Conversion of Engine Begins At Light Plant

Will Be Able to Burn Either Oil Or Natural Gas

Conversion of the new city light plant engine to a dual fuel system was begun Monday and may be completed in 10 days to two weeks, the city council was informed at its meeting Tuesday night.

The engine, installed last year, has been capable of burning only diesel fuel up to the present time. When the conversion is completed, it will be able to burn either diesel fuel or natural gas.

Substantial savings in fuel costs are expected to be effected through the use of gas, which will be burned exclusively except in the coldest winter months when gas use may be curtailed.

ACTING FOR the fire department, Fire Chief Paul Rogge requested the council to consider action to eliminate the parking of buses in front of the fire station.

Rogge said that since the busses now are forced to park in the street when stopping at the hotel bus station, it is difficult for a fire truck to turn in either direction when coming out of the fire station.

The council directed the attorney for the city to draw up a resolution creating a no parking zone in front of the Hotel Morrison from the corner of Second and Pearl to a point sufficiently far east to accommodate two busses.

Also, the council approved the appointment of the following officials for the municipal election in April:

First Ward—Herman Sund, Carl Granquist and A. V. Redl, judges; Mrs. Fred Ellis and Mrs. Melvin Russell, clerks.

Second Ward—William E. Elmer Shields and Grace Steele, judges; Mrs. Winona Standley and Hazel Bressler, clerks.

Third Ward—A. E. Gildersleeve, W. R. Ellis and J. C. Andrews, judges; Mrs. Julia Kaas and Mrs. L. A. Fenske, clerks.

Wayne Man, Homesteading in Alaska, Likes Adopted Land

If you're looking for a husband, girls, maybe Alaska is the place to go. There are very few single females in Alaska and the number of eligible men is almost unbelievable.

These are just a few of the interesting things Marvin Smith had to tell a Herald reporter last week. He has been visiting his parents, the Robert Smiths here, since a year and a half spent in Alaska, where he is a homesteader.

Marvin and his "partner," Ira Little of Hawthorne, Calif., have adjoining homesteads of 150 and 160 acres respectively on the Kenai peninsula, about 80 miles southwest of Anchorage and about 100 northwest of Seward.

THEY SECURED the land under the homestead law which offers the sites to anyone who will establish residence. GI's must live there seven months out of the year for one year to establish a claim. Others must pay $1.25 per acre and live there 14 consecutive months, or seven months for three successive years.

Only about 30 acres of Marvin's land is tillable, the rest being covered with timber of a non-commercial size. Eventually he plans to raise potatoes, the principal crop on the area. He would like to start a dairy herd, but transportation problems and the difficulty in securing farm machinery make getting started rather hard. The U.S. army is encouraging dairy farming in that country where there but few good herds, mostly Guernseys and Holsteins. Owners are reluctant to herd with their calves and establishing a herd is quite a problem.

ONE OF the requirements of the homestead law is that each claimant erect a house on his property. Smith and Little have just completed their "houses" which are one-room log cabins, about 12 by 14 feet. They brought the timber across the Kenai river, which is only 75 yards from their cabin site. The lumber for the roofs was transported by toboggan. Until the completion of the cabins, the boys roughed it and lived in a tent. Temperatures there rarely get lower than 40 degrees below zero.

Smith is shown working on the roof of the cabin he has built on the property he is homesteading on the Kenai peninsula, Alaska. He has returned to Alaska after visiting his parents here.

Smith is shown drinking a cup of coffee in front of the tent which was his Alaskan home last year. A chimney oven is inside the tent. The temperature was zero when this picture was taken.

$20,000 Sought For Repair and New Addition

Petition Asks Council to Call Special Election

Wayne residents soon may vote on a proposal for a $20,000 bond issue for the repair and enlargement of the city library.

A petition calling for an election on the proposed bond issue was being circulated this week among the "freeholders, electors and residents" of the city and will be submitted to the mayor and city council when it has been signed by a sufficient number of qualified residents.

Because of legal requirements, the proposal cannot be submitted to the voters at the municipal election in April. A special election will be required.

