'Fronting' for O Street

Vigorous opposition to the normal school liberal arts bill has become an almost daily feature of the editorial columns of Lincoln newspapers. Playing their role as "front" for the capital city's O street gang, these newspapers have loosed attack after attack, sometimes almost vicious in nature, on one of the most forward looking pieces of legislation to be introduced in the present session of the unicameral.

The Herald believes that no worthwhile purpose can be served by becoming involved in a word battle with the Lincoln newspapers, but it also believes that certain facts should be pointed out.

The Lincoln Journal has consistently declared that a liberal arts program for the normal schools will result in heavy additional costs to Nebraska taxpayers. Editor Ray McConnell, jr., points out that the normal schools are asking increased appropriations, but misconstrues this request for more money to mean that the schools need it to finance a liberal arts program. Poppycock. Indeed, the teachers colleges have requested larger appropriations—to cover existing higher costs. So has the state university asked a vastly increased appropriation.

The point we want to make is this: Costs of operating the teachers colleges will not be higher because of the addition of a liberal arts program. The teachers colleges already are liberal arts colleges in all but name and the authority to grant the degrees. They already have fully qualified faculties and are giving all the necessary courses. They need only the right to grant the degrees—not new faculties and expanded curriculums.

In a telegram to The Herald editor Monday, Mr. Connell asked if this writer would "favor legislation withholding action until proven by impartial study that colleges could offer B.A. degrees and be accredited without adding courses or faculty." This, too, is nonsense. The four state teachers colleges already are accredited by the North Central Teachers association. No further study of this point should be necessary.

There is no reason why action on this important matter should be delayed on these grounds.

The Herald is thoroughly convinced that the primary aim of the normal schools, even if they are granted liberal arts programs, will be to educate young men and women for important posts in the teaching field, with the added service of offering liberal arts degrees to those students who want, but might not otherwise be able to obtain, liberal arts degrees. Passage of the bill will provide richer and more convenient college facilities for the youth of all Nebraska.

This is legislation for the future, a future in which education will be increasingly important to young men and women.

Lincoln doesn't want the normal schools to have liberal arts authority, but the people living outstate are interested in this opportunity to provide their children with new educational services at conveniently located, easily accessible schools—schools already in a position to offer expanded service with present facilities.

For Liberal Arts Bill

(J. Hyde Sweet in Nebraska City News Press)

As a member of the normal board, I would oppose any new appropriations to put the liberal arts plan (to make the teachers colleges into liberal arts colleges) into effect. If we cannot do it with existing facilities and faculties, it would be as strongly against the proposal as are Senator Anderson, who represents the university in the legislature, or Senator Metzger of Cass county, who seems to have an obsession that it will cost too much.

We Do Learn a Little

(Omaha Journal-Stockman)

The catch-phrase philosopher is often heard, in times of falling markets, quoting that little tidbit "they'll never learn." But at least one little news item seems to give the lie to that statement. Business loans in a recent week dropped the unprecedented amount of $277,000,000, continuing a trend that has been going along steadily since Christmas. Federal Reserve reports indicate that the volume of commercial, industrial and agricultural loans outstanding has dropped over a billion dollars since December 22.

It seems apparent to economists that business men are trying to avoid one of the prime causes of the last major depression: Building up of inventories that it may be impossible to sell at the going price, with the resulting calling of loans and forced sales at sacrifice prices.

So, perhaps we do learn a little by studying past performances, learning to apply the brakes a little sooner, slow down more gradually, and avoid that sudden, screeching halt that often does as much damage as if we had pressed on the accelerator.

IN BOOKLAND

by Mrs. F. A. Mildner
 City Librarian

DON'T FORGET TO VOTE FOR YOUR LIBRARY MAY 10TH.

We once read a definition for a pamphlet file. It was a convenient place to file things that you don't know what else to do with. We need a few more pamphlet files around our library because we certainly have a great deal of material we don't know what to do with. The only bad part about that is that we wouldn't know what to do with the pamphlet files either. We aren't chewing our nails and gnashing our teeth over the problem this spring as we have in the past, for we have hopes now that by this time next year we will have more room when we get that nice new addition which everyone is going to vote for on May 10.

IT DIDN'T HAPPEN HERE BUT IT COULD HAVE. The librarian at Raleigh, N. C., called a patron a few days ago and asked, "Do you want 'The Naked and the Dead'?" only to be greeted by a minute or more of dead silence at the other end of the line. Finally she said, "I'm talking about the book." But it was after she realized she had called the patron at his business address—a funeral home.

