

Wayne Schools Open New Term Sept. 5

Registration of Wayne High Students Dated

Only Half-Day Session Planned For Opening Day

Wayne city schools will open Monday, Sept. 5, but all high school students will be required to register the preceding week, Supt. E. W. Willert announced today.

Registration will take place from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the principal's office on the following dates:

- Freshmen--Monday, Aug. 29. Sophomores--Tuesday, Aug. 30. Juniors--Wednesday, Aug. 31. Seniors--Thursday, Sept. 1.

Only a half-day of classes will be held the opening day, Sept. 5.

WITH THE exception of an industrial arts teacher, the city school faculty now is complete. In addition to Supt. Willert, the teachers are:

Fred Rickers, principal; John Alden Lewis, science; A. J. Atkins, band; Lloyd Horton, coach and social science; Mrs. Mary Witt, home economics; Ruth Ross, English; Marian McElhenny, Edglish, and four in history; Etulah Bornhoff, mathematics; Mrs. Howard Tempero, commercial; Sylvia Hawthorne, physical education and vocal music; Mrs. Alice V. Seace, librarian.

Mrs. Fred Rickers, eighth grade; Mrs. Ray Phillips, sixth and seventh; Mrs. Dean Elson, fifth grade; Margaret Woods, fourth; Hazel Reeve, third; Mrs. Etta Fisher, second; Mrs. Lois Dickens, first; and Mrs. Wilbur Giese, kindergarten.

Donna Bennett is office assistant and Henry Johnson is school custodian.

SUPT. WILBERT, who this fall begins his first year as head of the city schools, said that the city schools, sanitation and faculty of the Wayne city schools have a definite aim in the education of youth. In that every boy and girl shall succeed -- by the discovery and development of individual abilities.

This business of education does not take place just within the four walls of the school, but goes beyond the school building. We feel that the home, the church and the school bear the burden of education. In other words, the entire community is an educational system; whether it be for good or for bad depends upon the people of the community. Cooperation between these groups makes for an effective educational program.

"WE WANT PARENTS to feel free to consult the administration and teachers at any time in regard to problems and constructive suggestions for the improvement of your school.

"In order that we might be successful in our educational endeavors, we cannot stress too much the importance of regular attendance. It is a proven fact that a child's school interests will wane with an indifferent attitude toward school attendance. Your cooperation in stimulating regular attendance will prove to be of definite value for your children."

More Data on GI Dividends

County Service Officer Budd B. Bornhoff today said there apparently has been some misunderstanding about the forthcoming GI insurance dividends for World War 2 veterans.

"Generally speaking," Bornhoff said, "every veteran of the last war who carried any insurance, regardless of the amount, for three months or more, is eligible for a dividend. Veterans are still eligible, even though they have allowed the insurance to lapse or have converted it."

HE POINTED OUT that, if possible, any veteran applying for a dividend should bring his insurance number, claim (C) number and service serial number to the county service office when making application. However, if insurance of C numbers are not available, the service serial number will suffice.

Some veterans, he said, have been "jumping the gun" in regard to making application. No application forms will be available until Monday, Aug. 29. On that date and for several days thereafter the county service office will assist veterans in filling out applications.

AMERICAN LEGION and Veterans of Foreign Wars service officers also will assist, Bornhoff said.

No applications can be taken, or forms obtained, before Aug. 29, he concluded.

We find the church as comfortable as the home this warm summer weather. Why not worship in God's house every Sunday. God provides for the one day of rest and worship for our good. There is a class in our Sunday school for every age. Come and try it. Come and enter into the worship services, morning and evening, every Sunday. You can help us, perhaps we can help you. It will do all a great good.

Those from our church this week are attending young people's assembly at Camp Merrill near Fullerton. It is a great place for young folk and all folk. To live without faith is like driving in a fog.

Higher Prices Noted On Several Articles

First reflection of firmer prices for unfinished cloth is in slightly higher prices for such finished cotton articles as sheeting, sheets, pillow cases, etc., according to information received by a Wayne business firm.

The merchant reports that the price increases are not high and will not go into effect here until present stocks are sold out and have to be replaced with new goods at the higher prices.

He believes prices of these articles here now leveled off and for the rest of this year, at least will fluctuate very little in either direction.