THE PETITION submits the following proposal: "That the City of Wayne, Nebraska, issue its negotiable bonds of a principal amount of $20,000 to be called 'library bonds' of said city, and to run for not less than 5 years nor more than 20 years from the date of issuance thereof, and draw interest at not to exceed 3 percent per annum, for the purpose of constructing an addition to and improving and repairing the Wayne municipal public library located on lots 11, 12, 13 and 14, in block 8, Crawford and Brown's addition in Wayne, Nebraska; and shall said city levy and collect annually a general tax on all the taxable property therein in an amount sufficient to pay the interest and principal of said bonds as the same mature?"

Little difficulty in obtaining a sufficient number of signers was expected, since only 50 names are required to permit presentation of the petition to the mayor and council.

PUBLIC ACTION to rehabilitate the library was initiated several weeks ago at a meeting of the library board where representatives of several civic organizations met. At that time it was pointed out that termite has caused extensive damage to floors and woodwork, that wiring and lighting are obsolete, that the furnace in the building is no longer large enough to provide library space commensurate with the increase in population since the library was erected and donated to the city in 1912 by the Carnegie Foundation.

WITH ITS GIFT of the library to the city, the responsibility of the library was assumed by the city. In taking over the library, the city also assumed the responsibility of operating and maintaining the institution, and to that end levied the legal annual limit of 15 mills. Money thus derived is used to pay operating costs and leaves no balance for repairs and upkeep.

The proposed $20,000 bond issue would pay for necessary repairs and the construction of an addition to provide more room for book stacks as well as additional reading room.

MEANWHILE, a report just issued by the Nebraska public library commission for the year ending June 30, 1948, showed that the Wayne library had the largest per capita circulation of books and periodicals of any library in the state, with a circulation of 2,501 to 5,000 population.

Largest city in the population range was South Sioux City (4,536 residents) with a per capita circulation of four books, while the Wayne library circulated 11 books per person for a population of 2,719.

It is not necessary to exhibit at the fair to belong to a club, nor is it necessary to spend money to become a member.

Projects available for girls include: food, food and home-making. Projects for boys and girls include yard beautification, gardening, birds, health and others. Projects for boys, in addition to livestock, include crops, soil conservation, weeds, rural electrification, and pony or saddle clubs.

MONTE HALE and LYNNE ROBERTS

REPUBLIC PRODUCTION

The start made in youth and women's work in the church is encouraging, said the speaker. He told the audience that the women in the African villages were also holding a World Day of Prayer service that day.

ONE CAN TELL a Christian native by his attitude toward women, said Rev. House. The Christian helps his wife with the heavy bundles she used to have to carry alone, when she was little more than a beast of burden.

ONE OF the most impressive moments of his career, he said, was when one of the native women came to him after a service and asked for his Bible to replace the charm ring of monkey teeth and tails she had been wearing around her neck, and said that the religion he brought had helped her more than that token of her superstition.

Rev. House exhibited several articles he had brought back with him, among them a pipe purchased with salt, which is a luxury to the African natives.

THE CAMPUS high school triple trio and Mrs. Ralph Carhart sang. The theme of the day, "The Lord is My Keeper," was carried out in devotions which were in charge of Mrs. S. A. Lutgen.

After the 12:30 meal and enlarged on that with a quotation from the book, "Peace of Mind," by Josua Liebman: "Peace of mind... must give us the power to endure anything that may happen to us." She ended with the poem, "Who Else But God."

At 12:30, a business meeting was held to select officers for the Wayne Council of Church Women. Mrs. R. E. Standley, who presided during the day in the absence of Mrs. S. E. Samuelson, was elected president; Mrs. Merle Beckner, vice president; Mrs. Alfred Sydow, secretary; Mrs. V. Wait, treasurer; and Mrs. Charles Heikes, reporter.

Bloomfield's Bees meet South Sioux City and Wayne in the semi-finals of the class B district tournament as a result of Tuesday evening's encounters.

In the first game, Bloomfield routed out Pierce, 34-29. E. Prescott paced Bloomfield with 14 points and Dick Ferris led Pierce with 13 counters.