JUST THE KIND OF SPRING READING YOU WANT is what we have placed on the rental shelf this week. The Literary Guild book for April is "Fannie Avenue," by Arthur Meecker, a charming tale of Chicago, wistful and great. . . . "The 1917," "And Then You Came," by Ann Bridge is a most unusual story of the Scottish Highlands. . . . It might be called a semi-mystery; "England to Me," by Emily Hahn, the witty and lightly caustic, fearless American lady who wrote of her life in China and is now telling of her adventures in setting up housekeeping in England. . . . "The Beloved Woman," by Nancy Krupp, a touching story, beautifully told, of what happens when a strange man wrote a letter to a lonely girl, and the cultural trap in which they are caught because of his color; And then there is "Aunt Bel," by Guy McGrone who wrote "Red Flush." This is also a story of Scotland which is written with humor and in a style which will be more popular than his earlier novel, besides these of course we have another new mystery and this one is by Rex Stout and he disposes of three murderers in "Trouble in Triplicate."

Teaching rural school in Michigan occupied her time for the next nine years after which she expanded her teaching territory to include Kentucky, Tennessee and Louisiana. Elementary and secondary school teaching came next in order. Miss Way entered the Wayne college school system in 1947 as supervisor of the seventh and eighth grades at the campus high school. The following year she undertook the duties of supervisor of rural education at the college. . . . MISS WAY plans a thoroughly interesting summer and has been working out final details. A 3,500-mile bus tour for Elott county rural teachers is the basis for this summer's work. She will conduct the group through the Black Hills, Yellowstone National Park, down to the Grand Canyon, then back up to Pike's Peak in Colorado and back to Nebraska. A day of testing will follow to ascertain if credit will be given for the course in geography. . . . All of which adds up to an interesting and worthwhile expenditure of a summer vacation for all concerned and for a full amount of integrity displayed by Miss Way in planning and carrying out the tour. . . . WHEN QUESTIONED about methods of improving Nebraska's secondary schooling system, she explained that from what she had seen of secondary schools in Nebraska, consolidation is an answer to many of the smaller school ills. Modifications will have to be made to meet the needs of each school unit. A mass inclusion of consolidation won't work, and she gave Oregon as an example of a state which met with difficulties by attempting to consolidate without modifying their rules. . . . In telling of her diversions, she put hunting and fishing at the top of the list. . . . Everyday living is a joy to Miss Way, who receives and returns the zest for living to all who know her.

ITS THE "EXTRA" IN THE OIL THAT GIVES YOU EXTRA PROTECTION

Ordinary motor oils alone aren't tough enough to meet the challenge of modern engines and present-day driving conditions. It takes an "extra" to provide the complete lubrication protection needed.

Here is What EXTRINOL Does

Extrinol is the name of the complex chemicals which now are added to D-X Motor Oil. Extrinol makes D-X—long famous as a top quality, high heat-resisting, paraffin base motor oil—safer, tougher, longer lasting more economical to use.

Extrinol helps clean your motor and helps keep it clean, so it can deliver more power. Extrinol protects your bearings against rusting, pitting and wear. It fights oil-eating sludge. D-X Motor Oil, now with Extrinol, gives you better lubrication and extra protection—at no extra cost!

City School Opens 'S.O.S.' Campaign

Wayne city school children have organized a club intended to keep youngsters on the sidewalks and off the lawns. The following essays on the S.O.S. campaign were written by pupils of the school:

THE WAYNE city school is having a campaign called the SOS club. The letters SOS mean "Stay on the Sidewalks."

The idea is to have the children keep off the grass. The grass is coming through now and we don't want it trampled down.

Mr. Lee's class made signs out of wood. The sixth grade painted them white with the black letters SOS on them. The fifth grade made a poster for the first floor hall to remind the children to stay on the sidewalk. If a school child sees another child from this school on the grass, they notify their teachers and they get a black mark. If the children have no black marks at the end of the week, they get a gold star on the room chart. If the children have no marks at the end of the year, he or she gets an award and their names on the large SOS sign in the hall.

We have officers at the four corners of the school house to watch the children as they go home from school.

The people who see children cross their lawns and know the child's name are asked to call the office and report to Mr. Baller or the office girls.