Master of Ceremonies

Jimmie Lee, who will master the ceremonies in the elaborate grandstand at the Wayne County Fair, Sept. 14, 15, 16 and 17, combines a sense of timing, a refreshing delivery and a seemingly endless fund of humor with a captivating personality, a combination, incidentally, which has caused him to be tagged for what looks as a major role in television once he completes his present outdoor commitments. The fact that he has stood up under J. H. Morrison's exacting demands for a master of ceremonies indicates his capacity to prove delightfully entertaining and still live to the line of clean, wholesome humor. Video demands in this respect measure up to that required in such shows as the coming grandstand program, for, like fairs, video plays to the family trade, and the humor must be sufficiently keen, as well as wholesome, to delight people in all age brackets. Less capable emcees, to use the show business designation, could not meet video's, or fair's other heavy requisites, chief among which is a combination of alertness and an ability to ad lib at the least provocation but always in good taste and with gay wit. Jimmie Lee has that rare capacity, plus a light-hearted gaiety which he contrives to infuse into any production, whether stage or studio, in which he participates. Moreover, he has an awareness, lacking in a great many emcees, that an emcee's job primarily is to let the guest, not be the show. Thus, with masterful timing, he punctuates the production with compelling humor and keeps the well-knit show rolling merrily.

An employee's paradise is to have the boss gone — so — we can do as we please here in our paradise. It would please us (the employees) to get rid of some of this Men's Department merchandise that stares us in the face every day . . . For instance . . .

- Can you imagine $25.00 sport coats for $14.75? (They are not just the worst ones — the whole works goes.)
• Now look at this — our entire stock of men's summer shoes goes at $6.95. (We hope we have your size. None of these sold under $10.95.)
• There's surely lots of people who'll buy these grey and yellow T shirts at 69c. (Reg. $1.35.)
• These fine Essley white mesh shirts are here for the asking at $1.98. (Reg. $3.65. We don't want to winter them. Not all sizes.)
• For small men only — there are 15 or 20 small size broadcloth sport shirts. The price of $1.00 should do the job.
• There's a few pair of slacks that need wearing. All wool, $2.95. (Nothing to brag about at the old price but worth every cent at the new.)
• Two years ago we lost one (1) small size slack suit in the basement. Recently found — and now only $3.00. (Matched sport shirt and trouser of nice quality cotton gabardine.)

We wonder if anyone would be foolish enough to buy brown and white saddle oxfords . . . yet for $3.00 it's tempting. (Sizes 6 1/2-7 1/2-9-11.)

SPECIAL OF SPECIALS! You have seen these five suits on every suit promotion we have had. You didn't like them then . . . would you like them at . . . $14.75 (Sizes 35 to 39. Boy, will the boss be mad when he sees this!)

If there should be any change of plans and the boss returns unexpectedly . . . ignore this ad.

Senator Butler: 'U. S. Financing British Socialism'

Washington, D. C. — "The American people must decide soon how much longer they are going to finance socialism in England and France," Senator Hugh Butler (R-Neb.) speaking in the Senate regarding Marshall Plan aid to Europe. "The United States treasury has poured more than 25 billion dollars into Europe since the end of the war, and much of this money has been used by the laboring governments of England and France to nationalize industry after industry. The American people never gave the administration the authority to socialize western Europe at the expense of the American taxpayer. Every American would properly resent similar action from abroad should Russia, for example, offer the Truman administration financial aid to nationalize our own great industries." ENGLAND ALREADY has socialized eight out of ten of her industries, Butler explained. These include coal mines, railroads, the Bank of England, motor transport, civil aviation, cables, radio and medical and dental care. Last week the House of Commons voted to nationalize the British steel industry, to become effective in 1950. France has socialized 23 industries. The Nebraska senator cited a recent public statement by Winston Churchill, who asked: "What would happen to the British socialist government if the American subsidy did not arrive punctually?" MARSHALL PLAN food is given to Britain free of charge, Butler explained. "The British government sells this food to the British people at British currency. The cash then is used to retire the government bonds given the former

City School Getting Ready for Start of New Term

A general clean-up and renovation of the Wayne city school building is under way as the opening of the fall term nears. School will begin Monday, Sept. 5, according to Supt. E. W. Willert.

by JAMES C. OLSON, Superintendent STATE HISTORICAL SOCIETY

William H. James, second governor of the state of Nebraska, acceded to office upon the impeachment of Governor David Butler and served one of the most turbulent terms ever experienced by a chief executive of the Cornhusker state.