South Sioux started out slow but hit a hot streak in the third quarter to down Wisner, 37-20. Jorgenson garnered 11 points for the Cardinals while Whitcomb got 6 for the losers.

IN THE FINAL encounter of the evening, the Wayne Blue Devils turned on the steam in the last half to pull away from Coach Lee Otto's Madison hoopers. Madison scored the first point but Fisher came back with a bucket that put Wayne ahead.

The second quarter was a saw-saw affair, and at the half Coach Bailey's boys had obtained a 7-point margin.

From there on out it was Wayne's game with Don Tietgen pouring in 21 points to lead the Wayne scoring. Bill Preuss gathered 14 points to pace the losers.

DICK BALLER, who finally was given a chance to play long enough to show what he could do, turned in the "find" performance of the game. Filling a forward post where Coach Bailey has been desperately short-handed all season, Dick accounted for as many field goals as any others except Tietgen, although he played only a part of the second quarter—and of the second half. One of his free-throw points was nullified when the referee caught Rohlf with a foot in the charity circle.

Although announced at the game that Tietgen scored 21 points, the official scorebook credits him with 23.

ful, and the bear sniffed around a little, probably intending to leave. But when the bear got extra friendly and started to lick the man's face, that was the end. The man struck at the bear and immediately the bear struck back.

By that time the woman had secured help from the village and the bear was killed. The man suffered broken bones and severe bruises.

Estates hunting and fishing for sport, the Alaska does so to secure the greatest share of his meat supply. Moose, black bear, ducks, geese and ptarmigan (a leghorn-like fowl) are the principal game. Dried fruits and vegetables, corn and potatoes are the other main items on the homesteader's menu. He must stock up in the fall with enough to last through the winter.

One of the chief occupations in the village of Kenai is canning salmon. Over large United States canneries maintain canneries there.

To correct the impression that just anyone can go to Alaska and sit down to fish anywhere, Smith explained that each fisherman has a license, and that licenses are bought. Prices for sites range from $600 to $4000 and once he has bought it, it belongs to the fisherman. He can sell it to another, but no one else can fish there commercially without the permission of the owner. This is true of all fishing, except drift and sport fishing, all over Alaska.

ANOTHER misconception concerning Alaska is that "gold can be picked up off the streets." It is true, Smith said, that there is a lot of gold in Alaska, but the sale price of $36 an ounce does not make it profitable for individuals to mine. A few large dredge companies still operate because quantity makes up for the high cost of production.

While speaking of the high cost of mining gold, the Wayne visitor also said that, contrary to public opinion, Alaska is no place to go if you're broke. Prices in the cities there are generally 50 per cent higher for food and clothing.

Cities in Alaska are widely scattered and of much smaller size than in the states. Anchorage is the largest, a completely modern city of 14,000 people. Other important cities are Fairbanks, Juneau, Seward and Nome. Settlers include Whites, Eskimos in the north and Indians in the south central and southeast.

MOST OF THE cities have been cleared up and are no longer the rough, tough places so often pictured in movies and magazine stories. However, Smith points out, there are more liquor stores and bars in every town than any other kind of business.

The greatest complaint of most people in Alaska is that they are being taxed by the U. S. government without having a voice in the congress of the United States. The Alaska territorial government has two delegates in Washington who "sit in on congress, but who can make no suggestions. Alaska pays income and luxury taxes just as we do in the states, but they have no opportunity to vote for recall or replacement. The old cry of the 13 original American colonies fits their cause quite well. "No taxation without representation," said Smith.

ALASKA AS A nation is broke and were congress to establish the nation as a state, part of the state-side capital invested there could be made available for much needed reforms. Schools are in deplorable condition, mainly because of lack of funds, Smith declared. They are understated because of the influx of new settlers, and school houses are widely scattered. The teacher problem is a grave one there, too, because most of the young women who go to teach school marry before the end of the term.

In addition to improving schools, tax money which would be available if Alaska were one of the United States could be used for building and improving roads. There are only a few highways, and but one railroad line. Alaska is a veritable tourist paradise and the tourist trade could bring in a lot of money each year if there were better transportation facilities and tourist accommodations.