The children and teachers have worked hard on this campaign. We hope other children and adults will help us also by staying off the lawns.—Gloria Pfeil

THE CLUB, SOS, meaning "Stay on Sidewalks," has been started at the Wayne city school. Every child should stay on the sidewalk. This is to protect our lawns.

Posters have been made in every room. Posters have been placed at every door saying SOS to remind the children to stay on the sidewalk.

The sixth grade has made signs saying SOS to be put on the lawns. Every time a person goes off the sidewalk a black mark will be placed by his name.

Officers have been chosen from every class to watch the lawns. At the end of a week if a child does not have a mark after his name, he will receive a gold star. At the end of a year the child does not have any marks they are awarded.

If you hear a child call "SOS" at you remember what that means. If any of the townspeople see a person crossing their lawn, call the school.

We hope the townspeople will cooperate in this campaign of protecting the lawn. We went to especially thank Mr. Lee and his class for making the wooden signs.—Bobby Sieckman.

THE WAYNE city school is carrying out the campaign of SOS, which means "Stay on the Sidewalk."

The children of the first grade through the fifth grade are making posters to put in each room to warn the children to stay off the grass.

The sixth grade and Mr. Lee have made signs to put in people's yards to warn children, too.

In each grade they have posters with each child's name on them. If a child is caught trespassing on the grass he gets a black mark after his name. At the end of the year if a child has any black marks after his name, he gets his name on the poster in the hall and also receives an award.

The teachers have worked very hard on this idea and so have the children and they hope that everyone will get a good example by staying off the grass.—Gary Goley.

THE WAYNE high school is having an SOS club. SOS means "Stay on Sidewalk."

The grade children are having it. The children of the sixth grade made signs of white and black with SOS on them.

In every room there is a poster where the children of that class have their names. A black mark behind your name means you have walked on the grass. If they don't have any black marks behind their names they get a gold star each week. At the end of the year they will be given if they have no black marks after their names.

We hope the adults will cooperate. They have officers to watch so the children don't go on the grass. Mr. Lee made the signs for us.—Jimmy Marsh.

THE grade of Wayne city school is starting an SOS club. SOS stands for "Stay on Sidewalk."

In each room there will be a poster. The poster will be a score sheet. Each person reported running or walking on grass gets a black mark after his name. At the end of a week he gets a star if he has no blacks. At the end of the year if you have no black marks, you get your name on the big poster in the hall.

The fifth grade made the poster for the hall. The sixth grade painted the signs that were made by Mr. Lee. They are white with black letters on them. The signs read SOS. They will be placed on the most trespassed lawns.

If you see anyone walking across a lawn call the office. We hope you will cooperate.—Steve Pawelski.

SOS MEANS "Stay on Sidewalks." The club was started because the children ran across lawns coming to school. This club is from the kindergarten through the sixth grade.

Each grade has a chart and at the end of a week if you don't have any black marks you get a gold star. You get black marks when you go on anybody's lawn. If you don't have any black marks at the end of the year you get your name in the big chart in the hall.

The sixth grade is making 10 signs to put on people's lawns. Mr. Lee's class made the signs for the sixth grade. I hope all grown-ups will cooperate. If you find any child going across your lawn notify Mr. Baller.—Neil Palmer.

EIGHTH GRADE—The following pupils were neither absent nor tardy during the past six weeks: Doris Skeahan, Billy Palmer, Gary Jeffrey, Jim Henegar, Donald Fiedler and Jim Akker.

Eight students made the honor roll this six weeks: Mary Eining, 1.0; Barbara Ellis, 1.0; Patty Jeffrey, 1.3; Doris Skeahan, 1.5; Billy Palmer, 1.6; Betsy Ross, 1.6; Jim Burr Davis, 1.8; and Shirley McCormick, 1.8.

Highest scores in seventh arithmetic process tests were made by Bob Baller, Gloria Ahlvers, Wilma Temme and Joan Pawelski.

Highest scores in eighth arithmetic process tests were made by Patty Jeffrey, Barbara Ellis and Charles Price.

SIXTH GRADE—Larry Bales, Gary Goley, Jack Lennart, Neil Palmer, Richard Paulson, Stanley Ulrich and Billy Jim, Wagner all had perfect attendance the past six weeks.

Norriene Olson has been ill the past two weeks with mumps. Members of the sixth grade painted SOS signs (Stay on Sidewalks) for the campaign of having boys and girls avoid walking on lawns coming and going to school or at any other time. The grade boys and girls are individual patrolmen to remind anyone who trespasses on anyone's lawn, by calling SOS.