He was born in Marion, Ohio, Oct. 15, 1831, the seventh child in a family of 11. His early education in the public schools was supplemented by two years at an academy in Marion, after which he read law, between stretches of farming, clerking and learning the saddler's trade. He removed to Des Moines, Ia., in 1853, and six months later was at Sergeant Bluff, awaiting the opening of Nebraska territory for settlement.

ONE OF THE first settlers in Dakota county, James filed his claim prior to 1857. He was county attorney of Dakota county, 1861-63, and in 1864 President Lincoln appointed him register of the Dakota land office. He was elected secretary of state on the republican ticket in 1870, and by virtue of that office became acting governor when Governor Butler was removed.

As might be expected from the circumstances, Governor James found relations between the executive and legislative branches of the state government strained to the breaking point. They did not improve during his administration.

The times were trying ones for the young commonwealth. Born in strife, Nebraska seemed destined for years to continue in the same spirit, and until working procedures were developed and the state government was stabilized, conditions were ripe for the promotion of unrest and uncertainty.

IT WAS THE TIME of the so-called "adjourned" session of the legislature, in which the state's lawmakers closed one session by providing a date for re-assembly, contrary to the provision of the constitution it was believed in many quarters.

On one occasion the president of the senate took advantage of the acting governor's absence in Washington to convene the legislature into special session an act which was quickly revoked by Mr. James upon his hurried return to Lincoln. On another, the acting governor attempted to discourage the legislature from meeting by shutting off the coal supply from the legislative chambers.

AND SO IT WENT. It is little wonder that in his farewell address, Mr. James expressed the hope, "that the animosities . . . through which we have passed in the last two years may be buried and forgotten, and that all classes of our fellow citizens may, in the future, work zealously and in harmony for the welfare and interest of our young and growing commonwealth."

In 1878 Governor James was appointed registrar of the land office in Colfax, Wash., and removed there. He died in Colfax, Feb. 1, 1920.

LOCALS

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Riese and Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Brubaker of Norfolk returned Saturday after an extended trip in Canada. They left July 31 and went to Camrose, Alberta, Canada, where they visited Mr. Riese's brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Riese.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Dawson and family left for their home in Wichita, Kan., Sunday. Mrs. Mary Morgan went to her home in York Monday. All had been visiting at the Jack Dawson home and had been here for the wedding of June Dawson to Jack Campbell.

Johnny Dawson went to Lincoln Sunday to spend the week at the Leonard Robotham home.

Jim Sund left last Thursday for San Diego, Calif., after spending a week's furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Sund. He has been at the naval training center and will have a new assignment.

Mrs. L. W. Sund and Michael spent Tuesday and Wednesday in Norfolk at the Stanley Bridwell home.

Pat Erwin was a dinner guest at the Fred Ruser home Sunday.

Every month of the year, wheat is being harvested in some part of the world, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Hunting with firearms is practiced on a larger scale in the United States and Canada than anywhere else in the world.

These demonstrations of how to build terraces quickly and easily will be conducted by the Soil Conservation District in cooperation with the County Extension Service. Equipment used will be John Deere machinery designed for soil saving work and will be furnished for the purpose of these demonstrations by B. J. Brandstetter & Son of Wayne and Winside. The crops maturing in your fields—the stock fattening in the feedlot—owe their vigor to the topsoil built up through countless centuries of Nature's handiwork.

That topsoil is the Nation's heritage—it belongs to you and to the generations of farmers who are to follow; each in his time is responsible for the preservation and improvement of that heritage.

The farming practices established by the early settlers of our country were based upon the management of virgin soil on farms of comparatively small acreage. Erosion was not a serious problem, and when it was noticed caused no particular alarm. Today, we are faced by alarming losses of productive topsoil—losses which cannot be regained but which can be prevented or reduced by practical soil handling practices which will insure the heritage of the future.

Why not discuss your erosion problems with the county agent or soil conservation engineer?

