Pioneers Had Fun Naming State Towns

The pioneers must have had fun when naming some of Nebraska's cities, towns and villages. Choosing the proper name for settlements caused, in many cases, no little amount of discussion.

Sometimes the settlement took the name of a person, whether President Lincoln's or that of Merna, the postmaster's daughter. At other times towns were named after their surroundings, as Blue Hill or Prairie Home. Once in a while a name was borrowed from the Indians, such as Tonawanda.

Humor, too, had a part in the naming of some towns. In Wayne county arguments waxed hot over just what to call a new trading center. The man who finally won the privilege of selecting the name celebrated his victory by choosing Winfield.

Texas cowboys employed on the Twelve Mile ranch in Cherry county tagged a locality Lavaca, a word from the Spanish. The name means "the cows."

An Irishman in Madison county, who founded and named a town wanted it to be different. He took his own name, spelled it backward, knocked off the M and called his town Enola.

Fillmore county settlers from two different states first fought over a name, then compromised with Ohioa.

In Clay county, a village was for a while called Dogtown, because there were more canine than people in it. Finally unappreciative citizens renamed the place Glenvil.

The sentimental founders of Wauaneta in Chasco county named their little community after the popular song "Juanita" but had to juggle the spelling because another town named Juanita caused too much confusion for postal officials.

But perhaps the best naming story comes from Cedar county. In one pioneer community it is said, lived an old German farmer in the habit of answering questions with, "Well, Wy no?" So the boys took up the refrain and later grownups starting answering, "Wy no?" When someone was asked what the town should be called, he replied, "Well, Wy no name it Wynot?" They did.

Chicken in Every Pot
Back in 1928, when Al Smith and Herbert Hoover were battling it out for the privilege of living in the White House, Mr. Hoover came forth with his slogan, "a chicken in every pot." It has taken us 23 years to get around to eating that chicken, and generally it is not from choice.

No Tax-Free Gambling
It scarcely seemed necessary for the United States tax court to rule that wedding costs cannot be deducted as expenses off an income tax return, as it is well known that money expended in gambling isn't tax free.

Wealth from the Soil
Rep. Ben F. Jensen, Iowa, picked up his pencil a few days ago and brought up some figures which are intensely interesting. After carefully reviewing his calculations, Representative Jensen made the following observation in speaking to a group in the capital: "May I remind those members that for every dollar the farmer takes in, labor received $4.20 in wages and for every dollar the farmer takes in, the businessman receives $4.10 in trade and that the national income over the past 20 years since our farms have become mechanized has been almost exactly seven times the farm income. Please remember that all wealth springs from the soil. It follows that if the farmer does not get along then certainly the city folks will have a bad time!"

A True Story
Once upon a time there was a poor soul who bought himself a weekly newspaper and after he bought it he was even poorer. As he walked down the street one day, a lady came up to him and said, "Why don't you ever print any personal news? Your paper isn't worth a plugged penny!" He walked a little farther and a man said to him, "Your paper wouldn't be so bad if you'd put something in it besides personal news." And then he met another man who said, "I owe you some money for that stove I advertised in your paper but I didn't sell it and I don't see why I should pay you."

Merchandising Story
The natural story of merchandising is that from the moment the goods arrive from the factory, there is only one thing normally that can happen to the price. It can go down. If at the first price the goods do not move, or move too slowly, the price is cut, and then again and again until the consumer is willing to take them away. Merchandise must move.

High wages of determination are gripping aspirants for the Dodge touring car and other beautiful prizes are pouring into the campaign department. Mrs. Mae Young is heading the list with 499.80 points. Concrete base for the paving is being laid today on Fourth street west of the high school building. All streets north of Fourth and west of Main street now have the concrete base. Work is proceeding southward. A member of the Wayne Woman's club received for a sale a lot of enamel plates for Wayne automobiles to be sold at $1 apiece. The money derived from the enterprise will be used to help wipe out the debt on the opera house. An aeroplane, owned by the Wayne ball club from the Sioux City Tribune's "Flying Circus," gave an exhibition at the old fair grounds Sunday afternoon.

THE CASE OF THE missing wallet
OPERATOR MAY JENSEN* listened attentively as the lady related her problem. She was traveling... had left her wallet at a cafe perhaps a hundred miles back... couldn't quite recall the name of the restaurant or even the town. "Did you pick up a match book there?" suggested May. The lady emptied her purse, scoured its contents and found a match book with a vaguely familiar restaurant name on the cover. In seconds May put through the phone call that saved the lady hours of worry and delay. The wallet was at the cafe, it would be mailed to her destination. Then May got ready for the next call. No telling who it'd be, or what the problem. No matter—many a tough case can be solved by the calm, alert operator who likes to help people.

Farm Leaders Support '51 Farm Safety Goal

The importance of adopting safe practices on the farm and in all phases of farm life, as emphasized in President Truman's proclamation of the eighth annual National Farm Safety Week, has been endorsed as the theme of the 1951 observance, July 22-28, by farm leaders throughout the nation. Comments follow:

Charles F. Brannan, Secretary of Agriculture, "Safe practices which have succeeded in industry should work on the highly mechanized farms of today. If we can bring about the adoption of safe practices on the part of each member of every farm family...