Perfect scores in spelling mastery test were earned by Larry Bales, Ronald Brindley, Della Gilbert, Jack Lennart, Jim Marsh, Paul Otte, Neil Palmer, Gloria Pfeil, Leland Reibold, Helen Shuffert, Kathryn Stammer, Billy Jim Wagner and Lavonne Nickols.

THIRD GRADE—Third graders and their teacher were happily surprised on Thursday before Easter when they received a package from Mrs. Ralph Sellhorn of Brenton, Wash. The package contained a candy Easter egg for each child. On Tuesday the children wrote thank you letters to Sellhorn, their former second grade teacher.

Herbert Morey celebrated his birthday with a party at school on Thursday.

Willard Wiltse visited the class on Wednesday.

Lois Barelman Writes of Recent Trip to Berchtesgaden

Lois Barelman writes the following experiences to the Al Johnson family in a letter received last week. Miss Barelman is with the Lutheran World Federation organization in Frankfurt, Germany.

"TODAY HAS BEEN a busy day, as all my days are, but this one especially so because I was the only one in the resettlement office. We had a staff conference in Berchtesgaden this weekend. I went down to Munich for a spiritual ministry meeting Friday and then we drove to Berchtesgaden. When I left Frankfurt the weather was perfect, a lovely spring day. When I arrived in Munich, I had a straight south of here, nine hours by train, it was snowing and when we got to Berchtesgaden, we were in a blizzard.

"As you know, Berchtesgaden is the place where Hitler had his Eagle's nest and also his home, as he called it. It is quite a resort now, situated in the valley of the Bavarian Alps. I thought the mountains in Virginia were pretty, but they were nothing compared to the Alps. It looks just like the setting in 'Hindi'. The Bavarians all wear leather knee breeches, green hats with feathers, and carry knapsacks on their backs. The houses are of the Swiss chalet type. Berchtesgaden is a tiny village with a mountain stream running through it and it has very narrow winding streets. People drive their cattle right through the streets and almost everyone rides a bicycle. It's about as picturesque and quaint as anyone could find.

"WE STAYED in a DP camp right on the edge of the village and were surrounded by these beautiful mountains. We slept on army cots in unheated rooms and had no hot water. It is a typical DP camp, although the people told me it is considered one of the best.

"I met people from all over Europe, almost, who are now living in Germany because of the communists in their own countries. Most of them have been under the heel of either German military men or communists for about the last six or seven years. Now they have been in Germany for four years and they can't go back to their homes if they still have any. They don't write to their people there for the sake of their safety. They can live on the German economy because Germany has all she can do to take care of her own people, in even an inadequate manner. So they have nothing to do but go to another country. Most of them wish to go to the United States or Canada. We have 16,000 registered in our office and so far have sent over about 500, so you can see what a tremendous job it is."

double ring service before an altar banked with palms and Easter lilies. Bernard Friedrichson of Bennington, accompanied by Carl Fuhrman at the organ, sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Howard Carrico of Kearney escorted his sister to the altar. The bride was gowned in white satin, fashioned in a Martha Washington design. The bodice was styled with long tapering sleeves and the skirt fell into a bustle and ruffled center back. A white satin rose tiera held her double illusion veil. She wore a pearl necklace, a gift of the bridegroom, and carried an orchid on a white Bible.

Miss Ramona Meyer of Columbus was maid of honor. She was attired in an orchid net gown with a high neckline and ruffie-trimmed bodice and skirt. She wore a matching net hat and carried a colonial bouquet tied with yellow ribbons.

The bridesmaid, Miss Beverly Carrico of Kearney, niece of the bride, wore a pastel green taffeta dress fashioned with a square neckline and bustle skirt. Her hat was of matching green and her colonial bouquet was tied with orchid ribbons. White elbow length gloves completed the attendant's attire.

Karen Kohler of Norfolk, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She was gowned in a yellow taffeta formal with matching hat and carried a basket of flowers. Leslie Joe Carrico of Kearney, nephew of the bride, was ringbearer. He carried the rings on a satin pillow. Stuart Nelson of Pilger attended his cousin as best man. Ushers were Lyle Bare of Pilger, Delmer Deerson, Fremont and Joe Carrico, Norfolk, brother of the bride. Mothers of the couple wore navy blue dresses and pink rose corsages.

A reception for 150 guests was held in the church parlors, which were decorated in the bride's colors of orchid, green and yellow, accented with tapers and Easter lilies. Centerpieces on the tables were a double heart-shaped three-tiered cake, baked by the bridegroom's mother.