IN BOOKLAND

Mrs. F. A. Mildner
City Librarian

DEFINITION. "Fiction" defined the small girl to her teacher. "Pure those books which are fixed on the shelves and are not to be moved; non-fiction are not fixed and may be moved at will." We question this definition in more ways than one for we have been moving books this week. That is not all. . . we have a sneaking idea that that will become our chief occupation around the library as time goes on and the building program gets underway. Most of the moving this week has been taking place in the children's department. Before school starts and the children pick up there, before the school teachers begin coming again, we want everything ship shape where we can find it at once, and where the readers will easily find what they are looking for also. We are trying to get all the books mended and the worn and dated ones discarded and summer is the time to get these jobs done though the time goes so fast that we hardly get the essentials done before August has slipped by and school children are flocking to the library again.

THOSE BUGS! Do they bother you when you want to read in the evenings? Is it too hot to sit indoors and read anyway? Then maybe you want a book with pictures so that you can just look at it for awhile.

"WILD ANIMALS OF THE WORLD," by Mary Baker's photographer, and William Bridges, who is curator of the New York Zoological Society, with an introduction to the book written by the famous explorer, Roy Chapman Andrews, will fill the bill for an interesting picture book. There are 252 pictures and 100 of them are in color. There is just enough interesting reading matter to explain the pictures and you will find it informative and entertaining. It is just the kind of a book to take up for a few minutes at a time these hot, buggy, summer nights when you don't want to think too hard or sit still too long.

borhood children were there. Luncheon was served.

Bobot, Elyse Homer and Rita Mae Strank of Lyons spent last week at the Felix Dorcy home.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Barnett and children of Los Angeles, Calif., were guests at the John Goshorn home last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Goshorn and family of Shelby, Ia., were at the John Goshorn home Wednesday and Thursday last week.

Congress
As Seen By KARL STEFAN

The 75th birthday of former President Herbert Hoover was recognized by the Library of Congress in its "exhibit of the week." On display were a photograph portrait of Hoover and a letter that was his last relief from a letter with social exposure. All the peoples in these countries are under drastic food regime and to cut their practical necessities to 60 percent can mean only a total collapse.

The speech made by a former president on his birthday has caused considerable comment here. Mr. Hoover, who recently climaxed his long career of public service by heading the commission on organization of the executive branch of the government, warned that government spending is making this nation down "the back road" to collectivism. He said the average working citizen now must work 61 days each year merely to pay the taxes supporting the local, state and federal governments. Members of both parties in congress joined in a unanimous resolution sending birthday greetings to the ex-president.

WATCH THE Philippine elections soon to occur. President Elpidio Quirino, a candidate for reelection, visited Washington a few days ago. He is said to be the U.S.'s best friend in the island republic, where we have air bases. His opponent is Dr. Laurel, who was president of the puppet government during the Japanese occupation. We cannot interfere in the elections. This outcome, however, will have far-reaching international repercussions. We are interested in keeping the communists, who have won in China, from success in Japan and other parts of the Far East. Guess here is that Quirino succeeded in recruiting much American moral support and possibly financial aid.

Dr. Juraj Slavik, who quit his job as Czech ambassador to the United States because he couldn't accept the Czech communist regime, has informed this office that his son has been arrested and sentenced to death in Prague for alleged "underground" activities.

"VOICE OF AMERICA" broadcasts beamed to Russia have become so effective that the Russians have increased their "jamming" operations. To overcome this interference with reception, the state department is asking congress for additional funds to increase the broadcast power.

The corn storage program recently announced by the Commodity Credit Corp., means, among other things, procurement of cities for storage capacity up to 50 million bushels. Much of this capacity will be in the form of small bins on the farms suitable to contain shelled corn, and bid proposals will be received from suppliers of both wood and steel bins.

At the annual meeting of the American group of the Interparliamentary Union, Vice President Alben Barkley was reelected chairman and the Nebraska third district member was reelected to the executive committee. The group will meet in Stockholm, Sweden, in September, but the third district member has not decided to attend.

THE NEWLY appointed chief of chaplains of the Navy is a former Nebraskan. Capt. Stanton W. Salisbury, who will be promoted to rear admiral when he begins his new duties Sept. 1, was born at Decatur and is a graduate of Omaha university as well as Auburn seminary. This ordained Presbyterian clergyman also will be assistant chief of naval personnel.

