How Mercury's New 161-Horsepower Engine gives you a new measure of safety

If you'll get behind the wheel of a new 1954 Mercury and take it out on the open road, you'll find this new engine gives you the most instantly responsive power you've ever known. Even when you're cruising at normal highway speeds, you have instant acceleration that lets you pass another car and get back in the right-hand lane in a few safe seconds.

It's not just a matter of high horsepower. It's power that's instantly available because of a new Mercury development—a E-barbed carburetor, with the two rear barrels vacuum-operated to cut in automatically when reserve power is needed for an extra margin of safety.

Mercury's new engine combines with new ball-joint front wheel suspension to give you a new kind of power. And you'll find this new 1954 Mercury easier than ever on the eyes. Easier on the pocketbook, too. You can get more miles per gallon than even Mercury offered before. Come in and try it!

Nebraska Farm Outlook

FARM NEWS REVIEW AND FORECAST

"Our Roots Are In This Land"

Commodity Briefs

Corn

Nebraska's 1953 corn crop is officially estimated at 204,176,000 bushels — 22% less than the 1952 crop of almost 262 millions. Nebraska ranks third among the States in the amount of corn stocks on January 1, 1954 — amounting to almost 232½ million bushels. Farm stocks made up 68% of the total. In the U.S. stocks in all positions were 2.7 million bushels — with 10 million of record in 1950.

Wheat

Nebraska's 1953 wheat crop is officially estimated at 85,980,000 bushels — 13% less than the 1952 crop of 98 1/3 millions. Nebraska ranks fourth highest among the States in the amount of wheat stocks on January 1, 1954 — amounting to about 84¼ million bushels, up 39% from a year earlier. Farm stocks amounted to 47% of total. In the U.S. stocks in all positions were 1,332 million bushels — largest since 1935.

Oats

Stocks of oats in Nebraska were almost 29 million bushels — down 10% from a year ago — on Jan. 1, 1954. In the U.S. stocks were down 2% from a year earlier.

GRAIN SORGHUMS

Nebraska stocks of grain sorghums on January 1, 1954 were almost 2½ million bushels — up 58% from a year earlier. Nebraska's production was up 31%.

FARM COSTS

Machinery costs will probably remain about the same or somewhat lower. The stocks of farm machinery are quite large and the buyer resistance has forced production to be reduced and excess stocks to be stored. In some areas dealers will make good trade-ins on new machinery to maintain volume of sales. Used equipment is selling cheap compared to new. Prices of fuels are not expected to decline much and may be somewhat higher than in 1953.

Feed Fertilizer and Seed Supplies Up

Total supplies of feed grains and other concentrates for the 1953-54 season probably will be a little larger than a year ago because of the large carryover of corn. The ratio of supply to number of animals to be fed is higher than during the previous year. Prices of concentrates are expected to be lower than in 1953 because of the increase in supply and decline in quantity to be fed cattle and hogs.

The aggregate supply of the three major plant nutrients for the 1954 season probably will exceed the record out-put of 1953 by about 13%. Nitrogen supply is 11% higher, phosphate 12%, and potash 15% above 1953. The price for fertilizer, however, will remain about the same as in 1953 because of the increased use. The dry growing season last year might keep some farmers from applying fertilizers in 1954.

With the exception of Kentucky bluegrass and reedtop all grass and legume seed prices will be lower this year than in 1953. Bluegrass seed is now at the highest price in history because of the extremely short supply. Prices are expected to be higher by planting time so it is best to buy supplies now. Reseeding from drouth and acreage allotments will step up demand.

AGRICULTURE WAGES and LABOR

The number of persons employed on farms in the West North Central region in 1953 (January through November) was approximately 1% less than in 1952. This represents a continuation of a slight downward trend since 1950; the number of persons employed in 1953 being 8% below 1950. During the same period the number of hired workers declined 16% in the West North Central region and 7% for the United States as a whole.

Wage rates for hired farm labor in the United State in 1953 were slightly higher than in 1952, approximately 2%, but 20% higher than in 1950. Very little change in wage rates is expected in 1954 in view of the outlook for farm income and the farm labor supply.

The supply of farm labor is expected to be adequate for high level farm production in 1954. Continued advances in farm technology and increase in productivity of farm labor may be expected in the year ahead. Since 1935-39 the output per man hour of farm workers has increased by 78%. From 1950 to 1953 it increased approximately 9%. This adds further assurance that labor will not be a limiting factor in farm production. Nevertheless, the supply of experienced year-round workers is expected to continue tight. Induction into the armed forces will continue to create adjustment problem on some farms and non-farm job opportunities will continue to draw some workers from farms.