Herschel Newsum, master, National Grange, "The Grange is a farm organization, and such is its very much concerned about the welfare of all members of the rural household. The Grange wholeheartedly supports National Farm Safety Week..."

Simple Rules Cut Risk Of Lightning

Lightning is not the most important accident killer by far—but about 200 deaths a year, and the cause of its ripping power, its noise and its blinding flash it has held a fearsome aspect for man through the ages.

To understand it better, the National Safety Council offers these facts: Lightning is chiefly a rural problem, as far as individual protection is concerned. Nine-tenths of the fatalities and injuries occur in rural areas or in outlying districts where buildings are isolated and relatively small.

High places are the most dangerous. If you must remain outside a shelter, find a gully, a cave or the base of a cliff. Second best is a grove of trees, if care is taken not to stand under the tallest one.

Daily Highlights for Farm Safety Week

Each day of National Farm Safety Week will highlight a different phase of farm safety, according to the National Safety Council. Sunday has been designated as Church Day. Home safety will be stressed on Monday, to emphasize good housekeeping. Tuesday's theme will be livestock safety, with the accent on handling animals safely.

Truman Sets Farm Safety Week Goal

Encouraging all farm residents to adopt safe practices in all phases of farm life is the goal set by President Truman in proclaiming the eighth observance of National Farm Safety Week, July 22-28, 1951.

The President's proclamation said, in part: "Experience has proved that observance of safe practices in working and living can reduce accidents. Now, therefore, I urgently request each member of every farm family to adopt safe practices... to drive safely, work safely and live safely."

Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council, in discussing plans for National Farm Safety Week, pointed out that it is especially important for farm people to adopt safe practices.

Mr. Dearborn said the Bureau of Agricultural Economics tells us there are 1,200,000 fewer farm workers than there were 10 years ago; so each man's output is more important. Moreover, during the present crisis, unskilled workers exist on the farm all the time.

honoring Mr. and Mrs. Lee Kelly, Seattle, Wash. The Kellys are visiting at the Harold Fitch home in Laurel. Mrs. Kelly is the former Bonnie Fitch.

10 Practices Will Reduce Farm Hazards

To back up President Truman's call for the adoption of safe practices during National Farm Safety Week, July 22-28, the National Safety Council herewith lists 10 farm safety practices that will help reduce the farm accident toll if they are adopted and followed:

1. Keep machines in good repair. Keep all guards and safety devices in place. Stop machines before unloading, oiling or adjusting them. Don't wear floppy clothes around machines.
2. Operate tractors safely. Start tractors smoothly; turn corners slowly. Avoid ditch banks and soft ground. Always hitch to the drawbar.
3. Use the right tools for the job. Make sure your tools are in a good, safe condition. Keep them in a safe place.
4. Watch your step to prevent falls. Keep ladders and steps in good repair, with no loose rungs. Make sure they are easily accessible in case of emergency.
5. Speak to animals when approaching them. Keep them calm by acting with calm self-assurance yourself. Keep bulls in a safe bull pen.
6. Know and obey all traffic laws. Follow safe driving practices. Read and heed all traffic signs.
7. Be "firesighted." Don't smoke around the barn. Pour gasoline or kerosene outdoors to prevent the accumulation of treacherous vapors. Dry clean outdoors. Don't use kerosene to start fires. Be careful with matches.
8. Be a good housekeeper. Have a place for everything and keep everything in its place.
9. Apply first aid promptly. Even minor injuries may be dangerous if they are not treated immediately. Keep first aid kits in the house, in the barn and on the tractor.
10. Treat guns as if they were loaded. Keep guns unloaded except when actually using them. Aim only at targets you want to shoot.

Yes, only MASSEY-HARRIS Super 26 has 32 different speeds and the big capacity to cover as much as 50 acres a day. Your straw comes out of the 26 as even as a ribbon. Every unit in the machine handles all the cutter-bar cuts. That's Balanced Separation for you! And what a cut—sure 12 feet! It's easy on fuel and traction is wonderful.

MASSEY-HARRIS CLIPPERS

● Full six-foot cut, five-foot rasp-bar cylinder and full-width straight-thru separation—three points in practical construction that mean greater capacity, more and cleaner grain harvested with the Massey-Harris Clipper. Extra capacity pays off in faster operation... lower production cost... a more profitable harvest.

Next time you're in town stop in for full details. Let's talk over the advantages of a Massey-Harris Clipper for your farm.

Massey-Harris Clippers in Pull-Type Models are available with 6- or 7-foot cutter-bars—P.T.O. or Engine Driven.

A field half plowed—a furrow left unturned—work stopped by accident!

To the farmer, working against time and weather, delay can mean the difference between a crop and no crop, a good year or a lean one. So accidents have no place in his schedule; they cost money, delay production—and the growing season keeps rolling along.

Yet, farming ranks third most hazardous in eight major industries. Think of it, while the death rate for all industry is 29 per 100,000 workers, in agriculture it is 55 per 100,000! One farmer in every 15 is injured on the job! Total—4400 killed, 300,000 disabled by injury every year.

The wise farmer knows where his hazards are—and avoids them. Falls, machinery and animals account for most accidents down on the farm. Their annual cost—$75,000,000. Yet, they're so easy to prevent. Just a little caution is all it takes.

Don't "cultivate" accidents and losses! Instead, "cultivate" safety and success!