Presiding at the serving table were Mrs. Everett Kohler of Norfolk and Miss Hazel Dieckrick of Omaha. The bride's attendants were Miss Anita Chittenden of Norfolk, Miss Esther Gupner, Norfolk, had charge of the guest book and Miss Evonne Carrico, Norfolk, the gifts. Mrs. Emory Jones, Mrs. Frank Marshall, Mrs. N. S. Pedersen and Mrs. George Ulrich, all of Norfolk, were in charge of the preparations.

For traveling, the bride chose navy blue two-piece dress with white accessories.

The couple will reside in Lincoln where the bridegroom is a senior at the University of Nebraska.

New Teacher Law Explained

In a recent letter to County Supt. Marie Wright, the state department of education submitted the following information on the new certification law:

"The Nebraska state legislature recently passed a law which will affect future candidates for third grade elementary certificates. The law, in all probability, will become effective on or about Sept. 1, 1949.

"ANY CANDIDATE for the three-year third grade elementary certificate who completes the present requirements including normal training or 12 hours of college, plus the passing of the state teachers' examination) and who makes application for the certificate before Sept. 1, 1949, may receive the three-year certificate under the old law. Present normal training seniors are expected to qualify for the three-year certificate in this way. Those who cannot qualify for the certificate by Sept. 1, 1949, may earn the new one-year third grade elementary certificate by carrying over the hours and being recommended for the certificate by the college.

"Following the effective date of the new law, candidates who complete the requirements for the third grade elementary certificate according to this law will be issued one-year certificates upon the recommendation of the high school or college involved. Present normal training juniors will find it necessary to qualify under the new law.

"THE STATE teachers' examinations will be held as scheduled on May 7 and July 16. Candidates who cannot complete the requirements for the three-year certificate before Sept. 1, 1949, will not be required to earn grades in state teachers' examinations. This provision applies primarily to those candidates who are not at present enrolled in the 11th grade in high

Start Pioneer Practice Today

Wayne's first Pioneer practice session of the 1949 season will be held Thursday evening (tonight). Any men interested in playing for the Wayne team are directed to try out at that time.

Several players have already declared their intentions of playing here this summer. Charles Klimek will head the coaching staff with Jim Hartly, a young Sioux Cityan with an excellent record, and Mike Enyon, a veteran Pioneer hurler, also scheduled to throw.

Vernon Harder, LeRoy Griesch and Al Bahe have also agreed to play with Wayne.

Earl Akeron, former Wayne resident who is now coaching at Audubon, Ia., is considering the managerial post.

Pi Page, first baseman for several seasons, must be released by the Wisner club before he is eligible to participate here.

Other players are being considered, but local boys will have first chance at the remaining positions. A few practice periods should show what is available locally.

First league game of the season is Wisner May 22.

The baseball organization will make its drive for funds to support the team next week.

CONVENIENCE AND BEAUTY IS THE MOTIF OF THIS CONCRETE FARM HOME

The farm home is not only a social center, it is the family workshop as well. And it gets hard usage. This six-room concrete masonry home will stand up under daily wear and tear, and yet retain its beauty at small upkeep cost.

On the first floor, a spacious living room opens onto three large bedrooms, the bath, dining room and kitchen. Time spent in meal preparation is cut sharply with conveniently arranged built-in wall cupboards and counters.

The bathroom is centrally located to all three bedrooms. Cross ventilation in the two end bedrooms helps to assure a night of restful sleep even during the hottest summer weather. And there's the closet space aplenty, too.

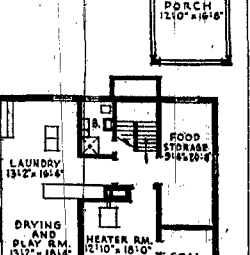

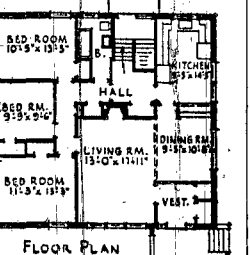

The basement combines features most looked for by farm wives. The laundry with its built-in sorting table, clothes chute and laundry tray makes quick work of the week's washing. Produce and homemade preserves can be conveniently stored in the food storage room. The menfolk need not track up clean floors since there is a handy shower in the basement.

This all-concrete farm home is designed for comfort and peace of mind. It combines fireproofing and cleanliness with durability and economy. It is compact yet provides ample space for real living.