A CONSUMER'S GUIDE TO FIBER PROPERTIES

When choosing fabrics for household and apparel uses, the consumer is confronted with a bewildering array of new fibers and blends which challenges the judgment of an intelligent shopper. We have Dacron, Orlon, Acrilan, Dynel, and Vicara to add to the already familiar rayon, nylon and acetate, plus blends of these fibers with each other and with natural fibers.

Each new fiber or blend has its own distinctive properties which make it desirable for specific uses. Each may also have its peculiar disadvantages. Textiles are now being made with new and highly desirable characteristics which, in many instances, seem superior to fabrics they are recommended to replace.

Since natural fibers have been used since the beginning of civilization, we have developed a good understanding of their performance. Although many of the new fibers are still in the experimental state, we should know something of what may be expected from them when used.

Comparison of New Fibers With Wool

Let us compare some of the characteristics of fibers such as Dacron, Orlon, Acrilan, and Dynel with wool. Studies show that these fibers are superior to wool in strength and durability and are equal to or superior to wool in recovery from stretching. Both Dacron and Nylon are outstanding in their resistance to abrasion; Orlon, Acrilan and Dynel are considered more resistant to abrasion or hard wear than wool. All compare favorably with wool in their ability to recover their shape after being stretched which means that garments should retain their fit satisfactorily after wearing.

Dacron is most resistant to wrinkles and quite resistant to spotting due to its low absorptive quality. If spots do occur, they may be easily sponged clean. On the other hand, this same quality may tend to make it less pleasant than wool to wear during hot or humid weather.

Resistance to Damage

High resistance to moth and mildew damage is characteristic of all the new fibers. Nylon is more sensitive to sun than others of the group when submitted to long exposure. Acetate, Dacron and Dynel are least resistant to alkalis and chlorine bleaches making one's choice of soaps and detergents very important when washing articles made of these fibers. Dynel and acetate are dissolved by acetone which is the base for nail polish remover. All are relatively resistant to the heat of an iron with the exception of acetate and dnyel which require low temperatures for pressing.

A blend of wool with one or more of the new fibers retains the good qualities of each and minimizes the disadvantages. For this reason we may expect greater durability and easier upkeep for clothing made from many of the new fibers and blends. Durability, wrinkle and spot resistance and resistance to moth, mildew and sun damage make some of the new fibers superior to natural ones for draperies, slip covers, blankets and other household uses.

'54 EGG and POULTRY OUTLOOK

The year of 1953 was a very good one for poultrymen. Cash receipts were up about 8% whereas receipts from many other agricultural products were below the previous year. A record number of eggs were produced in 1953 and the prices received by producers were among the highest in recent times. Broiler and turkey prices were also very favorable.

Another Good Year for Poultrymen?

The purchases of food, including poultry and eggs, are expected to be about the same as 1953. Although business activity and industrial output are expected to dip slightly, employment and consumers' income will continue quite high. There will also be 2 to 2½ million more people to feed in 1954.

Egg Situation to Continue Favorable—at least for the first three quarters of 1954. Although egg prices have started their seasonal decline, the decline has been less than usual.

More eggs are coming on the market than a year ago—due to a 3% increase in the number of layers, but storage holdings of frozen eggs are considerably below a year ago. Because of the good supply of fresh eggs and a small supply of frozen stocks, breakers will probably start operating early this year. This will divert part of the seasonal surplus before it becomes a price depressing influence. All in all, prices for producers' are expected to be favorable this spring.

More Chickens Next Fall and Winter

If the egg price situation continues favorable, farmers will probably raise more chickens for egg production than last year. Although high prices last spring didn't induce farmers to expand their laying flocks, high prices for a second year may induce them to do so. Chick orders for flock replacement are considerably ahead of a year ago. If laying flocks expand by over 5%, the drop in egg prices in the winter of 1954-55 may be large. The February report on farmers' intentions to raise chickens for laying flock replacement will give some indication of the size of the expected increase. While there is a trend toward less seasonal changes in egg prices, the highest prices are in the late summer and early fall. In order to take advantage of these higher egg prices, chicks for laying flock replacement should be started in January or February.

Commercial Broiler Supplies Large

The production of commercial broilers has increased almost every year since it began, but the rate of growth has now slowed from an annual rate of 25% for 1947-52 to 6 to 8% in 1953. For 1954, the rate of growth is expected to be about the same as 1953. Nebraska produced 7 times as many broilers last year as in 1945 or 1946.