1948 totaled $43,245,119 and the state last year amounting to around $2,320,916.

While we don't hold with the school of thought that contends climatic extremes were greater in pioneer days than they are today (witness the blizzards of last winter, for example), when the thermometer is crowding the century mark we frequently marvel at the courage and fortitude displayed by those pioneer Nebraskans who endured such weather without refrigeration, air conditioning, or any of the many conveniences we of this generation have come to look upon almost as necessities.

From looking at the record left by those pioneers, we have concluded that one of greatest hardships resulted from the absence of trees; many a pioneer woman found her heart filled with despair as she looked out day after day upon the blasted prairie unbroken by so much as a single cottonwood.

ARBOR DAY was no accident in Nebraska. It developed out of a very real necessity. Fortunately, the sod house, made necessary by the lack of lumber, provided much better protection against the summer sun than an ordinary frame house; its heavy earthen walls had insulating qualities not found in lighter structures. Another source of comfort to the pioneer homemaker was the well. In addition to providing an abundance of pure, cold water, it served as an excellent refrigerator. Indeed, butter kept in a well was usually just the right consistency for spreading, not too soft and not too hard.

PROBABLY the greatest summer-time luxury of all was ice. This perhaps was even more true for emigrants making their weary way along the dusty trails of the Platte Valley than it was for the pioneer settlers. Thomas Creigh, who went overland in the summer of 1866 with a load of mining machinery bound for Montana, recorded in his diary for July 10, not far west of present-day Lexington: "Had a bushel of ice today, a perfect godsend to us in this country of poor water." We assume the ice was procured at one of the road ranches along the trail.

The ice house came to be an important institution in the pioneer prairie town, and frequently farmers took advantage of a nearby hillside to dig a cave for storing ice.

The community ice house consisted of sawdust or straw encased in a wooden frame, and covered with a board or shingle roof. A firm in Bellevue stored 400 tons of ice in 1873, and another, 800 tons during the same year.

Back-to-School.

This week The Wayne Herald publishes its annual back-to-school edition. Throughout the newspaper are messages calling attention to special values for school children and parents throughout the Wayne area—values designed to send students back-to-school fully equipped with everything they will need.

More than that, Wayne itself is a well-equipped educational center. Here you will find two fine public schools—the city school and the college campus school, both offering well rounded educational programs for all students from kindergarten through high school. And for those who are considering a higher education, one of Nebraska's finest educational institutions is Wayne State Teachers college, which this year expects its largest enrollment since the war.

This is your invitation to shop in Wayne—and to go to school in Wayne.

Those Investigations

At times, the investigations being undertaken by the present congress seem more like comic operas than the serious probe of possible wrong-doings they are intended to be.

The five percenter investigation, for example, is digging up some rotten apples in the official barrel—but the home freezer part of the affair is downright funny and will remain so unless it is proved that the recipients of the freezers were engaged in something that isn't funny to the taxpayers of the nation.

At any rate, the president's military aide is in hot water again and this time it appears that he may have trouble getting out of it. The president, meanwhile, sticks loyally by his friends, the general, even though the investigation seems to indicate that he is unfit to hold an important post in the White House.

As for the B-36 investigation . . . is it necessary? So far, nothing out of line has been uncovered. The air force now is this nation's first line of offense (and perhaps defense) in case of war. The air force has approved the B-36 as its most potent bomb carrying weapon. The air force likes the B-36, and the air force has to fly it. If the air force is satisfied with the B-36, then let's drop an investigation that is accomplishing exactly nothing.

Bureaucracy and Public Opinion

(Odebolt, Ia., Chronicle)

Herbert Hoover's views and observations are getting more and more attention these days. And well they might because he has proven his ability in many ways.

Recently Mr. Hoover said: "The barriers for the bureaus must be overcome by sheer force of public opinion if our free system is to be saved for future generations."

This statement builds up fresh emphasis by the fact that the federal government is again spending far more money than it is collecting from taxpayers—conservative estimates place the deficit this year in the neighborhood of $5,000,000,000.