The concrete masonry walls are insulated to protect the house from wintry blasts and keep it comfortably cool during the summer. The cast-in-place concrete floors are supported by precast concrete joists. The floors will not sag. Doors and windows won't jam. Any number of popular floor coverings can be applied to the concrete subfloor, or the surface can be left exposed as it is.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture architects and home economists, after making on-the-farm studies to learn exactly what is needed in a farm home, designed these made-to-order plans in cooperation with representatives of the state agricultural colleges of the Northeastern Region.

You can get complete working plans of this house from the Extension Service of many of the state agricultural colleges at a nominal cost. Ask for plan No. 7027. If your state extension service does not have the plans, information as to where they may be obtained can be had by writing to the Division of Farm Buildings and Rural Housing, Bureau of Plant Industry, Soils and Agricultural Engineering, Beltsville, Md.

Symbols are comfortable to live with

We cannot get away from symbolism. We shouldn't even try. Much as calories nourish and vitamins fortify the body, symbols feed and stimulate the mind.

A child's shoe or toy brings endearing thoughts of a baby's smile. A graduation dress or a young fellow's first dress suit are more than cloth. They are the symbols of accomplishment for serious young lives we have helped to mold.

It is comfortable to have and to be with things which symbolize our lives with others. Old dishes, pots and pans, worn carpets. We hesitate to trade them for the new. Why? Because of family association.

Those who understand such things will know why thoughtful people buy a family monument. It is a permanent symbol of unity, of loyalty and respect for the family name. It is significant that here in America each year more family monuments are being purchased. Like the finest things which symbolize your life, your family monument grows more precious through the years.

Time to Spring Clean your Buick too!

Bright sun shining—new greenery showing—soft breezes calling you onto the highway—this is the season that Buick of yours was made for!

This is the time when you'll want to hear the sweet hum of its eager power, feel the lazy comfort of its easy stride, get the springtime feel of its thrilling action.

And you can have all that—with just a little attention to some simple things to shake the winter out of its bones.

For instance—the rusty sludge that has accumulated in your radiator should be cleaned out. Transmission and rear end may be low on lubrication, and should be checked. Crankcase oil should be changed to a summer grade.

The underside of your car has taken a lot of splashing on wet roads. Some of the chassis grease has been washed out, some of it fouled with mud and grit.

So it's time to drain out the dregs of winter. Time for a little of the knowing, loving care every Buick gets at the hands of our Buick-trained men, armed with Buick-developed tools, Buick-established methods, Buick-engineered parts.

It doesn't take long, doesn't cost much. But it goes a long way toward making old Buicks step out again like lively spring colts. How about stopping in—this week—to see about a spring rejuvenation for your faithful Buick?

Check your car— Check accidents!

Driving is twice the fun when you have complete confidence in your car—when you know that tires, brakes, steering, lights and the like won't let you down.

Altogether, there are 10 points to be checked for safety on any car. Bring your Buick in to us for a thorough going-over before setting off on your spring sojourn. We'll take the worry and fuss off your hands—so you can be carefree at the wheel.

Buick care keeps Buicks best

Hurry! The basement's flooded!

No matter if this call saves good, hard dollars, you probably can't measure its value by your pocketbook. And obviously, we can't price telephone service according to saving of time, or cash, or exertion for our customers. But when we price it in terms of money, here's what we must consider...

Each new phone installed now means an investment of several hundred dollars. The money to do it comes — not from what you pay us, nor from profits — but from people with savings-dollars to spare who expect them to earn a return. To keep getting this money our price to you must be enough to (1) pay the cost of supplying service, (2) pay our investors a reasonable return. That's the only way the telephone business can keep growing to do its job.

Your telephone is worth more than it costs

Lincoln Editor Asks Opinion On Liberal Arts Legislation

Lincoln Journal Editor Ray McConnell, Jr., who has strongly opposed the liberal arts bill now before the state legislature, Monday sought the opinion of Wayne Herald Publisher Karl Schwartz on two questions.

In a telegram to The Herald, McConnell said: "Please wire 50 words your opinion of four state teachers colleges becoming liberal arts colleges. Are you satisfied program would not in the long run favor taxpayers more? Would you favor legislative withholding action until proven by impartial study that colleges could offer B.A. degrees and be accredited without adding courses or faculty?"

The Herald publisher's replies were: "Teachers colleges already have fully qualified faculties and are giving all necessary courses for liberal arts degrees. Costs will not increase because of the addition of a liberal arts program."