Prices received by producers for commercial broilers were very favorable during 1953 with the exception of the last two weeks in December when a large number of broilers came on the market along with a good supply of turkeys and red meat. Prices during January have strengthened, but there are still a large number of birds coming on the market. Broiler chick replacement reports indicate there will be a large supply of broilers coming on the market at least until the first of April.

Prices are likely to be below 1953 prices for this period. Prices paid Nebraska producers for commercial broilers are usually equal to or above the U.S. average price.

Nebraska broiler prices are usually based on the Arkansas market.

Turkey Situation

According to a January survey, producers intend to raise 7% more turkeys in 1954 than in 1953. This includes an increase of 9% for small breeds and a 6% increase for large type turkeys. Although there are fewer heavy type breeder hens than a year ago, there should be plenty of poults available. Secretary Benson's Turkey Advisory committee has recommended that the production of heavy breeds be "no larger than in 1953" and the production of light breeds be "no more than can be profitably marketed through normal commercial channels". The U.S. Department of Agriculture reports on January 1 that there were 15% more eggs in incubation for heavy breeds than a year earlier and the eggs set for light breeds was over 100% larger.

PRODUCTION CONTROLS IN '54

Farming in 1954 will require that many farmers study their cropping and livestock plans in light of marketing quotas on wheat and acreage allotments on corn. The year 1953 will be the last in which Nebraska farmers were free to produce an unlimited amount of all crops and be eligible for price supports. Acreage allotments and marketing quotas will continue for many years unless present conditions of falling demand for and growing surpluses of many farm products change.

Wheat marketing quotas were approved last August by almost 7 out of every 8 wheat farmers voting and corn acreage allotments were announced by the Secretary, January 26. As a result of farmers' approval of wheat marketing quotas about 811 thousand fewer acres of land will produce wheat in Nebraska in 1954 if all farmers comply 100% with their acreage allotments. Compared to the number of acres of corn grown in Nebraska in 1953, 1,294,000 fewer acres of land will produce corn in 1954 than a year ago. One of the problems facing Nebraska farmers this spring will be what should be done with these 2,105,000 acres this year? There are several choices open to farmers:

1. Compliance with acreage allotment on corn. If a farmer complies and meets the other requirements, he will be eligible for a government price support loan on his entire 1954 crop of corn.
2. Non-compliance with acreage allotment on corn. If a farmer does not comply he will not be eligible for a government price support loan on his 1954 corn crop. If he sells his corn he must take the open market price. If he feeds his corn, he will not be concerned about either the open market price or the support price.

Any farmer may choose to comply with the acreage allotments on any one of his crops and not the other if he desires. It is not required that he comply with acreage allotments on all crops that he grows to be eligible for price supports on any one crop.

Almost all farmers who grow wheat have already decided whether or not they will or will not comply with their acreage allotment. In most cases this decision was made at planting time. If, however, you have overplanted your acreage allotment, with permission of your County Commodity Stabilization Service (formerly PMA) you may yet have an opportunity to comply by plowing up or cutting for hay the excess acres before the wheat matures.

In other cases the cropping system may be strengthened by seeding these acres to either oats, barley, or rye, as a nurse crop for additional legumes, or grasses for pasture. Yields on many farms could be increased by using many farmers will need to plant their diverted acreage to some other cash crop, such as soybeans, oats, barley, sorghum grains. Reports from the College of Agriculture indicate that very few farmers are getting out and barley yields anywhere near what they could get if they would sow proper varieties at the right time and properly fertilize.

ECONOMIC SITUATION

"Something is wrong", says Sec'y of Agr., Ezra T. Benson, "... when almost 100 million pounds of wool is in Government storage — this country imports two-thirds of all wool it uses,

"... when the Government owns 250 million pounds of butter—yet housewives say they cannot afford to eat butter because it costs too much,

"... when the Government invests $5 billion to support farm prices—and still the buying power of farmers' net income last year was lower than in any year since 1940.

ALERT RESPONSE from the accelerator, an instant answer from the wheel, and quick action from the brakes make Pontiac perfect for traffic. For extra-eager "go", Dual-Range Hydra-Matic, optional at low cost, has a special Traffic Range.

PONTIAC'S MIGHTIEST ENGINE and generous size provide highway performance unsurpassed for smoothness, quietness and road-leveling ride. For added riding ease Pontiac offers a Comfort-Control Seat and Air Conditioning, optional at low cost.

PARKING IS NO PROBLEM with this wonderfully responsive car. Turning radius is remarkably short, visibility is very great and Power Steering and Power Brakes, optional at low cost, reduce effort to mere touches of finger and toe.