It is hard for many to realize the almost mathematical relationship between the financial status of government and the political status of the people. Our taken-for-granted privilege of going to the polls periodically to vote as conscience and common sense dictate is part of the free system of which Mr. Hoover speaks. It can exist only as long as the majority of individuals are able to exercise their franchise without fear of reprisal. And the term reprisal does not necessarily mean a firing squad.

As a country becomes submerged in bureaucratic government, as public debt accumulates and the money depreciates, as normal productive activities are increasingly disrupted by excessive taxation and regulation, as the rolls of public employees lengthen, the vitality of the free system withers.

If the process continues long enough the people with a vested interest in bureaucracy become a majority and the effectiveness of elections is lost.

The County Fair

FREE ATTRACTIONS

Los Aeros

One of the most astounding and spectacular outdoor acts in the country today is the Los Aeros. Its personnel—a man and three beautiful girls—are unusually skilled in performing daring feats in the stratosphere, but the sensational feature of the act is the flashy, illuminated apparatus they use, built in the form of an aeroplane, from which the four derive their title of Los Aeros. As the plane revolves, the three girls perform all manner of acrobatic feats on the trapeze, horizontal bars, etc.

Lee & Allen

Two clever people who do a very fine novelty act, consisting of upside down balancing, and many other stunts.

Razell Brothers

Three men do dandy acts of tumbling, teeter-board and juggling. They also do a comedy trampoline act that is a honey.

The Alvers Troupe

The Alvers family presents little Billie, 12-year-old girl, the baby of the family, who offers an aerial trapeze act which would have been a credit to any adult performer. The little girl works without a net and goes through what appears to be a dangerous routine without the slightest fear. At one point she does a "hock swing" and drops to precarious foot hold, swinging head down, many feet from the ground. The next act is a smart globe-rolling stunt featuring three very clever young performers who know their show business. The three go in for a routine of fast globe rolling. Billie rolls the large globe around the stage and up and down the teeter-totter while her two brothers do some wonders on the smaller globes. The three all get on the large globe and go rolling around the stage.

The Rigolettes

Three clever men who know their stuff when it comes to riding the high bicycles around the stage in all sorts of different routines.

This Revue Coming to Wayne County Fair

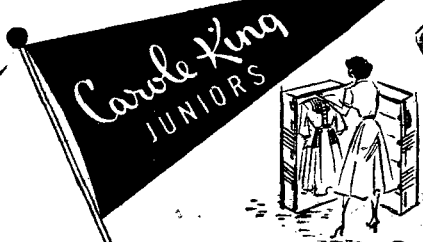

If, as the song would have it, stress was placed upon dancing, believe, "A pretty girl is like a skill and, more particularly, upon melody." Then the "Stars on Parade" revue, coming to the Wayne County Fair September 11, 12, 13, 14, has this ability, and their precision and 17, indeed is melodious, but on routine is one of the high spots in the dancing chorus alone, there are no less than 16 striking "eye-balls." Each is a beauty, but the effect of the lovelies when massed is indescribably, far greater than was exercised in casting to pick out the proper mixture of blondes, brunettes and redheads.

Emphasis, however, in casting for points out, it would have been impossible to assemble such a talented array of expert and good-looking dancers. Then the competition with the swank supper clubs and their extravagant entertainment budgets was too strong to overcome. But with the decline of lush spending and with it of these lush supper clubs, some of the superior dancers seized upon the fair revue as their chance to maintain their high salary levels.

Thus, for the first time since pre-war years, a fair revue can boast of a precision chorus on a par with any seen at the nation's plush entertainment spots.

Kansas City, Mo., and Mr. and Mrs. Anton Conley of Ainsworth week Mrs. Hartly and Mrs. Conley visited with Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hartly sisters and nieces of the Revue.

(Rev. C. R. Garver, pastor)
10:00, church school, 11:00, worship services. The habit of fault-finding, Jesus asked, "how the questioner is blind, but you think that it is in your brother's eye, but consider not the beam that is in thine own eye?" Why do you see the note in your brother's eye? It is not because it is so large and glaring that it can not be overlooked. When you see a thing so small that it can float in a sun-beam it is because you are looking for it. You cannot help seeing a log. It compels your attention. But no one is likely to see a mote, an insignificant speck, unless he is a close-eyed searcher. Let us remember that the fault-finder is never a dependable fact-finder. To seek for the worst is to become blind to the best.