"The teachers colleges already are accredited by North Central Teachers association. Further study of this point would be an unnecessary delay."

College Issues New Catalog

The 1949-1950 edition of the Wayne State catalog is being distributed by the college this week to high school seniors, school officials and friends of the college.

The 120-page booklet marks a distinctly new type organization from previous catalogs by grouping courses of instruction according to administrative divisions rather than the alphabetical arrangement of the past. This is to reflect the actual administrative set-up of the college.

OTHER INNOVATIONS include a newly expanded index and sections devoted to administration, general information, student affairs, academic information, correspondence study, and expenses and living conditions.

The book was reduced in size to offset production costs from 144 pages to 120 without eliminating essential information and at the same time effect better page organization.

THE COVER is especially attractive being designed in black and yellow to simulate the college colors. A large picture of the administration is framed between two reverse plates in black with yellow lettering.

The catalog was designed and edited by Louis Ingelhart of the college staff. The Wayne Herald printed the attractive booklet.

The Nebraska Society of Washington observed Arbor day last weekend with a dance at prominent hotel here. A special feature was the presentation as a souvenir of a tree shipped directly from Arbor Lodge at Nebraska City. Other souvenirs were distributed and the program included numbers by two fine vocalists. Members of the local University of Nebraska alumni group attended the dance following their own Charter Day dinner at another hotel.

J. Sterling Morton, Nebraska pioneer who founded Arbor day and later was Secretary of Agriculture under President Grover Cleveland, is one of two Nebraskans commemorated by statues from our state in the U. S. capitol. (Each state is permitted to send statues of two of its deceased citizens for permanent places in this building.) The likeness of Morton is the first statue in the southwest corner of the Hall of Columns on the ground floor. Next to it stands the statue of former Senator and Postmaster General Jacob Collamer of Vermont, while diagonally across the aisle is the likeness of another Morton—Oliver P., a former governor and senator from Indiana.

Nebraska's Morton, a native of New York, came to the new Nebraska Territory in 1854 from Michigan and the following year took up a homestead on the land now known as Arbor Lodge. President James Buchanan appointed him secretary of the territory in 1858 and later he served as its acting governor. Upon his election to the board of agriculture set aside April 10, 1872, for tree planting and on that day one million trees were planted. The legislature in 1885 designated Mr. Morton's birthday, April 22, as Arbor day and Nebraska subsequently became known as the "Tree Planters' State." Arbor day is now universally observed in all the states of the Union.

The capitol's other statue from our state is of William Jennings Bryan, three times democratic nominee for president of the United States, a former congressman from Nebraska and secretary of state under President Woodrow Wilson. His likeness stands in the room at one time occupied by the house of representatives and now called Statuary Hall, between the statues of the late Senator Huey P. Long of Louisiana (the most recent addition to this hall) and General John Sevier, first governor of Tennessee. Statuary Hall contains one statue from each of the 39 states which have sent likenesses of their sons. Four states have furnished only one statue apiece, 35 have provided two each for the capitol, and none are not yet represented.

The two Nebraska statues are the work of Rudolph Evans, the sculptor who also created the huge likeness of Thomas Jefferson in the Jefferson Memorial. Evans, a native of Washington who now lives in New York City, studied at the Corcoran School of Art here as well as the Ecole des Beaux-Arts, Paris, and with the world-famous Rodin. He has received numerous high awards and examples of his work may be found in many famous galleries, including the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Evans took part in the unveiling ceremony in the capitol rotunda on April 27, 1937, when his statues of Morton and Bryan were formally presented by former Governor R. L. Cochran. Former Senator Edward R. Burke accepted them in behalf of the federal government. Other prominent persons participated, including descendants of the men being honored, and the United States Marine band furnished music.

When you Know The Road, Use Extra Caution
 "Familiarity breeds contempt." The Nebraska State Safety Council paraphrased the old adage today to show results of the 1948 accident study recently released by the Accident Records Bureau of the Department of Roads and Irrigation. The council stated, "Familiarity in driving not only breeds contempt for cautious operation of the motor vehicle but also breeds sorrow and grief." The report shows that eight of ten drivers involved in all collisions in Nebraska during 1948 were within 25 miles of their homes when the mishap occurred. In fatal accidents, the ratio was almost as high with seven of ten drivers living within the same radius of the accident scene. The council observed that it means Nebraska drivers after traveling over roads and streets many, many times have become so thoroughly familiar with them that they forget to be cautious and alert. To further prove the point, the council used as an illustration a recent accident in Nebraska where a woman driver had crossed a railroad crossing in her home community so many times when no trains were passing that on this particular day she failed to heed the necessary caution and she and a 10-year-old passenger were killed instantly. Accidents are highly impersonal and may happen at any time and at any spot where contempt overrules caution, the council concluded.