AIR TRAVEL in Alaska is very important and there are a number of good air fields. Kenai has the largest auxiliary air field on the entire peninsula.

The communist infiltration in Alaska is not as serious as some congressional committees would have one believe, Smith said. He thinks the United States proper would be in a great deal more danger from Russia than Alaska. Most of the military preparations are secret, but he expressed the belief that if anything, Alaska is "under prepared."

The nearest Russian air base is only a 10-minute flight from Fairbanks and 30 minutes from Anchorage, the two most likely targets.

MARVIN LEFT Wayne Monday for California on the first lap of his trip back home. He will meet his partner there and two will probably make the return trip by car. They plan to work with a construction crew during the summer to get enough money to see them through another winter.

"If I were to sell my homestead now," Marvin said, "I could probably get $3 an acre for it. But I wouldn't sell for $10,000. I like it there."

The state department reports that the number of displaced persons in Europe, which once totaled more than one million has now dwindled to around 600,000. In addition to this number, there are still 14 million expellees in the Western zone of Germany.

The house committee on agriculture continues its hearing on the general subject of price supports. While administration leaders are pressing for flexible supports, it now looks as if the committee will recommend price supports at 90 per cent of parity.

George Washington's birthday was observed here by the reading in the house and the senate of the president's farewell address. The businessmen of Washington put on their regular Washington's birthday sales. People stayed up all night to be the first in the stores to get the bargains. "Limited amounts" of fur coats sold as low as $5 apiece, radios for $1, typewriters 99 cents, shirts 5 cents, etc. Only the first arrivals got the limited amounts of bargain items, but stores disposed of a lot of merchandise which had accumulated over the year. It all started years ago when one merchant sold neckties of various up to $1.50 each for a nickel apiece. Other stores followed suit with the result that Washington's birthday is now better known in the nation's capital as bargain day than as an occasion for honoring our first president.

Many millions of dollars will be spent in "making the White House safe" and also for the purpose of making many changes in the capitol building. If the planners' program goes through, state seals which are now on the ceiling of the House chamber will be removed and "farmed out" to the various states.

Mrs. Lawrence Ring Writes From Paris; Enjoys Aerial Trip Across the Atlantic

Mrs. Lawrence Ring, The Herald's Southwest Waterfield correspondent who now is with the Mary Foster group of midwestern farm women in Europe, writes the following letter to "the folks at home" from Paris, France.

At this stage of our journey we are in the fashion center of the world and, womanlike, the 30 women of our party are noting details especially in that line, as we pass on to other places special things will be emphasized there.

Our trip, commencing at Omaha last Sunday evening (Feb. 20) with a buffet supper at the Fontanelle, has been brought to you by press and radio, I am sure, as at every stop we were greeted by photographers and newspapermen.

WE WERE met with a pouring rain both at Chicago and Cleveland when the plane descended for an hour. Nevertheless, at Chicago we were taken through the commissary where food is prepared for serving passengers on flight on the United Air Lines. The chefs are all Swiss, 14 in number and every little detail is carried out to make meals attractive, appetizing and wholesome.

We sampled them in the air, and they were thoroughly enjoyed by everyone until the landing in London which was made in a deep fog, requiring a certain amount of circling which made several rather sickish looking (and feeling) yes, including your correspondent and Mr. Cowan, our official photographer and reporter.

Because of weather conditions, we were late in taking off at Omaha, bringing us to New York too late to attend Radio City Music Hall or the Fireside Hour, as planned. The Hotel McAlpine was our headquarters there.

AS IT WAS Washington's birthday, all stores were closed, which was a disappointment to those who had hoped to finish their shopping there. A parade came off at 9:30, but it was raining again, so we missed it.

Excitement was at its peak at 4:00 when we took off for Gander, Newfoundland, our first stop. The Lockheed Constellation had the name "Mary Foster" painted in our honor and it was a pleasure well received by the women. Pictures taken here also have been taken at our reception at the airport. Enroute to Gander, an hour out, we were served supper which is typical of meals served by a stewardess, assisted by a purser, on the Pan American airways—tomato juice, Swiss steak, scalloped potatoes, carrots, relishes, salad of tomatoes, asparagus and lettuce, rolls, ice cream and coffee.