Of all the fine things you get in the big, beautiful new Pontiac, none will please you more than its performance. You get something that no other car of its low price offers—a balanced all-around performance that delights you every mile. Pontiac's big, high-compression engine has all the power you'll ever need—for acceleration, for hills, for the open road.

And once you drive the 1954 Pontiac, you'll realize that it gives a lot more than just outstanding performance! It gives you the comfort of a long wheel-base and of big, self-cushioning springs plus wonderful economy and dependability. Combine all that and what you have is performance unmatched at the price! Second Grade
The reading class has just completed "More Streets and Roads." Mrs. Louis Jorgensen, Patty and Deanna were Friday afternoon visitors in second grade.

Fourth Grade
Jay Eavis and Larry Norton joined our group this past week. Karen Hunsbert moved to Carroll so we now have eleven boys and eleven girls in the fourth grade.

Our Nebraska table is becoming more interesting day by day as furniture, rug and stagecoaches are added. This week we will start the study of Wayne county. We are writing stories about our state. This is the last week for our post office. A new surprise unit will soon start.

In language and reading we have made a "God Bless America" booklet. We are copying patriotic poems. We finished another reader and have started a new book, "Singing Whistles."

In art we have made five hand posters of winter scenes.

David Ley received an answer from Sarasota, Fla., and some interesting state material.

Those who received maps of the United States as prizes for writing correctly the names of the 48 states on the trust try were: Buddy Bornhoff, Irene Marra and Barbara Wolstein.

Irene Marra's name was unintentionally omitted from the list of those receiving perfect scores in the 100-word spelling test last week. Report cards were distributed Wednesday. The prosecuting attorney, Bill Weillonhaupt, attempted to show that the defendant had been seen in the act and had possession of several stolen articles. Swimming Pools

Swimming Pools are an important topic of conversation in Wayne today, and April 6 the voters of Wayne will decide on the bond issue to build a pool in Wayne.

For some of us the pool is vitally important—for our children, grandchildren or nieces and nephews to use as well as ourselves. Others of us may find the pool a useless expense.

There are some facts in favor of a pool that are hard to deny:

Young people like to swim and they will find a place to enjoy this healthful recreation if they have to drive to a distant pool, or swim in a sandpit, creek or river. A pool here would eliminate the long drive to distant pools and, better yet, keep them from the dangerous practice of swimming in unsupervised places.

Swimming is healthy, body building recreation. The health and welfare of our people is everyone's concern. If we can further the better development of our people, have a healthier, stronger generation, then it seems our duty to do so.

Swimming is a life-saving ability. Despite the great number of us each summer who swim and fish each year, only 52 percent of us can swim, according to Reader's Digest for February, 1954. If we make supervised swimming lessons available here and one life is saved because of it, how good a return on our investment that would be.

A swimming pool would increase community pride. A community is no better than the pride its people have in it. We point out our parks, schools, churches and other important features of our town when we show it off to visitors, but when they ask about a swimming pool we can only say, "I'm sorry, we have none. Most of our folks go to neighboring towns to swim."

A swimming pool is good for business. It makes the town a more attractive place to live, a more attractive place to shop. A town competes for new families, new businesses, new shoppers just as similar stores vie for trade with shoppers. The store which has a little more to offer is where the business goes.

These are only a few of the benefits a swimming pool offers. No doubt there are many more. The Wayne Herald asks readers to submit letters on their views. Though they must be signed, they may be printed without the signature if the writer wishes.

Oats
Despite the disappointing yields of oats we have yet to find a crop which better fits our region than oats in Northeast Nebraska. Since we are resigned to growing oats, the most important thing is to do everything possible to get the best yields.

Missouri 0-205 and Marion were the highest yielding varieties in these experiments. In general an application of 30 lbs. available nitrogen plus 30 lbs. available phosphate has doubled yields of oats on unfertilized plots. This rate would require an application of 200 lbs. 15-15-0 or equivalent, increased yields to 50 bu. per acre. This cost of fertilizer per acre was approximately $9.00. The value of increase in yield (25 bu. at 70c equals $17.50) or approximately $2.00 return for each dollar invested in fertilizer.

TV Farm Show
Starting Mar. 1, the Extension Services of Nebraska, Iowa and South Dakota, in cooperation with Station KVTV, are producing a new farm show. The programs, designed for both farm producers and city consumers, can be seen each Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 2:45 to 1:00 p. m. on channel 9, Sioux City, Nebraska county farm and home agents in five Northeast counties (Wayne, Cedar, Dixon, Dakota and Thurston) are responsible for the Monday program each week.