Feeders Day Observations
 (By D. E. Warner)
 Approximately 3,000 farmers and feeders gathered at the University of Nebraska college of agriculture to obtain the latest information concerning feeding operations.
 The program was opened with a panel discussion of utilizing roughages in feeding livestock. Albert Watson of Wayne spoke on planning a livestock program around the productivity of the farm and through the use of roughage be able to maintain and even increase the productivity of the farm while conserving the soil and moisture.
 Watson explained his system of using a rotational home grass, red clover pasture program, feeding both cattle and hogs on pasture and using alfalfa hay and silage for winter roughage. When asked why he used such a program Watson stated that it pays in dollars and cents and that he is preserving the productivity of his land for future generations.
LOWELL SARNES, livestock feeder from Lexington, explained his use of chopped and dehydrated alfalfa for roughage in his feeding operations. He cited figures to prove that alfalfa grown on irrigated land returns more profit than utilizing the same land for cash grain.
 Roswell Garst, a producer of hybrid seed corn and a cattle feeder from Coon Rapids, Ia., explained his use of corn cobs for roughage in his feeding operation. He indicated that he had obtained results proving that corn cobs were worth up to 60 per cent of the value of corn in the ration. He advised feeders who have corn cobs to utilize them as roughage in cattle feeding operations.
 Marvel Baker, associate director of the Nebraska experiment station, pointed out that corn cobs contain no protein, no mineral, no vitamins and practically no net energy; therefore they must be supplemented by commercial protein and mineral in adequate high energy feeds if suitable gains are to be gotten from them.

T. W. DOWE of the University of Nebraska reported that urea, a synthetic nitrogen product, can be substituted to some extent for protein in cattle and sheep rations. He also pointed out that when considering the cost of urea in comparison to standard protein products, urea contained no mineral and no net energy and no protein; however, bacteria in the reticulum of ruminants can convert urea into usable proteins to a limited extent.
 Marvel Baker reviewed recent experiments on cattle at the University of Nebraska and the cattle were on exhibition. The experiments concerned the use of distillers by products, different types of alfalfa, and urea for fattening steer calves.
 If any farmers in this area are interested in these experiments, I will be glad to give them the information.

Young Musicians Delight Audience
 Marlan and Irving Carlson pleased a large and appreciative audience in their piano and violin recital at the college auditorium last Thursday evening.
 The audience remained standing during the playing of "America," arranged for two violins and two pianos.
 Prof. and Mrs. Albert G. Carlson assisted their young sons, playing piano accompaniments for the violin solos and second piano accompaniments for the "C Major Piano Concerto" and the "Princess Piano Suite."
 The lads played works of Rachmaninoff, Rubenstein, Grieg, Chopin, Haydn, Brahms, Drdla, Gounod and Kreisler. They played as encores, "The Caissons Song," "Waltz in A Flat" by Brahms, and "Two Guitars," a Russian gypsy folk song.
 Watermelons are more than 92 per cent water.

Traffic Up 41 Percent Since '37

Lincoln—Traffic movement in Nebraska has increased 41 per cent and motor vehicle registrations have increased 23 per cent since 1937. During this same period, traffic fatalities have averaged 240 per year in Nebraska for a 25 per cent reduction under the 322 traffic fatalities which were recorded in 1937.

Capt. C. J. Saunders, Nebraska Safety Patrol, reported that Nebraska was continuing to maintain a reduction in traffic fatalities, as there were 40 fatalities thus far in 1949 for a 20 per cent reduction under the 50 for the same period in 1948. He also stated that Nebraska ranked third in the nation in reduction of fatalities for the first two months of this year.

Saunders continued, "I know the Nebraskans are looking forward to a great deal of pleasant driving this spring and summer after going through a severe winter. I urge motorists to give special attention to the condition of their car's brakes, lights, and tires. A safety check may save their neck. He concluded, "Adverse weather and road conditions have held the speed of drivers down. Spring now brings out that urge for speed in some drivers. Watch for those careless drivers and be prepared to prevent the accident they can cause."