TEMPERATURES as reported by the captain, enroute, dropped from 37 degrees at New York to zero at Gander. Here, on a wind-swept field, the airport has been purchased for a song. It was erected by the U. S. for use during the war, and now they collect about $300 when each plane lands. Very generous of the U. S. were awaiting us. Cards were written home—the first on foreign soil—and we were bound for Europe.

Many are familiar with the size and construction of Lockheed's Constellation L-749. For the information of those who are not, this plane is a biplane, burns 320 gallons per hour and, because it does a little better on continuous flight, can remain in the air 18 hours (or a distance of 5,000 miles) without refueling. Our highest altitude was 13,000 feet, flying time 14 hours, and excepting for some freezing mist during the night, conditions were good until we neared England.

OUR CAPTAIN, H. G. Gulbransen, a Norwegian from Great Neck, was born in 1909, is a member of the naval reserve and since 1940 has made 200 round trips for Pan American. Other crew members were co-pilot, first, second and third engineers, navigator, radio officer, purser and stewardess. All were very fine and the night passed quickly, although few slept. Three others on board were flying to London besides the 34 members of our party.

Coffee, cupcakes and sandwiches were served anytime. Our personnel, as you perhaps know, include Mary Foster, of whom we see very little as she meets the press and prepares her broadcasts; Lawrence Youngman of Omaha, who is conducting the tour assisted by his wife Mae, who is only as big as a minute and whom we all love; and Harold Cowan, the reporter already mentioned.

AT LONDON we were joined by Charles Miles of France, who will be with us on the continent as interpreter and to assist with foreign matters. He is a great help to all of us daily.

In London, where we stopped for an hour, Maude, the ground hostess, had coffee and sandwiches, etc., waiting; also a warm welcome from officials and more pictures.

An hour later we were in Paris, the first stopover for any length of time—from Feb. 23 to 28, when we continue on to Italy by way of the Riviera, which is the garden spot of the continent. Also the play spot, if one chooses, as here are found the Casino and Monte Carlo. More about it later.

HERE IN PARIS we are comfortably established at the Hotel Palais d'Orsay, which like to many buildings here, is old and spacious and not too well heated. But we came prepared for such emergencies and so have not suffered.

A bus is at our convenience and a guide named Alex, who is a favorite of all, has conducted us on two tours of the city where the Arch of Triumph, Champs Elysees, Eiffel tower, Napoleon's tomb, the Louvre, Notre Dame cathedral, Invalides and the Latin Quarter were among the places visited.

The city, which is very old, had a population of four million and is divided by the River Seine which flows into the English channel. The people are very proud of their artistic ability and ancestry, and are anxious that it be preserved.

INFLATION and rationing are problems of the day, but everyone seems hopeful and provided for.

Friday morning we enjoyed a meeting which supplied us with information on the Marshall Plan, its benefits and accomplishments. We learned that farmers are definitely on their own in France—no AAA, no soil conservation districts or payments, no extension service, no Future Farmers or 4-H clubs. If limestone or fertilizer is used, the owner must pay for it.

The last speaker, explaining how American tourists can help European recovery, stated that our money spent here goes to buy tractors and fuel from America. They are hoping for 50,000 Americans to visit France and the countries under the Marshall Plan each year, pumping 2 to 2½ million dollars into European recovery. In turn, these should spread the word so that others might go to see how our money (Marshall Plan) is being spent.

FOLLOWING THIS, a reception at the C.G.A. (French Farm Bureau) included the showing of movies made as we landed in Paris.

Friday afternoon our bus took us to country homes near Meaux, 10 miles east of the city, where we were guests in farm homes. The agricultural society had a welcome prepared in which we were sincerely thanked for what our boys did for their country during the two wars, as well as the present financial assistance.

Enroute, the bus stopped to show us a market where the Germans were stopped before reaching Paris in World War I. Outside Meaux is a large statue on a beautiful hill, erected by the American people in gratitude for the endurance and bravery of the French people during the conflict.

