and demand still rule.

 Senator Robert Taft has been speech-making in California to sense political trends in that state. He says he will not de-clde whether he will be a candidate for the manufacture and sense the sense that the sense candidate of the sense that the sense sense that the sense sense sense sense sense that the sense republican presidential nomination until he returns home.

A POSSIBILITY. Gen, Eisenhower and Gen, MacArthur are shying away from a presidential nomina-tion, but both are frequently mentioned and either might be nominated in next year's Phila. delphia convention. With Dew-ey, Taft and Stassen actively in pursuit of the plum, a situa-tion might easily develop to the advantage of drafting one of the two top military men. Gen. Eisenhower has given credit-able public service after a brillaht carcer as leader of war forces in Europe. Gen. Mac-Arthur has won high and de-served praise for the way he has straightened out Japan and led it in obedience to or-derly processes.

SECOND WIND "That Psychic Mystery, Sec-ond Wind" is the caption of an aditorial in the Saturday Eve-ing Post, which urges the re-turn of stamina and the ability to overcome obstacles and turn the desire when things seen turn of stamina and the ability to overcome obstacles and turn back despair when things seem at their worst. "Patience often flags before the existence of these deeper reserves can be proved," says the Post, which explains in conclusion: "The second wind, though usually physical, is by no means always So; we may have spiritual sec-ond and more winds. * * This second wind of physical energy or of spiritual determination wells up from the subconscious in moments of supreme necessi-ty. The objective is always ac-tion of more action. It points ty. Its objective is always ac-tion or more action. It points ahead to a distant vista when perhaps second wind may, be always accessible on the call of, need, not only occasionally and sporadically.