Wayne county agents participated in an introductory program Mar. 1. Wayne county will again be featured on this show Monday, April 5, with agents and local people participating.

BEEF PICTURE IS GOOD—Feeders Happy
(From the National Live Stock Producer)
Chicago—Favorable price margins are offsetting the high costs of weight gains for many cattle feeders as the supplies of well-fed cattle move to market more promptly than usual, reports H. M. Conway, director of research for National Live Stock Producer, the nation's leading live stock magazine.

These favorable prices are tending to create renewed optimism among feeders, which is being reflected by a more active demand for stocker and feeder cattle, continued Conway. In fact, there is some concern as to whether or not there is an adequate supply of stockers and feeders to meet feedlot replacement demands, and to fill summer pastures in the mid-western grazing areas.

The present outlook indicates there may be a decline in beef supplies in late winter and early summer since the top grades are being marketed early and supplies of lower grades, which ordinarily supply considerable beef tonnage in early summer, were reduced due to high feeding costs.

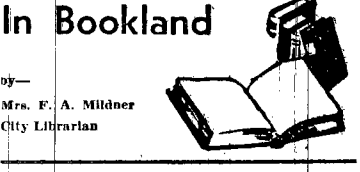

Another factor reducing the supply of beef available during the coming months is the large number of calves and yearlings that are placed on feed last fall that are being finished for late summer and early winter marketing.

A similar situation exists for hog producers at the present with the favorable corn-hog ratio encouraging the use of some corn that ordinarily would be held on a storage basis. The curtailed production of hogs during the past two years has resulted in a smaller supply of pork reaching the market. This short supply of pork, and the continuing consumer demand for pork products, has resulted in prices favorable enough to encourage an increase in pork production and added use of corn, even with the high support prices of corn which hold up feeding costs.

With the production cycle turning upward, the maximum shortage of pork is expected to continue through the next four to five months with little increase in dressed pork supplies before early winter. This shortage is expected to give added stability to the pork market during the summer months, when ordinarily a seasonal slump in prices is expected.

"I See by The Herald"
Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wright returned home last Wednesday after a week's stay in the John Duran home, Omaha.
Mrs. Glen Houdersheldt spent the weekend in Lincoln with her daughter, Cheryl.

IT'S NOT THE SIZE THAT'S MOST IMPORTANT!

And so it is with your credit. It's not the size or the number of purchases you make that counts most, but the way you handle the credit you have been given. Remember that PROMPT PAYMENT is the most important thing in credit. It's just "common sense" to help yourself by paying EXACTLY as agreed.

Blue Devils In State Meet With Win Over Bloomfield

Face Lincoln In Opener Wednesday

Wayne High's Blue Devils were scheduled to meet Lincoln Teachers Wednesday night in the first round of the state Class B basketball tournament at Lincoln.

Wayne gained its third state tournament berth in five years Friday night by downing a surprising Bloomfield five, 61-51, in the regional finals at the city auditorium.

It was Wayne's first trip to Lincoln since the Blue Devils lost to David City in the 1951 finals. Wayne also was in the 1949 tournament. Wayne was the state Class B champion only once in 1942.

Lightly regarded before the regional meet opened, Wayne downed South Sioux City, 45-44, and Tekamah, 67-61, to gain the finals. Bloomfield, the darling of the tournament, defeated Stanton, 47-38, last Wednesday and Thursday pulled the biggest upset in state circles. The Bees trounced favored Blair, 50-39.

Wayne turned in one of its best performances of the year Friday to gain the state meet. Much of the credit for the victory goes to Senior Lowell Johnson, who did his finest job of rebounding and chipped in 17 points to lead the Blue Devil scoring.

A hard first half was Wayne's big asset. The Blue Devils hit on 16 of 28 shots for 37 percent. Bloomfield, meanwhile, managed only one of 24 for 27 percent. The Bees stayed in contention, however, by dropping 11 of 15 free throw chances. Wayne owned a 38-30 margin at halftime.

The third quarter opened slowly and then Bloomfield surprised the fans by refusing to come out of its zone defense when Wayne started ball control.

Wayne froze the ball by playing catch at midcourt for the last four minutes of the period. Only when Red Tietzert fired a shot with one second left did Bloomfield try to gain possession. The stall enabled Wayne to hold a 42-32 lead going into the final period. Bloomfield was never able to get closer than seven points after that.

Blair copped third place in the meet by overwhelming Tekamah, 80-64, in the consolation.