On the River Marne, Verdun and Chateau Thierry are in the near vicinity, and we were on the same ground our sons and brothers defended in World War I.

My host and hostess, with four children, were so kind and patient in answering the numberless questions I needed to have answered. Their home was built in 1856, had 16 rooms, 9 fireplaces and was modernized in 1933. The farm was composed of 550 acres, growing wheat, oats, beets, potatoes and forage crops. Thirty men are employed there, and naturally everything was spick and span.

Holstein cows and Chester White hogs, very sleek and fat, were in the barns together with 10 horses and all kinds of poultry.

THE CITY is on the River Marne, pointing to Peoria, Ill., and asked me if I live near there; then to a John Deere tractor. My host said "B'ph very good—much better than French."

But he finds it hard to get parts for the tractors, which is a worry as the planting season is near. Plowing is beginning, early flowers are in bloom and the grass is green.

Can hardly remember that our Midwest is under drifts of snow, as we have seen very little since leaving there.

Tonight Mrs. Jewett, a rancher's wife from South Dakota, and I came home from downtown Paris alone, and we were pretty proud of our French. More as we go along.

Prep Discusses Hobby Center

The Wayne Prep student council conducted a survey last week among the students and parents to learn of their interest in a hobby center in Wayne. The survey was taken at request of the American Association of University Women, who would organize the center.

Harriet Phipps, student council president, spoke to the assembled high school Tuesday, March 2, to explain the project and ask the cooperation of all students to make the survey successful.

The AAUW is interested in organizing a hobby center for the young people and their parents of Wayne and the surrounding area. The center would be open at a time convenient to all, and a trained leader would be on hand to instruct the people in their favorite hobbies.

Some hobbies suggested were dancing, painting, dramatics, leather work, wood carving, knitting, stamp collecting and flower raising.

Questionnaires passed out attempted to find how many were interested in the hobby center, what times would be most convenient for students and parents to attend the center, and what hobbies were of interest to students and parents.

All questionnaires were to be handed to Harriet Phipps, Donna, both dressers or Mr. Hassel by Monday, March 7.

THE STUDENTS at Wayne Prep were all excited about the class D district tournament at least a week before it started. Students of the entire school were asked to help with selling concessions. Tournament books containing names and numbers of the players and the school colors went on sale Tuesday, March 1. Season tickets were also being sold Tuesday.

Members of the Pep club made signs with the names of all the teams to put up in the gymnasium, designating where the various Pep clubs should sit.

A skill was presented at the pep assembly Thursday, March 3, in line with preparation for special pep assemblies planned by the Pep club. The skit depicted Madam Marian, mystic medium of the past, present and future, reviewing Prep's record during the basketball season. The making favorable predictions for their success at the tournament.

THAT THERE are no vital differences in men and no one race is smarter or stronger than another was the thought expressed in the film, "Brotherhood of Man," which was seen by the American government class Tuesday, March 1.

The film brought out the fact that the only things which distinguish men are color of the skin and the characteristic features. The student teacher for the class is Don Leonard, and the supervisor is C. V. Wait.

THE FILM, "Tale of Two Cities," was shown to the 10th grade English class March 1. The film was shown in connection with the class study of the novel by Dickens. The movie brought out the severe conditions in France which brought on the French revolution, the dress of the French, and the manner in which the middle class took over France.

The background of the French revolution is well presented in the movie, according to Frances Phillips, class supervisor, but the story itself is not so satisfactory as it is in the book. The film is a condensation of a movie made several years ago.

Can I bring Freddie for supper?

A small boy's enthusiasm—"gee, I'd give a millyun dollars"—shows why you can't put a human value on a common-place phone call like this—worth so much but costing so little. How, then in a matter-of-fact dollars-and-cents way, should telephone service be priced?

Putting in telephone plant takes thousands upon thousands of hand-soldered connections and of investors' dollars. Investors expect their money to earn a reasonable dividend. It will if the price you pay for service meets what the service costs, plus a little more for earnings. We want no more than that, but that we do need if telephone service is to hold its own and improve.

Your telephone is worth more than it costs

by—
Mrs. F. A. Milder
City Librarian

SIGNS OF SPRING are to be seen around the library. No, we haven't seen any robins and we do not have a new spring wardrobe but we do have some new books on home decoration. What woman doesn't have the urge to do over her home this spring after being cooped up there most of the winter? You will love these books because they are full of pictures and practical suggestions that you can carry out in your own home no matter what your problem may be. One is called the "Complete Book of Home Decoration." It is a large book which costs $7.00 and you probably don't want to spend that amount on a book but you will want to borrow it at the library. The other book is interesting also but not put up so nicely although it has some good suggestions. It is Mademoiselle's "Home Planning Scrapbook."

WIFE LEAVES! GUILD selection for March is here. This time instead of washing and darning, I am more inclined to say, "so what." The title of it is "The Heat of the Day" and the author, Elizabeth Bowen, who is English—very English. The critics are raving this book very highly, and far be it from me to place my opinion above theirs for they should know more about such things than a small town librarian, but I thought it was a good book to look- ing at some of the modern art. It left me quiver- ing and wondering if I just didn't know my stuff or wasn't quite taken in by something the author was trying to put over on the public. There is nothing in the book which will make the readers go for it on account of questionable subject matter, but after reading it you are not quite sure what you have read. As I said, it is a very good book when you look at modern painting and the way the artist does what you are looking at some times. I have admitted that the critics do not agree with me and maybe you won't either so if you read it, let's talk it over, shall we?

ALCOHOLICS ANONYMOUS members, relatives or friends of members, or prospective members will be interested in a new book by Joseph Hirsch. The title is "The Problem Drinker." The author is the executive director of the Research Council on the Problems of Alcohol and has written an amazingly clear-headed and penetrating book about alcohol and the problem drinker. It is a helpful and honest book which attacks sensational nonsense and mis- guided moralizing to concentrate on the facts and solutions of a problem that has great and growing importance for society as a whole.

TWO AND ONE-QUARTER TONS OF BOOKS. That is the load we distribute monthly at the library.

Sacred Heart Wins Class D Tournament

Leland House class D playoff held in the college gym Saturday night went to Norfolk's Sacred Heart five as they trampled the Wayne Prep Panthers, 42 to 35, in a see-saw game.

Consolation honors were carried away by Homer's basketballers, who defeated Hubbard, 51 to 41, in a slayer opening game.

In the first round of play Wednesday evening, Waterbury forfeited to Hoskins.

DAKOTA CITY romped over Dixon 57-23. Concord outscored Jackson 55-16, for the right to play Wayne Prep in the quarter-finals, and Hubbard swamped Thurston, 41-13.

The following night Homer staved off a late Hoskins rally to top their game, 59-49. Sacred Heart defeated Dakota City, 38-21; Hubbard upset the two-go Indians, 35-31, and Wayne Prep ran away with Concord, 55-25.

Gene Fredrickson garnered 14 points to top Prep's scoring.

Winners of the two brackets met Friday night to determine the finalists.

IN THE FIRST game the Sacred Heart Knights defeated Homer, 35-21, in the most exciting game of the tournament. In the following game, Wayne Prep had a torrid scoring spree in the first quarter and went on to win for the right to meet Sacred Heart of Norfolk in the finals the following night.

Saturday night, Hubbard and Homer battled it out for consolation honors and Homer ended up the winner by the score of 51-41.

Wayne Prep and Sacred Heart met in a hotly contested championship game. Prep jumped to an early lead but by half-time Sacred Heart had a 10 point lead which they never relinquished.

WAYNE PREP made a determined last half rally but fell short as Sacred Heart's superior height began to show up as the game progressed. When the smoke had cleared, the scoreboard read Sacred Heart 42, Wayne Prep 35, thereby giving Sacred Heart the right to go to the regional tournament.

Harley S. Tuttleman, Sacred Heart's skyscraper center, scored 18 points for the champions while Wayne Prep's high scoring center, Thompson, led his team with 17 points.

Coach Fred Letheby's Sacred Heart team will attempt to continue their win streak this Wednesday and Thursday night at Pierre when they compete with district winners, McLean, Orchard and Wood Lake.

John Sherlock had a close decision over Ernie Rzepecki in the 150 pound class. Paul Hartnett took a hard fought decision from Bob Longtime in the 165 pound weight division. Art Jensen and Leroy Anderson fought a long third round in the heavyweight class, with Anderson winning a close decision.

Make that water walk downhill

IT doesn't take a "gully-washer" or a "goose dropper" to rob you of your precious topsoil. Bare land, up-and-down-hill row crops, and over-grazed range all invite rain to escape without working for you—and to erode your topsoil away. But sod or cover crops act like a blotter to absorb and hold the growth-giving water. Slopes and hillsides tilled on the contour, with alternating strips of crop-land and grass, save maximum amounts of water, hold erosion to a minimum. Flatter fields may be subsurface-tilled to keep the protective rain-absorbing trash on top. Correct rotations of crops, which include plow-under crops, will help absorb and hold moisture.

You need lots of water. It takes about 200 barrels of water to grow one bushel of corn. That's around 625,000 gallons for every 100 bushels. And most other growing plants also require large amounts of moisture. . . . You can't control the amount of rainfall you get. But you can conserve it, so that every drop does the best possible job of making grass or crops for you.

As farmers and ranchers in every state well know, water has a "split personality." It can be your ally, or a devastating foe. Lashing rains can erode away inches of fertile topsoil in a short time. But it takes nature 300 to 1,000 years to rebuild each lost inch. That's why the control of water is so important in a good land management program. Considerable progress in erosion control has been made in the past ten years. But we've still got a long way to go! Hundreds of millions of productive acres are endangered by erosion and gullying. They're washing away! Only good land management can save our soil and keep America strong. It will pay you—and all of us—to make that water walk downhill.

OUR CITY COUSIN Soda Bill Sez: The fellow who rolls up his sleeves seldom loses his shirt. . . . See the lambs gambol! City Cousin turns pale, For back in his city they put gamblers in jail!

A System that Works! I get riled up when I hear talk of changing our system of government, or our system of doing business, here in America. Sure, there's always room for improvement. But you can improve a house without wrecking the building! Any system that produces worthwhile results must be a pretty good one. I think our way of doing things has worked out mighty well for Americans. Here we are—about 6% of the world's population, living on less than 6% of the world's land. Yet, through what I like to call our "three I's"—Initiative, Ingenuity and Industry—we have created the American way of life. We enjoy greater freedoms than the other 94% of the world's people. We have educational opportunities for all . . . schools, colleges, universities, libraries. And 48% of the world's radios. As just one measure of personal comfort and convenience, we have 92% of the world's bathtubs. We have a motor vehicle for every four people. And more than 286,000 miles of paved roads for them to run on. Most important of all, thanks to your system of agricultural production, we have plenty of food for all of us—and enough to help feed our less fortunate neighbors. Yes, I think it's worth getting riled up in favor of the American System now and again.

Know Your Faculty

Wayne isn't really so hilly after all," was a comment made by Arthur Loobey, recent addition to the Wayne college faculty. Mr. Loobey clarified his statement a moment later by explaining that upon arrival in early February, he was under the impression that the many snow drifts were actually hills. And the Wayne area in comparison to Mr. Loobey's home town of St. Louis, Mo., does show the effect of the weather.

MR. LOOBEY, supervisor of seventh and eighth grades at the campus high school, is a January graduate of the University of Missouri at Columbia, Mo., with a B.S. and master's degree in education.

After completing his high school work in St. Louis, Mr. Loobey worked as draftsman with the Missouri Shipbuilding Co. of St. Louis.

A start at Missouri university was interrupted for a three-year period when he served with the armed services.

SINCE ARRIVING in Wayne and assuming his supervising duties, Mr. Loobey has been busy becoming accustomed to the routine of the campus school. Change of semesters and the ensuing turmoil that accompanies each change caught the new instructor at its height. A month of routine has arranged things in their proper perspective for Wayne State's new representative.

Mr. Loobey believes the teaching facilities at Wayne are more commodious than those at Missouri, though not quite as modern. In connection with methods, he stated that though every school has its own system of teacher training, Wayne's training system is very similar to that of Missouri's.
